Examinations

The need for constructive and systematic reviewing is probably more apparent as the time for examinations approaches. Every one would be benefited if he realized the significance of the review and the limited time for this study, and utilized the remaining few days to his best advantage.

The wise student will take advantage of the available opportunities for reviewing. Everyone, even the better student, needs to organize and go over the semester's work as a unit. The poor student, the student on the border line, still has a chance to redeem himself. Real study and concentration will help such a one—even at the eleventh hour.

It would be disastrous for us to be pessimistic at such a time. On the contrary, we should be optimistic as a result of our strong determination to get the most out of our review. Another thing which should make us willing to devote more time to our studies is the assurance that if we study and pass our examinations successfully, we shall have a fresh background for beginning next semester's work.

By The Way

With examinations looming over the horizon, a feeling of unusual activity has begun to descend upon most of the high school pupils. A bit of penitence and remorse has already been observed among the students, and especially among those who have worshipped at the shrine of Procrastination during the past months. "Cramming" will probably be their effort to escape the clutches of failure. Methinks you're lucky if you escape; methinks further, that for your own good, you should not escape. But...

During all this activity there are several things which none of us should forget. Some students will be studying carefully during the next few days to master a subject, not studying just enough to pass; and the rest of us should respect their rights by not annoying them when they are busy. The school exists for all, but surely those who are making most of their opportunities should not be bothered by the opposite type. Another thought should be borne in mind: The slow student should not be diverted from his studies by the strutting intelligencia who sometimes enjoys pestering others.

The dilemma caused by "cramming" knowledge often leads to cheating. After all cheating is more or less confined to one's personal code of morals; but remember, cheating the teacher and the classmate is also cheating the cheater. Nothing is more shameful than being a cheat!

While examinations incite the student to work with unusual compulsion, let us not forget the rights and respect due others.

In Appreciation

The musical organizations of the high school and the schools as a whole wish to take this method of expressing their appreciation for the success of the operetta, "Once in a Blue Moon", which was presented last Monday evening in the high school auditorium.

Much of the success of this venture may be attributed to the leads, choruses and directors who have worked long and diligently that this program might be worthwhile. Especially should the directors, Miss Ona Shindler, Mrs. P. W. Picklesimer, and Miss Mary Ellen Powell be remembered for their tireless efforts in coaching the operetta.

The entire student body and faculty realize that the operetta was a success financially because of the splendid patronage of the citizens of Greenville. Because of this the musical clubs will be enabled to enter the annual music contest to be held in Greensboro in April.

Assembly Wins Attendance Record

The third contest in attendance and punctuality, which ended January 15, was won by Mrs. Bowen's freshman assembly. The average for this assembly for the past four weeks was 92.29. As a reward each pupil in the assembly received a free ticket to "Delicious" shown at the State Theatre Monday and Tuesday.

A close second in the contest was Mr. Porter's sophomore assembly which had an average of 92.21. Miss Powell's freshman assembly ranked third with a percentage of 90.86. The average for the entire high school was 92.65.

In the Training school there was a tie between Miss Hyman's sixth grade and Miss McGee's third grade both grades having an average of 92.82. The West Greenville school was led by Miss Jones' third grade, with an average of 92.38. The winner at the Third Street school was Miss Swanson's sixth grade, which had an average of 91.27. The entire school system had a percentage of 91.16 in attendance and punctuality for the past four weeks.

This contest ends every four weeks, and the assembly in each school which has the best percentage in attendance and punctuality receives passes for its members to some show at the State Theatre.

Program Presented in Chapel

This morning at the regular chapel period, the second of a series of programs in character education was presented. The subject for this program was "Sportsmanship".

and was supervised by Mr. C. W. Porter, athletic adviser for boys in high school.

The program began with a son "Faithful and True Hearted", and was followed by a scripture reading by Moyer Dail, and a prayer by Bancroft Mosely. A short talk "What is Sportsmanship?" was clear cut and helpful. This was followed by a very appropriate and timely talk on "Sportsmanship at Athletic Contests" by Harold Sugg. "Sportsmanship" in the classroom was discussed by M. O. Blount; and a short talk on "School Spirit" was given by Dan Wright. The program was concluded with high school songs.

This program will be continued next Friday, at which time athletic numerals are expected to be awarded.

Dear Jean:

Honestly, dear, you should have been over here Monday night to see our operetta "Once in a Blue Moon." It was darling! I know you would have loved it. Romantic and all that! And you should have seen Lucy James' smile, and Dan's too! (You remember Lucy; you met her at Annie Lee's last summer.) Well, she was the sweetest thing you ever saw! When she sang all about roses in the garden and love and all that with Dan—and he was so in earnest I believe he could really love her—you know, I'm telling you it reminded me of when I was in love with Jack. And when Lucy and Helen sang their duet, the house was tumultuous. You know. But she was really prettiest in the final number—in her new summer evening dress—still smiling, and looking so sweetly at Dan. You should have seen Dan—and they said he paid James Davenport two bits not to pull the curtain on his technique too quick! They were plenty good, if you ask me!

I really can't tell you everything about it, but must tell you how pretty Louise Clark was as the moon lady sitting in a big silver moon when the curtain rose. She had attendants and all that and sang so pretty.

Dear, you remember Lib Ferguson. Well, she was a scream!—somewhat modern, blasé, incorrigible, and all that—you know the type. She won her audience instantly, and I don't mean maybe! Everybody was saying "Why doesn't she go on the stage?" And Patsy Cox—goodness!—a real "calamity Jane". She had us laughing continually.

James Dees was what you call a real "find". He's got a wonderful baritone voice, and might be a soloist for the Greensboro contest. Everybody was crazy about his voice. Pearl and Johnny got married in the story, and John smeared his moustache all over her face. They were swell, but I thought Johnny had more—you know!

I think George Willard was splendid—a Frenchman with a snappy song about Paris—and you know how good he was last year. Well, he's still good. His partner, John Warren, tickled me wearing his monocle and speaking in an English accent, but he was a good burglar. And Larry Wainwright surrounded by the home-town chorus surely was happy as he sang about the old home town. Harry Pelletier was a funny Japanese servant and had a funny solo right at the beginning. Daniel Jordan almost persuaded Lucy with his rollicking "No Use Proposing." And Sibyl Clark, the mother, had such a struggle with her two daughters Lib and Lucy; but she was convincing just the same.

You didn't know Lib Carr could do a Spanish solo dance, did you? Well, she did, beautifully—jambourine—and all that—and Carolyn Hamric was also a Spanish Senorita.

I didn't mean to tell you so much, but it was so good!—oh, year, I for got to tell you how pretty the stage he choruses and all that.

All in all it was a good show.
Love,
Agnes.

Tag Football Begins

On Monday of last week the first tag football game was to have been played, but rain prevented. On Wednesday, however, action started at the home room period and continued after school.

Girls Vestry Play Wilson Tonight

Tonight at eight o'clock the Greenville high school girls' basketball team will meet the Wilson team in Wilson. The game is expected to be heard from beginning to end, for Greenville has not lost to Wilson in several years. Too, Greenville and Wilson have been defeated by New Bern this season; which probably means that two teams of similar strength will have it out Friday night.

The team motto is "Fight and Win."

Tuesday morning at 12:25 excitement and curiosity prevailed in the high school. Mr. Rose had called everybody into the auditorium. What could it be? Guesses ranged from an unexpected holiday on down. Imagine our surprise then when we received "dog tags" given out by the Home Building and Loan Association advertising National Thrift Week. There was a number posted in the window of the Home Building and Loan Association and if you held the "dog tag" with the lucky number you received $2.50.

Francis McGowan was found to be that lucky person. John Blanchard and Hugh Winslow held duplicate numbers and received $2.50 each. There is another number every set of duplicates and I hope everybody has it. Another number is to be placed in the Building and Loan office window Friday and if you don't hold one of the duplicates, I hope you hold the other "Lucky Number."

Louisburg Falls Before E. C. T. C. Cagers, 36-31

The boys of East Carolina Teachers College basketball team presented their coach, C. W. Porter, with a birthday present of a hard-earned 36-31 victory over Louisburg College at Louisburg. The coach remarked after the game that he was well pleased with the present and thought that the boys played a nice game.

Before the team left for Louisburg, someone slipped in the bus a rusty horseshoe. It was found by one of the members of the team and is now very highly prized as a good luck omen.

The game was very fast and hard played. It was marred by rough play as three Louisburg players had to leave the game and one East Carolina player. One feature of the game was the noticeable improvement shown by the Teachers in shooting foul shots, as they made 16 free shots.

Charles King was acting captain in last night's game and played a beautiful first half game. He quite often went into the air and took the ball intended for some Louisburg man. Eric Tucker ran wild and shot 19 points. Bob Eason played a good game at guard, but had to leave early in the second quarter because of four personal fouls. Bill Hearne showed improvement in his shooting and played a good all round game. Bill Parker, Red Forbes and Nelson Hunsucker played nice floor games and helped place the ball in scoring positions.

The next game will be with Campbell College at Bule's Creek. Next week the local collegians will play the Farmville All-Star at Farmville, and on Saturday, Jan. 30th, Louisburg will play in Greenville. Over a thousand people saw the last home game and as this is anybody's game, a hot time is anticipated.

HELEN HICKS REAL STAR

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A few years ago when Helen Hicks' father needed a golfing partner, he used to take the young lady along with him out and charitably helps him polish up his game.

She was twelve then and didn't like golf. Now it dominates her life. She can tell you offhand how many strokes she took on any hole in any tournament during the last five years.

Today she is the national women's golf champion, 20 years old, a stocky powerful young lady with a booming laugh that has run over most of the great courses of the country. She is five feet six inches tall and weighs 140 pounds. If she could ever get away from her favorite confection, chocolate cake and milk, she believes she could reduce. She never has been able to.

Her game is orthodox, good form all around. She hits magnificent tee shots. Improvement in her approach game brought her into the champion class last year.

Glenna Collett Vare, six-time national champion and her greatest rival, is one of her best friends. Maureen Croutt is her jinx, can usually beat her just by tossing a putter on the nearest green.

Helen gets a big thrill out of college football, reads a great deal, likes to fly but doesn't want to learn how, plays basketball with her high school alumni teams and scores most of the points. She drives a big car fast but the motorcycle policemen on Long Island know her and wave her on.

A. A. U. W. Meeting.

The American Association of University Women held their regular monthly meeting in the parish house on Thursday afternoon, January 21. Miss Annie Newell, Miss Lucille Charlton and Miss Laura Rose, hostesses, served refreshments as the members arrived.

Mrs. J. E. Winslow announced in the business meeting that the committee on College Day planned to ask for a special shelf in the town library for materials of value to high school and college girls interested in further training. The shelf will have not only college catalogues and annuals, but also bulletins on library work and nurses' training, and information about summer camps.

Speaking for the legislative committee, Miss Mary Greene, reported an impressive list of measures supported by the national A. A. U. W. through its committee in that field.

For the program of the afternoon two famous foreign universities were presented.

Miss Louise Williams told of the checkered history of the University of Madrid and its difficulty in modernizing its work and equipment.

Not until some time after 1920 did it begin to use the laboratory method of teaching science. She described very interestingly the University City which Alfonso dreamed of building to commemorate the fiftieth year of his reign—1930—and which became in part a reality before he was forced into exile.

Miss Laura Rose then told of Sweden's most historic university—Uppsala. Unlike most great universities of the world, Uppsala has few students from outside its own country's borders. Those studying there are grouped in so-called "nations" which in their self-governing nature, Miss Rose pointed out, seem to have achieved democracy even in the midst of autocracy. The King of Sweden is the chancellor of the university.

Miss Rose mentioned also some of the famous names connected with Uppsala, among them that of August Strindberg, "the Swedish Shakespeare."

Other universities will be studied in the coming meetings.

Lee-Jackson Program.

Farmville, Jan. 21.—The school auditorium held a capacity crowd, the entire school being assembled together with many interested citizens of the community, for the Lee-Jackson program presented by the Rebecca Winbourne chapter, U. D. C., on Tuesday morning of this week in observance of the birthday anniversary of two of the south's greatest heroes. The stage was appropriately decorated for the occasion with ferns and flags, the Stars and Stripes sharing honors with the Stars and Bars.

The program opened with the singing of "America," followed by Scripture reading and prayers by Rev. C. B. Mashburn. The eulogical address was delivered by Rev. H. L. Hendricks, who included Maury in his tribute.

An interesting and spirited talk on "Flags" was given by the president of the local Daughters, Mrs. J. W. Parker, who also presented 21 Confederate flags from her chapter for the use of the individual classrooms of the school. Supt. R. E. Boyd accepted the gift and the hearts of the spectators were stirred by the sight of the 21 teachers marching down the aisles carrying the banner of those southern heroes, the bravest soldiers that ever despoised death.

Miss Vivian Case sang a composition by a Kinston Daughter, Mrs. Anna Jones Wooten. "Our Own Stars and Bars Will Live Forever," with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Haywood Smith, and "Dixie" was sung by the entire assemblage. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. Q. Beckwith.

Farmville, Jan. 21.—Featuring the program of the Parent-Teacher Association on Monday afternoon was a splendid talk by Mrs. T. C. Contrasting the frontiers of the pioneer women, which were largely physical—disease, cold, privations, with those of today, which are intangible, spiritual and more subtle, the speaker named, defined and suggested ways to combat the frontiers of fear, economics, leisure, crime, paganism, ignorance and Atheism. At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. A. Q. Roebuck delighted the association with two vocal selections, Mrs. Haywood Smith accompanist.

A meeting dealing with existing tax values and related problems on farm lands will be held at the court house here Monday, January 25 at 12 o'clock. It was announced today by the Pitt-County Tax Relief Association. The meeting was described as of vital interest to landowners and farmers and interested parties were given a cordial invitation to attend.

The Tax Relief Association has been quite active in behalf of tax reduction for the last two years, and this is one of the several meetings that have been held from time to time during the period.

PUSH INQUIRY OF CRIME WAVE

Grand Jury and Legislature Study Facts in Recent Disorders in Honolulu

Honolulu, Jan. 22.—(AP)—With Honolulu aroused by another assault upon a woman, the grand jury studied evidence today against the four persons accused of lynching the suspected assailant of a navy officer's wife and the legislature added to its pile of legal reforms to curb the city's crime wave.

Police combed the city for Daniel Lyman, escaped murderer whom Mrs. Toka Okazaki, 29-year-old Japanese, identified as the man who attacked her Wednesday night after binding her escort to a railroad track.

Officers were ordered to shoot rather than take chances if Lyman, sought since his escape from prison December 31, offered resistance. The motor car he stole from Mrs. Okazaki's escort was found in a residential section of the city.

Sixteen witnesses remained to appear before the grand jury, which heard a like number yesterday in its inquiry into the slaying of Joseph Kahawai, for which Mrs. Granville Fortescue, her son-in-law

Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and two navy enlisted men are held.

Members of the navy shore patrol, the Japanese maids of Mrs. Fortescue and Mrs. Massie and Ed-Ull, cousin of the slain man who said he saw his abduction, were among those summoned.

Gambler Wins $100,000 After Coup at Races

New Orleans, La., Jan. 22.—(AP)—A group of gamblers was reputedly approximately $100,000 richer today by reason of a "build up" coup they staged in the first race at Jefferson Park here yesterday.

The "builders" bet on Charm, the favorite quoted odds on at 1 to 2, in the race and then, at post time, wagered approximately $10,000 on other horses to build up Charm's odds to pay $19.60 as winner on a $2 mutual ticket.

Bookmakers over the country were believed by the informed to have lost heavily. In "building" on Charm, none owned by Al Capone and trained by C. S. Stubbs, the gamblers took a chance as the mare barely got home in front of Finger Tip in the six furlong race.

Charm figured in a 60 to 1 coup a few years ago at the fair grounds track here. Track officials said they were powerless to prevent the coups since they must take any bet made through the mutual windows.

Sunset Pass

By ZANE GREY

SYNOPSIS: Open battle at last flares out between Truman Rock and Ash Preston. Rock has known that Ash is a cattle rustler, and that he has tangled his father Gage Preston, in the same business. He must kill Ash to save Gage and his daughter, Thiry, whom Rock loves, from disgrace.

Chapter 47
THE LAST BULLET
Blood poured down. As he swept up his gun Rock shot him through the middle.

The bullet struck up dust beyond and whined away. But Ash, sustaining the shock, fired again and knocked Rock flat.

Like the first bullet, this one struck as if it were wind, high on his left shoulder. He heard two more heavy booms of Ash's gun, felt the sting of gravel on his face. Half rising, Rock fired again. He heard the bullet strike. Terrible fleshy sodden sound! Ash's fifth shot sprang off Rock's extended gun, knocked it flying, beyond reach.

Preston was sagging. Bloody, magnificent, mortally stricken, he had no will except to kill. He saw his enemy prostrate, weaponless. He got his gun up, but could not align it, and his last bullet struck far beyond Rock, to whine away. Ash's physical strength had not matched his unquenchable spirit. He actually tried to fling the empty gun. It flipped at random. To and fro he swayed, all instinctive action ceasing, and with his ruthless eyes on his fallen foe, changing, glazing over, setting blank, he fell.

Gage Preston hurried to Rock's side. Men came running with hoarse shouts.
"Help me—up," said Rock, faintly.

They raised him, speaking in awed voices. Then he dragged them, half-hopping, careless of his dangling leg, over to the writhing Ash in time to see his last shudder.
"Ah—huh!" gasped Rock in emotionless finality, with strength and sense slowly falling into oblivion.

When Rock came to his senses again he was lying on the floor of his cabin, where seemingly only a few moments before he had given advice as to the proper care of the wounded Dunne.

He gazed around up at the grave faces of cowboys and cattlemen, at Gage Preston, who, grim and white was binding his leg; at Peebles, still working over the prostrate Dunne.

"Preston, how is it—with Rock?" asked Dunne, huskily.
"Wal, the top bullet glanced off the bone," replied the rancher. "Ugly hole, but nothin' fer this fella. The leg shot, through, is bleedin' bad."

"Bind it tight," whispered Rock. Dunne moved his head in slow action until his cavernous eyes, supernaturally bright, rested upon Rock.

"Say, Rock, it didn't take you long to get—neah on the floor with me."
"Seems long," said Rock, weakly. "Matter of ten minutes, mebbe," explained Preston, as he wrapped and pulled with swift powerful hands. "Hyar, somebody help me . . . hold that end tight."

Rock became conscious of awakened pain, of a burning in his breast and a dull spreading fire in his right leg. Presently Preston rose from his task, wiping his bloody hands, and the voices of watchers ceased.

"Somebody get Rock to town pronto," he said, gruffly. "Ain't safe to let him wait fer the doctor."
"Lon Bailey has his four-seat buckboard," replied a cowboy. "We can take out the hind seat an' fix a place for Rock to lay."
"Rustle now," replied Preston and then bent his gloomy gaze down. "Rock, if the artery ain't cut, you're nothin' bad."

"Gage, I'm—sorry," whispered Rock, faintly. "No—other way."
"Hal! You needn't be. Shore, I'm not," rejoined the rancher. "Will you—come to town?"
"Tomorrow. Me an' the boys will see Dabb. Mebbe it ain't too late."

tion to highway traffic laws. It is the only way anything definite can be accomplished and those who fall to do so may pay the price others have paid.

Liquor conditions are described as bad in Beaufort county. It is to be wondered if they are any worse than in some of the surrounding communities where whiskey may be purchased along every highway and in scores of places in the smallest of towns.

CAMPBELL TO TRY TO BOOST OLD RECORD

Daytona Beach, Fla., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Fearing his own world's automobile speed mark of 245 miles an hour might soon be surpassed, Sir Malcolm Campbell, of England, is coming back here next month to try to boost the record above the reach of immediate contenders.

He believes his Bluebird racing car, with which he set the present record here last year, is capable of attaining a speed of approximately 260 miles an hour and wants to reach that peak if possible.

The sudden decision of the 47-year-old driver to return was made when it became known that Norman "Wizard" Smith, another British racer, was making serious preparations for going after the record. Smith now is in New Zealand and with a car almost identical with Campbell's Bluebird.

Both machines are equipped with 1,450 horsepower Napier airplane motors, lent the drivers by the British government. The body designs are similar and each car streamlined to perfection.

Campbell believes Smith could break the present record by only a slight margin. Consequently, he has decided to come back to try to raise it beyond Smith's reach. His idea is that Smith then would have either to abandon his attempts o build a more powerful machine. Since establishing the present record on the beach speedway last year, Campbell has made several alterations on his car to step up the speed. These, he has not divulged however.

His machine, blunt nosed and with a ground clearance of only 3 1/2 inches is approximately 25 feet long and weighs 5,000 pounds. It has a wheel base of 12 feet six inches and an extreme height of four feet.

In the rear of the drivers' seat is a large vertical fin or rudder, similar to that on an airplane, which helps keep the car under control at high speeds. The tires, tested to withstand a speed of 300 miles an hour, are coated with a thin film of rubber that barely covers the cords.

Prepare to Sign for Schmeling Sharkey Bout

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Without a smile, Joe Jacobs and Johnny Spockley announced that they hope to get together some time today to sign a contract for a heavyweight championship bout here in June between Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey.

A Jacobs-Buckley-Madison Square Garden conference that lasted for hours yesterday smoothed out all the points of difference, it was announced, with two or three minor exceptions.

The "minor" exceptions, it was understood, had to do with such important matters as financial terms.

After the conference broke up last night it was said that the chief difficulty arose out of the fact that Buckley, Sharkey's manager, was demanding a larger share of the receipts than the Garden was ready to grant. Buckley, however, insisted that Sharkey was willing to accept the customary challenger's share of 12 1/2 per cent.

ABOUT TOWN

It plans carry, the inter-racial conference to be held here February 5 will be one of the most important gatherings of the kind ever held in this part of the state.

Over twenty counties are included in the conference district and this means that representatives from each one will be present to take part in deliberations.

The conference theme will center about "The Negro in a Shifting Agriculture," and is expected to result in constructive action in behalf of the colored people of the various communities.

Improvement of the standard of living among the colored people will result in a better type of citizen and it is the object of the conference to effect a more complete understanding between the two races in the hope of accomplishing this purpose.

The $3,000,000,000 reconstruction bill will be sent to President Hoover for his signature within the next day or so, and directors of the fund will set in motion machinery for the relief of the economic condition of the country.

It is impossible for the average person to conceive of the enormity of the plan at this time, but he is accepting the word of leaders of public thought that it will result in better conditions generally throughout the nation.

The measure is exactly what its name implies, and millions of dollars will be cut loose by the government to relieve the strain which various branches of business have undergone the last two years.

It may be some time before the effect of the movement will be felt in remote parts of the country, but that it will bring about a revival of business is hot to be questioned.

It is not surprising that American vessels are selling whiskey outside the ten mile limit. The surprising thing about the revelation is that members of the Congressional investigating committee should have appeared surprised when informed of it.

In permitting travelers to quench their thirst at modern bars the steamship lines of this country are merely trying to compete with foreign vessels that make no bones about the practice.

American steamship owners have lost thousands of dollars in past years by not competing with the foreign countries, and they are beginning to feel the loss more keenly than ever.

At least, this was the information imparted to the Congressional committee by a member of the Shipping Board. And, incidentally, when steamship lines or any other branch of industry, feel themselves slipping, and know the cause, they may be counted upon to improve the situation if possible.

Even Americans going to and from Europe use foreign vessels instead of those of their own country because they know they would have an opportunity of indulging in a few "nips" while crossing the ocean.

U. N. C. FACES WAKE FOREST

Charlotte, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The University of North Carolina basketball team, undefeated in Big Five competition this season, will face Wake Forest tonight in its second contest in the state race.

A loss would tumble the Tar Heels from the top rung of the Big Five ladder which it now shares with Duke and N. C. State which have also won one and lost one each.

Tomorrow night the triple tie will be broken, when Duke and State clash.

Western Carolina Teachers and Appalachian were the only collegians in action last night, the Boomers losing by two points netted by the Teachers in the last few minutes. The score was 37-35.

In the meantime, other sports today attracted attention. Tomorrow night Virginia Polytechnic's boxers and wrestlers will meet the Tar Heel teams, while Duke will be engaged with Virginia Military Institute wrestlers.

Chapel Hill also was taking some interest in football, with more than 100 candidates for berths on the 1932 squad out for winter practice.

Football coaches also provided stove leaguers with room for thought and talk. Davidson is still casting around for somebody to succeed Monk Younger and Tex Tilson.

N. C. State officials announced the school's coaching staff would remain unchanged.

While the automobile death toll in North Carolina this year was slightly less than the previous year, injuries exceeded all previous marks.

Deaths were fifteen less than last year, while injuries passed the five hundred mark. Think of it! What an awful price for one state to pay for such a cause. It is a terrible indictment to bring against an intelligent people, yet one that cannot be discounted.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today at a decline of one to three points on scattered selling, influenced by easier cables. March sold at 6.69.

There was a fair volume of business, but orders seemed to be pretty evenly divided and fluctuations were narrow with the market showing no particular feature during the first half hour.

More rain was reported in parts of the western belt, suggesting a renewed delay in the movement, but it attracted little if any comment, and traders appeared to be awaiting further developments in the general situation.

Liverpool cables reported liquidation absorbed by trade calling at the decline in that market and said there were moderate sales of cotton cloths for shipment of Egypt and Africa. Today was the last day of trading in current January contracts. Notices representing about 500 bales were said to have been issued but the little liquidation of January in evidence was absorbed by the trade.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Grain values showed a general disposition to sag today. Reports indicating a decided surplus of domestic wheat stocks owned by flour mills as compared with flour sales and futures had a distinctly bearish influence. The reports, it was asserted by some trade authorities, showed plainly that millers would be purchasing little or nothing in the line of grain for months to come.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1 1/2 to 1-2 under yesterday's finish, corn 3-8 to 5-8 down; oats unchanged to 1-4 off and provisions unchanged to 7 higher.

STOCK MARKET

By CLAUD A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Editor)

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The stock market found the downward course somewhat the easier today, but seemed disinclined to move far in either direction.

With the remedial projects such as the reconstruction measure apparently well discounted by the market, and the volume of general business still showing but slight seasonal expansion, stock traders found little inspiration. The market was sluggish, a morning upturn in the rails was short lived, and the list generally sagged after midday.

Some of the rails sold up 1 to 2 points, and Missouri Pacific preferred got up nearly 4, but these advances were mostly lost. Later, Norfolk and Western and Delaware and Hudson recorded losses of 3 points, and declines of 1 to 2 were numerous, embracing such issues as U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, DuPont, General Motors, American Tobacco B. Liggett and Myers B. American Can, Case, Standard of N. J., Union Carbide, Westinghouse Electric, Sears, Bethlehem, and Borden.

Some traders were said to be turning to the view that final approval of the reconstruction measure, and settlement of the railway wage controversy, would result in more "selling on the good news" than new buying. Long anticipated favorable developments frequently being a rush to take profits, on the theory that with the good news finally out, no further upward stimulus can be expected from those quarters. These traders, therefore, were inclined to feel that fresh news of a favorable character would be needed within the next few days to extend the market's recent advance.

GRIST PILES PROBABLY AT SENATOR MORRISON

"Prosperity will be restored to the country when the government is restored to the people. History has proven that no country has prospered when it was run by combines and the special privileged classes, as this country is run today.

"Senator Morrison failed to reply to the two questions propounded in my challenge, quoted from the Congressional Record. He did, however, say: 'of course my commitments were all for the Duke Foundation, and only to the power company as a contributing agency to the Duke Foundation.'

Senator Morrison refers to 'the power company as a contributing financial agency to the Duke Foundation.' In other words the users of electric current generated by the Duke company must pay tribute to support the Duke Foundation in order to perpetuate the name and fame of Duke.

"Certainly the Duke Power Company is 'a benevolent organization' in Senator Morrison's eyes, through his family, is a substantial stockholder."

ROOSEVELT EXPECTED TO COME OUT SOON

While no definite word has come from the governor or his advisors it is known that he has the invitation of the North Dakota state committee before him and is pondering a reply. The committee a week ago asked Mr. Roosevelt for a definite answer. Under the law in that state a candidate must declare himself willing before his name can be entered in the presidential preference primary.

The North Dakota primary is March 15. New Hampshire has a primary on March 8, but friends of a candidate may enter his name without his consent.

He refused to see her yesterday when she went to the prison to say goodbye, because, he said, he had heard she was "going with a cop."

His last few minutes in his death cell were spent eating ice cream and admiring a picture he had drawn of the electrocution chamber.

He entered the death room with a grin on his face and his fists clinched.

"Hello, Sarze," he said in greeting to one of the officers.

As the head electrode was fitted he mumbled, "my last wish is to send my love to my mother."

He referred to his "sister mother," Mrs. Anna Crowley, who had given him the only name he ever had and to whom the body was turned over today.

TWO BANDITS HOLD UP BANK

(Continued from page one) $15,000 and escaped today. The robbers, armed with sawed-off shotguns, entered the bank through a rear window and lay in wait for the employees.

Three of the bank workers were handcuffed and two others were placed in the bank's vault.

A negro janitor was the first to arrive at the bank. The bandits covered him with a shotgun, handcuffed his wrists, bound his eyes with tape and trussed him up.

J. L. Sanders, another employee came a few moments later and he also was handcuffed and was forced to open the vault. The robbers then bound his hands with rope.

Then came C. G. Moody, and he, too, was bound and gagged.

C. B. Campbell, the cashier, and his daughter, Helen, entered as the bandits were preparing to flee. They were forced into the vault.

Working loose from the ropes, Sanders succeeded in opening the vault and notified police. H. M. Moody and the negro janitor had to be taken to police headquarters before they could be freed of the handcuffs.

"It is a real pleasure to return to North Carolina after conferring with leaders in the financial center and political center of the country.

"North Carolina, along with every state in the union, is today suffering under the blight of economic conditions prevailing throughout the world.

"The encouraging ray of light and hope for us in North Carolina is seen in the fact that our citizenship and our government have recognized conditions for what they are and have made stupendous efforts to adjust themselves to weather the storm.

"In some important respects North Carolina was the last state to substantially feel the effects of the business panic. We had made comprehensive plans to adjust our operations to its demands even before its ravages began to shrink revenues.

"There has been no organized plan to defeat the prohibition law. We have an opposition without a plan—we are just 'against' something."

The former governor said prohibition is a political question. "They even elect county clerks on it," he said. He suggested, however, that it should be taken from politics and left to the American people themselves to decide. A decision on this question, one way or another, he said, would "greatly benefit business in this country."

"Liquor is flowing freely throughout the country," he added. "If you don't know it any other way, then you'll discover it by reading the report of the Wickersham committee."
