FRANCE AND BRITAIN CLASH OVER THEORIES FOR ABOLISHING WAR

BRITAIN RAPS FRENCH STAND

Sir John Simon, British spokesman, criticizes proposal of France for arming League of Nations; Tardieu declares that until the League is armed there can be no hope of world peace

Geneva, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Great Britain and France clashed pointedly at the world disarmament conference today over two distinctly separate theories about abolishing war.

Sir John Simon, British spokesman, presented Great Britain's plan for disarmament, including abolition of submarines and gas chemical warfare, at the same time sharply criticizing the proposal of France for arming the League of Nations.

Andre Tardieu, French minister of war and head of the French delegation, who proposed the French armament plan last week, declared that until the League is armed there can be no peace in the world.

The conference must work entirely within the terms of the League covenant, he said, and the nations must be ready to join France in giving mutual pledges of assistance against aggressors before a real reduction of armaments can be realized.

Arms, Sir John Simon said are useless instruments of world peace.

The British government, he announced, will support a general limitation of armaments and the abolition of submarines and gas and chemical warfare.

He declared the British delegation would accept the former disarmament convention as the basis of the scope of the efforts of the conference, thus dissociating himself from the French project for gaining world security by arming the League itself.

It was announced during the morning that Hugh Gibson, head of the United States delegation, would not address the conference until tomorrow.

The results of the Washington and London naval conferences should be embodied in the general treaty formulated at Geneva, the British delegate continued.

Sir John summed up the British proposals thus: "We accept as a basis for our further discussions the general scheme of the draft of the disarmament convention."

Japan Makes New Move To Revise Power Treaty

Washington, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The United States looks upon the proposal to demilitarize Chinese ports as reopening the question of the partition of China and will oppose such a move.

Two Others Killed in Airplane Crashes in South During the Week-end

Atlanta, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Sixteen persons lost their lives in week-end automobile accidents in the south and two were killed in an airplane crash.

Florida led the list with five automobile fatalities. South Carolina had four, North Carolina three, Alabama two and Georgia and Virginia one each.

MAKE FINAL BUDGET DRIVE

Salvation Army Campaigners Covering Unfinished Territory Today

J. T. Clifton, general chairman, has three or four splendid teams finishing up the unfinished territory today. J. E. Winslow, Herbert Barker, Dr. K. B. Pace, Guy V. Smith, J. H. Rose and Carl Adams will finish their work today and by 6 o'clock Tuesday evening a final statement can be issued giving the total amount raised.

Chief Clark sent five colored women to the house at 519 Greene street this morning to clean the place thoroughly and get it ready for occupancy, so the Army will be able to look after the transients coming into the city after Feb. 15.

After his date all may feel free to send transients to us. Mrs. Virginia Earle is donating her service in looking after the cleaning of this home and taking charge of the workers there. All that is lacking now is to carry out a full program is the money.

It is hoped that the business men will take this carefully into consideration and contribute every dollar possible to warrant success in this new undertaking.

Mrs. Moyer, president of the King's Daughters, turned in $13.85 and Lebron Spence turned in $50.00 this morning. The total now is about $300.00. We have yet to hear from the tobacco companies, the telephone company, the school teachers under Mr. Rose, and the college faculty under Mr. Adams, also the employees of the city and post office, and three blocks are to be covered in the business section.

If the contributors will give more and make their payments three times a year instead of just giving a small donation now it will help materially in making up the budget.

The new commanding officers here have been receiving very cor-

GEO. YOUNTS HAS RESIGNED

Solicitor Gives Up Court Work After Shooting Sheriff at Lexington

Lexington, Feb. 8.—(AP)—W. F. Brinkley, Davidson county attorney resigned here today a few hours after G. A. Younce, solicitor for the district, had handed the governor his resignation following the fatal shooting early Friday of Sheriff James A. Leonard.

The board of county commissioners met, received the resignation of Brinkley and nine applications for the office of sheriff, made county attorney appointments, and then adjourned.

L. A. Martin who had held a county attorneyship with Brinkley, was reappointed and Paul C. Stoner was named to fill the position.

Lexington, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Geo. A. Younce, his resignation as solicitor of the district in the hands of Governor O. Max Gardner, today awaited a chance to exonerate himself before the bar of Justice of any blame in connection with the fatal shooting of his friend, Sheriff James A. Leonard, here early Friday.

He looked back on swift events that within 48 hours swept aside the course of his public life. Still in his thirties, he had climaxed his term in the legislature by election.

The destroyer Parrott will proceed to Nanking where the destroyers Simpson and Edsall are now riding at anchor. The Bulmer will be located at Chingkiang, 25 miles below Nanking.

More than 1150 Americans, mostly women and children, have been evacuated from Nanking.

THIEVES TAKE EARLY LUNCH

Enter Five Points Billiard Parlor, Eat and Escape With Supply of Cigarettes

Thieves entered the Five Points Billiard Parlor last night, obtained a liberal supply of cigarettes, relieved a specific gastronomic longing and made their escape.

Entering the combination billiard parlor and cafe through a back window, which police said had been left open, the thieves cooked themselves a midnight lunch and obtained all the cigarettes they would need for the next several days, without anybody knowing.

The investigation was started but had been unable to obtain a clue up to the noon hour. The thieves were believed to be a part of a band of young negroes that has been operating about town for the last two weeks, and officers held out hope of obtaining information leading to arrests in the next several days.

Congress Has Difficult Decision in the Offing

Washington, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Congress begins the third month of its session today with some difficult and critical decisions just ahead.

The highly controversial issue of direct federal financial aid to the unemployed is approaching a climax in the Senate, with a showdown Tuesday or soon after on the $375,000,000 appropriation bill sponsored by the La Follette-Costigan combination.

The big campaign for budget balancing, underway in the House, meeting a stiffening resistance from almost uncountable sources. Not only the tax-increasing program is bringing squawks but the "cut til' it hurts" policy on appropriations has unleashed a flood of protests.

FIRE WRECKS AUTO HOUSE

Charlotte Firm Suffers $125,000 Loss From Blaze Early Today

Charlotte, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Fire early today practically destroyed the Carolina Auto Supply Company's building and stock here. Damage was estimated at $125,000 by J. G. Fitzgerald, president of the concern, who said the loss was covered by insurance.

The company was the wholesale distributor for many kinds of automobile accessories. It operated branches at Spartanburg and Florence, S. C.

Firemen said the origin of the fire could not be traced but that oil and alcohol solutions stored at the rear of the building resulted in a quick spread of the flames.

For a while the fire burned in segregated spots but later the combustible materials exploded, sending showers of flaming liquids thru the entire building.

The explosions broke window glasses and fed oxygen to the flames which then went beyond control. (Continued on Page Three)

Says Smith Will Defeat Democrats' Chance of Victory

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Senator George W. Norris, Republican independent leader of Nebraska, prophesied here today that the Democratic party will "make a damn fool of itself," and said Alfred E. Smith's statement regarding presidential nomination was the beginning of what may be the party's defeat in an otherwise "cinch" election.

He passed through Memphis on his way back to Washington from Representative Quinn's funeral in Mississippi.

"The Democratic party has a remarkable record for making a damn fool of itself at a crucial time when it has the world by the tail, and a downhill pull," he said. "It is expected to repeat its usual performance," he added, as he pointed to Governor's Smith's statement. "This is truly a Democratic year and the election would be a cinch for the Democrats if there could be harmonies."

Al Smith, picturesque New Yorker, has informed Democrats he is ready to accept the presidential nomination at the national convention in Chicago in June.

BEGINS SERIES OF SERVICES

Rev. James Devery to Conduct Services at St. Peter's Catholic Church This Week

Rev. James J. Devery, Paulist Missionary from Winchester, Tenn., began a mission in St. Peter's Catholic church, Second street, at the late mass yesterday, which will continue with morning and evening services throughout the week.

The evening services which consist of The Question Box, The Rosary, Sermon, and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will begin each evening at 8 o'clock. The Question Box is an interesting feature of the mission. At the door of the church is placed a box into which persons attending the services deposit written queries concerning the Catholic's belief in practices, which the missionary answers from the platform on the following evening.

Last evening Father Devery answered questions concerning the Catholic's belief in Christ, and his attitude towards the Bible. "The Church," he said, "teaches and has always taught that the books of the Holy Bible are without exception, inspired by the Holy Ghost, have God for their author, and contain no error. The Church has always prized and defended the Scriptures; she makes copious use of them in her services and liturgy; she directs her members to read and study the sacred books; and she has solemnly decreed that no member of her fold shall remain in good standing (Continued on page four)

Fighting With New Spirit, Chinese Throw Back Japs As They Try to Extend Holdings at Woosung; Japanese Destroyers Open Fire on Village; Shells Fall Inside International Boundary

Shanghai, Tuesday, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The terrific bombardment of Chinese by the Japanese and the furious reply of Chinese guns, stopped early today with little apparent change in the position of either side.

The battle around the Chinese native quarter until midnight had attained unparalleled proportions and the property damage within the international settlement became heavy.

Chinese shells aimed at Japanese headquarters in North Careben road fell repeatedly within the settlement and their explosion inflicted much damage until the engagement stopped before 1:00 a. m.

So numerous were the shell hits around the settlement police station near the Japanese headquarters that the police were forced to retreat into the basement and sand-bag doors and windows.

Explosions had broken all the windows in the station and had torn up the ground about it. The police force had been holding their headquarters for ten days in the face of frequent shell fire, but last night's action was the worst they had yet faced.

As the firing across Chapel petered out early this morning, as it usually does a little after midnight, Chinese headquarters announced that a machine gun section had moved down 500 Japanese during the day's engagement.

It appeared that the Chinese had led the enemy into a trap, lying quietly behind their sandbag barricades while the Japanese pushed out an advance column.

They let the column get deep into Chinese territory then opened up on them from in front and on both flanks. It was a slaughter.

Only a handful of survivors were able to get out and these fled as hard as they could run, headquarters said.

Shanghai, China, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Fighting with a spirit they had not hitherto exhibited, the Chinese army today repulsed a Japanese attack on the forts at Woosung and renewed the bombardment of the enemy Bluejackets holding Hong-kew.

The Japanese already had occupied a part of Woosung village, 18 miles down the Whangpo from the city, but when they tried to extend their holdings the Chinese threw them back.

Thereupon nine Japanese destroyers opened up from the river and dropped shells in the village. Over in Chapel, where things were quiet in the morning, the Chinese unlimbered their trench mortars late in the afternoon and began shelling Shangkwai.

The Japanese replied with their artillery and sent a detachment of Bluejackets into action with rifles and machine guns. The firing kept up for three hours and some of the shells fell inside the international settlement.

The British volunteers, strung along the settlements' boundary near the Chapel north station, blocked a Japanese flank attack. The Japanese moved along Ranser road, trying to get around a British "pillbox." If they had succeeded they could have gone along the Elgin road and fallen upon the Chinese rear.

But the British threw up a sand-bag barricade at the end of Ranser road and headed them off. It blocked the movement, but it left the British in a delicate position, facing the Japanese in one direction and the Chinese in the other.

Thus, while the Japanese big push was on, it had fallen far short of its objective.

Instead of sweeping across Woosung yesterday and crushing the Chinese in Chapel, tonight the Japanese faced steadily increasing (Continued on Page Three)

JAMES-HARRIS.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Harris, who reside near Greenville, was the scene of a lovely marriage Saturday afternoon, Feb. 6, at three o'clock when their daughter Susie Brown, became the bride of Mr. David Solomon James of Stokes.

Fragrant long leaf pine furnished an appropriate and beautiful background for golden jonquils. The glow from many candles in tall candelabra effectively entwined with ivy lent an air of charm and dignity to the simple ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. W. A. Woodard of Winterville.

The bride and groom entered to the strains of Wagner's ever beautiful wedding chorus from "Lohengrin," played by Miss Nannie Roy Tucker of Winterville. During the marriage service she softly played "To a Wild Rose," using as the concluding number Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

The bride was lovely in a tailored blue suit with matching accessories. She carried a bouquet of daffodils centered with pansies and bordered with lacy fern.

After receiving the good wishes of the large number of friends gathered to witness the marriage, Mr. and Mrs. James left for a brief honeymoon.

The vivacious and attractive bride has a host of friends throughout the county to whom her wedding will be of interest and the occasion for sincere good wishes.

WOMAN'S CLUB TO HONOR WASHINGTON

The Woman's Club will participate in the nation-wide celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington. For the past year the program committee of the club has been planning to participate in this celebration. During the month of February every program of the club will have as its main thought something about George Washington or his times.

One of the chief features of the Washington Bicentennial is tree planting and the local club has done extensive work along that line for the past year. Under the direction of the Garden Club more than 500 trees were planted in the town of Greenville last spring and during the month of November more than 1,000 trees were planted on the Sallee Southall Colten Drive under the supervision of the club. While this drive was planted as a special memorial to Mrs. Cotten it was also planted as a memorial to George Washington and has been so registered with the American Tree Association.

On Tuesday night, Feb. 9, the Literature department will present Dr. Hugh T. Lefler, member of the State College faculty of Raleigh, who will make an address on Washington. Dr. Lefler is well known in North Carolina for his historical and biographical addresses and the club is anticipating his visit with much pleasure. On this same program will be several types of music that were popular in the time of Washington.

On Feb. 23 another Washington program will be given. This program will be varied and will consist of music, dances and other forms of amusement popular in colonial days.

The various civic clubs have been especially invited to hear Dr. Lefler on Tuesday evening at 7:30 and the members of the Woman's Club will be glad to have everyone who is interested attend this meeting.

Durham merchants contributed 20 prizes for the party given here, and half of them were auctioned. There were no expenses involved in giving the party for everybody, even the negro servants, contributed their services free.

JAPANESE BOMBARDED WITH TRENCH MORTARS

opposition on the whole 20 mile front from Chapel to Woomung. Japanese bluejackets and soldiers totalling about 3,000 were just about where they were at the beginning of the Woomung action.

They still were strung out along the western bank of Woomung creek the first hurdle before they can get into Woomung City. The city, in turn, is a natural barrier to any advance against the forts which are on seaward side of the city, defying the best efforts of the Japanese destroyers to put them out of action.

The firing in Chapel was an incessant roar described by some of the volunteer outposts in the international settlement as the heaviest they had heard since the hostilities began ten days ago.

After three hours of steady bombardment the engagement appeared to move in a northeasterly direction from the strategic Chapel railway station, and there were indications that the Chinese were driving the enemy back.

Foreign residents of the settlement entered a strong protest against Japanese airplanes today, however, with Edwin S. Cunningham, United States consul general dean of the consular corps here, asking that the Japanese airplanes be forbidden to fly over the foreign quarter.

The request of the foreign residents was presented to Consul General Cunningham by Brigadier General E. H. MacNaughton, chairman of the settlement's municipal council. He urged that the airplane flights over the quarter endangered the life and property of residents by drawing the fire of the Chinese guns toward the settlement.

There was only desultory machine gun and rifle fire over Chapel but fire destroyed a number of foreign-style villas and other buildings on Kingwan road in the no man's land to the north of the district. This gave the Japanese an uninterrupted view of the Chinese front and the country toward Kiangwan and Woomung.

A thousand valuable race horses, owned by foreigners and wealthy Chinese, were left to face starvation when their Chinese attendants fled from the international recreation club at Kiangwan when Japanese troops appeared nearby. The appearance of armored cars laden with Bluejackets on the way to the front at Woomung was too much for the frightened coolies.

United States Army officials said there was a feeling that American infantry troops might be stationed here permanently from now on as an added protection to American business interests. Only Marines have been stationed here up to now.

Preparations were made by the newly arrived United States Army troops for an extended stay. Officers made arrangements to send Manila for their families and hotels said provisions was made for long-term accommodations.

A wholesale exodus of Japanese from Shanghai has reduced the Japanese population by nearly 20 per cent and the flight continued today. Japanese consular authorities estimated that about 4,000 Japanese have left the city since the fighting began every ship bound for Japanese ports had been crowded with fugitives, many of whom came from interior cities. A large group arrived today from Nanking, Hankow and Wuhu.

Japanese 6-inch guns were in action again today and Japanese headquarters intimated they planned an attack that would empty Chapel within 24 hours. A reliable report said they had warned the Chinese command still larger guns would be brought up if they did not withdraw tomorrow.

Just what the Japanese intended to do could not be learned but foreign observers thought the reported warning meant that naval guns of longer range would be trained on Chapel and the northern area called Paoshan.

Foreign military observers agreed tonight, as one of them expressed it, that "the Japanese don't realize the tremendous job they have taken on in trying to drive the Chinese out of Chapel with the available Japanese force."

ABOUT TOWN

While news reports from China indicate the Japanese are continuing to push warfare against the Chinese, a cablegram received by a local tobacco firm the last of the past week indicated conditions at Shanghai were more brighter.

The Salvation Army budget campaign started last week being continued today and possibly tomorrow.

The extension was considered advisable as result of bad weather the first two days of the drive and the inability of committees to make their canvass among the business people.

If the entire amount of the budget is raised the organization plans to increase its activities here this year, and will attempt to reach heretofore untouched sources of human life.

The unprovoked attack upon the American mission house at Shanghai will no doubt receive direct protests filed by this and other governments since the beginning of the conflict.

So long as the Japs stay within Chinese territory they may be safe, but when they cross the international boundary and begin fooling with property of other nations they are treading on dangerous ground.

Along with this information came the announcement that Japan is sending additional forces to China to protect its own interests as well as those of other powers.

This undoubtedly is another blind erected by the government in an effort to hold off more drastic action by the big powers of the world.

Thursday, Feb. 11th, has been designated as "Dollar Day" in Greenville, and participating merchants are planning to offer some of the outstanding bargains of the year.

"Dollar Day," a semi-annual event, is always of interest to the people of this great territory because they have learned from past experience that the merchants offer only the latest and most up-to-date goods to the thousands of people who visit the city to inspect the values ranging as high as $100 and to say the shoppers were pleased would be expressing the matter mildly.

Held by Japanese

Noah A. Johnson of Mississippi, a private in the marines stationed at Shanghai, was reported held by the Japanese. They charge him with sniping.

multitude that will visit the city during he day and take advantage of the great harvest of bargains.

Democrats desiring to do their part in the national campaign have been urged by W. E. Hooks, chairman of the Pitt County Victory Drive to contribute liberally to the cause.

Three times recently the county chairman has sent out his appeal to the public and hope was expressed that Pitt county should go over the top in this as in other drives.

The national organization is attempting to raise $1,500,000 with which to settle its obligations and to defray expenses of the coming campaign. This will put the party on even footing with the world and enable it to wage a more vigorous campaign.

It takes money to run a political campaign just like it does for anything else and it is hoped those interested in the success of the party will take advantage of this opportunity offered through the Victory Fund Drive.

AL SMITH READY TO RUN FOR PRESIDENCY AGAIN (Continued from Page One) The statement itself was widely construed in editorial comment as in effect, a thrust against the candidacy of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York—the man who nominated Smith for the presidential nomination at the 1928 Democratic national convention and sent him forward to the contest of votes as the "happy warrior" of Democracy.

Governor Roosevelt declined to comment. So also did Governor Ritchie, an avowed candidate, Speaker Garner and Newton D. Baker, each of whom has been mentioned as a presidential possibility.

Smith's statement said: "So many inquiries have come to me from friends throughout the country who worked for and believe in me, as to my attitude in the present political situation, that I feel that I owe it to my friends and to the millions of men and women who supported me so loyally in 1928 to make my position clear.

"If the Democratic national convention should decide that it wants me to lead, I will make the light; but I will not, make a pre-convention campaign to secure the support of delegate.

"By action of the Democratic national convention of 1928 I am the leader of my party in the nation. With a full sense of the responsibility thereby imposed, I shall not in advance of the convention either support or oppose the candidacy of any aspirant for the nomination."

He was asked if he would forbid the use of his name in states that do not require the consent of a candidate for nomination, stop anyone from doing anything," he said. "Will you support any candidate selection by the convention?" "I am a Democrat. That is your answer."

"Does this permit your friends to enter your name in various state primaries?" "I will answer that by repeating I'll make no pre-convention campaign. Smith declined to discuss any party issues. Asked what he thought the principal issue of the campaign would be he said: "I don't know."

The consensus of political comment was that the Smith statement likely will mean a deadlock of the national Democratic convention at Chicago. Smith advocates pointed out that 770 votes are necessary to nominate, and 285 are enough to block nomination. Many viewed the Smith statement as having the effect of putting him forward as an actual candidate, though the wording of the statement disavows this.

Republicans generally expressed elation, believing a fight within the Democratic party would bolster Republican chances at the election. In his home state of New York, Smith found the press comment mixed. The New York Times informed Smith was suffering from "a bad case of... presidential," and added: "Even the most blindly complacent champion of Governor Roosevelt must see that the entrance of Smith into the contest for the presidency heavily clouds the governor's own prospects." The Times further believes that the Smith statement will mark a "revival of those religious prejudices which so distressed thoughtful men in 1928."

The Herald-Tribune noted Smith's "frankness and directness" to be "in sharp contrast with the pussy-footing and evasive tactics of Franklin D. Roosevelt." "No man," the Herald-Tribune said, "will be nominated against his (Smith's) wishes. That seems certain."

The reports from the Far East enumerated Shanghai, Canton, Hankow, Tientsin, and Tientsin among the ports Japan wished demilitarized.

Tokyo, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Japan's new move to revise the nine-power pact and establish neutral zones around China's chief commercial centers should convince the powers, a government spokesman said today, that Japan "has no intention of attempting any measure of control in China proper except in concert with the other powers."

Japanese residents at Shanghai have been asking for establishment of a special Japanese concession there, he said, but the government is actively opposed to any such undertaking, believing that security and stability are to be obtained by the establishment of a demilitarized neutral zone around that city.

As for American criticism of Japan's action in shelling the forts at Woosung, the spokesman asserted that was a military necessity because it would have been dangerous to transport troops through the Woosung narrows, as long as the forts were intact.

Further than that, he said, Woosung is the best place to land large bodies of troops if further disturbances in the international settlement are to be avoided.

Informal efforts were still going on today between the foreign office and the British and American ambassadors to find a formula for restoration of peace at Shanghai through the withdrawal of both Chinese and Japanese forces.

These officials were dealing only with the problem at Shanghai, recognizing that the action at Woosung constitutes still another problem.

The government spokesman, discussing Japan's refusal to permit foreign participation in negotiations regarding Manchuria, said "It is to be expected that the principal powers concerned will take part in negotiations concerning the situation at Shanghai. We have no desire to exclude the other powers from those negotiations."

The lecturer began his defence of the Catholic belief in the doctrine of Christ's divinity with an argument drawn from the admissions world is forced to make concerning the Saviour's blameless character. "They are," said the speaker, "constrained to admit that Jesus was the truest and the most truthful of all beings who ever lived upon this earth. He was in fact the world's great truth teller.

For this He born and to this end came He into the world to bear witness to the truth. His wisdom and his veracity gave final authority to his word, for we can not doubt a witness who knows the facts and reports them truthfully. Christ's testimony, therefore can not be questioned or denied.

What then does this witness say of Himself? Christ claimed to be God. He asserted that He is one with the Father, that He possesses the same power and authority. He did the work of God; He spoke as God, commanded as God, pardoned as God, and declared that he would rise from the tomb and appear at the end of the world to judge the living and the dead. He claimed authority never before assumed by any teacher when He demanded the absolute obedience and homage of his followers. To be His disciple it was necessary to leave the world and follow Him. Those who heard His claims in many instances cried out: "Thou art Christ, the Son of the living God."

They are right indeed who bear witness to the pure heart, the sublime wisdom, and the blameless conscience of Him who uttered those claims. But this is not enough. They must, if they be logical and consistent, go the whole way and admit the truth of His claims, or give the lie to their eloquent praise of His sublime character. Surely the wisest, the best, and the most truthful of beings could not at the same time be the most deceitful of all, but such Christ would be if knowing that he were only man He claimed to be God.

Christ's divinity is proven also by the works which He wrought in confirmation of His claims. Think of the wonders which he performed. Could a mere human being of His own powers and in His own name still the storm. No, God alone has such power over the wind and the waves and the storm. Then Christ was God for He still the storm and calmed the wind and the waves. Can any man of his own power bring the dead back to life? The answer is that God and He alone has such power over death. Christ then manifested His divine nature by raising the dead and calling the decomposing corpse from the tomb. By His works, therefore, as well as by His word, does our Savior prove that He is God. In his sermon on "What is Man?" the missionary spoke of the spiritual character, the nobility and the immortality of the human soul, and told His hearers of the supreme duty of the Christian, to save his soul from sin and to ennoble it by the acquisition of divine grace and the practice of virtue. The missionary's subject this evening will be "The Supreme Crime." Services begin at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend.

YOUTH HELD FOR SLAYING

The slaying occurred on the Wooten farm, near House Station, yesterday morning, and officers today had been unable to establish any motive for the crime.

Langley, Wilson and two other youths were playing around Wilson's home yesterday when the shooting occurred. Wilson was said to have obtained a shotgun from a rack in the house and chased the boys around the house.

The boy carried the gun back into the house and Langley sat down in the yard to clean some trousers. Wilson came to the doorway, the gun was discharged, and the entire load took effect in Langley's side, producing death almost instantly.

Wilson was said to have replaced the gun on the rack and fled. He was later taken in custody by officers and questioned. He denied any knowledge of the shooting at first, but the two other youths who had been held as material witnesses, told the officers how it happened.

Wilson's mother was also said to have attempted to establish an alibi by asserting the boys knew nothing of the shooting, but this was shattered, completely when the other two youths gave their version of the occurrence.

Officers had not been able to determine today what to do with Wilson, although he was held in jail awaiting disposition. It was not decided whether he would be given a preliminary hearing or turned over to juvenile court authorities.

Officers said Wilson apparently did not realize the seriousness of the charge against him. He was said to have laughed several times while being grilled. He was considered either a calloused criminal or had not actually realized the full import of the crime he was alleged to have committed.

DEMOCRATS FACE CLASSIC CONFLICT OVER PRESIDENT

The Washington comment on Smith's declaration showed no new support for him and a good many of his 1928 followers aligned in opposition. Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who ran for the vice-presidency beside Smith, merely commented that the New Yorkers were wise to say he would not campaign for his own nomination "or support or oppose their candidates for that distinction."

The brunt of the pro-Smith drive, which will show immediately in a strong campaign to collect delegates, principally in New England and the east, will fall on the hitherto runaway candidacy of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Until the Smith declaration with its threat of taking votes in logical Roosevelt territory, the New York state governor and long-time Smith ally was gathering support at a rate that was heading for nomination by acclamation. Only favorite sons contested, one picking up a block of votes here, another there. Hardly a one had much show of support outside his own state.

Now these favorite son commitments are destined to play an important part. The Smith supporters count upon them to absorb enough of the votes beyond their own reach to hold Roosevelt below the necessary two-thirds strength needed to nominate. Thus the Smith vote, if employed, and the favorite-son vote combined would exercise, not the power to nominate, but the power to veto.

In the favorite son column now appear 254 of the convention's 1,154 voters: Illinois for Lewis, Mary land for Ritchie, Missouri for Reed, Ohio for White, Oklahoma for Murray, Texas for Garner, and Virginia for Byrd.

The Smith men are trying principally for 278 votes: New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Connecticut, and Rhode Island.

Success of their project is not conceded by any means. Some of Washington's expert politicians insist Roosevelt's drive has gone too far, although others are convinced Smith has dealt his successor at Albany a serious blow.

In a month or two serious tests of strength between the men will come. New Hampshire's March 8 primary may yield no real conflict, but April 5 will find New York authoritative forecast. Massachusetts and Pennsylvania primaries come April 26, with the first at least virtually certain of affording a clearcut Smith-Roosevelt battle. New Jersey will decide May 17, Connecticut, Rhode Island, and Delaware are non-primary states in the northeastern block which Smith forces count on, though not uncontested.

Among those mentioned as possible nominees to succeed Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States supreme court are, left to right: Senator Sam G. Bratton of New Mexico, Attorney General William D. Mitchell and Federal Judge William S. Kenyon of Iowa, a member of the Wickersham commission.

Younce and W. F. Brinkley, chairman of the county Democratic executive committee, who had spent Thursday evening with the sheriff, disclaimed to a coroner's jury any knowledge of who killed Sheriff Leonard. The jury blamed Neal Wimmer, 18, of Roanoke, Va., who testified the sheriff shot and wounded him in an argument over a wrecked automobile, but said he did not know who killed Leonard.

With the coroner's verdict, Younce went to his home in Greensboro. Twenty-four hours later he returned here, asked that the coroner hold another hearing and related that Leonard was killed as he grappled with him for possession of the gun after Wimmer was shot.

The jury found Leonard's death was caused by Younce and Brinkley and put each under $10,000 bond for the grand jury.

Brinkley denied any part in the death, but admitted he, Younce and Leonard had been drinking together and said "whiskey was the underlying cause of the trouble."

Yesterday Younce stood with bowed head as final rites were held for Leonard, then went home and sent his resignation to Governor Gardner who accepted it immediately.

Wimmer and E. F. Sullivan of Palatka, Fla., were ordered put under $2,000 bond as witnesses by the coroner's jury. The two men were hauling fruit from Virginia to Florida with a truck when they stopped and picked up Leonard. Younce and Brinkley after their automobile was wrecked near here early Friday. The sheriff charged the truck caused the wreck and the argument which led to the shooting of Wimmer began.

Sullivan testified he ran when the sheriff drew his gun and did not know how Leonard was killed. A regular term of criminal court will not be held here for several weeks, but Governor Gardner is expected to order a special term. Meanwhile there was considerable speculation over the appointment of a solicitor.

COLL KILLED BY GANGSTER

A machine gunner chopped him down coolly and deliberately in a West 23rd street drug store.

A single slug tore away the nose of the 24-year-old hoodlum so often had turned up at his deadly rival, "Dutch" Schultz, and the Schultz beer-peddling domination in the Bronx. A line of lead, moving like a sabre, cut through the flashy coat and vest, and into his chest.

No murder more carefully planned has been done in New York in years. The killer entered the little drug store (recently acquitted of the "baby murder" charge growing out of the Michael Vengali slaying last summer) stood in a phone booth at the rear. Several customers were in the place.

paid him no heed. Standing within a few feet of the phone booth, the man lifted the barrel of the machine gun, rested it carefully on his left arm and pulled the trigger.

It was seconds only for those who saw it—and eternity for Vincent. His body slid down, almost doubling up, and wedged in the booth near the floor.

The slayer backed out of the store. A companion, armed with a machine gun, was awaiting him there at the door of a sedan, at the wheel of which was a third man. They drove away, going west to Eighth avenue and then north.

A patrolman saw them and gave pursuit in a commandeered car. Another officer, stationed at Eighth avenue and West 23rd street, joined in the chase in another machine. Each fired at the racing car, but ineffectually. The killer's car was lost in traffic at Eighth avenue and 50th street.

Boy Crazy

By GRACE PERKINS
AUTHOR OF "PERSONAL MAID"

SYNOPSIS: An unexpected elopement snatches Hope Ross from her position as the favorite of Westchester county's younger social set and places her in the responsible position of being Dickey Dale's Dickey. Dickey is still in college, but he plans to stop studying to write plays or work with his father, "Hickey," a theatrical manager. Hope is tractable for the first time in her life, and plans seriously for their future. But her father probably will not be as tractable when he hears of the marriage. He disapproves of Hickey and has more ambitious plans for Hope. Mrs. Ross has snubbed Dickey, and her attitude was the spark that kindled Hope's sudden acceptance of Dickey's proposal. After leaving the justice of the peace, Hope and Dickey motor along in the moonlight, planning how to break the news to their relatives. Hope sees a white cat, which she must take along.

Chapter 13

ARIOT IN THE MORNING
By some supreme magic one was able to buy a white Persian kitten, age six weeks, for nine dollars.

This, explained Dickey, only because the old lady had once been in love herself, and her old man had given her a cat when she was just a year married and that was how she had started in the business!

Greatly did Hope and Dickey appreciate this largess. Especially since Hope truly understood the value of such a "gift." The old lady, in the man's coat, and the enigmatical curl-poppers, handed over the white kitten, along with considerable advice; and Dickey manfully handed over nine perfectly good dollars.

Back in the car, Hope snuggled the white kitten inside her white velvet wrap, and talked roofoo talk to it. Again they started off, concerned now only with reaching the hotel, and naming their prize. Sassy was the ultimate choice for the owner of blue-blue eyes and pisky nose. So Sassy it was named, christened with a series of kisses by Hope.

The goggled man behind the desk of the only decent hotel in town was very business-like.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Hickson Dale, wrote Dickey with stiff, chilled fingers.

Laden with packages, Dickey accompanied Hope up to their room and bath (ten dollars per night, said the business-like young man, and somehow one didn't argue with him), and left Hope and Sassy while he cruised around in search of a cheap garage. Thankful to find any garage open at that hour, Making a deal, as only such ingenious youths as Dickey could dream of making. Offering his old spare tire as payment for overnight rent for his car, a tankful of gas, and whatever over in cash he might jaw the gaseman into. Which amounted to five dollars.

What good is five dollars when you've hired a room at ten, and when two young people must eat in the morning, and do some telephoning to boot?

But five dollars is five dollars and Dickey accepted and pocketed it with a disappointed sigh.

Back in the room he found Hope snuggled under her bedcovers, her kitten cuddled in the pillow beside her.

"I was so hungry," she greeted him. "I had to take some of the milk. You can use the bathroom glass now."

"Have some more milk," he suggested, seating himself on the bed beside her. "I'll drink out of the bottle. Gimme a cookie."

"I called up Dad," Hope confessed wide-eyed. "But only the cook answered. She said Dad was not in. He was out searching for me. Mama was in hysterics in the bathroom so I didn't want to disturb her. I talked to Goody I told her to tell the folks I was married and not to worry about me. Goody was a fit to be tied!"

"Gosh," rumbled Dickey through a mouthful of fle newton.

"I wouldn't tell her where I was," Hope went on. "But I told her I was very happy, and had a kitten, and I'd be home in the mornin', and for her to tell Papa not to worry about me."

They marched thoughtfully a moment.

"Of course," said the bride, urging herself to face facts, "you know there'll be a riot in the mornin'. Don't you? You know, there will! We've got to stick together Dickey."

"You said it. Maybe I better phone Hickey. He can fix things always. Yuh, I'll phone Hickey—in the mornin'!"

and his chucklin congratulations. With a grand ease that made Hope's eyes wistful, Dickey told his father of their predicament. No clothes—and Hope was afraid to phone Goody to jump in the car and bring her some, because Hope just new her family would be deaf, dumb, and blind with rage and fury.

Well, said Hickey gravely into the phone, what did they expect? He would phone Hope's father at once and ease up the situation. Certainly! He would have a talk with Mr. Ross. At his office, or at his home; wherever he could find him. Well, if Hope was terrified at the thought of going home, perhaps it would be best for them to come right to Hickey's apartment. He'd wait and meet them there. Sure, he'd fix it up some way. They had been very naughty kids, and when he got around to it he'd be furious himself a bit.

What? They owed about twelve dollars at the hotel and couldn't pay it? Well, connect him with the manager. Guess he'd listen to J. Hickson Dale, the producer, and trust his son for twelve dollars. A check would be in the mail for the hotel within ten minutes.

Now, is there anything else? What? Oh well, wasn't there some shop near by where Hope could buy a few togs? Well, let him speak to the manager of the hotel.

Thanks, Aw, cut it. How many times did he have a son getting married? How many sons did he have to celebrate over? How many little girls like Hope were there in the world to welcome as a daughter? All his life Hickey had wanted a daughter.

For the sake of our dead aunt, behave yourself and don't throw around any more twelve dollares. Meanwhile he'd be busy talking to the Ross family and fixing things. Sure. God bless you, and all that.

Dickey's eyes were foolishly red around the rims when he hung up. "Boy," he said huskily. "That's a Pop!"

"I'll say!" breathed Hope with awed admiration. "Do you think he can really fix it, Dickey? My father did like him, you know, when he met him up at Placid."

"Everybody likes Hickey," Dickey rose and flung out his arms with a stretching gesture that bought his muscles into play.

Hope watched him, idly. But in that moment she formed a picture of her boy-husband that was to recur to her waking and sleeping—for many, many years.

"Sure, Hickey can fix it," Dickey stooped over and kissed her. "Eat that omelette, and forget worries. Hickey can fix anything. Say, you ought to see him at a dress rehearsal the night before a Broadway opening. The orchestra leader can have the croup, the leading lady be laid up in a hospital, and the chorus be three sizes too small for their costumes—and Hickey'll fix it. He'll fix it and have an opening that all New York will buzz about."

"Of course, if he manages Papa." Hope sighed, as she poured some cream on a saucer for Sassy. "then everything's all right. Mama will have hysterics for weeks. Just on general principles. Maybe she'll never like you, Dickey. She may even cut me out of her will. But if Papa accepts things, why, I don't really worry."

(Copyright, Grace Perkins)
But if Mr. Ross doesn't accept things—there will be rocks ahead. Hickey, expresses himself about the marriage tomorrow.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Cotton opened barely steady today at a decline of 1 to 4 points on southern and local selling, promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables. May sold at 6.81.

Trade interests were buyers, believed to be partly for foreign account, but the selling continued and prices were barely steady at the end of the first half hour with active months showing net losses of about 4 to 6 points. March sold off to 6.61 and October 7.17.

A moderate demand was reported for cotton cloths and yarns in Manchester.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Domestic wheat, a bearish constriction placed upon Washington reports suggesting a world surplus of 790,000 bushels of wheat, all grain prices went lower today.

A decrease of 452,000 bushels in this week's domestic visible supply of wheat was ignored. One feature of wheat trading was selling off futures here against purchases at Winnipeg.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The downward drift in share values was resumed today, after a brief upturn in the early trading, and several prominent issues registered new bottom levels for the bear cycle.

Offerings were again light, but with weekend business and trade reports still of an uninspiring character, there appeared to be nothing to check the decline save occasional short covering.

A ripple of covering passed over the market in the first hour, causing several upturns of a point or so, but thereafter, the trend was generally downward. Tobaccos, coppers, farm implements and rails were notably heavy. J. I. Case common dropped 3, and the preferred about 10, to new lows. The American Tobacco and Liggett and Myers Class "B" shares lost about 2 points. Santa Fe declined 3, and O and O. S. to new bottom prices. Other shares off a point or so to new lows included International Harvester, DuPont, American Smelt and How sound. U. S. Steel rose 1, then slipped back. General motors was about steady.

The stock exchanges monthly tabulation of the short position, showing a fair increase for January may have prompted the early covering. The short position on Feb. 7 was reported at 3,600,265 shares a gain of 716,193 shares over Jan. 1. While brokerage quarters generally were not inclined to regard the increase in the short position as particularly impressive, the indicated improvement in the market was about steady.

The selling of the tobaccos was coupled with brokerage house gossip to the effect that the January cigarette sales figures would show a modest decline.
