Great Britain To Cut Her Armaments Beyond Certain Limits

PARLIAMENT HEARS PAPER

Stanley Baldwin Says Government is Willing to Go a Long Way with Hoover's Reduction Proposal, But "There are Certain Limits Below which British Navy Cannot Be Cut."

London, July 7.—(AP)—Great Britain told the world today that he was ready to go a long way with Mr. Hoover on his proposal to cut armaments by one-third, but there were certain limits below which the number of units in the British navy could not be cut.

This message was contained in a white paper read by Acting Premier Stanley Baldwin in Parliament, in which it was stated that the British government desires to contribute all it can to effect practical application of the Hoover proposal.

Professing a desire to associate itself with Mr. Hoover's conceptions of the problem, the British government said it had already put into practice a standard of land disarmament which more than covers Mr. Hoover's aims.

As for air service, the white paper countered the Hoover proposal to eliminate bombing planes, with the proposal for complete prohibition of all bombing from the air, "say within the limits to be laid down as precisely as possible by an international commission," attacks upon civilian population would be entirely prohibited under the British idea.

"As regards the navy," Mr. Baldwin said, "it is not practicable for Great Britain to cut down the number of naval units below certain points, but if there is a limit to numerical reduction it is possible and highly desirable to secure by other means a large diminution in naval armament."

"The gun calibre at present is far too high and could be reduced by one-third in new capital ships and cruisers."

"The capital ships could then be reduced to 22,000 tons and 11-inch guns, and the cruisers from 10,000 tons with 8-inch guns, to 7,000 tons with 6.1-inch guns."

Submarines should be abolished, Mr. Baldwin said, but he declared that if that could not be accomplished their size should be reduced to 250 tons.

Denials Cloak Divorce Plan of Miss Talmadge

Nogales, Ariz., July 7.—(AP)—Retrations and denials today cloaked the plans, if any, of Norma Talmadge to get a Mexican divorce from Joseph Schenck, motion picture producer.

Francisco D. Aguilar, Mexican attorney and former chief justice of the State of Sonora, was the authority for the statement that the divorce action for her former movie star will be filed in Nogales, Sonora, across the border from here.

In Chicago, Miss Talmadge declared Aguilar's announcement was "absolutely untrue."

However, Aguilar reiterated that his associate, Vincent Riccardi, of Tucson, Ariz., had been employed by Miss Talmadge.

YOUTH FREED BY KIDNAPERS

Three Men Arrested at St. Paul for Attempt to Extort $10,000 from Bohn.

St. Paul, July 7.—(AP)—Tired and unshaven, but otherwise unharmed, Ashkel Bohn, St. Paul youth, was back home today, with a story of having been held captive by several men for nearly a week.

Whether any money had been paid for his release, as demanded in a note left at the home last Thursday when Bohn was seized by two men and thrown into an auto mobile, was not revealed. The writers had asked $35,000.

Three men who are alleged to have attempted to extort $10,000 from G. C. Bohn, young Bohn's father, were being held by police.

Bohn walked into a farm house at Medicine Lake, near Minneapolis, late last night, and said his captors had just freed him.

Questioned by police, Bohn said he was at the family garage a week ago today when the men seized him at the point of guns.

HOT WEATHER GRIPS NATION

Wednesday Declared Hottest Day of Summer by Local Observer of Weather.

The weather, usually fickle as an old maid at this season of the year set a new heat record in Greenville yesterday when the mercury staggered up to 98 degrees, it was revealed today by B. T. Clark, government weather observer here.

The heat wave reached its peak about 3 o'clock, Mr. Clark stated, and the temperature was relieved somewhat at that time by clouds which furnished very little rain.

However, the air was cooled considerably by rainfall last night and today cooling breezes swept across the parched countryside, carrying indescribable relief to those who sweltered under the record temperatures yesterday.

The highest point reached by the mercury Tuesday was 96, and while this was thought to have been some thing of a record for the season, the weather observer said the thermometer one day last week went as high as 97.

While the humidity yesterday sent hundreds of people to electric fans for comfort, it was believed the heat wave had not yet spent itself or reached the perihelion. In fact, several days last summer saw the mercury go slightly over the hundred mark, and it actually lingered around 99 and 100 for several days.

Launch Inquiry Into Rum Operations In The South

New Orleans, July 7.—(AP)—A wide inquiry into Southern liquor operations was launched today by Federal officers on the basis of information contained in papers found on the body of "Big Jim" Clark, New York gangster and rum runner who was shot down here yesterday.

Assistant Federal District Attorney Michael Culligan said records discovered in Clark's possession indicated a systematic use of bribes in high places for protection of a big rum syndicate.

Walker Tomplaine, who said he shot Clark through the heart in self-defense, has been arrested along with his brother, Nolan Tomplaine,

LONG OVERDUE FROM BERLIN

James Mattern and Bennett Griffin Had Fuel Enough to Carry Them Until Noon Today when They Left Berlin Yesterday for Russian Capital; Germany's Air Police Worried as no Word is Received from Men Attempting to Beat Post and Gatty's Record.

Moscow, July 7.—(AP)—James Mattern and Bennett Griffin, missing between Berlin and Moscow on their round-the-world flight were still unreported at noon EST today.

If they were still in the air at that time they had to come down wherever they were, for that was the time beyond which the fuel they took aboard at Berlin would be exhausted.

They had full tanks when they took off from Berlin at 3:00 p. m. EST yesterday. That was approximately 600 gallons, enough to keep them in the air 21 hours.

Officials at the flying field here sent inquiries to all points along the route from Berlin, but there was no word of the Americans.

There was a possibility that they had passed Moscow in the night without being seen and kept on toward Omsk, 1,800 miles to the east. Another supply of fuel awaited them there, and it was assumed that they knew the way.

But the airport at Kazan, three hours flying time east of Moscow, reported that the "Century of Progress" had not been sighted there.

Omsk, however, is without good communication facilities and if the fliers had landed there, word of their arrival might be delayed in reaching Moscow.

It was possible also that they might have been forced down between Berlin and here. The terrain in that vicinity is such as to make an emergency landing possible, but there too, communications are not of the best.

If they went straight to Omsk and maintained the speed of about 140 miles an hour which they averaged from Harbor Grace to Berlin, they would have reached the Siberian city sometime in the forenoon today.

At noon today their elapsed time from the takeoff at New York was 54 hours and 59 minutes. Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, who set the round-the-world mark which Mattern and Griffin are trying to lower, landed at Moscow 54 hours and 34 minutes elapsed time.

Financial Situation of Dead Millionaire Is Investigated by Attorneys.

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 7.—The Twin City Sentinel says today it learns from "high authorities" that Smith Reynolds and his bride, the former Libby Holman, Broadway revue star, were lying across a bed together when the heir to the Reynolds tobacco millions was fatally shot yesterday.

The Sentinel says this statement was made by investigating officers by Mrs. Reynolds before she collapsed upon learning of her young husband's death.

First reports had said Mrs. Reynolds was in a nearby bedroom at the time of the shooting.

Ab Walker a friend of Reynolds, who was spending the night in the house, said he was on the first floor closing windows when he heard a shot, followed by Mrs. Reynolds's scream.

He said he dashed upstairs to find (Continued on page three)

No Surprise Registered At Action Of Al Smith

Washington, July 7.—(AP)—Expressions of pleasure without even a note of surprise continued today in Democratic discussions of Alfred E. Smith's announcement that he will support the party ticket and one of their number met criticism of the reforestation program advanced by their presidential candidate with the statement that it is quite all right.

Meanwhile, the only formal emanation from the newly-opened Republican campaign headquarters in Chicago was an announcement by Everett Sanders, National Committee Chairman, that Secretary Ogden L. Mills of the Treasury would begin his party's drive in a speech at Boston on Monday.

Vice-President Curtis let it be known at Washington that he would be ready to stump the country again this year if the G. O. P. councils wanted him to.

Little public attention was given by Democrats to Smith's belief that "it is not practical, in our country, to start a third party at this time," although there were numerous private talks of what that might mean in the future.

Gambler's Throw

By EUSTACE L. ADAMS

SYNOPSIS: Jerry Calhoun tries to start his airplane engine under the machine gun fire of gangsters who are carrying away his wife. Nancy Stevens, a detective, holds the gang off. The gangsters have revolted from their leader, Ashwood, who has kidnapped Nancy. Emory has come with Jerry to rescue her.

Chapter 33 BEHIND THE BARRICADES A gust of flame belched crimson from the slowly revolving motor. "Ah, she'd make it! No, Chrum, in churning, every second dragging itself into an infinity of time. Stevens' gun still barked. Another bullet and another raked the cabin. Again a ball of flaming gas ballooned from the exhaust stack. Then the engine roared, backfired, missed and suddenly burst into full-throated, rhythmic life, causing the plane to vibrate in every inch of her fabric.

Stevens' figure appeared in the doorway. In the darkness over his shoulder, guns stabbed the night with their vicious points of scarlet. Jerry, trembling with eagerness to push forward on the throttle, turned back and fire a full clip of cartridges. Then carefully closing and latching the cabin door, the detective took his seat.

The great monoplane rolled forward over the hard-packed shell. Then she was free, an earth-borne monster no longer, but a joyous throbbing, bird-like thing hurtling through the air.

Stevens' steady forefinger pointed slightly to the left. Jerry banked over to follow a faint red line of exhaust fire. As he straightened out again, he glanced down and backward toward the house. From a row of windows on the east end of the low building tiny pinpoints of flame flickered from the guns of the besieged.

The exhaust flames of the amphibian were clearly visible now, and Jerry knew that he was gaining slowly but steadily upon the northward-speeding plane. Stevens held his beloved machine gun. He squinted ahead at the fleeing plane. "How long?" he inquired tersely. "I haven't any idea," confessed Jerry. "They don't know yet we're following them. When they see us they'll give her full throttle. We're fairly evenly matched in speed. Maybe fifteen minutes. Maybe two hours. Have to wait till we see how much speed they have."

"Ashie, old bean, it won't be long now!" Emory Battles' smoke-bearded face broke into a wide-mouthed grin as he rolled over on his side and looked at the man who shared the shelter of the up-ended living room table. "One would think, my dilettante friend, that you looked forward with pleasure to dying." His drawing voice had lost nothing of its mocking brilliance. He reached for a cigarette from Emory's case. "From where I lie," he puffed, "it looks as though we would be able to hold them off about thirty more minutes at the longest, and then only if we are able to continue keeping them from passing to the rear of the house and surrounding us."

"They may all have sunstroke within the next thirty minutes!" retorted the other, squinting cautiously over the top for a brief glance toward the hanger which, in the first faint pastel tints of the dawn, looked strangely peaceful in comparison with the wrecked living room behind him. A bullet snapped by and he dropped his head unceremoniously. "You picked out some pretty fair sharpshooters when you organized your mob, Ashie," he declared ruefully. "As ye sow, so shall ye—" pronounced a resonant voice from the center of the room.

"Please, please, Dr. Titherington!" interrupted the cripple. "Spare us, on a warm morning like this! If I hear just one more such quotation, I shall froth at the mouth and bite somebody!" Alfred sat up behind the overturned couch. The steward's face was ghastly pale. His left arm, roughly bandaged in torn sheeting, showed as absolutely no cost to the owner and is continuing to give the family all the pure water it desires. In spite of the town's efforts to keep down disease, the children, and particularly the one now sick with typhoid, were allowed to use water from an old open spring. How can the State Board of Health with its present limited funds hope to stop the ravages of typhoid if the citizens themselves fail to observe even the fundamental principles of sanitation? We must remember, "God helps those who help themselves."

Dr. Parrott closed his remarks by saying again, "I earnestly and firmly advise all people to be immunized against typhoid and consult their doctors and local health services concerning the proper sanitation of their water, milk, and food supplies. This is the first step in finding the answer to the question, 'How many people shall we allow to die from typhoid?'" The State Board of Health cannot answer this highly important question alone. We must have the cooperation of every citizen in the State of North Carolina. It is up to you to stop the Great Gatsby before it has exacted an unusual as well as its unnecessary toll of human plane take off after the amphibian. Something in the reckless surge of its engine had told him that Jerry was at the controls. Having seen Stevens run down the hall after Jerry, he assumed that the two were together in the plane. He knew that Nancy was not in the house. What had happened to her, he did not know. Nor did he know why Jerry had gone flying away in the night when his presence would have added so much to the strength of the besieged forces in the house.

It had not occurred to him to question Jerry's motives. Jerry's safety was the only thing that worried him.

But no, that reckless, screaming zoom of the monoplane had been with Jerry's hand on the stick. And once in the air, Jerry would be safe. If Von Richtofen's red-nosed circus hadn't been able to bring him down at St. Quentin, certainly he was in no danger now.

Emory, his eyes just over the clipped edge of the table, gazed steadily toward the hanger. Five men stood talking in the palm grove, just out of pistol range. He watched them, curious, he saw two of them pick up a machine gun and tripod and walk in a wide circle toward the easterly side of the house. Then, just within range, they mounted the gun and lay down in the sawgrass.

Jerry's plane comes within firing range of the gangster's hydroplane, tomorrow, but "It's no use killing the girl," Stevens says.

TOURISTS TO GIVE UP THE FRANCHISE

Asheville, N. C., July 7.—(AP)—Dan W. Hill, president of the Asheville Tourists, said today the club will forfeit its Piedmont League franchise following tonight's game with the Durham Bulls.

Hill said he had failed to obtain support for the club from local interests, and with the withdrawal of support by the Louisville club of the American Association, nothing remains to be done except forfeit the franchise.

Piedmont League directors met yesterday and gave Hill until noon today to muster enough financial support to keep the Tourists in the league for the remainder of the season.

Hill said players under contract to the Asheville club will become free agents following tonight's game, while those here under option from Louisville will be recalled by that club.

Passing of the High Point club, elimination of the High Point club, and beginning tomorrow the Piedmont is expected to take the field as a six-club affair.

Charlotte, N. C., July 7.—(AP)—The Piedmont League's chronic case of financial jaundice today had reached a crisis which was expected to produce a decisive trend toward recovery or a decision to amputate.

President Dan W. Hill had until noon to get financial backing for his Tourists or to throw in the sponge since the Louisville Colonels had disbanded the club and made it a candidate for the orphans' home.

After yesterday's meeting of league directors in Winston-Salem Dan had had nothing to say. He just went back home to look for help, and let Judge Bramham, league president, announce that something had to be done today.

If Asheville's baseball ship founders, High Point will be carried down in the suction, as the loop will become a six-club affair, with Charlotte, Winston-Salem, Greensboro, Durham, Raleigh and Wilmington seeking to carry on. Games already played with the two ailing members during the second half will remain in the records.

The directors' meeting steered safely away from the Sunday baseball argument which had been predicted, although it was announced Durham and Wilmington were discussing plans for a Sunday afternoon game soon just to see how it will turn out. Judge Bramham didn't express himself against the idea, but said games would not be allowed to interfere with religious worship.

ROOKIE RACE STANDS OUT IN MAJORS

By GAYLE TALBOT Associated Press Sports Writer

The present National League race might well be termed the "race of the rookies."

A group of young men who scarcely were known in the best circles a year ago have made President Heydler's follies what they are today and prospects are they will divide most of the honors when it's all over.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, leading the field by three and a half games today, could trace their success directly to the pitching of Steve Swetonic and Bill Swift, who between them had won 16 games, and to the fine play of Tony Plet and Floyd Vaughn.

The second place Chicago Cubs probably would be several notches further down but for the sensational hurling of Lonnie Warneke and the play of Bill Herman at second base. Huck Betts and Bobby Brown have by their consistently great pitching kept the Boston Braves at or close to the top ever since the race began.

Swetonic, who shares with Betts of the Braves the distinction of leading the National League's pitchers, scored his ninth victory yesterday by beating the Giants in the first half of a doubleheader, 4 to 2, on six hits. Larry French stopped the New Yorkers, 3 to 1, in the nightcap.

Warneke rang up his eleventh triumph, halting the Phillies 6 to 1.

1 and putting the Cubs back in second place, one percentage point above the Braves, who lost to St. Louis, 4 to 2. Bill Hallahan let the Braves down with five hits.

Cincinnati and Brooklyn battled all afternoon without getting anywhere. The Reds took the first game, 6 to 4, as Owen Carroll out-pitched four adversaries, but the Dodgers came back to win the second, 3 to 2, behind Freddy Heimach. Chick Hafey, who has been out of the Cincinnati lineup with illness for many weeks, appeared as a pinch hitter in the last inning of the nightcap but failed to connect safely.

Only one game survived an epidemic of rain in the American League. In that, the Boston Red Sox came from behind a 4-0 disadvantage at the end of the fourth to beat out St. Louis, 5 to 4.

The dining room was beautifully decorated with many summer flowers, and the table was very pretty with a lace cloth and sweet heart roses.

These present were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Carlton, Miss Margaret Barnes and Rev. Ben Williams of Colorado.

"AN INTERESTING DISPLAY" No doubt many have wondered about the origin of the wedding ring. Mr. R. Green, Jr., manager of the W. L. Best Jewelry store, has obtained some interesting facts in conjunction with the collection of antique wedding rings now on display in his windows.

According to all available information we owe the custom of symbolizing the marriage vows with a ring, to the dusky maidens of the Nile. Hieroglyphics have been unearthed which show the Egyptians carved a circle to represent eternity—a circle of course being without end.

Thus they signified true love and affection should flow between man and wife as in a circle—continuously and forever.

Some authorities maintain that Rebecca must have been the first bride to wear a wedding ring, as a passage from Genesis states Isaac sent her bracelets to be worn at their wedding.

The early Grecians believed in the existence of a direct connection, through a vein, between the heart and the third finger of the left hand, the ring finger.

Various traditions were handed down from hand to hand—generation to generation until we find in the early accounts of English history the custom of a gift of a ring from the groom to the bride, this ring being placed on the third finger of the left hand during the ceremony.

Gold, silver, iron steel brass or even leather are said to have been used in wedding rings. A story is told of a leather ring cut from the bride's glove being used. Another tells of the use by a duke of a brass curtain ring.

Up until the early part of the twentieth century a plain gold band was favored. This, however, was replaced by an engraved band—embellished with orange blossoms—as designed and sponsored by the Traub Manufacturing Company. A ring was essential no matter what its composition.

A WORD FOR THE SICK MR. GATLIN JONES

I know a family, so sweet and kind. Husband, wife and three children so fine. It's a home you'll be happy, if ever you go.

With such good Christians, you'll learn to know. On Sunday evenings they have prayer meetings. There we meet, such happy greetings.

God is there in every thought and prayer. When it comes to singing Mr. Gatlin will do his share.

He's sick and helpless in his bed. Bears his sufferings without a tear to shed. His hair is dark, his eyes are blue. He has a kind-hearted wife, loving and true.

She tends to him with the best of care. I guess his age is about thirty-five years. He is so happy, and likes to sing. Thinks he'll soon be well again.

When he was young he was kind and good. Go to church—he always would. His friends all loved him, he was honest and true. His friends are many and never few.

They come to see him, from far away. Glad to see him most any day. He greets them with a happy laugh. He's always happy and never sad.

God is taking care of him every day. That's why he's so happy in every way. He takes his sorrows to God in prayer. That's why he has no troubles to bear.

When he leaves this earth for a better land, God take him with you, in the angelic band. We feel he will have a stary crown. When up in heaven with Jesus he is found.

His family may God direct their path—May they reach that heavenly home at last. Gates, N. C. Ms. W. W. Buck

AN APPRECIATION OF JOHN L. WOOTEN (By F. M. Wooten)

John L. Wooten was a great humanitarian and community builder, gentle in every detail of life. In 1889 he came into Pitt and made his home in Greenville, establishing a small drug store and through this little business began his life here in service to humanity.

His was in the true sense a drug store to which people in every walk of life went for relief from sickness, from pain and often from mental distress. This writer clerked for him and knows that no demand on him for such service, based on actual need, was ever refused by John L. Wooten. In this capacity he served the people of Pitt county for more than twenty years with a service that was so gentle and sincere that it begot for him the gentle and affectionate term "Dr. Wooten." This out of gratitude for his services to humanity. By close attention to his business, energy and wisdom he saved a small sum of money, this being enlarged by property of his gentle, affectionate and loyal wife, Lillian Hooker Wooten. Long service in the drug business caused him to want and need a change, so he retired from it and was succeeded by his friend, Burney Warren.

Retired from the drug business, John L. Wooten in his own way became a community builder, and as such was successful far beyond the average man. At the end of his career he had constructed and owned approximately seventy homes and business houses in Greenville, occupied by people who were his friends. In addition to this Greenville property he operated and owned approximately fifteen hundred acres of farm land, occupied by humble people, dependent upon him and who loved him. His problems were his problems. No one was ever evicted from his property because of inability to pay rent. On the other hand, from time to time hundreds of families were housed by him without rent, but accepting his charity, gently given.

At the end of his career he was debtor to no man, perhaps with the exception of very small current items for expenses. Through all the boom and depression his wisdom prevailed over his transactions. Truly it may be said of him and his wife: "By their works ye shall know them."

The legislation to take the former service men away from Washington will be reported at once by Chairman Byrns to the House for action after disposition of the relief bill. The Senate has already passed a bill to authorize loans to the veterans for their return home.

The $100,000 would be spent to provide railroad transportation and subsistence at the rate of 75 cents a day for each honorably discharged war veteran camped here. Advances not repaid would be deducted from the face value of the bonus certificates.

It was understood that the principal points of the treaty are these: 1. A document recording what-

HIGH-COLLEGE OUTFIT BEATS GRIMESLAND

The largest crowd of fans that has attended a baseball game here in many a day saw Archie Roebuck, third baseman for the Water and Light Department, even the score between Grimesland and the local high-college team yesterday afternoon at the Third Street School grounds. The score stood 6-5 for Grimesland in the last of the eighth inning, when Roebuck was called to pinch-hit for Fred Forbes, Jr., and he did—just a two-bagger, and the tying runner crossed the plate.

The game started out ragged, with both teams playing listless ball; it seemed they just couldn't get-a-going. Grimesland put a man over in the first inning and so did the locals.

When the fourth inning came around the boys on both sides really started playing ball. Grimesland piled up a lead which looked good, and it seemed that the locals were destined to be the losers.

Domino Adroll, hefty Italian did the mound work for Grimesland, while Berry Dall was throwing 'em for Greenville. "Bud" Bullock was a busy little man on the receiving end for the locals, and it was a great extent due to his hard work that caused the local boys to finally chalk up the win. For instance, in one inning, with no one out, the bases loaded, he cut the boys off going and coming as they tried to advance and helped the pitcher out of a hole that would have meant at least three runs.

A debt agreement along the European nations. 4. A letter to Germany explaining the gentlemen's agreement.

It was learned today that a debts agreement between England and Italy and England and France which was reported yesterday provides that Italy and France will not be required to pay installments on their debts to England pending ratification of such agreements as may be reached here.

Acceptance of the agreement depends, of course, upon whether Chancellor Von Papen and Premier Herriot reach an accord on the points over which they have been bargaining since the beginning.

YOUTH FREED BY KIDNAPERS (Continued from Page One) woud tape over my eyes" said the youth whose father is a manufacturer here. "They drove for an hour and stopped at what apparently was a garage. After about three hours one man walked me for about 200 feet. He took me into a house and down some steps into a basement. I think"

He said he was kept there until an hour before his release. He thought there were four or five men in the gang. He was well fed and had plenty of cigarettes to smoke, but tpe was not taken from his eyes.

HOT WEATHER GRIPS NATION (Continued from Page One) eral days at the time. Craps were said to be suffering somewhat from the lack of moisture, but the situation has improved considerably as result of showers reported over the county the last few days, although Greenville has seen little precipitation. The shower last night was so light that little relief was afforded vegetation, yet clouds floating about through the heavens today held out hope of further rainfall in the near future.

PLAN RAISE FUND FOR POOL (Continued from Page One) adults, ladies during morning hours, 15c, and all adults during afternoon hours, 25 cents each. That the pool is proving a great delight to the children is evidenced by the fact that during the first week there eight hundred and seventy-six that paid their way to the pool in addition to approximately two hundred who received free swims in return for their work at the pool.

At this morning's meeting Mr. James S. Ficklen was re-elected president and general chairman of the association and D. J. Whichard, Jr., was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

The pool is under the direct management of C. W. Porter and Junior Rivers, both accredited life swimmers, to assure the safety of swimmers at all times.

Citizens interested in the welfare of the children of the city and in providing this form of recreation for them are urged to donate to the fund necessary to carry on this project. The first list of donors will be published in tomorrow's paper. While it is hoped that forty citizens will donate the necessary $5 each, no donation will be too small to be acceptable, and each and every citizen interested is urged to send in their donations to this paper immediately.

ROOSEVELT HAPPY AGAIN erased by the "happy warrior's" announcement late yesterday that he would support the party.

Jouett Shouse, Smith champion in pre-nomination days, whose candidacy for the convention chairmanship was crushed by the Roosevelt forces in the drive to victory, wired "Dear Frank" that he would do all he could to help the Roosevelt-Garner ticket. And late last night came word from Cleveland that Newton D. Baker, "dark horse" candidate at the convention was backing the governor.

Capitol Hill was pondering today whether the famous "Al" and "Frank" friendship would be patched-up now that the party battling is over. The former governor gave no hint as to that in New York, and Roosevelt said just thirteen words after reading the Smith announcement.

Governor Smith's statement confirms his confidence that he would support the Democratic party. "Tomorrow he will go to his Hyde Park home for a week-end of polit-

With the convention apparently ready to nominate the Idaho statesman, leaders last night talked with him by telephone and then issued the following statement:

"The Senator greatly appreciates the compliment which the convention confers upon him in its willingness to nominate him for the presidency. He advises, however, that the convention do not make such nomination as such a call should come, if at all, from a great untiring uprising of the people to be expressed at a subsequent convention representing the united moral forces of the nation."

The reference was to a meeting of the National Prohibition Board of Strategy and the National Conference of Organizations supporting the Eighteenth Amendment to be held at Washington next week. These include representatives of all the major dry organizations. Throughout the convention here there have been indications these groups would be interested in backing Borah for the presidency.

In addition, prohibition party leaders who have conferred with him have said that if such support is thrown behind him he would consent to make the campaign. Others close to Borah's repeated refusal to head a third party and his assertions that prohibition is not a promising basis for a successful third party.

The Sentinel says officers have been unable to question Mrs. Reynolds since her collapse.

R. J. Reynolds, brother of the dead youth, was located by his attorneys today cruising in a yacht off the east coast of Africa.

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 7.—(AP)—Despite the fact that Governor W. N. Dalton closed his investigation of the death of Smith Reynolds with a suicide verdict, Sheriff Transou Scott continued to probe the tragedy today while friends and attorneys sought to bring some order out of the young millionaire's financial situation.

Meanwhile, the wife of the 20-year-old heir to the R. J. Reynolds tobacco millions was prostrated, not even allowed to see members of the family, as attorneys sought to determine her relation to her husband's estate.

The former Libby Holman, of Broadway revue fame, she was at first reported as sharing in young Reynolds' inheritance, but only in his personal property, the value of which was not known.

The will of the late tobacco manufacturer, who died in 1918, was said to have provided only for incomes for his children, and his wife, who died later, was believed to have left a similar will. Under this plan the vast estate, sometimes estimated at $100,000,000 now, although valued at only about $10,000,000 when R. J. Reynolds died was not to be divided until his children were 28 years old. Provisions for income for their children was made, but not for their wives or husbands, attorneys said af-

TWO SLAIN IN BEER WARFARE

The killers escaped in an automobile, and the police were unable to obtain a good description of them from witnesses.

Fear was expressed by the authorities for a time that one of the witnesses, a waitress, might have been abducted by the gunmen as they fled. But later it was learned she ran away from the scene.

Trouble on the South Side, after a period of quiet, opened up again a few weeks ago when Charles O'Donnell, a brother of "Spike," was machine-gunned to death.

It was predicted then that this was only the beginning of further bloodshed, an dire prediction apparently came true, for it was only a few days later that Gus Paell was killed in a resort operated by opponents of the O'Donnell crowd.

The authorities theorized that last night's killing may have been in retaliation for Paell's demise.

The changes resulting from the canvass do not in any way effect the standing of any of the candidates, and the results will stand as given out in official returns Saturday night, except of course in the variation of figures.

The major part of the changes made by the election board was in the state ticket, and only one was found in the county ticket, that being in the race between Richard King and Gus Stokes where a difference of one vote was revealed in King's majority. The vote was recorded by the board was King 1,190, Stokes 1,091.

The vote in the contest for a seat in the House of Representatives between Jack Edwards and J. W. Holmes, of Farmville, remained as compiled in the unofficial returns Edwards' total was 3,424 and Holmes was 3,383.

Constable races in Ayden and Beaver Dam Townships resulted in victory for R. C. Davis in Ayden township and J. R. Hemby in Beaver Dam township. The vote for Davis was 384, Heber Surrill, 329; for Hemby 115, L. B. Allen, 84.

The total vote for U. S. Senate follows: Short term: Morrison 1,791, Reynolds, 4,838, long term Morrison, 1,761 Reynolds 4,754.

For Governor: Ehringhaus, 1,369, Fountain, 5,381.

For Commissioner of Labor: Mitchell, 2,086, Fletcher, 3,857.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, making when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red-label. Resist a substitute. 25c a bottle. © 1931 C. M. Co.

New York Cotton

New York, July 7.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 5-7 lower under realizing and commission house selling on more favorable weather prospects and the reported check in the Louisiana conference. July 6.00, October 6.16; December 6.20; January 6.33; Mar. 6.50; May 6.60.

The relatively steady showing of Liverpool brought in a little buying, but selling continued and the decline extended to 593 for July and 6.20 for September, making net losses of about 12 to 15 points by the end of the first half hour. Another private crop report was issued, estimating acreage at 38,297,000, a decrease of 7 per cent from last year's and placing condition at 73.7. These figures were without apparent effect on the early market which seemed to be chiefly influenced by the improved southern weather and uncertainty as to the outcome of the Louisiana conference. Liverpool cables reported covering and speculative buying in that market and said there was a fair home trade in cotton cloths with the demands for yarns improving.

Stock Market

New York, July 7.—(AP)—The stock market drifted idly today, as uncertainties over developments at Washington and Leusanne kept the traders on the fence.

In the main, the list was inclined to follow its recent pattern of declining in the first hour and hardening thereafter, but the movement was extremely narrow. An upturn in the B M T issues ended the morning. A midday slump in International Shoe was momentarily unsettling, but the market stiffened thereafter.

Early losses of a point or so in such issues as American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Eastman and Corn Products were regained. The American and Foreign Power common and preferred issues, and International Telephone advanced moderately. The Tobacco shares,

"Red" Hendrix in State Prison

Raleigh, N. C., July 7.—(AP)—A trial which began at a strike headquarters in Gastonia with the slaying of Police Chief O. P. Aderholt there in 1929, and which led through a Charlotte court trial to exile in Russia, has ended in State's Prison for K. Y. "Red" Hendrix, one of the seven alleged Communists convicted of murder for the slaying.

"Tipped off" that Hendrix had returned from Russia, where he, Fred Deal and others of the convicts were alleged to have taken refuge while free under bond pending a Supreme Court appeal which later failed, New York police nabbed the former strike leader and turned him over to North Carolina authorities, who brought him here to start serving a five-year term.

His was one of the lightest sentences meted out at the Charlotte trial, which attracted attention throughout the nation.

La Follette Candidate Again

Madison, Wis., July 7.—(AP)—Phillip L. La Follette will seek a second term as governor of Wisconsin. The young Progressive announced his candidacy last night in a statement which assailed conservative Republicans and the national government.

DO YOU INHALE?

"We've spilled the beans" in the smoker's interest

DO you inhale? "You've spilled the beans!" said the cigarette trade when first we asked this simple question—a question which long had been treated with silence that would "shame a Sphinx!"

Why? Wasn't the subject vital enough to pursue? Or, was there a hidden reason for the general avoidance of the question by others?

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has chosen to raise this question . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? Of course you do—and so, in the smoker's interest, Luckies have not feared to "spill the beans."
