Driver Says Scuffling Children Fell Against Him and Caused Him to Lose Control of Bus Near Wadesboro; All But One of Forty Passengers Dive Thru Windows and Swim to Safety

Wadesboro, March 10.—(AP)—A bus loaded with 40 school children overturned into a creek near here today, killing one of them and injuring a dozen others.

Pearl Betts, 20, was killed. None of the others was injured seriously. Wilson Jones, 16, driver of the bus, said several of the children were scuffling and fell against his shoulder, causing him to lose control of the bus.

The water in the creek was four or five feet deep and the bus landed in it upside down. The children dove through the bus windows to escape the icy waters.

The bus was taking the children to Pea-hound school.

R. W. Allen, superintendent of the school, who went to the scene, said he believed Miss Betts was unable to escape from the bus because she was trampled under the feet of the other occupants as they struggled to make their way from the vehicle.

Missing Son Found in S. C.

Florence, S. C., March 10.—(AP)—A son that Samuel E. Nicholas, of Balmory Place, South Melbourne, Australia, says he has spent more than 20 years trying to locate is living in this city with his mother, wife and two children.

The father, in a letter to the Columbia police department, claimed his son, George, now nearly 36 years old, was kidnapped in Australia in 1910.

The mother told friends here yesterday she brought her son with her when she decided 22 years ago to leave Australia and come to America with a brother, J. N. Basha. She is Mrs. Ida Nichols, having dropped the "A" in the family name.

George Nichols, a traveling salesman, formerly lived in Columbia and in Charleston. His uncle, N. N. Basha, is a merchant in Charleston where, another uncle, Ferris Basha, also resides, members of the family said.

In writing the Columbia police, Samuel Nichols said that when he was away from home two men came over from Sydney and fled with his son.

Tells of the Best Cancer Treatment

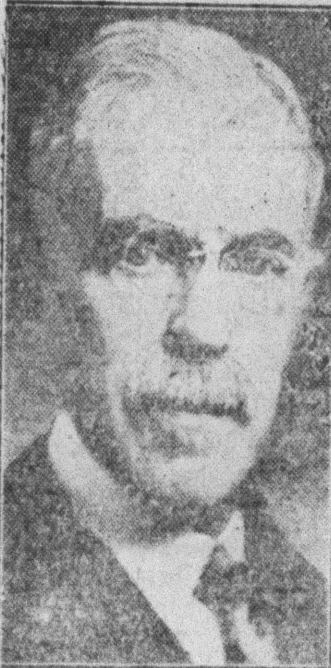

Wake Forest, March 10.—(AP)—Joseph C. Bloodgood of Baltimore, noted internationally for his work in cancer research, asserted here today that "the only effective treatments for cancer today are surgery or irradiation with X-rays or radium."

Speaking to the medical students of Wake Forest College and visiting physicians, Dr. Bloodgood discussed treatments and prevention of cancer.

The best palliative for permanent results, he said, is obtained when the treatments are applied as soon as possible after the first warning symptoms.

"If people want the greatest possible protection against cancer and other disease," he warned, "they should, while they are well, select a family physician if they can afford it or go to a clinic and should ask, not only for examination, but for advice on the rules of health and on the earliest symptoms of disease."

NO NEWS FROM MISSING PAIR

Whereabouts of McGlohan and Mrs. Summerell Still Mistifies Officers

No new developments had taken place today in the disappearance from Ayden of J. Dixie McGlohan, assistant cashier of the National Bank of Ayden, and Mrs. Guy Summerell, wife of a prominent Ayden physician.

Although the couple disappeared from their homes last Saturday afternoon authorities here so far have been unable to obtain any information concerning their whereabouts. The only message received was the special delivery letter mailed from Raleigh last Sunday by Mrs. Summerell in which she informed her husband she no longer loved him and would not return.

Employees of the National Bank of Ayden continued checking the accounts of McGlohan, who was reported to have been short $850 following examination of bank ledgers this week. Mrs. J. H. Whitaker, of Seaford, who had a safe deposit box at the bank, informed officials she was short $650, but this could not be laid directly at the door of the missing man by reason of the fact Mrs. Whitaker was said to have had the only keys to the box known to have existed. If there were other keys that would have admitted McGlohan to the private funds, officials declared they knew nothing of them.

Dr. Summerell, father of two sons, according to the best information obtainable today, left Tuesday for Florida to recover from the shock of his wife's action. He was reported to have passed (Continued on Page Six)

NEW TAX BILL DRAWS DEBATE

Ten Billion Dollar Measure Starts Stormy Course Thru the House

Washington, March 10.—(AP)—The new billion dollar tax bill was plunged today into the stormy sea of House debate, with the biggest struggle of the present session impending on the manufacturers sales tax it proposes.

A concentrated and swelling opposition has formed against this provision, based upon the central theme that it will hamper business and place an undue burden of taxation on the poor and people of small earnings. The opposition, like the force supporting the bill, knows no party lines.

In defense of the sales tax the ways and means committee which drew the bill warned that this is the only source of revenue to be found by which the budget may be balanced; that unless the budget is balanced next year there will be grave consequences to the national credit structure; and further, that the direct taxes on the rich, the higher bracket income taxes, surtaxes, etc., have been raised in the bill to the point that they equal or exceed the point of diminishing returns. No more is to be had from that source.

The House leaders proposed to invoke the no rules to limit debate or curb attempts at amending the bill. One fairly strong bloc has announced it would seek to supplant the sales tax, by which more than half of the bill's revenue is to be derived, with a tax on legalized 2.75 beer. This may provide a vote on the issue of amending the Volstead act.

Southern Crops Badly Damaged By Cold Wave

Atlanta, Ga., March 10.—(AP)—Dixie shivered under a blanket of ice and snow today as winter had a tardy fling and damaged fruits and crops decimated into growth by a spring-like season.

Cold winds whipped over the south and carried sub-freezing temperatures all the way down to the Gulf of Mexico. Even Florida felt the chill of winter's severest cold wave and little relief was forecast before tomorrow.

New Orleans, La., March 10.—(AP)—Three policemen were killed in a cellroom fight with a negro prisoner at the twelfth precinct police station here yesterday. The officer assisting later met death in an attempt to escape. A negro trustee was wounded.

Patrolman Cornelius Ford was disarmed and slain by the negro, Percy Thompson, arrested on a charge of stealing $800 worth of clothing, as the officer attempted to lock him in a cell.

CAROLINAS IN CRIP OF COLD

Most Severe Weather of the Winter Sweeps Across Two States Today

By Associated Press The coldest weather of the winter came to the Carolinas early today.

In most cities where U. S. weather observations are maintained, the cold set a new low record for March and in others the low was within a few points of the record. Continued freezing weather was predicted for tonight.

The thermometer at the airport at Charlotte dropped to 15 degrees at 6:30 a. m., and had risen only to 20 by mid-morning. At Asheville the mercury went to 10.

Temperatures of 19.1 at Columbia and 16 at Greenville, S. C., broke all March records. The former March low at Columbia was 20.

Raleigh's low for the night was 16.3 degrees, within 4 degrees of the lowest temperature ever recorded there in March. It rose to 22 by the middle of the morning.

The extreme cold extended over the eastern sections of the two states, but was not so severe on the coast. Goldsboro's low was 17. At Charleston the mercury went to 28. It was the first killing frost of the winter for the South Carolina seaport.

A low of 16 at Anderson broke all March records. It was generally clear over both states, but occasional snow flurries were reported from parts of the Western North Carolina mountains.

CREW LEAVES CRIPPLED SHIP

Men Transferred From Disabled Collier to British Ship Without Mishap

Aboard Coast Guard Cutter Ospeice, March 10.—(AP)—The crew of the disabled Collier H. F. De Bardeleben abandoned ship in their own boats at 2 a. m. today. All were taken aboard the British freighter Laganbank. No one was injured.

The position of the De Bardeleben when she was abandoned was latitude 39.36 north and longitude 80.55 west.

The Laganbank is still standing by the abandoned vessel awaiting the arrival of the Ospeice. On her arrival, the coast guard cutter will determine the possibility of towing the disabled Collier into port.

The barometer was falling as the Ospeice approached the Collier's position and Captain Knight of the De Bardeleben reported by radio that he had abandoned his vessel when it became apparent that another storm was approaching.

The De Bardeleben has been tossing rudderless in a northwest gale for three days, her engines turning at seven-knot speed to give her steerageway.

Attempts to abandon ship, until today, had been futile as huge combers swept the decks and the Collier rolled and tossed at the mercy of the heavy seas.

The White Star liner Adriatic, which had been standing by the Collier, was relieved last night by the Laganbank, and continued on her way to New York.

The De Bardeleben, home port New Orleans, carried a crew of 34 men. She was about 500 miles east of New York when abandoned today.

Authorities Brand New Report That Child Was Discovered Near Home

SAYS LADDER NOT UNUSUAL

Man Who Superintended Construction of Lindbergh House Declares Ladder Used by Kidnappers Might Have Been Secured From Any Construction Job; Mrs. Lindbergh Worried Sick By Missing Child

Hopewell, N. J., March 10.—(AP)—Rumors that the kidnaped Lindbergh baby had been found within five miles of this village or that the child was being brought in on a train from Chicago were denied from the Lindbergh home today.

In accordance with the procedure established by police the press submitted a list of questions about the case today.

It has been customary for police to confer on the questions about an hour, in some instances showing them to the Lindberghs. This morning, however, two of the questions were answered immediately.

The first was: "Has the baby been found five miles from Hopewell?"

"The police answered 'no.' The other question read: 'Is baby being returned, now on train from Chicago?'"

"We have no knowledge of it," police replied. The other questions were held for more consideration.

An hour and a half after the questions were submitted answers were telephoned out from the Lindbergh home. Aside from the two answered earlier the questions and answers follow:

Is Colonel Lindbergh on the verge of nervous collapse? No.

Has the baby been returned? No.

Is there any indication that baby is alive or when it will be returned? Is there any indication that baby has been returned? This question previously answered. (The police answer to this has been "no.")

Who is Morris Rosner? Did he visit the Lindbergh home yesterday? Do not know.

Who is Morris Rosner? Did he visit the Lindbergh home yesterday? Do not know.

Did the Lindberghs have any visitors on the day of the kidnaping and who were they? Did the servants have any visitors? No.

Philadelphia police teletype reports New York wants Michael Benitto and two accomplices, Caci and Morganeli, for kidnaping and robbery. Is there any connection with the Lindbergh case? We do not know investigators still out.

Do police know if Spitalo and Rita have been in Chicago and Detroit since Saturday? We have no knowledge of this. When did Col. Breckinridge return from New York and did you learn what his mission there was? No answer.

Three special questions were answered by police between the 8 and 2 o'clock lists. They were: Have the ashes in the Lindbergh furnace and basement been examined? It is an oil burner. Did anyone in Mercer and Huntertown counties know the Lindberghs were staying home the week-end before the kidnaping? Probably neighbors. Do the police have any information that the kidnaping plot originated in Vancouver, Canada? R. B. Hulfish, who superintended construction on the Lindbergh house said today that the wood used in the ladder employed by the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby might have been secured from many construction jobs in the region and even on the Lindbergh estate itself.

The North Carolina white pine and two inferior grades of white pine used in the ladder, Hulfish stated, had also been used in cradles, and for other temporary purposes during the building of the (Continued on Page Six)

ROUND TABLE CLUB ENJOYS FINE MEETING

An unusually delightful program marked the meeting of the Round Table Club which met in regular session yesterday afternoon with its recording secretary, Mrs. Wiley Brown, at her home on Dickinson avenue.

Eighteen members answered the roll call, after which Mrs. Brown introduced her guests for the afternoon, namely, Mrs. John Barker and Misses Martha Tyson, Jesse Moyer and Ona Shindler.

Business matters of importance were quickly dispatched by the president, after which the meeting was turned over to the program committee. Mrs. R. G. Fitzgerald, chairman, announced the subject for the afternoon, "Verdi," a musician and his work, and presented Mrs. O. G. Gulley as leader. A well prepared paper was given by Mrs. Gulley which showed much thought and study. She told us that Verdi, born in Italy Oct. 10, 1813, was one of the greatest and most popular operatic composers after the 19th century. When a small boy his musical talent was noticeable and when only 10 years old he became the organist of his village church.

Verdi was always much sought by the brilliant society in Rome, Florence and Milan, but even from his boyhood he had disliked the turmoil of the world. He was a man of regular habits, an early riser and devoted much time to his estate, especially to the cultivation of flowers and when enjoying his evening walks he would often catch snatches of his favorite airs as they were sung by the peasants. Titles and decorations came to him without numbers, not only from Italy but from France and Austria—ribbons and stars enough to cover his breast if he would have worn them. He gave hundreds of thousands of dollars to the poor. He built a hospital in 1888 and the only inauguration ceremony that he allowed was the admission of the sick. He also erected near Milan a beautiful home for aged and needy musicians. Verdi died in Milan in 1901 and was buried there and this monument which was completed just before his death speaks as eloquently of his greatness as his most famous opera.

Following this much enjoyed paper, Miss Jesse Moyer delighted the club by singing in her usual charming manner two Italian songs, "Case Selve," from the opera "Atalanta by Handel," and "O Mio Babbino Caro," from "Giulietta Schicchi" by Puccini. She was accompanied by Miss Ona Shindler.

A very attractive feature of our program this year is the current events given at each meeting by Mrs. W. C. Vincent. This is always looked forward to with much interest.

Mrs. C. T. Munford assisted the hostess in serving a most attractive salad course.

Farmville, March 9.—Emmanuel Episcopal church of this city has been, signally honored by the appointment of Mrs. J. A. Shackelford as secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary in the Diocese of East Carolina by the bishop, the Rt. Rev. T. C. Darst, D. D.

When this office fell vacant in January the Auxiliary in convention in Wilmington, due to the absence of the office, refused to elect a successor and referred the matter to Bishop Darst for his careful consideration. The friends of Mrs. Shackelford throughout Eastern Carolina will be pleased to know that the Bishop deemed her fully capable of filling this most responsible position and favored her with his choice.

Irish Dramatist Makes Splendid Impression Here

The personality and the illuminating talk of Lennox Robinson, the noted Irish dramatist, made a distinct and favorable impression upon his audience at East Carolina Teachers College last night. While he talked about the Abbey Theatre and the Irish players, he presented an outline of Irish history, Irish politics, and Irish people that gave an insight into the Irish that an American rarely gets. He contrasted the stage Irish with the real Irish in a humorous way, yet made one see the genuineness of the off-stage character.

He tied up the history of the slow growth of the National Treaty with the growth of the Free State and made clear the beginnings so that one caught glimpses of the heart and soul of the movement that reaches back into the struggle of the common man, the poor man, for self-expression. He "showed the difference between the Anglo-Irish literature of the 18th century, when the brilliant literary men of the day were from Ireland, "by accident of birth but were actually English, and the true Irish who go back to the Gaelic. The revival of interest in the Gaelic language, Gaelic traditions, and Gaelic literature was the beginning of the modern period in Irish literature. The poetic turn of phrase of the speech of the people who go back to the Gaelic is found in the poetry of Yeats and the other modern poets and dramatists.

North Carolina he thought should be the state to appreciate the little theatre, the theatre which is non-commercial, in which native powers have a chance to be expressed. The first group of players in Ireland were laborers who met after work hours and for their own enjoyment acted plays. The next step was the writing of plays for this group, and the extending of the work, until Lady Gregory began working with them, they finally found a building, a home for their plays. Later, thanks to a minister of finance who was intelligent, the Free State endowed the theatre so that the actors could be paid and could give full time to it.

"We do not care so much whether or not you care for the play or the players, but that you understand what we are doing," he said, and yet, he said that people seemed to enjoy the plays and appreciate the players. All of the actors have been trained in their own theatre. The seasoned actors take the leading parts in one play and a minor part in others. Some of them know as many as fifty or sixty parts they can give without rehearsal. Instead of persisting only one play, they like to give several from their repertoire, so people can see the plan and purpose of having a "no star cast," which is really an all star cast and can be different types of plays.

American tourists have had to go to Dublin to see these players at the Abbey Theatre, but for the first time in seventeen years, they are bringing their plays to the American public. Their first tour of this country, in 1911, started the "Little Theatre" movement, and every "Little Theatre" in this country has been influenced by it, and many of America's foremost playwrights have come from these Little Theatres. Among these are Eugene O'Neill. The Carolina Playmakers also gained their inspiration from the Irish.

The play to be given at the college on March 19 is by Lennox Robinson, "The Far Off Hills." It is filled with humor and is one that young people especially like.

Slight Damage From Flood

Raleigh, March 10.—(AP)—The Roanoke, Neuse and Cape Fear rivers continued to flood lowlands of Eastern Carolina today but the damage was slight, Lee A. Denison, in charge of the United States

Weather Bureau here said. The Cape Fear crested at 31 feet at Elizabethtown today, about eight feet out of its banks, and the Neuse was falling at Smithfield, where it reached 17.8 feet yesterday to go over the usual borders.

All will be in moderately heavy flood throughout their lower courses the rest of the week, he said.

Two Men Injured In Explosion in Sericus Condition

Camden N. J., March 10.—(AP)—Two of four men who were burned in a gas explosion which killed their 14 comrades were in a critical condition at the hospital today.

The life of one, Spiro Cecich, was further endangered when the ambulance taking him to a hospital figured in a collision. The other man seriously injured is Harry Reed.

All the victims lived in Camden and were cleaning a purifying box at the Public Service Electric and

ABOUT TOWN

A $200,000,000 loan to farmers has been approved by the Senate Agriculture committee. The appropriation would be made available at once under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation law which was recently passed with a view of relieving the economic situation which confronted the nation the last two years.

There was probably never a time when farmers needed loans as they do today and anything the new finance corporation can do to relieve their condition would mean much to the future of the industry.

Growers have been seriously affected by reduction of prices for their crops the last two years and inability to borrow from banks, and government loans would certainly come in handy at this time.

It is impossible to say what Congress will do with the legislation, but its members are bound to be impressed with the urgency of such a relief measure.

Persons who failed to contribute to the Salvation Army bundle day campaign last week should make it a point to do so now that the organization is faced by increased demands resulting from the cold wave sweeping over this part of the country.

Scores of people will suffer untold hardship if those capable of giving do not contribute, and hope has been expressed that contributions of old clothing and shoes will be liberal.

Anything in the clothing line will be gratefully received by members of the organization who are striving to do the best they can by the many people who apply for aid from time to time.

Greenville and community have had their share of cold weather the last few days but damage done by the storm was nothing compared with other sections of the country.

The people of this community have lots to be thankful for and especially their freedom from severe elemental disturbances such as those visiting other parts of the world. We may not have as much money as we used to have, but we have the climate and some of the most prolific land in the world, and should be thankful for it.

As long as the section is able to produce bountiful food crops we will be able to get along, and those who make it a point to complain about how hard they are having it should stop such foolishness and express gratitude for the fact that they live in one of the best sections of the country.

Thieves seem to have a weakness for chickens these days as the majority of cases heard in county court here the first of the week involved charges of this kind.

People who long ago abandoned chicken-stealing because they were sailing alone on the wings of prosperity, have returned to the old method of supplying their tables, and while some of them get by with it, the majority are finding their way to the roads to pay for their crimes.

Some commit crimes of this kind because they are hungry and have no way of providing for their families, but they should not forget they will be called upon to answer to the law for the crime.

Stealing is stealing under any condition, and chicken thieves should bear this fact in mind the next time they find themselves on the way to a chicken coop to make a lift.

With springs just around the corner merchants should make an effort to keep the public fully informed concerning the values which they will have to offer from time to time.

There is no better way to do this than through the columns of this paper and attractive window displays, and merchants should bear this fact in mind when they begin receiving their first offerings for this season.

The public expects the merchants to keep it advised concerning the arrival of new goods and the store that fails to do this is not living

Kitty Frew

By Jane Abbott

SYNOPSIS: A quick, hot quarrel—and Kitty Frew is left alone to wait for her husband, Gar, to return home. Fear overtakes her when he does not arrive. The main trouble lies in her efforts to make Gar settle down and be practical, while he wants to have a good time. They have been married only a short time, but already she has learned that the cool and mannered girl and swift-paced boys are very different from the young people of her small home town. Even though she tries to learn new points of view, Gar finds Kitty stiff and prim before his friends. His mother's leashed disapproval to the marriage makes Kitty uncomfortable and strengthens Mrs. Frew's determination to maintain control over Gar. Still waiting for Gar, Kitty goes into the hall to find a shabby stranger.

CONSPIRATORS
 "Hello, who are you?"
 The man's tone was casual, his manner equally so. He approached Kitty quickly, concerned, for he had seen her face whiten, her hands go to her throat.
 She shrank back from him.
 "Who—who are you? What do you want?"
 And then Pound appeared, smiling.
 "Good evening, Mr. David. It's nice to see you. But your father has telephoned that he's left for New York. You'll stay? Mrs. Gar, here, will like your company. Dinner is ready."

"So you are—Gar's wife?" David Frew laughed.
 "And you are David?" And because he hadn't come to tell her that Gar was killed Kitty laughed too.
 "Kitty. That name fits you neatly, Mrs. Gar."
 "It really Katherine, though no one ever calls me that."
 "Of course not, you're not big enough yet. You may grow into it."
 "I'm quite grown up."
 "And wise and experienced, of course—"

Kitty laughed at his teasing. She had laughed frequently during the course of the dinner which Pound served to them with as much care as though they were guests of state. She had eaten heartily, too. She had felt at ease with David at once. Perhaps, she thought, realizing that ease, it was because she had not speculated on meeting him.
 Through the yellow glow of candlelight over the table she observed him with interest. He was not like Gar, nor like his father. His face was thin, with high cheekbones and a long jaw; his eyes were deeper under heavy brows. His thick hair and his skin were of a weathered brown that made his gray eyes almost colorless in contrast. "He isn't a bit nice looking," she appraised, until he smiled. It wasn't Gar's quick, charming smile—it was slow-coming, lingering, transfiguring, a thing to share.

She gathered from what passed between David and Pound that he came infrequently like this, to have dinner with his father, but only when he knew Mrs. Frew would not be at home.
 "I am an intruder, you know," he had said to Kitty, lightly. "I'm here by Pound's grace. We conspire, the two of us."
 And Kitty had seen the adorning look Pound bent upon David's shabby back.
 When they finished their dinner they went into the library.
 Pound had kindled a small fire on the open hearth. "It's cheerful like," he explained.
 "Does he think we need cheer?" David laughed.
 He drew a chair up to the hearth and motioned to Kitty to take it. He himself sat down on the rug before the fire, half-facing her, his long legs doubled to his chin.
 "Now tell me all about it."
 "About what?"
 "Why you did it—why you married Gar."
 "Why, I—we—"

up to the responsibility resting upon I.
 People read the advertising columns more than ever today, and stores carrying attractive advertisements giving a vivid description of their sock will certainly be the first to receive inquiries as to what they have to offer.
 Numbers of farmers of this community are reported to be making applications for government loans with which to finance their next crops.
 This money should be used to the best advantage and made to count only for the things absolutely demanded for crop production and keeping the wolf away from the door until another harvest season rolls around.
 Some may be borrowing to pay back debts so they can obtain more credit. In this case they should see that the debts are taken care of and no put off until another harvest season. The trouble with the country at this time is that too many people have deferred the payment of their debts and spent their money for things they could have done without.
 Luxuries and extravagant spending is largely the cause of much of the money shortage experienced in America, and if the people would get away from the pleasure complex and confine more attention to the things that go only into comfortable living, it should not be long before this nation is back upon the high road of prosperity and happiness.

SPORTS SLANTS

Down around Bradenton, in Manatee county, Florida, there's no mistaking the fact that the Red Birds of St. Louis are champions of the baseball universe.

From Mayor White down to the pair of boys who do the clubhouse chores, the town glows with a pride no less enthusiastic than the spirit of St. Louis.

They chose the day of Pepper Martin's arrival to tender a noisy demonstration of welcome a dinner and an outburst of entertainment. Rising to the occasion, the Martin Bomber, in his best vaudeville manner, told that good old story about how two teams engaged in a very tight ball game.

As used of a pinch hitter arose in the ninth inning and the call was sounded along the sidelines for volunteers. A big buck was hauled out, somewhat against his will, given a bat and told to take a wallop in the pinch. He missed the first ball by a foot, then nailed the next one for a ride out of the park. As Pepper concludes it:
 "Run, man, why don't you run?"
 "Run, hell, I'll buy 'em a new ball."

BUILD UP HEALTH and pains go away

WOMEN who find themselves in a painful condition due to a run-down state of health should give Cardui a fair trial, for a reasonable length of time, as did Mrs. E. G. Hodnett, 1101 Hazel St., Texarkana, Texas, who writes: "I was anxious to build myself up so I could enjoy and take interest in my home. I had suffered with soreness and a constant pain in my side. My mother told me she thought I should try Cardui. Soon after I began taking it I noticed an improvement, so I kept on until I had taken three bottles. By this time I was feeling so much better, the pain and soreness were gone."

N. Y. COTTON

N. Y. STOCK LIST

New York, March 10.—(AP)—Cotton opened firm today at an advance of 1 to 4 points on foreign buying and covering, promoted by steady cables. May sold at 7.05.

The demand was not active but offerings were light and the early advance extended to 7.08 for May and 7.46 for October or about 4 to 6 points net higher. Reports of small spot offerings and a steady basis in the south may have contributed to the advance and while trading continued quiet, prices were steady within a point or two of the best at the end of the first half hour.

The very low temperatures reported in the southwest were noted by traders and the opinion was expressed in some quarters that a large part of the early cotton in the Rio Grande Valley would have to be replanted. Liverpool cables reported buying for a rally and covering in that market of the easier sterling and the reduction in the Bank of England discount rate.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, March 10.—(AP)—Steadiness chiefly characterized grain markets today, with wheat fluctuations keeping inside of a half cent a bushel range.

Prospects that not only Italy but Germany and France would enlarge their import quotas of foreign wheat did much to give prices an undertone of strength. There were also indications that further quantities of United States hard winter wheat had been taken for export, and that this grain was now available at somewhat below Canadian wheat of equal quality.

STOCK MARKET

New York, March 10.—(AP)—The rising movement in the stock market of the past week continued to narrow today.

A little selling around midday accompanied publication of U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage figures, but on the whole prices held close to yesterday's final levels. Speculative interest was at low ebb, with floor traders apparently providing most of the activity.

U. S. Steel sagged about a point, and similar losses appeared in National Steel and Bethlehem preferred, the last named reaching a new low. Other issues selling off a point or so included American Can, International Harvester, DuPont, American Water Works, Union Pacific and Consolidated Gas. Bullish activity appeared in some of the mining issues, notably Noranda, Homestake and Alaska Juneau. Auburn moved up 5 points in what appeared to be short covering, then lost some of its gain. International Silver made an extreme gain of 31-4, which was not fully maintained. American Telephone showed a fairly firm time. Some sizeable blocks of Socony-Vacuum appeared on the tape, but it held up well.

The steel figures were somewhat more unfavorable than expected in most quarters, but the stagnation of the industry during February had been apparent, and the stock market was able to hold up fairly well in the face of the news. The shrinkage of 102,521 tons in unfilled orders during February to a total at the end of the month of 2,545,629 tons was the 11th successive decrease, and reduces the backlog of orders to the lowest volume reported since 1904.

State Starts Action Against Gas Companies

Raleigh, March 10.—(AP)—Charging the big gas companies with planning to eliminate independent retail dealers, Attorney General Brummit has instituted action against them in the name of the State to restrain them from operating under certain exclusive sales contracts now being used.

The court was asked to find the sales contracts, under which Brummit claims 221,355,162 gallons of the 255,691,479 sold in the state last year was handled, be held illegal.

The complaint says the contracts provide for private operation of stations with the agreement that no products be sold except those of the contracting company. It contends his a violation of free competitive laws.

Bank Files Suit Against Hickory

Winston-Salem, March 10.—(AP)—The Wachovia Bank and Trust Company has filed suit for $30,000 against the City of Hickory and F. A. Abernethy, former alderman.

The complaint charges the city council conspired in secret session with representatives of the National Surety Company to force John Bohannon, president of the Catawba Construction Company, to surrender his paving contract with the City of Hickory, thereby defeating the claims of the plaintiff.

The bank claims checks for work done by Bohannon were assigned to it under a resolution of the Hickory council, and that sums were advanced to Bohannon under the resolution as the work progressed.

It charges that Abernethy, who had been furnishing material for Bohannon, had a disagreement with the contractor, and with the surety company which had underwritten the work, conspired to force Bohannon to terminate the contract.

The suit charges the Catawba Construction Company is now insolvent.

Authorities Brand New Report That Child Was Discovered Near Home

Some of this wood, he added, had been left at the estate at the request of Colonel Lindbergh who indicated it might be useful for minor carpentering about the estate if the occasion for such need arose.

Hullfish added his opinion that the ladder-building job was poorly made, as if a boy amateur. A heavy man, he said, could not have gone up the ladder found on the ground near the scene of the kidnapping.

Hullfish estimated that about 60 men had been employed in the actual construction of the house, working in shifts of 20 men at a time.

"I thought over all of the men on the job. I can't think of anything unusual in the actions, or any peculiar characteristics in any of them," Hullfish said. "But of course you can't always tell."

Ann Morrow Lindbergh has been heavily worried since by the continued absence of her baby.

She spent all of yesterday in her room with her mother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, coming down only to lunch. She obviously had been crying.

Colonel Lindbergh spent most of the day in the big white house on Southland Mountain sorting and packing his papers. He had his lunch with a group of state troopers and detectives.

The troopers presented today to the Lindberghs a map of the scraggly terrain surrounding the Lindbergh home. Armed with maps, they agreed to cover every inch of the ground.

MYERS DENIED A NEW TRIAL

(Continued from Page One) The Supreme court denied appeal for a new trial and automatically set the date of execution for the latter part of the month.

Myers, who was convicted in Superior court here during the latter part of January, slightly over three weeks after the commission of his crime was condemned to die February 29. The appeal for a new trial, however, stayed sentence until after the case could be heard by the higher court and a decision returned.

The appeal was filed by J. Con Lantz, who was appointed by the court to represent the negro, on the grounds that Judge E. H. Cranmer, of Southport, who presided over the trial, should have included a provision for second degree murder in his charge to the jury instead of directing a verdict of first degree murder or acquittal.

The case was argued a few days before date of execution as were several other appeals from this county. The court also affirmed decisions of the lower court in the cases of Hooker vs. C. S. and Clark J. Forbes, involving suits on a note and the Town of Greenville against Assurance Corporation.

The holdup and slaying of the Paeolus postmaster was one of the most daring reported in the crime in many a day. Myers went to Hodges' store one Saturday night early in January, inspected sun shoes, and then later waylaid Hodges midway between the store and his home.

The negro fired upon his victim and then robbed him of a small amount of money. Hodges was rushed to a Washington hospital for medical aid, and while his condition was not considered critical, he died a few days later as result of the injuries.

Myers was arrested about two weeks later after abandoning a stolen automobile a short distance from the scene of the holdup. He confessed the crime under grueling examination here and also admitted two holdups of a night watchman at a local tobacco company plant. The negro was carried to Raleigh and placed in the penitentiary immediately after arrest but was returned to face trial.

Immediately after he was reported missing, and immigration authorities in both northern and southern sections of the country have been asked to watch for the pair.

The couple was believed to be traveling in an automobile which Dr. Summerell presented to his wife a short while ago, and officers have been notified to seize the car and return it to Dr. Summerell.

The couple was prominent in the social life of the community. McGlohen had been connected with banks of the little town for several years and enjoyed the confidence of patrons of the institution with which he was connected at the time he disappeared.

Sheriff Whitehurst visited the bank this morning and conferred with officials but no action was taken by reason of the fact that checking of accounts had not been completed and lack of information as to the whereabouts of the missing pair left no foundation upon which to begin prosecution.

SOUSA MADE GREAT BAND

(Continued from Page One) was 63 years old, the age limit for commissioned officers is 47 but high naval officers, including former Secretary Daniels, overlooked Sousa's age and became a full-fledged lieutenant.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, now chief of naval aeronautics, was then a captain and head of the Great Lakes Naval Station. In going over his list of enrollments, he found some 600 musicians at the encampment, but most of them were without instrument.

He sent for Sousa and asked him how large the world's biggest massed band was. Sousa told him of a massed band of 199 pieces in Germany—then America's enemy.

"The thought of the enemy having something superior to the United States was too much for Moffett, and he suggested that a move be started to organize not only the largest band in America, but in the world.

Sousa explained that a band of some 550 might be handled effectively.

"Fine," Moffett told him. "Let's make it 350 for good measure and I'll give you a lieutenant's commission to organize it."

Sousa accepted and on the day he was to be enrolled, Moffett absented himself from the encampment after warning the enrolling officer that "nothing stops Sousa as a naval lieutenant."

Sousa became a lieutenant, but the blank space for age never was filled in. Some time later when Moffett told Secretary Daniels of his good luck in getting the famous leader for his encampment, Daniels raised the question of Sousa's age.

"I never thought of that," Moffett replied. "I didn't check his blank, but he certainly doesn't look over 47."

The matter again. The incident was first put on the uniform with the double stripes on the sleeves Sousa was a real naval man. He strictly observed discipline and never claimed any privileges to which one of his fame might feel entitled.

NEGRO KILLS THREE COPS

Thompson finally induced Thompson to surrender by "bombarding" him as he made an attempt to resist after the surrender.

A few hours later, on his way back to police headquarters following treatment for the wound at a hospital, officers said the negro tried once more to escape. He was shot and killed. William King, negro trusty, said he was shot by Thompson when he grappled with him after Ford was slain.

ROOSEVELT IS GIVEN BOOST

Across the fence, in the Republican camp, President Hoover's first formal bid for renomination was noted in his filing of consent for delegates pledged to him in Ohio.

Minnesota's decision for Roosevelt was not unopposed. A new in the party convention split it, a minority gathering separately to nominate delegates favorable to

Smith. But there was no prospect that this group would succeed in contesting the right of the Roosevelt delegates to take their places in the national convention.

With Minnesota in camp the New Yorker now has pledged delegates, to lead the field.

JAPAN SAYS SHE IS READY FOR 'PEACE' NEGOTIATIONS

(Continued from Page One) ed by the minister said, "and we consider it a matter of urgent necessity to reach a definite agreement for cessation of hostilities forthwith. Then we may discuss and determine arrangements for a withdrawal of Japanese troops."

Japanese authorities have presumed all along that the Japanese attitude on this matter was understood by the Chinese. Failing to hear anything from the Chinese, however, since the League's resolution was passed, the Japanese authorities wish to make clear, beyond all doubt, their readiness to negotiate along the lines laid down by the League resolution."

Japanese official sources announced this afternoon that 532 Japanese were killed and 2,072 wounded from the beginning of the hostilities here on the night of January 8.

The report said the dead consisted of 240 soldiers of the army and 145 men of the navy. Seventeen civilians were reported killed.

Of the wounded, 1,578 were of the army, 450 of the navy and 44 were civilians.

CAROLINAS IN GRIP OF COLD

(Continued from Page One) more" of the crop was destroyed. The plants were far advanced, for this season of the year due to recent mild weather, he said.

Dean I. O. Schaub of the extension service said he also lacked definite reports but he expressed fear that small grain in the Piedmont, tobacco plants in beds in the east, and the strawberry and truck crops in the east and on the coast were materially damaged.

"There was one compensation, however, Dean Schaub said. The severe cold killed many insects such as the boll weevil and tobacco beetle, and others, which had survived a very mild winter and which would have made an unusually large insect infestation this summer.

South Georgia farmers feared for summer crops but observers said the damage in the South Georgia peach belt did not appear to be heavy.

Birmingham, Ala., expected a 12 to 16 degree minimum today and night. J. L. Liles said fruit, berries and truck crops in that section had been damaged extensively.

Louisiana feared heavy damage to its sugar cane, strawberry and truck crops. Minimums from 16 to 23 and 10 to 24 in Mississippi were forecast.

Nashville, Tenn., had a temperature of 18 at 10 o'clock last night and middle Tennessee reported damage to fruit.

The Arkansas peach crop was reported damaged about 80 per cent by the cold wave and the truck crop was injured but observers believed apples were unharmed. Temperatures in that state ranged down to 8 degrees.

Smudge pots were set out last night around Mobile, Ala., to protect satsuma groves and axalea gardens. Strawberry and bean crops have been damaged by the cold.
