USE MARINES AS A SHIELD

Officials Fear That Fighting Across the Line Between the Settlement and Native City Might Result in Serious Battle in Which Innocent Neutrals Might Be Killed; All Japanese Patrols Evacuate Foreign Defense Sectors at Shanghai Following Agreement Yesterday

Washington, Feb. 4.—(AP)—A new protest against the use by the Japanese of the international settlement as a base for their attacks upon the Chinese went to Japan today from the British and American governments.

It closely followed the announcement in Tokyo of a Japanese reply to the latest Anglo-American overtures for peace. The new representations follow the line of others which have contended that the Japanese were using the American Marines in the international settlement at Shanghai as a shield. They have pointed out that the American Marines were under orders to fire only in most extreme emergencies.

The present fear of officials is that fighting across the line between the settlement and native city might result in a serious battle in which innocent neutrals might be killed.

The Japanese reply to the proposals was awaited at the State Department as the new protest went forward.

Pending her arrival in Washington of the Japanese note, there was a decided disinclination by officials to talk. Word from Tokyo that Japan gave conditional acceptance to three of the five proposals made jointly by Great Britain and the United States, and rejected two of the others did not lessen the anxiety with which they regarded the situation.

There was some reassuring word from Shanghai. Admiral Taylor, commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet, informed the Navy today that all Japanese patrols had evacuated the American and British defense sectors in the international settlement at Shanghai.

The U. S. destroyer Pillsbury arrived at Swatow, 700 miles south of Shanghai, where Chinese-Japanese clashes had been reported imminent.

The destroyer Stewart which was ordered to stop at Swatow to investigate the trouble, proceeded to her station at Hongkong.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department was informed by commercial attaché Arnold at Shanghai that (Continued on page six)

Doctor Testifies In Judd Case

Court House, Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Dr. J. D. Mauldin, Maricopa county physician, testified at Winnie Ruth Judd's murder trial today the accused woman told him she did not and could not have dismembered the body of one of her victims.

Dr. Mauldin testified he "would say she was sane" on the night of October 16, when the state charged she killed Agnes Anne LeRoi and Hedvig Samuelson, her friends.

Mrs. Judd is on trial for murder of Mrs. LeRoi.

When the bodies were found packed as baggage in a Los Angeles railway station October 19, Miss Samuelson's body had been dismembered.

"I said to her," Dr. Mauldin related, describing a visit to her cell, "it seemed a pretty good job—dissecting that body."

"She said, you know, doctor, I didn't do that—I never could cut up even a chicken in my life."

"And that trunk—I'm a delicate woman—you can see there was no chance for me to have dragged it through the house."

Dr. Mauldin said he considered Mrs. Judd was "malingering" in regard to various peculiar statements and actions.

"She asked me once if I thought she could go crazy."

ABOUT TOWN

Efforts of University officials to save the student loan fund is to be highly commended. Were it not for this fund hundreds of deserving young men and women of the state would be denied the mental training of which they are so deserving.

Efforts of opponents of Secretary Mellon seem to be getting results, judging by reports carried in yesterday afternoon's paper saying that Mr. Hoover had offered the secretary the ambassadorship to Great Britain.

This indirectly informs Mr. Mellon that his services would be of greater benefit to the nation in another capacity and it is believed sufficient pressure was brought to bear to cause him to realize it is the best thing to do in the face of direct criticism.

The close association of the secretary with large industries of the nation, according to his opponents, makes him unfit for service at the head of the nation's treasury, and it is for this reason he has been the source of such bitter assaults from leaders of public thought.

President Hoover has kept his ear to the ground, and the undeniable rumblings of discontent probably caused him to attempt to switch the secretary to another job before something hurtful to the administration is uncovered.

The Salvation Army budget drive got under way in Greenville yesterday, and while the campaigners were handicapped by rain, it was said that gratifying progress was made.

The campaign will continue the remainder of the week and its purpose is to raise $2,500 for carrying on the work of the organization here during the present year.

The mayor along with other civic leaders has sent out a plea for support of the budget drive in the hope that the work of the army may be continued here without interruption. Work had to be curtailed during the past year on account of the shortage of funds, and little progress was made.

However, with an ambitious program outlined for the new year, hope has been expressed that the desired sum will be raised and the avenue opened to greater achievements.

The American government was reported yesterday as being encouraged over the outlook for peace negotiations between Japan and China.

Even as the announcement was made, Japanese were launching one of the most deadly conflicts of the war upon Shanghai and other points below the city.

Marines attacked by land and cruisers from sea, and while no definite reports were received, it was believed that casualties were heavy.

Along with this came the report from Tokyo that the Japanese government was unalterably opposed to neutral participation in proposals for cessation of hostilities. China, however, agreed to proposals made by the four big powers the day before, and apparently was ready to lay down arms and return to paths of peace.

Boy Crazy

By GRACE PERKINS AUTHOR OF "PERSONAL MAID"

SYNOPSIS: Two boys want to marry Hope Ross: Rusty Crandall, and Dickey Dale. Hope is enthusiastically in favor of Dickey, but her family does not approve. Mr. Ross considers Dickey socially inferior. Mrs. Ross snubs him and Hope's sister, Goody, is disdainful. Rusty is quite eligible, but an old story to Hope. The Ross's scorn drives Hope to taking Dickey to a country club dance, where she hopes to prove him superior to her own crowd. But Dickey sulks, and finally creates such a scene that she accepts Rusty's invitation to take her home. Rickett interferes and before Hope can stop them the two begin to fight outside the club.

Chapter 10 "YOU'RE BEING BOSS'D NOW!" "Dickey!" Hope cried out. "Dickey!" "You shut up until you're told to speak!" fired Dickey masterfully. "Who the hell do you think you're playing with? Now, this is a show-down. Understand me? Either you and I quit right now—or we come to an argument. Which is it going to be?"

"Do you love me—or don't you?" demanded Dickey ruthlessly. "Come on. Make your mind up once and for all. Did you mean it—when you said you loved me?" Hope's eyes crinkled up excitedly. "You know—you know I love you, Dickey," she murmured dutifully—and liked it.

"You mean it? Because I'm not the playing kind!" He was grand. He was stern and mighty and earnest and bossy. "Dickey, dear—kiss me." Her nearness melted the grim turn of his mouth. Hope had never known a kiss to last like that—except in the lulling tranquility of her daydreams.

"Nothing doing!" snorted Dickey with a jerk of his head at the moon. He leaned forward and started the car again, and Hope watched him carefully as he adjusted the roadster to the road and headed once more in the direction they had been taking. She was sure of herself once more, and terribly in love.

"Right—what did you say, Dickey?" "Right now." "You're crazy." "I'm crazy in love with you." "But Dickey—" "No buts about it," Dickey insisted gently. "You said you loved me and you would marry me. We're going to be married right now. Tonight. I know a place right over the state line—and what's more, I've got a license since last week."

"You're being boss'd right now, honey. It's all or nothing, and what I say goes—and goes big. I'm starting out right. You've reached the last of your flirting days." (Copyright, Grace Perkins) Does Hope decide to flirt no more and bring down her parents' anger by marrying Dickey, in the next installment?

VINES LEADS TENNIS RACE

Pasadena, Cal. Feb. 4.—(AP)—Ellsworth Vines Jr., is the nation's ranking tennis star and probably the greatest court prospect since William T. Tilden appeared, but he worries more over the formula for sinking long putt than he does about scoring service aces.

He marvels at the golfing ability of Francis Oulmet, Billy Burke, Bobby Jones and the rest, and looks forward to the day when he can break a hundred. Some day, after he has made his mark in business as well as tennis, Vines is going to concentrate on golf with this end in view.

Last summer, this lean, lanky youth of 20, won more tennis titles than any other player ever before gathered in a single season. But to see draped over the books of a stock and bond firm, you would hardly recognize in him the ability that has stamped him the country's leading Davis Cup team hope.

Vines likes tennis but the social obligations, that go hand in hand with the national title bore him. He gets sleepy at nine o'clock when most gatherings are called into session and he is ready to leave before 11. Usually he does.

He doesn't care for dancing and he feels awkward on a floor. He likes bridge but doesn't play much because he can't find partners to go with his game. His friends either are too good or not good enough. He is willing to admit that luck, perhaps more than any other factor, shot him to the top of the American tennis world last summer, but he wants it distinctly understood that the same good fortune doesn't account for the fact that he is a good student.

He did not leave the University of Southern California because of scholastic difficulties and he'd like that generally understood. He was a good student even though he had his job after school hours, was keeping up his tennis, and trying to make basketball practice regularly.

Cats to Begin Work Under New Coaching Staff

Davidson, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Davidson's football material, for nine years under the direction of Alk Younger and Tex Tison, Monday will work under William (Doc) Newton and Gene McEver, who were announced last night as the college's new coaching staff.

Newton, former Birmingham-Southern and Howard College coach who served as scout for Coach Neyland at the University of Tennessee last season, will succeed Younger as head coach, and McEver, all-America halfback, also of Tennessee, will tutor the Wildcat backfield.

Announcement of the employment of McEver, who has just closed one of the most brilliant careers in southern grid history, came as a complete surprise. He was already understood to be slated for a coaching position at his alma mater, but authorities here said the transaction had been handled with the full knowledge and agreement of University of Tennessee officials.

McEver has been classed by Neyland as "the smartest and greatest football player he had ever tutored." The player, who will return to Tennessee for graduation after winter practice here is over, was said to have virtually coached the Vol backfield while playing in it.

Larry James Loses Three Fingers As Shotgun Explodes

Larry James, local tobaccoist, had three fingers partly blown off when a shotgun exploded in his hand while out hunting yesterday morning.

James and Tom Smoot were off on a hunting trip when the accident occurred. James started to fire his gun, the barrel exploded, and part of the shell was forced through the barrel.

His left hand was broken and three fingers were so badly mangled that they had to be amputated when the young man was rushed to the hospital for medical aid.

While suffering considerably from the injury, he was reported as getting along nicely today.

To Show Several Reels of Game Pictures Here

Charles J. Moore, assistant state game warden, will show several reels of game pictures at East Carolina Teachers College on the evening of February 9th, at 7 o'clock. It was announced today.

Each of the pictures will deal with game conditions in this part of the state. One reel will show the much discussed starved condition of brant and geese at Ocracoke and Portsmouth, proving beyond dispute that the condition is not as bad as pictured in recent stories dealing with the situation.

Mr. Moore said food conditions in the Ocracoke section were not as good as they should be, but declared the game was not in a starving condition and unable to fly, as previously charged.

Other reels to be exhibited here will deal with bird dogs of prominent sportsmen and the state game farm at Ashboro. Still another will show a drum party at Manteo and geese at Lake Matamoras.

Colonel Harrison, director of the Department of Conservation, and Charles England, state game warden, will be present.

Olympics Open at Lake Placid

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 4.—(AP)—It's the day of opening of the winter Olympics in this tiny winter bound village on the fringe of the lakes and frosty topped Adirondack mountains, the biggest of all days in the lives of the 3,500 inhabitants.

To help them enter in 31 athletes of 17 nations, who lined up for the formal march in alphabetical order to the opening ceremonies (at 10 a. m.) in the outdoor Olympic stadium, was Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and his staff, official guests of the village.

In addition, parading the flag draped streets early, scuffling through the snow that covers everything, were some 10,000 visitors, about half of them here for the duration of the games, the rest in town for the day from the surrounding countryside.

Two solid years of preparation and some $1,250,000 in cash have been expended in this mountain hamlet to set the stage for the third Olympic winter games, the first ever held in the United States.

U. N. C. IN THE WITH DUKE

Charlotte, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The University of North Carolina went back into a tie with Duke for first place in the Big Five basketball race last night by defeating Wake Forest, 34 to 24, at Raleigh.

North Carolina has won four and lost one; that to N. C. State, Duke lost to the Tar Heels.

Wilmer Vines, who scored six field goals and one foul shot, last night led the Tar Heels in an early attack which netted a 19-8 lead at half time. The Deacons rallied in the last period, but were unable to come even.

N. C. State lost the second of as many starts in its Virginia tour, falling to match the University of Virginia cagemen, who scored a 20-17 victory.

Elon was the only North Carolina expeditionary force to meet with success last night. It nosed out Bridgewater at Harrisonburg, Va., 42-41.

Gulford, defeated by the College of Charleston Tuesday, repeated by losing to the Paris Island Marines 28 to 27.

At Guilowee, Western Carolina Teachers defeated Mars Hill 33 to 14.

The foreign invasion continues tonight. N. C. State goes to V. P. L.; Duke to Washington and Lee, and Guilford plays a return match with the Marines. Davidson will entertain the Erskine five, while Catawba and High Point will mix in a home-loop contest.

Are You Looking For Lower Prices

On merchandise?—Then dont! Merchandise can be produced down to a certain level of cost and at that level—it stops.

It's True

Raw materials are at a low level. The lowest in years, in fact, so low that it DOES NOT HARDLY FIGURE IN THE COST OF THE FINISHED ARTICLE.

To Prove This

The cost of cheap, inferior merchandise is so close to that of good, dependable merchandise, that there is hardly any difference in the retail price.

Do Not Shop by Price Today

Because the prices on cheap and good articles are too near—But look about you—Shop for value.

Values Sacrificed For Profit

You'll find this true every day—If you'll only examine your merchandise—you can buy better values in merchandise here for less money. Because our sense of value has not been eclipsed in our greed for profits.

This Store Has Stood the Test

Throughout the years—Good and bad—Founded and operated on the Basis of Value and Service to the customer. And on these rest our hopes of your continued confidence.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today, unchanged to 3 points higher on trade buying and covering, promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables. May sold at 67 1/2.

Trading was quiet at the start, but the absence of selling pressure seemed to stimulate buying to some extent and prices worked up to 6 3/8 for May and 7 1/8 for October by the end of the first half hour or about five to six points net higher.

Part of the early buying was attributed to houses with foreign trade connections, but it was not in sufficient volume to make much impression on the market. Liverpool cables said that continental buying and trade calling had absorbed hedge selling in that market and reported moderate sales of cotton cloths to the continent and South America.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Flattening out of export business had a bearish effect on grain values today, despite a stronger market at first.

No rally in Chicago wheat prices resulted from official announcements that under the new British tariff wheat in grain form would remain on the free list. It was noted that this exemption from a tariff duty did not include imported flour.

Wheat closed unsettled 1-2-7-8 under yesterday's finish, corn 3-8-3-4 down, and oats 1-8-1-2 off, provisions reacted from early advance, and closed 10 to 15 cents lower, with lard at a new low for the season.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The securities markets fluctuated narrowly in the duldest trading in recent years today, as traders hopefully awaited signs of a seasonal pickup in industry.

Uncertainties surrounding the Far Eastern situation were still regarded as a brake on the markets, although Wall Street was chiefly interested in the domestic situation, and has not been inclined to become alarmed over "war" gossip.

In stocks, most of the leaders held close to yesterday's closing levels. Trading was so slow that there were long halts in the movement of the ticker tape. The market seemed to display a fairly firm tone during the morning, but eased off after midday, when U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Case, International Harvester, Union Pacific and Santa Fe lost about a point, and several leaders sagged fractionally. Some issues held up a point or so, including the New York Central, Real Silk Hosiery, C. Penney, Safeway and a few others. General Motors was about steady, despite the dividend reduction.

Inasmuch as downward readjustments of diphenyl watch on the steady rise of the big river, itself.

Louisiana and the Mississippi Delta still bore the brunt of the high waters but four other southern areas experienced trouble with rain swollen rivers and streams.

The Mississippi was out of its banks enough to wash over bottom lands at several points in the lower valley country but although it was rising, rivermen said as yet it presented no major danger.

PEOPLE FLEE 'QUAKE CITY'

(Continued from page one) 000 population were treated for minor or minor injuries. The damage was officially estimated at an excess of $10,000,000 by officials who surveyed the ruins left by one of the most destructive earthquakes to strike the city in the past 400 years.

The exodus of residents to the high hills that surround Santiago on three sides was in strange contrast to the flight of hundreds yesterday to the central plaza, where frenzied invocations were made to the patron Saint of Cuba for protection against the earthquakes.

Relief organizations continued their well organized work today and aid was promised from the vessels of the United States scouting fleet based at Guantanamo Bay.

Meantime, the rehabilitation of the city was begun. The newspaper, Diario de Cuba advocated a four point program of reconstruction, to include free food for destitute; immediate construction of a sewer system; a year's moratorium on commercial bills; and payment to date of all government employees.

From Havana President Machado dispatched personal representatives and aid. Working crews began clearing the wreckage-strewn districts. Physicians said they feared no epidemic, and that sufficient water supply was present.

Approximately 80 per cent of the city's houses will have to be rebuilt, officials stated. High building—an ancient cathedral whose spire-surmounted angel was invoked by the frantic crowds in the plaza, business houses, hotels and the like, all probably must be torn down.

The evacuation of the city preceded a proclamation by Mayor Desiderio Arnau that a 24 hour period of evacuation be observed to eliminate danger from falling walls or recurring earth shocks.

Military forces of Oriente province patrolled the city to forestall any possible looting, and military passes were necessary for freedom of the town.

SHELL SCREAMS CAUSE THE INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY DAMAGING CHINESE HOUSES

It was the second onslaught by the Japanese on the sector during the day and followed another heavy shelling of the Chinese fort at Woosung, 16 miles down the river, by Japanese warships.

The Chinese resistance in the Chapel sector surprised the Japanese, who laid detailed plans for a new attack with shock troops, artillery and aerial bombs.

Only machine guns and rifles were used in stemming the Japanese tide during the afternoon but the Chinese trench motors dropped several shells around the Japanese headquarters in the international settlement.

At Japanese headquarters this evening, the staff was busy directing intricate street fighting in the city and synchronizing by radio the attacks by the airplane bombers.

As the correspondent's car drew up in front of the headquarters, an officer pointed out stains on the pavement where sentries were killed by exploding Chinese shells and suggested the exercise of care.

The next attack, which Japanese hoped would end in clearing out all the Chinese from North Chapel, was to sweep the Chinese positions with machine guns and three inch artillery, after which the blue-jackets would hurriedly withdraw, while the bombing planes swooped down and dumped their warred cargoes on the buildings held by the Chinese. After this the blue-jackets were to rush in again in an attempt to gain a few yards during the confusion that was expected to result.

After four hours of heavy and persistent fighting earlier in the day the Japanese admitted they had "gained only a little." They hoped the combined artillery and aerial attacks this evening would flatten out the congested area in Chapel, permit more open fighting and make possible a more rapid advance.

The naval forces bombarding Woosung blew out the commercial Cable Head, leaving the Great Northern Cable and the radio as the only means of communication with the outside world.

Meanwhile the northward boundaries of the international settlement were threatened by a wall of fire advancing before a stiff breeze from Chapel.

The flames were spreading rapidly in the Chinese area where five-story huts were set afire by incendiary bombs from Japanese airplanes.

The United States Marines had their heads full of the Sanchow creek area where thousands of Chinese refugees clamored at the bridge gates vainly trying to enter the settlement. They were letting in only holders of authorized passes, for it was estimated that already nearly a million refugees are camped in the city.

The new detachment of marines which came ashore from the cruiser Houston spent most of the morning settling in their billets. For them Shanghai was a cold city after months of Manila sunshine. The boys cut away their tropical uniforms and put on their heavy O. D.

Over in the Hongkong section the Chinese faced a food shortage because they were afraid to leave the homes where they had barricaded themselves to look for more provisions. Some of the Japanese still were ready to shoot any Chinaman who looked like a sniper.

The municipal police, however, were extending their patrol area into Hongkong and this evening were within half a mile of the Japanese headquarters.

Word from Amoy said the Chinese there, fearing trouble, were streaming into the foreign quarters on Kulangsu Island. Four Japanese destroyers were there but no other naval forces of any nation. There were rumors that American residents were planning to evacuate, but the missionaries who comprise a majority of the American community said they had no intention of leaving.

At eight o'clock tonight Chinese headquarters said the fighting at Woosung had ended with the Chinese still holding the fort. It seemed likely the engagement would be resumed tomorrow.

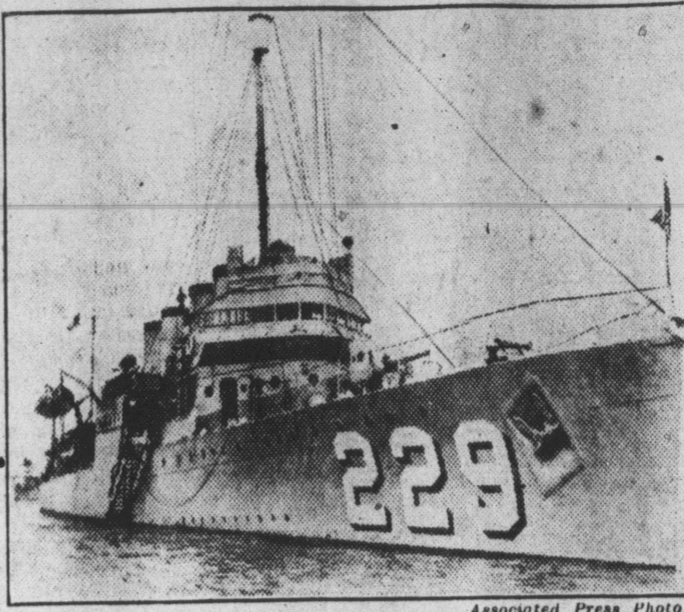

Martial law was proclaimed at apologized to the British and American consuls for destruction of the cable head and promised to provide a guard for the repair crew.

The forts held their own under the heavy bombardment today as they did yesterday, when at one time they were reported by the Japanese to have been flattened out. The heaviest shelling took place between 11 o'clock and noon, an eyewitness reported. After that Japanese destroyers crept up closer to the forts, he said, apparently in order to draw fire from the Chinese guns. The chief response from the Chinese, however, came from the machine gunners of Soochow creek.

"When I arrived," the observer said, "one of the destroyers apparently had been hit and was beached. But it got off later and steamed down the river. Four Japanese airplanes then roared over the forts."

The firing beat a tattoo for the landing of a fresh group of more than 300 United States Marines from the cruiser Houston, which arrived from Manila yesterday. The leathernecks took it in fine humor, asking "where's the war?" as the boom of the warships' guns down the river and the rattle of the lighter, sharper fire in the city mote their ears.

U. S. DESTROYER AT SHANGHAI

The U. S. S. Truxton (above) was alone at Shanghai when fighting broke out between the Japanese and Chinese. She was joined later by four additional destroyers sent from Manila under full draft.

The Marines were marched to the international settlement, where they will take up posts to protect American lives and property. "Ain't that music?" shouted another Marine as they were stepping off the distance to the settlement from the wharf.

Several shells from the Chapel Woosung and shipping will not be permitted to pass the narrows on the Widgeo between 7:00 P. M. and 7:00 A. M. until further notice.

The Japanese naval commander before the international settlement, but there was no indication that they had harmed anyone.

Dispatches from Tokyo said a division of Japanese soldiers was on the way from Japan to strengthen the blue-jackets attack here, but these reports could not be confirmed.

The fighting along the settlement borders ceased in mid-afternoon. A detachment of Marines went forward and occupied a blockhouse post on the rifle range road which for the past six days was manned by volunteers from the settlement. The blockhouse was under fire continually during the sniping, bombing and shelling and undoubtedly was struck by thousands of bullets during the time the volunteers held it.

Many residents of the city were appearing anxious today that hit the walls of their houses and fallen to the ground.

A heavy downpour of rain served to clean the littered streets. Work on sandbag barricades continued at a fast pace in the settlement. Japanese troops continued in control of stations in the northern area of the settlement in spite of reports that the Chinese police were "paid long" after the fighting ceased.

Three Japanese naval airplanes bombed the north station area of Chapel during the afternoon. Bussiness was at a standstill as people filled the streets and roofs watching the bombing operations and the sky was darkened with smoke from the Chapel fires.

TWO MEMBERS OF HOUSE DIE

(Continued from page one) He had been a student of the Muscle Shoals problem during the years that it had been before that committee and was conducting a hearing to formulate a bill for the disposal of the huge government properties when he became ill about a month ago.

He was removed from the committee room to his offices and thence to naval hospital where he had been since. A heart attack early today brought death before his wife could reach his bedside.

Rutherford had been in apparent good health. He was shaving when stricken and died a few minutes after. Mrs. Rutherford was with him at the time.

Quin was one of the most colorful members of the House. His appearance on the floor for a speech was the signal for members to crowd the floor and cheer. He usually began by opening his collar with characteristic gestures to drive home his points and outline his views.

The Mississippian was 59. He had been in Congress since March 4, 1913.

He was born in Amite county, Miss., and after graduating from Gillsburg Collegiate Institute and from Mississippi College, he taught school and practiced law. On Oct. 1, 1913, he married Miss Aylette B. Conner of Natchez, Miss.

Rutherford was a member of the elections, accounts, immigration, patents and pensions committees. He had taken a particular interest in immigration matters.

The Georgian was 61 years old and had served in the House since 1915. He was born in Georgia and attended Washington and Lee University and the University of Georgia. He began practicing law at Forsyth, Ga., in 1894.

After serving as mayor, solicitor of city court and in both branches of the Georgia legislature, he was elected to the National House of Representatives.

LINDBERGH IS 30 YEARS OLD

A trifle more mature, the flying colonel is in most respects just the same tall, slim youngster who speeded the heart beat of a world with his Paris flight. His light hair is just as tousled and his voice as boyish.

The last twelve-month has been an eventful one in the Lindbergh career. Twenty-thousand miles, more or less, would be a rough estimate of his year's air travels.

The whole world followed his vacation flight to the orient with only less interest than his Atlantic crossing. He can tell his son how he was feted by Eskimos, spilled into the Yangtze river and received uproariously in Japan.

He piloted the American Clipper, one of the largest American-made planes, on a trans-Caribbean flight. He even made a speech to a freshman class at Princeton University.

As for his popularity, it apparently shows no signs of waning. A process server can testify to that. He served Lindbergh with papers in a suit, boosted about it, and got punched on the jaw by a Lindbergh fan.

DEMAND THAT CHINA CEASE ALL ACTIVITIES

(Continued from page one) have been bearing the brunt of the fighting since last Friday. "In view of the undesirable menace of the Chinese in the past and the gravity of the present situation," the reply added, "the government finds it impossible to renounce mobilization or reparations for hostilities entirely. The government has no objection to entering into negotiations concerning the separation of Chinese and Japanese forces and the establishment of a neutral zone in the Chapel district if necessary."

The note was handed to Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes of the United States, Ambassador Sir Francis Lindley of Great Britain and Ambassador Giovanni Maioni of Italy.

The ambassadors were called to the foreign office at 6 P. M., and the reply was handed to them a short time later.

Following is the text of the English translation of the note supplied by the foreign office: "First, the Japanese forces at Shanghai will cease hostile acts if it is assured that the Chinese forces will immediately and completely cease their menacing and disturbing activities. If, on the contrary, the Chinese, including both the regular and non-uniformed forces, persist in such activities the Japanese government must preserve its freedom of action for its military forces.

"Second, in view of the unreliability of the Chinese in the past and the gravity of the present situation the Japanese government finds it impossible to renounce mobilization or reparations for hostilities.

"Third, the Japanese government has no objection to its consular general and commander at Shanghai entering into negotiations for an agreement concerning separation of the respective force and, if necessary, the establishment of a neutral zone in the district of Chapel.

"Fourth, while it is to be presumed that the phrase 'all pending questions between Japan and China' includes the Manchurian question, the Japanese government regards this latter as entirely separate from Shanghai affair and, moreover, as covered by a resolution of the League of Nations council on December 10, 1931.

"Furthermore, it is a settled policy of the Japanese government not to accept assistance of neutral observers or participants in the settlement of questions concerning Manchuria. For these reasons the condition embodied in paragraph 5 of the powers' note is not acceptable to the Japanese government."

(Continued from page one) passenger vessels leaving the beleaguered Chinese port are packed to more than capacity. The report said hotels also in certain areas were extremely crowded and Chinese refugees by the tens of thousands were moving in all directions.

TEN KILLED BY BLASTS ABOARD BIG OIL TANKER

Among those reported missing is Captain Joseph Rivers, 40, who was said by witnesses to have been blown from the deck when the second blast occurred.

JAPNS TRY TO USE CHINESE RAILWAY REMOVE TROOPS

"This is only a temporary measure," the statement said, "and it goes without saying that the Japanese army has not the slightest intention of infringing on the rights of the railway."
