Four Americans At Honolulu Probably Will Be Satisfied with Judd Action.

Honolulu, May 6.—(AP)—Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, his socially prominent mother-in-law, Mrs. Granville Fortescue and two navy men, may not seek a pardon for their conviction of manslaughter in the slaying of an Hawaiian.

The sentence of each, 10 years at hard labor, was commuted to one hour by Gov. Lawrence M. Judd, of Hawaii. They served that in custody of the territorial high sheriff and were not at any time confined in prison.

Indications were today that upon the advice of Clarence Darrow, their adviser and defender, they would discontinue their efforts to obtain a pardon.

Darrow denied he had ever asked Gov. Judd to pardon the convicted quartet, explaining that newspapermen had "misunderstood" a statement in which he said "they ought to have a full pardon."

Minimizing the importance of a pardon, Darrow advised them late last night to let the matter drop. He told them to accept Gov. Judd's commutation of sentence, without seeking further relief at this time.

The deceased was a member of the Methodist church of Greenville county, where she was born and reared. She had been making her home in this county for a number of years and was held in high esteem by a wide circle of friends.

NORRIS READY TO BOLT AGAIN

Veteran Republican Will Support Roosevelt if He is Nominated.

Washington, May 6.—(AP)—That veteran independent warhorse from the wide spaces of the Northwest, Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, will bolt the Republican pasture once again to support Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt if the Democrats nominate him.

He gave assurance last night that he would back the New Yorker, even as in 1928 he stumped for Alfred E. Smith against President Hoover.

"History," he said, "has demonstrated that I was right in opposing him (Hoover) four years ago. He has not done anything he said he was going to do."

Senator Huey Long (D., La.) had said Norris would do this in passing through Atlanta yesterday. In the same breath he pledged his own support and practically that of the Louisiana delegation of 20 to Roosevelt. But he explained then that he was thinking of a reincarnation of the noted president, and not so much, if at all, of his namesake and distant relative.

Man Identified As "White Russian" Arrested by Police After Firing Two Bullets Into President's Head and Shoulder; Two Blood Transfusions Performed at Hospital; Doctors Believe Doumer Will Recover.

Paris, May 6.—(AP)—President Paul Doumer, 74-year-old head of the French republic, was critically wounded today by an assassin identified as a "white" Russian.

Two blood transfusions and a trepanning operation were performed immediately and the doctors held out some hope that the president might recover.

The police hammered at the assassin until they learned that his name is Paul Gougouloff, that he had come here from Moscow especially to commit this crime and that his motive was revenge for the French refusal to intervene in Russia against the Bolsheviks.

This evening the ministry of the interior issued this statement:

"Today at three o'clock President Doumer, during a visit to an exhibition by war veteran writers, was the victim of an attempt on his life by a Russian anarchist who appears to be not in full possession of his faculties.

"The president was struck by a bullet in the head and another in the shoulder which caused a flesh wound. He was taken to Deauville hospital where he received the attentive care of leading surgeons."

The white-headed, 74-year-old head of the republic, was shot three times and critically wounded by an assassin as he opened an exhibition of books by war veterans.

He had come from the Elysee palace with Claude Farrere, the noted author. Together they entered the grand hall of the Baron de Rothschild foundation near the palace.

Farrere walked with him up the grand staircase where the president paused to sign a copy of a book by a contemporary author.

Then he moved over to a table and stood talking with Farrere and Madam Farrere.

Suddenly a man sprang, seemingly out of nowhere, leveled a pistol at the president and fired five shots.

M. Doumer's knees crumpled, he sank to the floor. There were bullets in the front of the head, behind the ear and in the chest.

Farrere sprang forward. The assassin's pistol was still smoking in his hand. He raised it and fired twice. Farrere stopped with a bullet in the arm but lunged forward again and grappled with the man.

Paul Guichard, director of the Paris police, ran forward. The bullet struck Guichard in the arm. By this time a dozen police surrounded the man and a crowd gathered about them.

Athletics Knock West Ferrell Out and Beat Indiana 11-2

BROWNS TAKE 11 TO 3 GAME FROM BOSTON

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Wesley Ferrell won more games than any righthander in the American League last season, 22 of them, but he still is just a "coucous" to the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Cleveland Ace started against the Mackmen six times last year, almost half his total of reverses against all Cubs. He didn't win one.

Yesterday, flushed from five consecutive victories over western teams, Ferrell was chosen to open the eastern campaign at Shibe Park.

When Ferrell finally threw in the sponge in the seventh inning he had been raked for 12 hits and the score was 11 to 2, the final count, after the A's had finished up on Pete Jablonowski, was 15 to 3, and the Indians had slipped from second place into third, behind the idle Detroit Tigers.

Ferrell's route spoiled what had promised to be a pitchers' "natural." Lefty Grove held the invaders to six hits, struck out five and didn't allow a blow until the seventh.

In the only other American League tussle, the St. Louis Browns rallied to score nine runs in the sixth and seventh and defeated Boston, 11 to 3. Bump Hadley, much traveled right hander, held the Red Sox to 7 hits.

Thanks to two errors by their opponents at crucial spots, the Brooklyn Dodgers opened their tour of the National League's western points with a 2 to 1 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Moore's wild throw from the outfield gave the Dodgers their first run off Charley Root in the sixth, and Stan Hack's fumble put Lopez on base with the winning run in the seventh. It was Root's first defeat this year.

U. N. C. PLAYS 'CHEVALIERS'

University, Va., May 6.—(AP)—Defeated only once in southern conference play, one of the best University of Virginia nines in several years will come to grips this afternoon with the North Carolina nine at Chapel Hill.

A second game will be played at Greensboro tomorrow.

With the exception of the pitchers, the Virginians will present a team that has hit well above .300 in ten games, eight of them with southern conference foes.

Harry Steinberg, second baseman, has hit safely in half of his 32 official trips to the plate, to lead Cavalier batsmen with a .500 average. He is followed closely by Captain Frank Eppley who has been hitting at a .413 clip; John Brewer, third with .394; Buck Ross with a .354 average including two home runs and Cooper Dawson, utility outfielder, at .333.

Others who have been clouting the ball at a better than .300 average are Sam Lee, short stop, .308, and Ben Pinder, 304, two outfielders, Homer Drissele and Roger Charles, have each turned in .280 averages.

The Cavaliers only reverse was at the hands of Washington and Lee who won a 2 to 1 victory in an early season game. The Generals were defeated in a return game.

Kentucky Derby Loses Its Old Time Glamour

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

It's still the one horse race in America that really grips the imagination of the sports-following public, this Kentucky derby, but its 53rd running tomorrow around the picturesque oval at Churchill Downs lacks much of its customary glamour and most of its usual thoroughbred class.

For the very reason that the field is more wide open than in years it may be a better and more exciting race, even if no more than a dozen or so go to the barrier, but the uncertainty and unrest of the times has unquestionably struck this classic of Old Kentucky.

Within four days this week, the great filly Top Flight, winter book favorite; Burning Blazes, Western Star, and Universe, winner of the Wood memorial, all were withdrawn. And just as though the "gate" had not already felt the blow coming, the weather man says it looks like rain for the derby day.

Tick On, the handsome son of On Watch and star of the Loma stable, owned by Mrs. Louis C. Kaufman of New York, is the nearest thing now to a standpoint, at odds of 2 to 1 to win the $50,000 classic.

Run earlier than usual, and prior to the Preskness for the first time in years, the derby may develop a new three-year-old sensation, but the railbirds do not look for anything approaching Twenty Grand's record performance of 2:01 4-5.

The consensus, however, is that the derby winner likely will be found among these four entries: Tick On; Burgo Kin; gaired with Brother Joe as Col. E. R. Bradley's entry; Economic, the speedy property of J. H. Louchheim; Stenpetchit, coupled with Over Time as the entry of Mrs. John Hay Whitney, the former Mary Elizabeth Altemus of Philadelphia, whose colors appear in the classic for the first time.

Two of the greatest jockeys of all time will ride Mrs. Whitney's entries. Buddy Ensor, making a big comeback, will be astride Stenpetchit, son of the Porter. Ensor has never won a derby. Earle Sande will have the leg up on Over Time. He has won three derbies and will set a record if he beats home another.

YORK DRAWS TERM IN PEN

York was convicted Wednesday of a murder and today Judge Thomas Shaw, in pronouncing sentence, said he gave him the limit because the case was as bad as any he has known.

Court attaches said York would remain in jail here for a few days and that he probably would be taken to Raleigh to enter the penitentiary Monday.

York was convicted Wednesday shortly after the state rested its case and after the defense rested without offering evidence.

Burrus was slain the last of February. His body was found on a creek bank near Mount Airy with his head beaten in.

Police arrested York after they learned he had hired Burrus to take him from Mount Airy to Winston-Salem where Burrus' car was found a few days before his body was found.

Mr. Morrison, former governor, is well known in Greenville, having visited here on various occasions in recent years to deliver speeches in connection with battles of the Democratic party.

He is a fluent and forceful speaker and it was expected a large crowd would go out to hear him.

THREE HELD IN S. C. FIGHT. (Continued from page one) Three men under arrest, officers of the two Carolinas today were seeking Reese Bailey and Floyd Davis, charged with completing the quintet which Sunday night slew Police man A. B. Hunt in a Greenville, S. C. gun battle.

Reports that Reese Bailey had been apprehended in Birmingham, Ala., could not be verified.

Meanwhile, Ray Bailey, first of the suspects apprehended, lay between life and death in a Sylva hospital from five bullet wounds. His brother, Vernon, and Osborne Reeves, former Yancey county school teacher, arrested in Sylva yesterday when they sought to force entrance into Ray Bailey's hospital room, were in jail here.

Judge H. Hoyle Sink late yesterday signed an order that Briggs be brought before him tomorrow morning and if Sheriff Laurence Brown, of Buncombe county, to show cause why he is being held.

Hunt was slain when he started to investigate two men in a taxi-car after the driver had expressed fear they intended to rob him. The two within the cab fired at Hunt and he was wounded and was joined by three others. Other policemen joined the battle, and Hunt fell as the five made off in another car, spraving bullets behind them from a sub-machine gun which officers alleged was operated by Ray Bailey.

Warrants have been issued for all five, and the wounded man was under heavy guard in the hospital.

State Bank & Trust Co. TO PAY 1ST INSTALLMENT TO OLD BANK DEPOSITORS. (Continued from page one) aid in the financial recovery of the community, announced that they were ready to make payment immediately.

If all depositors were to take advantage of the offer, the bank would release a total sum of $83,900.

Bank officials expressed gratification that they were able to speed up the payment of the first certificates and believed the action would do much toward relieving the financial strain which has been experienced by the community over a period of the last two years.

In taking over the affairs of the old bank last year, State Bank & Trust Company issued four non-interest bearing certificates of deposit to the depositors of the old institution with the understanding that the certificates were to be paid once a year over a period of four years.

Under the plan to speed up the first installment, it was stated that immediate payment could be obtained by the payment of an interest rate of 6 per cent per annum from the date the same are surrendered to July 27, 1932. Where interest calculated on the basis above does not exceed 25 cents a charge of this amount will be made to cover the cost of handling the transaction, it was said.

Citizens invited all holders of certificates to take advantage of the offer if they have present need for cash funds. The offer, it was said, will not be withdrawn and can be taken advantage of any time before July 27, 1932 when the certificates mature.

Vitamins instead of Chemicals!

That's why leading health authorities approve this new fresh Orange Juice Drink!

DOCTORS, food experts—all health authorities have known for years what most people are just finding out—that millions of bottles of the so-called "fruit pops" never saw fruit juice. They're flavored only with mixtures of chemicals, synthetic concoctions made in imitation of pure fruit juices.

That's why the new Orange-Crush has won such enthusiastic endorsement. Here at last is a 5c fruit drink made with the fresh juice of tree-ripened oranges. It's different from any drink you ever tasted. Different because it's fresh! Because it's made with luscious orange juice, untainted by cooking! Leading health authorities have approved this delicious new drink. Scientific tests have proved that Orange-Crush when bottled and handled according to standard instructions retains intact the vitamins of fresh orange juice! Enjoy this delightful new drink today. But be sure that you get genuine Orange-Crush. Refuse substitutes. Insist on the new Orange-Crush that's made with fresh orange juice instead of chemical imitations. YOU CAN'T MARRY

By Julia Cleft-Addams

SYNOPSIS: One day with Garth Aveney, whom she loves, although she thinks he likes her cousin Georgie, is all Jenny Revell hopes for before she enters upon a strange deception. She is going to pretend she has married Eddie Townsend, for Georgie loses her job if discovered to be Eddie's wife.

Chapter 17

THE DOCTOR SCENTED MYSTERY

Gill continued to look steadily at Jenny.

"Might be awkward, for instance, if that gentleman in the car outside was to be told that you'd got married when you hadn't," he said and Jenny saw for the first time that his eyes were very wise and kind.

"The gentleman you met at the corner of Eyle Street last night—he's outside the hotel now. Just drawn up, he has."

Jenny got to her feet. She wondered suddenly if she were dreaming everything—this quaint conversation with Gill and the clean little shop and the street outside shown in the copper urn. She thought she would only see what she had waited for—Garth Aveney at the wheel of his car, come to take her to picnic with him in the country.

"He is very early," she said half to herself. "It isn't nearly ten."

She moved to the door and Gill stood aside. Gill—oh, yes, of course Gill had very decently asked her if she would object to his telling people that it was she who was Mrs. Townsend.

"You may tell people it was I," she said "after today. Today is going to be mine."

Gill granted. He too, was staring out at the car under the portico. He opened the door for Jenny to pass out—and still he stared.

As she stepped out on the pavement she saw that Gill had seen—that Garth Aveney, with a sudden shrug and a jerk, had switched on his engine again and was driving away.

"Praps the gentleman has mistaken the time," suggested Mrs. Bigger. She had joined them in the doorway. "How would it be if Mr. Gill was to holler after him, dearie, and let him know you're here?"

Jenny shook her head and moved away. She felt cold in the blazing sunshine and most utterly forlorn. Gill and Mrs. Bigger might watch the slowly retreating car until it turned the corner, but she could not.

Gill was walking at her side. "No sense in letting anyone think you're married when you aren't," he commented in his abrupt bass. "I shan't say nothing, one way or the other—takes a lot of questions to get anything out of me. But there's no sense in your letting Miss Revell—"

"I'm very glad to let Miss Revell say anything she likes," said Jenny as he paused. "I'm most awfully glad she can make use of me. You needn't consider me, Gill. Thank you, though, all the same."

Gill granted. Aveney's car had disappeared; the street was empty. Jenny crossed back to the hotel and went inside. The lounge was cool and held very few people. An intricate gilt clock on the mantelpiece showed ten minutes to ten. She sat quietly down by the window.

It was, after all, reasonable to suppose that Garth had found himself ahead of his appointment and had only gone for a few minutes and would return. Reasonable to sit and wait while the gilt hands sluggishly moved to ten o'clock.

Nevertheless, she knew quite positively that he would not come. He had not been at a loss as to her whereabouts. It was simply that he had arranged to take her motorine and had got as far as her door and then had decided that he couldn't, honestly, face the prospect of a whole day in her company. Later on, no doubt, he would send some formal excuse.

Why should he bother about Georgie with whom he had fallen in love?

"It says here—about that airman Townsend—" suddenly remarked an old lady in a corner, re-folding her paper—"that he had only just got married when he had that accident."

"Yes" nodded the slightly younger lady near her. "I remember him. He had dreadful dyspepsia; that accounted for his temper, people said. I remember his wife, too, poor little soul."

"I didn't know he had one."

"She died. She was a very beautiful girl. Very fair and timid. Quite unable, I should say, to stand up to him. If you have finished with that illustrated paper, may I have it?"

Jenny glanced at the clock. It was past ten—nearly a quarter past. Remote in her thought, she had this section each month, and scores are injured.

With the coming of summer weather traffic will be increased in all parts of the state and the list of fatalities will increase each month unless people begin driving with greater care.

not heard the chime. She got up and left the lounge and went up to her room again. She must go to the apartment.

It seemed silly to take off the cool frock and hat, but she felt that it would help her to forget what today had promised her; and the smart dark dress that Georgie had chosen for her would help her to do what she could—anything she could—to pay George back for all her wonderful kindness. As she adjusted the dress she could see in the mirror the pile of last evening's papers. The Record was still on the top.

Possibly Garth Aveney had read his news last night; most probably he had read his papers this morning. And they had all told him the same thing—that Georgie, whom he loved, had married Eddie Townsend. Jenny, shutting her eyes for a moment, her fingers clenched upon her little fluted frills, could hear again the thrill in his voice as Georgie sent him away. "Good-night, Miss Loyally. You've been magnificent. He ought to thank his stars for you."

No wonder that he had felt he couldn't endure Georgie's little cousin today. No wonder at all that Jenny bathed her eyes, finished dressing and went down to the street. She told herself that it was all done with now, all over and forgotten—that moment when she had stood ignored upon the pavement and watched him fling aside his just-lit cigarette, pull his hat down over his eyes, reach for the gear and—escape.

And she told herself that she had been nothing but a fool. She had thought herself, if only for a day, a golden girl, and all the time she was just a puppet, a doll; a silly little figure moving grotesquely in the shadows of Mrs. Bigger's copper urn.

Drawn up before the building in which was Georgie's flat Jenny saw an ambulance. Evidently, Eddie had been brought home.

She halted in her step then went steadily forward. Since Georgie's hesitating—"There's bad news about Ed," Jenny had given only a passing thought to Eddie Townsend. She remembered now, remorsefully, that she had not even asked wherein the bad news lay. Perhaps he was permanently injured—a cripple? She broke into a run.

There were a couple of idlers near the ambulance, but the main hall was empty. Someone was in Gill's little office, though; someone whose voice was raised in the exasperation Gill sometimes provoked.

"I tell you, I was here yesterday—I asked to see Mr. Townsend or Miss Revell; I didn't know which was which—you told me yourself the number of their apartment. It's sheer silly waste of time pretending you've never see me before."

Silence from Gill.

"Miss Revell herself informed me that Mrs. Townsend was at some hotel or other. It's no use your asking me to believe you don't know which one it is. All I want you to do is to phone that hotel and tell the lady that Mr. Townsend insisted on going straight up to their apartment. . . . Well?"

"Don't know anything about anything—" from Gill, implacably.

Jenny marched into the office. Gill was looking as wooden as a ship's figured. The man who faced him turned and retreated to Jenny instead. He was the doctor who had rendered first aid to Eddie on that horrible pavement.

"Mrs. Townsend, I understand!" he exclaimed.

"You don't understand it from me" put in Gill.

The doctor's quick glance went from Gill to Jenny. His eyes were intensely inquisitive, she thought and his voice was far too familiar.

"Your cousin told me your marriage wasn't secret, Mrs. Townsend, but there seems to be a lot of mystery made about it down here! I must have been kept hanging about here for nearly ten minutes. I'm beginning to wonder—"

"Is your patient upstairs?" Jenny asked.

The doctor flushed. Jenny had spoken in a tone that she had not used for a very long time; not since the days when she lived in her grandfather's house and wore faded gingham and hunted for eggs in the overgrown garden—and was, all the same, Miss Georgie Revell to whom nobody might be impertinent, ever.

Will Jenny or the doctor win? She is challenged by Gratton Matching, himself, tomorrow.

FIFTEEN ACRES OF LEAF PLANTS FOUND NEAR CITY

Last year in the face of depressed conditions on the tobacco market, Mr. Lewis decided to abandon the planting of tobacco for at least a year. After he had gathered his crop he didn't even take the trouble to chop down the stalks as is usually the case. The same stalks grew and flourished under favorable conditions during the winter, and under the strong winds of March and April their seed were scattered over practically every inch of the ground. The seed were covered with dust and beaten into the earth by accompanying rains and in due time became real plants.

Of course some of the plants have been assailed by Blue Mold and flea bug, but in all probability Mr. Lewis has enough on hand to supply hundreds of people and will become the savior of a community which was looking for at least a fifty percent reduction of the next crop because of the acute plant shortage.

The new plant producing method is a revelation to farmers of the vicinity and has caused many a man who has guarded his plant beds from thieves with hot iron to scratch his head, spit speculatively at some unobtainable wonder at the magnanimity of a protecting providence.

HOOVER SHARPLY CALLS ON CONGRESS TO FINISH BUDGET

charging. He accused the House of demagogic popular morale by its destruction of the original tax program; its passage of a $132,000,000 road building bill; passing the veterans' widows and orphans pension bill while refusing to sanction cuts in allowances for ex-soldiers as provided by the economy bill; virtual destruction of the latter measure; failure to make possible adequate reduction of government expense and commissions; passing a bill ordering the federal reserve board and the treasury to peg the value of the dollar; and the three at (through the bonus or other pending legislation) of enacting laws looking to uncontrolled inflation.

To this indictment the Democratic floor leader, Rainey of Illinois, jumped up with the charge that this was the president's first speech in his campaign for reelection. The Senate leader, Robinson of Arkansas, took the floor to say the plight congress finds itself in, never would have developed if the administration had had not made unaccountable errors in press rating its estimates of the revenue needed, and that no general advice but specific suggestions were required.

WILL REPORT MONEY BILLS ADVERSELY, SAYS

(Continued from page one) bonus advocate, has opposed the committee action making an unfavorable report to the House. Under the rules, Patman says June 13 would be the first day on which a vote could be forced through a petition signed by 145 members. Representative Rainey of Illinois, the Democratic leader, was designated by the committee to make the adverse report to the House. The course now open to bonus advocates is the introduction of a special rule to give the bonus bill a preferred legislative status. Such a resolution would go to the rules committee and should this committee fail to act after seven days a discharge petition would be in order.

Rainey said that in view of the forthcoming adjournment of Congress in time for the national conventions, the committee action definitely killed any opportunity for a House vote on the bonus.

An Appreciation.
Our highest thoughts are not easily put into words. That is because our estimation is so high and so cherished that any attempt to express them seems ineffective and cheap. We think of this when we think of the two instructors who were responsible for our high school showing at the Greensboro contest, and write this not out of a superficial desire for mere words but from a sincere appreciation of their qualities as well as service.
The tendency is to pay our tribute in a more material way, to point to the ribbons and the cup; and often we forget the lasting and highest value—that of character influence. To work for and with these instructors has been a pleasure, and it is largely due to this that the interest in musical work has been maintained.

Honor Roll.
The fifth marking period which ended April 22, found 42 students on the honor roll.

The freshman class had the largest number on the honor roll. The 19 freshmen who made this record

Welcome To Contestants.
Monday morning, May 2, at the regular assembly hour, the Greenville High School musicians who competed in Greensboro at the state music meet last week, were welcomed home. The chaped program was devoted to several short speeches of welcome and to several songs.

Supt. Rose gave a brief history of music in the schools and praised the contestants for their excellent work. He also emphasized the fact that every Greenville contestant deserved honorable mention for his excellent behavior in Greensboro.

Mayor Flanagan was then presented and gave words of welcome and praise to the musicians from the city officials. H. M. McGinnis, representing the civic organizations of the city, expressed the gratitude and pride of the city in its high school, and B. B. Sugg, speaking for the school board, expressed the sincere appreciation and esteem in which the board regards work of this nature.

Greenville tied Lenoir for first place in the music meet last week, winning three first places and five second places.

Class Day Program.

In a senior meeting held Thursday morning at the assembly period a definite program for senior class day was decided upon. Instead of voting for the conventional type of class day exercises, the seniors decided to have their program away from the school.
A tentative program calls for an outing at some nearby beach from 3 until 10 o'clock. Cars and food are to be furnished jointly by mothers and parents. The afternoon program calls for swimming; and following this a picnic supper will be served. Then around a campfire the class day features, such as class history, statistics, phopsey, poems will be read; after the class day facts are revealed, a dance will be held at some convenient place.

Delegation Visits Goldsboro.

On Thursday, May 6, the Greenville High School delegation, chosen by the various classes, went to Goldsboro for an inspection tour. While there the students observed carefully the manner in which the school was run. Particular attention was paid hall order, class room routine and general school spirit. Each visitor looked for that which if put into effect in the Greenville system will make it a better system.

A similar delegation has already been to Kinston, and delegations from Kinston and Goldsboro have visited us. The aim of each delegation has been the same. Much good is expected to result from these visits, and they may become an annual affair.

Decide Against Caps and Gowns

After taking a popular vote the senior class has decided not to use caps and gowns. The senior boys immediately decided to wear navy coats and white trousers. The senior girls, however, have not yet fully decided what will be their graduation costume. It is thought that they will wear white sport suits and pastel shades for the commencement services.

JANICE MCGOWAN—11.

To Sponsor Party.

This evening at 8:30 the junior class will sponsor its last party of the year. Every arrangement has been made to insure its success, and a large crowd is expected to attend.

The juniors expect to realize enough from this party to complete the Junior-Senior banquet fund without assessing members of the class.

Invitations To Banquet.

On Wednesday morning during the home room period the junior and senior classes met in the auditorium. Jim Slay, president of the junior class, took charge of the meeting and called to the front Louis Skinner, president of the senior class.

President Slay then presented a beautiful basket of flowers to President Skinner. Among the flowers was a cleverly written invitation to the senior class to attend the annual Junior-Senior party on Friday, May 13. The invitation assured the seniors that the juniors have planned a glorious time for everyone.

ELIZABETH MUSSELWHITE—11

Invitations Ordered.

Just as soon as a definite announcement was made concerning the closing of school, the senior class ordered their invitations.

Elizabeth Carr and Catherine Tyson were appointed to take the orders for cards and invitations and to collect. Twelve hundred invitations were ordered. Edwards and Broughton of Raleigh did the work.

The invitations for this year is a plain, formal type made up of shaded old English script engraved on white paper.

Snow Hill Defeats Greenville

On Tuesday afternoon Greenville High journeyed to Snow Hill in their new uniforms, but returned with a defeat 4-2, the third of the season.

Bery Dail pitched six innings, striking out ten and not allowing a single hit. Roger Taylor went in when Dail was changed to catcher. Taylor allowed two hits and struck out seven men. The heavy hitters for Greenville were William Woolard, who turned in a triple, and Roger Taylor, a double and single. Hart, catcher and Shirley first baseman, starred for Snow Hill.

Rocky Mount Defeated.

In a return match with the Rocky Mount golf team on the Greenville Country Club course on Wednesday afternoon, the high school team defeated their opponents 10-9 in one of the most interesting tournaments of the year.

The Greenville team, although young, has had a splendid season thus far, having won three out of four matches, and losing the fourth by only two points.

JURY BEGINS MEANS PROBE

tained $100,000 of false representations that he could obtain the return of the kidnapped Lindbergh baby from his abductors was begun today.

Mrs. Edward B. McLean, estranged wife of the publisher of the Washington Post, who said she gave Means the money, was one of the three chief witnesses.

The others were Nelson T. Hartson, an attorney for Mrs. McLean, and Signor Grifoni, an Italian butler who had served her for 20 years.

Hartson said Grifoni was present when Mrs. McLean is supposed to have turned over the money to Means.

As she went into the jury room, Mrs. McLean told newspapermen: "This is distasteful, of course, but I am going through with it." On her behalf, Hartson added:

"She knew, undoubtedly, Means' record all the time, but she certainly believed he would come through in this case." Means has served time in the Atlanta penitentiary.

Leo A. Rover, United States attorney, asked the jury to indict Means for larceny after trust.

shiny straw hat and fur to match J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Justice Department's bureau of investigation, and John M. Heith, an employe conferred with Leo A. Rover, United States district attorney just before the hour set for the grand jury meeting.

The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of a Catholic church, and George W. White, president of the Metropolitan National Bank of Washington, were among those expected to testify. Mrs. McLean said yesterday she conferred with Father Hurney during the negotiations and he has said he saw Mrs. McLean give the money to Means. Meanwhile, standing in the runway before his cell in the District of Columbia jail, Means told newspapermen that he had been engaged by Mrs. McLean at a retainer of $100 a day and expenses to bring about the child's return and that he had been given $100,000 to turn over to the kidnapers.

He added that this sum was given to a mysterious "Number 11," whom he described as a supposed agent of Mrs. McLean, after she had become convinced that his efforts to return the baby were fruitless and had demanded return of the money.

UPCHURCH TO BE REPLACED

meeting of the league's board of directors in Greensboro.

Dr. Barton announced the change was to be made, but would not say who had been selected as the new superintendent, pending the latter's acceptance.

From Greensboro, however, came dispatches saying it was learned from authoritative sources there the post had been tendered to George W. Burnett, of Memphis, Tenn., said to be a lay temperance worker of wide experience.

Mr. Upchurch in Raleigh, declined to comment, but indicated he was aware of the league's plans.

WANT ADS PAY

NOTICE!

To Holders of Deferred Certificates of Deposit of State Bank & Trust Co.

In taking over the affairs of the National Bank of Greenville, there were issued to each of its depositors by the State Bank and Trust Company four non-interest bearing Certificates of Deposit payable July 27th each year for a period of four years.

The first of these certificates is due and payable July 27, 1932.

Since its opening nearly a year ago, State Bank and Trust Co. has undertaken to render every possible service to this city and community where the service could be rendered with due regard for the safety of its depositors.

In keeping with this policy it now proposes to do more for the depositors of the National Bank of Greenville than promised. We know the difficulty many people are having in obtaining credit at the present time on a satisfactory basis and in our desire to relieve this situation we are going to waive the time of payment of the Certificates due July 27, 1932.

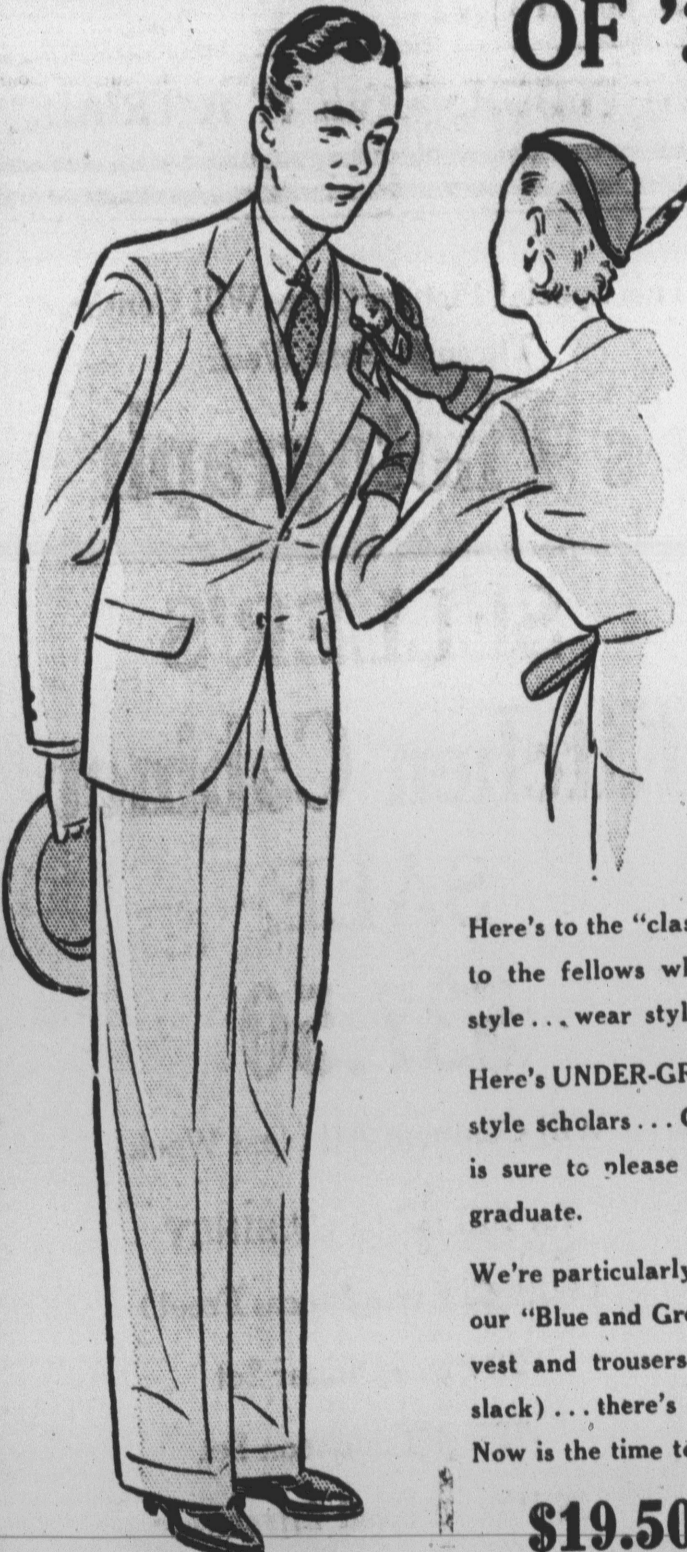

Holders of such certificates may obtain immediate payment by paying interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from the date the same are surrendered to July 27, 1932. Where interest calculated on the above basis does not exceed 25 cents a charge of this amount will be made to cover the cost of handling the transaction.

We invite all holders of these certificates to take advantage of this offer if they have present need for cash funds. This offer will not be withdrawn and can be taken advantage of any time before July 27, 1932 when the certificates mature.

New York Cotton

New York, May 6.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today an advance of 1 to 3 points on trade buying and covering. There were light offerings from the south. July sold at 5.71.

Overnight reports of a continued steady spot situation in some sections of the belt, together with reports of a generally higher opening in the stock market and the comparatively light offerings, were considered factors on the advance which carried the market about 5 to 7 points net higher by the end of the first half hour.

Liverpool cables said that some local buying and trade calling had been supplied by Bombay liquidation in that market, but reported a better cloth inquiry from India, although most offers were said to be unworkable.

Grain Market

Chicago, May 6.—(AP)—Chances that Franco-Russian governmental difficulties might result from the shooting of President Doumer by a "white" Russian gave more than 2 cents hoist to wheat values today.

Trade uneasiness over possible international complications because of the shooting was emphasized by London reports that Russia had contracted for 40,000 tons of Canadian wheat and 7,000 tons of Australian wheat. It was further reported from London that Russia was in the market for 100,000 tons of wheat.

Stock Market

New York, May 6.—(AP)—Wall street derived considerable encouragement today from the renewed effort in Washington to balance the federal budget, and the unfavorable report of the House Ways and Means committee on the bonus bill.

Prices made fair recoveries, although the advance was interrupted at times by hanger liquidation. Numbers of leaders pushed up 1 to 2 points in the early dealings, then slipped back, only to resume their advance before midday. By early afternoon, there were numerous issues up 1 to more than 3 points. Trading quickened on the advance.

While the sharp increase in income taxes proposed by the Senate Finance committee were viewed with some uneasiness in Wall St., leading bankers have been so insistent upon the imperative need of balancing the budget as a prerequisite to economic recovery that a hopeful view was taken of the progress made. Pres. Hoover's sharp message to Congress urging action upon taxation and economy measures to lift the weight of uncertainty from business was widely construed as a bullish development.

WILL NOT ASK RUNOFF VOTE

(Continued from page one) regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen and Collins, was warmly commended for his action by Mayor Flanagan, who stated that he felt sure the entire city would appreciate the consideration shown by Mr. Collins in view of the depressed financial situation.

Collins, who ran six votes behind Taft in the three-cornered race last Monday, said he decided not to ask for a second election because he thought it for the best interest of the people generally in the face of existing economic conditions. He said he did not wish to place the city at any extra expense at a time when every cent was needed to keep the machinery of government moving and had decided to drop out.

He praised young Taft and said he felt sure the new alderman would fill the office with credit and distinction to himself and the community.

Mr. Collins during his administration has served on numbers of important committees and was highly commended by the board for his position on the second election and the services he has rendered the community.

CITY SCHOOLS TO RUN 8 1-2 MONTHS TERM HERE (Continued from Page One) the school board, the aldermen agreed to assist the schools through the half month period and enable them to complete the major part of the program prepared for the session.

Under the arrangement actual school work will close May 26 with commencement exercises on the 28th and 29th.

Action of the aldermen will enable the schools to complete the session on a cash basis, a condition that proved a source of gratification to members of both boards.

A tentative decision on the question was reached at a joint session of the aldermen and school board the night before.

In addition to consideration of the school question, the aldermen also completed work in several other matters affecting the operation of the city government.

After considerable discussion, it was decided to postpone the advertising of 1931 taxes for thirty days. Similar action has been taken by the county and several other counties and cities of the state in an effort to give delinquent taxpayers more time in which to settle their taxes before advertising notice of suit.

In order to render a greater service to the traveling public the board decided to set aside the south side of Third street, between Evans and Cotanche, for the parking of automobiles at night by people visiting the city. The suggestion was offered by Alderman J. L. Hassell, who stated similar action had been taken by other cities with a view of offering great accommodations to the hundreds of people who visit the city from year to year and have difficulty in finding places to park overnight.

Under the plan, traveling people who park their cars on the street designated will not be troubled with tags requiring them to appear in police court, but may spend their time here in complete security from molestation from such a source.

Fred Barnhill, of the colored fire department, appeared before the board and requested that the local department entertain colored firemen at the annual who will assemble here in annual

Austrian Cabinet Quits Posts Today

Vienna, May 6.—(AP)—The Austrian cabinet, headed by Chancellor Karl Buresch, resigned today.

The resignations, presented to President Miklas by Chancellor Buresch, were accepted, but the chancellor consented to the president's request that he continue in office until a new government is formed.

convention the third week in August. From $300 to $400 has been contributed by other cities for entertainment of similar gatherings, but the board, which has stressed economy for months, agreed to provide $200. The convention will bring to the city some 400 firemen who will put on a spectacular race program featuring several different events.

The matter of reducing insurance on the library was referred to the insurance committee with instruction to confer with members of the Library Commission.

Clerk Duvall read a report of the canvass of the recent aldermanic election in which five members were elected to the board. The winners were C. W. Hearne, first ward; J. L. Hassell, second ward; J. M. Taft, third ward; W. H. Norris, fourth ward; A. E. Hobgood, fifth ward. The returns were duly certified and approved.

Alderman Collins, member of a committee appointed at a recent session to investigate market conditions, recommended that the ordinance providing for connection of fish boxes with sewer lines be left as it is. The recommendation was approved. The ordinance also requires concrete floors.

In connection with investigation of meat inspections, Collins recommended that Dr. Viola, city inspector, be permitted to collect fees as he goes. This was accepted.

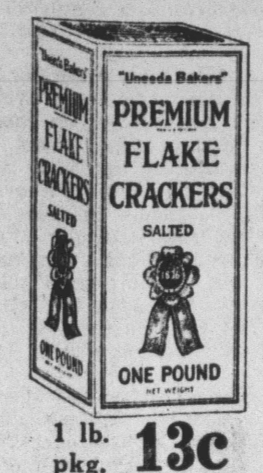

At the suggestion of Alderman Boyd, the inspector will be required to make daily inspection of meats arriving at the market in order that it may be in best condition when it reaches the consumer. Marketmen who sell meats without inspection will be subject to fine.

It was decided to let the tax of $100 on business stand as it was. The Miller case was allowed to conduct a sale upon payment of the regular merchandise tax. It being shown that he was a local business man with long business connection here.

The board turned down a claim of $250 which J. T. Bland presented for services during the transfer of the gas plant to the city. The board found that Mr. Bland had never been employed by the city, and that no contract existed.

The mayor was empowered to handle fees and continuance of action in the Moye case, seeking payment for a strip of land used as a street in the western part of the city.
