Pitt Gives Big Majorities Reynolds And Fountain

JACK EDWARDS BEATS HOLMES

Dick King Victorious Over Gus Stokes for Constable of Greenville Township; Majority Given Fletcher Over Mitchell for Labor Commissioner; Vote Heavier Than in First Primary.

Piling up a vote even greater than in the first primary in June, Pitt county people went to the polls in a run-off primary last Saturday and registered overwhelming majorities for Robert R. Reynolds for the Senate and R. T. Fountain for governor.

In addition, the battle of ballots enabled Jack Edwards to defeat John Holmes of Farmville, for his seat in the House of Representatives by a majority of 41, and also gave Dick King a 100 majority over Gus Stokes, constable of Greenville township.

Complete but unofficial returns were compiled by The Daily Reflector Saturday night and hundreds of persons gathered in front of the office cheered wildly as reports from over the state trickled in giving the complexion of state vote.

The total vote cast for the various candidates in this county follows:

Reynolds—Short term 4,839; long term 4,753.

Morrison—Short term 1,785; long term 1926.

Fountain, 5,377; Ehringhaus, 1,367.

Edwards 3,423; Holmes 3,382.

King 1,183; Stokes 1,063.

For the office of Commissioner of Labor, Fletcher obtained 3,895 votes and Mitchell 2,048.

The primary was conducted in a quiet and orderly way throughout the county and congestion and confusion evident in the first primary was conspicuous for its paucity.

This was especially so in Greenville where two voting places at the court house in the place of the customary one enabled the vote to be compiled with considerable ease and efficiency.

The increased polling place also required additional election officials as well as booths and these enabled voters to register their preference in a minute or two whereas in the first primary they were forced to wait anywhere from a half to three-quarters of an hour.

Other townships of the county where large votes are polled reported the rapid compilation of ballots as well as greatly reduced time in making final counts.

The Board of Elections was highly praised for the increased service, and especially in Greenville, where two entrances to the court house polling places and a definite way for exit made the business of voting easier than it ever has been before.

Crowds thronged the streets near the court house throughout the day, and while there was a good bit of jostling about the prospects of victory, no disorder of any kind was reported either here or in any other part of the county.

DECLARES WAR ON THE 'WETS'

Rev. A. W. Fleishman Accepts Challenge Thrown out by Anti-Prohibitionists.

Declaring he would fight until the end the movement to legalize the sale of whiskey in this country, Rev. W. A. Fleishman, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, delivered the sermon at the opening of the Sunday evening union services on the court house square Sunday night.

"The Wets have hurled a challenge at the forces of Christianity," the speaker asserted, "and I accept it and will fight them to the bitter end, or until death, if necessary."

The declaration came in the midst of one of the most powerful sermons heard at a service here in years, and the minister was the recipient of many congratulations upon his stand. A large crowd attended the service.

Rev. W. S. Harden, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, presided and announced that the services would continue through July and August with the speaker of each evening also holding brief services at the prison camp in the afternoon.

He referred to expenses incurred in obtaining new seats and preparing the property for use and urged liberal giving in an effort to lift the debt as early as possible.

It was the first time union services had been held in this location (Continued on Page Four)

NEGRO IS SHOT TO DEATH HERE

George Carr, colored, was held without bail for Superior Court here today charged with the slaying of Isaac Brown, also colored, while Carr was shooting at another negro by the name of Henry Simpson on the Norfolk Southern "Y" here Saturday night.

Carr, according to officers, was engaged in altercation with Simpson when the shooting occurred. As Carr pulled his gun to start "a little action," Simpson fled with bullets singing a mournful tune behind him.

Brown, who happened to be in the line of fire, dropped to the ground mortally wounded.

Carr was later taken into custody but denied that he intended killing Brown. He said he was firing at Simpson, and did not have anything against the man killed.

He was ordered held without bail for Superior Court following preliminary hearing.

THREE KILLED BY HIGH WIND

Scores Also Injured as Tornadoic Blasts Sweep Parts of Nebraska and Kansas

Washington, Kas., July 5.—(AP)—Tornadoic winds hedge-hopping across southeastern Nebraska and northern Kansas have killed at least three persons, injured more than a score and brought great damage to the town of Washington.

The angry clouds struck here late yesterday after previously zering the farm home of Mrs. F. E. Slagle, about 50, of near Hubbell, Neb. Mrs. Slagle was killed and her husband and their two sons, Roy and Clyde, were injured.

Citizens of Washington and numerous visitors from nearby towns observed the sweep of the storm clouds near the close of an all day Fourth of July celebration. Governor Harry H. Woodring, who was to be the principal speaker, cancelled the engagement because of the Democratic National Convention at Chicago.

Crashing buildings killed Peter Gillett, a retired mail carrier, and Garland Hubka, about 20, of Narka, Kas. The town of approximately 1,300 persons immediately was thrown into complete chaos. Reports that two additional persons had been killed could not be verified early today.

Eight of the more seriously injured were taken to a Clay Center, Kas., hospital. Attaches of the hospital said today that none was in critical condition. (Continued on page three)

E. G. FLANAGAN RETURNS HOME

Pitt County Man Says Democratic National Convention Greatest Ever.

North Carolina did itself proud at the Democratic National Convention recently held at Chicago, in the opinion of E. G. Flanagan, of Greenville, member of the State delegation, who returned to his home here yesterday.

North Carolina, Mr. Flanagan said, was active in most of the important fights of the convention, and especially that centered around the two-thirds rule. It was the stand taken by the State against abrogation of the one-hundred-year-old rule. Mr. Flanagan said, that turned the tide of convention in favor of its retention.

Referring to the repeal plank adopted by the convention, the Greenville man stated, he as well as other members of the State delegation, vigorously opposed the majority report recommending repeal of the prohibition law, and stood for resubmission until the end.

However, Mr. Flanagan said, he is for the platform as adopted by the convention, and will use his every influence in carrying it safely through the November election.

The convention was one of the most harmonious the Democrats ever held, he believed. Save for (Continued on Page Four)

Roosevelt Begins Task Of Making Party Peace

Albany, N. Y., July 5.—(AP)—Home from his first trip as the Democratic presidential candidate, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt today took up the task of making peace in the party as his first step in the campaign.

While the governor has no political conference for the next few days, he was expected to give much attention to the Smith group. He came home expressing confidence that there would be no factions in the party during the campaign. There was a belief that the Roosevelt forces hoped to bring the governor and former Governor Smith, his bitter opponent for the party convention, together in New York soon. Mr. Roosevelt will be in New York Sunday, and political observers be-

VETS AGAIN VISIT SOLONS

Ragged Army of Former Soldiers Renew Demands for Payment of Bonus.

Washington, July 5.—(AP)—A ragged army of war veterans marched down historic Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol today to renew their demands before Congress for immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Except for one drum and two bugles, the parade was silent. This was the second time the former service men had paraded formally to the Capitol. Informal marches, however, have been conducted on a number of occasions.

Washington, July 5.—(AP)—President Hoover was represented in high administration quarters at the Capitol today as being unalterably opposed to that section of the $2,100,000 relief bill providing $200,000,000 for loans to states on a population basis.

It was added a veto more likely would be directed at this section than at the $325,000,000 public works provision.

This was made known shortly before the conference report on the relief measure was due for House consideration.

A population basis for distributing funds was said to be regarded by the President as purely "a pork end at President Hoover's Virginia mountain camp. Snell told newspapermen here that the chief executive was said to regard the public works section considerably less offensive.

HOOPER AT WORK ON NEW SPEECH

Washington, July 5.—(AP)—Back at his desk today after a week-end in the Virginia mountains, President Hoover continued work upon a document believed to be either his speech of acceptance or a public statement to be issued during the next several days.

The President called Secretary Mills to his office early this morning for a conference that lasted almost until other members of the Cabinet gathered for their regular bi-weekly meeting.

While at his camp yesterday, surrounded by a group of his advisors the President dispatched a White House automobile hurriedly to Washington to return with two stenographers. Although no indications were given concerning the indication given, it was assumed that the statement was one of importance.

Those who conferred with the President at his camp yesterday were Representative Snell, of New York, chairman of the Republican National Convention, and Secretaries Hurley and Hyde.

During much of last week the President went to his office usually early, being engaged often with a stenographer at his elbow.

Gambler's Throw

By EUSTACE L. ADAMS

SYNOPSIS: Expecting an attack from Ashwood's gangsters, led by Lucci against their leader, Jerry, Callahan and Stevens prepare their defense. Ashwood in holding Nancy Wentworth, Lucci and three others prisoners on his island. Two men have been murdered by someone unknown, and all the prisoners are nerve-strained from the heat.

Chapter 31
"DROP YOUR GUN!"
 Very quietly, listening for sounds from the servants' quarters, Jerry and Stevens walked down the long, silent hall of the west wing.
 Door after door they passed until at last they reached that which they knew opened into Lucci's room. Here they stood for many moments, listening against the pine panels for sounds of the occupant. Of Lucci there was not the least sound, but their hearing was disturbed by the steady footfalls of a man in the next room, who appeared to be pacing back and forth within the close confines as a ship's captain marches to and fro on his lofty bridge. But Lucci was still out of the building. Of that much the pair were sure. He could scarcely have gone to sleep with his plans for the night so close to maturity.
 "Who is doing all the walking?" whispered Jerry cautiously.
 Stevens glanced about, mentally tallying the occupants of each room.
 "Hamilton," he breathed and topped to the door from which the sounds were issuing. After a moment of stony immobility, he beckoned protection is thrown around the swimmers by the presence of two life guards who stay on duty at all hours the pool is open. This makes it safe for inexperienced swimmers especially children and has greatly reduced the annual toll of death resulting from drowning during the last year.
 This is the second year the pool has been operated and it is the hope of promoters that the people will rally to the support of the amusement center and express their appreciation of what is being done to insure the safety of human life.

Powers at the Lausanne conference want to arrange for payment of reparations but they do not desire to do so until they have been assured by the United States that they will be granted an adjustment of war debts.
 From this conclusion it is evident the debt holiday has gone to the heads of the foreign nations and they are not willing to commit themselves until the United States expresses an opinion on the question.
 These debts are an obligation that should be met just like any others and the powers involved should make an earnest effort to pay as soon as they can without continued prattling about further relief.
 America did not hesitate to square accounts with the world at the end of the world war, and it should not be subject to so much quibbling when its own collections are involved.
 Congress is having a difficult time settling the relief bill controversy and millions of people continue to suffer untold hardships as result of unemployment and attendant ills.
 This is a question that should have been concluded long ago before suffering became so acute and the solons should attempt to reach some definite decision at once and cut out so much argument.
 It will be too late to provide relief after the nation has been cost inestimable numbers of human lives as result of illness attributed directly to unemployment.
 It is one of the most serious situations affecting the nation in many a day and the public is watching for settlement of the question and some real relief for the suffering.

North Carolina people have elected a senator and a governor after two battles of ballots and can now settle back in comfort until November when they will go to the polls again to ballot on a president and his running mate in addition to members of Congress.
 The battle of state officers was a long drawn-out affair but now it has been fought and settled the people should rally around the government and do their best to help it through one of the most trying periods in history.
 Co-operation of the most steadfast kind will be required to enable the Ship of State to carry on until another period of prosperity rolls around and it is the duty of the people to do their best to live up to the obligation resting upon the shoulder of every true-hearted citizen.

Who is that?" Ashwood inquired, idly curious.
 "It's me, Lucci."
 "Have you forgotten that I told you to remain in your room at night?"
 Stevens, on hands and knees, crept toward the rail, Jerry close at his side.
 "Ah, to hell with you and your orders!" snarled Lucci. "Stick 'em up, quick! I'm covering you and aching to drill you both!"
 "You are indiscreet, Lucci," the cripple told him coldly. "Have you forgotten my guards with their machine guns?"
 "Not by a dam sight!" retorted the gangster. "They're my guards now! Since you're fading out the picture they're joining my mob, starting now. Listen, Limpy, either you're joining up with me, or I'm going to bump you off, here and now, see?" His voice was malignant.
 Jerry had no doubt that he would carry out his threat.
 "Drop your gun, One-shot!" Stevens did not raise his voice, but the effect of his words was almost magical. Ashwood and Emory jumped in surprise. There was a crimson spurt from Lucci's automatic. The bullet spat between the two crouching men on the porch.

The gangster, with a curse, turned and ran at full speed toward the hangar, zig-zagging and dodging behind the slender trunks of the palms as he continued his precipitate flight through the darkness. Ashwood's gun flamed once, twice.
 "Better cut it, Limpy," said the detective calmly. "You'll need all your cartridges. Wish you could get my old revolver from the feller who frisked me. These new-fangled automatics are always jamming at the wrong time."
 His voice was mildly regretful as he fussed with the instrument in his hand. The cripple gazed wonderingly at the porch.
 "And they say there's no 'Santy Claus!'" he marvelled.
 "Better come up here and let's talk it over," suggested the old man casually.
 The screen door squeaked on its hinges. Jerry spun around, his muscles quivering, tensed for sudden action. Then he relaxed. It was Alfred, the steward. He glanced at the two vigilant men.
 "Beg pardon, sir," he bowed, an anxious frown on his usually expressionless forehead. "I was looking for Mr. Ashwood, sir."
 "Here I am, Alfred," called the cripple, limping up the steps. "What is it?"
 "Sir, I must tell you that the other servants have all gone down to the hangar. I'd afraid there is trouble, sir. Here is a revolver. You will need it soon, I think."
 "Good boy, Alfred. Better keep the gun. Any more of them around?"
 "No, sir. I had this one hidden under my mattress."
 "So the whole outfit has deserted, eh?" The leader's voice held a tinge of regret. "I had thought they were loyal."
 "They were, sir," the steward assured him, "until Lucci told them they would be arrested as soon as you left. Since they knew I would not join them, they did not trust me. I do not know their plans, but I think they are going to steal the planes and fly away."
 Ashwood turned to the others.
 "Alfred was my batman during the war," he explained simply. "We can count on him."
 There came a series of staccato snapping noises, as though an oxidizer were flicking his whip about their ears. The five dived uncermoniously for the shelter of the living-room. From the easterly corner of the house the knife-like flashes of a machine gun stabbed the darkness.

 "That's the guard on the inshore beach," said the cripple. "Seem to be pretty well surrounded, don't we?"

 The Fourth of July holidays at the beach, was said to have expressed only a message of farewell.
 Mr. Wooten returned from Morehead City Saturday evening, and was last seen while sitting in front of his home Sunday night.
 Dependancy over ill health extending over a period of a year or more was believed to have been responsible for the death.
 Funeral services will be conducted from the late home this afternoon at 4 o'clock by Rev. E. L. Hillman, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. Burial will be made in the District of the Methodist Church. Burial will be made in Greenwood Cemetery.
 Mr. Wooten was born in Lenoir County in 1889 and moved to Greenville when quite young and engaged in the drug business, which he conducted for 27 years with great success.
 He was auditor of Pitt County for six years after his retirement from the drug store, and was a member of the building committee of court-house. He was married to Miss Lillian Hooker, of Greene County, who preceded him to the grave over a year ago.
 In recent years he had confined his attention to the development of considerable property, consisting of city and farm holdings. He was a member of the local Masonic lodge and the Kiwanis Club.
 Mr. Wooten always exhibited active interest in the business and civic life of the community and made hundreds of friends in this and other parts of the country who received news of his death with profound shock and regret.

 He was of an affable, cordial nature, which combined with keen business judgment, enabled him to achieve distinct success in the business field.
 He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. W. I. Wooten, of Greenville; two brothers, F. M. Wooten, Greenville, and E. B. Wooten, of Columbia, S. C. Two grandchildren also survive.

 Prominent political leaders continued their praise of the unprecedented action of the governor in flying to Chicago to receive the nomination immediately the choice was made.
 Governor William H. Murray, of Oklahoma, one of the nine Democratic leaders who actively sought the Democratic nomination, said upon arriving home from the convention that Mr. Roosevelt "won thousands of votes" by flying to the convention as soon as he was nominated. "It was very fortunate that Roosevelt came to the convention because people will look more at what he said than at the platform," he added.
 Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, the lone Roosevelt supporter in a solid Smith-pledged Massachusetts delegation, received a rousing ovation when he returned to his home city from the convention and was forced to proceed to Boston Common and make a speech.

At a meeting of the Tammany Hall brass in New York a message from Governor Roosevelt saying he was assured the society of Tammany would follow the banners of Democracy was mildly applauded in contrast to a vigorous ovation for Alfred E. Smith who talked about "preserving the Constitution" when forced to his feet by insistent calls from the audience. He said no word about politics.

 Following approximately the route pursued by Harold Gatty and Wiley Post, who circled the globe in the "Winifred," they hoped to knock the Wiley-Post record of 8 days, 15 hours, 51 minutes into a cocked hat.
 Br. James H. Kimball, veteran weather man who is unofficial leader of long-distance flights, told them that despite rain over Nova Scotia, they could expect satisfactory conditions.
 Matters, who hails from Fort Worth, Texas, and is 27 years old, sat fifteen feet away from Griffin, 36-year-old Oklahoma City man. Between them were two gasolene tanks.
 The plane has dual controls, however, and the pilots planned to communicate with each other by means of notes placed in a small table and slid along a cable. An abundance of compasses and a pair of ice indicators were among their instruments.
 The pilots plotted a course across the Atlantic to Ireland, over Europe to Siberia, across the length of Asia to the Pacific and home-ward by way of the North Pacific and Alaska.
 Their 550-horsepower craft, No. NR889E, was formerly owned by Carl Cromwell, of San Angelo, Tex., who was killed in an auto accident in Pennsylvania a year ago.
 Matters has a varied record. He played in a ship's orchestra on the Pacific, won his wings as an army pilot in Honolulu, flew cargoes of fish from Brownsville, Texas, to Mexico threat that Congress must enact the kind of relief bill President Hoover wants or stay in session, met House and Senate conferees today as they put what they considered the final polish on their $2,100,000,000 program.

City, and barn-stormed in the far corners of the earth. He piloted a refueling plane over rugged Alaskan country last year for Reg. L. Robbins and W. S. Jones when they attempted a Seattle-Tokyo hop unsuccessfully.

 "The threat appeared in a statement by Representative Snell of New York, Republican leader in the House and chairman of his party's recent national convention. After a week-perman:
 "We are going to have relief legislation no matter how long we stay here. If the President would veto the relief bill, and Congress adjourn without any relief legislation, the President will call us back within twenty-four hours. He will not let us leave here without enacting an acceptable relief bill."
 Snell did not say what portions of the bill he already agreed to by the conferees was objectionable to the White House. There was little, if any, belief, though, that Mr. Hoover had retreated from his stand against allowing $90,000,000 for public works, as the measure would provide.
 Likewise, some saw the possibility of presidential disapproval because the 1,500,000,000 measure would add to reconstruction finance corporation funds would not, under the bill, be limited to loans on self-liquidating projects.
 Mr. Hoover was not alone in his desire to see relief legislation become law. A group of House members, including Representatives Lagumara (R., N. Y.) and Meade (D., N. Y.) already had served notice that "Congress is going to stay in session until a good relief bill is signed."

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT

Those who visited the Greenville precinct voting place Saturday were no doubt pleased with the change in arrangement whereby nearly as many people as voted in the first primary were able to vote Saturday without the least congestion at the polls nor delay and loss of time in voting. Despite the fact that nearly twenty-five hundred people voted here the only delays at the polls were occasioned by the inability to find certain names quickly on account of the condition and arrangement of the registration books. One of the most pleasing features about the whole arrangement Saturday was the absence within the polling place of petty politicians and ticket markers to solicit votes for their candidates and the voters with plenty of booths to use could vote as they desired without molestation or embarrassment.
 We take this occasion to congratulate our election officials for putting into effect this long needed improvement in our voting place and now if they will call for a new registration in order to remove from the books all ineligible names and then prepare the new books in a strictly alphabetical order, we believe that it will prove a still greater improvement in our voting system and thereby be an encouragement to our people to go to the polls and vote on election day.

ABOUT TOWN

The Democrats did their best when they nominated Franklin D. Roosevelt and John Garner at the Chicago convention.
 With these two men bearing the party standard in the forthcoming election, Democrats stand a better chance of regaining power than they have stood in the last several years.
 Roosevelt and Garner have served their party well. The people have confidence in their integrity and ability and believe they will live up to their promises if they should be elected in November.
 The Republicans face the stoutest opposition since the Democrats went out of power and with the country in mood for a change certainly Roosevelt and Garner will appeal to the people's imagination as leaders of government.
 With both conventions history, people will now turn their attention to actual balloting and nobody will feel satisfied until the votes have been counted and the winners ascertained.
 Westbrook swimming pool, operated by a group of business men to throw a safeguard around Greenville people while in swimming, is meeting with favorable consideration and hundreds of grown-ups as well as young people are taking advantage of the opportunity to swim in complete safety.
 In addition to keeping the pool in the highest state of sanitation,

NEW CRISIS THREATENS IN THE PIEDMONT

Charlotte, July 5.—(AP)—The Piedmont League today faced another crisis with Louisville about to throw up the Asheville franchise and no prospects in sight that anyone else would step in to operate the club.

Dan W. Hill, president of the club under the American Association franchise would "in all probability" be surrendered at a meeting of the Piedmont board of directors in Durham Wednesday.

The Raleigh News and Observer said surrendering of the Asheville franchise would result in High Point being dropped out to give the circuit an even six clubs.

With this matter holding the spotlight, a fight over attempts at Sunday afternoon games was also expected to develop at Wednesday's meeting, which has been called by President W. G. Branham to consider results of the first half pennant chase.

The developments, coming late last night, climaxed a day which saw the second half race start off anything but auspiciously. All the night games of the holiday double bill were rained out, and the weather did more to take the life out of the club standings when the Asheville-Charlotte afternoon game was washed out as the ninth opened with the score tied 2-1.

High Point, Durham and Raleigh were the July 4 winners, the Pointers trouncing Winston-Salem 15 to 10, the Bulls taking the Wilmington Pirates into camp 7-2 and Raleigh whipping Greensboro, first half winners, 5-2.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, July 5.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 4 to 7 higher on reports of more rain in the cotton belt over the holiday and complaints of boll weevil.

The advance carried July up to 5.84 and December to 6.12, but buying was supplied by realizing through commissions houses. There was also some selling here for foreign account, and prices eased a few points during the early trading. July at the end of the first half hour was around 5.74, with active months showing net losses of 3 to 6 points.

Liverpool cables were easier than expected, which may have accounted for some of the foreign selling here. Private cables and covering on the eastern ruling of sterling had been supplied by realizing, but reported an increased demand for cotton cloths from South America and Africa.

Grain Market

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Chicago, July 5.—(AP)—Radical curtailment of the volume of wheat dealings to the scantiest total witnessed in months went hand-in-hand today with lower prices.

The open interest in wheat, dwindling constantly since the imposition of 400 per cent increased taxes on future delivery transactions, was shown today by official figures to be down to 101,000,000 bushels, a minimum not registered heretofore since last fall. Almost 2,000,000 bushels decrease in the United States wheat visible supply total failed to act as a counterbalance.

Stock Market

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
New York, July 5.—(AP)—A pronounced slump in the stock market at the resumption of trading today was soon checked, and the list drifted wearily around the bottom levels of the June trading range.

Utilities, food and chemical stocks were again soft spots. The list turned extremely dull after the first half hour, but rallying tendencies failed to develop. Business news over the three-day suspension dealt largely with mid-year quiet, and failed to provide impetus.

LEAD OF EHRINGHAUS AND REYNOLDS STILL INCREASES

(Continued from Page One) a political holiday to recuperate from the most intensive political campaign staged in the state in recent years but undercover political gossip, speculation and activity hummed persistently.

The official declaration of the results of last Saturday's run-off Democratic primary will be made next Monday afternoon, Judge J. Crawford Biggs, chairman of the State Board of Elections has announced. Usually the result is announced on the Saturday after the primary but as yesterday was a holiday, when most county boards were supposed to canvass their results, the date was moved.

Reynolds' unprecedented victory, which he secured in defeating the veteran Senator Cameron Morrison of Charlotte for both the short and long terms in the United States Senate, caused more gossip than any race in years.

The margin between the two men today was more than 100,000 votes, representing the first victory of a wet candidate over a dry since North Carolina adopted prohibition in 1908.

Ehringhaus had 12,000 votes more than Lieut. Gov. R. T. Fountain of Rocky Mount in today's tabulations, with only about 100 scattered precincts in the state unreported, and is expected to be declared the gubernatorial nominee.

DRYS ISSUE NEW THREAT

(Continued from Page One) November, adding: "I am an anti-Smith Democrat and anti-Chicago platform. The 1932 plan of the Republican party pledges enforcement of the law and opposes nullification. The Democrats in adopting an outright repeal plank have assured the party of no support from the many organizations anxious to see the rightful continuance of the greatest social enactment made by any nation in any age."

Dr. Poling in this fashion summarized his reaction to the "resubmission" plank of Republicans and repeal proposal of Democrats.

"We are raising funds and organizing to help elect a Senate and House of Representatives pledged to enforce and not nullify the law, pledged to preserve the gains made under the Eighteenth Amendment; pledged to the Constitution of the United States and to representative government. We shall support Democrats and Republicans alike who subscribe to these principles."

E. G. FLANAGAN BACK HOME

Referring to the denunciation accorded Al Smith, veteran leader of New York, Mr. Flanagan said he could not be called "yellow" in any sense of the word. He declared Smith received decidedly the greatest demonstration of any man in the convention, and showed himself to be a great leader in spite of the criticism heaped upon him.

Smith did not jump on the Roosevelt band wagon because he did not wish to let his supporters down, the Pitt County man stated, because he realized that such action would not only do him harm, but would also bring disension to the Democratic ranks.

He expressed opinion that Smith would yet rally to the support of the Democratic party following conferences with delegations that supported him, and that his influence would boost the party's chances of victory in the November election.

Referring to Roosevelt's visit to the convention, Mr. Flanagan lauded the New Yorker for breaking the precedent of waiting for notification of his nomination sometimes after it actually occurred.

The address of the nominee was declared as timely and as having a tendency of healing any wounds which might exist in ranks of his party.

The State Democratic delegation was highly recommended for its vision and tenacity in the big issues of the convention, and belief was expressed that its activity would give North Carolina a more important place in the ranks of national Democracy.

GARNER PLANS REST IN TEXAS

Somewhat wearied by the long and hectic few months of this session of Congress, Garner is anxious to go home to rest. He is always refreshed by a stay in the invigorating climate. Fishing trips in a much-battered flivver, too, give him rest and relaxation.

Garner does not want to make many speeches. He feels that through the radio, candidates can reach more people on real issues. On the other hand, he contends that even on an extensive tour, without the aid of the radio, a candidate can hardly get his word to more than 200,000 persons.

Garner probably will make his headquarters in Washington during the latter part of the campaign, and will make at least one radio speech here.

ITALY MAKES DEBT DEMAND

Dino Grandi, Premier Mussolini's blackbearded young Foreign Minister, rocked the conference to its foundations last night by demanding on behalf of Italy complete cancellation of intra-European war debt as a condition to cancellation of reparations.

Signor Grandi's notice to his fellow conferees was served in a statement he gave to the press yesterday. The conference, meanwhile, was waiting hopefully for the return of Premier Edouard Herriot from Paris to go ahead with the compromise plan proposed by the five major powers to Germany last week.

"What are nations which have debts to meet going to do without reparations receipts from Germany?" Signor Grandi asked. In Italian circles it was intimated Premier Mussolini would insist on a settlement of this question before the conference adjourns.

With six of the smaller nations showing marked discontent with the five-power plan for a German bond of approximately $1,000,000,000 in lieu of immediate reparations payments, it became apparent today Italy might block any settlement until satisfaction was given on the questions she raised.

Today both Germany and France seemed no closer to compromise. Premier Herriot, summoned back from Paris, told Mr. MacEvoy that public opinion in France made it impossible for him to accept less than the billion dollar bond.

DECLARES WAR ON 'WETS'

(Continued from Page One) in five years. They were abandoned when the seats were destroyed by fire and were revived after considerable activity on the part of the Ministerial Association.

The singing during the initial service was under direction of John Clark, assisted by a choir composed of members from the various churches of the city, with Mrs. J. L. Fleming as pianist. The Scripture lesson was read by Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of Eighth Street Christian Church.

Speaking on the subject, "The Challenge of the King of Kings," and taking his text from the conversation of Jesus with Peter, in which Christ issued the immortal command, "Once again follow thou me," Mr. Fleischmann discussed the physical and spiritual angle of the challenge of the present day, and asserted that it was as great today as it ever had been before.

Jesus, he said, offered no reward for following Him, but those who accepted the challenge knew instinctively that hardships, persecution and probably death lay ahead of them in following the thorny pathway of the Master. Never since has there been such a challenge as that hurled at humanity by Jesus, the speaker asserted, and men must accept it if the world is to be saved from the snares of sin.

He stated that men had wrought wonders since the dawn of Christianity, but that greater heights of achievement await them at every turn of the road. The challenge to fight sin, which he described in its various devastating forms, is as clear and distinct today as it has ever been before, and he appealed to his hearers to take up the battle and do their bit to outwit the forces of the dark.

People are alive and alert to their own interests, Mr. Fleischmann stated, but slow about God's business. Anything preventing the acceptance of Christ's challenge is sin. He said acceptance purifies and cleanses from all sin, and appealed to his congregation to listen to the challenge and accept it.

Referring to the tendency to do away with prohibition as evidenced by action of major political organizations, the minister said he accepted the challenge and would give up the fight against this effort to destroy the progress made by civilization. He appealed to his hearers to be different from these drifting along with the tide of public sentiment and to stand out and battle boldly and courageously for those things working for the best interest of humanity.
