BOWIE AND GRIST TO THROW SUPPORT TO REYNOLDS

ANGUS M'LEAN WILL SUPPORT CAM MORRISON

Former Governor to Aid Charlotte Man In Second Primary In This State.

Charlotte, June 8.—(AP)—Former Governor Angus W. McLean, of Lumberton, today told the Charlotte News he would support Senator Morrison in his second primary with R. R. Reynolds for the Democratic nomination as senator and expected to take an active part in the campaign.

McLean from his home at Lumberton gave the News this statement: "Replying to your inquiry, I expect to become active in the campaign for Morrison from now until the second primary in July. "I believe, as I am sure a large majority of the Democrats of North Carolina believe, that the best interests of our state and party will be subserved by the re-nomination of Morrison.

"Now that the confusion and cross-currents created by local and other candidacies in the first primary have been removed, I believe that the sober second thought of the people will assert itself, resulting in the overwhelming re-nomination of Senator Morrison."

No Trace Of Three Escaped State Prisoners

Raleigh, June 8.—(AP)—No trace had been found today of three state prisoners who yesterday shot and fatally wounded D. H. Brantley, steward at Cary prison farm, and escaped in an automobile belonging to John M. Mooney Jr., of Raleigh.

Brantley, who was shot down while in full view of his wife and daughter, died in a Raleigh hospital yesterday afternoon. He was the first prison employee mortally wounded in line of duty in 20 years.

The three: Dud Travis of Hickory, James Aubrey of Fayetteville, and Robert Cook of Waynesboro, Ky., convicted in Guilford county, are all white men.

Bill To Reduce Vet Loan Charges Given Approval

Washington, June 8.—(AP)—The Bacharach bill to reduce to four per cent the interest charge on loans against veterans' compensation certificates was approved today by the House ways and means committee.

Chairman Collier told newspapermen the vote was 13 to 9 and that the committee had authorized Representative Bacharach (R., N. J.), author of the bill, "to use all possible means to bring the bill up as soon as possible."

The Veterans' Administration estimated this change in law will cost $140,000,000 before the certificates mature in 1945.

Several Injured In Train Wreck

Deans, N. J., June 8.—(AP)—A fast express smashed a derailed freight near here last night, sending 28 passengers to hospitals for treatment, and bruising about 20 others.

Only two of the injured were in a serious condition today. Frank Schock, engineer of the express, and Harry McCulley, his fireman, were in a critical state. Both are of Atlantic City.

When the locomotive and three cars plunged over an embankment, Schock was hurled into a brook and was almost drowned before being pulled out. He suffered fractured ribs and other hurts. McCulley suffered a possible skull fracture.

Double Funeral
Rockingham—A double funeral was held here for Henrietta Smith and Marguerite Patterson, 13-year-old girls who drowned Monday while wading in Fee Dee pond.

Plays With Gun; Dead Statesville—Robert Gainer, 15, died here after being accidentally wounded while playing with a pistol at his home Monday.

Raymond Patenotre is an American-born member of the new French chamber of deputies. He was born in Atlantic City, N. J., in 1900, two years after his father retired as French ambassador to Washington. His mother was a daughter of the late Col. James Elverson, former Philadelphia publisher.

BONUS ARMY SHORT FOOD

Today is Last Day 7,000 Lads at Washington Will be Fed By Police.

(By The Associated Press)
The dust clouds of the bonus trek to Uncle Sam's front doorsteps shaped today into a question mark of ugly import:

"Where are tomorrow's meals coming from?"
Seven thousand lads who rolled to the heights in war and slid to the depths with the turn of the economic cycle "sat tight" in Washington after parading on broken soles and in tattered shoddiness last night.

Across the land unnumbered others hastened toward the Capital to add the weight of their numbers to the plea for immediate payment of $2,400,000,000 on adjusted service certificates.

But the police supply of stew and other meagre fare is almost gone. Today is the last day for which authorities have promised food. What will happen tomorrow no one knows. "The army will feed us," said one (Continued on page four)

LIGHT DOCKET BEFORE COURT

Seven Cases Disposed of in Weekly Session of County Court On Tuesday.

Seven cases were disposed of in the regular weekly session of County court here yesterday. One or two other cases remained to be heard today before adjournment. Several actions yesterday were continued until next week. It was the first sitting of the court in two weeks by reason of the Civil term of Superior court and the docket was comparatively light after such a long period of inactivity.

Tom White, colored, charged with possessing liquor, was sentenced to the roads for four months.

Dock Nelson, colored, was sentenced to the roads for twelve months for selling whiskey. Oscar Price, colored, drew six months on the roads for assaulting another colored man with a deadly weapon.

Charged with resisting arrest, John Owens, colored, was sent to the roads for three months. Ira Fordham, Fountain negro, who had a weakness for visiting chicken coops at night, received five months on the roads on a charge of chicken stealing. Because he possessed a whiskey still, Fred Silverthorne, was fined $25 and cost.

Judgment was suspended on payment of cost in the case of W. S. Moore, charged with being drunk and disorderly on the public highways.

Two More States Mount Roosevelt's Bandwagon

(By The Associated Press)
Florida and Mississippi Democrats apparently have climbed on the Franklin D. Roosevelt presidential bandwagon to raise his insured, pledged and claimed total to 529 of the 770 convention votes necessary to give him the nomination.

This is exclusive of 109 disputed votes in Pennsylvania and New York. Additional delegates will be selected in Virginia tomorrow and in Idaho Friday. The convention begins June 27.

Buys Election Paper and Finds Inside "Blank"

In the future "Bunny" Stokes farmer, residing about eight miles from Greenville, will probably be more particular about the "insides" of the newspapers he buys.

Stokes was among the hundreds of people who awaited election returns around The Reflector office Saturday night and Sunday. He was so thrilled over the way some of the boys were running that he decided to await the Reflector election edition before returning home.

The delayed count at the Greenville polls made it impossible for the paper to be issued before late Sunday afternoon. Stokes was among the first to receive copies fresh from the press. Glancing at the headlines, he stuffed the paper in his pocket and started home, intending to digest the returns after he reached there.

Arriving home, Stokes pulled the paper out and started reading. He absorbed a part of the first story and found he had to turn to another page for the remainder. Opening the paper, he discovered all the inside pages were blank, as the few first papers off the press usually are.

It is not known what Stokes said in his disappointment, but some of his friends said it was "a plenty."

SIX PRISONERS BREAK JAIL

Seventeen Others who Could Have Escaped Remain in Johnston County Jail.

Smithfield, June 8.—(AP)—Six prisoners, including one facing a charge of murder, escaped from the Johnston county jail here early today but 17 other prisoners who were enabled to escape stayed in their cells.

Johnston county officials discovered the break shortly after 1 a. m., and attributed it to Red Stanley, one of those who escaped, who was arrested several weeks ago in connection with the round-up of an alleged vice and bandit gang in this section.

Stanley, they said, had been found in possession of three hacksaws within a week. He evidently secured another, as bars to his cell were found cut off. The jailor's office was broken into and every cell was unlocked with his keys. Twenty-three prisoners were in the bastle.

Lonnie Deans, charged with the murder of W. H. Walters of near Selma, who died late yesterday of knife wounds suffered Monday, was one of the escapees. His father, Napoleon Deans, held in the same case, stayed in his cell.

No trace of the six men had been found today.

GIVES TALE OF BANDIT RAIDS

American Steamboat Captain Tells of Experiences while Held by Bandits.

Shanghai, June 8.—(AP)—A harrowing tale of five months of terror and filthy living conditions was told here today by Captain Charles Baker, American steamboat captain who was released last week near Hankow by Chinese bandits who kidnapped him last winter.

Captain Baker, who was released through the efforts of American missionaries after many previous attempts had been made to meet ransom demands of his captors, arrived here on his way to the United States, where he expects to rejoin his family at Oakland, Calif.

He planned to remain here for a short time, however, he said, in (Continued on page three)

New Check Tax to Cause Depositors No Trouble

Washington, June 8.—(AP)—Collection of the new two-cent tax on checks, drafts and similar instruments which goes into effect on June 21 will cause no inconvenience to bank depositors of the country, but will be handled entirely by the banks.

The Internal Revenue Bureau said today the banks would pay the tax to the treasury at the end of each month. During the period, the banks will keep count of the number of checks drawn by each depositor and at the end of the month enter the charge against his

PRES. HOOVER OPPOSES PLAN

Democratic Measure Carrying $500,000,000 for Public Works Faces Hard Sledging.

Washington, June 8.—(AP)—The Democratic unemployment relief bill, providing for a $500,000,000 public works bond issue, was approved today by the Senate banking committee.

The bill also provides for increasing the borrowing power of the Reconstruction Corporation by $1,500,000,000 for loans on self liquidating construction projects.

The committee voted, however, to eliminate provision for loans to competing private industries.

President Hoover has opposed the Democratic proposal for a $500,000,000 bond issue, but has approved in principle the remainder of the program.

The committee yesterday approved as a separate bill the Democratic proposal for a $300,000,000 fund for loans to states in relief of destitution, and an attempt was to be made in the Senate today to get an agreement for its consideration.

FIELD WINS SENATE RACE

Iowans Give "Amateur" Politician Big Victory Over Senator Brookhart.

Des Moines, Ia., June 8.—(AP)—The vagaries of politics today sent an "amateur" at the game to the head of Iowa's Republican ticket for the November general elections as the party's candidate for United States senator.

The "amateur" was Henry Field, erstwhile seed grower, then radio station owner and provider of the farm family's needs, from the breakfast prunes that furnished ammunition for opponents' speeches, to overall, baby chicks and automatic feeders.

He turned back a few pages in the history of political campaigning to take the road with his caravan bedecked with campaign slogans and telling of his celebrated campaign dish—chicken stew—at old-fashioned political rallies.

He accused U. S. Senator Smith W. Brookhart, his defeated opponent of nepotism, using the senatorial franking privilege for distributing campaign literature, and of spending too much time away from his senatorial duties on Chautauque lectures.

Brookhart claimed Field was entered in the race to split up the vote and force the nomination to convention. But Field instead polled consistently around 45 per cent of the total cast for the office, whereas 35 per cent was the minimum needed for nomination. His own spectacular upset victory over the late Senator Albert B. Cummins. That marked Brookhart's return to the political arena after his defeat in an earlier election contest.

HALF HOLIDAYS START TODAY

Greenville Business Houses to Close On Wednesday Afternoons for Summer.

The majority of Greenville stores and business houses today began observance of the Wednesday half holidays to be effective during the summer months.

Forty-five or more buildings closed their doors at the noon hour and will not re-open until tomorrow morning at the usual hour. The closing probably will be the most general in years and hundreds of people will be able to take advantage of the half holiday season.

The court house was among the buildings to join the observance of the holidays. Notices were posted above the doors of the various offices this morning stating that they would close each Wednesday afternoon during the holiday season.

Petitions for the holidays were circulated by young business men (Continued on page three)

SLOW REPORTS ON PRIMARIES

Only Six Townships Have Reported On Delegates Selected Last Saturday.

Although reports of delegates and executive committees selected at Democratic precinct primaries last Saturday afternoon were slow reaching the city, W. E. Hooks, chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive committee, stated today he expected the majority of townships would be heard from either today or tomorrow.

Only six townships have reported so far. The purpose of the primaries was to select delegates to the county convention to be held at the court house in Greenville Saturday, June 11, at 12 o'clock, and to name executive committees of five members.

The delegates at the county convention will choose delegates to attend the state convention at Raleigh June 16. Mr. Hooks said it was highly important for all delegates to be on hand and help choose the kind of delegates they wish to represent them at the state gathering.

Greenville delegates were chosen at the meeting Saturday, but the secretary had not completed copying the list of alternates today.

The executive committee is composed of J. C. Lanier, chairman; Mrs. J. B. Spillman, Mrs. H. S. Ragsdale, Breece Sigmon and S. J. Everett.

The delegates are: J. T. Manning, E. G. Flanagan, S. A. Whitehurst, C. F. Carroll, F. D. Manning, E. R. Dudley, S. L. Bridges, Jno. D. Murphy, W. T. Lipscomb, C. F. Man-

Selection of Jury Delayed by Arguments of Prejudice Against Priest.

JUNTA DENIES INSIDE STRIFE

Carlos Davila, New Chilean Government Head, Says No Dissension Exists.

By HAROLD F. BRAMAN
Santiago, Chile, June 8.—(AP)—Persistent reports of internal dissension among the Socialist junta that has seized the Chilean government were flatly denied today by Carlos Davila, the junta's head, in an interview with the Associated Press.

He also denied widespread rumors that he threatened to resign from the governmental group, and insisted there was no unrest or a counter-revolutionary movement in the southern provinces, although meager reports from that area said the disaffection there continued to smolder.

Several thousand workers gathered before the presidential palace last night and pledged their cooperation with the new government in its plan to provide every Chilean with a job by taking over the economic machinery and taxing the rich to pay for it.

Senor Davila predicted that within a month there would not be a single man in Chile who (Continued on page three)

Women's Temperance Union Says Return of Liquor Would Be National Stupidity.

Evanston, Ill., June 8.—(AP)—The national headquarters of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, taking issue with John D. Rockefeller Jr., on his prohibition repeal pronouncement, declared today return to liquor "would be national stupidity."

In a statement sent to W. C. T. U. leaders in every state, the heads of the union declared both political parties have had experiences "with the domination of distillers, brewers and retail liquor dealers."

"The history of the past justifies us in saying that the political party is doomed which for the sake of political expediency, opens the door through which liquor may return to a legal status."

Prohibition Expected To Take Prominent Part in Campaign Preceding Run-Off Primary to Settle Senatorial Race

Charlotte, June 8.—(AP)—Judge Tam C. Bowie and Frank O'Grady, who ran third and fourth in Saturday's balloting for the Democratic nomination as senator, will throw their support to R. R. Reynolds, anti-prohibition candidate and the number one man in Senator Morrison demands a runoff primary.

Reynolds claimed their support in a statement issued yesterday and confirmation of his claim followed quickly.

The announcement presaged a bitter battle over prohibition during the three weeks before the next primary on July 1. Morrison long has been politically and personally dry, but Bowie, in announcing he would support Reynolds, charged the senator with having no moral convictions on prohibition.

Grist has already begun active work for Reynolds.

The former judge said he would support the Asheville man, a neophyte in politics compared with the senator, because Saturday's vote showed a majority of North Carolina Democrats do not want Morrison in the Senate. He continued:

"The second reason I am going to vote for Reynolds is that I know how Reynolds stands on the prohibition question, but I do not know how Morrison stands. He last stated that he would abide by whatever platform the Democratic party adopted. Morrison has no moral conviction about prohibition. I have always been for prohibition, and have always voted for it, but I am not going to vote for any man who has no moral conviction about it."

Bowie also said he would continue to oppose Morrison because the senator had expressed satisfaction with the present system of taxation. "I think any system that causes the citizens of his own town—Charlotte—to pay taxes on their buildings to keep from paying taxes on them is neither a just or wise system of taxation," he added.

Grist was not available for a statement, but Reynolds said he was assured of the latter's support. Bowie polled 37,680 votes Saturday, Grist 28,550 and Arthur Gammans, the trailer, 3,875.

Reynolds got something over 150,000, Morrison something over 138,000.

Meanwhile, the Charlotte Observer said some of the state's most outstanding Democrats would immediately announce support for the senator. Included in the paper's list were A. D. McLean, former Governor A. W. McLean, and Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, editor of one of the state's largest newspapers and for many years considered Morrison's arch foe.

In other quarters, however, the ardor for run-off battles appeared to be cooling. Norman A. Bondar, of Greensboro, announced he would not enter a second contest with William Unstead, of Durham, for the sixth district congressional nomination.

J. C. B. Ehringhaus appeared to be another who might walk into nomination when circles close to Richard T. Fountain, lieutenant-governor, appeared not overly enthusiastic about a second primary in the gubernatorial race. Ehringhaus led Saturday by more than 50,000 votes.

The Senate contest held prospect for a clash of two of the most divergent personalities ever to meet in North Carolina politics.

NOT INTENDED FOR PERSONAL ATTACK ON POLL-HOLDERS

Our attention has been called to the fact that our reference in yesterday's editorial to what was said by the Chairman of the County Board of Elections as to the Chicod voting precinct has been construed as a personal attack upon the election officials of that precinct. Our conversation with Chairman Harding yesterday to which we referred in our editorial was regarding the extreme congestion that prevailed at the Greenville voting place and the irregularities beyond control of election officials made possible by this congestion. Mr. Harding remarked that conditions were even worse at the Chicod box and we so quoted Mr. Harding. Following complaint made to us this morning we have gone over the matter with Mr. Harding and he states that his remarks yesterday applied only to the extremely congested conditions at the Chicod polling place and were so intended at the time made.

We gladly give this explanation in order that any of our readers who construed our editorial as a direct attack upon the Chicod officials might know just what was intended. Other than Mr. Harding's remarks we have made no mention of the Chicod situation and have not made any attack upon the election officials. Our interest in this entire matter has been along two distinct lines. One, to show from the congested conditions Saturday at the larger voting places, that it is absolutely essential that these precincts be divided if we are to have orderly elections carried out in accordance with the law.

The other angle of our fight is the illegality of the race for the office of County Commissioner because of irregularities that took place in the preparation of the tickets prior to the date of the primaries. In the first instance we believe that we have succeeded in convincing the election officials of the necessity for the change in the voting precincts. The latter issue is still in the course of prosecution and it is not our intention to let up on this phase of the matter until we see to it that the law is carried out or until we are hopelessly defeated in our efforts.

ABOUT TOWN

The neurotic condition existing during and immediately following the primary in this state Saturday has just about disappeared and people can get down to business again and sooth their nerves until the presidential election in November.

The balloting was the most colorful Pitt county has ever seen before by reason of the unprecedented heavy vote and intense interest manifested in both state and county candidates. Greenville people, by reason of the congestion existing at the polls here, were impressed with the need of another voting place in this township to facilitate balloting. It is conservatively estimated that at least five hundred people were not able to vote Saturday because of the crowded condition of the polls. Election officials did what they could to speed up machinery but all attempts of this kind were futile because of the great number desiring to vote.

Greenville has grown considerably the last several years and more people are voting here today than any other time in history of the county. The general increase in vote of the women is also a contributing factor and is expected to continue to swell as women begin to take a more active part in cleaning up the political life of the community. It is to be hoped ample provisions will be made to take care of the vote here next time so that every person desiring to express his opinion for the men running for public office may do so without being forced to stand in line from half an hour to an hour before finally reaching the polls, and many not being able to reach them at all. It is a condition demanding attention of men and women in every walk of life and public officials, more vitally concerned than everybody else, should make it a point to appeal to the proper authorities for desired relief.

The tax bill, bone of contention of Congress, for the last several weeks, at last has been completed and signed by President Hoover. Action will be received with profound interest throughout the country in view of the many interests that were affected by increased tax rates. While all those involved kicked as much as they could, they will probably resign themselves to the inevitable and do their bit until conditions better and they are relieved of the burden.

The government has only one way to take care of the tremendous debt incurred each year and that is through taxation, and the burden will not likely be reduced until operating expenses are lowered. Provision was made for the tremendous deficit in the present bill and when that has been taken care of it is probable the tax strain may be lessened somewhat. The government must get down to some real economy during the next two years because the public will not appreciate another deficit of this kind. The burden is almost more than the country can bear and continuing the load would break the camel's back.

Many leading business houses of the city have signed up to abide by the half holiday to be observed on Wednesdays during the summer months. The closing began effective today and will extend through the month of August, if present plans carry. Greenville has been observing the half holiday closing plan for several years now and proponents believe it has been instrumental in conserving the health of the many employees.

It enables workers to enjoy a half day at their favorite diversions at one of the most trying times of the year, and in addition to improving health, it also has a tendency to improve the desire of men and women to render a higher type of service in return for the liberality of their employers. The people who take part in the holidays should make an effort to increase service to employers in future years and in that way show appreciation of this time off during the hot summer months. It will make the closing more widespread in the future, causing others to join who were at first opposed to the movement.

Gambler's Throw

By EUSTACE L. ADAMS

SYNOPSIS: Jerry Calhoun, Emory Battles and a detective, Stevens, are preparing for an intensive hunt after the kidnapers who carried off Nancy Wentworth, a musical comedy star, and who also have abducted a gangster and four wealthy business men. They plan to follow down the gang by airplane, as both boys are pilots. Nancy captured while she was with Jerry and the others are being held while their relatives pay "board money" to ensure their safety. The money was collected by a hydroplane, which gives a clue as to the modern methods and resources of the kidnapers. Meanwhile the captives find themselves transported by plane to some unknown place of tropical heat. They see only servants and their nerves grow strained in the suspense and heat. One of the millionaires, Mallory, tells Nancy he has been in love with her for years and tries to kiss her when someone intervenes.

Chapter 9
A DANGEROUS MAN
The whirling ball of things steadied. Nancy's eyes returned to focus. A long breath or two and she was almost herself. Before her was the gangster, One-shot Lucci, balancing himself lightly upon the balls of his feet, rubbing the knuckles of his right hand and staring at her with his bright, hard little eyes. His shock of black hair was slicked back against his head, glued down with pomade. She could smell the lilac scent of it. "If he tries to neck you again, I'll kill him," he declared flatly. "Lucky I happened by." He paused a moment in thought. Then his brow cleared. "Wouldn't it be better if I cracked his neck right now? There wouldn't be a squawk outa him."

"No, no, please!" she turned a sob into a nervous laugh. "Thank you so much, Mr. Lucci, but let's not add to our troubles." Mr. Lucci looked as though he thought the trouble would be negligible, a thing to be forgotten in the next breath, but she hurried on. "I'm sure he won't bother me again."

Mallory was struggling to his feet, his green eyes hot and murderous. A bluish lump was already becoming evident on the point of his chin. He lurched as he turned and staggered into the house.

"That's what too much hootch does to a guy," Lucci observed philosophically. "If that bird was in training now, he could muscle his way through quite a good set-to."

He wiped his forehead with a florid handkerchief of lavender silk, bordered and initialed in purple. "Gee, ain't it hot! Have you got any idea where we are, Miss Wentworth?"

"Not the slightest." She drew a long breath of relief. A danger point had been passed in safety. "Mr. Mallory thinks we're on one of the southernmost islands of the Bahama group. Mr. Hamilton thinks we are on the Florida coast."

"How long were you in that plane?" "It must have been fifteen or sixteen hours. The curtains were drawn during the day time and we landed at night, so we couldn't see whether we had been flying over land or water."

"Fifteen hours," echoed the gangster reflectively. "That knocks my idea out of the picture. I figured we'd been in the air long enough to get to California or maybe Mexico. But I don't think they could have carried you that far from New York. It's hot enough to be 'way down in the tropics. Well, I'll pass. We'll know sometime. I guess, if we don't all get bumped off down here fighting with each other. Have they said anything to you about ransom money?"

"Not a word. Nor to any of the others, so far as I know. Perhaps that's one of the things that makes the tension and the uncertainty."

"Well, it's a swell racket, whatever they're doing about collecting for us. They bought this island, and this portable house for $15,000, say. The airplane cost them fifteen—twenty grand more. The clothes they bought for us when we got down here, and the eats, drinks and furniture, say, another five grand. That's something like $40,000. God knows how much they will for aircraft or surface vessels. Warning was given that if a similar trap were set on Lake Michigan to that off Montauk point, no effort would be made to take the money and the prisoners would bear the brunt of retaliation. As before the notes were written and enclosed in non-descript stationery but were, on this occasion, mailed from a box in Chicago's populous Loop. There was no finger prints nor any other traceable clues.

At nine o'clock the following Wednesday morning a large cabin monoplane zoomed off an uneven field of stubble on the outskirts of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and flew southward at an amazing speed. When it turned over Lake Michigan at Waukegan, its altitude was such as to render it almost invisible from the ground.

Twenty-four thousand feet above the vast expanse of inland sea, three men were comfortably seated in its heated, enclosed cabin. Jerry, his gray eyes sparkling, was at the joystick.

Jerry is firmly determined to chase the kidnapers, this time, to their hidden quarters. Tomorrow, the strange plane appears again.

YANKS TAKE FIRST GAME AT DETROIT

By GAYLE TALBOT

Associated Press Sports Writer
It took Wesley Ferrell the better part of two seasons to catch up with the Philadelphia Athletics, but Cleveland's ace could feel today that he had gone a long way toward squaring accounts with the Mackmen.

They licked him five times last season and knocked him out of the box the first time they faced him in the current campaign. That might have convinced a pitcher less obstinate than Ferrell, but it only made him more determined to crack the jinx, and he finally turned the trick yesterday.

Facing the Athletics in their first appearance in the West, he personally pitched and batted the minto submission, 4 to 3. With the score tied in the seventh, he doubled and then scored the winning run on Porter's two-bagger off the screen.

The victory moved the Indians into fourth place. It was Ferrell's tenth triumph of the year. But for Al Simmons, who belted two homers, it would have been a breeze for the Indian rightlander. The New York Yankees continued to bowl merrily along as they opened their western tour with a 9 to 2 decision over Detroit. The Tigers made six errors.

Washington scored four runs off Vic Frazier in the eleventh frame to down the Chicago White Sox, 8 to 5, and the St. Louis Browns gave the West an even break for the day by defeating the unfortunate Boston Red Sox, 6 to 1. Home runs by Goose Goslin and Irving Burns featured the Browns' easy victory behind Walter Stewart.

The first day's inter-sectional warfare in the National league saw first place again change hands and further tightened up one of the hottest races the older circuit has experienced in years. Only seven and one-half games separated first and eighth places today, compared to the 23 1/2 games disparity between New York and Boston in the American league. Boston, held idle by rain, took over the top again when the Chicago Cubs dropped their opener to Brooklyn, 9 to 2. Lon Warneke, Chicago's youthful mound sensation, failed to go the full route for the first time in ten starts when the Dodgers, aided by two errors, counted six runs in the seventh inning.

A brace of homers by Mel Ott, one with a man on base, were all the Giants needed to nose out Cincinnati, 4 to 3. Led by Young Floyd Vaughan, who pounded a double and four singles in five trips, Pittsburgh opened its eastern trip with a 7 to 4 win over the Phillies. The victory put the Pirates only three games out of second place.

TOURISTS MOVE BACK NEAR TOP

Charlotte, June 7.—(AP)—Taking an even break for the series by defeating Raleigh 4 to 3 while Charlotte was losing its second straight to Greensboro 11-10, the Asheville Tourists crawled back into second place in the Piedmont pennant race. Their margin over Greensboro wasn't worth mentioning, however, and Charlotte was but half a game behind. Stumpy Culbreth, guardian of Charlotte's look-in corner, went back into the league leadership in home run hitting, polling out a long one to bring his total to 10 for the season, one more than the figure of Perry of High Point. Caldwell, Patriot first sacker, grabbed batting honors for the day, however, getting a homer, two doubles and a single out of five trips. Guyon, Tourist mentor, got four singles out of as many times at bat. The winning streak of the Winston-Salem Twins, who held a three game margin over all comers, was at least temporarily blocked by the lowly Wilmington Pirates when Lindsey sent a deep double into left field to score Walsh and give his club a 4-3 decision in the 10th inning. The Pirates remained in seventh place, however, a game behind High Point and Raleigh, which were virtually tied for sixth. Durham beat High Point, 11-7, but remained a game and a half behind the Pirates. Wolfe, hard hitting Durham outfielder, hit in his 19th consecutive game. He had previously been credited with 33 successive hitting games, but a check of the records revealed he had failed to come through while playing for Raleigh May 13.

Hopes for good weather during observance of the first half holiday were given a slight setback by cloudy skies and chilly temperatures this morning, but the sun made its appearance about 10 o'clock, holding out hope of an improvement in weather conditions for the afternoon.

Other public buildings were expected to join the courthouse in taking time off from the cares of business during the summer months, and while announcements to this effect had not been made today, they were expected to be forthcoming soon.

FOUNTAIN GIRL HEALTHIEST

of Stokes; Doris Nichols, 16, of Arthur, and Edwina Baker, of Farmville, tied for first honors in the 4-H club contest here about a month ago and were required to undergo another physical examination at the Pitt County Department of Health yesterday to determine the winner. Miss Baker did not participate in the final contest, however.

Five hundred and thirty-three young men and women participated in the original contest conducted among the various schools of the county and those appearing for the final examination held the highest averages of the entire number.

Miss Harris, attractive blonde, is a splendid representative of the health and pulchritude of Pitt county young people, and it was believed she stood good chances of emerging as winner in the district contest.

Asked how she kept in such perfect physical condition, she stated she ate what the majority of people do and enjoyed virtually all kinds of exercises indulged in by school girls.

She said she did not enjoy very good health until she had her tonsils removed several years ago, but since that time she had shown constant improvement. The same statement was made by the other contestants.

The health contest was conducted through the Home Demonstration department, under direction of Miss Ethel Nice, assisted by the Pitt County Department of Health, and various doctors of the city and county.

Examining physicians were high in their praise of the fine rating made by the four contestants, and especially Miss Harris who didn't lack much making a perfect score.

Pictures were taken of the young women in the first examination here, but they did not turn out as was expected, hence Miss order to recuperate from the effects of the hardships he suffered.

Nice was planning to take another snapshot of Miss Harris to let the world know what Pitt county is producing in the way of healthy young women.

"I was threatened with death fifty times," he said. "I never expected to survive these half-civilized, treacherous, inhuman bandits, who call themselves communists, are conducting a wholesale kidnapping business. Their victims are any foreigners or wealthy Chinese they can lay their hands on who, they believe, would be capable of paying huge ransoms."

During the entire five months his food consisted only of half-cooked rice, and fish twice a day, he said.

Although he was frequently threatened with execution, because the ransom demand of 50,000 Mexican dollars was not met, he was mistreated physically only once.

"Then I was chained and beaten, apparently because a newly-arrived chief wished to impress his followers," he said.

Captain Baker told a tale of widespread lawlessness over an area embracing a short distance from Hankow and extending 200 miles along the north bank of the river Yangtze.

GIVES FACTS ON FINGER PRINTS

Policeman Page Summarizes Value Of Prints in Detection of Crime.

"When a crime is committed, nothing, but call an officer and it will place many a criminal behind the bars where he so justly belongs," is the advice of L. D. Page, Greenville policeman, writing on the value of finger prints in crime detection.

The writer after summarizing the value of finger prints in government work, refers to a local case where a thief was apprehended after entering the Methodist church.

The discussion in detail follows: Some people look upon finger prints as something new. As a matter of fact finger prints were in use more than a thousand years ago. The Chinese monarchs used the thumb print on documents as a sign manual. This is the first use of finger prints insofar as can be determined.

In 1823 finger prints were discussed at the University of Breslau, by Professor Purkinje, a professor of physiology and pathology.

In 1838 Sir William Herschel, of the Indian Civil Service, Bengal, India, used finger prints to good advantage on documents sent in for registration.

In 1894 the English authorities began to consider finger prints as a means for identification, and later adopted Sir E. R. Henry's system which is used throughout England and its provinces today, as well as in the United States, and many other countries.

The United States adopted the Henry system in 1906, and since that time has made rapid strides in using finger prints as a means of identification. The Department of Justice at Washington, which is a clearing house for all police departments and sheriff's offices in the United States has in its files 10,000,000 prints. According to Mr. J. E. Hoover who is director, there were over 30,000 criminal identifications made throughout the country during 1931. This means that several thousand escaped convicts were captured by finger prints, and returned to prison to finish their sentences.

Mr. Hoover can point out thousands of cases where the print was found at the scene of a crime, and where the guilty party was convicted and the innocent turned loose.

Those latest prints found at the scene of a crime are very important to the officer investigating the case, and the people should be very careful not to handle any thing at the scene of a crime, but should call the officers and get a finger print expert on the scene as soon as possible.

Just a few days ago the Methodist church of this city was broken into, and there was part of a finger print found on a piece of glass.

Several suspects were rounded up and finger prints responded. Only one finger print corresponded, the right little finger of one Arthur Joyner, colored. He denied guilt at first but later confessed to breaking the glass and entering. If any one had handled this piece of glass before the officers arrived it is highly possible the thief would still be at large.

It is the intention of the writer of this article to so instruct the public as to the value of latent prints found at the scene of a crime that they will cooperate with the officers and use this motto: When a crime is committed, touch nothing, but call an officer, and it will place many a criminal behind the bars where he so justly belongs.

Vanceboro, N. C., June 8.—(AP)—Hereafter, as long as there are snakes about, ODS Boyd probably will keep his pockets full of nails.

Boyd, having some carpenter's work to do at his home near here, filled his pockets with nails and started across a field. On the way he felt something hit his overalls pocket and, looking down, saw a rattlesnake "as big as a man's arm" ready to strike.

The carpenter killed the reptile and then looked at his overalls. He said he found the snake's fangs in the nail-filled pocket.

New York Cotton

New York, June 5.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 3-7 lower, on near month liquidation spot houses and brokers with Far East connections also selling.

A favorable view of prevailing weather conditions in the South and expectations of an encouraging weekly report from the weather bureau seemed to offset the fairly steady showing of Liverpool, and there may have been some selling influenced by the early action of the Stock Market and uncertainty as to the outcome of relief legislation pending in Washington. Trade interests were buyers on the decline to 5.06 for July and 5.45 for December, however, while there was considerable covering and after initial offerings had been absorbed, the volume of business tapered off with prices showing rallies of a point or two from the lowest at the end of the first half hour. Liverpool cables reported Bombay buying and trade calling in that market.

Grain Market

Chicago, June 5.—(AP)—Prevailing quotations on wheat today on the Chicago Board of Trade were the lowest in the history of the exchange, excepting only last October. July delivery of wheat, representing the new 1932 domestic crop, sold down to below 50 cents a bushel, the central factor was dearth of buyers, with a striking lack of the demand that usually comes from shorts.

Stock Market

New York, June 5.—(AP)—The securities markets again presented a somewhat wan appearance today. Stocks gave way more readily than bonds, but neither market showed any disposition to resume last week's recovery. Nevertheless, the reaction from Saturday's highs was still kept fairly well within the bounds of a normal setback.

Brooklyn-Manhattan transit remained a weak feature in shares, losing about 3 points. Special selling also cropped out in Macy, that issue dropping 4 to a new low. Woolworth reacted 2, in selling coincident with announcement of retirement of H. T. Parson as president. American Telephone last as much. Alaska Juneau, bull pool favorite of a few months ago, sagged 1 1/2 to a new low. Miscellaneous issues off a point or so included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, American Tobacco B, North American, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, C. and O., National Biscuit, Corn Products, General Foods and International Harvester. Auburn was a firm spot, rising more than 2 points in short covering on the expected formal announcement of its price reductions.

With steel production reported at the lowest since last December, and some uneasiness manifested in financial quarters over the fate of government economy and relief measures, brokers were inclined to the belief that the share market was giving about as good account of itself as could be expected for the moment. It was pointed out, however, that any further substantial slump toward the low average levels recorded before last week's recovery would be a bad technical sign.

Although automobile production was estimated for the United States and Canada at 185,970 cars and trucks for May, in increase of about 20 per cent over April, it is apparent that the quickening of output by the Ford Motor company has accounted for much of the improvement.

On liquor has decreased drinking. Reduced poverty, improved the lot of school children and helped industry by giving it "a sober army of producers."

"Mr. Rockefeller should realize," the statement said, "that when the 18th amendment was ratified the liquor interests threatened to organize a nation-wide disobedience of the prohibition laws. Much of the present tax observance and nullification is the result of that threat."

While the regulations will not be completed for some time, those applying to the taxes that become effective June 21 will be promulgated before that time. Most of the new excise taxes are levied upon the manufacturer and will be collected from that source.

The experts have kept abreast of the bill as it moved through Congress and about all that remains now is to decide the final form of the new regulations applying to the fifteen day taxes.

Meanwhile, the Republicans who meet at Chicago next Tuesday to re-nominate President Hoover, centered their principal activity on a proposed prohibition plank. Final decision will be left to the convention.

Additional Republican delegates were being chosen in Indiana today and Idaho will make its selection Friday. President Hoover, however, already has more than the majority necessary to renominate.

In the Florida primary, Roosevelt had a big lead over Governor William H. Murray of Oklahoma and L. J. Chasse of Milwaukee.

Representative Ruth Bryan Owen was trailing Mark Wilcox in the race for nomination from the fourth congressional district.

Mississippi's delegation will go to the Democratic convention unpledged but favoring Roosevelt.

Jacksonville, Fla., June 5.—(AP)—With the preferential vote for Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York mounting steadily in returns from yesterday's Democratic primary, chief concern today centered on the fourth congressional district race in which Mark Wilcox, champion of prohibition repeal, is leading Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen.

Returns from 180 precincts of the 419 in the district gave Wilcox, West Palm Beach lawyer, a lead of 2,879 over Mrs. Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, who is seeking nomination for re-election on a platform including a prohibition referendum plank.

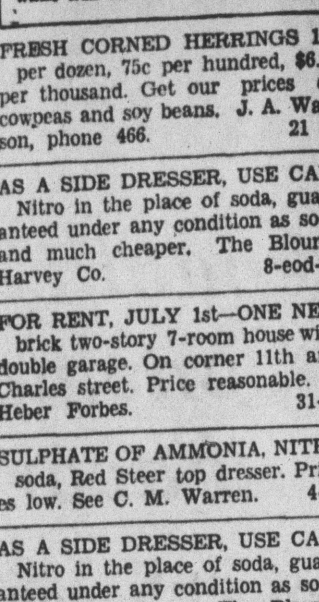

Increasing returns make it appear obvious Governor Roosevelt is the overwhelming choice for the presidential nomination over Governor William H. Murray of Oklahoma and L. J. Chasse of Milwaukee, Wis.

James C. Rogers, assistant secretary of the State Department at Washington, delivered the commencement address. He spoke on "The First Query" in which he asked "Do the great events now under way demand the building of a new world or only the rebuilding of the old?"

He suggested to the graduates that "the very temper of the world shows little market for adventurous experiments, little offering of new institutions for old. We seem to ask the old things back again, not many novelties."

a good guard for somebody's football team, has never made any secret of his wetness, although in 1926, when he ran against the late Senator Lee S. Overman, to whose seat Morrison was appointed, prohibition was not an issue.

Well-educated, widely traveled, he makes the impression of a cosmopolite, as does the senator. But there is a jauntiness about the 46-year-old Reynolds which has no counterpart in his 93-year-old opponent. Reynolds is known throughout the mountain territory as "Our Bob." The former governor is known as Cam, but few call him that in casual conversation, and few would think of tagging him "Our Cam."

Reynolds, compared with Morrison, is a babe in the woods in politics. Morrison rode horseback from town to town in the "Red Shirt" days, when North Carolina reclaimed the state from Carpet Baggers. A dirt farmer from a dirt farming county, he soon turned to law, but worked mostly at politics. He became a bitter partisan, and definitely broke with former Senator Furnifold M. Simmons, who was in no small way responsible for Morrison having been elected governor in 1920, when Simmons led the anti-Smith campaign which resulted in North Carolina's going for Hoover in 1928.
