WALKER SAYS SOMEBODY IS AFTER BLOOD

N. Y. Mayor Charges Administration Probe an "Examination Before Trial"

New York, May 26.—(AP)—Angrily charging that his examination before the Hafstader legislative committee was a preliminary to seeking his removal from office, Mayor James J. Walker today continued his recital of "countless indignities" shown him as mayor of the country's metropolis.

Today's session, the second at which the mayor has occupied the witness chair, began with pleasantries and an exchange of courtesies between Walker and Samuel Seabury, chief counsel of the committee which for 14 months has been delving into the city's affairs.

But acrimony soon burst out and the mayor gave way to the angriest outburst yet witnessed in the chamber which has been the scene of countless shouted imprecations.

"I'm here as a witness," he exclaimed after saying that he recognized the antagonistic attitude of Seabury, "but it begins to look as though somebody were after my life."

"It is apparent to me that this is just an examination before trial—that it is preliminary to preferring charges with the governor asking for my removal."

Seabury became just as angry as the mayor and denounced the latter's statement as "a cheap political stump speech."

The session began with renewed reference to a joint brokerage account the mayor testified yesterday he had with Paul Block, publisher. The mayor put nothing into the account, but he took more than $246,000 out of it.

"What do you think was the reason for Mr. Block opening the account?" Seabury asked.

"I would prefer you ask Mr. Block," the mayor replied, launching then into praise of Block, long his close friend, and adding that he had been the recipient of countless other kindnesses.

He said he had participated in no other joint accounts—"Not that I can remember."

Mayor Walker acknowledged, however, that he profited $10,000 by an investment made for him, with no expense to the mayor by Edmund O'Brien, a man not previously mentioned in the investigation.

And he told of a dinner in Atlantic City where he was told of a pool in Couden Oil which it would cost him nothing to enter, "because the stock had gone up," since the pool was opened. Later he was informed the pool had been closed and he was given $26,000 in bonds.

The whole morning session was led with fireworks. Democratic members of the committee shouting that if Walker should be removed he would be re-elected by the greatest popular vote ever known, and one minority member shouting that Seabury had been appointed counsel of the committee by the Republican state chairman before the committee was formed.

The mayor himself seemed ever ready to start an argument or join one and at one point halted his testimony to stare at the counsel table at which he said someone was sneering at him.

"You're very sensitive today," remarked Seabury.

ROBBERS FREE BANK CASHIER

Wife and Son of Arkansas Banker Also Released in Daring Robbery

Portland, Ark., May 26.—(AP)—A bank cashier, his wife and 18-year-old son and a woman house guest were kidnapped in a $10,000 bank robbery here yesterday and released unharmed after an exciting 150-mile automobile ride with the bandits.

The household of the cashier, R. P. Harvey of the Bank of Portland, was held up about daybreak by two men who announced they wanted money and intended "to get it."

The Harveys and their guest, Mrs. Ellen Vann, were closely guarded until the time vault of the bank could be opened at 8:30 a. m.

One bandit kept watch at the home while the other went with the cashier to the bank and rifled the vault of nearly $10,000. When Harvey and his guard returned, two of the prisoners were forced to accompany one of the bandits in the cashier's automobile and two in the other car.

After a drive almost to Vicksburg the robbers left their prisoners to motor home in Harvey's car and continued their flight in the other automobile, believed to have been stolen in North Little Rock. Harvey said the bandits treated the quartet well but warned firmly against giving any alarm.

J. W. Pugh, president of the bank, discovered the robbery and kidnapping when he found the institution closed late in the morning and the Harvey home abandoned.

The proposal came up this time as an amendment, by Senator Bingham (R., Conn.) to substitute a two cents a pint tax on beer for all the excise levies in the billion dollar revenue bill.

FILE REPORTS ON CAMPAIGN

Nearly Half of Candidates in County Fail to File Expense Accounts

Out of a total of seventy-five contestants, only forty had filed when the final reports were checked this morning, it was indicated by records in the office of J. Frank Harrington, Clerk of the Superior Court.

Those failing to file a report of their expenditures as provided by the Corrupt Practices act were confined largely to township officers and "it was believed the majority were unfamiliar with the law requiring preliminary reports by last night.

One of those failing to file appeared at the courthouse this morning and presented his report, declaring that he did not know (Continued on page six)

Crazed Man Stabs Girl To Death; Two May Die

Cleveland, May 26.—(AP)—A knife-wielder who called himself "Mystery Jake" turned on a crowd of school children today, stabbed one girl to death and perhaps fatally injured two more.

He was captured a few moments later by Patrolman Charles Mchely on school traffic duty nearby as hundreds of persons on their way to work gathered and threatened mob action.

The man incoherently muttered that he "had a call to kill millions" and called on the patrolman to "kill me, kill me, I have not killed enough."

The dead girl was Elaine Mackin, 8. The critically injured were Lena De Sand 12, and Rose Marie Parker 8. They were on their way to St. Cecilia's school at East 151st street and Kinsman road, near where the attack occurred.

The man, who gave his name as Jake Goron, 40, suddenly plunged into a group of children, brandishing a knife, and without warning slashed the throat of the Machin girl, witnesses said. Then he turned wildly on the other two girls and cut them about the throat.

TEN PERCENT TAX IS PLACED ON COSMETICS

Toilet Articles and Jewelry Also Come in for Similar Tax as Senate Carries Out Committee Program

Washington, May 26.—(AP)—In a burst of speed that signalled the end of the tax controversy, the Senate today rewrote the entire excise tax schedule of the billion dollar revenue bill.

It placed new excise levies back into the measure so fast that at stages no one knew just what was going on. The headlong action was taken upon the recommendation of the finance committee.

Obviously tired of the tax contest and willing to accept the new compromise offered by the finance committee which met early today, the senate shouted in the new levies in rapid fire order.

The taxes on jewelry, cameras, firearms, matches, soft drinks, candy boats, cosmetics and toilet preparations provided by the House measure were restored to the senate bill along with the other excise rates on automobiles and chewing gum previously agreed upon in the senate.

All this was done to lighten the burden from automobiles resulting from refusal of the senate to increase the rates on passenger cars and trucks from three to two per cent to four and three per cent respectively.

Washington, May 26.—(AP)—The Senate restored the ten per cent tax on cosmetics and toilet articles to the revenue bill today in a drive to add new funds to the budget balancing legislation.

Within a few minutes after the finance committee recommended registration of a batch of excise levies carried by the House bill but not in the compromise senate measure, the Senate began carrying out the program.

The cosmetics and toilet preparations levy was put back in the bill without even a record vote. This added $20,000,000 in revenue to the bill.

The changes approved by the committee were estimated to produce $50,000,000 of revenue.

The Senate was in a mood for action and in a determination to raise taxes.

Quickly the ten per cent jewelry tax was restored to the revenue bill. Exemptions of tooth paste and dentifrice voted by the committee from the toilet article tax were shouted down by the senate.

It also refused to accept a committee recommendation to exempt sterling silver from the jewelry tax.

So fast was the Senate working that leaders on both sides of the aisle finally asked for order to find out what was happening.

Another $6,000,000 was added as the Senate restored the House tax of five per cent on mechanical refrigerators.

Previously, an annual use tax on pleasure boats over 28 feet in length was agreed upon by the committee.

It would start at $10 for craft over 28 feet, increasing to a maximum of $200 for vessels over 200 feet.

The committee recommendation to exempt jewelry selling for less than $3 from the ten per cent tax was accepted.

Senator Connally (D., Tex.) demanded that sterling silverware be taxed.

THE MEMORIAL POPPY

(By Stafford King, Past Commander, The American Legion, Department of Minnesota.)

No rose flower whose crimson petals bloom and drop and fall before each setting sun. But more—

It typified the blood of those who died but yesterday upon the shell torn fields of France. It symbolizes all that well the sacrifice of those who walk the silent valleys of the deep. It brings to us the wind-tossed sea which shelters them.

Within its heart we see the still, white crosses row on narrow row which sentinel the hills where sleep the countless numbers—Our Legion of the Dead.

And, glancing deeper still within the poppy's bleeding heart we see those others on their beds of pain or stumbling haltingly along the way of life, The Sick, the Lame, the Blind, And side by side with them The widowed mother, the orphan and the wife.

A simple flower, 'tis true, But more— A symbol of that sacrifice Which made and kept us free.

And so, Lest memory dim with time We wear A POPPY FOR REMEMBRANCE.

Several Women Injured Trying To Hear Trial

London, May 26.—(AP)—Several young women were injured today while attempting to push their way into Church House, Westminster, where the Rev. H. F. Davidson, 62-year-old rector of Stiffkey, is being tried on charges of immorality.

Sensational testimony during the last few days resulted in a large crowd of aspirant spectators when the court reconvened this morning.

After a struggle in which several girls were painfully crushed, police got control and locked the doors of Church House. They locked out hundreds of persons.

Inside, spicy testimony started yesterday was continued. It revolved about a photograph of the elder rector with a young girl who, the prosecution indicated, was nude except for somewhat inefficient draping with a shawl.

Repeatedly and heartedly Mr. Davidson denied knowing that, aside from the shawl, the girl was nude. He said he thought she wore a bathing suit, explaining that the picture had been designed to advertise bathing suits. He was bombarded by prosecution questions the general purpose of which was to break down his denial.

Appel Protests Loudly

Chicago—It's all right to correct errors in grammar, but be careful about picking examples, says Assistant Corporation Counsel Appel, in a school book entitled "Common Errors in English Corrected."

He spotted a sentence saying: "Neither gangsters nor murderers are molested very much by the Chicago police." He sent a letter to the publisher saying something ominous about jibel.

Minneapolis—Raymond Johnson, 12, made a good catch and thereby saved a life. Glancing up, he saw a baby rolling off an apartment house roof. He caught the child as it fell and was knocked to the ground. The baby suffered a possible skull fracture but doctors said it would live.

Former Follies Beauty Divorced

Los Angeles, May 26.—(AP)—A former follies girl, Helen Lee Worthing, has been granted an interlocutory divorce decree from her negro physician husband, Dr. Eugene C. Nelson.

The decree was given her yesterday. A former divorcee suit, in April, 1931, had ended in a reconciliation.

The actress charged her husband with physical attacks upon her, and claimed she was so severely injured that she was forced to summon police. On numerous occasions, she said, he had fits of temper and threatened to kill her.

Capone Seeks Review of Case

Washington, May 26.—(AP)—Al Capone, the Chicago gangster now serving a sentence in the Atlanta penitentiary for evasion of federal income taxes, today asked the Supreme court to reconsider its recent action refusing to review his case.

Michael J. Ahern, counsel for Capone, in asking the rehearing, asserted the government had admitted the indictment on which his client had been convicted was so drawn that Capone was not protected against a second prosecution for the same offense.

He declared the court must have overlooked this fact and insisted the indictment was so indefinite as to be fatally defective.

Ahern also argued the ten year sentence was imposed for offenses which were shown by the government to have been barred by the statute of limitations.

A Massachusetts tax evasion case in which the indictment was set aside because it was not within three years from the date of the alleged evasion was cited.

Jury Still Out In Murder Case

Rutherfordton, May 26.—(AP)—Bert McSwain was convicted of second degree murder today in the death of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Alonzo McSwain, and Judge J. H. Clements sentenced him to 25 to 30 years in state's prison.

ABOUT TOWN

Republicans are casting about for the proper phrasing of their plank on prohibition, and to make sure it meets with approval of the leaders, President Hoover has called a meeting for next week to settle the matter.

The President has been very quiet on this question throughout his administration. He is as non-committal now as he was when he first entered office, although he has led people to believe he is a staunch advocate of the dry law.

Whatever his opinion, however, he will come nearer expressing himself at the conference than any other time since his election and the country is looking forward with his pronouncement with interest.

It is obvious the Democrats mean to obtain money for relief of unemployment before they leave Washington, and that was the reason for the bill which went before the Senate yesterday seeking millions of dollars for this purpose.

The Democrats realize the best way to improve conditions is to put money within the reach of the average man. They know that this can be done alone through a public works program such as enunciated by leaders sometime ago and hope to reach the goal of their ambition before congress comes to a close.

President Hoover attempted to relieve the condition through the Reconstruction Corporation but he started from the wrong angle. He planned to have money flow downward from big interests to the public, but the principle is all wrong. He must put money in the hands of the people through some form of industry and then let it flow back up before anything definite is achieved. It has always been the case and it will be true in this crisis.

The Democrats have hit upon a happy plan for relief and if they succeed the prosperity Mr. Hoover has seen "around the corner" ever since he entered office would become an actuality.

Pitt county candidates aren't putting out much coin in the campaign to capture offices in respective branches of government. One reason is because they don't have it, and the other is if they have to buy victory they don't want it.

If the same opinion prevailed campaign expenses, and the investment be so much disturbance about throughout the country there would be no need of any money at all. The trouble with the office seekers high up is they have some plan in view whereby they will make many times the amount of money put into campaigns. If it were just a matter of the salary they receive, campaign expenses would be so small it would require a magnifying glass to discover them.

When men start out to buy public office they are on dangerous grounds and nobody knows it better than some of those who had their expenditures examined by federal investigators. The safe, sane thing to do is to stay within the law, and win the campaign on merit and not through mink.

Candidates for office in the forthcoming primary are making lots of promises if elected to the office to which they aspire, but the public should first consider the record of the candidate before giving too much attention to the things he promises.

Trees, according to an old adage, are known by the fruit they bear. The same applies with unerring accuracy to an individual. A person with a doubtful or questionable past can't hope to receive the faith of a man whose whole life has been based on a principle of honesty and fairness with his fellowman.

It is easy to make promises when something is in view, but it is difficult to recall them after years have partly obscured them, especially when something happens to bring them to the forefront.

Candidates must be judged according to their fitness and qualifications for office, and not by what they think they will do after they accomplish their purpose. Voters should remember this when they

YOU CAN'T MARRY

By Julia Cleft-Addams

SYNOPSIS: Gratton Matching suspects that Jennie Revell is not married to Eddie Townsend. But that her cousin George is the girl's real lover. While the deception lasts, George can keep her position. Jennie's false position as Eddie's supposed wife has caused Garth Avenue, Matching's nephew, to misjudge her.

Chapter 34

THE STORY OF A BRIDE

"Oh, are they for me?" said Jennie Graton Matching nodded.

"All of them? All these heavenly flowers?"

"Every one. Here, pick 'em up. The fools sent me red roses at first, but I sent 'em back. White roses for little Miss Jennie, eh? Pity there aren't blue roses, to match your gown. Blue and white, you're all blue and white today. And last night you were all silver."

Jennie sat again beside the huge bed, but now it was afternoon and she could see her strange old friend more clearly.

"I told you I'd have something you like waiting for you next time you came," he rasped, with an almost childish satisfaction in the armful of flowers he had given her.

"And I was right, wasn't I? No chocolates and ices and fans for you, little Miss Jennie? Flowers every time. And I knew you'd come too, I knew you'd come."

"I began to be afraid this was the wrong time of day, though. I had such trouble in inducing your servants to let me see you."

"The rasping voice rose to a squeal."

"I'll dismiss the lot of them, the idle, incompetent hounds! I'll—no, wait, maybe they didn't get my message that you were to be admitted at any time, at once! It was that valet fellow I gave it to, and then later on in the night I sent him packing. You said you didn't trust him. Remember?"

"But you didn't dismiss him because of anything I said?"

"I'd had my suspicions of him for a long time. It was he, I don't doubt, who sold the Mexican estimates to the Gortenz group. You don't follow that, eh? Never mind your cousin will, no doubt. You can tell her if you like."

Jennie pondered. All she could gather was that there was something about estimates that he wanted George to know and that he was shirking the job of telling her himself.

She shook her head at him, dimpling. He really was so absurdly like grandfather!

"If there's dirty work to be done at the cross-roads," she declared, "you should do it yourself."

"You pretty, pert thing! There's spirit in you!"

"I'm George's cousin," she reminded him. It had struck her before as inhuman the way he never mentioned George.

"Yes, stuff of a kind in her, too," he agreed. He gave his familiar wriggle and lay flat. He looked more than ever like a long, gray slate-pencil. "She showed it all right the other night, didn't she? You know about that, of course, the little trap we laid for her, my young nephew and I?"

"No, I don't know. Mr. Matching, tell me!"

"Nothing very important. Just a little trap we laid to see if she would sell my nephew a business secret. And she wouldn't."

"You mean," stammered Jennie, "that before she knew he was your nephew he tried to bribe her? It—it was a business matter?"

Oh, why didn't I think of that explanation for myself?

"You modern young people," grumbled the ugly old voice from the bed, "you never even think of anything for yourselves that I can discover! You have to be told the simplest truths—and then you don't believe them." He rapped her hand smartly to recall her attention.

"You don't believe what I have just said, I suppose, do you now?"

Yes, Jennie believed him. It was to the polls and vote for those they believe will serve them best at all times in spite of terrific pressure which may be brought to bear by forces of the dark.

Saturday is poppy day and scores of young women will be on the streets selling the tiny flowers made by the hands of wounded World War veterans and their families.

Money spent for the tiny flowers helps to make living just a bit more cherry for the drab lives of the men who went across to No Man's Land and sacrificed the best in them that others might live and enjoy the fruits of prosperity and plenty.

It will also be used to aid the children and families of the veterans who have been helpless since the great conflict and unable to provide sufficiently for their loved ones.

The tiny red flowers are emblematic of Flanders' field where the dead lie peacefully sleeping, the sleep of all eternity, and it is nothing but right that the public should buy if only through pure recognition of the things for which the veterans shed their last drop of blood.

Don't forget, but do your part to make the remainder of life a bit happier for those who survive the carnage only to suffer mortal agony during the remainder of their lives. It is the best you can do and certainly you will not regret this service to humankind.

already difficult to understand how she had come to believe anything else. She must have what Ryder Vale had called an "inferiority complex." A profound conviction that no one who knew George could ever possibly have eyes for George's cousin, even now—

When your nephew spoke to you about me?—are you sure that he meant me, really? You see, it's so much more likely that he would be—would be interested in George—

"Much, much more likely!" jeered Graton Matching. He rapped her hand again. "Now, you'll have to run away; I've got a lot of people coming to see me. Two doctors and a lawyer—"

The blank eyes that were yet so bright searched hers, but she could not read their riddle. "You'll come again tomorrow and there'll be blue flowers for you."

"No, tomorrow it's my turn to give you something," insisted Jennie. She had in her mind's eye the jars of sticky sweets in Mrs. Bigger's window; probably he would like those round brown ones with blue and red bands. She rose, gathering up her flowers, and smiled at him.

He did not smile back. He just laid and raked her face with those bright, blank eyes. Then, as her hand was on the door, he suddenly ground out:

"You make it up with that young blockhead of mine and be quick about it. Who's this actress he's running around with, eh? I've told him I won't have it—I've no use for a woman with green fingernails—and then there's this nonsense of yours about marrying my pilot. Muddle and waste, all of it."

"You mean Brigitta Deering?"

But he would not say clearly what he meant.

"You haven't wished me goodbye," he grumbled.

She went back to the bed, bent over him and kissed him on the forehead. When she was again at the door she looked back and saw that his eyes were closed.

She made her own way out of the house, glancing as she went at the closed doors that lined the corridors. Behind one of them George sometimes worked. Jennie had only once seen George at work, but she had never forgotten her impression of competent, balanced, tireless keenness. Miss Revell, in her dark, tailored dress, groomed to perfection was a different being from the George who ranted in extravagance, grabbing every last gleam of gaiety from life. And since one couldn't agree with that riotous George, couldn't beat down her selfishness, why not appeal to Miss Revell?

At worst she would speak into a house telephone and one would be firmly shown the door.

George's happiness, or her own—Jennie must choose tomorrow.

Reduced 30 Pounds Never Felt Better

Safe Way To Lose Fat

Take the case of Miss Madelone Crowley, for instance, who lives in Little Rock, Ark. Just read her letter:

"I have used Kruschen Salts for one year—when I started I weighed 140 pounds—now I weigh 110 pounds and never felt better in my life."

That's the big reason a host of men and women take Kruschen to lose weight—as the fat goes you gain in health—skin clears—eyes grow bright—activity replaces indolence.

Take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—cut down on fatty meats, potatoes and sweets—a jar of KRUSCHEN that costs but a trifle lasts 4 weeks—get it at any drugstore in the world—but for your health's sake demand and get Kruschen Salts.

Grimes Enables Bruins To Snatch 3 To 0 Win From Cards

BABY BROWN AIDS BRAVES TO PICK BIRDS

By GAYLE TALBOT
Burlleigh Grimes admitted from the witness chair only three days ago that he was just about "washed up" as a big league pitcher; but he would never have gotten away with it had the St. Louis Cardinals been sitting in judgment.

The Red Birds were ready to swear today that the 38-year-old left-hander still has plenty of jolts left in his right arm.

All they needed to refresh their minds was a glance at yesterday's box score, in which they encountered their former teammate for the first time since he helped pitch them to a world championship last October.

The Chicago Cubs, he set his old comrades down with seven scattered hits and shut them out, 3 to 0. It was Grimes' fourth start; for the Cubs and his third victory.

The triumph not only was a source of satisfaction to the veteran, but was a great help to the Cubs in their neck and neck scrap with Boston for the National league top, enabling them to stay within eight percentage points of the pace-setting Braves. The defeat, on the other hand, nearly tumbled the Cardinals out of the first division, leaving them a half game ahead of the fifth place New York Giants.

Bobby Brown, the 20-year-old sensation from Birmingham, kept the Braves at the head of the class by defeating Brooklyn, 4 to 2, on four hits. The youngster who began his league career by licking Dazzy Vance in a mound duel a month ago was invincible in all but two innings. He received some valuable assistance from another of the Braves' rookies, Fritz Knote, who pounded in two runs with a double and scored a third.

For the third straight day the Giants and Phils engaged in an old-fashioned slugfest, and the Giants made it two out of three for the series by winning 12 to 8. Bill Terry led the winners, knocking in four runs with his tenth home run of the year, a double and a single.

Fumbles by Heath and Hafey helped Pittsburgh score five runs in the first inning and eventually trim Cincinnati, 9 to 4, for the second straight day.

Only two games were scheduled in the American league. One at Chicago was rained out and the other, at Detroit, was washed away in the fourth inning with the St. Louis Browns ahead, 1 to 0. It was no contest.

Mickey Walker to Fight Uzcudun

New York, May 26.—(AP)—Although he will be forced to concede some 25 pounds in weight and six inches in height, Mickey Walker, the modern giant-killer, has been established a 7 to 5 favorite in his 10-round bout with Paulino Uzcudun tonight at Madison Square Garden.

The Rumsen bulldog has been training seriously for weeks and is said to be in equally as fine condition as when he held Jack Sharkey to a draw last summer. That, and the fact that Walker always has shown his best against big men, has caused the experts to favor him over the Basque.

The consensus was it would go the full route. Paulino frequently has been beaten and does not stack up with Walker as a boxer, but there is no knockout against his long ring record. The possibility of the Spaniard knocking out the bulldog was considered even more remote. It promises to be a rough, tough battle between a pair of rough, tough veterans.

For Walker, the bout means a possible chance against Ernie Schaff, Boston heavyweight, with the winner to challenge next for the heavyweight title. For Paulino it means only a chance to upset another ambitious young man, one of the best things he does.

TWINS TAKE THREE GAMES ALL IN ROW

Charlotte, May 26.—(AP)—Finding their slugging tactics insufficient to repel attacks on their Piedmont League leadership, the Winston-Salem Twins have resorted to biter baseball in other divisions of the game to win three games this week and take a firmer hold than they have enjoyed for quite some time.

The Twins have battled, as a team, 245 this week, while Charlotte, winning two and losing one to drop back into the cellar, and Asheville, no win fourth place, have hit 292 and 404 respectively. Raleigh, batting .362 for the week, won but once, failing to sixth place.

In the first game of the series which marks the close of the first month of the season, Durham, in the last several days of play, climbed into second place over the shoulders of Greensboro, whose pitchers yielded the Bulls 14 hits. The score was 8 to 2.

The customary Piedmont slugfest, to which the league's followers are gradually becoming accustomed as a daily menu, yesterday took place at Asheville. The Tourist, getting 21 hits out of 44 times at bat, defeated Wilmington 15 to 4, and raised their team batting average for the season from .304 on May 14 to .308.

The Twins continued their victory march at the expense of Charlotte. Wilke and Johnson doubling in the last of the ninth, when the score was tied 5-all, to take a one-run margin.

The High Point-Raleigh game also provided its share of base hits, but they were mostly scattered, except when Raleigh scored three runs in the eighth, and High Point won, 7 to 5, in an extra inning after tying the count 5-all in the ninth.

Bud Moore was willed the Charlotte Hornet franchise by the late Felix Hayman, his long-time partner, but the disposition of the Hayman share in players, grounds and equipment is not expected to be known until Moore and other executors of the estate have qualified.

No Caveman Staff!

New York—There may be some places in the world where cavemen husbands are still appreciated, but the United States is not one of them. Supreme Justice Peter Schmuck holds. "To the self-reliant, self-respecting American woman violence is not welcomed as indication of affection," he declared in granting a separation to Mrs. Michael C. C. Lillienfeld, who accused her husband of beating and kicking her.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, May 26.—(AP)—Cotton opened easy today at a decline of 10 to 13 points on active Liverpool selling influenced by the suspension of the Liverpool firm of Hornby, Hemelryk.

The selling believed to be in liquidation of long accounts through houses with Liverpool connections was estimated by some observers at between 20,000 and 25,000 bales and in addition to this there was scattering pressure influenced by the lower opening of the stock market and some selling for southern account.

Offerings were absorbed by trade buying and covering on the decline to 5.52 for July and 6.90 for December, however, and after the more urgent selling had run its course, prices stiffened up 4 or 5 points from the lowest. Liverpool cables attributed the decline in that market to hedging and general selling on the suspension of the Liverpool house and reported moderate cloth sales to India.

Grain Market

Chicago, May 26.—(AP)—After breaking to almost 3 cents under Monday's high point the wheat market today rallied rather sharply in the late dealings.

Price setbacks were ascribed largely to beneficial crop results expected for spring wheat, returns showing nearly 2 inches rain at places in the Dakotas. Later though a blizzard northwest was reported, and there were estimates that spring wheat acreage in the four principal states would show a decrease of 15 per cent compared with last year.

Stock Market

New York, May 26.—(AP)—The punch-weary stock market lost more ground today under a steady drizzle of selling orders which sent a wide list of leading stocks down from fractions to 3 points or more.

Stocks of companies which have done especially well during the past two years were offered quite freely holders apparently taking advantage of their better marketability to raise cash at relatively less sacrifice. The tobacco issues were conspicuous in this group, extreme loss of 2 to 4 points occurring in American Tobacco, Liggett and Myers and B. J. Reynolds issues. In four transactions, a total of 25,000 shares of Reynolds "B" stock changed hands, this liquidation presumably being to protect marginal accounts. Food stocks were also offered in fairly large volume at losses of 1 to over 2 points in Borden, National Biscuit, General Food and Corn Products. The genate's approval of a tax on soft drinks was followed by a flurry of selling in Coca Cola and other issues figuring in that classification.

Railroad stocks also bowed to the combination of recent unfavorable reports on earnings and, in a measure, to discussions over refinancing a $20,727,750 St. Louis Southwestern bond issue maturing June 1. The spectre of another possible receivership in the railroad field caused some misgivings, although the market showed no signs of surprise of hysteria. Losses of 1 to 3 points developed in Union Pacific, Santa Fe and Norfolk and Western, among others. Public Utilities were under pressure.

The New York stock exchange's action in suspending a private trader again called attention to efforts of that institution to keep short selling under control.

The dollar displayed a steady undertone in the foreign exchange market and dealers reported that transactions were quiet.

Orville Wright At Kitty Hawk

Kitty Hawk, N. C., May 26.—(AP)—Orville Wright returned to Kill Devil Hill today where he and his brother Wilbur first gave aviation to the world 29 years ago.

The world's first flier saw the memorial to himself and his brother being erected on the scene of the pioneer flight under the lee of the hill.

The two brothers began their experimental flights with gliders in 1900 and culminated their endeavors with the first flight on December 17, 1903.

With Wright was Captain W. J. Tate at whose home here he and his brother boarded during their experiments.

On his return from the scene this afternoon, Wright planned to stop at Coileck to greet Mrs. E. R. Woodward, daughter of Captain Tate—when the Wrights came back to Kitty Hawk in 1901 soon after their first visit in 1900—was wearing a dress made from the saaten which covered the wings of the first glider.

This morning Wright passed through Coileck on his way to Kill Devil Hill to see the memorial which is under supervision of Captain W. H. Kinderwater of the U. S. Army quartermaster division and through whose direction the hill has been anchored.

work at 11:20 a. m. Although there were no witnesses, the indictment had been voted, officials declined to discuss anything that transpired in the secrecy of the grand jury room. Before the session opened Prosecutor Hauck reiterated a previous statement that an indictment, if any was voted, would not be handed up until Saturday morning.

The three police officials questioned before the grand jury included Capt. J. J. Lamb, of the New Jersey state police, one of the first police officials to reach the Lindbergh home after the baby was kidnapped the night of March 1.

The others were Inspector Harry Walsh, of the Jersey City police department, and Lieut. Walter Keaten, of the New Jersey state police. These officers conducted the questioning which broke down Curtis' story of his meetings with the kidnapers and brought about his confession of the hoax.

One indication that a true bill had been voted was seen in a statement of Prosecutor Anthony Hauck that, if an indictment was voted, he expected to call about ten witnesses to support his case, including three police officials who testified today and Colonel Lindbergh. The prosecutor also indicated that he might seek to call Admiral Guy Burrough and the Rev. Dean Dobson-Peacock, of Norfolk, Va., associates of Curtis in his negotiations.

Prosecutor Anthony M. Hauck also presented to the grand jury documentary evidence against Curtis, including the confession of his hoax that Curtis typed in the emergency police station at the Lindbergh home.

The grand jury convened at 9:15 a. m. EST, and had completed its
