Vote For W. Chester Harris For Judge of the Recorder's Court on Saturday June 4th. A just and upright man, with integrity of purpose and sound reason who, if nominated and elected, would never disregard the public weal, nor fail to do his duty, who would endeavor at all times to interpret the law accurately; to suppress force and fraud; to maintain a wise use and application of the law in his courts; to play no favorites; to preserve the hallowed place of justice without scandal and corruption; to listen to the evidence with gravity of hearing and with staid and equal attention; to be quick to note a dishonest or sinister trick, AND NEVER TO FORGET IN JUSTICE TO REMEMBER MERCY. He has been a life-long student of law and government and has a broad knowledge of these kindred subjects. He passed the most difficult examination ever put before legal applicants by the Supreme Court of North Carolina with the highest honors and was licensed to practice law in 1917. But he immediately answered the call of his country in the time of war. That and subsequent responsibilities, kept him from starting toward the mark of his high calling. Consequently, his actual experience as a practicing attorney has been some less than three years and during a time when the depression has held the country in its relentless tangles. He is amply qualified both by learning and nature for the office he seeks and would make a fearless, an able and a just judge. FAIR AND IMPARTIAL DECISIONS ARE WHAT WE NEED AND MUST HAVE IN OUR COURTS. (This space contributed by a friend)

ABOUT TOWN

We can't depend upon family prestige to carry us through life. Dr. Malcolm McDermott, head of the department of law of Duke University, told members of the graduating class of Greenville high school.

Something else is more important and that is the application of will power, the speaker said. By exercise of the human will man is able to mould his own destiny, Dr. McDermott believes, and there is no limit to his achievement if he will do it.

We may have a desire to get the best of life, but unless we have the will and the power to put it into action, then nothing can save us from ruin.

Will power is a God-given influence that enables man to overcome circumstances and reach those unobstructed heights where the finest principles of life are realized.

He branded as false the old theory of heredity ruling the life of an individual, declaring it just another means of shifting responsibility from ourselves so that we may take the road of least resistance.

The address unquestionably was one of the most powerful and timely delivered at a school closing here in years, and the graduates, the second largest number to graduate from the local school, were inspired by the wise counsel of the distinguished educator.

The Senate committee considering the sales tax did not think much of the plea of President Hoover for passage of the measure. Within thirty minutes after the president personally appeared before the body, the proposal was voted down.

By taking other sources, however, members of the senate hope to be able to write finis to their consideration of the revenue bill either today or tomorrow. It will be the completion of one of the most monumental tasks undertaken in the face of such unusual conditions, and will incur the criticism of vast enterprises affected by the schedule.

The senate did the right thing when it turned down the sales tax proposal. This tax would affect people in every avenue of life, and while it would help relieve the burden of the government, what a terrible hardship it would have placed on those countless millions of people who have found life almost unendurable during the last two years.

The government should make an effort to cut the budget next time. Expenditures are running away with us and unless curbed, threaten to reduce the people to a state of absolute poverty.

The stock market went all to pieces yesterday, and now we are wondering what congress is going to do about that.

The drop was one of the most pronounced experienced in several months, and certainly the solons will want to know what type of bear caused it.

They have heard considerable about bears and bulls the last several weeks as result of the investigation of the New York exchange, but no means of improving the situation has been suggested.

As long as the element of gambling remains, Congress can expect stocks to go up and down, and at times crash with sufficient suddenness to jar the entire nation.

The boys in charge of the operation of the markets know what they want, and if there is any chance of them getting out without losing, they are going to do it in spite of the thousands of little men who are drowned in the venture.

Congress will find plenty of room for investigations, but curbing the interests holding the market in the palm of their hands, is another thing altogether.

Gambler's Throw

By EUSTACE L. ADAMS

SYNOPSIS: Jerry Calhoun and Nancy Wentworth, a musical comedy star, are held up by five men on a Long Island road, while Nancy is taken to a gas station to get fuel for his stalled car. He starts to resist, in spite of the sight of a machine gun, but is stopped by a bullet. The next day he recovers consciousness in a hospital, with a temporary head wound. Stevens, a detective, tells him that Nancy was kidnapped and that two millionaires have also been captured. He implies a connection between the three cases. Nancy Wentworth is engaged to a rich man, which provides an additional motive besides her own fame for her abduction, since her fiancé could pay large ransom. Jerry who is an airplane pilot with war experience, wants revenge upon the kidnapers and hopes to rescue Nancy. He leaves the hospital trying to decide upon a plan of action.

Chapter 3 ALLIES FOR REVENGE Jerry stood at the top of the marble steps and peered about for a taxicab, hoping vaguely that one of the boys at the field would have come for him.

He glanced at a long black-and-nickel roadster standing at the curb, then stared at it more closely. No, it couldn't be, he decided; Emory Battles was in Boston.

He walked down the steps, crossed the narrow sidewalk, and bending low peered into the driver's seat. There, his face resting upon arms outstretched over the great slanting steel wheel, was Emory, noisily asleep. Jerry's pulses leaped. He would rather have seen this lanky, carefree, reckless pal just at that moment than any other man in the United States.

He reached in and gave the sleeper a slap on the back. Battles straightened up with a start of surprise. For a moment he blinked, bleary-eyed, at Jerry, then smiled in a wide, contented grin.

"Hello, kid!" he yawned. "Are you a free man?" As Jerry sank into the deep cushions, his friend slipped into the traffic and headed the throbbing motor toward New York.

"How did you get here?" demanded the battered pilot. "I thought you'd sworn off New York for ever and had gone home to get into the good graces of your stiff-necked aunts, uncles and cousins."

"I have and did," declared Emory, comfortably. "But when I read about your little to-do out here in the country, I thought I might be missing a bet by staying so far away from the excitement. Besides, the atmosphere of home was beginning to curdle my usually kind disposition.

"So last night I happened to read of your lapse from grace and knew it was time to be easing along. I jumped into the car, left Bca. a few minutes after midnight and beat the train to the Grand Central by twenty-two minutes.

"Bright and early this morning I went to your flying paddock and found out where you were confined. Then I popped over to the hospital."

"How are you fixed for money?" inquired Jerry succinctly. "Filthy with it," confessed his friend promptly. "How much do you want?"

"How much will you spend?" their pilgrimage home, much improved because of the time they have spent behind the walls of this school of higher learning.

The people of this part of the state are justly proud of the enviable record established by the institution in turning out thousands of young people for the field of education, and it is their hope that each year will continue to witness development even greater than preceding years.

Like all schools, the college has been hard hit by the financial situation, but because of the splendid administration, it will be among the first to return to normalcy.

There is always a demand for the high type teachers leaving the school each session, and the field of education is destined to be much improved because of the fine principles which the young people carry out into the world with them.

countered the other, "to have a little excitement and, maybe, get yourself shot?" "I've got a couple of thousand with me and I'll draw checks until the bank sends somebody to arrest me. What's the excitement and when do we start? Quick, now. I'm all of a twitter!"

The kidnappings had taken place on the afternoon and evening of September 1. On the morning of the 4th an unusual conference took place at the offices of Hammond, Smythe, Whitesley, Van Ashford and Hammond, attorneys. Reporters who had ferreted out the news of this important meeting thronged the reception room on the fourteenth floor, where they watched many noted personages enter the closely-guarded wicket.

Mrs. Frederick Mallory, accompanied by Humphrey Hemmingsway, was first to arrive. A few minutes later, Wendell Hamilton, brother of the missing man, entered with Royal T. Heywood, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Textile corporation, and Irving U. Welsh, well-known corporation counsel. Close on their heels came Mrs. Colburn Wentworth, mother of the missing girl, escorted by Philip Macomber, her future son-in-law.

The newspaper men recalled that the conference was being held in the offices of Mr. Macomber's attorneys. Last of all arrived Inspector Henry O'R. Mullanphy, of the New York police department.

Two hours later a waspish little man with beribboned nose glasses minced into the reception room, clapped his hands smartly for silence and read a prepared statement to the attentive reporters.

"I am instructed to issue the following statement: "Mrs. Frederick Mallory, Mr. Wendell Hamilton and Mrs. Colburn Wentworth have each received in this morning's mail a letter purporting to be from the abductors of the two gentlemen and the lady who are known to have disappeared. With Mrs. Mallory's consent, we have caused her letter to be photostated and will presently supply each of you gentlemen with a copy. While each of the letters varies in details, one of them will, we hope, suffice. Inspector Mullanphy has authorized us to give you the following details as to the physical make-up of the letters themselves.

"They were written upon stationery which may be purchased in any stationery store and are enclosed in envelopes of similar paper. They bear postmarks indicating they were mailed at City Hall station, New York City, at or shortly before 5 p. m. yesterday.

"As you will presently observe, they have been hand-printed with pen and ink, thus making it impossible to trace the author by employing the services of a typewriter expert or an authority upon hand-writing. It will be further noted that the missives were written, or dictated, by a person of obvious intelligence.

"In closing, I am instructed to say that a decision has been made to fulfill, in every detail, the demands that have been made. That is all, gentlemen. Those who attended the conference have left the building by another exit, since they do not wish to be interviewed."

(Copyright, Dial Press)

The letters are so unusual that readers are impressed by the superior intelligence of the superior intelligence of the gang. But Jerry and Emory try to outwit them, tomorrow.

"The STRIKE-OUT is only 5% of pitching"

Robert G. Groves

"You must know and work on the weakness of every batter," says the major league strike-out king of the Athletics. "Fanning a cluster in a pinch makes the crowd roar, but it is not everything in pitching. You must have good control and never lose poise or confidence. You must be at your best with men on bases. And you must keep on pitching until the end of the game. Pitching is no game for anybody unless he has power and nerve. It takes everything."

"STANDARD" HAS EVERYTHING!

- Check it! CARBON-LESS—Spark plugs, pistons, cylinders and valves stay clean. Saves repair bills. GUM-LESS—No clogged manifolds—no sticky valves. Cuts repair bills. SULPHUR-LESS—No corrosion. Saves repair bills. ANTI-KNOCK—Extra power, less noise, less upkeep cost through reduced hammering of pistons and bearings. Cuts repair bills. QUICK STARTING—Minimum use of choke—quick power and pick-up—less contamination of crankcase oil. "BUBBLE-FREE"—No stalling and bucking from vapor bubbles in gasoline and carburetor—even, steady flow of power in the hottest motor. ODOR-LESS—Refined "sweet"—no disagreeable smells. CRYSTAL CLEAR—Made clear—stays clear—a guarantee of perfect cleanliness. Saves money. UNIFORM—Same quality and results always, everywhere. Always more miles for your money.

"STANDARD" 1932 GASOLINE has everything!

JUST to be quick starting is not enough. JUST to be anti-knock is not enough. A gasoline to be great must have everything! Gasoline may contain gum which you cannot see but will cost you money later. No gasoline gives you your money's worth if you pay for it twice. Once at the pump and again in needless repair bills. What you want is trouble-free, low-cost transportation. Power that gets you there without ruining an expensive engine. Power that can be counted on when you need it. Power that starts like a flash—and is still with you at the end of the run. A gasoline to give you this must have everything. "Standard" 1932 gasoline has everything! Read the list at the left. Check it. And next time you buy gasoline—buy "Standard." "Standard" has everything a real gasoline should have.

SURE I DID—AN' SHE GAVE ME THE CHOICE OF BEING—

FAT OLD MILLIONAIRE LIKE JOHN GRABBER OR A SKINNY OLD BACHELOR LIKE YOU!

YEAH, MORE'N EVER NOW!

Representative Snell has assured the public that the Republican platform will contain a "liberal" prohibition plank. And that was as far as he would go. Asked what he meant by the term "liberal," he stated that the plank would be satisfactory. The only plank that would be satisfactory to the champions of prohibition is one repealing the Eighteenth Amendment. Of course we hear of a large group of individuals demanding resubmission of the question, but they fade into insignificance when lined up against the millions whose efforts are directed toward safeguarding the home. Prohibition may be a failure, as some claim, but how inexpressibly greater would be the failure of the law to cope with legalized sale of whiskey in this day of high speed and lack of regard for public life. It is appalling to contemplate what would be the result of public sale of whiskey, yet the issue is one of the most pressing of the moment and must be settled.

Reds Take 4 To 1 Licking At hands Of The Pirate Outfit

LEAD TEAMS IN NATIONAL SUCCESSFUL

By GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer) Charles (Red) Lucas, star member of Cincinnati's mound staff, is out to set a modern record for complete games pitched in a season, and with the full approval of Manager Dan Howley.

Thus far, the popular red-head has started and finished ten contests, with the campaign less than a third gone, and has won seven of them, he stands an even chance of equalling or bettering the modern mark of 36 complete games set by Grover Cleveland Alexander in 1915.

Two hurlers Wes Ferrell of Cleveland and Bob Grove of the Athletics, turned in 27 full-time jobs last season. Cincinnati's "work horse" should have little difficulty passing that figure.

That Col. Howley is in sympathy with Lucas' ambition was demonstrated yesterday, when the Reds took a 4 to 1 beating from Pittsburgh and fell back into a tie with the Pirates for third place in the National League.

Lucas wielded six hits and four runs in the first two innings, but stuck it out to allow only three hits the rest of the way.

The battle for top position in the National remained at a standstill as both Chicago and Boston won. The Cubs defeated St. Louis, 3 to 1, behind Lon Warneke's six-hit pitching, while Ed Brandt south-pawed the Braves to a 7 to 2 triumph over the Giants.

Brooklyn and the Phillies were not scheduled, the laps causing the Dodgers to drop into fifth place after a day in the first division.

Lusty hitting by Heinie Manush in the extra innings enabled the Washington Senators to take a hot one from the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 4, in twelve rounds and go into virtual tie with Detroit for second place in the American.

Manush slapped a homerun in the eleventh and, when that wasn't good enough to win, came right back with a riple in the twelfth that scored Buddy Myer with the clincher.

Tony Freitas, a lefthander from Sacramento, made his debut for the A's and pitched elegant ball until he was relieved for a pinch-hitter in the tenth.

The day's only other contest in the American resulted in a 6 to 5 victory for the embattled Chicago White Sox over Cleveland. Errors by Vosmik and Morgan helped the Sox score five times in the sixth inning.

Yesterday's Stars

(By Associated Press) Heinie Manush, Senators—Hit home run and triple, latter blow beating Athletics in twelfth. Lonnie Warneke, Cubs—Subdued Cardinals, 3-1, on six hits. Ted Lyons, White Sox—Pitching effectively with men on bases to beat Indians and drove in two runs with single. Fritz Knothe, Braves—Accounted for five runs against Giants with home run and triple. Larry French, Pirates—Stopped Reds cold with men on bases and beat them, 4-1.

FINE PLAYERS FOR FIGHTING WITH UMPIRE

Cleveland, June 1.—(AP)—It will cost four members of the Chicago White Sox good money for their affair of fistcuffs with Umpire Moriarty and the veteran arbiter can nurse a severe reprimand as well as his injuries.

President Will Harridge of the American League, after an investigation of Moriarty's battle with the Sox here Memorial Day in which the umpire suffered a broken right fist and Pitcher Milton Gaston was knocked out, last night handed out penalties and censure all around.

Manager Lew Fonseca of the Sox was fined $500, Pitcher Gaston was assessed a like sum and suspended 10 days, and Catchers Charley Berry and Frank Grube were penalized $250 and $100, respectively. In addition, Coach Butler was suspended five days without pay for "use of profane language" toward Moriarty.

Moriarty, who broke his hand on Gaston's jaw and proclaimed himself ready to fight the whole Chicago team, was "severely reprimanded for neglect of duty," Harridge announced. The league president held that according to Moriarty's own story, the umpire should have chased Fonseca and Berry from the game before the trouble started.

Fonseca heard the bad news calmly. "Harridge is the boss and anything he says goes," he said. Moriarty, in seclusion, could not be reached. President Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians said he was "100 per cent" satisfied. The fight, an incident Harridge said has not been duplicated in the 21 years he has been in business, took place after Cleveland defeated Chicago in both games of a double bill. Berry and Moriarty were arguing when Gaston stepped in and took one on the chin, according to Cleveland players. Fonseca, Grube and Berry were then reported to have rushed Moriarty. Gaston, however, was the only one actually involved in the fistcuffs, Harridge found.

I am a candidate for Solicitor of the Recorder's Court. The duties of Solicitor, the prosecution of the criminal court docket, require a lawyer of some experience in the trial of cases and the general practice of law. I have had almost six years of experience in the practice of law.

Upon the resignation of Wm. S. Tyson as Solicitor, on February 1 of this year, out of seven applicants before the Board of Commissioners, I was unanimously appointed to fill out his unexpired term. I stand upon the record during the four months I have been Solicitor. If my conduct of the office during the four months I have served has been satisfactory, I earnestly solicit nomination and election for a full term.

If nominated and elected, I promise to continue to vigorously prosecute all cases on the docket, with fairness to all and partiality to none, and to so conduct the office as to merit the confidence thus placed in me.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, June 1.—(AP)—Cotton opened irregular today 6 points up to 6 points off with near months relatively easier on Liverpool liquidation and later deliveries rather steady. July sold at 5.76.

The trade, however, placed a constructive interpretation on the action of the senate in passing the tax bill and the market quickly recovered with trading operations the most active in weeks. The demand came principally from the trade and shorts while part of the selling was for foreign account including the Far East. The July position declined to 5.17 at the opening, a loss of 6 points from the previous final and rallied to 5.31, or a net advance of 8 points.

Liverpool cabled that the market there declined under forced liquidation due to the failure of a local house but met covering and some replacement buying, while Manchester was reported depressed with a small turnover.

Grain Market

Chicago, June 1.—(AP)—Buying power gave out in grain markets today, and wheat fell to the lowest levels in some time, with corn touching bottoms unequalled since 1897.

Senate adoption of proposals to increase taxes on produce exchange transactions 400 per cent tended to make buyers scarce, and led to much bitter comment on the part of traders. Price downturns were in the face of unofficial crop reports indicating that 1932 domestic wheat yields would total only 683,000,000 bushels compared with 892,000,000 in 1931.

Stock Market

New York, June 1.—(AP)—A swift rebound in the stock market today invited fresh liquidation which eventually drove several leading shares back into new low ground.

While the militant drive in congress to balance the budget was hailed in leading banking circles as highly constructive, various financial quarters were obviously disappointed over the measure adopted by the senate to raise the necessary revenue, and selling from impaired collateral loan accounts quickly depressed the market, after a flurry of short covering at the start had swept prices up 1 to 2 points.

The utilities were sold in considerable volume for a time around midday, but the list steadied a little in the early afternoon. Five-point advances in American Can and Santa Fe were largely lost. American Telephone converted a 5-point rise into a 2-point loss. U. S. Steel rose 2-1-4, then slipped back to sell fractionally into new low ground. Consolidated Gas rose nearly 3, then dropped about 1 from the top. American Tobacco "B" rose 4, then dropped more than 6 from the top. Miscellaneous issues showing losses of a point or so by afternoon included Standard of California, Sears Roebuck, United Gas, Improvement, Hershey, Colgate, Palmolive, and West-Brokers quarters felt that selling of the utilities had been accelerated by the 3 per cent levy on gross revenues, included in the Senate Tax bill, although this levy had been under heavy pressure for some days before that tax was adopted. American Water Works cut its annual dividend rate 9 3/4 to $3.

RECORD VOTE PREDICTED FOR THE STATE PRIMARY

(Continued from Page One) With reports of the heaviest registration in years, if not a record-breaking listing of voters, there are 2,500 or more qualified electors listed in a single precinct in many counties. This means that an average of about three votes a minute must be maintained if all registered get a chance to vote.

J. L. DeLaney, manager for R. T. Fountain; L. P. McLendon, manager for J. C. B. Ehringhaus; and R. W. Ruark, manager for Allen J. Maxwell, all joined in urging that voters go to the polls at their earliest opportunity Saturday.

A Democratic primary vote of 330,000 was counted in North Carolina in 1930, to set a new all-time record, and it is generally anticipated that Saturday's balloting will reach an aggregate of 350,000 to 400,000 in weather conditions are favorable. Ramon C. Maxwell, secretary of the State Board of "much heavier" than in 1930 and Tyre C. Taylor, president of the elections, expects the vote to be Young People's Democratic club of America, anticipates more than 350,000 ballots.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce of Raleigh has asked every Junior Chamber of Commerce and every Chamber of Commerce in the state to cooperate in an effort to get 400,000 persons to the polls for the primary.

BILLION DOLLAR REVENUE BILL SENT TO CONFERENCE. SPEEDY ACTION EXPECTED

(Continued from Page One) not instructing its conferees to stand by this or that provision of the original House bill. This will expedite action by the conference.

Speaker Garner named Representatives Celler of Mississippi; Crisp of Georgia; Raney of Illinois, Democrats; and Hawley of Oregon and Treadway of Massachusetts, Republicans as conferees.

The Senate conferees, appointed in the early hours of today just after the Senate passed the bill, are Senators Smoot, Watson and Reed, Republicans, and Harrison and King, Democrats. Meetings will get underway without delay.

The gigantic tax raising measure, intended to provide $1,115,000,000 in new funds for the government next year, will do the job of putting the nation on a pay-as-you-go basis again assert the spokesmen for the administration.

ARMY BALLOON LANDS IN CANADA AND WINS TROPHY

POLITICAL POT PUTS ON STEAM

(Continued from Page One) lon in his favor, it was impossible at this time to venture a prediction as to the outcome of the county contest, and the people were waiting expectantly for the battle of ballots to settle the question.

The race for state offices, and especially that of governor, is drawing considerable attention with campaign forces of Fountain, Ehringhaus and Maxwell making claims based purely upon speculation. Still it was predicted the Edrecombe county man would lead the field in Pitt with Ehringhaus and Maxwell running a close race for second honors.

There is sufficient competition for each of the county offices to give voters a wide range of choice and the ticket is drawing much thought and study from those desiring to vote for the men of the highest qualifications.

Sheriff Sam Whitehurst is faced by a plethora of contestants, and from all indications, one of the leading battles will center about this office.

He is opposed by L. W. Tucker, A. C. Jackson and Earl P. James. The race for five seats on the board of county commissioners has developed into the battle of the century with ten men after the position. Only two members, S. I. Dudley and T. E. Joyner, are seeking re-election.

Six candidates are seeking seats in the House of Representatives, including the present incumbents, E. G. Flanagan and J. W. Holmes. There is less competition for the Senate than in some years with only two seeking the seat formerly held by M. K. Blount. The contestants are A. B. Corey and F. M. Wooten.

Contest for the judgeship of county court is between Dixie James and Chester Harris. Judge W. E. Whedbee is not seeking re-election, and both contestants are waging a spectacular fight for victory. W. J. Bundy, solicitor of county court, is opposed by Jack Spain and Harry Brown.

From the standpoint of numbers, Gus Stokes, Greenville township constable, is in the midst of one of the greatest battles every centered about this office. Seven opponents are seeking Stokes' office, all of them are working like the proverbial bee in an effort to emerge victorious.

The office of constable is also coming in for competition from other parts of the county, and it is generally conceded that the bid for these offices is the largest ever recorded.

Only two members of the county government are without competition. They are Claude Gaskins, register of deeds, and A. T. Moore, county treasurer.

G. H. BALLARD FORFEITS BAIL

(Continued from Page One) had mysteriously disappeared at the time of trial. Although officers were puzzled regarding the whereabouts of Ballard, opinion was expressed that he had left town probably with the intention of returning during the day. Police were maintaining a keen lookout for him, however, and hoped to have him in custody during the latter part of the day.

Ballard was arrested following a fire at the home of a neighbor, Will Carraway, Saturday morning about 4 o'clock. Police investigating the case, stated that information had been obtained which they believed would directly connect Ballard with the blaze.

A search of the man's home immediately following the fire revealed several gallons of wine in the first stage of fermentation along with several jars of the beverage. The firearm charge resulted from the alleged firing of a gun on Ballard's premises the first of last week. Neighbors, alarmed over the shooting, asked investigation by the police. Ballard stated he had merely fired at chicken thieves.

MOB LYNCHES KENTUCKIAN

Intense feeling over the explosion caused fear of mob violence after Merrick was arrested in February, but was believed to have subsided. The lynching was a complete surprise.

Six automobiles in procession moved into Princeton late in the night, stopped at the jail, and a few minutes later was speeding toward Hopson, Merrick, according to his fellow prisoners, said nothing and made no sound when taken. What he said to the lynchers has not been learned.

Merrick had been removed from jail unclothed except for undergarments.

The Poole explosion, officers said was set off by Merrick as a result of Merrick's son being whipped by a school teacher. Merrick entered the case to court, where Poole, as chairman of the county school board sided with the teacher.

GOV. RITCHIE AT ASHEVILLE

Turnin to a balanced budget, Governor Ritchie asserted he did not mean a paper balance based on rosy expectations of revenue, like some of the treasury estimates. "I mean honest balance, based on economies and retrenchment, and on taxes that are economically sound and fair."

"The budget should be balanced by drastic retrenchment in governmental expenditures; increase in income taxes which will not be excessive enough to discourage business enterprise, and a general manufacturers' sales tax. I believe the tariff items ought to come out, if for no other reason than that this is a tax bill, not a tariff bill."

Folks, Lets Face The Facts!

"BELOW Manufacturer's Costs," and other such well-worn phrases, spell ruin for someone, perhaps bankruptcy for employer and hunger and want for employee . . . it certainly means inferior merchandise produced with little thought of quality or the integrity of the name behind it.

Speaking of Prices, let us remind ourselves of the true statement made by John Ruskin, "There is hardly anything in the world that someone cannot make a little worse and sell a little cheaper, and the people who consider price ONLY are that man's lawful prey." GREENVILLE, N. C., JUNE 2, 1932

A REAL DEMOCRAT!

VOTE FOR EHRINGHAUS

PLATFORM IS

Advocates Economy, Honesty And Efficiency In Government

Mr. Ehringhaus was the first of the candidates for Governor to advocate a rigid but sane economy in the institutions and departments of our State government. He does not advocate the destruction of those essential things which have been created, or such drastic measures as will prevent a proper discharge of the real functions of our government. He says: "A strict, but sane economy is imperatively demanded. It is quite as important to find where we can save without loss of efficiency, as to discover new sources of revenue for spending. Proud as we are of our social progress, we must remember that not even social progress can for any great time go ahead faster than material progress. There are many things we should like to do and do quickly, but all such undertakings must have a direct relation to the ability of the State to pay for what it wants."

Mr. Ehringhaus was the first of the candidates to insist that there should be an immediate revaluation downward, with a return to our long-standing policy of quadrennial reassessment of property.

Mr. Ehringhaus was the first of the candidates to make a part of his platform the removal of the existing 15-cent ad valorem tax. The eminent necessity for this was so apparent that his opponents immediately adopted the idea and claimed it for their own.

"I favor State support of the six months school term, and am in full sympathy with the urgent necessity to relieve land of all ad valorem tax for this purpose. My attitude is more than sympathetic. I heartily favor this relief, not only as a measure of school support, but as a chief contribution toward a more equitable distribution of the tax burden. Further, if elected, I will devote my utmost energies to its immediate accomplishment."

Mr. Ehringhaus was the first of the candidates to commit himself to a balanced budget. A balanced budget is essential to sound business conduct of public, as well as private affairs. Our first concern, therefore, should be to see that revenue provision matches governmental requirements.

Mr. Ehringhaus was the first of the candidates to assert that the bonded indebtedness of the State must not be increased unless absolutely required to meet some pressing and unforeseen emergency.

Despite the fact that his opponents would mislead the public to believe that he is pledged to the continuation of certain departments and personnels of our State Government, Mr. Ehringhaus has publicly and openly stated that no new departments should be established, and that consolidations and eliminations where practicable should be the rule.

Upon the subject of relief for the farmers and home owners, Mr. Ehringhaus has stated that his sympathies are challenged by the plight of the small farmer and home owner, and that he proposed a constitutional amendment which will give to the Legislature the right to classify for such favorable consideration as it may determine owner-operated farms of small area and owner-occupied homes to the extent of their homestead value. Such an amendment with appropriate legislation would diminish farm tenancy, encourage home ownership, and help create a market for real estate.

An Able Leader

John C. B. Ehringhaus

OFFERS PARTY
OF LEADERSHIP

Presents Record Of Life-Long Service To Cause Of Democracy

To the roster of illustrious Democratic Governors who have given North Carolina inspired leadership in the past must be added the name of a leader who will maintain a tradition of Democracy and add lustre to the bright heritage of the Democratic cause.

We can ill afford, in these unprecedented and distressing times, to lower the quality of leadership we have had in the past. We must look for salvation to a leader who will carry proudly the Democratic banner, unselfishly defend Democratic principles, and vigorously champion the Democratic cause. J. C. B. Ehringhaus possesses the quality of statesmanship, the unflinching courage, the ideals of leadership, and the unswerving loyalty to Democracy to carry on the noblest tradition of his party. He has preached the gospel of Democracy since 1904, when as a boy lawyer fresh from the University of North Carolina, he took part in his first political campaign. Ever since then in every campaign, County, State and Nation, he has fought for the cause to whose leadership he now aspires. He has been unselfish in his zeal to spread the ideals of Democracy over all of North Carolina. His political shibboleth has been party over self, and he has never sought State-wide personal honor until now. His energies have been directed unselfishly toward the especial cause of his party's genuine leaders.

In those early days of 1904, while young Ehringhaus was away from his home of Elizabeth City making his first campaign speeches in the cause of Democracy, leaders in his County decided that he should go to the State Legislature. When he returned home, Mr. Ehringhaus was told that he had been nominated. He was elected and served Pasquotank County in the General Assembly in the sessions of 1905 and 1907. He then retired of his own volition. His only other elective office was that of Solicitor in his district. He served his people in this capacity for twelve years, and again voluntarily retired.

Coming up to 1928, after having fought for his party for nearly a quarter of a century, he took a leading part in that stirring campaign. He closed his law office in Elizabeth City and picked up the Democratic banner to carry it throughout the State. In a few months he travelled 12,000 miles, visited 95 out of the 100 counties, and made nearly 50 speeches—more than any other Democratic champion except Clyde R. Hoey, of Shelby. Every cent of expense entailed in this unselfish individual effort for his party was paid out of his own pocket.

In 1930 he again unfurled the Democratic standard in more than half of the State's counties.

In advancing his ambition to be Governor, Mr. Ehringhaus does not forget his party loyalty, nor does he fail at any point, or in any speech, to make public avowal of the cause which he loves and cherishes. His personal platform embodies the constructive principles and patriotic achievements for which Democracy has always stood.

Mr. Ehringhaus, as Governor, or as a private citizen, will not apologize for the Democratic party's record. He will not besmirch its name. But he will proudly defend it against all defamers and all enemies.

FOUNTAIN'S VOTES AGAINST WOMEN

The women of North Carolina can not afford to support Richard T. Fountain because if he had had his way as a member of the State's law making bodies, women would not now have the constitutional right to express their opinion by their vote.

In the Legislature of 1919 he voted against a bill introduced by Senator Brown to extend municipal suffrage to women. In the General Assembly of 1920 he voted against ratification of the suffrage amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Further, Mr. Fountain's legislative acts have shown him to be diametrically opposed to the voice of the great mass of thinking women in North Carolina.

In the General Assembly of 1919 he is not recorded among those voting for an amendment to reduce hours in mills from 10 to 8 and to establish a maximum of 48 hours per week for children under 16 years. In the General Assembly of 1927 he voted against the Creekmore Bill to increase compulsory school age from 14 to 16.

The women of North Carolina have long supported and actively worked for these bills in order that their children might have every chance in a civilized State.

Ehringhaus Destined Leader Needed In North Carolina

It has been the history of our people that in times of stress and crises that we have produced a leader adequate to the occasion. No panacea for our ills is even suggested that does not demand and require a directing genius, a guiding hand, and a type of leadership that will inspire the confidence of the people. The Albemarle section of North Carolina and the friends and supporters of Mr. Ehringhaus believe that he is that man. He possesses a rare combination of personal charm, brilliant intellect, capacity and ability, coupled with a practical knowledge gleaned from a life of experience. It can not be prophesied with any certainty just what is in store for the State of North Carolina during the next four years, but it can be safely said that there has never been a time since the days of popularism when a courageous, constructive type of leadership is more necessary.

Mr. Ehringhaus has a record of achievement that commands even the respect of his opponents. He has an intellectual capacity that has achieved marked success. He is naturally endowed with an aptitude for work that gives to every task with which he is confronted the best that is in him. Were these things not so, his opponents would have told him.

We have reached a point in the affairs of our State where there is an absolute necessity for a sane economy. North Carolina can not afford to indulge in a mad swing of the pendulum to the other extreme. North Carolina can not go back upon her record of achievement and progress. North Carolina can not say to the unfortunate, the afflicted, and the wards of the State that their cries will go unheeded. There is a point in economy beyond which we dare not go—on the other hand there is a point in economy to which we must go to save the credit of our State and to preserve those things essential to our people. Mr. Ehringhaus possesses more than any candidate the ability to discern the

A PROGRAM THAT APPEALS TO THE FARMER

PLEDGES AID IN FIGHT FOR FAIR PRICES

Offers Sound Reasons For Support Of Farmers

In his candidacy for Governor, Mr. Ehringhaus has made a strong appeal to the farmers throughout all North Carolina by his sincere and honest determination to aid them. A potato farmer himself, Mr. Ehringhaus knows something of the distressed condition of the farmers throughout North Carolina. In a recent speech he pledged himself to use the utmost power of the State to aid the farmer.

He said: "I want to take advantage of this opportunity to say that, if there is any interest or activity in the commonwealth which through criminal or unlawful method is depriving the farmers of this State of a fair price for their tobacco, cotton, or other crop, I shall, as Governor, use the utmost power of the State to see that such unlawful methods are stopped and their recurrence prevented."

In addition to this, one of the important parts of his program is given over to the agricultural situation. It is this: "The present starvation price for cotton, tobacco, and the terrible plight of its producers, illustrates the desperateness of the agricultural situation, and the futility of dependence upon the Federal Farm Board. We must take vigorous steps to help ourselves. There should be continued insistence upon an enlargement of our live-at-home program; added emphasis upon the profitable utilization of our waste areas in timber growing, game breeding, public hunting preserves, and like usages; a definite movement toward reduction of our staggering fertilizer bill, and above all a diligent enterprise toward developing a practical plan for applying the principles of cooperation to the problem of production."

LEADERS BACK EHRINGHAUS

Dr. Vann Warm In Praise Of Elizabeth City Man

Dr. R. T. Vann, former President of Meredith College, formerly Educational Secretary of the Baptist State Convention and prominent Baptist minister:

"I am supporting Mr. Ehringhaus, first, because of his stainless character, high moral standards, and outstanding ability. Second, because of his many years of conspicuous service to his State, through his party and otherwise—much of it at his own charge. Third, his announced policy, among others, to maintain the public schools, remove the remaining 15 per cent ad valorem tax from land and other real property and assess the bulk of taxes needed for economically administered government upon those able to pay. And finally, his freedom from entangling alliances with any political faction or financial interest."

General Albert Cox, former Superior Court Judge, potential candidate for Governor, and leader of men during the World War:

"I am supporting Blucher Ehringhaus because he has always been interested, through his party affiliations, in making his State a better place in which to live. He has been an open advocate of sane economy and faithful administration of public office, and has been in the forefront of these endeavors to turn the material and other resources of our people to their best uses. He is a great thinker, an active worker, and a well rounded executive. He has had a varied and useful experience as teacher, legislator, lawyer, farmer, and business man."

J. Wallace Winborne, of Marion, prominent leader of Western North Carolina Democracy:

"I am supporting Mr. Ehringhaus because he comes from the ranks, and has not lost the common touch with his fellowman and his possession of an understanding heart. He is his own boss, and is not, and never has been, a servant or tool of any interest, or group of interests. He stands in his own shoes and wears his own hat."

KNOWS NEEDS OF FARMERS

"Coming from the great agricultural east where all of its resources are paralyzed, Mr. Ehringhaus has a comprehensive knowledge and broad understanding of the deplorable plight of our people and I believe that it is his earnest desire to remove the load of taxation from those who have for a long time been unable to carry it. Any intimation that he is subservient to any corporate interests or is out of sympathy with the great problems that now confront our State is a slander. He is dominated only by his own conscience. If I did not believe in him and if I did not think that he would bend his every effort to meet courageously those issues that are so engrossing the interests of the people, then he would never have had my support."—From a public statement by Representative Lindsay C. Warren, of the First Congressional District.

PAPER RAPS 'ABSURDITIES' OF FOUNTAIN

Editorial Says His Campaign Is "Unreasonable And Ridiculous"

Mr. Fountain—that is, Lieutenant Governor Richard Tillman Fountain, who is a candidate for Governor, gives deeper and comes up with less every time he gets a crowd these days. The height of the absurdities he has so far reached seems to have been attained in his High Point speech Thursday night when he cut loose with a new avalanche of invective and sophistry against the Democratic Party's administration in the State, of which he is a vital and integral part, attaining a climax in linking Governor Gardner and President Hoover in a cheap effort further to capitalize on the prejudice that exists in the minds of the people against those in high power. Mr. Fountain's campaign becomes more and more unreasonable and ridiculous.

The most stupid is able to see the double knots into which he ties himself in his elaborate and carefully planned determination to ride into power by throwing calumny upon the administration of the party whose banners he has nailed to his gubernatorial mast, but whose record he wipes in the slime.

He seeks the nomination for Governor of a party whose Governor and whose Legislature have written into law and carried out in policies plans of action which, by reason of his castigation today, he disqualifies himself to defend against the Republicans should he be successful in winning the race.

His chief target is Governor Gardner who, of course, can not defend himself either legitimately or decently and in dignified manner. The Fountain plan of campaign is to make capital out of the distemper aroused by the necessity enforced upon the chief executive drastically to deal with current problems of State.

He has constructed his platform of abuse out of the acts of the Legislature of his own party and the policies of Governor Gardner in trying to take those steps which would save North Carolina from the tragedy of financial prostration and bankruptcy.

Ordinarily, a patriot would commend a man for achieving so desirable an end. Common courtesy would demand that especially a Lieutenant Governor should find no fault with the Legislature of his own party for making such maneuvers as would lead to this end.

What could Mr. Fountain have adopted as a platform had Governor Gardner, facing the exigencies of the times and the exacting problems of finances which poured upon him like a wind-driven tide, calmly folded his hands and complacently remarked that there was nothing to be done about it?

The fact, however, that Governor Gardner, by effecting economies in administration of State affairs which have saved the people of North Carolina $2,753,000 so far, succeeded in keeping North Carolina from defaulting in its obligations and forestalling repudiation of its bonds which otherwise would have been inevitable,—forsooth, because the Governor's policies and the Legislature's acts made this accomplishment possible, Mr. Fountain builds for himself a platform of castigation and

EHRINGHAUS FREE FROM INTERESTS

Candidacy Based On Desire To Serve All The People

I am going to be elected to the Governor's office a free man, to grapple with the most serious problems confronting our people within the past fifty years. In making this statement I make no charges against my opponents and speak with confidence only for myself. The time has come, however, to clear the atmosphere of innuendos and whispered suggestions and to face the real issue before the people of the State.

If there are any people in North Carolina who are planning to vote for me with the feeling that I am a "me too" man; that I am going to blindly follow the plans and programs, of Bickett, Morrison, McLean, or Gardner, or anybody else, for that matter, they are notified in advance that my administration will be an Ehringhaus Administration. I shall seek to serve North Carolina in the light of her present distress and endeavor to solve her problems and interpret her needs under changed and unprecedented economic and social conditions. I shall bear in mind that all of the good of the past shall be preserved, but that after all my administration shall realize that we are living in a new day and that whatever is necessary to be done to save and safeguard our civilization must be done with courageous determination and in a spirit of justice and fair dealing to every business, class, occupation and profession in North Carolina.

As one of the candidates for Governor I have made this statement all along, and have made this promise to the people of North Carolina based on my life record.

I favor bringing this campaign into the broad open daylight and I heartily subscribe to the Woodrow Wilson policy of pitiless publicity. I have cherished for years the ambition to serve my State as Governor, but I would not have the office if it came to me with the slightest tinge on its title. What I mean to say is this: no group, class, or interest has asked me to run for Governor, or have offered to back me in my race, and I could not take the oath of office if I knew in my heart that I had been elevated to its great opportunities and grave responsibilities by the sinister support of any organization, class or interest that would expect special favors from my administration.

FOUNTAIN OPPOSED AUSTRALIAN BALLOT

R. T. Fountain, in his desperation, despair, and anger, has charged that certain people of the State are being coerced into supporting Mr. Ehringhaus. It so happens that the State has a law which enables each citizen to vote as his own conscience dictates and which keeps his vote a secret if he so desires.

This is the Australian Ballot. However, if Mr. Fountain had had his way the citizens of North Carolina would not have had this right, and they might have been open to the coercion which Mr. Fountain falsely charges. He voted against the Australian Ballot Bill in the General Assembly of 1925.

calumny and cheap and tawdry abuse thereof and goes before the people of North Carolina to ask that they nominate him on the basis of his abilities to decry his party and its life-saving performance for the State.

Should he be nominated, why should the Republicans even enter a man against him?

He ought to suit them to a farewell!—Editorial from The Charlotte News, May 28, 1932.

PRAISES PLAN OF CAMPAIGN

"If more would adopt the policies detailed by Mr. Ehringhaus, there would be considerable lessening of political fraud and acquiring of office in a manner that reflects upon the best interests of the candidate's political party and the integrity of the voters."—Editorial comment in the Wilmington Morning Star on Ehringhaus' statement that "I have been financing this campaign just as I have financed my prior campaign activities in behalf of the Democratic Party and its candidates—out of my own pockets."

OPPONENTS PLEASSED BY R. T. FOUNTAIN

Republicans Thank Him For Writing Their Speech

When Lieutenant Governor Fountain made his heralded reply to Mr. Ehringhaus' insistent demands that he be specific upon certain matters of vital interest to the citizens of North Carolina, his speech was in the form of a violent attack upon the Democratic Party.

At the time it was made, both Mr. Ehringhaus and Major L. P. McLendon, Mr. Ehringhaus' State Campaign Manager, declared it would bring more comfort to the Republican Party than anything that had been done in this State in the past 30 years. Both charged that it was a thoroughly Republican speech and would be used against the Democratic Party in the general election next fall.

Mr. Fountain denied this. He said his speech was not an attack upon the party, but rather an attack upon Governor Gardner. However, it appears that Mr. Ehringhaus and Major McLendon were right in their interpretation. In a Convention of Guilford County Republicans in Greensboro recently, Judge William I. Ward, of Graham, Republican nominee for Congress in the Sixth District, held aloft a clipping of an Associated Press dispatch from Raleigh in which Mr. Fountain's speech was quoted and declared, "I don't know that I could make a better Republican speech, or as good a Republican speech as that."

Similar sentiment was voiced by Silas B. Casey, Republican attorney of High Point, who said: "By the time he gets through, Fountain is going to have my speech written out for me."

NICKNAMED FOR VICTORY

Mr. Ehringhaus has had his share of nick names given him by the newspapers during this campaign. Two of the titles which he has been given by the newspapers—Iron Horse of Democracy, and The Flying Governor. The first was given him because in all of his campaign-speaking he devotes about half his time to espousing the cause of Democracy and because he has conducted such a vigorous campaign. The title "Flying Governor" was given him when, in order to make speaking engagements on scheduled time, he was forced to resort to travel by airplane. But the title which seems most apt came after Lieutenant Governor Fountain had accused Mr. Ehringhaus of changing everything, including his name. A strong supporter of Mr. Ehringhaus then wrote to headquarters to explain just what the initials J. C. B. stand for. They mean "Just Can't Beat" Ehringhaus.

ATTACKS OF R. T. FOUNTAIN UNWARRANTED

Misleads Voters By Indirect Assault On Ehringhaus

There seems to be a deliberate propaganda to inject into this campaign the issues of the 1931 General Assembly. Of course the public can not be deluded into the fallacy of believing that O. Max Gardner is a candidate for Governor, or any other office. The indirect attacks upon Mr. Ehringhaus through direct attacks upon the Governor of North Carolina are unjustified, unwarranted, and deliberately intended to mark Mr. Ehringhaus with the brand of another man. Mr. Ehringhaus is not the candidate of Governor Gardner, or any other man. His aspiration to become Governor has been long conceived. He is not the type of man who can be controlled or subsidized by any person or group of persons. He is not pledged to continue what has been termed the Gardner Administration, nor is he pledged to abolish it. He is, however, definitely committed to give to the people of this State the highest type of service of which he is capable, and he will not give anything less.

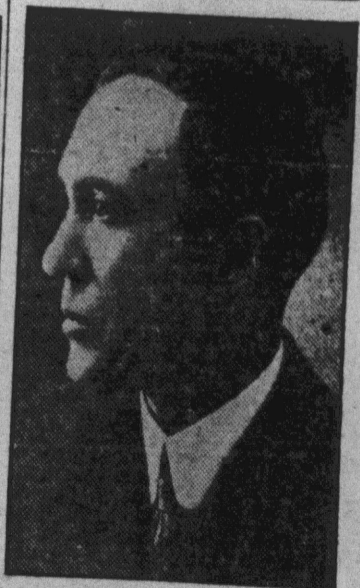

Mr. Ehringhaus has publicly stated that he will defend the record of the Democratic Party, and no Democratic candidate for Governor should place himself in a position where he is unable to do so.

The qualifications of Mr. Ehringhaus are such as to bring to his support the highest type of our citizenship, and it is not surprising to find this support coming to him on every hand. He welcomes the support of the humblest and poorest citizen; he welcomes the support of our most distinguished and prominent leaders, wherever they may be.

The people of North Carolina elected O. Max Gardner as Governor. They also elected Lieutenant Governor Fountain to office. Only one of these gentlemen is now a candidate, and his effort to besmirch the record of the leaders to whom he pledged allegiance is the desperate effort of a despairing candidate to claim credit for all things that were good of the administration of which he was an integral part and to disclaim responsibility for all things which do not at present have the approval of some portion of our citizenship.

John C. B. Ehringhaus has never been the Governor of North Carolina, and he does not claim the credit for any of the achievements of the great Governors which this State has produced. He does not believe that it is incumbent upon him to denounce the Governor of this State, or any of his official associates. This can not be interpreted by any fair man or woman to mean that Mr. Ehringhaus is committed to the program and policies of the present administration, or that he is not free to exercise his talents and ability without restraint to formulate policies of his own in keeping with our present needs, and to press them to a successful conclusion. Surely no one of the three candidates for the office of Governor had less to do with the laws that were enacted or the policies that were adopted than Mr. Ehringhaus.

FAMILY LONG RESIDENTS OF ALBEMARLE

Closely Identified With Activities In Great Eastern Section

By birth and inheritance, John C. B. Ehringhaus is a distinguished son of the Albemarle, the oldest settled territory in North Carolina. He was born February 5, 1892, in Elizabeth City, where for a century and a quarter his forefathers on both sides have lived and actively participated in the affairs of the section. He is a son of Erskine and Carrie (Matthews) Ehringhaus, grandson of J. C. B. Ehringhaus, eloquent lawyer, North Carolina Senator and Representative, great-grandson of John C. Ehringhaus, one of the pioneers in building Elizabeth City, where he was cashier of the State Bank, Clerk and Master in Equity, twice member of the General Assembly, and one of the most universally loved men in this territory.

Mr. Ehringhaus is a direct descendant, through both parents, of General Isaac Gregory, member of Halifax Convention, Commander of North Carolina Troop in the Revolutionary Battle of Camden, S. C., and the Albemarle Colonial leader; also of General Thomas Matthews, celebrated Virginia patriot and statesman for whom Matthews County, Virginia, was named; also the Erskine, Cook, Hawley and Murphy families through which last named he is a second cousin once removed of Honorable Newton D. Baker.

Mr. Ehringhaus is an honor graduate of the University of North Carolina. He served as a member of the House of Representatives in 1905 and 1907. He started the movement in 1905 for a Teachers' Training School in Eastern Carolina, and was joint author in 1907 with Governor Jarvis and Honorable J. Y. Joyner, of a bill to establish such a school, now located at Greenville, and also the rural high school system in North Carolina. He was the author of the bill establishing the graded school in Elizabeth City.

His only other public office was that of Solicitor of his District, an office he held for three terms and retired of his own volition.

In addition to the distinguished services at the bar, as representative of his county, and as Solicitor of his District, Mr. Ehringhaus has taken a solemn and active part in the development and industrial life of his community. He is a director of the first and Citizens National Bank, the Industrial Bank and the Elizabeth City Hosiery Company.

He is a member of Christ Episcopal Church, is past President of the Elizabeth City Rotary Club and fraternally holds membership in Eureka Lodge No. 217, A. F. & A. M.; Worth Bagley Council Junior O. U. A. M.; Cherokee Chapter No. 14, K. T., all of Elizabeth City; Sudan Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., of New Bern; is past Exalted Ruler of the Elizabeth City Lodge of Elks, and past District Deputy of the order in Eastern North Carolina, and a member of Achoree Lodge No. 14 I. O. O. F.

Mr. Ehringhaus was married in 1912 to Miss Matilda Bradford Haughton, of Washington, N. C., by whom he has three children, J. C. B., Jr., and Matilda and Haughton, the latter twins.

If elected Governor, as his friends and supporters throughout the State confidently predict in the first primary, he will be the first Governor from all the Albemarle, the cradle of the colony, since James Iredell retired in 1828, and the first from his Congressional District since Jarvis in 1885.

CRADLED IN DEMOCRACY

"Mr. Ehringhaus comes from that strong Democratic section of North Carolina that has stood by the cradle of Democracy, but has not been honored with a Governor in one hundred years. He, himself, has fought in the forefront for his party in campaign after campaign, and has not heretofore asked the people of the State for State-wide recognition.

"He comes from the ranks, and has not lost the common touch with his fellow-man and is possessed of an understanding heart. He is his own boss, and is not and never has been, a servant or tool of any interests or group of interests. He stands in his own shoes and wears his own hat."—From a letter written by J. Wallace Winborne, Marion, N. C.

EHRINGHAUS IS DESTINED LEADER

line of demarcation. He has not promised the people to solve their tax problems solely via the route of economy. Such a promise could not be kept. He has not promised to abolish departments of the State Government which since their creation have saved for the people of North Carolina more than $2,000,000. But he has pledged himself to utilize every ounce of his ability and every resource at his command to give to the people the utmost in government with the minimum expenditure.

The State of North Carolina needs John C. B. Ehringhaus in the executive mansion; the State of North Carolina needs his sanity at a time in our history when we might be prone to commit ourselves to a program that would increase our hardships.

Mr. Ehringhaus does not pose as a superman, but he is a superior man; and no man should aspire to the high office of Governor of the State of North Carolina who can not bring to that office a superiority of integrity and ability.

It is believed that the thoughtful people of our State are now taking more interest in government than ever before. They realize, perhaps, that much of our present distress has been visited upon them because of their failure to take a serious interest in elections, in primaries, and matters political. It is to those who think to whom Mr. Ehringhaus makes his greatest appeal. It is those who seek a real leader who are counted among Mr. Ehringhaus' most loyal supporters. It is those who believe that he is the man to lead North Carolina in the emergency that is upon us and who will nominate him at the polls on the 4th day of June.

PROMINENT MEN FOR EHRINGHAUS

Unusual importance is attached by friends of J. C. B. Ehringhaus, candidate for Governor, to the fact that four of the former prospective candidates for Governor have come out in strong support of the candidacy of Mr. Ehringhaus.

These four men are Congressman Lindsay Warren, Solicitor Thomas McNeill, Angus D. MacLean and General Albert L. Cox, all of whom were looked upon as possible candidates, and each of whom would have commanded strong support from all sections of the State and on their divergent platforms. All have been able to come together in their support of Mr. Ehringhaus. Only Josephus Daniels and Dennis G. Brummitt, the two remaining prospective candidates, have not expressed a preference for Governor, and Mr. Brummitt is candidate to succeed himself as Attorney General.

Representative Warren was never considered as a possible candidate, although hundreds of admirers urged him to become one.

Mr. MacLean did consider and was extensively urged to enter the race, but finally decided not to be a candidate and announced his support of Mr. Ehringhaus. Solicitor McNeill, spectacular and outspoken, also considered becoming a candidate.

The latest prospective candidate to come out in support of Mr. Ehringhaus is General Albert Cox, former Superior Court judge and World War veteran, who would have cut a deep swath in the votes, especially of the American Legion. General Cox declined to run and last week issued a statement, saying that Mr. Ehringhaus has all of the qualifications needed to be a successful executive.—Editorial from Concord Tribune.

EHRINGHAUS DEMOCRACY'S "IRON HORSE"

Campaign Appeals To Party Loyalty; Raps Fountain

In the midst of the final week before the Democratic primary Saturday, with the political pot boiling more furiously than it has since the stirring campaign of 1928, John C. B. Ehringhaus, the gubernatorial aspirant from the Albemarle, has earned for himself the colorful title of "Iron Horse of Democracy", according to close observers here who are in touch with the situation throughout the State.

The title was conferred upon Mr. Ehringhaus during the past few weeks of the campaign because of his intensive stumping of the State and his vigorous appeals for party harmony and loyalty in each of his speeches.

Especially has Mr. Ehringhaus appeared as a champion of the party in those places where he has vigorously denounced the attacks of Lieutenant Governor Fountain on the Democratic record and where he has questioned the lieutenant governor's right to leadership; of the party because of his record as a member of the State General Assembly since 1919.

Mr. Ehringhaus has brought into the light the Fountain record which, according to the Elizabeth City aspirant, shows the Lieutenant Governor to have opposed measures which were designed to promote education, highway development, child labor protection, woman suffrage and purity in elections.

"This record," Mr. Ehringhaus says, "is hardly calculated to stamp Mr. Fountain as a leader or to make him eligible to the role of superlative critic of his party and its leadership which at present he is assuming."

This record which Mr. Ehringhaus believes does not stamp the Lieutenant Governor as a leader worthy of support of the great hosts of Democrats in North Carolina is substantially as follows:

Mr. Fountain has been a long time opponent of the various good road measures in North Carolina as attested, first by his vote against the Pharr-Matthews road bill in his first year of service in the General Assembly. This was in 1919. Again in the General Assembly of 1920, a special session, Fountain is recorded as having voted against the Doughton-Connor-Bowie State highway bill, which was the beginning of North Carolina's good roads program. Mr. Ehringhaus also recalls Mr. Fountain's opposition to the present highway act which has saved the State some $8,000,000 since its inception.

The Elizabeth City man also calls attention to the fact that Mr. Fountain has said, since he has found the Highway Act popular throughout the State, that the saving to property owners by the act is negligible. "Doesn't this declaration," Mr. Ehringhaus has said, "prove the fallacy of Mr. Fountain's political philisophy? It seems to me that any man who says that a savings of $2,515,358, the amount saved to property owners by the new highway act as published in a report of the Tax Commission, is not mindful of the desperate plight of our people, nor does it stamp him as a leader whose views are in tune with the dire necessity of saving every dollar of the taxpayer's money.

According to close observers the statement emanating from Fountain headquarters that State workers are being coerced into supporting Mr. Ehringhaus has hardly, according to Mr. Ehringhaus, tended to strengthen the Fountain cause which, the Elizabeth City man again says "has become a cause of desperation and despair." It will be remembered that Mr. Fountain at the General Assembly of 1925, voted against the Falls Australian Ballot Bill, a bill which protects the purity of elections and which insures the voters against coercion.

Since he began his final week in the drive for the nomination, Mr. Ehringhaus also has brought to light a fact that has tended, according to observers to bring the women's vote of the State more actively into play against the Rocky Mount candidate. It is his general opposition against woman suffrage, as attested by his legislative record. In the 1919 General Assembly he voted against a bill to extend municipal suffrage to women. In the special session of 1920 he voted against the ratification of the suffrage amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

DOESN'T 'HOVER' SAYS EDITORIAL

"Mr. Ehringhaus has given the people of the State before whom he has appeared, reason for admiration for his earnest avowal of his attitude. There is no shilly-shallying with him. He does not hesitate to plant himself. He is not one of those who 'hovers.' He faces the conditions confronting North Carolina with a knowledge of the complexities of the situation and wants our problems solved in the sunlight of reason, sanity and fair dealing."—Editorial from The Charlotte News.

PAPER PRAISES DEFINITE STAND OF EHRINGHAUS

Says He Will Be Next Governor Because Of His Policies

That the name of our next Governor will be John C. B. Ehringhaus grows more and more probable each day. For he stands for everything that one should stand for in this day of necessary economy and good leadership. He believes:

That public education must not suffer.

That the fifteen cent tax for State support of schools must be removed.

That property must be re-valued to the end that the tax books speak more nearly the truth.

That strict economy must be practiced in every governmental activity.

That the exorbitant cost of credit to our farmers shall be reduced.

That government must be kept close to the people.

That the power to tax must be exercised fairly, justly and equitably.

In his statement he says that he recognizes that our people, and therefore our State government, are face to face with the most difficult situation since the days of reconstruction and notwithstanding all this, he has faith in North Carolina and loves its people, and is unafraid to assume the gigantic task of leading the State into better days.—From editorial in the Mebane Enterprise.

Backing Him

General Albert L. Cox, of Raleigh, who was regarded at one time as a potential candidate for Governor himself, who is supporting Mr. Ehringhaus.

Again the women of the State, who have long made a courageous fight for the protection of child labor and for the promotion of education, do not feel kindly towards the Lieutenant Governor because he did not support, in 1919, the Neal labor bill to reduce the hours in mills from 10 to 8, and establishing a maximum of 48 hours per week for children under 16 years. Again in 1925 he voted against the Creekmore bill to increase the compulsory school age from 14 to 16.

M'LEAN SAYS STATE NEEDS EHRINGHAUS

Calls Him 'Captain Courageous' In Time Of Distress

"I do not profess to be weather-wise, but certainly for the next one or two years, unless all signs fail, and perhaps for the next four, the Ship of State which we have named 'North Carolina' is going to encounter the headwinds of adversity and the tempestuous seas of discontent, calling for a steady hand and navigation of a high order.

"We shall need at the helm a Captain Courageous who can steer a true course and keep his own balance without losing either his head or his headway; one who is neither too reckless nor too timid, but aware of his responsibility to all her people and of his obligation to save the cargo and bring the ship to a safe haven again.

"Omitting the simile, another conception of the man we need in this period may also be expressed in the admonition: 'Be not the first by whom the new is tried, nor yet the last to lay the old aside,' who is neither radical nor reactionary, but disposed to prove all things and to hold fast to that which is good; a man of strong faith, of high character, of clear intellect, with a flavor of common sense and an understanding of our citizenship.

"This capacity and this quality, in my opinion, are possessed by the candidate I now present, Hon. John C. B. Ehringhaus.—From Angus Dhu McLean's introduction of Mr. Ehringhaus, in Washington, April 18, 1932.

POSSESSES ATTRIBUTES OF LEADER

Well Rounded Executive With Character, Ability And Platform

A writer in the Progressive Farmer suggests the adoption of a standard by which candidates for public office may be judged. He says the standard should be 33 1-3 per cent for character, 33 1-3 per cent for ability, and 33 1-3 per cent for platform. It is conceded that all three candidates for Governor are men of character.

Mr. Ehringhaus is entitled to a perfect score for ability—that sort of ability which qualifies a man for the particular duties of the Governor's office, taking into account the difficult problems which will face the next Governor of North Carolina. Mr. Ehringhaus stands at the very top of the legal profession. He is well educated, widely read, and has a mind which analyzes problems and arrives at logical and sane conclusions. He has had a varied business experience in his own community. He has conducted his own personal affairs successfully. He has had actual experience in farming. He has been a school teacher, a Legislator, Solicitor, and a lawyer with a wide general practice among all classes of people. In all of these activities, his neighbors unanimously declare him to have been successful. He has never failed in any business or private activity. As a public speaker and political debater, he has justly won the reputation of being without a superior in North Carolina. As a party champion, he is better qualified to lead the hosts of Democracy than either of his opponents. Above all he has the qualifications of leadership, which is the greatest asset of the Governor of North Carolina. He takes a broad State-wide view of our problems. His varied experiences enable him to grasp the State's problems in a masterful way.

What of his platform? In a time when the temptation is unbelievably great for candidates to promise everything, Mr. Ehringhaus speaks with commendable restraint. He makes no rash promises, he has regard for the constitutional powers conferred upon the Legislative, Executive and Judicial branches of our government. He refuses to make the people believe that he can remove all taxes, and he adopts a wise, common sense view of our difficulties and pledges himself, in a spirit of frankness and sincerity, to contribute to the limit of his ability, to economical, efficient and honest government. He demands that tax relief be given where it is most needed—the relief of property from burdensome taxation by the removal of the 15-cent property tax for the support of the schools, and by the immediate revaluation of property. He insists upon a sane economy not destructive, but nevertheless severe. He will abolish unnecessary departments and agencies, and will make every governmental expenditure justify itself by saving money for the taxpayers, or by rendering indispensable services, or both. He insists upon law enforcement, greater regard for the taxpayer's dollar, readjustment of the tax burden to make it fall heaviest upon those people able to pay.

He opposes sales taxes in all forms as being contrary to Democratic principles of Government. He insists upon the preservation of our public school system in a state of efficiency. He approves the McLean law for the support of the public schools for the minimum term by the State without a property tax. He believes our humanitarian institutions for the care of the insane, the blind, deaf and feeble-minded are badges of our Christian civilization. He insists that the State expenditures shall not exceed the State's income—that there must be a balanced budget and no deficit in current operating expenses. In short, his platform comprehends every sound conception of efficient, economical and honest government. It meets the acid test of our time. He is entitled to a perfect score measured by the standard for character, ability and platform.

REHABILITATION, NOT REVENGE, NEED

"We need a program of progress, not of proscriptio; of rehabilitation, not of revenge; a crusade, not a crucifixion." Mr. Ehringhaus declared in the announcement of his candidacy.

CAN YOU VOTE FOR RICHARD TILLMAN FOUNTAIN? NO!

And for the following reasons:

1.—He vigorously opposed, as President of the Senate in 1931, the new highway act which has resulted in a saving of $2,515,358 to property owners in the State. He not only opposed it then, but he opposes it now, although he has soft-pedalled his opposition as soon as he found in his campaign that the act is popular. He says, however, that the saving of $2,000,000 is unsequential and insignificant.

2.—As Lieutenant Governor, and, perforce, President of the Senate in 1931, he conducted the Senate at a greater expense than any previous Senate President, and had more employees in the Senate than any previous Senate President, although now he bitterly denounces many bureaus as being uneconomical and unnecessary.

3.—His campaign in this primary has been based upon a bitter attack upon the Democratic record and not upon a constructive platform of his own. Instead of policies and principles, his entire campaign has been one of personal attack upon newspapers and individuals who do not look upon his candidacy with favor. The climax of this destructive and despairing policy came with the absurd statement by his campaign manager that certain State employees were being coerced into supporting Mr. Ehringhaus.

4.—His legislative record. It follows:

General Assembly of 1919:

February 6—Voted against Mull Bill for State Prohibition Marshal.

February 27—Not recorded among those voting for amendment to Neal Labor Bill to reduce hours in mills from 10 to 8 and establishing a maximum of 48 hours per week for children under 16 years.

March 6—Voted against bill by Senator Brown to extend municipal suffrage to women.

March 5—Voted against Pharr-Matthews Road Bill.

General Assembly of 1920 (Special Session).

August 20—Voted against ratification of suffrage amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

General Assembly of 1921:

February 17—Voted against Doughton-Connor-Bowie State Highway Bill, the beginning of North Carolina's good roads program.

March 6—Did not vote on Power Contract Bill to require "That existing contracts between the Southern Power Company and its customers shall be lived up to."

General Assembly of 1923:

February 20—Voted for "Lost Provinces" Railroad Bill which pledged credit of State to the extent of $10,000,000 for participation in building of a railroad into counties west of the Blue Ridge.

February 27—Voted to table Parker Workmen's Compensation Bill.

General Assembly of 1925:

February 19—Did not vote on motion to table Poole Anti-Evolution Bill.

February 24—Voted against Everett Amendment to restore tax on all stock of foreign corporations.

February 26—Voted against Fall's Australian Ballot Bill.

General Assembly of 1927:

February 18—Voted against Creekmore Bill to increase compulsory school age from 14 to 16.

February 25—Voted to table Fall's Australian Ballot Bill.

5.—Although he has been a member of the General Assembly since 1919, he has not been prominently identified with the support of one constructive piece of legislation.

6.—He obviously is lacking in the qualities of leadership. He virtually admits he could do nothing with the 1931 Legislature which passed such bills providing for the Personnel Bureau, the Purchase and Contract Bureau, and other departments which he now claims are objectionable. His failure here is all the more emphasized because he was President of the Senate. If he were powerless as Lieutenant Governor, with a direct part in the Legislature, how could he be expected to exercise leadership as Governor, whose only constitutional right in connection with the General Assembly lies in making recommendation.

CAN YOU VOTE FOR MR. ALLEN JAY MAXWELL? NO!

And for the following reasons:

1.—He started the State on its spending spree in 1918 by declaring, while holding a responsible and important office, that North Carolina was wealthy beyond the wildest dreams of the people—a spending spree that has resulted in a staggering bonded indebtedness unprecedented in the history of the State—a bonded indebtedness of over a half billion dollars.

2.—A long time advocate of the property tax.

3.—A share of the responsibility of tax law difficulties because of his membership on the Tax Commission and his long-time part in that branch of the administration dealing with taxation.

4.—His statement that if he were a Mussolini in North Carolina, the first thing he would do would be to remove every board and commission in each of the hundred counties of North Carolina, and appoint one board of three members for each county.

5.—His failure to economize despite his present preachments, in his own department—the Revenue Department. Figures compiled by Henry Burke, assistant director of the budget, show that the Revenue Department for the fiscal year 1931-32 will have spent seven thousand dollars more than it did for the fiscal year 1927-28, before Mr. Maxwell took charge, and when everybody was spending rather freely.

6.—Again, despite his present preachments, his failure to do anything constructive in the way of safeguarding bank deposits, although he has seen long service on the State Corporation Commission.

7.—His inconsistency in his treatment of his fellowman as compared to his treatment of himself. In 1930 he refused to allow Major Sprague Silver to take part in a political campaign, stating publicly that such political activity would tend to interfere with the business of the Revenue Department. Yet he has no scruples against campaigning himself, and allowing his employes to take almost unlimited time in working for his candidacy for Governor.

8.—Because Louis Graves wrote of him in 1931: "He (Maxwell) plays a tune that is sweet to the ears of entrenched wealth."

9.—Because he lacks the qualities of leadership essential in the Governor of North Carolina, who has no veto power.

10.—Although he now claims to know how to save money for the State, the operation of the State's Prison and other important departments, yet he, as an important part of the State Administration for many years, has failed to suggest such ideas.

NATION NEEDS DEMOCRATIC LEADERSHIP

Farmers And Working- men Look To Party For Aid

"It is preposterous to think that the people of this nation can go forward without a quick revival in agriculture and industry—the fundamental of national prosperity and the basis of all enterprise. As evidence of this realization, all the candidates for governor and the best political thought in this State are committed to removal of the 15-cent tax levy on property for the support of the public schools. This tax relief is but a just admission of the dire distress of real estate and yet when we analyze this relief we find that it only amounts to a saving of a dollar and a half in taxes on every thousand dollars worth of property listed for taxes. This is not enough. We must do more."

"We must reduce taxes in every possible way. We must cut the cost of government to actual necessities. We must discontinue every nonessential public service, and yet I tell you after all this has been done we have but scratched the surface of our economic ills. If we were to levy no taxes at all, discontinue all public service, close our schools and colleges, and revert to the primitive state, the people of this country would inevitably fall into bankruptcy if agriculture and industry continue in its present state of prostration and ruin. In other words, we are never going to move out of the present economic depths as long as eight million Americans walk the streets in idleness, as long as factories can find no markets, as long as the farmers of this country are compelled to sell their tobacco at prevailing prices their cotton below the cost of production, their corn at 25c a bushel, their wheat at 30c a bushel, peanuts at 1½c a pound, and their truck and live stock at prices that will supply the bare necessities of life.

"To my mind there is only one way out, and that is for this nation to elect a Democratic President and a Democratic Congress on a liberal tariff platform at will. The tangled wire entanglements now denying the American farmer and American workman his just participation in the markets of the world. Every nation has erected barriers against the products of the United States as a retaliation against its selfishness and misguided monopoly. The industries of this country are moving to other nations to escape the iniquity of privilege and tariff taxation.

"I come fresh from the people and I know full well of the hardships they are now enduring. I have no illusions about the power and influence of the governor's office; nor with respect to the difficulties which face the next governor of North Carolina, I would not have the people of North Carolina think that I am a miracle man, but it would be the proudest achievement of my life to have them know what is really in my heart—a sincere and honest conviction that I can serve them openly, freely, unselfishly and helpfully. Here in North Carolina there may be those who are being deceived and misled by a mirage of despair and ruin. I do not minimize our present plight, but all of the faith that's in me rises up in rebellion against the suggestion that North Carolina is bankrupt and all of its people impotent to fight off the calamity of the moment. Our great Christian civilization will not pass out of existence as long as we maintain the faith of our fathers, the courage of our race, and the hope of our religion."—From recent speech of Mr. Ehringhaus.
