First Founders Day Is Celebrated By E. C. T. C. With Inspiring Program

S. J. EVERETT MAIN SPEAKER

Scores of Alumnae in Attendance as Institution Pays Tribute to Men who Took Prominent Part in Making College Possible; Dr. Wright Also Speaks; Banquet Follows Main Exercises of Morning.

Paying glowing tribute to the men who used their influence in the establishment of the East Carolina Teachers College here, S. J. Everett, Greenville attorney, delivered the principal address at the celebration of Founders Day by the college today.

The speaker emphasized the activities of the late Governor Thomas Jordan Jarvis, William Henry Rasdale and Senator James Lawson Fleming who visualized the need of the college, and then brought every influence to bear in its behalf.

The celebration, which assumed the form of a home-coming, was attended by many alumnae and was participated in by the faculty, student body, officers of the administration, board of trustees and friends of the college.

The exercises will be held each year from now on and will take place on the Saturday closest to March 8th, the day on which the school was founded 25 years ago.

On the stage were R. J. Slay, master of ceremonies; President Robert H. Wright, S. J. Everett, members of the faculty and school board. At present there are sixty-five members of the faculty, back in 1907 there were only eleven, five of whom were present at this first college reunion.

After the singing of "The Old North State," Dr. Slay, professor of science at the college, told very briefly why we were having a Founder's Day after all these years and why this particular time was chosen. We have a Founder's Day he said, to recall to our minds the deeds of those who made this institution possible. It is on March 5th this year so that the Alumnae may find it easier to come.

J. Y. Joyner, a member of the board of trustees, led in the devotional activities. Mr. Joyner has been connected with the college since its founding, and is well known to both the faculty and student body as he has spoken here a good many times in the past and is always welcomed heartily.

The student body stood then and sang "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," a parody on "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys are Marching." The words for this song were written by Miss Jenkins, a member of the English department since the founding of the Teachers College. This special adaptation of the song inspired both teachers-in-the-field and the student body to work for the honor and glory of the school.

GOVERNORS OF 10 STATES MEET

Henry (Red) Johnson, Suitor of Betty Gow, the Lindbergh Nurse, Still Being Questioned at Hartford; Auto with Two Men and Baby Stops in Massachusetts and Changes License Plates.

By SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN Trenton, N. J., March 5.—(AP)—After conferring with police officials of ten states and the federal government, Governor A. Harry Moore announced today that he was expected the kidnapped Lindbergh baby would soon be restored unharmed to its parents.

The governor's statement, issued some time after the conference was concluded, follows: "It is the general opinion of those who have given the fullest consideration to this matter, that in the kidnapping crime that it has been committed by amateurs and not by professional criminals. It bears none of the earmarks of those practiced in crime, even though the result has been successfully achieved."

"Police of every state in the Union and the long arm of the federal government are united in the search for the criminals and the restoration of the child to its parents. It is our belief that with this knowledge the kidnapers will soon recognize that their only hope for successful flight and safety lies in their giving up the child by some method that will assure his safe and uninjured return. So long as they retain the child they are in constant danger."

"Its destruction would enormously increase their guilt, their danger, and their certain ultimate retribution to the law and avenging justice."

"It is our belief and hope that they will immediately deposit the child in some safe place, and by prompt notice to the police or Colonel Lindbergh personally enable it to be returned in safety to its parents."

"This they will do, it is thought, to relieve themselves from what they must see as a constant embarrassment to their freedom of movement and a hope less drag on their efforts at flight."

Hopewell, N. J., Mar. 5.—(AP)—The Lindbergh baby, stolen from its crib last Tuesday night, still was missing today and the kidnapers had not yet broken their ominous silence.

Officials of 10 states gathered in Trenton with a representative of the government assigned by President Hoover himself to arrange details of a concerted campaign to restore the baby to his famous flying parents.

In Hartford, Conn., Henry (Red) Johnson, a suitor of Betty Gow, the missing baby's nurse, was held for questioning.

New Jersey state police, who had examined Miss Gow at length and exonerated her of any connection with the kidnapping, announced they were not interested in Johnson. They said he was detained at the request of the chief of police at Englewood, N. J., for reasons unknown to them.

New York City police, however, searched a rooming house which had been Johnson's home and where his brother still lives. The brother said Johnson was deeply in love with Miss Gow. An Englewood landlady said that Johnson had been in her rooming house Tuesday night, when the baby was stolen, but she couldn't remember if he'd been in all evening.

An automobile containing three men and a baby for which New England police were searching stopped at Weathersfield, Mass., and changed license plates. A letter mailed from Hartford to Mrs. Lindbergh was not intercepted by police and they said today (Continued on Page Three)

INCOME TAXES DUE MARCH 15

State Expects to Collect $7,200,000 from Incomes in N. C. this Year.

Raleigh, March 5.—(AP)—Some 60,000 North Carolinians are now laboring over income tax returns from which the state hopes to collect $7,200,000 in revenue.

The blanks were sent out some time ago and are due March 15.

Last year approximately the same number of people and corporations paid the state $5,500,000 as a general upward revision of the income tax schedule, the 1931 General Assembly sought to increase the income from this source to $9,022,000. Business conditions that followed, however, led the budget bureau to lower the estimate of revenue anticipated until today it is $7,200,000.

How well the Budget Bureau's estimate is upheld by actual payments will largely determine whether a special session of the Legislature must be called.

Salaries have been slashed twice for an aggregate cut of 20 per cent and departmental appropriations have been reduced to absorb a large part of the diminished estimate. Other tax collections are not coming up to the estimates and the state is anticipating a deficit of about $5,000,000 for the current biennium.

ABOUT TOWN

Founders Day is being observed by East Carolina Teachers College today, and those who took part in the early life of the institution were duly honored.

It was fitting the occasion should be held in view of the achievement of the institution during its twenty-five years of service to the young people of this and other states, and members of the faculty are to be congratulated upon what they have done to gain such nation-wide recognition.

East Carolina Teachers College has risen to great heights in the training of young people for participation in the field of education, and Greenville and the people of the state as a whole are proud of the fine record of service.

It is impossible to place a value on the work of institutions of this kind. They not only fit young men and women for life's great field of service, but broaden their perspective so that they may prove an inspiration to the lives of countless young people who come under their influence after they leave school. North Carolina schools have shown remarkable progress since the founding of the Teachers College, and it will be said without fear of contradiction that the high ideals and efficient training received by young women in school here contributed immensely to progress of state-wide education.

The success which has crowned the efforts of the institution is due largely to the unremitting toil and sacrifice on the part of the president, Dr. Robert H. Wright. Obtaining a wealth of experience in other fields of education, Dr. Wright converted the college into the present enviable reputation enjoyed by the college is the outgrowth of his whole-hearted efforts and those of his associates.

While the college, like all other educational institutions of the state has been dealt a staggering blow by the economic condition of the country at this time, its efficiency has not been impaired and it stands ready to continue rendering unsurpassed service to young people whose visions of greater achievement are moving them along with impelling, irresistible force.

Greenville is proud of the fact that it is the seat of a school that has received such universal recognition, and its citizens will forever strive to do their bit to make continued expansion of the college not only a possibility but an actuality.

M. K. Blount announced today he would not be a candidate for the State Senate. Senator Blount has served the county for three terms, and during that time rendered service which he believed to be for the best interest of the people he was elected to serve.

In announcing intention not to seek re-election, Mr. Blount called attention to the 15-cent ad valorem tax on land for support of the six-months school law, and declared "no man should be elected to the legislature who is not willing to carry on the fight for elimination of this tax."

He advocated tapping those sources which have not been touched and are able to bear their part of the tax burden for the operation of the schools. "If the past legislature had done this," Senator Blount said, "we would not now be faced by a large deficit, nor would the credit of the state be imperiled as it is today."

The same sentiment is being expressed by other leaders of public thought of the state, and candidates who face the hurdle in the next election may be sure they will be defeated if they do not rally to support of the movement having as its purpose the lifting of the tax burden from the shoulders of oppressed landowners.

Senator Blount has presented much food for thought in announcement of his retirement from this branch of political service, and that he will receive due consideration from those who realize the necessity for the proposed change is the belief of those who have watched

Kitty Frew

By Jane Abbott

SYNOPSIS: "Gar, I'm terribly scared, coming here," Kitty Frew tells her new young husband when he brings her to his pretentious home after a brief but dazzling courtship and honeymoon. Kitty always has lived in a small town. She has not realized the extent of Gar's background and the social position of his family until she meets his friend, Marge Crosby, on the train and finally sees his home. Marge Crosby is self-possessed and insolent. She makes Kitty feel an ignorant outsider while she covertly reproaches Gar for his marriage and absorbs him with stories about the crowd to which they belong. Gar's mother waits with his sister, Carol, to receive the young couple. Carol knows she is furious that Gar would marry a girl with no social standing, but cannot decide what her tactics will be. Mrs. Frew greets Gar warmly, and turns to Kitty, saying, "This is—your wife?"

Chapter 4 HONEYMOON INVADERS

"This is Kitty," Gar told his mother. "And she's all ready to adore you."
 "Silly boy!" Mrs. Frew took Kitty's hand and pressed it. "Sit down, my dear, and have your tea and do listen to him, Carol! She gave a little sign toward Carol as if graciously conceding the fore-stage to her for a moment.
 But Carol did not take it. She did not move from her perch on the chair-arm. She lifted a cool cheek to Gar's kiss and nodded toward Kitty with a careless, "How-do-you-do."
 Rebuffed, even a little shocked, Kitty turned quickly back to Gar's mother. Oh, she was all that Gar had pictured her, beautiful, understanding. That must discount Carol's coolness.
 Gar was asking his mother about her trip. And Kitty listened, more aware of the affectionate tone of her voices than of what they said.
 Carol had refused tea. Presently she rose to her feet with an abrupt jerky lift of her body.
 "I've told Pound that I won't be in for dinner," she announced, moving toward the door.
 Her going seemed scarcely to interrupt Gar and his mother.
 "It's great to be home," Gar said. "How's that job? Dad said anything about it lately?"
 Mrs. Frew hesitated a moment before she answered. "Is there any hurry, Gar? I've looked forward to having you here for a little while after you'd finished college. You've earned a little pay."
 At that, Gar flashed a smiling look at Kitty. "Didn't I tell you she was the real sort? That'll suit me, mother. I sure worked like a dog this last summer!—had to. Anyway, I want to break Kitty in. But will Dad come across with the allowance?"
 Now Mrs. Frew smiled at Kitty, as if to apologize for Gar's touching upon such a personal matter before her. "Another time we will talk that over, Gar," she reproved, gently.
 "Anyone coming in for dinner tonight—to celebrate?"
 "Not tonight—your father has an engagement at the Club and I am going to the Traversers. Joan is announcing her engagement—to Jerry Mont. I sent your regrets—I thought it the only thing to do, under the circumstances."
 "Joan's going to marry Jerry Mont? She isn't fussy is she?" Gar cried derisively.
 "It seems a very perfect match. It unites wealth and family." To Kitty: "The Monts are a very old family in Winton."
 "Call it a merger—not a marriage!"
 When Mrs. Frew stole a look at her wrist-watch, Gar laughed. "Another meeting today, mother?"
 "It's the executive committee of the Library for the Blind, Gar."
 Mrs. Frew rose and glided toward the door. Midway she stopped and came back to Kitty. She put an arm gently, graciously about her. "You must pardon my running away. Gar will tell you how seldom I can call my time my own. Anyway, you and Gar will want to be alone, I know."
 Gar walked with her to the door.

the trend of public sentiment for many years.
 The Salvation Army is in the midst of a "Bundle Day" campaign in Greenville today, in the hope of obtaining sufficient clothing to take care of the demands of the needy majority of the community until the majority are able to look out for their own interests.
 The economic situation which has swept the country the last several months has produced unparalleled conditions in this section, and unless the public supports movements such as that launched by the Army workers it is impossible to say how the needy are going to be relieved.
 A great army of men and women are walking the streets of the nation at this time in quest of employment with which to provide their families with necessities, but the majority of them have been unsuccessful and must depend entirely upon public contributions to keep life in their bodies until conditions improve.
 The Salvation Army Bundle Day offers splendid opportunity to appreciative people to contribute to this wonderful cause and that the drive will result in success is the anticipation of those launched in behalf of the great movement.

Kitty turned toward his as he came back.
 "Gar, do you mind missing that dinner tonight?"
 His mother had sent Gar's regrets because of the "circumstances" that meant because Gar had brought her home.
 "Not a bit, Kit. It'll be stupid."
 And Gar was to play about for a little while; he had consented easily to the suggestion. But she shut her mind on that, quickly. No, now—nor would she think of Carol. "We'll go to the Hoffman for dinner, Kit. When I tell Burkett, the steward here, that we're celebrating our marriage he'll set up properly. Our honeymoon isn't over, sweet!"
 To do full honor to the occasion of their celebration Kitty put in her wedding dress.
 The simplicity of its lines became her; its ivory tulle heightened her fresh coloring.
 "I'm married, Burkett," Gar told the steward. "We're celebrating—the best in the house." And the imperial Burkett bowed gracefully.
 For Kitty magic lay over the room, in the soft music from an orchestra half hidden behind a splashing fountain, over which played a changing flood of colored light, in the hum of voices.
 They dined over their dinner, talking, sometimes simply gazing deeply, happily into one another's eyes.
 "Kit, it's not such a bad idea of mother's that I play around for a little while. I'll have the roadster gone over tomorrow. We'll go out to the Country Club. I've got to start you at golf. I tell you, w-h-e no going to get like mos marrae people, just fussing about the milkman and the butcher and all that sort of thing, hat's what takes her edge off from romance."
 Kitty, twenty, a little intoxicated with her color and lights about her, knew that nothing, nothing ever was going to take the edge from their romance!
 "But it'll be fun with us, Gar, talking about the milkman and the butcher."
 "Dad'll fix my allowance," Gar pursued with easy confidence. Mother'll talk him into it."
 "Gar, when will we see your father?"
 "Best time to catch him home is at breakfast but you have to get around by eight o'clock to do that."
 "Let's have breakfast with him tomorrow, Gar." Kitty was eager. The room had emptied of its dinner guests. Kitty and Gar had the dancing space almost entirely to themselves. "I like it—like this," Kitty whispered into Gar's ear, bent close to her cheek. "It's as everything were just for us."
 But presently four young people came in and Gar, seeing them, exclaimed loudly: "There's Marge and Red Harding. That's Diana Close with her, Kit, and Tubby Wilkins."
 He was across the room on the instant, shaking hands with the newcomers. Kitty saw the girl who he had called Diana Close kiss Gar.

(Copyright, Jane Abbott)

Kitty is warned against Marge and Diana, on Monday. They're very fond of Gar, Tubby tells her.

FIRST FOUNDERS' DAY IS CELEBRATED BY E. C. T. WITH INSPIRING PROGRAM
 Joyner and of the History Department and Mr. Leon R. Meadows of the English Department.
 President Wright's message was "The Function of a Teachers College." This republic in which we live, he said, is one of the greatest experiments in government ever made, and its influence is being felt throughout the world. The government rests directly upon the shoulders of the citizenship and for that reason it is essential that we have an intelligent and enlightened citizenship, regardless of color. The public school system is at the very foundation of our government and the success or failure of our government is dependent upon the type of men and women who teach the youth of our land. Teachers colleges throughout America are rendering one of the greatest possible service to the government. The hope of our governmental ability is dependent upon public education and public education is dependent upon well trained teachers. For that reason, the American teachers college is probably the most important educational institution in America, with all due respect to the other exceedingly important educational institutions. For that reason the people of the state, and of the nation must see to it that necessary provision is made to train teachers who are to teach the youth of the nation.

It is because we realize the importance of the work that we are striving to carry on in a big way in this time of nation and world-wide depression, he said further, and that is why we are running the summer school. The success of the summer school will depend largely upon the number who attend. President Wright said that there had never been a time in the history of the state when East Carolina Teachers College needed the support of the Alumnae so badly. The best advertisement for the institution is those who attended it and go back into the state to be of service.

 Dr. Slay introduced Mr. Everett by saying that he was one of the greatest benefactors of the school. In 1830 Mr. Everett was in the legislature and was largely instrumental in securing an appropriation of $1,025,000 for the school. This appropriation enabled the school to build the Science building and the Students' building in which this exercise was held. Mr. Everett is always interested in the school and its activities and is ever anxious to co-operate with the administration officers. The Alumnae was glad to have this man who had done so much to make the campus the place it is, talk to them and the student body, joined them because they realize more than anyone else just what this appropriation has done for them.
 Mr. Everett said in part:
 "The eastern section of North Carolina was once thought to be uninhabitable because of the malaria. When a cause for the disease and a remedy for it was found this section of the state became one of the most promising districts in it. Before this time all the educational institutions of the state were in the central part of the state."
 "William Henry Ragsdale, in whose honor Ragsdale Hall, the teachers dormitory was named, realized that educational institutions could be established beneficially here; he conceived the idea of establishing a school that would have for its major object the training of teachers to go out into rural communities. Mr. Ragsdale was best acquainted with these rural conditions and realized that it was here that the real work in the teaching profession needed to be done best and by the most recent methods so that the children here might have equal chances with the child from the city. Ragsdale was one of the few men of this age who realized the full worth of the child and the greater possibilities and the sacred right to them that the children would have had the advantages of a higher and better training in the rudiments of education."
 "Governor Thomas Jordan Jarvis was a great advocate of this scheme of Ragsdale. Through his influence the work of Ragsdale took shape. Ragsdale was the dreamer, Jarvis the diplomat, and Senator James Lawson Fleming was the pleader and provider. On the campus of East Carolina Teachers College are dormitories named in honor of these men who made the school possible.
 "What is the effect of these men's work today? Take the example of man today. It is estimated that during twenty generations man has 1,000,000 ancestors. What is the influence then that this school has wielded in the past years? Each teacher with thirty boys and girls a year for only a few years would cause the rate of illiteracy to be very greatly reduced.
 "Dr. Lyman Abbott say that the purest blood to be found in our nation can be found here in North Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee and Georgia. Here in Eastern Carolina the blood is purest, and from this district and from those who learn to love the ideas and ideals of this school will come the leading citizens of the future. But they must have the advantages of a higher type of learning than in ages past. To give this training it is the aim of this school to whose motto is 'To Serve.'"
 "East Carolina Teachers College was established at a time when politics was the leading issue of the day. The rule of the carpet bagger was not over, but the people of this state realized that such a school, founded on the principles of honesty, preparedness, promptness and service would be the greatest asset to the teaching world and hence to the professional and non-professional world of any institution that could be designed. Now is another time of financial upheaval, but the principles of these earlier North Carolinians, men in whose memory we have paused for a few minutes in the daily routine to honor, their work shall not perish and North Carolina will grow out of her troubles into a flourishing district again. Because the peak of education has been reached once in our state is no reason why such cannot happen again."
 Following the announcements by Dr. Slay, dinner was served the alumnae and faculty, the board of trustees and invited guests. Among those present in the Old Dining-Hall were: Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Everett; Mr. J. Y. Joyner, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Harding and daughter, Miss Mary Harding, Mrs. J. L. Fleming and daughter, Miss Margaret Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hobgood, Mrs. C. W. Wilson, Mrs. H. E. Austin and Miss Denny, Mrs. Sam Underwood, Dr. and Mrs. Carr,

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hooker, Dr. and Mrs. K. B. Pace, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bachelor, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ragsdale and members of the local chapter of the E. C. T. C. Alumnae in whose hands the planning of this program lay.

Birth Announcement.
Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bradshaw of Kinston, announce the birth of a son, on Saturday, March 5th, 1932. Mrs. Bradshaw was formerly Miss Ruby West of this city.

Woman's Club Elects Officers.
The Greenville Woman's Club met on Thursday afternoon at the club. During the business session, several important matters were presented. The treasurer reported that the Junior Woman's Club had presented the club with gifts of $25.00 and $100.00. These gifts were most appreciatively received.

The Garden Department chairman, Mrs. J. N. Hart, told the club that her department had purchased Terra Ceia gladioli bulbs and would sell them for 25 cents per dozen.

The nominating committee, Mrs. W. I. Wooten, chairman, presented the slate of officers for the coming club year, 1932-33, as follows:

President, Mrs. E. L. Henderson; 1st vice-pres., Mrs. W. H. Woolard; 2nd vice-pres., Miss Ward Moore; recording secretary, Mrs. W. I. Wooten; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. Key Brown; treasurer, Mrs. D. M. Clark; reporter, Mrs. S. M. Crisp; auditor, Mrs. M. L. Wright.

Department chairmen: American Citizenship, Mrs. J. L. Fleming; American Home, Miss Lella Higgs; Education, Mrs. E. W. Harvey; Literature, Mrs. W. A. Darden; Music and Art, Miss Jesse Moye; Public Welfare, Mrs. H. S. Ragdale.

Committee: Finance, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore; House, Mrs. O. G. Guley; Membership, Mrs. E. T. Futrell; Advisory Committee, Mrs. E. B. Ficklen, Mrs. H. E. Austin.

The program was in charge of the Garden Department. Prof. M. L. Wright spoke on "Shrubbery." He wisely told of methods of planting and the kinds of shrubbery to be used for various plans of planting. He illustrated his talk with colored photographs of shrubbery. At the close of the program, the club was invited to visit the college campus with Mr. Wright and view the new plantings. The landscaping of the lake and other parts of the grounds of the college will be a monument to Mr. Wright's efforts, persevering and his love of gardening.

Charlotte.—Damage estimated at $30,000 was done by fire originating in the basement of the Montgomery Ward store here.

PLAN OF LINDBERGH HOME SHOWING NURSERY

Here is an artist's drawing of the Lindbergh home near Hopewell, N. J., showing the location of the nursery and how kidnapers reached the second floor window with ladder.

Study Lizette Reese.

Farmville, March 4.—From Lizette Woodworth Reese's book of reminiscences written since passing her 73rd birthday, Miss Tabitha DeVivont cleaned the material for her interesting account of this poet's life, with readings from the book and several sparkling poems by Miss Annie Perkins and Mrs. J. L. Shackelford, all contributing to the splendid program of the Farmville Literary Club at its meeting held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Y. Monk. A sweet course was served at the conclusion of the program.

Card Clubs Entertained.

Farmville, March 4.—Mrs. J. Loyd Horton was charming hostess to the Progressive Bridge Club of four tables on Thursday afternoon at 3:00 and to the Contract Club of the same number of tables in the evening at 8:00 o'clock. Mrs. Horton is a member of both clubs. The rooms were attractively decorated with a variety of spring flowers and tables bore pleasing appointments.

Mrs. L. T. Pierce was winner of the high score prize in the afternoon and Mrs. George Holston in the evening, both awards being bric-a-brac, with the consolation of the evening going to Mrs. R. C. Thornton. The daughter of the hostess, Miss Jean Horton, assisted in serving a delicious frozen salad course at each affair.

Miss Norwood Hostess.

Farmville, March 4.—A delightful affair of the week was the bridge party of Monday evening given by Miss Sallie Norwood in compliment to her sister, Miss Etta Norwood of Raleigh. The ladies' high score award, a bouffant doll, went to Miss Chrystelle Lucas and the men's prize, smokes, was won by Carl Joyner. The honor guest also received a bouffant doll. Confections were served during the games and a sweet course after cards were laid aside.

Hostess To Club.

Bethel, March 3.—The members of the Wednesday Afternoon Bridge Club were entertained by Mrs. John Burton Bunting at her home Wednesday.

Five interesting and spirited progressions were played at two tables. Mrs. William Andrews, winner of the high score, was given a dainty handkerchief.

Light refreshments were served by the hostess.

Celebrates Birthday.

Grimesland, March 4.—Tuesday afternoon Mrs. J. H. Brooks entertained 17 little folks, honoring the seventh birthday of her son Jimmie Cole.

The Easter motif was carried out throughout the party. Much merriment was had when the children were blindfolded and given a carrot to pin in the mouth of a rabbit, painted and hung on the wall. Helen Fae Porter was the winner of the prize, which was an Easter basket. Little Miss Porter was also the winner of another prize, scoring highest in a soldier and ball game.

The children were served ice cream and cakes, decorated with little Easter chicks. Mrs. Brooks was assisted in serving by Miss Lela Brown Stancill of Greenville. Easter bunnies filled with lollypops were given as favors.

WILL DISCUSS PITT SCHOOLS

be done to provide the extra land. This inclination was intimated at the beginning of the session, and it was expected it would be strictly adhered here to until the school year has been completed.

BANKER TELLS OF BOND DRIVE

these bonds will be left in the community in which they are purchased, it was stated, and this in itself should have a strong appeal to those who realize the importance of placing in circulation the thousands of dollars which have been hoarded in recent years.

Mr. Mitchell was introduced by Dr. R. S. McGeachy, chairman of the Public Relations committee, who was in charge of the program, and who called attention to the effort on the part of the Pitt County Health Department to prevent sickness and prolong public life. Stressing the seriousness of health conditions, Dr. McGeachy told the Kiwanians that what the county needed at this time was an additional colored nurse and a sanitary inspector. He pointed out that the government fund for health relief would become available again in July and that if obtained appropriations from that source would make it possible for Pitt county to get the desired acquisitions to its health department. He asked support of the club, declaring that it would not mean a single cent in extra taxes.

D. O. Moore Jr. read a letter

from Judge Bill Montgomery, district lieutenant governor, in which he set forth the program of International Kiwanis for stabilization of club activities. The plan covered membership and objectives, and called on each club throughout the world to try and increase its number of members and make objectives count more distinctly in community life.

President Smith stressed the work of the club, the importance of membership, and told of what connection with the organization had meant to him in hours when the clouds hung dark and heavy and apparently would not let the sunshine through. He called attention to the next meeting of the club at Fountain and urged a hundred per cent attendance. The program will be in charge of Rev. W. A. Ryan and G. V. Smith and will be held in the rear of the postoffice. Several citizens of the Fountain community have been invited to attend.

Judge W. A. Darden, district trustee, said the program of International Kiwanis meant work and asked that all members do their part in making it a success. The usual song program under direction of C. B. Rowlett, assisted at the piano by Mrs. Ray Tyson, was enjoyed.

GIRL ELUDES HER ABDUCTOR

the child from descriptions broadcast by radio and the newspapers. She met Martha on the sidewalk in front of her home. The child was in a dazed condition, and Miss More took her into the house and summoned police.

Doctors said that while the child was unharmed, an attempt had been made to assault.

An alarm was sent out for Martha when she failed to return to her class after the lunch recess chest.

Officers investigating the shooting were told by Mrs. Widenhouse that her husband came home about 4 o'clock this morning and began beating her. Mrs. Widenhouse said the attacks took place at their home at the intersection of highways 51 and 27.

She told officers her husband started after her a third time and that she ran from the house, first procuring a pistol. As he stepped from the back porch, she related, the fatal shot was fired.

Mrs. Widenhouse said the shooting took place "between 3 and 9 o'clock this morning."

Early this afternoon officers were still investigating at the scene.

ed for delivery at the Philadelphia Central Labor Union mass meeting to demand relief for unemployment, attacked the administration as refusing "to take a cent in taxes from the bloated fortunes of a few hundred multi-millionaires to provide a little relief for millions of unemployed families."

WEALTHY JAP ASSASSINATED

struck the baron in the right breast. He was carried to a medical room inside the building and died 40 minutes later. His wife and son were with him when he died.

Police who questioned the young assassin said his mind apparently had been inflamed by recent attacks upon Barn Dan in connection with large purchases of American dollars by the Mitsui interests just before Japan went off the gold standard in December. Ultra-patriotic organizations made much of the incident, claiming it was detrimental to the welfare of the country.

Former Finance Minister Inouye, who was shot and killed March 9, also was one of Japan's most noted financial leaders.

Baron Dan was educated at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He was vice-president of the Japan-America Society and a close friend of many leading American financiers.

The assassin was clad in shabby occidental clothes. He hid near the marble entrance of the bank building and drew his pistol and fired as the baron walked across the sidewalk through a bustling Saturday morning crowd. Bank police seized him immediately.

Baron Dan led a group of Japanese business men to the United States in 1921, on a mission to improve commercial relations between the two countries.

NEW TROOPS TO SHANGHAI

were landed at Lintao on the southern bank of the Yangtze and 2,000 more were put ashore at Wosung. It was understood that blue-jackets who have been on duty in those areas were returning to their ships.

Japanese military and naval authorities continued to maintain there has been no serious fighting since the Japanese advance was halted two days ago, but a trip through the Kiangwan and Wosung area today, supported Chinese claims that there had been considerable fighting along the northwest sector.

Gunfire was heard frequently and a squadron of Japanese planes roared overhead in the direction of the Yangtze.

ABDUCTORS MAINTAIN OMINOUS SILENCE AS POLICE SPEED PROBE

that they knew nothing of its contents.

A rumor spread early that Miss Gow had "confessed," but this was officially denied at the governor's office in Trenton, and state police reiterated that they had completely exonerated her.

The Englewood chief of police and a sergeant went to Hartford to assist in the questioning of Johnson. A detective there said he believed the information would "crack" the case.

New York state police sought a radio station which broadcast a general call saying "Lindbergh baby safe."

A Chicago man signed a sworn statement giving a Niagara Falls, N. Y., address, where he said the baby was held. No such address could be found.

The mother of the 11-year-old boy kidnapped at Niles, O., a few hours after the Lindbergh baby was taken, sent a message of sympathy and hope to Mrs. Lindbergh. Physicians warned that Mrs. Lindbergh might suffer a breakdown unless she gets some sleep.

Nurse Betty Gow cabled to her mother in Glasgow, Scotland, to ask her to "cheer up."

Hartford, Conn., March 5.—(AP)—Henry (Red) Johnson, Englewood, N. J., sailor detained last night for questioning in connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnapping, was brought before county authorities shortly before noon today for a renewed questioning.

Dozens of questions were put to the sailor by State's Attorney H. M. Alcorn and County Detective Edward J. Hickey, who became noted for their prosecution of Gerald W. Chapman, who was hanged for the slaying of a New Britain policeman.

For eight hours after Johnson was brought in the grilling continued without respite. Then a recess was called for a few hours rest, and the questioning resumed.

The officials were attempting to learn how Johnson, a friend of Miss Betty Gow, nursemaid for the Lindbergh baby, happened to be driving a green coupe said to resemble a car reported used by the kidnapers, how he happened to be in Hartford and how a milk bottle happened to be in the rumble seat.

There was no intimation from the questioning, however, as to what if any progress they were making.

Meanwhile, four Newark, N. J., detectives who arrived in Hartford early today to question Johnson, had not seen him at noon. They said they were waiting for Alcorn to invite them to a conference and in the interim would make no comment on the case. They explained they were representing the combined forces of New Jersey police.

Johnson's green coupe was held in the courtyard of the county building and experts were trying to determine whether fingerprints on it had any significance.

Englewood, N. J., March 5.—(AP)—Mrs. W. T. Sherman, proprietor of a rooming house where Henry (Red) Johnson, held in Hartford, Conn., for questioning in connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnapping, was at her home Tuesday night, but she could not remember whether he was there all evening. The Lindbergh child was kidnapped Tuesday night.

She was equally uncertain regarding a telephone call Johnson is reported to have made Tuesday evening to Miss Betty Gow, nursemaid for the Lindbergh child, at the Lindbergh home at Hopewell.

Mrs. Sherman, a woman of about 65 years, whose hearing is defective, displayed extreme annoyance at being questioned and after answering in sharp, laconic sentences one or two questions, she slammed the door in a reporter's face.

Earlier in the day she had said over the telephone that Johnson had lived at her home for the past six months. She described him as a man of sober habits, who kept pretty much to himself. She said she knew he was employed on the yacht of Thomas Lamont, partner in the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., but that he had been laid off "for a few weeks while they are repairing the yacht."

Mrs. Sherman expressed her belief that Johnson had nothing to do with the kidnapping but admitted that she knew very little of his movements.

Meanwhile, police learned that Johnson bought a green Chrysler coupe at a garage here about two weeks ago. The purchase was reported to them by Maurice Walsh, who is on night duty at the B. & M. Garage in West Street, and who said that the car was equipped with New York license plates.

Police, however, declined to comment on the purchase, nor would they say whether Johnson's activities in Englewood had been investigated.

Sergeant George Daley referred all questions to Chief of Police Peterson, and when told Peterson was reported to have gone to Hartford, Daley said he did not know "just where he was gone." Daley also was non-committal when asked whether police had spoken with Mrs. Sherman.

CERTIFICATE OF DISSOLUTION
State of North Carolina
Department of State.

To All to Whom These Presents May Come—Greeting:

Whereas, it appears to my satisfaction, by duly authenticated record of the proceedings for the voluntary dissolution thereof by the unanimous consent of all the stockholders, deposited in my office, that the Williams Funeral Parlor, Incorporated, a corporation of this State whose principal office is situated in the town of Greenville, County of Pitt, State of North Carolina, (J. R. Moye being the agent therein and in charge thereof, upon whom process may be served), has complied with the requirements of Chapter 22, Consolidated Statutes entitled "Corporations" preliminary to the issuing of this Certificate of Dissolution:

Now Therefore, I, J. A. Hartness, Secretary of State of the State of North Carolina, do hereby certify that the said corporation did, on the 4th day of March, 1932, file in my office a duly executed and attested consent in writing to the dissolution of said corporation, executed by all the stockholders thereof, which said consent and record of the proceedings aforesaid are now on file in my said office as provided by law.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal at Raleigh, this 4th day of March, A. D. 1932.

J. A. Hartness,
Secretary of State.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

N. Y. COTTON

New York, March 5.—(AP)—Cotton opened easy today at a decline of 3 to 5 points on southern and local selling in response to easy cables. May sold at 7.06.

Offerings were readily absorbed by trade buying or covering, however, and the market firmed up right after the call. It appeared to be influenced by overnight reports of smaller spot offerings from the interior and a firm basis. There may also have been some buying on the early action of the stock market, and the advance carried the price of May up to 7.14 and October to 7.53 or about 3 to 4 points net higher.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Mar. 5.—(AP)—Anxiety about crop damage possibilities from a cold wave spreading eastward over the United States winter wheat belt gave a hoist to cereal markets today.

Wheat values were helped also by strength of securities. A decided improvement was noted in demand for rye flour.

STOCK MARKET

New York, March 5.—(AP)—Bulls made a vigorous drive in today's short session of the stock market in an effort to boost the average level to a new high for 1932.

Prices of prominent issues were swept up about 1 to 5 points. Chemicals and rails, particularly issues more sensitive to bullish activity, were bid up sharply. Trading reached the substantial volume of around a million shares for the two hours of trading. Final prices were virtually at the day's top.

The manner in which the market withstood the General Electric dividend reduction yesterday convinced bull traders that the trend was upward. With the Senate's investigation of the stock market expected to begin with a grilling of the bears next week, speculators for the rise had no difficulty in prompting active short covering.

There was almost nothing in the news at the end of the week to influence the market one way or the other. Reports from Youngstown indicated that steel mill operations in that area may be a little higher next week, but the indicated change was too small to be important.

Rails were helped by expectations that the February earnings statements, to appear within a few weeks, will make a substantially better showing than those of February, because of the wage reduction effective February 1. Union Pacific and Santa Fe rose about 5 points.

Local Davidson Alumni Invited to Big Banquet

Seven Alumni of Davidson College, who are registered in the alumni office of the college as residents of Greenville, together with B. W. Moseley, trustee of the college, and Rev. W. S. Harden, pastor of the local Presbyterian Church have been invited to a Davidson Alumni banquet at New Bern, next Monday evening, and Dr. R. S. McGeehy has been asked by the New Bern Alumni, sponsors of the gathering, to work up the local crowd.

Dr. Walter L. Linsie, president of the college, will deliver the address of the occasion and will also speak to the Craven county ministers, Parent-Teacher Associations, and the general public at the Presbyterian Church of that city at 4:00 p. m. Prof. R. C. Deal, a member of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College, Greenville, is to toastmaster.

About one hundred alumni, trustees and Presbyterian ministers have been invited to attend, each alumnus being asked to bring his son or some other prospective student as a guest. The gathering, the first of its kind in this section of the state, includes tentatively all alumni of this institution within approximately two hours driving time of New Bern.

Others invited from this vicinity include H. B. Mayo of Falkland, Rev. J. N. H. Summerell, D. D., for 22 years pastor of the church in New Bern, where the banquet is to be held, and an alumnus of Davidson is planning to attend, having the honor of anticipating the attendance of his son, J. J. Summerell also an alumnus, and two grandsons who are members of the Greenville schools and prospective alumni of the college.

Tampa, Fla., Mar. 4.—(AP)—Yielding on the eve of the exhibition season, "Red" Lucas, ace of the Cincinnati Red's pitching staff, will be in camp Saturday, ready to take a $2,500 cut in salary. His acceptance of a salary of $14,000 completes the Red Bird's pitching staff.

West Palm Beach, Fla. March 4.—(AP)—Arrival late yesterday of Tom Jenkins, in-and-out gardener, from Massachusetts reduced to eleven the number of players missing from the St. Louis Browns' training camp.

BLOUNT NOT TO RUN FOR RE-ELECTION TO SENATE

Blount called attention to the 15 cents ad valorem tax now existing on land. Asserting this tax should be eliminated, he said, "no man should be elected to the Legislature who is not willing to carry on the fight to relieve the burden of the landowners. He advocated tapping those sources which have not been tapped and are able to pay.

The statement follows:
In answer to a number of my friends, who have inquired of my intention, and to the public at large, I wish to state that I shall not be a candidate for re-election to the State Senate in the June primary. I have enjoyed this privilege for three successive sessions, and I wish to thank the voters of this county for the honor which they have bestowed upon me, and to assure them that I appreciate the trust which they have thus placed in me. My record will show that I endeavored ever to be alert to the best interests of the landowner, and that I voted always for those measures which tended to bring some relief to the already excessive tax burden of the people of the agricultural sections of our state.

The last session of the General Assembly continued for about five months, and as a result, there has been some tax reduction on land. Under the McLean law, whereby the State assumes support of the six-months school term, several million dollars have been saved. We still have, however, a 15 cent ad valorem tax on land, for the support of the six-months term. This should be eliminated, and no man should be elected to the Legislature who is not willing to carry on this fight. At the same time we must realize, that, in order to relieve land, we must obtain additional revenue from other sources—in other words—tap those sources which have not been tapped and are able to pay. If the Legislature had done this, we would not now be faced with a large deficit, nor would the credit of our state be imperiled as it is today. As a source of additional revenue, there was proposed at the last Assembly two forms of sales tax: one, a tax on non-essentials, a so-called luxury tax; the other, a general sales tax. The luxury tax, as you know, is a tax on articles that a person may do without, and at the same time suffer no real deprivation or loss; while the general sales tax is a tax on practically everything one has to buy—the necessities of life. The farmers of the state, in a mass meeting in Raleigh, during the last General Assembly, unanimously favored the so-called luxury tax, rather than a general sales tax; and, if we must have one form of sales tax, I am sure that the great majority of the people of our state favor this tax on non-essentials. Neither form of tax, however, will be sufficient in itself to raise the necessary revenue to balance the budget, and relieve the 15 cents ad valorem tax on land.

Already we have seen a long way in the reduction of taxes and in the cutting of expenses, but we must realize that our schools must go on with the same amount of state institutions, which have been the pride of North Carolina must be maintained at least to some degree of their former efficiency, and this will not be if we hope to relieve the situation entirely by cutting our schools and the salary of our teachers to the point of destroying their efficiency.

The public should inform themselves and should know how our candidates for Governor and for the Legislature stand on these vital matters before voting in the primary. A member of the Legislature, and for that matter, any public official, should represent the will of his constituents, and it behooves the people of this state to let the candidates know their wishes in these matters and to demand a declaration of their own convictions before casting a vote.

We are facing a crisis in the history of our state, and our people will make a serious mistake if they entrust its affairs into the hands of any, who have not fully and clearly expressed themselves as to their stand on these matters, most vitally affecting the life of our commonwealth, and who are not willing to continue the fight which has been begun, in order that the masses of people throughout our state shall have relief from taxation, and at the same time that the financial stability of our state shall be maintained.

PERTINENT FACTS ABOUT LINDBERG KIDNAPPING
innocently carrying her baby out of a subway kiosk, was surrounded by detectives in a twinkling.

New York—Any baby fingerprints found on the Lindbergh child's toys may be useful, police experts say. Even if Charles stays missing until he's 50 years old, they would be a sure means of identification.

Detroit—Two tense school ma'ams, gravely concerned about the kidnapping, are bearing up bravely. Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of the Colonel, conducted her chemistry classes as usual, while in Hopewell Miss Elizabeth Morrow, Annie Lindbergh's sister, did what she could to aid. She went to her private school in Englewood only long enough to transact necessary affairs.

Nashville, Tenn.—"No punishment that could be devised would be commensurate with the crime," said Senator Hattie Caraway, of Arkansas, advocating capital punishment.

New York—Six languages were used to broadcast the Lindberghs' plea for mercy. They were German, Spanish, Italian, French, Yiddish and English.

Chicago—Cranks who write misleading letters to the Lindberghs are "mental sadists," says Dr. Orlando Scott, psychiatrist. "Such people are unable to control their desires and emotions along certain lines."

Hopewell—He's "Neighbor Lindbergh" to the farmers here, and they all say "I'd like to get my hands on that kidnapper." They recall deeds of kindness, as when the Lindberghs picked up an injured man by a roadside and sped him to a hospital.

Hopewell—You can eat a dollar lunch here and still be pretty hungry. Prices are boosted to the 400 new men, radio technicians, officers and others who help to swell Hopewell's big "boom." It's $50 a night for a room.

Harrison declined to name the man who tipped him in a telephone call or saying, "Go to Scott's place and you will find that Dr. Jure kid from Niles."

The officers surrounded the house, and kicked in the door. They rushed into a room bare of all furniture, but there were rugs on the floor and a fire was burning in the kitchen stove.

Apparently there was not a soul in the house. An old mattress and two pillows were on the floor of the living room. A rifle and a pistol, with a partly eaten loaf of bread, were found in a corner.

Then Detective Harrison spied a book on the floor. It was an arithmetic text book. Turning back the cover the detective saw written on the flyleaf: "James De Jute, 337 Robbins Avenue, Niles, Ohio, grade 5-A, Lincoln school.

Silence fell over the group of officers for a moment.
"Jimmie!" cried one of the officers.
"Yes Sir, Yes Sir," came the response. "Here I am."

The officers quickly found that one of the walls was four feet thick. Harrison kicked into it. His shoe crashed through a flimsy structure which was revealed as a false wall.

Within a few minutes the thin partition was ripped away. There stood 12-year-old Jimmie, white and shivering, between two young men, one of whom held a revolver. Jimmie recognized Deputy Sheriff Jack Lundy, and rushed into the officer's arms.

GRIMESLAND CAGERS DEFEAT AURORA
The girls' basket ball team of Grimesland high school completed a successful season Tuesday night, when they defeated the girl's team of Aurora high school, with a score of 21-15.

During this season the Grimesland girls have won the championship of Pitt county and the loving cup in the tournament played in Ayden, February 24-25.

The scoring of 1931-32 was:
Grimesland 38; Bethel 7.
Grimesland 38; Aurora 35.

Chicago—Cranks who write misleading letters to the Lindberghs are "mental sadists," says Dr. Orlando Scott, psychiatrist. "Such people are unable to control their desires and emotions along certain lines."

Hopewell—He's "Neighbor Lindbergh" to the farmers here, and they all say "I'd like to
