New Relief Measure Approved And Prepared For Action Of Senate

HOUSE DRAFTS STILL TALKING ANOTHER BILL NEW CHAIRMAN

Both Sections of Congress Attempting to Provide Unemployment Relief that will Meet with Approval of the Administration; Amendment in Senate Makes Only Slight Change in the Original Bill.

Washington, July 12.—(AP)—The Wagner Unemployment Relief Bill was approved today by the Senate Banking Committee and prepared for consideration in the Senate later this afternoon.

In the House, meanwhile, preparations went ahead also for drafting a measure along lines wanted by the administration.

The Senate Committee made virtually no change in the bill which was introduced in the Senate late yesterday by Senator Wagner (D. N. Y.) to replace the $2,122,000,000 bill vetoed by President Hoover.

It voted an amendment, however, to reorganize the reconstruction corporation in accordance with the President's recommendations in a special message to Congress yesterday, increasing the membership of the board by one.

Another amendment was voted by the committee to prevent loans by the corporation to financial institutions in which officers of the corporation have been directors within the past year.

Including in the new bill approved by the committee is authorization for loans to individuals through Federal Reserve Banks when the Federal Reserve Board approves.

The committee retained in the bill the same restrictions of the $322,000,000 public works program that were in the old bill. President Hoover in his veto message said they were not adequate.

The amendment for reorganizing the corporation would eliminate as members Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and Paul Bestor, farm loan commissioner, as members of the board.

Unanimous approval was given to the amendment except that Senator Glass (D. Va.) objected to increasing the board's size.

Miss Harrington Dies Following Brain Operation

Miss Juanita Harrington, fifteen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Harrington, who reside on the Washington road about two miles from Greenville, died at Duke Hospital yesterday afternoon at 6:15 o'clock following an operation for a tumor of the brain.

She had been in declining health about a year, but her condition did not become serious until several weeks ago. She was taken to the hospital the first of the week and failed to survive the operation performed yesterday morning.

Funeral services were conducted from the home of her parents this afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. I. H. Pressley, pastor of the Holiness Church, and burial was made in the Wilkerson Cemetery near the home.

The deceased, a native of this county, would have been sixteen years of age August 21. She had numbers of friends who received news of her death with profound sorrow, and a large floral tribute spoke in mute terms of the high esteem in which she was held.

She is survived by her father and mother, three sisters and a brother, Misses Lillian, Annie Lee, Mattie Lena and James Alton Harrington. Surviving also is her grandfather, George Williams.

Raleigh, N. C.—(AP)—C. M. Farrah, president of the North Carolina Retail Coal Merchants' Association, has announced the group will hold its second annual convention at Wrightsville Beach, July 16-18.

GIRL IN GRIP OF LONG COMA

Doctors Hold out Little Hope for Patricia Maguire, Asleep for 150 Days.

Chicago, July 12.—(AP)—The 150th day of Patricia Maguire's long sleep brought little hope that she would awaken.

All known treatments for her morbidly sleeping sickness, have failed to arouse her from the coma into which she lapsed on February 15 as she was preparing to leave her Oak Park home, for church.

Research students and authorities on the disease have entered the case, described by her physician as one of the most baffling on record. A serum with which they are experimenting for the first time has been tried in an effort to help Miss Maguire, an attractive brunette of 27 years, but its effects have been meager.

In the meantime, life is sustained through nourishment administered through the nostrils every three hours and frequent massaging as prevented muscles from atrophying.

The attending physician has avoided discussion of the case and of the serum on the advice of Dr. (Continued on page eight)

HOT WEATHER SETS RECORD

Yesterday Declared Hottest Day of Summer Here with Temperature of 100.

The heat wave set a new record for the summer here yesterday when the mercury reached the one hundred mark, it was revealed this morning by B. T. Clark, local government weather observer.

The hottest part of the day, the observer said, was around 4 o'clock when the mercury reached the highest peak.

Practically without breeze until 12 o'clock last night when clouds carried rain to surrounding territories, residents suffered severely from the effects of heat and many were not able to sleep until the belated breeze provided more comfortable temperatures.

Although crops of the section were suffering considerably from lack of moisture, the weather man held out no hope for relief today with prediction of fair tonight and tomorrow.

THINKS STAGE STILL CALLS MISS HOLMAN

Broadway Believes Actress Was Considering Return Prior to Husband's Death.

By DALE HARRISON New York, July 12.—(AP)—The cigarette that glowed with promise for Libby Holman is suddenly ashes; but the torch of the music halls blazes on a flaming invitation that she pick it up from where, for love, she flung it aside.

LOVE BLASTED FOR ACTRESS

Claire Windsor Admits She is Goat Of Love Affair with Alfred Read.

Los Angeles, Calif., July 12.—(AP) Claire Windsor's dream of happiness which she hoped would become real in a marriage to Alfred C. Read, Jr., young Oakland broker, has broken, and today she admitted, "Now I know I am the goat."

The blonde stage and screen actress, under her signature in the Los Angeles Examiner, wrote the story of her association with Read, whose wife, Mrs. Marian Y. Read, has sued her for $100,000 alienation of affections and Read for divorce.

"I loved Alfred Read," the story read. "It was a beautiful love, different than any I had ever known. He told me to stop working on the stage and in pictures and be his wife—his 'pal'."

"The idea appealed to me. He appealed to me. I have worked a great portion of my life, hard. I wanted to settle down. To love and be loved." (Continued on page eight)

ABANDON JAIL CAMP IN FLA.

Sunbeam Camp Evacuated as Result of Prisoner in "Sweat Box."

Jacksonville, Fla., July 12.—(AP)—Sunbeam prison camp near here was in process of abandonment today as a result of the death in a "sweat box" on June 3 of Arthur Mallefert, 19-year-old convict from Westfield N. J., and charges of cruelty to prisoners that grew out of the case.

Evacuation of the prisoners was ordered after camp officials said the men had become "demoralized" over Mallefert's death and were reluctant to resume work on a road project nearby. They were transferred to the State Prison at Raiford.

Meanwhile the grand jury which indicted Captain George Courson, head of the Sunbeam camp, and Guard Solomon Bigginbotham on charges of first degree murder, and severely criticized the handling of prisoners at the camp, has taken up other cases.

Mallefert, serving nine years for robbery, was found dead in the "sweat box," strangled by a chain placed around his neck and attached to a rafter of the box, and his feet in stocks. The "sweat box," a legal instrument of punishment, is a tiny house, barely head high and about three feet square, ventilated only by a small opening at the top. Authorities said it would be impossible for a prisoner to sit or lie down in it.

DEFER WORK ON BUDGET LOCAL BANK OPENS BRANCH

Commissioners are to Meet Again Tomorrow to Adopt Tentative County Budget.

Final consideration of the tentative budget of Pitt county was postponed until Wednesday at the monthly session of the Board of Commissioners here yesterday.

While yesterday's session lasted until late in the afternoon, the commissioners were not able to consider but one or two items of the budget because of the length of time confined to other matters.

Each member of the board was given a copy of the budget for further study and it was believed adoption would be accomplished in comparatively short time when the board reassembles tomorrow morning.

The budget, it was said, provides for a proposed ten per cent reduction of the tax rate, which will make over a fifty cents reduction in two years by reason of the fact that over forty cents was scheduled last year. This necessitated a considerable reduction of operating (Continued on page eight)

The Greenville Banking & Trust Co., Pitt County's oldest banking institution, yesterday opened a branch in Snow Hill, known as the Greenville Bank & Trust Company, Snow Hill, N. C.

AS THE CAMERA CAUGHT SMITH NOMINATION

"THEY'RE SAFE," SAY FLIER'S KIN

Probably no group back home felt more keenly the failure of the James Mattern-Bennett Griffin around-the-world venture than relatives of Mattern. But they were glad to have news of their safety. Above are Grandmother Barbara, 83, Jacqueline, a cousin, Mrs. F. A. Jacobson, aunt, and James Mattern, uncle. They live in Omaha, Neb., where Mattern lived as a boy. After a brave start a crash ended the flight in Russia.

HEADING FOR THE OLYMPICS

"California, here we come," was the theme song of this quartet of Indianapolis mermaids photographed at Rye, N. Y., during a lull in the workouts for the American Olympic diving and swimming trials, July 15 and 16 on Long Island. ## THE ROOSEVELT NOMINATION IN PICTURES

These pictures tell the story of the democratic convention when Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt was placed in nomination. First John E. Mack (upper left) offers Roosevelt's name in a speech including the New York clause. His address is the starting gun for a wild demonstration lasting 43 minutes, which is shown below. As the crowd cheers, Franklin D. Roosevelt, son of the governor, decides to join in. He's shown (upper, right circle) carrying a flag standard.

BONUS DEMONSTRATION BEFORE EMPTY CAPITOL

Unaware that congress had adjourned for the Independence day holiday, members of the bonus army, headed by Walter Waters, marched to the capitol plaza July 2 and staged a demonstration on the capitol steps.

ROOSEVELTS HAPPY AFTER NOMINATION

It was a happy moment for the family of Franklin D. Roosevelt as the New York governor triumphed over his opponents to win the democratic presidential nomination. Obviously pleased, Roosevelt is shown here with Mrs. Roosevelt and two of his sons after the fourth ballot of the convention placed him at the head of the democratic ticket in the November election. Left to right in rear: Elliott and John Roosevelt.

THIS MAY BECOME RARE OLD PRINT

This picture, showing the first 1932 defeat of "Blazing Ben" Eastman, great Stanford quarter-miler, may mark a sport epic. William Carr of Pennsylvania (in dark jersey) trimmed the coast marvel in the I. C. 4-A meet at Berkeley, Calif., in 47 seconds flat, breaking the world and meet mark of 47.4 set by Ted Meredith of Penn in 1916, and which has been bettered several times by Eastman. Art Woessner of Southern California may be seen in the center.

THEY'LL HELP TO GLORIFY THE OLYMPICS

Says Remarks About Curtis Misunderstood

Flemington, N. J., July 12.—(AP)—Lloyd Fisher, counsel for John Hughes Curtis, of Norfolk, Va., convicted of hindering the search for the Lindbergh kidnapers, said today his remark Curtis was "just a man with wild dreams about boats and things" was misunderstood.

Fisher said his statement while Curtis was before the Hunterdon County court for sentence yesterday were interpreted to imply he never believed his client was in contact with the kidnapers. The lawyer said he was in contact with people who represented themselves to be the kidnapers or their representatives and passed on his information for what it was worth.

Fisher said his remarks to the court, in substance, were: "From the contacts that he had there came a dream of service; a dream to aid a distinguished countryman; a dream unfortunately that never came true. He was just a man with a knowledge of boats and things and he tried in his own way to help a distracted parent."

The last report, filed December 21, 1931, showed a balance in Reynolds' personal estate of $16,927.00. Receipts during the year were $48,071, which were added to $47,197.22 on hand at the beginning of the year. Expenditures during the year were $48,340.72.

The Faithful Cheat

By Ruby M. Ayres

Chapter I WHICH MAN? From where she sat in the stage box between her sister and her sister's husband, Sondra Kent could see the two men whenever the lights went up between the acts. John Anderson, very distinguished looking in the third row of the orchestra, was a trifle bored even while he did his best to be interested in the play, and polite to the woman beside him. Mark Merriman, in a not very good row of the dress circle, was finding it difficult to keep his eyes on the stage because they turned so often to where Sondra sat. Sondra, nervous, undecided, unhappy, was turning over the most momentous question of her life, while Flora looked her disinterested play and criticized the audience, and Flora's husband snored peacefully, screened by the curtains. Whenever the lights went up in the theatre Sondra looked critically at John Anderson. Whenever they went down again she thought of Mark Merriman, and wondered hopefully why it should be possible to care so very much for a man, and yet be quite determined that nothing on earth would ever induce here to marry him. Merriman was 28, good-looking, cheery, optimistic and penniless; with a future even more hopeless than her own, seeing that he had nothing beyond his personality to guarantee him a prominent place in the long line of candidates all of whom were waiting at the gate of the future, hoping for something good to turn up. John Anderson was rich, influential and 47, and both men loved her. Neither of them had said so in so many words, for Anderson was a married man, long separated from a wife who would not divorce him, and Merriman had nothing but his love to offer her. "Merriman was not a sentimentalist who believed that little else mattered if only one loved well enough, for he has been brought up in middle class poverty himself, and hated it only a little less than Sondra hated it. He had watched his parents stint themselves almost of necessities in order to give him a good education, and then after half a dozen years of struggling to turn his father's small and inefficient firm into a paying concern, he had watched that father die, a broken, disappointed man, and had found himself face to face with failure. He had watched his parents stint themselves almost of necessities in order to give him a good education, and then after half a dozen years of struggling to turn his father's small and inefficient firm into a paying concern, he had watched that father die, a broken, disappointed man, and had found himself face to face with failure. He had been quite frank about it to Sondra. "What little there is left out of the ruin will be mother's, of course, and I might as well try my luck in some other country." "Do you think it will be better in any other country than it is in America?" she had asked him. "Aren't things pretty much the same everywhere unless you have money or influence?" She had seen his eyes cloud over and had hated herself for her pessimism as he answered, "Well, I'm afraid I haven't either money or influence, but if ambition and muscle are any use I ought to stand a chance." It was then that he had mentioned John Anderson, half ruefully and utterly without hope. "If only some fellow like Anderson would take a fancy to me, and send me to one of his jobs in the Congo! I half thought of approaching him, but I daresay he's got dozens of fellows like me hanging round already, and we're only casual acquaintances." Sondra had been silent for a moment before she answered slowly. "Mr. Anderson is rather a friend of mine." "I know, but all the same—" and then he had shrugged his shoulders and changed the subject. "But sitting in the box this evening while the balcony and orchestra cheered themselves hoarse over a musical comedy favorite, Sondra remembered it. Anderson was indeed quite a friend of hers; she wondered dreadingly what Merriman would think if he knew how great a friend Anderson had proved himself in the ing his big arms inelegantly. For a moment he stared at the stage with blinking eyes, then mechanically he began to clap. "Good, very good—" he said vaguely, regardless of the fact that he had heard no more than the opening chorus. "Put your tie straight and let's get out before the crowd," his wife said tartly and led the way out of the box. Sondra followed her, listlessly dragging her wrap about her shoulders. She was so tired of everything; glancing at her sister's face she wondered if Flora ever felt the same. "Good lookin'," their father had called them.

Yes, that was true enough she supposed, catching sight of their two reflections in a long mirror. They were very much alike, except that Flora was darker, harder looking somehow. There was something about the almost insolent beauty of her face that looked as if she had met life squarely and got the better of it to her own tragic detriment. Her laugh had an artificial note in it, and her voice a sharper edge than before she was married, and yet — Ben Lomax adored her as Sondra knew well, and only shut his eyes to her impatience and indifference because he was mortally afraid that if he ever dared to mention it, Flora would walk out of his life. A block in the crowd brought them to a momentary standstill and Sondra looked at her own reflection. She was smaller than Flora — slighter, with blue eyes instead of brown, fair hair that fell naturally into long loose waves, and a mouth carved in rather discontented lines. The crowd parted a little and moved on, and Sondra found John Anderson beside her. (Copyright, 1932, Ruby M. Ayres)

Will Mark come and speak to her. Sondra considers, tomorrow, leaving her sister for — freedom.

PIRATES WIN 5 TO 3 GAME OFF DODGERS

By HERBERT M. BARKER Associated Press Sports Writer Baseball holds scarcely any job more thankless than the task of filling the third-base slot of Harold (Pie) Traynor but Tommy Thevenow is making an excellent stab at it.

Thevenow lost his place in the Pittsburgh Pirate outfield early in the season because of his puny batting average and rode the bench day after day until last week when Traynor went out with a finger injury.

Since then he not only has fielded well but has shown distinct signs of emerging from his long batting slump. His average for his last four games stood at .313 today and he has been getting his hits where they would do the Pirates the most good.

Yesterday it was his hitting that enabled the Pirates to trim Brooklyn, 5-3, give Steve Swetonic his 10th victory of the season and increase Pittsburgh's lead over the second place Chicago Cubs to two and a half games. Tommy drove in two runs with a single in the fifth and then led off with a triple in the eighth and scored the last run on Lloyd Waner's third single. It was Pittsburgh's ninth victory in 11 games. Since May 19 the Pirates have won 34 games and lost only 14 for an average of .708.

The Cubs bowed to Huck Betts and the Boston Braves, 8-2, although the Braves got only six hits. They bunched three of these with a pass and a wild throw by Stanley Hack to score five runs in the first inning and drive Pat Malone to cover.

In the American league, the Yankees pounded Hadley and Cooney for 15 hits, including homers by Joe Sewell and Arndt Jorgens, buried the St. Louis Browns under a 15-4 score and stretched their lead to seven and one-half games over the second place Philadelphia Athletics.

The Athletics dropped two to Cleveland as the two clubs picked up where they had left off in their 18-inning game at Cleveland Sunday. Together they scored 36 runs on 62 hits as Cleveland won 9-8 and 12-7. Earl Averill clouted three homers and Jimmy Foxx got his 34th.

Al Thomas stopped the Chicago White Sox with seven hits as Washington bunched safeties for a 5-1 decision. Detroit clung to third place by beating the Boston Red Sox, 5-3, behind the effective pitching of George Uhle and the heavy batting of Davis and Webb.

PATS ON TOP AFTER WIN IN CHARLOTTE

Charlotte, July 12.—(AP)—Greensboro was on top of the Piedmont league standing today by virtue of trimming Charlotte 10-2 to snatch the lead from the Hornets. Most of the credit for the Patriot victory last night went to Friz Ostermuller, little southpaw, who was in the best of form and turned back the erstwhile league leaders with only four hits. Ostermuller blanked the Hornets in every inning except the seventh.

One reason for the Hornet downfall was the collapse of its defense in the field. Merle Settemire worked against Ostermuller for seven innings and only two runs were earned off his delivery, but five were scored. Roma Boykin relieved him and the Pats batted around in the ninth inning after the game was on ice to score five more runs.

One of those rare feats of baseball, a triple play, helped Wilmington down Durham 2-0. Baylin had been mowing the Bulls down in order, but in the eighth inning Butler and Mellana, the first two men up, got on base. Clark hit a drive which Walsh, second baseman, took off his shoe top and tossed to Nocman who quickly relayed to Buck t catch both runners off the bags.

The defeat was the first of the season for Tiny Butler, big Durham southpaw who previously had won seven straight games. Raleigh nosed out Winston-Salem 4-2. Flynn, Raleigh hurler, won the game almost single-handed. He outpitched Salveston and in the eighth doubled with two men on base to provide the winning margin.

Investigation of loans made through the Reconstruction Corporation has been ordered by Congress, and the public will again have the opportunity of listening in on important testimony regarding the operation of the greatest organization of its kind ever set up in this country. There has been much complaint against policies of the corporation since its establishment several months ago to relieve business conditions, but whether it is justified is problematical. Certain it is that the organization has been liberal with corporations, but whether any of them obtained more than was allowed under law remains to be seen. Had the same amount of money been distributed to the smaller industries it would not be long before this country would be humming with industry and the much-talked-of depression would be a matter of history.

The International Bank has found it advisable to support a return of the gold standard abandoned by so many countries in recent months as a means of restoring improved economic conditions. The resolution will not affect the United States which has clung tenaciously to the standard of exchange in spite of the precipitate action of some of the other countries. If the Bank of International Settlements realizes the advantage of the gold standard, then it is evident it played a big part in the financial life of the world, far more so than some of the nations thought. The action is of interest in view of the controversy which has been raging over the question in all of the important nations, and undoubtedly will influence some of the powers to go back to the old standard. Interest which the public is exhibiting in the series of union services being conducted on the courthouse lawn each Sunday evening is a matter of pride to members of the Ministerial Association. The Association is composed of members of the various churches of the city who are doing their best to draw tremendous crowds to the services, and they hope each week will witness an increase of attendance. The crowd Sunday night was so large that an order was placed for more seats, and it was hoped to be able to take care of all who attend next Sunday evening and the remainder of the campaign which will extend through August. The services give the members of the churches an opportunity to rub elbows and strive to draw the attention of outsiders to the importance of their work, and it is the duty of the members of all denominations to attend and do their bit toward success of the undertaking. The "wet" plank of the Democratic party is beginning to draw fire, and will continue to be the subject of concerted attack of the dry element until November when the presidential election takes place. Bishop Cannon is one of the leaders of the fight and his persecution of the party which he turned his back on in the last campaign will undoubtedly continue with undiminished vigor. In recommending repeal, the Democrats do not make a bid for the renaissance of the saloon. In fact, they merely seek legalized sale of beer within prescribed limits of the Constitution which, to be more emphatic, is a beverage of a non-intoxicating kind. In view of the fact that Republicans have asked for re submission, there is after all, little chance of such great contrasts, and bringing the issue down to nutshell limits, both parties are merely trying to attract votes, one going just a little further than the other in accomplishing its purpose. Another cut of tremendous proportion will be affected alike.

It was then that he had mentioned John Anderson, half ruefully and utterly without hope. "If only some fellow like Anderson would take a fancy to me, and send me to one of his jobs in the Congo! I half thought of approaching him, but I daresay he's got dozens of fellows like me hanging round already, and we're only casual acquaintances." # Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, July 12.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 3 to 6 lower owing to selling of July against notices and liquidation on continued favorable weather which offset steeper Liverpool cables.

According to early estimates notices representing about 11,000 bales of cotton were issued against July contracts and liquidation was active at the start.

There was also considerable scattered selling in the later deliveries. July sold to 5.61 and December to 5.91, making net declines of about 5 to 8 points, but offerings were absorbed by covering and trade buying at the decline, and volume tapered off with prices showing rallies of 3 or 4 points from the lowest at the end of the first half hour.

Liverpool was several points better than due early, but eased slightly just before the local opening, and there seemed to be a little selling here through houses with Liverpool connections.

Private cables reported covering, Continental buying and trade calling in the English market but said business in cotton goods was quiet.

The New York exchange estimates domestic consumption for June at 312,000 bales against 454,000 last year.

Grain Market

Chicago, July 12.—(AP)—Bears had the whip hand in wheat from start to finish, prices falling to rally after a collapse to fresh bottom levels.

Export trade in North American wheat continued to dwindle, with the total for the week curtailed more than 1,500,000 bushels compared with the week previous. Cooler weather in the northwest likely to hinder black rust was predicted.

Stock Market

By CLAUDE A JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Editor)
New York, July 12.—(AP)—The securities markets were vaguely inclined toward higher prices today.

After a firm opening, the share market reacted a little in the morning, in sympathy with wheat, but came up again toward midday, as bonds maintained a fair undertone, despite a degree of irregularity.

The morning selling was concentrated in the same handful of issues that have recently been soggy, notably American Telephone, Coca-Cola, Case and Allied Chemical, point or more.

Auburn, yesterday's high fair, gave up a substantial part of its gain. By early afternoon, however, fractional net gains appeared in such issues as U. S. Steel, Consolidated Gas, National Biscuit, General Foods, Borden, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, and others. Sugars were firm, Central Argentine and American Sugar rising a point. United Aircraft gained 6. In the packing stocks, Armour of Delaware and Gobel were up about a point. The shoe stocks also were higher, Brown gaining nearly 2 points and International about half as much.

The government wheat crop report as of July 1, showing an unexpectedly large gain in the spring crop, carried that staple off to new lows for the season at the opening of the Chicago pit, with a temporarily adverse effect upon shares, but as the stock market session for on some of the railroad stocks, particularly the Northwestern Leas firming up, presumably reflecting the conclusion that the big crop should result in improved traffic during the last half of the year.

Commodities continue to attract keen attention in Wall Street.

actress, seeking to make the trial easier for her to bear.

At one time when Libby sobbed, "Such agony by God! all three were greatly agitated."

R. J. Reynolds, Jr. (Dick) is expected to return from a cruise in African waters by Friday. He is Smith's older brother.

Sheriff Transue Scott, who insisted on continuing the probe of Reynolds' death after it once was held a suicide by Coroner W. N. Dalton today said he had no statement to make in connection with the verdict of the coroner's jury.

Solicitor Higgins said it could move in the following ways if it is held: Ask a transcript of testimony before the coroner's jury, summon witnesses for independent inquiry or make a presentation of general information before it, thus placing responsibility for further action on the solicitor. Higgins said he did not know whether the jury had considered the case at all.

The transcript of the testimony before the coroner's jury will run several hundred typewritten pages. Hardin Jewett, stenographer, estimated it would be two hundred typewritten pages for yesterday's session alone.

The Shot
The sound of a shot early last Wednesday startled Walker and other guests, including Blanche Yurka, statuesque Broadway actress of Ibsen and other roles. They found Reynolds dying on a sleeping porch.

The Hospital
A nurse said that while Reynolds was dying she found Walker and Miss Holman on the floor in another room, struggling to get up. Walker, denying Miss Holman was on the floor, said he was there because he had fainted.

Going into the matter of feeding prisoners, confined in the county jail here, the board thought a slight economy could be effected in this department and decided to reduce the price of meals from 35 to 30 cents. The cut was to become effective July 1. The remainder of the session was consumed in the consideration of routine business.

philitated way that tragedy—like a cloud of tobacco smoke from the mouth of some gargantuan god, has screened its glitter and make-believe from Libby Holman now.

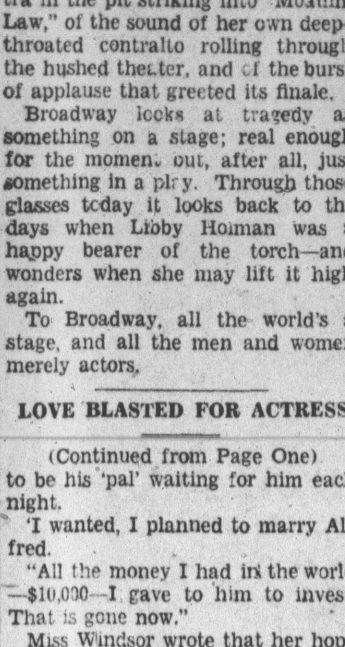

But there will be other seasons, other songs to be sung, other torches to be borne; and Broadway wonders if Libby Holman then will be a quiet widow of Winston-Salem or, as before "Moanin' Low" in the Manhattan music halls.

Only a few days before her husband's tragic death from a bullet Miss Holman conferred in Winston-Salem with her stage manager. What significance that conference may have had, Broadway does not know; but Broadway never hesitates to guess.

It guesses that Libby Holman, before tragedy struck, had seen anew the light of the torch, and that its soft, blinking like her own name so often blinded in the Broadway lights, was setting her stage ambitions aflame again.

It guesses that no matter what happiness her marriage may have brought or what prospects it held, the torch smoldered in her heart. The grandeur of her Winston-Salem home, its gaiety and a life free from

"I wanted, I planned to marry Alfred. All the money I had in the world—$10,000—I gave to him to invest. That is gone now."

Miss Windsor wrote that her hope for happiness was blasted on March 29 when M. S. Read filed her suit. She said she met Read on a train to New York and he said he was unmarried.

"Later he said he was married but estranged from his wife and getting a divorce," the article continued.

The article ended with: "I have the courage of my convictions, and if this suit comes to trial I will win."

"But I have lost love and happiness."

The San Francisco Chronicle said Read had severed reconciliation negotiations with his attractive society wife after she refused to drop her suit against Miss Windsor.

The paper said Mrs. Read scoffed at a charge made by her husband that she had sought his aid in an alleged plot against Miss Windsor. Read's charge, the paper added, was the "verbal spanking" he promised his wife unless she agreed to drop the alienation suit and a divorce action.

FINANCIAL CONDITION OF STATE GIVEN ATTENTION

placing in effect drastic reductions in the cost of state government, were before the group for consideration.

Under either proposal it seemed inevitable that a salary cut of from 10 to 20 per cent in all state pay, including that of teachers, would have to be ordered.

One of the suggestions before the joint meeting, made by State Treasurer John P. Stedman, demands a curtailment in state expenditures of $7,000,000 for the current fiscal year as compared with last year if the state's credit is to be saved. Stedman suggests curtailing the highway fund 25 per cent, the public school monies 25 per cent and the general fund 10 per cent, which would be in addition to a previous cut of about 22 per cent in the latter.

The other suggestion, by Henry Burke, assistant director of the budget, calls for a reduction of $3,600,000 for this year under last year, by cutting the general fund $1,000,000 and by "suspending" 12.12 or 20 per cent of the six months school fund appropriation with temporary elimination of the extended term aid fund of $1,500,000.

"It was planned to hold the meeting in July, perhaps this week, but the candidates are now conferring with each other and their friends, and as a result the meeting will be postponed," Mull said. "Chances are that it will be around the first of August."

Both Reynolds and Ehringhaus have several times reiterated that they believe the matter will be settled amicably and for the best interests of all the candidates and the party, but nevertheless they are understood to still be far apart on the chairmanship.

Reports reaching Raleigh are that friends of C. L. Shuping of Greensboro, have renewed their efforts for him, though Reynolds has said neither Shuping nor F. P. McClennan, who managed Ehringhaus' gubernatorial fight, would be acceptable to him.

Reynolds has said that former State Senator Walter H. Woodson, of Salisbury, and former Judge Tom C. Bowie, of West Jefferson, of whom supported himself and Ehringhaus, were acceptable, and is insisting that the State Chairman be someone "equally interested in all of the candidates."

Ehringhaus, after issuing a statement asking his friends on the executive committee not to commit themselves to any person for the chairmanship until he expressed a preference, went to his Elizabeth City home to rest.

Reynolds says he is not trying to commit members of the committee to anyone for the chairmanship.

The premier, mounting the rostrum, said his government was adhering to a policy of courage because it was essential that the budget be balanced. Alluding to the recent conference on reparations at Lausanne, he said:

Almost immediately after the New York Central bridge was dynamited an undetermined number of persons began pouring rifle and shot gun fire into the ational guard encampment. The guardsmen returned the fire, but whether anyone beside Freeman was struck, officers were unable to determine.

A near riot resulted in Belmont county when Sheriff Howard Duff and a number of deputies attempted to break up a crowd of pickets. The sheriff and his deputies ordered the pickets to disperse. Although the Democratic platform includes a plank advocating repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, an "immediate" modification of the Volstead law, only eleven members of that party voted with him.

There were, however, three Senators who changed their previous attitudes—Patterson, Missouri Republican, and Fletcher and Trammell, Florida Democrats.

Their ballots were cast against a motion by Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, to send Bingham's bill to the Judiciary Committee. Eleven Democrats and 26 Republicans supported it.

Twenty-one Senators did not vote. Only one of these—Oddie (R. Nev.)—was announced as against Robinson's motion. Four—Thomas (R. Idaho), Neely (D. W. Va.), Swanson (D. Va.), and Bankhead (D. Ala.)—said they would have voted for it.
