PRES. HOOVER VETOES MEASURE FOR RELIEF OF UNEMPLOYMENT

NEW MEASURE IN CONGRESS

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Carrying out his threat, President Hoover today vetoed the $2,122,000,000 Wagner-Garner relief measure.

The President's veto message running more than 2,000 words in length was placed in the hands of newspapermen at the White House within 15 minutes after the measure reached the chief executive.

In it the President touched another bitter attack against the provisions insisted upon by Speaker Garner to make loans to individuals.

"This proposal," the President asserted, "violates every sound principle of public finance and of government. Never before has so dangerous a suggestion been seriously made to our country. Never before has so much power for evil been placed at the unlimited discretion of seven individuals."

Having in mind the wish for early adjournment, the President in his message recommended "that a compromise should be reached upon terms suggested by members of both houses and both parties, and that Congress should not adjourn until this is accomplished."

International Bank Asks Return Of Gold Standard

Bazel, Switzerland, July 11.—(AP)—Directors of the Bank for International Settlements today adopted unanimously a resolution calling for a return to the Gold Standard as the "best available monetary mechanism and best suited to make possible a free flow of the world's trade."

The action was regarded as highly important, particularly as it followed so closely upon adoption of the Treaty of Lausanne.

Also it was the first public intimation of the stand of the Bank (Continued on Page Four)

Film Insurgent

Revolt again has struck the ranks of film stars. This time Ann Dvorak, who rose rapidly to stardom, broke with her studio because of a salary dispute.

NEW CHAIRMAN CAUSES WORRY

Raleigh, July 11.—(AP)—The question of who will be the next chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee today continued to trouble party leaders and those interested in North Carolina politics.

PLAN TO TRY FLIGHT AGAIN

Mccomb, July 11.—(AP)—James Mattern and Bennett Griffin, world fliers who were forced down at Borisov, Russia, last Thursday, plan another try perhaps later this summer.

The two fliers, grim, weary and disappointed, stepped off the train yesterday on which they came from Borisov, shook hands with a few American who had gathered at the station to welcome them and dashed (Continued on Page Three)

RAZOR BLADE KING IS DEAD

Los Angeles, July 11.—(AP)—King C. Gillette, who amassed a fortune by inventing a razor blade cheap enough to allow it to be discarded once it became dull, died with his greatest ambition—a plan to incorporate the world as a business corporation as a cure for economic ills—unrealized.

The 77-year-old inventor, in failing health for the past two years, died late Saturday night at his Calabasas ranch home, but almost to the end of his life, he had maintained an active interest in social problems.

Mr. Gillette first outlined his "world corporation" in 1910, a plan to incorporate the world as a business concern with the late Theodore Roosevelt as president at a salary of $250,000 annually. The purpose of the corporation would be to do away with political government, war, poverty and waste resulting from individual competition.

PITT BUDGET CONSIDERED

Members of the Board of County Commissioners here today with a tentative budget for the new year.

The board was to have met to consider the question last Monday but the meeting was postponed until today in view of the fact that the first Monday fell on the Fourth of July, and members of the board like other county officials wanted to do a little celebrating in honor of their independence and deferred their meeting to do so.

Although details of the budget had not been made public, it was known that it provided for a substantial reduction of expenses for the new year to meet the economic situation affecting all parts of the county.

Budgets for the last several years have been hewn down in keeping with conditions, and that last year probably eclipsed all other years. The tax rate last year was reduced over forty cents in keeping with action by the legislature of taking over operation of the six months school term and cutting land taxes to fifteen cents. Supreme Court Clerk Is Dead

Raleigh, July 11.—(AP)—Frank Nash, clerk of the State Supreme court, former assistant state attorney general and recognized by his associates to have perhaps as profound a knowledge of North Carolina law as any man in the state, is dead.

In declining health for several months, he died yesterday morning at his home here. He was 77 years old.

Mr. Nash was a native of Robeson county, but had lived in Turbott and Hillsboro and had served as mayor in each county.

Surviving are his second wife, the former Ann Spottswood Strudwick of Hillsboro, and two children by a former marriage, Mrs. C. J. McIver, of Greensboro, and Miss Sue Nash, of Salisbury.

Presidential Aspirant

Col. Frank E. Webb, former presidential nominee of the farmer-labor party, was nominated for president by the liberty party at its convention in Kansas City.

LARGE CROWD AT SERVICES

Rev. E. L. Hillman Speaks at Union Services on Court House Lawn.

Increased attendance marked the second of the series of Sunday evening union services of the various city churches on the court-house lawn Sunday evening and as a result an order was placed today for additional seats to take care of the crowds expected to attend the remainder of the services during this month and August.

The sermon was delivered by Rev. E. L. Hillman, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church and Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian church, presided.

The service was featured by inspirational singing under direction of John Clark, assisted by a choir composed of leading sinners from the city churches. Congregational singing is always one of the outstanding parts of these services and those attending last night received great spiritual uplift from the singing of familiar hymns as well as from the sermon.

Mr. Hillman also spoke at the prison camp yesterday afternoon and this service was accentuated by the singing of several selections by a double negro quartet. The speaker at the union service each Sunday is required to speak at the prison camp in the afternoon, under plans arranged by the Ministerial Association prior to the beginning of the union service campaign.

Mr. Hillman last night spoke on the subject: "Watchers for the Morning." His text was taken from the sixth verse of the hundred and thirtieth Psalm, "My soul is toward the Lord more than they that watch for the morning."

The speaker said interpretation of the Psalm revealed four things; namely, they cry from out of the depths; dark fear that settled on the singer's soul; hope that had come as result of God's forgiveness; the invitation of the psalmist for all to share in this forgiveness.

He said the psalmist designated all those who follow the Lord as "watchers for the morning." (Continued on Page Three)

DISCOVER NEW INFORMATION AT REYNOLDA

Five Persons Instead of Four were at Reynolds Home During Fatal Shooting.

Winston-Salem, July 11.—(AP)—With reporters present for the first time, the inquest into the fatal shooting of Smith Reynolds, tobacco heir, was resumed this afternoon.

The coroner's jury assembled in the library of Reynolda, the palatial home erected by the late R. J. Reynolds, tobacco magnate, whose youngest son and heir died Wednesday morning four hours after a pistol bullet ploughed through his brain.

WET PLANK DRAWS FIRE

Methodist Temperance Board Takes Crack at Democratic Stand on Prohibition

Lake Junaluska, July 11.—(AP)—The Democratic party's plank for repeal of the 18th amendment has drawn the fire of the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and of Bishop James Cannon, who was the mainspring of the anti-Smith movement which swept part of the solid south into the Republican fold.

Denouncing it, the board's annual report prepared at its meeting here asserts any attempt by any party platform declaration to bind the members of that moral on a moral issue is a distinct invasion of the moral realm and is therefore, not only an indefensible infringement (Continued on Page Three)

STATE MUST CUT EXPENSES

Frank Stedman Sees Necessity of $7,000,000 Reduction During Year 1932-33.

Raleigh, July 11.—(AP)—A warning that North Carolina must curtail the cost of its state government by $7,000,000 in 1932-33 has come from John U. Stedman, state treasurer.

His diagnosis of the state's financial situation was made public in the form of a letter written to Gov. O. Max Gardner.

It suggested a curtailment of 25 per cent in highway fund expenditures for this fiscal year, a cut of 20 per cent in public school allotments and a curtailment of 10 per cent in general fund expenditures. The general fund has already been cut about 22 per cent.

"Unless we take immediate action we shall be very much embarrassed and will probably have to suspend payment of salaries and (Continued on Page Three)

PLAN TO HALT ACTION FAILS

Sentence Follows A Heated Argument on Points Which had Already been settled by the Court; Counsel for Curtis Causes Surprise When He Shouts that "Client Never had Contact with Kidnapers"; the Jury Urges Mercy.

Flemington, N. J., July 11.—(AP)—John Hughes Curtis, convicted of hindering capture of the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby, was sentenced today to one year in jail and a fine of $1,000.

The maximum possible sentence which could have been imposed under the indictment on which Curtis was found guilty was three years imprisonment and $1,000 fine.

The sentencing followed a fervent attempt on the part of the defense to halt action against Curtis before sentence was imposed.

Defense counsel moved for arrest of judgment on the same grounds that three separate attempts were made during the trial to halt the action before it reached the jury.

After a heated argument, during which counsel shouted back and forth, Judge Adam O. Robbins ruled that these points already had been passed on and denied the motion.

Lloyd C. Fisher, chief counsel for Curtis, shouted that Curtis had never had any contact with the kidnapers.

"He was just a man with wild dreams about boats and things," he said.

This statement came as a surprise because the defense staff during the trial seemed to be that Curtis had been in touch with the real kidnapers and had done everything possible to help obtain the return of the baby.

Curtis was arrested after he signed a confession that all his negotiations were a hoax, but later he repudiated this confession, and when the trial opened, the state accepted the repudiation and based its charges on the allegation that Curtis had been in touch with the kidnapers and then had prevented their capture by the box confession.

In arguing for arrest of judgment, Fisher said that Curtis had been made the "goat" because he was "honest enough to come within the state's jurisdiction."

"Prejudice is the only reason John Hughes Curtis sits there convicted," he said. "We plead for mercy. The jury urged mercy. Only John Hughes Curtis, the goat, is tried. Thousands of clues and letters were received, but none were charged with obstructing justice. He is charged because he was honest enough to come within the state's jurisdiction."

After the motion for arrest of judgment was denied, Prosecutor Anthony Hauck recommended, in view of the jury's plea for mercy, that Curtis be sentenced to two years in state prison and a fine of $1,000.

Fisher also said that one of the jurors, after the verdict was handed down, said that he did not believe Curtis guilty, but that a new trial would have cost the state $10,000. This was the juror who through several ballots held out for acquittal, but who finally agreed to join the other members of the jury in a verdict of conviction on the stipulation that a recommendation for clemency be included.

As soon as sentence was imposed today Curtis was called to the bar, where he faced Judge Adam O. Robbins without apparent nervousness.

SEES MOVE TO BLOCK PROBE

McFadden Charges Administration with Effort to Prevent the Treasury Inquiry.

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—A treasury spokesman told a committee today his department would cooperate if the House decided on an investigation of government fiscal agencies, but indicated strongly he felt the inquiry would be a waste of time and money.

Undersecretary Ballantine made this statement before the House rules committee which has a resolution pending for an investigation of the Treasury and Federal Reserve board.

A little while before, Representative McFadden (R., Pa.), had charged the administration was trying to block the inquiry.

"My appeal is on behalf of the public interest and not political benefit," said McFadden, sponsor of investigating resolutions that last week gained the support of Speaker Garner.

McFadden caused a furore near the beginning of last session by asserting that President Hoover had "sold out" to international bankers.

Taking the witness chair shortly afterwards, Under Secretary Ballantine told the committee that the Treasury "makes no objection whatever to a congressional investigation of the administration of the tax laws."

The rules committee had before it the O'Connor resolution, approved by Garner, calling for an inquiry into the government's fiscal affairs.

"If the Speaker in his new role determines upon an investigation at this time," he said, "the Treasury stands ready to cooperate, even though this action does not seem particularly in line with the purpose of eliminating commissions and investigations."

SMITH AGAIN FACES COURT

North Carolinian On Trial in Virginia for the Slaying of Deputy Sheriff.

Danville, Va., July 11.—(AP)—The Commonwealth today began its third attempt to convict Garland Smith, 24-year-old North Carolinian for the murder of Bernard Puryear, a Mecklenburg county deputy sheriff who was shot to death from ambush after a prohibition raid December 25, 1932.

Having twice sought to convict him on charges of first degree murder in Mecklenburg Circuit court, over the protest of Judge Gordon Ambler, Richmond volunteer defense attorney, that the county court was prejudiced, the state moved the prosecution to Danville, Corporation court before Judge Henry C. Leigh.

Selection of a jury began at 10:30 today.

Young Smith was snatched from the electric chair less than a week before his execution date in June 1930, after being convicted of the Puryear murder in a hurried trial in February of that year.

With a reprieve from Governor Pollard, Judge Ambler carried the case to the Supreme court which reversed the lower court and remanded the case for another trial. Last June a Greensville county jury convicted Smith and the court sentenced him to serve twenty years. This time the state confessed error and Judge Ambler was successful in his petition for a change in venue.

SNIPER GIVES UP ON MURDER CHARGE

Marshall, N. C., July 11.—(AP)—After three days of eluding officers who were hunting him in the Great Smoky mountains, Lola Franklin, crippled mountaineer who was sought on a charge of killing "Son" Landers, surrendered voluntarily to officers.

He was held in the county jail today, Landers was shot from ambush Thursday as he quarreled with Logan Franklin, father of Lola. A cane belonging to Lola was found at the spot from which the shot was fired.

The prisoner refused to make any statement.

New Groups Making Bids For Votes In November

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Almost numberless "third parties" again beckon to the dissenters from orthodox tickets and platforms.

To millions of voters, of course, November offers just a choice between Hoover and Roosevelt, but there remain the aspiring organizers of new groups with their wide assortment of ideas and candidates.

Backers of at least three of these minority movements hope they can play a role comparable to Theodore Roosevelt's "Bull Moose" party of 1912 or to Bob LaFollette's Progressive Parties of 1924.

They are:

The Prohibition Party, representing one wing of the country's dry sentiment; the Liberty Party, grouping the more radical independents of the central and western agricultural zone; and the league for independent political action, based largely on the strength of political reformers in the east.

The Democratic and Republican conventions took the headlines and national attention, but before, during and after the major party activity, these three and others met to prepare for the November battle.

First of the minority groups in national attention up to now has been the Prohibition party. This (Continued on Page Four)

ABOUT TOWN

If the government has been instrumental in causing foreign powers to believe the United States approves reduction of war debts, Senator McKellar wants to know about it, and more than that he would have Congress look into the matter.

This was the gist of a resolution introduced in Congress the latter part of last week, and if approved, President Hoover will be required to do a little explaining, and especially in view of the fact that this nation is supposed to be against debt reduction.

This nation has paid enough into the coffers of foreign countries since the end of the World war, and it should not be expected to totally cancel reparations payments in view of the severe economic situation confronting the world at this time.

Europe quite naturally favors the plan to slice war debts, but they can very well afford to do so when America was one of the largest contributors to the financial prosecution of the war.

This is a situation demanding the attention of Congress, and if some high official has led other nations to believe America favors the debt plan, they should be taken to task for it.

Contributions to the Westbrook swimming pool had one good day last week but fell off entirely Friday and Saturday.

People who have not contributed to this worthy fund are urged to do so at once and in that way do their bit toward throwing a safeguard around young men and women while enjoying this form of diversion. The pool is in its second year of operation under direction of the Recreation Association and it is hoped to continue for many years providing sufficient finance is made available.

The value of a place of diversion of this kind cannot be estimated from the standpoint of dollars and cents. It reduces loss of life usually taking place in rivers and other such places in addition to insuring the health of the swimmers.

Peace has come to the state at last in action of R. T. Fountain congratulating J. C. B. Ehringhaus upon his victory in the recent campaign for governor. The Rocky Mount man promised to do what he could for success of the party and certainly his influence should count for much in the presidential campaign to which the state is now looking.

In harmony which has existed among Democrats in any section of the country must be dissipated between now and the November election so the people can go to the polls and vote solidly for their nominees.

In the opinion of leaders, the Democrats stand better chance of coming out victorious than in many past years but it is going to require concerted action to accomplish this.

Any bitterness which might have arisen in the last campaign in this state should be forgotten as everybody joins together to put the state back into Democratic columns as solidly as she was before.

Vacationists should not forget home merchants when they start away this summer.

This is the season of the year when scores of persons hike away to seashores and mountains to take a brief respite from the heat, but before they go they should inspect the stock of home merchants and obtain as many of their needs as possible.

The money left at home will enable the merchants to lay in better stocks for the fall and winter season. Money spent elsewhere goes to the upbuilding of other places, and certainly home folks should be given the first consideration.

Greenville is the leading shopping center of this part of the state and certainly the stocks must compare favorably with the best

Gambler's Throw

By EUSTACE L. ADAMS

SYNOPSIS: Ashwood, unusual gang leader, Emory, and the men Ashwood holds prisoners have been defending his house from his gang. Now turned against him, Emory's friend, Jerry Calhoun, has chased by plane gangsters who captured his wife and has rescued her. Jerry's return could save the besieged men from the gang's attacks.

Chapter 36 THREE SHOTS LEFT. "Listen, you little fighting cock," Emory said, hitching himself closer to the other. "There's only one thing that'll keep me from kicking off with a smile on my face."

"And that is?" invited Ashwood, quietly. "I'm so curious about you that I'm itching all over. Since we'll probably both be bounced off in the next twenty minutes, won't you tell me what turned you from a good drinking partner, as you were back in London, to a hard-boiled egg such as you are now?"

The cripple glanced over the table top, then turned his vivid blue eyes toward Emory. "I owe you something," he acknowledged slowly, "so I suppose I may as well tell you. Forgive me if I spare the details. I'm an American. Enlisted in the Royal Flying Corps in Canada. Sometime before I ran across you in London, I met a girl who drove an ambulance for the Overseas Club. Saw quite a bit of her. Two nights after that evening of ours which ended in the fight with the military police, she stole some important papers from the pocket of my tunic."

"Some days after she took the papers, a British push was smashed to bits by the Germans. My fault, you see. On that same day, a German Fokker croaked me over the lines. Our men hoisted the engine off my leg and took me to the hospital. But that didn't prevent them from cashing me for other things—things I hadn't done. I felt so low that I guess I didn't put up a decent defense. Spent a year in the Tower of London, expecting to be shot any day. Six months after the armistice I was pardoned. My friends had forgotten me, but had remembered to drop my name from my clubs."

"I drifted about like a pariah. Needed excitement. Had no respect for justice, hence none for the law that administered it. War taught me the real value of human life, which is less than nothing. Turned to crime for excitement and to keep me off the Thames embankment. Played the 'Lone Wolf' racket for a while. Came back to America."

He turned abruptly and fired three shots as fast as he could pull the trigger. Emory, getting into action, saw two men stumble and fall.

The battle became general, but to Emory it was a matter of himself, alone, against half a dozen. He was conscious that the fighting was sweeping toward and around the house like a prairie fire. That was incidental. The only matter of importance was his own individual effort to keep that little group of men from reaching the porch.

The leader charged desperately, zigzagging as he galloped ahead of his comrades. Emory wished to stand up and shoot it out with him but from the shelter of the palms the machine-gun sprayed his window with bullets. It was almost suicidal even to raise his head for a quick pot shot.

A dozen more steps and that charging with the contorted face and staring eyes would be able to dodge behind the overhanging ledge of the porch. New! Emory's gun smacked against the palm of his hand. The fellow crashed full against the porch.

Emory heard Malloy cursing in a monotone, on and on, endlessly flatly, interrupted only by the heavy bark of his automatic. Ashwood was silent, his mouth set in a twisted grin, firing slowly, carefully, wasting not a single shot.

Running men were falling in the sand, some to get up and resume the charge, others to drag themselves away. The two machine-guns hammered relentlessly, monotonously. Their whining bullets irritated Emory like persistent mosquitoes on a hot, sleepless night. It would be, he thought, those two machine-guns that would eventually turn the tide of battle against the defenders. Their slugs splattered through the thin sides of the house. Only the heavy barricade stopped them.

He glanced again at Ashwood. The cripple grinned, pointed at his automatic, then to a scattering of empty shells and held up three fingers. Three shots left. Emory had lost count of his own. He only remembered that he had used most of his last clip. Suddenly his ears became attuned to a new note in the battle. He had been hearing it for some time, but it had not penetrated into his consciousness. That throbbing, vibrant beat—an airplane engine, of course—he listened again, the monoplane. No in the larger towns or the city could not hold this enviable reputation for long.

"If you'll excuse me," said Emory, rising. "I'm going to find a desk and write a letter." "I'll ease out and see if the boys have cleaned up properly," decided the cripple. "Want to come along, you two?" He looked at Malloy and Martin so meaningfully that they started guiltily from their chairs and followed him precipitately. Then, suddenly, Malloy returned. "Here," he said to Nancy, "give these to the minister. Don't let him thank us."

"Look at these," he murmured and passed them to Jerry. "They were two checks for $25,000 each, drawn simply to the order of 'Dr. Titherington's church.' One was signed by Malloy, the other by Martin."

"The fight last night seems to have restored Malloy to something like normal," observed Jerry. "If it has done as much for Hamilton, we'll have a lot to be thankful for."

"The minister has finally agreed," said Nancy, "that if Hamilton makes up in his right mind, nobody is to tell him about Williams and the guard. Their deaths will be explained as part of the general fight last night."

Jerry fell silent, his thoughts wandering. In another few hours they would be on their way back to civilization. In another week, perhaps, this glorious girl would be back on Broadway, charming the hearts of audiences.

"And now, young man, you are going to help me with the dishes," she informed him, her eyes sparkling at his moody countenance.

Jerry carried a pile of dishes into the kitchen. "How dare you put them into the water without scraping them! It's going to take me some time to train you, but I'll do it, yet!"

He grasped her roughly by both shoulders. "What did you men by that?" he demanded.

"You men are so awkward," she parried, not meeting his eyes. "Now you listen," said Jerry. "Isn't this whole business hard enough on me without your joking about it? You know I love you, so why try to plague me with it? You know that I worship you, your marvelous eyes, your saucy little nose, your kissable lips, and my God—you laugh at me!"

A soft, slender hand crept up to his mouth and pressed hard against it with surprising strength. "Jerry, you're so dumb!"

He spluttered and shook his head, trying to speak. "Are you really," she asked softly, her clear eyes meeting his at last, "going to cast me off and divorce me?"

He stared incredulously at her, unable, not daring to believe his ears.

"You're a beast!" Her voice shook a little. "Married two whole days and you haven't kissed me once!"

He reached for her hungrily and if his hard-muscled arms all but broke her back, she made no complaint. But, of course, she couldn't. Her lips were sealed.

At length, it may have been five minutes later or an hour, Nancy Wentworth Calhoun pushed her husband away and straightened her hair.

"One more kiss!" "Not until you return with another load of dishes." He grumbled, but hastened into the dining room.

Just as he was scooping up an armful of plates and cups his eye fell upon a large square envelope. Upon its face was his own name in large, scrawling letters. Anxious to return to Nancy, he grabbed

LARGE CROWD SEES SUNDAY GAME IN N. C.

Charlotte, July 11—(AP)—Whether or not it was partly because there was no fixed admission for the trial game, there is no longer any doubt that Sunday baseball will draw out the fans in North Carolina.

The Bulls and the Raleigh Caps tried it at Durham yesterday and there was such an outpouring of the faithful and all their relatives that El Toro Park's seats were all filled and additional hundreds were standing. Officials estimated 8,000 attended the game.

What the "gate receipts" amounted to was not disclosed, but club officials said few passed by the boxes placed at the entrances for "contributions" without dropping in something.

Raleigh won the game, coming two Durham pitchers, Walsh and Hahn for 17 hits. The score was 9-6. Willingham, Bull centerfielder, lashed out a homer with one man aboard for the game's feature.

There was only one fly in the moguls ointment. During the game Chief of Police Proctor went to George Whitted and Eddie Winston, presidents of the Durham and Raleigh clubs, respectively, and told them to appear in court this morning to answer a charge of violating North Carolina's Sabbath blue laws.

A'S CAPTURE RECORD GAME FROM INDIANS

By GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer) The Philadelphia Athletics were only six games out of first place in the American League today, having written into the record one of the most spectacular long-distance victories in baseball history.

Eighteen ninnies they traveled yesterday to beat out the Cleveland Indians 18-17, and it was a game the likes of which won't be seen once in a blue moon. It was won and lost a half-dozen times before Jimmie Fox finally scored the deciding run.

To give some idea, Johnny Burnett of the Indians collected nine hits in eleven times at bat, and his teammates, Averill and Morgan each cracked five. Fox, with six hits, including three home runs, knocked in eight runs for the A's. Simmons had five. There were 58 hits.

The veteran Ed Rommel went the last 17 innings for the Athletics and in the end gained the nod over young Wes Ferrell, who was firing them over the last 11 and a fraction frames for the Indians. But for the fact that Ed Morgan, Cleveland first baseman, let an easy roller trickle through his legs after two were out in the ninth, Cleveland would have won then and there.

What made the victory doubly sweet to the A's was the fact that the Yankees were being taken over the jumps twice by St. Louis 10-9 and 8-7.

Detroit divided a pair with the Red Sox, winning the first 7-5 and dropping the second 13-2. Big Smead Jolley of the Sox pounded seven hits during the afternoon to move into third place among the American League's batters.

While Alvin Crowder belted steady ball, Washington pitched three White Sox flippers for 19 hits and a 13-3 victory.

The Pirates made a flying raid into the east and picked up an 8-7 win over Brooklyn when Hack Wilson left a drive get away from him in tenth ninth. Chicago's dazzling sophomore, Lonnie Warneke, shut the Braves out 4-0 on six hits for his twelfth success of the year.

The Cincinnati Reds, receiving two well pitched games, didn't do so being but belabor the Giants twice 6-4 and 4-2. The Reds, with eight victories in ten games, were out of the basement today, leaving eighth place to the New Yorkers.

Bill Hallahan and Dizzy Dean hurried the Cardinals to a double win over the Phillies 7-8 and 3-1.

NEW TROUBLE FOR HUTTON

Choir Singer Injured in Fall as Church Seeks to Obtain His Dismissal.

Lake Elsinore, Calif., July 11.—(AP)—David Hutton, choir singer, was vexed today with many troubles.

A jury decided Myrtle Joan St. Pierre, attractive, twice-married nurse was entitled to $5,000 in her $200,000 breach of promise suit against the husband of Almee Semple McPherson...

"Let them try to oust me," Hutton told reporters. "My wife is the head of that temple, but, of course, she ought to handle anything like that if it comes up."

"I certainly am going to stand by my husband."

The fact that all was not harmony in Angelus Temple came to light during the "concluding days of the trial of Miss St. Pierre"

"We are from Angelus Temple," Miss St. Pierre, and we give these flowers to you with our best wishes because we believe your story and not Dave's."

Hutton said he had heard talk against him in the temple.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady in response to lower Liverpool cables and owing to favorable weather over the week-end.

Initial offerings were absorbed by covering and trade buying, but after some irregularly prices eased further under continued liquidation combined with some Liverpool, local and New Orleans selling. October dipped to 5.81 and December to 5.94, with active months showing net losses of about 9 to 12 points at the end of the first half hour. Liverpool cables attributed the relatively easy showing of that market to hedging and general liquidation on better weather reports and said the tone of Manchester goods market was unsettled with buyers cautious.

Grain Market

Chicago, July 11.—(AP)—With most traders awaiting the government crop report from Washington, and with dealings the smallest in some time, wheat prices today tended generally downward.

Price declines were in the face of a reduction of 110,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply, compared with 3,660,000 bushels increase a year ago. Favorable weather for spring wheat northwest and almost complete absence of export demand for wheat from North America gave an advantage to bears.

Stock Market

New York, July 11.—(AP)—The stock market began the new week by following its familiar patterns of sagging under scattered selling in the morning, then finding a little strength as the session advanced. Early selling was concentrated against such recent safe spots as American Telephone and Coca Cola and carried a handful of issues off 1 to 2 points.

But short covering in Auburn and some of the rails eventually turned the tables, declines were largely reversed, and a substantial assortment of issues climbed 1 to 2 points or more above Saturday's final levels. Auburn was hurried up more than 6 points.

The packing stocks continued to advance in sympathy with hog prices, gains of a point or so appearing in Cudahy, Armour of Illinois preferred, and Wilson A, while Wilson preferred gained 3. Miscellaneous issues up a point or two included American Tobacco and Liggett and Myers Class B shares, Santa Fe, Norfolk and Western, Union Pacific, Woolworth, Sears, National Biscuit, Procter and Gamble, B-M-T, Detroit Edison, Peoples Gas, Air Reduction and McKeesport.

Gains of substantial fractions appeared in U. S. Steel, American Can, Standard of N. J., Consolidated Gas and others. American Telephone declined 1 1/2 to 70 1/4, a new low, before it met support, and Coca Cola got down 2 points. Allied Chemical, Case and North American sold a point lower, temporarily.

Financial quarters were manifestly encouraged by Washington advices indicating that a quick compromise on the relief measure would follow the veto of the Garner bill, and that Congress might adjourn by the end of the week.

DISCOVER NEW INFORMATION AT REYNOLDS ESTATE

Libby Holman Reynolds, Broadway favorite and young Reynolds' bride of a few months, was scheduled to be re-examined this afternoon.

She has been under guard as a material witness since Saturday.

Ab Walker, a chum of the slain young man, was brought to the estate from the county jail, where he was locked up as a material witness Friday night.

Assistant Solicitor J. Eric McMichael warned no photographer would be allowed at the inquest. The public was not allowed and press representatives were limited in number.

Winston-Salem, July 11.—(AP)—The Twin City Sentinel today says it learns of good authority that the number of persons in Smith Reynolds' home at the time the young heir to tobacco millions was fatally shot last Wednesday was five instead of four.

Previously it was reported only four people were under the roof of the mansion but the paper says Mrs. William Vaught, whose husband accidentally burned to death in Greensboro a few months ago, also spent the night there.

The Sentinel says, however, that she apparently knew nothing of the tragedy until she awakened at 6 a. m., five hours after the shooting.

The paper says also that Blanche Yurka, New York actress and friend of Libby Holman Reynolds—Reynolds' bride of only a few months—gave testimony at a coroner's inquest Saturday to substantiate the claim of Albert Walker that he was on the first floor when the 20-year-old Reynolds heir fell fatally wounded with a pistol shot in the head.

Walker was said by jail attendants to have shown a great deal of strain since his incarceration Friday night. He was described as "restless and nervous."

Mrs. Reynolds, held as a material witness since Saturday, was expected to testify at today's session of the inquest.

Miss Yurka was understood to have told the coroner's jury that she saw Walker downstairs in the reception room shortly before the shot was heard. She reported he told her he was waiting for Smith who was found a short while later dead on the sleeping porch of the home.

Upon hearing the shot, she said she ran out on the balcony, inside the house, and saw Walker run upstairs from the reception room.

Unofficial reports said Walker testified Mrs. Reynolds was at the head of the stairs near her bedroom adjoining the sleeping porch when he ran up the steps. She said he was "hollering."

Walker is reported to have said Mrs. Yurka helped him carry Reynolds from the sleeping porch but her testimony was quoted as being that Walker brought the body from the porch to the interior balcony and that she helped him from that point.

In this High-pressure Age

smokers want a Milder Cigarette

WE LIVE in a fast-moving age. We work harder... play harder... travel quicker. And we smoke more cigarettes.

But there's this about it: They have got to be milder today. In this high-pressure age, smokers don't like strong cigarettes.

About four miles of warehouses are filled with mild, ripe, Domestic tobacco, stored away to age for two years to make them mild and mellow for CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes.

To make sure that CHESTERFIELD is a milder cigarette, the greater part of 90 million dollars is invested in the tobaccos used in CHESTERFIELD. These tobaccos are "Cross-Blended."

This "Welding" Together—or "Cross-Blending"—permits every kind of tobacco used in the CHESTERFIELD blend to partake of the best qualities of every other type. It's the same principle that Burbank used in crossing different fruits to make a still better fruit.

CHESTERFIELDS are milder... never harsh... and that's why, in this high-pressure age, more smokers, men and women, are changing to CHESTERFIELDS every day.
