

ROOSEVELT NOMINATED JOHN GARNER SELECTED FOR THE VICE-PRESIDENCY

Texan Is Nominated By Acclamation Today At Democratic Convention

IS NOMINATED BY M'DUFFIE

Member of Alabama Delegation Declares Speaker of House Is Fully Qualified As Running Mate to the New Yorker; Other States Fall in Line and Accord Their Support to Leader of Texas Forces.

Chicago Stadium, July 2.—(AP)—John Nance Garner, of Texas, was nominated by acclamation for vice-president today by the Democratic National convention.

Chicago, July 2.—(AP)—It looks like the Democratic National ticket will be "Roosevelt and Garner." Word has been passed that Speaker John Nance Garner is acceptable to Franklin D. Roosevelt, the presidential nominee, as his running mate.

The Democratic convention therefore was today to give quickly its stamp of approval on the fiery Texas legislator in winding up its business.

The ticket was viewed by many party leaders as ideal. Garner, a veteran of thirty years in the house and speaker since the Democrats seized control on December 7, 1931, is a spectacular and vigorous campaigner. In rough and ready debate, his friends regard him as able to meet all comers.

At seven minutes to two, almost an hour late, Sen. Walsh of Montana, the convention chairman, asked for order. At that time there were only small empty spaces on the floor but the galleries were not half filled. Chairman Walsh then called for nominations for the vice-presidential Alabama, first on the alphabetical roll, yielded to "the great State of Texas," and the Texans across the hall raised their standards. Representative Sam Rayburn presented McDuffie to name Garner. "A few days ago," said McDuffie, "the Republicans everywhere predicted a session of discord among the Democrats and based their hope of the future thereon."

"But the action of the convention in choosing the gallant son of New York as their standard bearer has chilled the hearts of Republicans throughout the country and paved the way for their defeat in November. Let the country understand there is harmony in the Democratic party. We have had our differences, but Democrats are good sports. In every crisis when the American people are thinking, they call upon the Democratic party for leadership. This day and this hour there is a demand for a new deal. We will answer the call. We will answer it in the future as we have in the past. The call will not be in vain.

"It is my happy privilege, coming from the far Southland and from a state which has held aloft the banner of Democracy without defeat and which held the lines in 1928. To say that first on the roll call in November next, Alabama will answer 'Aye' almost unanimously.

"Recognizing the ability, the sterling character, the rugged honesty of the Honorable John Garner, remembering the record he has made as a leader, recognizing that John Garner is a real red-blooded Texan, Alabama is proud to place his name before this convention as the running mate for the sterling son of New York."

"Side by side," he continued amid more cheers, "Roosevelt and Garner will lead the Democratic party to the greatest victory it ever has achieved."

It was a very short nominating speech. The roll of the states was resumed, and Arizona yielded to Bruce Campbell, of East St. Louis, Ill. Campbell told the convention (Continued on Page Four)

SMITH IS SILENT AFTER DEFEAT

New Yorker Refuses to Comment After Nomination Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Chicago, July 2.—(AP)—Alfred E. Smith bore today the bitter blow of defeat with grim silence. The campaign smile was gone from his face. The sparkle that lights his eyes when he is doing political battle had vanished. He packed his bags with the intention of leaving the city before the arrival of Governor Roosevelt. He sought to keep the hour of his departure a secret, so he might start home without benefit of flashlights and interviews. Whether he will support the victory in the nine-sided race for the presidential nomination remained a moot question. (Continued on Page Four)

Bonus Marchers Call on Solons: Nobody Home

Washington, July 2.—(AP)—The bonus marchers went calling on Congress today but found nobody at home. So they sat on the congressional doorstep and left off steam.

Thousands of war veterans gathered early on the broad steps of the capitol in response to an order by their commander-in-chief, Walter W. Waters. They cheered and booed alternately at things which pleased or displeased them on the plaza in front.

Their own military police assisted capitol police in keeping order. As a precaution the capitol was closed to all visitors.

Lausanne, Switzerland, July 2.—(AP)—Germany has refused to accept any proposal linking up the settlement of reparations with adjustment of allied debts to the United States, it was reported this evening.

Lausanne, Switzerland, July 2.—(AP)—War debts due the United States from Europe were linked with reparations payments today in what may be the last act of the Lausanne conference which met two weeks ago to solve the reparations problem. (Continued on Page Four)

PLAN QUICK VOTE DRIVE

Democrats at Chicago Mobilize for Immediate Campaign Battle.

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
Chicago, July 2.—(AP)—Galvanized by the unprecedented decision of Governor Roosevelt to fly here today and speak to the National Convention, Democratic leaders prepared for a swift mobilization of the organization and for an immediate campaign. Selection of a chairman of the National Committee was the first step and the name of James A. Farley, of New York, popular and youthful pre-convention manager of Roosevelt, was prominently discussed. JAMES GAMBLE DIES IN OHIO

Founder of Famous Soap Manufacturing Concern, Passes in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, July 2.—(AP)—James N. Gamble, Cincinnati capitalist and one of the founders of the Procter and Gamble Soap Company, died at his home here this morning. The company was founded by Jas. Gamble and William Procter, and continued by James N. Gamble, a son, and William Cooper Procter, a grandson of William Procter, present heads of the concern. Gamble was 96 years old. Despite his age, and though in ill health for some years, he nominally continued active interest in the Procter and Gamble Company, remaining as a member of the board of directors. His wife died in 1901.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor of New York, was nominated for the Presidency at Chicago last night by the unanimous support of the delegates of forty states. The third ballot deadlock was broken by California and Texas turning in favor of the candidate from the Empire State.

Norfolk Hoaxer Found Guilty In Kidnap Case

Flemington, N. J., July 2.—(AP)—John Hughes Curtis of Norfolk, Va., was convicted today of aiding the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby and preventing their capture. The jury recommended mercy in announcing its verdict. The case was given to the jury at 9:33 a. m., Eastern Standard Time, and the deliberations lasted almost exactly four hours. The verdict was given at 1:42 p. m., there having been a little delay in bringing Curtis from the jail and the judge back to the courtroom which he had left. (Continued on Page Four)

SAYS GARNER WILL ACCEPT CITY READY FOR FOURTH

Friends of Speaker of House State He Will Accept Vice-Presidential Nomination.

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—Close friends of Speaker John N. Garner said today he will accept the vice-presidential nomination if it is offered him at today's meeting of the convention. They made this flat statement after conferring with the speaker this morning. Garner himself would not comment on this but did reaffirm his announcement of a week ago of a willingness "to service my country." (Continued on Page Four)

N. C. Delegates Pleased With Chicago Balloting

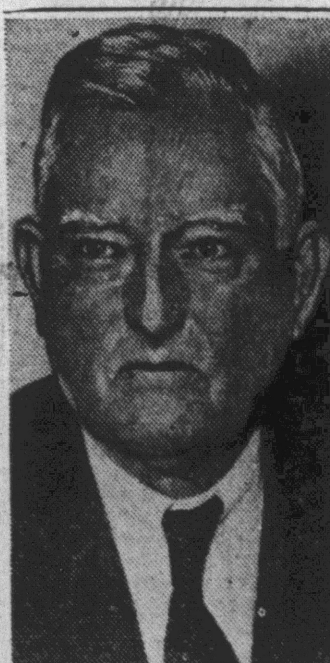

Chicago, July 2.—(AP)—Well pleased with the result of balloting on the presidential nominee, North Carolina's delegation to the National Democratic Convention here was prepared today to support Franklin D. Roosevelt's selection for vice-presidential nominee in the final session.

The Tar Heels looked forward to hearing a personal address from Roosevelt today which it was announced that the Democratic candidate would be here for the convention in the afternoon.

They were jubilant over the fact that despite a small split in the delegation on the third ballot yesterday, the fourth and triumphant roll call found North Carolina's 26 votes cast as a unit for Roosevelt. James G. Hanes, of Winston-Salem, and Lunsford Long, of Halifax, whose ballots went for Byrd on the third roll call, were hauled back on to the Roosevelt band wagon in time to make the Tar Heels' vote unanimous for the New York governor.

The North Carolina delegation played a more important part in the convention than was at first thought. Governor O. Max Gardner and Congressman Lindsey Warren, of Washington, First District, served on the Roosevelt board of strategy throughout the week, but this fact was learned only today. The fact that the Tar Heels had not even discussed possibilities in regard to the vice-presidential nomination was taken to mean that their minds were open and they were prepared to follow the lead of Roosevelt. FORTY STATES GIVE SUPPORT

California and Texas Break Deadlock On Fourth Ballot And Other States Fall in Line; Empire State Candidate Receives Total Vote of 945 Out of Convention's 1,154; Roosevelt To Thank Party for the High Honor After A Flight from New York this Afternoon.

By BYRON PRICE
Chicago, July 2.—(AP)—Making new political history, the Democratic National Convention prolonged its session today to receive and welcome to leadership its choice for the Presidency, Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, nominated late last night by the unanimous support of the delegates of forty states.

Roosevelt won with 945 of the 1154 convention votes on the first ballot of the night session, fourth of the convention, when California and Texas swung to his support with the deliberate purpose of breaking up their own and there the deadlock set upon him by his opponents. That action was enough to put him over the wild demonstration followed and then state after state rushed to the winner's column.

With the selection today of John Garner of Texas as his running mate conceded by every party faction, and no other business remaining before final adjournment, party officials sought to make the New York Governor's visit to Chicago—the airplane dash from Albany—a convention final of memorable color and significance.

They hoped his appeal to party harmony might heal most, though not all, of the wounds opened by a week of free debate over men and measures. They scarcely believed it would cure the most conspicuous scar left from convention decisions—the refusal of Roosevelt's principal opponent, Alfred E. Smith, to promise his support in the campaign or even comment on the victory of his old time friend.

Smith's possible future course remained a mystery much discussed as the delegates assembled for their last session. The nominee of four years ago was the only one of all the opposition candidates who did not withdraw and sound a call for harmony when it became apparent that Roosevelt was the winner.

After the Smith-pledged delegates from an eastern bloc of states had kept their flag nailed to the mast to the end, Smith returned an unsmiling "I have no comment to make" when asked if he would support the ticket. A similar replay was made by his friend John J. Rasch of New York, retiring chairman of the National Committee.

Despite this note of dissent, the Roosevelt victory was impressive in its impetus and extent. After three early morning ballots yesterday had seen the Governor far past a majority but climbing only slowly toward the needed two-thirds, California and Texas opened a night convention session with the break to the leadership which quickly developed into a stampede.

The swift turn of affairs lifted into highest prominence once more William G. McAdoo, of California, who in two previous party conclaves led for many successive ballots a deadlocked field of Presidential aspirants.

Leader of a California delegation pledged to Speaker Garner, McAdoo took the speaker's platform when his state was called on the fourth and final ballot, at the beginning of the evening session, and announced (Continued on Page Four)

ABOUT TOWN

Pitt County people went to the polls today to cast their vote for candidates for the senate, governor and several county officers.

The second race has been just as interesting as the first although not as many candidates are involved. The people have been able to center attention on the new men who failed to obtain sufficient votes to nominate in the first ballot, and feel sure they know more about what they are doing now than they did before.

Persons who voted for candidates eliminated in the first balloting will swing their support to others in this second contest, and it is likely some surprises will be sprung, but it is impossible to say in what particular field.

It is the first time in many a day that North Carolina has had the wet and dry issue so decidedly in the forefront, and the outcome will definitely reflect sentiment in this direction.

Drys have waged a militant campaign to uphold the standard of prohibition in the fact of one of the most withering attacks since the day of the saloon, and if the loss it will not be because of a masterful attempt to hold their own.

Public sentiment is preponderantly more in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment at this time than it has been since the legislation became effective, and the public registers no surprise when wets emerge victorious in battles of ballots.

Greenville people will join the remainder of the nation in celebration of the Fourth of July Monday. Some will stay home and assert their independence, while others will go to beaches and other places for recreation.

Not many of us will resort to the shooting of firecrackers as in past years, but we will think our stars that our hardy forefathers had the courage to show England they would not stand for further tyranny in the old days and engaged in a long war for freedom.

The occasion will be observed in every nook and corner of the country because this is one time of the year when everybody feels like celebrating, forgetful of hot weather and all other elemental conditions. Independence is the spirit of America, and as long as it courses through the veins of our people will continue to hold the position as the leading nation of the world, reaching out to help other nations find their rightful places in the great march of progress.

New members of the Board of Aldermen were sworn in at a meeting of the board yesterday and they now confine their attention to helping the city recover from the depression and again find its way in the ranks of prosperity.

The old board did some of the most constructive work of years, and that the new members will do their bid toward perpetuating the fine standard of service is not doubted.

This is a time when city officials themselves to keep the Ship of State are required to give the best in effort, and who doubts that the present year will come to a close with accomplishments just as bright as the past.

Greenville ranks with the most progressive and thriving cities in this part of the State, and the program of economy practiced by the board the last two years contributed greatly to the permanency of the reputation which the community has been able to establish.

The new year was begun under the most auspicious circumstances despite the cloud of economic uncertainty hovering over the nation, and the future is bright with opportunity for continued advancement if the program of economy backed by cool business judgment should continue.

Health authorities of the State may do their best to reduce the spread of typhoid fever this summer, but their effort will be futile if the public

Gambler's Throw

By EUSTACE L. ADAMS

SYNOPSIS: Jerry Calhoun, captured by Limpy Ashwood, gambler chief, when he invaded Ashwood's island in an attempt to rescue Nancy Wentworth, declares Lucci, another prisoner, trying to bribe Ashwood's gang to double-cross their leader, Nancy and four men are being held for ransom. Stevens and Emory are allies of Jerry.

Chapter 20 EVERY MAN FOR HIMSELF Jerry wondered how many of Ashwood's gang were attending this conference. "I got a dozen men making four-five grand a month," Lucci said. "You oughta do that and better. I'll advance each of you five grand when we get back to Chi. That is, if you put this racket over tonight the way I say."

"Well," observed the pilot's voice, "Limpy, himself, always told us to back a winning horse, not an albatross." "Looks to me as if this yegg from Chicago's leading the field right now since Limpy's pulling out." This voice sounded like the guard who had always brought news of the murder on the beach. Were there no loyal men on the entire island?

"Well, it's up to you guys whether you're with me or not. But you better decide quick. After I leave this joint anyone who ain't with me is against me and I'm quick on the draw. How about it?" There was a moment's silence. Jerry tried to stop breathing; lest some sound penetrate the leafy shelter.

"Me, I'm for One-shot here!" A steely voice spoke up that held a note of leadership. "You fellows know as well as I do that if the mob, as going to bust up, Limpy ought to have given us a bigger cut so we could take care of ourselves until this thing blows over. What's he doing right here on this island to protest us? Did he stop one of those swells up at the house from cutting Di Michael's throat last night? It's every man for himself now. I'm joinin' gup with One-shot. The rest of you can do as you damn please."

There was a confused babel of voices, out of which rose Lucci's, hard and triumphant. "All right, then. Give me that gat. That's the boy. Now the rest of you listen for the rukus to start up at the house, then come up on the run. Have your engine, started and ready to go."

Jerry waited for no more. Inching his way out of the thicket, he turned and crawled swiftly toward the house. Fifty feet from the porch, Jerry cast all caution aside and raced across the grass. A homicidal mania was upon him; he was a man at large; Ashwood, frustrated and perhaps planning revenge; Lucci and the treacherous gangsters about to flare up in bloody rebellion—the fire knew a moment of panic lest harm might have come to the girl during the scant ten minutes he had left her alone in the dark.

"What on earth is the matter?" Her calm voice was like a dash of ice water in his face. "Pew!" he breathed sheepishly. "I was seeing ghosts! I've been listening to an interesting conversation. I can't tell you about it now; we'll have to work fast. Let's go inside. As soon as you can, go to your room. Don't come out, under any circumstances, unless you hear my voice. There will be trouble tonight."

He anticipated a flood of questions, but the girl turned without a word and entered the living room. He followed, blinking in the sudden change from darkness to light. "What, what?" Ashwood's voice, suave and genial, greeted them. Don't tell us that you are tired of the moonlight already!" Jerry had the grace to blush, hating himself for it. Nancy, however, met the cripple's eyes un-abashed.

"Please don't lose your sophistication, Mr. Ashwood," she protested. "When you are ingenious, you lose much of your charm." Emory whooped in glee. "Touche!" he laughed gaily. "Unless you can count that thrust, Ashie, you'll lose my respect!" "Emory," confessed Ashwood sadly, "a rapierlike cut from a beautiful woman never fails to render me defenseless." Turning to Mr. Titherington, he said placatingly, "I'm sorry, sir, that we cannot co-operate as it should. Several cases of fever, have been reported from various sections of the State, including our own county, and this condition will not be improved until everybody takes advantage of the immunization campaign inaugurated several years ago by the State health organization and continued each summer without interruption.

It should not be necessary to enumerate the danger of typhoid. It has claimed thousands of lives in this State in past years and will continue to thin the ranks of humanity if the people do not take advantage of free inoculation offered by the health departments of the nation.

Clinics have been held in virtually every part of the county this summer and while hundreds, even thousands, have been inoculated, there are many who were not. Such persons should visit the health department here immediately and safeguard their own lives as well as thousands of others.

PATRIOTS AND PATS LEADING LEAGUE RACE

Charlotte, July 2.—(AP)—Two teams in the Piedmont League were only one rung under the top today and pushing hard to dislodge from first place the Greensboro Patriots.

Asheville and Raleigh, the two aggregations that were tied for second position, were in Raleigh together today to fight it out again on the same field on which the Cats bested the Tourists last night by the score of 9 to 3.

Greensboro's chance to increase its lead a little in the race for the Piedmont flag last night escaped as the Charlotte Hornets put on a flashy rally in the lacy seventh inning and overtake the Pats' two-run lead and defeat them 4 to 3.

Merle Settlemyre was the hero of the game—at least from the standpoint of the Hornets. He allowed only seven hits, and only two Patriots were given free passes to first.

The Patriots slayed here for a double-header today that was expected to be one of the most exciting programs seen on Wearn field this season.

Durham's stampeding Bulls furnished the other feature of the league last night with the help of the High Point Pointers. The Bulls split a double-header with Winston-Salem, and when the Pointers jogged to Wilmington, Durham's name was listed to sixth place in the league standings. And even in sixth place the Bulls were not far behind the Twins.

In the first game the Bulls staged a comeback in the ninth inning to tie the score with two runs, but the Twins made another in the same inning to take the victory.

Durham got a quick start in the five-inning second contest, however, and scored two runs in the second frame. Another one across the plate in the fourth inning sewed up the game, for the Twins never crossed the plate even once. The Twins got only three hits off Kelly.

The Capitals' "mathematical chance" to win the pennant was maintained when they defeated the top-notch Tourists, 9 to 3. George Petty held the Tourists to eight hits, and although the Raleigh aggregation scored in only two innings, those two innings were enough.

Occupation of the cellar seemed to inspire the Wilmington Pirates just as it used toirk the Bulls. The Buccaneers knocked Pitcher Durham for ten hits and made nine of them count for runs. They defeated the High Point Pointers, 9 to 4, and thereby reduced the Pointers to a point just above the Cellars.

Foxx Clings to Bat Honor in the Majors

New York, July 2.—(AP)—No matter what else may happen to them, Jimmy Foxx of the Philadelphia Athletics and Chuck Klein of the Phillies seem to be all set for a season-long battle for major league slugging honors.

After yesterday's games they were found again in their deadlock so far as long distance hitting was concerned with all the figures showing a general improvement.

Foxx still held a slight edge in the struggle, leading his league in four slugging departments without dispute as well as holding a .388 average to top both big circuits, but Klein almost made up for it by topping the Athletic star in more departments than those in which Foxx led.

Their best figured were: Runs—Klein, 84; Foxx, 74. Hits—Klein, 111; Foxx, 104. Runs batted in—Foxx, 87 Klein, 78. Home runs—Foxx, 29 Klein, 24. Klein's margin came in three base hits where he had 12 to tie Babe Herman of Cincinnati, for the major league lead. Foxx had only seven triples, sharing second place in the American league with three others. Buddy Myers of Washington, led the junior circuit with eleven.

Paul Waner, National League batting leader, continued to top them all in two-base hits with 32, tied Worthington, of the Boston Braves only one behind, while Bruce Campbell of St. Louis led the American with 22. Ben Chapman, of the New York Yankees, 1931 base-stealing sensation, brought his 1932

CUBS AGAIN GAIN LEAD IN NATIONAL

By GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer) There being no particular news in the fact that the National league had a new leader today (what, again?) and that the Yankee's margin over the American had been reduced to a bare nine games, it might be of interest to take up the case of the Browns.

It has been discovered, with no research at all, that there are only four members of the far-flung Brown clan in the major leagues and that all four of them are pitchers. There must be something that impels a Brown, when he decides upon a big league career, to turn to the curving art.

The list now includes Bobby Brown, Brown's grandson; Clint Brown of Cleveland, Lloyd Brown of Washington, and Walter Brown of the Yankees, all of them very good pitchers. Clint was the only one that didn't see action yesterday.

It was a fellow named Warneke, however, who did the day's most important pitching. He licked the Cincinnati Reds, 8 to 4, thereby putting the Chicago Cubs back at the head of the National league parade and becoming the first pitcher in the circuit to win ten games.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, dropped into second place, four points behind the Cubs, when they lost to the Cardinals, 5 to 3. Steve Swetonic, seeking his ninth victory in ten games, was the Cardinals' victim. Although knocked out in the sixth inning, Dizzy Dean was credited with the victory.

Another of the league's top fingers, Huck Betts, encountered defeat when the Giants nosed out the Boston Braves, 5 to 4. Frank Hogan's homer with two aboard, and Bill Terry's triple in the 8th, followed by Ott's single, were the blows that deprived Betts of his tenth triumph. Bobby Brown finished for him.

Four Yankee pitchers, including Walt Brown, were pounded for 15 hits as the Boston Red Sox finally rang up victory No. 13. The score was 11 to 6.

The Athletics lost their opener to Washington, 7 to 5. The Senators bunched all their eight hits off Roy Mahaffey in two big innings to hand him his seventh straight reverse. Lloyd Brown was the winner.

Two games were scheduled in the American.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH TO HAVE UNIFIED SERVICE

The Eighth Street Christian Church begins tomorrow the unified Sunday morning services. These combination Sunday school and morning services begin with the worship period at 9:45 which will include the sermon and Holy Communion. At 10:30 the teaching period begins and continues until 11:00 o'clock.

It is expected that the unified program will appeal to the members and friends of the congregation, covering as it does the essentials of both the Sunday school and church services and being sufficiently brief to allow dismissal before the head of mid-day.

The members and friends of this congregation are asked to keep in mind the hour of worship—9:45 and to cooperate by being as prompt as possible in attendance.

BATEMAN—HENDERSON

Mr. and Mrs. W. Henry Henderson announce the marriage of their daughter Sara Mae to Mr. Richard Herbert Bateman on Wednesday, June twenty-ninth, nineteen hundred and thirty-two, New Bern, North Carolina.

JUNIOR CAMP OPENS AS SENIORS LEAVE

Camp Leach, June 30.—The junior camp for boys with Capt. Earl Estabrook of the Church Army as director, was opened on Sunday following the senior camp and was thoroughly organized Monday, the regular routine of camp life being well under way now. The young people, ranging from 12 to 14 years are divided into groups with the honor point system being used with much success.

Bishop Thomas C. Darst preached the sermon at the closing exercises of the senior camp on Sunday morning to the campers, numbering 90 and composing one of the best as well as the largest groups of young people yet assembled at the recreation grounds.

Silver loving cups, awards for the best all around campers were won by Miss Katherine Harding of Washington, and Kenneth Harley of Fayetteville. Stars were presented to Misses Isabelle Tillinghast, Anne Williams Tillinghast, Nannie Biggs of Fayetteville, and Miss Katherine Harding, Washington; Kenneth Harley and Mack Smith of Fayetteville; Bill Crawford of Hertford; John Beckwith, Petersburg, Va., and the camp insignias to Misses Catherine Cantwell, Margaret Darst, Louise Henderson of Wilmington; Julia Derr of Goldsboro; Rosalie McNeill, Frances Melton of Lumberton; Mary Chase of Klimannock, Va.; Edna Credle of Lake Landing; Eleanor Jones of Newbern; Mary Tarkand of Bath; Cecil Allgood, Stacy Maxwell of Fayetteville; Alexander Badger of Raleigh; Thurman Try of Lumberton; Tom James, of Wilmington; Shelton Tucker of Hertford.

Masons Have Successful Meet. Farmville, June 30.—Masons, Eastern Stars, their families and interested friends, numbering five hundred, were in attendance at the Mason Day celebration held here Thursday.

Promptly at 11:00 the splendid program began in the school auditorium with the invocation by Rev. H. L. Hendricks of the Methodist Church and a welcoming speech by Worshipful Master, W. E. Joyner.

Mrs. Alice Harper Parker, widely known for her activities in the Eastern Star Order and Past Worthy Matron of the Grand Chapter of North Carolina, welcomed the assemblage on behalf of the Stars and introduced Rev. E. L. Hillman, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Church of Greenville, who spoke on the theme of "Where We Live Living," proving successfully that a man's relationship to humanity speaks for his boundaries, which cannot be marked by lines of location or geographical limits.

Judge Francis D. Winston of Windsor, was introduced by John Hill Paylor, past master of the Farmville Lodge. The Judge and the Grand Secretary, John H. Anderson of Raleigh, spoke of Masonry in General, its ideals, principles and present struggle to keep alive the spirit of brotherly love and fellowship.

A vocal solo was rendered by Mrs. M. V. Jones and a duet by Mrs. Jones and Mrs. John Dwight Holmes with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Haywood Smith.

A barbecue and basket dinner was served on the grounds of the Horton Apartments at the noon hour.

Swimming Pool to Open Sunday

Westbrook swimming pool will be open to the public tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. Scores of people took advantage of the opportunity to enjoy a Sunday afternoon plunge last week and a similar condition was expected to prevail tomorrow.

The pool is not only conducted under the best sanitary condition but is under the supervision of life saving experts who are always on the alert to render assistance in case of emergency. There two protective features make the pool one of the safest places to swim in this part of the state and hundreds are expected to enjoy the pastime each day during the remainder of the summer.

Postoffice Will Close July 4th

The postoffice along with other public buildings of the city will observe the Fourth of July Monday.

The general delivery window will be open for convenience of patrons from 11:30 o'clock to 12:30 but the money order and registry divisions will be closed all day.

City carriers will make their usual morning rounds but there will be no afternoon service. Rural carriers will not serve their routes.

Seeing Through My Windshield

Home Demonstration women are busy canning early vegetables and fruits. The clubs at Red Banks and Stokes and Hopewell met this week. Each group made arrangements to help unorganized community with canning this year.

Pitt county 4-H girls are busy getting ready for their annual encampment. For the past several years we have gone to Camp Leach—this year we have planned to camp with 4-H members from Martin, Edgecombe, Northampton and Beaufort counties at Neuse Forest, near New Bern. Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock the Pitt county girls will meet at the office of the home agent. A large truck has been secured to transport the entire group. While in camp there will be classes in handicraft, home nursing, manners, gowning, folk dancing and swimming. The Pamlico Cutter has been secured to take the girls for a long boat ride on Friday. We had hoped to visit the government fisheries at Beaufort Friday, but the Pamlico makes six miles an hour and could not go so far. There will be a life guard on duty each time the club members go in the water and a nurse will be in camp the full time. Precautions have been taken for safety and provisions have been made for instruction, inspiration and fun.

Hamlet, N. C.—(AP)—The bonus will be discussed again when Hamlet Post No. 49, of the American Legion, meets here to elect officers and delegates to the State convention. The post is made up of veterans in Richmond and Scotland counties.

VOTING MOVES RAPIDLY HERE

The election comes in the wake of a campaign probably as spectacular as the first and especially so in view of the fact that the balloting centers around far less candidates than before.

The run-off is of far greater significance to the county than some other parts of the state because of the local color added by contests for county and township offices, and although the vote probably will not be as great throughout the county as in the first primary, it is expected Greenville might succeed in hanging up a new record.

Voting continued spiritedly at the courthouse during the morning hours, and this condition was expected to prevail throughout the afternoon.

None of the confusion and congestion featuring the first primary was in evidence here today as voting was being conducted at each entrance to the building, greatly speeding up the handling of voters and eliminating all semblance of congestion.

Another feature not in evidence in the first battle of ballots here is the addition of extra election officials and booths. Nearly thirty booths were lined up along each side of the east-west corridor and voters after completing casting their ballots left the building from the western entrance.

Two election officials were placed in charge of the corridors to facilitate the casting of ballots and furnish any information to voters not acquainted with the change from the old plan of conducting elections at the courthouse.

While it was impossible to say how the vote for the various candidates was stacking up, campaign managers in all fields were claiming success for their candidates.

The campaign was concluded last night and when the polls opened this morning shortly after five o'clock numbers of people were already on hand to begin the important business of balloting.

Voting throughout the country was described as orderly with considerable activity in evidence, especially among supporters of Jack Edwards and J. W. Holmes, seeking the seat in the legislature, and Richard King and Gus Stokes, after the office of constable. Swift Creek and Ayden townships were voting on constables also.

The race for the Senate was between Robert Reynolds and Senator Cameron Morrison while the gubernatorial contest was between R. T. Fountain and J. C. B. Ehringhaus.

NE WYOMER SELECTED AS DEMOCRATIC STANDARD BEARER AT CONVENTION

(Continued from Page One) ced he had had enough of deadlocks to an electrified convention he declared that any candidate who had mustered the strength then held by Roosevelt should be given the nomination.

Almost at the same time, Garner had told his Texas followers by telephone from Washington that they need consider themselves under no further obligation to him. It was the beginning of the end, State after state went over into the Roosevelt column with a rush amounting almost to a stampede, and in the end the nominee had 945 votes out of a convention total of 1154, with but 766 needed to nominate.

Smith had 190, almost his strength on every previous ballot and the dozen others were scattering.

The demonstration that greeted the announcement of the vote was an anti-climax. The real peak of victory had spent itself a half hour earlier, when a wildly-cheering parading mass of Roosevelt-minded humanity welcomed McAdoo's announcement and acclaimed him a party hero.

It all appeared to storm the opposition, which had returned to the convention hall high in the hope that the stop-Roosevelt movement was on the verge of success. They had heard of uneasiness in the Roosevelt delegations of a half dozen states. Mississippi was debating whether to stay with the leader, and North Carolina Main and others were showing signs of uncertainty.

The leaders of Tammany Hall, voting for Smith, at first refused to believe the news. So did Frank Hague of New Jersey, Smith's campaign manager. To the last the Tammany and New Jersey votes held to the Smith column, with whatever significance to the future relations between the Governor and Albany and the Tiger.

almost every mention of the Roosevelt candidacy, they booed and groaned at the victory march until Chairman Walsh appealed to Mayor Cermak to help quiet them. Even the mayor brought a roar of disapproval down upon himself from the dense circling tiers of humanity when he announced that Melvin Traylor, the Illinois candidate had withdrawn and cast the solid vote of the state for Governor Roosevelt.

Governor Ritchie of Maryland, whose friends had had high hope he would emerge victor in case of a deadlock, himself voted the Maryland delegation for the New York. Former Governor Byrd of Virginia did the same with the Old Dominion bloc of votes. Even the Murry-controlled Oklahomans, who "Alfalfa Bill" himself had said never would go to Roosevelt, did go there before the shouting ended.

Garner's selection by the Roosevelt leaders for second place on the ticket followed quickly the decisive ballot, but the convention managers preferred to postpone the ballot until today. They called the delegates together at 1 p. m., central daylight time, and hoped to have the balloting over and the decks cleared for the appearance of Governor Roosevelt at 3 p. m. in the big stadium which now has become a landmark in the political wars of 1932.

NEW PROPOSAL FOR SETTLEMENT OF THE REPARATIONS

The five principal creditor powers handed to the German delegation last night a proposal for a reparations settlement in which the settlement was made to depend on America's cancellation of war debts.

The proposal was softly phrased, to avoid stirring up American opposition, but it was none the less firm.

German sources were responsible for a report that Chancellor Franz Von Papen already had informed Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain his government would not accept the plan.

It is a miniature Young plan, but it contains no figures. These were left to be filled in later.

The core of the proposal is a proviso for issuance of bonds backed by Germany, the proceeds of which would be used to assist in reconstructing Europe and to safeguard nations owing debts to the United States in case the American government refused to revise the debt figures.

It gauges Germany's capacity to pay and sets out detailed plans for using time payments to aid European reconstruction.

The plan was proposed by Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan and Belgium.

SMITH SILENT AFTER DEFEAT

(Continued from Page One) "No comment to make," was the only answer he himself gave, but his associates said they considered it doubtful whether Roosevelt would have the support of his gubernatorial predecessor.

Another chapter had been written in the story of New York's Damon and Pythias, who trod the same political path and then came to a dividing of their ways.

It was a silent and weary man who sat down with a dozen loyal friends to hear the news that the highest prize of Democracy was not to be his, as it was four years ago.

The hotel suite was deserted as the rapping of the chairman's gavel came over the air.

The campaign pictures were still on the walls and 'Al Smith buttons' were scattered around the tables, but the crowds were miles away listening to another man being nominated.

With his daughter, Mrs. Emily Smith Warner, attempting to cheer him, Smith left the barren hotel suite, before the crowds returned from the convention hall.

"Going right to bed," he said, and disappeared in an elevator.

Robert Jackson, of New Hampshire, and Bruce Kremer, of Montana, are other names figured as possibilities for the new chairman.

National committee which actually makes the choice will meet tonight under the leadership of John J. Raskob, the personal selection four years ago of Alfred E. Smith the 1928 nominee.

The new Roosevelt committee was prepared to extend the alive branch of peace to Raskob, whose money and time was given freely to the Democratic cause. It was Raskob who set up for the first time an organization to carry on between campaign years and the Rooseveltians are mindful of it.

However, a re-organization has been determined upon. J. J. Shouse, the chairman of the executive committee, is out. Leaders of the Roosevelt movement are determined to carry on the attack against Shouse they launched in sidetrack him as permanent chairman of the convention. They contend he used his office against the interests of the Roosevelt candidacy.

Political leaders of the party understand that it is to be a thorough Roosevelt organization and his word will be final—that is the law of politics. So, there was doubt also about the retention of the veteran Charles Michaelson who carried on the active publicity work of the Democrats over the presidential interim.

The verdict was announced by the foreman, Mrs. Leila Alpaugh.

Curtis came into court to hear the jury's decision with solemn face and walked directly to the bar of justice. One of his brothers slapped him encouragingly on the back as he crossed the room.

Flemington, N. J., July 2.—(AP)—The case of John Hughes Curtis, charged with hindering capture of the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby, was given to the jury at 9:33 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) today.

In a brief charge Judge Adam O. Robbins told the seven men and five women of the jury that Curtis' failure to testify in his own defense "justifies the inference" that he cannot deny the inference.

Judge Robbins delivered his charge on a stage from which practically all the principal actors in the tragic drama that began on the night of March 1 with the kidnaping of the baby were absent.

Not even Col. Charles A. Lindbergh himself, who had attended every other session since the trial opened Monday, came to court today.

The Lindbergh servants, Betty Gow and Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Wheatley, were also absent for the first time.

Curtis, seated beside his eleven-year-old daughter, Constance, listened gravely to the charge, his face roving several times to the faces of the jurors.

On the other side, of Curtis from his daughter was Mrs. Bruce Carney, wife of a Virginia friend of the defendant who was one of the only two witnesses to testify in Curtis' behalf.

At the request of the defense, Judge Robbins included in his charge instructions that if the jurors considered the state had not proved that Curtis was in contact with the actual kidnapers, a verdict of acquittal should be returned.

There was diverse testimony on this point from state witnesses. Edmund Bruce, of Elmira, N. Y., who accompanied Curtis on many of his journeys to alleged meetings with the kidnapers, testified he believed Curtis was in contact with the real kidnapers.

Colonel Lindbergh, on the other hand, said under cross-examination, that he did not think Curtis had ever met the kidnapers or knew who they were.

EASTERN TOBACCO BELT TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 6TH

tember 27; Old Belt, October 4; and Dark Virginia Belt, November 15. John M. Miller, Jr., Richmond banker, who addressed the annual banquet, told the tobacco growers he believed the Democratic party had made a "tactical blunder" in voting a prohibition repeal plank in the party platform which, he said, would alienate many Southern Democrats.

All officers of the association were re-elected for another year as follows: A. B. Carrington, Danville, president; Y. T. Clark, Wilson, vice-president; E. J. O'Brien, Louisville, Ky., vice-president; J. A. Clark, Bedford, Va., vice-president; M. E. Oliver, Danville, secretary-treasurer, and T. M. Carrington, Richmond, Va., chairman of the board.

The board of governors, in which a few changes were made, was named as follows: T. M. Anderson, Richmond; Clyde Austin, Greenville, Tenn.; T. W. Blackwell, Winston-Salem; A. H. Buchan, Mullins, S. C.; A. J. Bullington, Durham; N. H. Cozart, Wilson, N. C.; J. W. Dunnington, Farmville, Va.; J. M. Edmundo, Danville, Va.; James S. Ficklen, Greenville, N. C.; W. A. Goodson, Winston-Salem, N. C.; L. N. C. DELEGATES PLEASSED WITH CHICAGO BALLOTING

It was indicated that the only switch from Roosevelt in the delegation was caused by the desire of Hanes and Long to help prevent a deadlock convention. After the second ballot they talked it over and decided to vote for Byrd, then to shift to Baker on the next roll call.

A long rest between the third and fourth ballots, however, refreshed the candidates and when they returned to the stadium last night Hanes and Long were back with the Roosevelt majority and ready to stick it out.

An attempt to recruit support for Ritchie among the North Carolinians was made before the fourth ballot by representatives of Gov. Ritchie, but they got little encouragement.

SAYS GARNER WILL ACCEPT

Pressed for a more definite answer Garner said:

"I can't see my any service I could render to the country, the Democratic party or myself by making any statement either now or later."

Asked whether he would go to Chicago if nominated, Garner only repeated:

"I won't talk about that."

"If the notification ceremony is held in Texas, there will probably be a barbecue, won't there?" a newspaperman asked.

"That's your imagination working, not mine," Garner shot back.

The speaker's work-day had been the same as usual. From 7 o'clock onward he handled routine duties, pausing just before noon to see newspapermen.

He refused to be photographed in his office, but told photographers they could take snapshots of him leaving the Capitol, "if you can catch me."

Meanwhile, House organization for the duration of the Seventy-second Congress is not expected to be affected if Garner is nominated for vice-president.

SERVICES TO BEGIN SUNDAY

(Continued from Page One) It is sincerely hoped that the membership of the church and the public in general will give loyal support to these hours of worship.

Plan to make Day program. You will find a blessing in the fellowship of other Christians, and encouragement to face your daily duties with high hope and vigor.

The following schedule of preaching will be followed: July 3, Rev. W. A. Fleischmann; July 10, Rev. E. L. Hillman; July 17, Rev. W. A. Ryan; July 24, Rev. W. H. Covert; July 31, Rev. W. S. Harden; Aug. 7, Rev. W. A. Lillycrop; Aug. 14, Rev. E. L. Hillman; Aug. 21, Rev. W. A. Ryan; Aug. 28, Rev. W. S. Harden.

A free-will offering will be received each evening at these services with which to defray the expenses incurred in providing for the necessary equipment.

In case of bad weather, the service will be held in the court house.

CITY READY FOR FOURTH

(Continued from Page One) The postoffice announced today that certain hours would be observed for convenience of patrons Monday morning, but the office will be closed throughout the afternoon. City carriers will not serve their routes.

Along with the postoffice, the court house, banks and library will observe Independence Day by closing and employees of these institutions were looking forward to the celebration with more than general interest.

By reason of the fact that the Fourth falls on Monday this time, celebrants will have two days, and some three, in which to do their celebrating.

As the American flag will be in evidence along the streets, in business houses and homes, the Home Building and Loan Association today gave the following suggestions on how to salute the flag as it passes in view.

While the majority of people are familiar with the salutes, the suggestions are quoted below for convenience of those who care not.

Question 1. When the flag passes in review what salute does the man in uniform give?

Answer: The man in uniform gives the right-hand salute, with-out removing hat or cap.

Question 2. What does the man not in uniform give?

Answer: The man removes his headgear, holding it over his left shoulder.

Question 3. What salute should a woman not in uniform give?

Answer: She should place her right hand over her heart.

Question 4. When is the proper time to salute the flag as it passes in review?

Question 5. When the National Anthem is played should one salute at the first note of the anthem?

Answer: Yes, when one is in uniform.

Answer 6. When not in uniform? Answer: All present, if sitting, should stand; if walking, they should stop, and if flag is present, all face the flag.

TAG DAY DRIVE MADE HERE

(Continued from Page One) realized. The Greenville organization, like others throughout the country, has suffered severely from the effects of the economic situation, and while the officers have had a difficult time making ends meet, they have kept their work moving along smoothly, serving scores of people which other organizations are unable to reach.

In addition to its religious activities, the Salvation Army does much work among the poor. A home for transients was established here the beginning of the year, and many people without money and a place to stay have been taken care of.

The citizenship was urged to give liberally to the "Tag Day" drive and enable the workers to carry out their program more effectively during the remainder of the year. The campaign for funds will last only one day and if contributions are as liberally as hoped, future activities will be greatly expedited.

NEW DRAFT ON RELIEF BILL

Over the week-end the bill—which members of Congress predicted President Hoover would sign—will be drafted in final form for approval by conferees today. Its next step is presentation to House and Senate, which can not take up the measure before Tuesday since they are in recess over July 4.

In the rough outline accepted by conferees, the relief program carries:

$1,500,000,000 for loans through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation of agriculture, industry, commerce or unemployment provided adequate security is offered. No money can not be raised elsewhere and will not be used to pay debts.

$200,000,000 for relief loans to states on a population basis.

$100,000,000 for such loans on the basis of need.

$300,000,000 for public works. Discarded were: Speaker Garner's idea of raising the public works money through a gasoline tax; plans to finance the construction through a bond issue; restrictions on the amount that should be used of finance agriculture exports; provisions to limit loans from the $1,500,000,000 fund to self-liquidating projects although these are to be favored.

While conferees yesterday were agreeing upon these things, the Senate approached another beer vote. It took up the Hoover-sponsored home loan bank bill, and Senator Bingham (R., Conn.) immediately offered a rider to legalize beer of 3.2 alcohol by weight.

N. C. BALLOTS AGAIN TODAY

The wet issue, dominant in a political race, in the Tar Heel State for the first time since prohibition was adopted by the commonwealth in 1908, was played upon by both Robert Rice Reynolds, of Asheville, and Senator Cameron Morrison, of Charlotte, in the sensational battle.

Morrison, a leader in the party councils of the State for forty years, and an avowed dry, declared himself ready to be "annihilated politically for the cause of prohibition" while Reynolds, a 47-year-old attorney, has campaigned for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and for "temperance instead of prohibition."

Reynolds led Morrison by 15,000 votes in the June 4 balloting.

John C. B. Ehringhaus, of Elizabeth City, an attorney, potato farmer and supporter of the administration of Governor O. Max Gardner, faced Lieut. Gov. R. T. Fountain, of Rocky Mount, in the race for the governorship. Fountain has charged that the "Gardner machine" is attempting to dictate the election of Ehringhaus, a charge denied by the Elizabeth City man.

Ehringhaus topped Fountain by 47,000 votes in the first primary.

Greensboro, N. C.—(AP)—After attempting suicide by drinking poison, Mrs. Gertrude Idol, 42, killed herself here by jumping from the third-story window of a hospital.

W. B. WILSON LAID TO REST

(Continued from Page One) was loved by thousands of people because of his kind and genial manner and his generosity to thousands of people with whom he came in contact during his long and useful life.

Hundreds of people, many of them from other parts of the country, attended the funeral and the floral tribute was one of the most extensive ever seen here.

A double mixed quartette rendered two numbers "My Faith Locks Up To Thee," and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," as final tribute was paid to the beloved citizen.

Mr. Hillman extolled the achievements of the deceased and declared his life had been an inspiration not only to members of his family, but to others who had profited from his wise counsel and influence. He described him as a man who represented the highest type of citizenship and through his efforts in behalf of humankind had left the community a much better place in which to live.

Mr. Wilson was a native of Pitt county and spent all of his life in this city. He is survived by his wife and seven sons, Major Durward S. Wilson, U. S. A., Newport, R. I.; Major Frank W. Wilson, U. S. A., Honolulu, T. H.; Major Bascom L. Wilson, U. S. A., Fort Sam Houston, Texas; Major William R. Wilson, U. S. A., Los Angeles, Cal.; Captain Carl E. Wilson, U. S. A., Ft. Meade, Md.; Francis G. and James B. Wilson of this city. Other survivors include a brother, Frank Wilson, and three sisters, Mrs. Olien Warren Jr., Misses Lill and Nannie Wilson, all of this city, and a number of other relatives including eight grandchildren.
