G. O. P. KEYNOTER BOOSTS HOOVER RENOMINATION

Pitt County To Have Second Battle Of Ballots In July

HOLMES FILES FOR RUN OFF PRIMARY 2ND

Farmville Man Enters Second Contest with Jack Edwards for A Seat in the House of Representatives; 3 Constables in Race.

Pitt county voters will go to the polls again Saturday, July 2 to express their preference for two candidates for a seat in the House of Representatives and constables in three separate townships.

John Holmes, runner-up to Jack Edwards in the recent state-wide primary, filed for a second primary with the Board of Elections late yesterday afternoon bringing to an end speculation as to whether or not there would be a second contest in this county.

While competition was expected for two seats on the County Board of Commissioners, this failed to materialize at midnight last night when filing time for candidates expired. The three who failed to obtain sufficient majority to elect were McLamb, Smith and Surrill, and failure to file for a run-off leaves the first two contestants in charge of the seats. Dudley, Williams and Cox obtained a sufficient majority to elect in the first primary.

Competition for constable has been provided in Greenville, Beaver Dam and Ayden townships. J. R. Hemby filed against L. B. Allen in Beaver Dam, Heber Surrill against R. O. Davis in Ayden, and Gus Stokes against Richard King in Greenville.

The fight for constable in Greenville township was one of the most eventful in years by reason of the fact that ten candidates sought the place in the first primary. Both King and Stokes have already started campaigning for the second race which has all the earmarks of a real battle for supremacy.

Considerable interest has developed in the races in the other two townships and it was expected the vote would be fairly large. Holmes, legislative incumbent, decided to call for a run-off vote after considerable persuasion on the part of friends. He did not definitely make up his mind until he visited Greenville yesterday morning and talked the matter over with some of his constituents.

Edwards, Greenville lawyer, and practically a newcomer in local politics, obtained a comfortable plurality in the first contest, running next to E. G. Flanagan, incumbent, who obtained the required number of votes to nominate.

Now that a second battle is an actuality, Pitt county will again witness another political battle, and while not featured by a plethora of candidates like the first, it promises to be colorful and fraught with extensive campaigning.

Mrs. Smith To Be Buried Near Here Tomorrow

A message was received here today conveying intelligence of the death at Blairsville, Pa., of Mrs. Bruce McGowan Smith, 34, native of Pitt county and a former resident of Greenville.

Funeral services will be held from the First Presbyterian church at Rocky Mount Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock and the body will be brought to Greenville for burial in the family burying grounds at the old McGowan home place between Greenville and Pactiville at 11:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Smith was the former Miss Bruce McGowan, the youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. A. McGowan of Greenville. She lived in Rocky Mount before moving to Pennsylvania.

DUNCAN HEADS STATE'S G. O. P.

Republican Delegates Fully Organized As Chicago Convention Opens.

By EDWIN BRIETZ (AP Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, June 14.—(AP)—North Carolina's delegation to the Republican convention opening today selected State Chairman James S. Duncan of Greensboro as spokesman for the convention's sessions which the Tar Heels predict will be both speedy and harmonious.

Duncan's selection was made at the delegation's organization caucus last night and early today at which the following committee appointments also were announced: Credentials—Charles A. Jonas of Lincolnton, national committeeman. Resolutions—C. C. Frazier of Greensboro, the party's gubernatorial candidate.

ROOSEVELT IS STILL SILENT

Will Not Answer Unfounded Talk Concerning His Candidacy for Presidency.

Albany, N. Y., Recurring Chicago reports that Governor Roosevelt would appear before the Democratic national convention if nominated, or that he would take direct charge of his fight for the presidential nomination if the opposition held have brought this answer from the governor:

"I'm not going to make any statement in answer to the dozens of unfounded rumors that will appear every few minutes during the next few weeks." The statement was given in a vigorous tone as newspapermen pressed him on his plans. The governor has said he would not attend the convention. However, a suite of hotel rooms reserved at Chicago two months ago are being retained for the governor in the event a crisis developed in the Roosevelt fight for the nomination. One of the Chicago reports yesterday was that the governor would make a dramatic appearance before the convention if nominated.

S. H. BRICKELL TO BE BURIED NEAR HALIFAX

Funeral for Drowned Man to be Conducted from Home Tomorrow Afternoon.

Funeral services for Sterling H. Brickell, 35, who was drowned while swimming with three youths in Tar river about three miles north of Greenville yesterday afternoon, will be conducted from his home in Halifax county, five miles from Halifax, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in the family cemetery at the homeplace.

Brickell, prototype machinist on The Daily Reflector, met death while trying to swim across the river yesterday afternoon shortly after 1 o'clock with James Smith, 16-year-old son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith, on his back. He was believed to have been seized (Continued on page four)

FORD BOOSTS HOOVER CAUSE

Manufacturer Says Present Political Issues Mean Nothing to Country.

Detroit, June 14.—(AP)—Henry Ford believes the issues "now being stirred up at the political conventions" mean nothing, and thinks they will not have the slightest effect "on the things that we are all interested in today—economic recovery, jobs and money in the pocket of the average man."

In an interview today, Mr. Ford lauded the abilities of President Hoover and said he expected to see him re-elected "because he is the man best fitted for the job."

"One thing that should be cleared up," he said, "is that these national conventions are not so important as they are made out to be." (Continued on page four)

HOUSE BEGINS BONUS WORK

Galleries Are Packed with Veterans as Solons Start Consideration of Measure.

Washington, June 14.—(AP)—Under the watchful eyes of several hundred veterans crowding the galleries, the House today began consideration of the $2,400,000 cash bonus bill with passage expected before adjournment.

Democratic leaders served notice they intended to keep the House in session until a final vote. After four hours of general debate amendments to the Patman new-money bill will be considered.

Just before the House met Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader, told newspapermen the bonus is licked.

"It will pass the House but there are not enough votes for the necessary two-thirds to pass it over a Presidential veto," Rainey said. "The vote against it yesterday was larger than I expected."

Senate leaders continued to claim 55 votes—majority of the 96 members of that branch—against the legislation. President Hoover has promised a veto if it reaches the White House.

Asks for Renomination of President Hoover

Rep. L. J. Dickinson, of Iowa, today called on the Republican convention to send President Hoover back to the White House for another term. Picture shows Representative Dickinson and his wife as they arrived at the convention. The keynote speech is in the black brief case. Mrs. Ellis Yost, of West Virginia, right, is in charge of women's activities at the convention.

Simmons And Grist Will Support 'Cam' Morrison

Raleigh, June 14.—(AP)—Campaign wounds of recent years among North Carolina Democrats appeared to have been cauterized today, with announcement that Furnifold M. Simmons, for 30 years U. S. senator and for almost half a century a dominant figure in the party in the state, and Frank D. Grist, a trailing candidate in the last senatorial primary, would support Cameron Morrison in the second primary.

Both statements evoked sharp surprise, but for different reasons. (Continued on page four)

LAUNCH PLANS FOR CITY POOL

A movement for the re-opening of the Westbrook swimming pool for the benefit of the children of the city was launched this morning by a group of interested citizens, and if plans are carried to completion the pool will be in readiness and open to the public within ten days or two weeks.

Realizing the need of a place for children of the city to swim under supervision of accredited life savers and under sanitary conditions, a group of citizens last year organized a corporation under the name of the Greenville Recreation Association and with the aid of donations from interested citizens successfully operated the pool.

Believing that the citizenship as a whole are willing to cooperate again in this movement, representatives of the association will begin work tomorrow cleaning up the premises and making necessary repairs for the opening of the pool.

The Water and Light Commission is again being asked to furnish free water for the pool and the city government and the general public will be asked to donate necessary funds to take care of fixed overhead in the way of liability insurance and necessary repairs and supplies prior to the opening of the pool.

If these plans carry the pool will be under the supervision of C. W. Porter, athletic director of the high school, who will be assisted by Tom Rivers, an accredited lifeguard.

The public is called on to give necessary financial assistance to this cause and in that way aid in throwing a safeguard around the lives of children while enjoying this form of sport during the summer months.

GASTON MEANS FOUND GUILTY

Washington, June 14.—(AP)—Gaston B. Means, the notorious detective, stood convicted today of larceny in an amazing swindle based on the tragic kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby. He faces a possible ten year sentence.

Notorious Detective Is Faced with 10-Year Prison Term for the Lindbergh Swindle.

It took a jury in District of Columbia Supreme Court only two hours last night to reach a verdict of guilty on two counts. They cover $104,000 obtained by Means from Mrs. Edward B. McLean, wealthy and socially prominent Washingtonian, as ransom and expense money in a fantastic scheme by which the former justice agent offered to rescue the ill-fated child.

The maximum sentence, which might be imposed on each count is ten years, plus $2,000 fine. The jury held him not guilty on separate in. (Continued on page four)

WASHINGTON CLUB PUTS ON PROGRAM AT BARBECUE SPREAD AT THE COUNTRY CLUB.

The regular meeting of the Rotary club was held at the Country Club last night, and in addition to a delightful program, consisting of speech-making and music, the members enjoyed a tempting spread of barbecue with all the trimmings that go with it.

The program was in charge of the inimitable fun-maker, Carl Goerch, president of the Washington Rotary club, assisted by that locally famed cast of John Bragaw, Charlie Flynn and Edmund Harding, also of the Pamlico capital.

Howard McGinnis presided and turned the meeting over to Goerch, who called on Charlie Flynn to make the welcome address and then the response. Charlie delivered the welcome address in his usual lofty style, and while the duty of making the response was an unexpected surprise, he also did that in a way that evoked considerable laughter as well as praise.

John Bragaw, recognized as a speaker of versatility and force, delivered the principal address in which he stressed the part which Rotary is playing in community life. He read an editorial appearing in a recent edition of the Rotarian, showing that a community is exactly what its citizens make of it.

He emphasized the necessity of more attention to perspectives so that they may be sufficiently broadened to give ourselves a keen appreciation of community advantage and then to impress the other fellow with it.

Edmund Harding, who has acquired a bit of distinction as a song leader and musician, brought forth an accord of undetermined vintage and coaxed more music from it than the ordinary orchestra leader gets from his entire organization. Everybody knew that Edmund could put across a song festival in top-notch fashion, but his ability to deal so expertly with the perversities of an accordion lifted him much higher in public estimation. #### Senator Dickinson Asks Republican Convention To Support President

DIES WHILE AIDING BONUS

Washington, June 14.—(AP)—Representative Eslick of Tennessee died today shortly after he had collapsed on the House floor while advocating payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Several physicians, including Representative Swick of Pennsylvania, and Dr. George Calver, the House physician, tried for nearly fifteen minutes to save his life. (Continued on page four)

EVASIVE FIGHT ON 'DRY LAW'

Chicago Stadium, June 14.—(AP)—In the quietest of opening sessions, the Republican convention submerged its troubles for the moment today, but did not forget them.

As its keynoter, Senator Dickinson, of Iowa, talked to restless delegates and half filled galleries about almost everything but prohibition, a group of convention chiefs sped away across town to their hotels to try to heal a new breach over the plank for re-nomination.

A boom for General Charles G. Dawes to replace Vice-President Curtis gains momentum at Chicago; Pronouncements of Party Principles Scarcely Listened to as Lowan Fails to Refer to Prohibition.

GIVES STORY OF FLIER'S RESCUE

By CAPT. J. WILLIAM WILSON
Master of the S. S. Circe Shell S. S. Circe Shell, June 14.—(AP)—"I'm Stanley Hausner; save my ship."

With these words the Polish flier who had drifted many miles on the Atlantic atop his wrecked airplane greeted us when we found him.

He literally fell into the lifeboat which we had lowered to fetch him, and he was helped aboard my ship in almost complete darkness.

"Thanks very much, captain. I've been waiting for you for eight days," he said. Then he collapsed. He almost missed being rescued, for the darkness was falling rapidly.

It was very difficult to see, but the lookout on the Circe Shell (Continued on page four)

MERINO GETS JUNTA PLACE

Santiago, Chile, June 14.—(AP)—Chile's revolutionary junta was complete again today and new hope was extended to foreign investors, including Americans, whose interests run into hundreds of millions.

Rolando Merino, minister of the interior, was chosen by the remaining members of the junta last night to fill the place of Carlos Davila, who resigned last week.

At the same time, in spite of the fact that Senor Davila's resignation was attributed to forces anxious to adopt a more drastic policy on confiscating foreign investments, Finance Minister Alfredo LaGarrigue announced nothing detrimental to any foreign interest would be done soon.

The fate of the $375,000,000 cosach combine in which Americans are primarily interested, would be given long study, he said.

He also announced the Junta's previous plan to take over Chile's central bank and fuse it with a newly formed state bank would be dropped and the Central bank would continue to function independently.

ABOUT TOWN

Republicans at Chicago are battling over presidential candidates and the ever-present bone of contention—prohibition.

Before the week is over, if all signs prove true, will see both questions definitely settled with the party ready to start a concerted effort to hold power.

Prohibition will also face the Democrats to meet in Chicago during the same month, and before election day the public will know more about prohibition than they ever knew before.

The Republicans apparently are destined to renominate President Hoover, but who will be the Democratic standard bearer is a matter of indecision, although Roosevelt seems to be very much in the line-light.

As soon as the two dominant parties decide upon candidates, the nation will be treated to a campaign even more insistent than in 1928 because of the important part which prohibition will play.

It is however, the Republicans who will not be able to use the prosperity gas broadcast so freely in 1928. In fact, the administration has failed so completely in providing prosperity that it is difficult to understand how the party is going to live down the disappointment, caused by the public.

The contest holds all earmarks of one of the most spectacular of a day and everybody will be glad to see the big guns begin roaring their challenges to constituents in every nook and crook of the nation.

The need for re-opening of the public swimming pool again this summer was demonstrated in a tragic way yesterday in the drowning of S. H. Brickell and the narrow escape of young James Smith while swimming in Old river, three miles from Greenville.

This is not the first time the deep and treacherous currents of this river have claimed the lives of local people, and it is to be hoped the number swimming at this place will decrease in the future.

A public swimming pool, properly guarded by life savers, throws a splendid protection around the hundreds of young people who go swimming each summer, and it should be the purpose of the people of every city to make it a point to provide such protection.

No accidents of any consequence were reported in Greenville last year as result of this outdoor sport, and if the loss of life is to be reduced this year it is going to be necessary to continue to throw this safeguard around the young people and the older ones also.

After a long hard fight, the thousands of bonus seekers at Washington have been told by the House that their bill will be considered.

Proponents of the bill consider the action an initial victory, but that is all. The measure must yet go through an antagonistic Senate and then to the White House even if the House should act favorably upon it.

The bill during the last month has gained the support of some of the most powerful members of Congress, who are doing everything in their power to provide this temporary relief for the former soldiers hundreds of whom are suffering severely from the effects of unemployment.

The passage of the bill, in the opinion of proponents, would put over two billions of dollars in circulation among people in all walks of life and that would do more to relieve the economic situation than anything to be considered.

Opponents argue this is no time for the passage of such a huge bill and have gained the support of President Hoover and the Republican administration.

The vote in the presidential election will be largely determined by what is done with this measure, and if it is defeated, thousands of service men will cast their ballots

Gambler's Throw

By EUSTACE L. ADAMS

SYNOPSIS: Prisoners on a lonely island, an unusual group of people wait for rescue. Abducted by an unusually daring gang, Nancy Wentworth, four rich business men and a gangster, Lucel, try to withstand the nervous strain of suspense and tropical heat. Ashwood, the gang leader, who is young but white-haired and is lame, demands a new form of ransom—installments of board money. While this money was being collected by the gang from an isolated spot their hydroplane was seen by Jerry Calhoun, Emory Battles and Stevens, a detective who are searching for the kidnapers. The three start to follow in their own airplane, hoping to find the gang's hidden headquarters. Meanwhile, Ashwood amuses himself observing the reactions of the prisoners to their predicament. He tells Nancy that they have all been selected carefully, and are good psychological material for study. Nancy asks who is paying her board money.

Chapter 14 RACKETS

There was a malicious gleam in the cripple's eyes as he watched a pelican wade at the edge of the beach.

"Perhaps we'd better take up one question at a time," he suggested to Nancy. "I happened, quite by accident, to see a splendid picture of you in the rotophograph section of a Sunday newspaper just as I was making out my guest list. Beneath it was a caption to the effect that you were engaged to be married to one of America's wealthiest men. Since your fiancé established, so to speak, your financial standing, it occurred to me that you would be a welcome addition to our somewhat elusive little circle.

"I am quite happy to say that Mr. Macomber, your fiancé, paid your board bill without undue protest."

Nancy sat very still for some moments, staring thoughtfully across the glittering water.

"Tell me, Mr. Ashwood," she asked at length, "why did you come down here yourself when you knew we would all be able to identify you in court if you are ever captured?"

"The Miss Wentworth, was part of my plan. My past efforts have been extraordinarily remunerative, but being a restless spirit, I have become bored with them. This is my last racket, as the worthy Mr. Lucel would term it.

"When I first discovered the value of airplanes as part of every intelligent criminal's equipment," he went on, blandly, "I allowed my imagination to run riot upon the uses to which so novel an instrument might be put. This plan occurred to me, bit by bit, and I spent the better part of six months finding a proper location for my guest house.

"At last I discovered this island, which is nothing short of ideal for the purpose. I purchased a portable house, with all the equipment, gasoline lighting plant, electric refrigerator and the like, and brought it here on a scow, where my men erected it. Very simple job it was, too.

"When the house has served its purpose, I shall disappear. My sanctuary awaits me. In it, I have a grand piano, a modern radio and thousands of books, enough to last me until I die. There, comfortable and surrounded with the things I love, I shall meditate upon these days of roguery, browse contentedly through my library and, perhaps, write a book or two."

He smiled at her a wide-mouthed, gamblers smile which contrasted strangely with his words and his actions. She found herself amazed beyond belief at the strange philosophy of this remarkable man. She wondered what he had suffered to give him this warped outlook upon life, but her intuition warned her that it would not be wise to probe too deeply.

"Ah, Mr. Lucel," he said, looking over her shoulder, "your presence this morning speaks wonders for your stamina. You'll pardon me, I'm sure, but that diagonal bandage gives your face an uncommonly raffish look. How are the other inmates?"

"Crazy as ever, Limpy," he replied thickly. "Mally's still in bed. Just saw the steward taking him a highball. Hamilton is back at his blasted solitary. Martin's sitting in a corner, saying nothing while Williams tells him what's the difference between May and September wheat."

"How delightful!" commented the cripple.

Lucel looked at him in wonder. This was a strange bird. A little poky, maybe, but a racketeer such as gangland had never known before and would never know again.

"Listen, Limpy," he said abruptly, ignoring Nancy's presence. "I don't begrudge you this game one damn bit. You turned a nice deal and I'll lay my dough on the line without squawking. What I want to know is, will you play with me or against me when this is over?"

"I take it that you have a proposition?" Ashwood's voice held only the vaguest shade of interest.

"You said it! Listen. I control every money-making racket west of the Alleghenies. My muscle men are in on the graft in Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Kansas City. In each of those cities my men act as the secretaries of my outfits and I get the dues see? No dues; no protection. No protection; no business, see? I got organizers working right now in the East and in another six months there won't be a cleaner and dyer, a garageman or a mil dealer in the United States who ain't kicking in, see? And that ain't half.

"There are a few guys who are backing me," he continued earnestly, "but my gorillas will take care of them.

"I never been able to make out just what your racket is. I know that damn funny things happen every once in a while and when they do I hear talk about Limpy Ashwood. Are you the bird whose mob is bringing in all the diamonds from Antwerp?" He glared at the cripple challengingly.

"While a lawyer might object to that as a leading question," smiled Ashwood, "it is flattering, coming from you. I have been interested in the tax-free importation of diamonds on a fairly large scale."

"How'd you get them by the customs?" demanded the other, incredulously.

"At a prearranged spot, off Nantucket lightship, my man on the steamer drops them overboard in a metal canister. One hour later the canister erupts a great quantity of chemical smoke. My amphibian, which at that moment is cruising in the vicinity, spots the smoke and picks up the container. Quite simple, eh?"

The battered gangster stared at him in undisguised admiration.

"How many men got in your mob?" he inquired.

"Forty-four," replied the cripple carelessly, "scattered here and there around the world."

"That ain't many," stated the other disparagingly. "I got more than five hundred." He stopped and appeared to ponder. Then, as a sudden thought struck him: "Did you put over the 'silk express robbery' three months ago?"

"My men did," Ashwood admitted. "I did little more than to fly the plane. It happened that my regular pilot was ill."

"Fly the plane?" The gangster seemed puzzled. Then his face cleared in sudden understanding. "Sure. That's how you made your getaway! No wonder the bulls couldn't pick up your tracks. Now listen, Limpy, how about the two of us hooking up? We can make twenty millions apiece in the next year and that ain't boloney, either! Twenty millions, easy!"

The frail figure in the deck chair stirred uneasily. His eyes had become weary and old.

"I am afraid not, Lucel. I don't want twenty million. I have about all I want now. And so have my men. I've shared with them and here, we're going to break up as an organized unit. For my part, I'm going to retire."

He looked far into the northern sky, focusing his eyes intently.

"Of course," he added, "there's the ever-present element of uncertainty which makes this a stimulating profession. Plans are subject to change without notice. For instance, if I'm not mistaken, the crew of that airplane up there may have something to say about our immediate future.

Nancy and Lucel, followed the line of his pointing finger, saw a tiny dot in the morning sky. As they watched it, the faint pulsing drone of its motor came to their ears. The guard on the beach hastily dismounted his machine gun and carried it beneath the sheltering leaves of a palm. Another guard appeared, who began to do things to the breach of the gun. Three men dashed out of the service door of the house and raced down to the hangar. Presently the entire island shook to the thundering noise of the amphibian's engine. A man appeared at the hangar door, dressed in coveralls and helmet. He stood there, gazing alertly at the porch, as if awaiting some sign from the white-haired cripple.

Is it Jerry's plane? Ashwood's house party is threatened by an attack, tomorrow.

FINAL GOLF MATCH HERE WEDNESDAY

Greenville golfers will engage in final play of the Eastern Carolina Golf Association tournament with Fayetteville at the Country Club tomorrow afternoon, it was announced today.

Fayetteville, the only undefeated team of the association, will bring twenty men and six women players and local golfers have been urged to turn out and help Greenville withstand the attack of the visitors.

The match promises to be the most spectacular of the tournament in view of the fact that Fayetteville holds first place and Greenville second. After a long swing around the circuit, defeating some of the best teams of the association, these two clubs will engage in a struggle that holds interest not only here but throughout the entire eastern part of the state.

The visitors will be guests at luncheon at the noon hour.

PATS TUMBLE AS THEY DROP TILT TO BULLS

Charlotte, June 14.—(AP)—Greensboro's Patriots today eyed from second division their former standing in the Piedmont league's upper crust from which they tumbled as a result of their defeat by the Bulls of Durham by a very decisive score of 10 to 4. Their scheduled night game was rained out.

Guy Lacy, on the other hand, sat with his Charlotte Hornets in the place in first division which they had fled from the Bulls in the loop standing. The Stingers had come from behind and scored two runs in the ninth inning to defeat the second-place Asheville Tourists, 9 to 8. Pitcher Settlemire of the Hornets, after pitching a faultless game for more than three innings, was walked in the ninth frame to force in the winning run.

Raleigh's Capitals also changed their standing when they gave the Wilmington Pirates a severe drubbing which read 7 to 2. The Caps thereby placed themselves on an even keel with Asheville in second place. It was the seventh victory for Asheville's strikeout champion, Dewitt Perry, who added seven fans to his season's total.

GOMEZ HURLS TO WIN OVER THE INDIANS

By GAYLE TALBOT

Associated Press Sports Writer

Deprived for the time of being of anything resembling a close pennant race, American league partisans are deriving most of their mid-season excitement from the hot duel between Vernon Gomez and Robert Moses Grove for pitching honors.

The two star southpaws, backed by clubs that provide them with plenty of runs, are setting a pace that has attracted of the whole circuit.

Defeating Cleveland yesterday, 8 to 7, Gomez stretched his record to twelve victories against one defeat and scored his ninth straight victory for the Yankees. Grove, beating Detroit, 8 to 1, on four scattered hits, observed his eleventh straight triumph and set his mark at twelve wins and three losses.

Gomez has not tasted defeat since May 2, when Washington knocked him from the hip in five innings. The Senators also handed Grove his last reverse when they beat the Athletic ace, 2 to 1, on April 30.

Grove breezed in with No. 12, holding Detroit helpless, but Gomez had a terrible time subduing the Indians. They slugged him for six hits and five runs in the last three frames and would have beat him in the ninth but for sensational fielding by Chapman, Larry and Lazzeri. As it was, they had the tying run on third when the final out was made.

The homerun race between Babe Ruth of the Yanks and Jimmy Fox of the A's remained at a standstill as each belted one out of the park. Fox hit No. 23 off Tom Bridgers of Detroit. The Babe nicked Jack Russell for No. 21.

FELT SICK AFTER EATING

"None of my food agreed with me—I would frequently taste what I ate, long after my meals, and I did not see a well day for weeks," says Mr. Peter Seeger, 329 S. Elmwood St., Kansas City, Mo. "I began taking a pinch of Black-Draught after each meal, and kept this up for weeks. Gradually the pain left me and I began to feel better. I ceased to be troubled with gas, and could eat what I liked."

Thousands of people have reported that Black-Draught, taken a pinch after meals, helped to relieve a feeling of distress, upset stomach or indigestion. Try it.

In the day's only other contest, the Chicago White Sox jumped on Ed Durham and Wilcy Moore for five runs in the seventh inning to beat the forlorn Boston Red Sox, 7 to 6. Selph and Forthgill each knocked in two runs for the winners.

The entire National league program was rained out.

SALE OF VALUABLE FARM PROPERTY

Under and by virtue of the authority conferred upon us in a deed of trust executed by H. C. Moye and wife, Frances Moye, on the 24th day of January, 1923 and recorded in Book U-14, page 179, we will on Saturday, the 11th day of June, 1932, 12 o'clock noon

Chemicals being widely used to flavor "pops" and imitation "fruit drinks"

Millions of bottles of "pop" and imitation "fruit drinks" are actually flavored with chemicals! They don't contain one drop of real fruit juice! When you drink them, you drink mixtures of chemicals, synthetic concoctions made in imitation of pure fruit juices. Do you want to drink chemicals? Do you want your children to drink them?

Now—a 5c drink made with fresh orange juice

Ten years ago one of America's great food experts determined to produce a 5c drink with fresh fruit juice—not chemical imitations. He made hundreds of experiments before he succeeded. Now he brings you a delicious drink made with fresh orange juice—the new Orange-Crush. It's made in the heart of the orange country. From luscious, golden oranges picked when they're sweetest and ripest. The new Orange-Crush is appetizing and zestful. And all the precious vitamins are kept intact! Health authorities recommend this healthy new drink for you and your children.

The very next time you buy a nickel drink, ask for Orange-Crush. See how different it is from chemical imitations. How pure, fragrant and sparkling! You can let your children drink Orange-Crush as often as they like. Teach them to ask for it by name. Or, better still, buy it by the case and serve it to them at home. The other members of the family will enjoy it too!

in an effort to defeat the faction that defeated them.

People have already started their annual pilgrimage to beaches and mountains for their summer vacations, and in a short time now the exodus will be at its height.

Greenville and Pitt county people are urged to make a list of their vacation needs and buy all they can from home merchants before leaving. This will help put money in circulation here and enable the merchants to lay in a more extensive line of goods for the approaching season.

Every nickel spent at home now means just that much more toward economic recovery and everybody should buy as many of their vacation requisites here before thinking of buying elsewhere.

This kind of community spirit is needed more today than ever and the person abiding by it will have the consolation of knowing he has done his best to improve local conditions.

MISS LOUISE WINSLOW RECEIVES DEGREE

Decatur, Ga., June 13.—Miss Louise Winslow of Greenville, was among those graduating recently at the annual commencement exercises held at Agnes Scott College. Miss Winslow received an A. B. degree, having done her major work in history. During her four years at Agnes Scott, she took active part in various campus organizations. Among other things, she was a member of the Citizenship Club and the International Relations Club.

Notice To High School Pupils. Tomorrow morning, Wednesday, at the high school building at ten o'clock will be started classes in the following subjects: English 8; English 9 and English 10; also French 10.

Pupils who failed in the above subjects during the past year or who wish to do advanced work in these subjects are invited to attend these classes. Regular high school credit may be received for the above work, and the courses will run for at least six weeks.

There will be no charge for this work. Junius H. Rose, Supt.

Notice To Library Patrons. For several weeks now Sheppard Memorial Library will be open from 7 to 9 p. m. only on Wednesday. This is in keeping with the half-holiday closing observed by the business houses. Remember, Wednesday evening, 7 to 9 p. m. Regular hours 2 p. m. to 9 p. m., will be kept for the other five days.

MISS CARROLL HONORED AT BRIDGE PARTY

Last evening at her home on Fifth street, Miss Eugenia Thomas was hostess at a delightful bridge party, honoring Miss Mary Jane Carroll of Winterville, whose marriage to Erwin Clark of Scotland Neck, will take place tomorrow afternoon.

The bridge tables were placed in the living room in an attractive setting of colorful summer flowers. Mrs. John R. Carroll was presented a piece of North Carolina pottery for high score. The honoree was remembered with a lovely hobnail pitcher. Miss Carroll was also presented a piece of silver in her selected pattern by the Meredith Club of Pitt county.

The hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Katherine Thomas, and her sister, Miss Lella Thomas, served a tempting ice course and salted nuts.

FRANKLIN JOHNSTON IS WEST POINT GRADUATE

Franklin V. Johnston Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Johnston, has returned from West Point where he graduated several days ago.

Johnston, a member of the pistol squad of West Point, won considerable distinction during his final year at the institution. He emerged as winner in contests with New York state police and Pennsylvania Highway Patrol.

The pistol record of West Point is 98.8 and Johnston and another student tied for second place with a 98.3 mark in the closing contests.

HEALTH WORKERS TO VISIT FARMVILLE

In the publication of time and places for the appearance of health department representatives in various parts of the county last week, Farmville was inadvertently omitted. Vaccinations will be given there for the next three Thursdays from 3:30 to 5 o'clock.

Organize Club

Miss Ethel Nice of Greenville met with twelve girls of Fountain yesterday and organized a Room Improvement 4-H Club. The following officers were elected: Ann Marie Jefferson, president; Naomi Bundy, vice-president; Julia Ward Reddick, secretary; Edna Grace Smith, song leader, and Hazel Owens, cheer leader. It was decided that the club girls would make different articles in handicraft for room improvement. They are to meet every Monday from 3 to 5 o'clock. After singing club songs and playing games, the club adjourned until next Monday.

THE AMERICAN FLAG

June 14, Flag Day, has ever carried the deepest meaning to every true American. This year the day will carry a tenfold significance, as the nation celebrates the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington. For to General Washington tradition credits a leading part in the very designing of the flag, and what he did to give it meaning is and will be known to every American as long as our country lives.

On June 14, 1777, Congress resolved: "That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white, that the Union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field, representing a new constellation."

In these simple words, authority was given to General Washington to design the flag, and on the same day tradition has it that he went to the house of Betsy Ross on that visit which has become one of the finest pages of American folklore. With him, according to the account went Robert Morris and George Ross, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and the uncle of Betsy Ross's deceased husband.

On entering her modest house in Arch street, Philadelphia, they are said to have found Mistress Ross busy at her needlework and humming a tune—softly, however, so that she might hear the tinkle of the bell on the door of her shop at the front of the house—and General Washington thus simply stated his errand.

"Mistress Ross, we have come to ask you to help in making a flag for our country. We do not feel pleased with the grand union flag because of the King's colors in the canton, so we have planned another."

The "grand union" flag referred to by Washington was the one he himself had designed and first flown to the breeze on January 1, 1776, during his siege of Boston. This was at a time when the Revolutionists still felt they were fighting, not the British king, but his ministers; hence Washington's flag consisted of the thirteen alternate red and white stripes, but bore in its canton the king's crosses of St. George and St. Anthony. By 1777 the Revolutionists were fighting solely for an American flag, and they wanted an American flag.

Mrs. Ross, it is said, undertook the making of the flag eagerly, and with an exalted sense of the unusual honor conferred upon her. Not only that, she even suggested to Washington a slight correction in the design, which bore six-pointed stars instead of the five-pointed type of heraldry. With a snip of her scissors she cut a folded paper and held forth a perfect five-pointed star to show what she meant. For a few minutes longer the design was discussed, and as quickly as nimble fingers could execute the task, Mrs. Ross had the flag in being.

So, in this homely fashion which so well suits the American spirit, was born the emblem designed by Washington, coming almost like a direct gift from him, to fly ever since over the nation that he also designed. Today, every American is privileged to ponder on the stupendous human events and influences that have flowed from this simple incident at the house of Betsy Ross a century and a half ago.

When the flag was designed and made there was not a true Republic in existence. Since then the principles set in motion by George Washington and his fellow patriots have extended themselves to the uttermost parts of the earth. More than an emblem of sovereignty, the flag that Washington planned has been a symbol of human freedom, of equal opportunity, and political liberty wherever mankind has sought and fought for these things.

Flags have flown for the vanity of kings. Flags have been hated by millions of people, as representing nothing but conquest and oppression. Many of the cruelties, prejudices, injustices that men have heaped on each other have been wrought under the sanction of some similar emblem. The flag that will fly from thousands of masts today, is the one given us by George Washington, to float as the first bright banner of unstained honor, over a people for whom he prepared a great destiny.

It drew the early patriots from comfortable homes, from the security ity of their occupations and from the love of their families, to fight for the larger world which we inherit. What to them was a far ideal is to use the great reality. No good American will neglect to ask himself how well he preserves the courage, the spirit of sacrifice, be longing to those men and women who gave us this priceless heritage on this returning anniversary of the day when their flag was born.

Once, in 1794, when Vermont and Kentucky joined the Union, the stars and stripes were increased to 15; but in 1818 Congress fixed the final form of the flag as of thirteen stripes, with a star to represent each state. On April 6, 1909, Admiral Peary planned the flag American flag at the North Pole. Since then Admiral Byrd has carried it to both poles. Wherever it has gone it has meant honor and achievement, but this year it floats in honor of the greatest of Americans and the greatest of achievements—George Washington, and his creation of the United States.

Postoffice To Observe Half Holiday Here

The postoffice will close tomorrow at 1 o'clock and every other Wednesday afternoon during the summer closing period observed by local business houses. All windows will be closed, but morning deliveries will be made in town. There will be no afternoon delivery. The regular rural deliveries will not be affected.

The closing will not affect the out-going and in-coming mail as sufficient force will be kept in the office to dispatch all mail as promptly as usual. Collection from city letter boxes will be made as usual during the afternoon.

Fountain Still Remains Silent

Raleigh, June 14.—(AP)—Lieut. Gov. R. T. Fountain of Rocky Mount, runner-up to J. C. B. Ehringhaus of Elizabeth City in the gubernatorial race in the Democratic primary June 4, was in Raleigh today conferring with friends and supporters but continued to maintain silence as to whether he would demand a second primary. J. L. Delaney, Fountain's state manager, said no decision had been reached and added he doubted if an announcement would be made before tomorrow night. Demand must be filed by midnight tomorrow if Fountain decides to make a second race.

WRONG MAN

Raleigh, June 14.—(AP)—A convict who served part of a sentence imposed on another man was free today as the result of a letter written to Gov. O. Max Gardner Craft, convicted of larceny in Nash county in March, 1931, was sentenced to serve two to four years in state's prison. A man named Casey, the records show, was at the same time given a prison term of 18 months to three years. Casey served the short term, was released, and recently wrote to the governor that he should be confused and that he should have served the longer term which Craft was serving. Investigation convinced the governor that Casey was right, and he ordered Craft released.

New York Cotton

New York, June 14.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 3 lower to 1 higher with most positions declining on lower Liverpool cables and July liquidation. July closed down to 5.02 but met a good demand from trade sources.

Houses with foreign connections were among the buyers of the near months, presumably to fix prices, and early offerings were readily absorbed. The steadier tone was probably promoted by reports of continued showers or rains in eastern belt sections and reiterated talk of probable weevil damage, while the technical position supposedly had been strengthened by the selling of last week.

July sold up to 5.09, while December rallied from 5.44 to 5.49, with active months ruling about 1 to 4 points net higher at the end of the first half hour. Liverpool reported continental buying and covering in that market, but said Manchester was unsettled with labor and uncertainties restricting business.

Grain Market

Chicago, June 14.—(AP)—In a wave of general selling, wheat today for the first time this season fell below 40 cents a bushel for July contracts, representing the new 1932 domestic crop.

July wheat in Liverpool smashed down to be but little above what could be obtained here, and this development coming ahead of dealings in Chicago had much to do with overturning values in United States and Canadian markets. Export demand for wheat from North America shriveled to almost zero.

Stock Market

New York, June 14.—(AP)—The securities market moved quietly forward today, after yesterday's period of hesitancy.

Strength of the dollar in the foreign exchange markets, predictions of defeat of the bonus measure in the Senate, end of an early adjournment of Congress, as well as agitation for a repeal plank in the Republican platform, were regarded in brokerage circles as influencing the advance.

The stock market was hesitant in the early dealings, but started upward with a 2 point advance in National Distillers Products, and a similar gain in Corn Products Refining. American Commercial Alcohol, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Allied Chemical, DuPont and Air Reduction were other firm spots in the chemical group, up 1 to 2 points. American Telephone and Union Pacific also pushed up two points, while Eastman gained about 3. Gains of a point or more were numerous appearing in U. S. Steel, American Can, American Sugar, National Biscuit, American Tobacco B, Liggett & Myers B, Woolworth, Westinghouse, North American, Standard of N. J., and Consolidated Gas. Auburn fluctuated widely but failed to make consistent progress in either direction.

Strength of U. S. Government issues in the bond market was apparently a factor in the firm tone of stocks. Wall street, however, seemed more interested in the adjournment of Congress than anything else at the moment, bringing an end to legislative uncertainty.

by a heart attack, resulting from permanent injuries which he received while serving with the American Expeditionary Forces in Europe during the World War. Brickell's distress was noticed by John Clark, Jr., and Joe Smith, Jr., who were swimming on either side of the man and the youth only a short distance away. Young Smith was rescued by Clark and carried to safety with assistance of Joe Smith. Brickell had disappeared when the youths reached shallow water.

Scores of people joined in the hunt for the body which was not located until about 5:30 o'clock. The body was discovered within about ten feet where Brickell drowned. The water at this point is about twenty feet deep and very treacherous because of cross currents and the searchers were forced to employ a long line of hooks when diving proved futile.

Brickell had been employed on the Reflector about three years, and during that time made numbers of friends, who received news of his death with profound shock. He was of a genial nature and sunny disposition and was held in highest esteem by hundreds of friends in this and other states where he was employed on some of the largest newspapers of the country before coming to Greenville.

He was shot in the foot with poisonous shrapnel during the World War and had been under almost constant medical attention since that time because the wound had never healed despite the most expert medical attention to be Non—W. G. Bramham of Durham, president of the Piedmont League, and I. B. Tucker of Whiteville.

All the state's 28 delegates now in Chicago are making their headquarters in the new Sherman Hotel. The last detachment arrived late yesterday, headed by Jake Newell of Charlotte, senatorial candidate; Stuart W. Cramer of Cranmont, textile manufacturer; and Frasier.

Little progress has been made so far in lining up the uncommitted delegates behind the bone dry platform adopted by the state convention in Charlotte last April.

Seven delegates at large are bound by the convention's actions but leaders disagree as to whether district delegates must follow the recommendation of the state convention or vote as they please.

Postmaster J. D. Albright of Charlotte, is said to favor a referendum and J. D. Niggel of Wilmington is out and out for modification.

It was apparent that, unless those bound by state convention platform could line the uncommitted ones up with the dry voters, the "Brels" would hold out for repeal or modification.

 portant as they are made to seem. They can't give the people anything, and they can't take anything away from the people. So far as the constitution of the United States is concerned, they are simply private sessions of politicians. A lot of this excitement over the various so-called issues in Chicago today has been drummed up to deceive the people into thinking that conventions really mean something."

Declaring there is "nothing wrong with the country today," Mr. Ford said, "There is nothing wrong with anything except the money system and Hoover certainly has no control over that. He should have

 Simmons and Morrison, the present senator, split over support of Alfred E. Smith in the 1928 presidential campaign. Simmons, then senator, was a leader among the anti-Smith Democrats, Morrison an outspoken proponent of the New York governor who mined no words saying what he thought about Democrats who refused to support the party nominee.

Then, in 1930, Josiah William Bailey, in an announced effort to punish Simmons for his 1928 stand against him for the Senate nomination and, largely aided by Morrison, won. Simmons complained bitterly against Morrison in that campaign, referring frequently to the years when he and Morrison had campaigned together and to the major part he had played in the Charlotte man's election to the governorship in 1920. He, in turn, was portrayed by Bailey supporters as the "Judas Escariot" of the Democratic party."

From the 1930 primary until yesterday Simmons took no active part in politics.

Then came a letter, in answer to inquiry from J. H. Canady of Kinston, advising that Morrison was supported against Robert Reynolds, Asheville anti-prohibitionist, and stating the aged former senator's belief that Morrison was better qualified to represent the state in these times, regardless of personal likes or dislikes and disagreement.

The Grist action was less clear. Just a week before D. M. Blankenship announced the state labor commissioner would support Reynolds, Reynolds likewise announced he was assured of the support of Grist as well as of former Judge Thomas C. Bowie of West Jefferson, who ran third in the first primary.

Grist issued a bitter statement against Reynolds accompanying his announcement, castigating the Asheville man, who led Morrison by approximately 15,000 votes in the balloting for the long Senate term, for not serving in the world war despite the fact he was a

From the bridge I watched them row away. When they were about fifty feet from the airplane they hailed him and the flier answered in English.

There was a rough sea running and it was getting worse and we were afraid the airplane might founder at any moment.

But my men were able to reach it in time to take off the exhausted aviator.

Almost all of my Chinese crew had gathered at the rail in the excitement to greet the unexpected flier when he was taken aboard.

 Eslick, a Democrat, died without regaining consciousness.

He was carried immediately to the speaker's lobby adjoining the House chamber. Physicians injected a medicine in an effort to stimulate his heart and tried artificial respiration but without success. Mrs. Eslick, who was in the House gallery when her husband collapsed, fainted, but quickly was revived and joined her husband.

She was sitting at a table two feet away from the couch on which he lay when doctors shook their heads and gave up the effort to revive him. The House adjourned immediately out of respect.

 sighted something ahead. It looked like a drifting buoy, but he could make out some peculiar markings on the top.

He picked up his long-glass and trained it on the object. He saw then that what he had thought was a buoy was really an airplane with its tail sticking up in the air.

Right away when he had told me what he saw I stepped to the engine room telegraph and signaled my engineer to cut the speed.

We slowed down and moved closer. We act to within one mile of the derelict and then I stopped the

My men, watching from the rail, were amazed to see the figure of a man which seemed to be lashed to the machine.

We blew a blast on the ship's siren and the figure moved. He waved frantically. We could see now that he was not lashed down.

Right away I ordered a lifeboat away. It was manned by volunteers under my second officer.

Do you inhale?

"Let sleeping dogs lie"

Why should smokers accept this old-fashioned notion of the cigarette trade?

BY this time you must be pretty well convinced of the fact that other cigarettes do not like to talk about inhaling. And yet—this subject—so "untouchable" in cigarette advertising—is very close to your welfare! For you do inhale—we all do—knowingly or unknowingly, every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

"Let sleeping dogs lie" may be the cigarette trade's answer to us! But what's their answer to you? Do you inhale? Lucky Strike does not avoid this vital question. It meets the issue fairly and squarely—because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Lucky Strike's famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it.
