Washington, July 20.—(AP)—So there would be time for everybody to get set, including the thirty-odd states that already had shown they wanted some of the money, President Hoover has delayed his signing of the $2,122,000,000 relief bill.

The White House announced the postponed pen work—tentatively set for yesterday—would let the president finish plans for reorganization of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which will handle the huge emergency fund.

This reorganization was to include the appointment of successors to Gov. Eugene Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board and Paul Bester, farm loan commissioner, whose retirements as directors of the corporation the bill made mandatory, at the president's request.

Mr. Hoover had given no advance indication as to whom he would select for these posts. Owen D. Young, industrialist, and Wilson W. Mills, Detroit banker, had been discussed by others.

The corporation itself had decided to discard red tape to expedite loans from the $300,000,000 state relief of destitution and $322,000,000 for public works, the latter including $132,000,000 which can be used to match state highway expenditures.

There were indications that states might apply very soon for more than $200,000,000 of the $300,000,000 sum as follows:

Arizona, $450,000; New York and Pennsylvania $450,000 each; Michigan $1,800,000; Indiana $8,000,000; Kansas $2,750,000; Missouri and Utah $2,000,000; Idaho $1,500,000; West Virginia $500,000.

Wisconsin also was trying to decide how much to borrow.

Likewise there were forecasts that the following states would not ask relief money: Florida, Maine, Maryland, Nebraska, Nevada, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina and Vermont, Colorado, Connecticut, Georgia, Idaho, Iowa, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, South Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, Virginia, Texas and Wyoming were deciding what to do about destitution.

Ball Player Will Be Paid For Injuries

Raleigh, N. C., July 20.—(AP)—"Babe" Spotts, former Washington and Lee athletic star who broke an ankle while trying out with the Raleigh Caps of the Piedmont baseball league this spring, has been awarded $18 per week compensation by the State Industrial Commission.

The local club must pay Spotts the weekly stipend for the time he was disabled, the period not being known here today.

BOAT BLAST KILLS THREE

Four Others Missing and Eight in Hospital as Result of Explosion in N. Y.

Alexandria Bay, N. Y., July 20.—(AP)—The toll of the explosion of the drill boat "America" in the St. Lawrence river near here yesterday reached three known dead, four missing and eight men in hospitals today with the death of Earl Russell, 17, one of those previously numbered among the injured.

Eight other men were injured when a ton and a half of dynamite planted on the rocky bottom of the St. Lawrence river exploded under the hull of the 150-foot boat. A second explosion occurred within the boat immediately afterward.

The valley for miles around was shaken.

Two bodies were brought from the wreckage of the sunken drill boat last night before the diver found it necessary to abandon his search.

"Conditions down there were unbelievable," the diver, George Fisher, said after recovering the bodies of Ivan Rush, 32, of La Salle, Ill., who had been in charge of the America, and Joe Slusariack, 24, a "dynamite man," also from La Salle.

Fisher said the water was "so muddy and the wreckage so terrible." (Continued on Page Two)

Roosevelt Campaign To Be Run By State Units

New York, July 20.—(AP)—The campaign to elect Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt President will be run, as was the campaign to nominate him, through the state organizations, James A. Farley, Democratic National Chairman, announced today.

There will be a campaign committee, located at the Roosevelt headquarters in New York, but it will assist and co-operate with the State organizations rather than attempt to direct them, Farley said.

For the campaign there will be only one national headquarters, located in New York City. There will be no branch headquarters aside from the regular headquarters in each State.

German Government Clamps Down Martial Law on Berlin Also to Stop Riots.

Berlin, July 20.—(AP)—The German government, with old-time military precision, moved swiftly this morning to establish a virtual dictatorship over the huge state of Prussia and to clamp down martial law on the city of Berlin and the province of Brandenburg.

The first action was taken under an emergency decree issued by President Von Hindenburg this morning. It followed critical pressure upon the government to stop the political riots which have taken a toll of more than one hundred.

Montgomery County Farmer Runs Amuck Wounding His Wife, Child and Brother.

Candor, N. C., July 20.—(AP)—Watson Smith, 40-year-old Montgomery county farmer, ran amuck with a shotgun at his home near here today, slightly wounded his brother and probably fatally wounded his wife and a small child.

Smith was arrested and lodged in jail at Troy. He was carrying a shotgun and a pistol when apprehended.

Police said they learned Smith left home last night in a drunken condition and returned about dawn today.

They said he shot his brother, Hermit Smith, who stood near a window in the house, slightly.

Bolivians Demand War In Boundary Dispute

La Paz, Bolivia, July 20.—(AP)—The ancient boundary feud between Bolivia and Paraguay flared today to the point where Bolivians crowded the streets and shouted for war.

The demonstration followed news that 300 Paraguayan troops attacked Fort Mariscal, Santa Cruz, in the border area, Saturday and that the fighting was continuing.

Two soldiers, presumably Bolivians, were reported killed.

A crowd of 10,000 gathered in the square before the presidential palace after the announcement was made, shouting against "Paraguayan aggression" and demanding.

MOVE TO BOOST GRAIN PRICES

North Dakota Farmers Start Movement to Get Dollar Bushel for Grain.

Tolna, N. D., July 20.—(AP)—Across the fertile prairies of North Dakota, expected to produce one-sixth of the nation's wheat output this year, today is heard a crescendo chorus, "Hold the grain for one dollar a bushel."

And if sponsors are successful, the cry will be taken up throughout the United States.

Dell Willis, Tolna farmer, is chairman of the organization which has stirred the farmers in more than 400 North Dakota townships to pledge holding their wheat, effective August 1, unless and until the dollar level is reached.

"This period of low prices finally has brought us to a position where it is either sink or swim," Willis said. "Now let us get together and put a fair price on our product. We will set the price and hold our wheat until we get our price."

Organizations are perfected along township lines. As producers sign an agreement, it is deposited with the township board. Certain farmers are designated to see the pledge is adhered to.

"We will hold our wheat until there is a demand, for it at the set price of one dollar per bushel; and then we will sell only 10 per cent in one month," Willis continued. "This will make an orderly marketing system."

Washington, July 20.—(AP)—Three members of the bonus seeking army were taken into custody today as the aftermath of an abortive attempt by a large group of veterans to approach the White House.

Five Ministers, Eleven Secretaries of Italian Cabinet Also Resign in Shakeup.

Rome, July 20.—(AP)—Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, resigned today in a far-reaching cabinet shake-up ordered by Premier Mussolini.

Five ministers and eleven under-secretaries were displaced in the shake-up. Mussolini retained for himself two of the vacated portfolios.

These constituted the first changes in the cabinet since September, 1929.

The five ministers who resigned were Grandi, Alfredo Rocco, minister of justice, and others.

K. W. Cobb Says The Crops Looking Much Better After Recent Rainfall.

K. W. Cobb, supervisor of the Greenville tobacco market, has just completed a fifteen hundred mile tour over Eastern North Carolina.

He states that since the rains of the week-end all crops are coming out and looking much better. The rains seem to have done the corn and grain crops more good than all others.

A lot of the young tobacco which before the rains had leaves pointed straight up and the appearance of heading, are now spreading. The estimate is now that the crop in this belt will be between 50 and 60 per cent of last year's poundage.

DRUNKEN MAN WOUNDS THREE

Martin Settlemyre, of Catawba County, Is Charged with Much Violence.

Newton, N. C., July 20.—(AP)—Martin Settlemyre, young Catawba county farmer, came home from a drinking spree today, shot his wife and another woman in the back and then crushed a neighbor's head with the butt of a gun.

Mrs. Settlemyre and the other woman, whose name was not immediately learned, were rushed to a Hickory hospital. Their wounds are not serious.

However, "Mich" Sigmon, whom Settlemyre "slugged" with a shotgun is not expected to recover.

MILL WORKERS REMAIN IDLE

Six Thousand Operatives of 24 Mills Announce They are Definitely on Strike; Leaders of Two Thousand Other Employees Say they will Go Back to Work when Conditions permit; Four Furniture Plants Resume Operation.

Raleigh, July 20.—(AP)—Arlant General J. Van B. Metts reported to Gov. O. Max Gardner today that conditions at High Point and in surrounding communities affected by a strike of some 12,000 workers were "in hand."

General Metts, who visited the affected areas yesterday at the request of the governor, returned to Raleigh during the day and said local authorities had made "every provision to protect life and property."

The county and city authorities of Guilford and Davidson counties and the five communities affected "understand that the state is ready to step in with aid if it is necessary but that the first obligation rests on the localities," Governor Gardner said.

"General Metts expressed hope that the condition would adjust itself without any disorders," the governor said, and added that he "understood the wage controversy which caused the trouble might be adjusted amicably soon."

High Point, July 20.—(AP)—Approximately 6,000 operatives of 24 mills here announced today they are definitely on strike, while leaders of some 2,000 other idle workers said they would return to work when conditions permit.

Workers who are now listed as strikers are employed by 23 hosiery mills and the furniture plant.

Spokesmen for this group said they are acting independently of bands of idle and unemployed workers who yesterday toured the manufacturing districts of five towns, cutting off power and forcing or persuading employes to leave their posts.

The more than 2,000 operatives thus forced into idleness were declared by their leaders today to be anxious to return to work as soon as this can be accomplished in safety.

Four furniture plants here resumed operation this morning and early this afternoon on attempts had been made to force a shut-down.

Operators of other furniture and chair factories decided to postpone their plants for the time being for fear disorders may result.

Ten plants were operating in Thomasville, eight in Lexington and two in Kernersville. Workers in these towns returned to their posts unmolested.

City Manager E. M. Knox of High Point held a conference with D. V. Bradley, spokesman for the hosiery workers, and announced that "picketing of the mills in an orderly fashion" would be allowed.

Bradley said the picketing would be "with open hands," and added he nor the hosiery mill workers were connected in any way with unions and that he knew nothing of reports that communist agitators had arrived here.

This morning a few cotton mill officials decided to attempt an opening of their mills but this was postponed when it was decided the move might be "too dangerous."

Those mills which resumed operations here today in several departments were the Tate, Continental, Benny Roller and Pant factories and the Perry Plywood Company.

Topeka, Kas.—Dr. J. A. Steinmeyer, dentist, was preparing one of his "don't hurt a bit" machines for action when a patient begged. Suddenly it went on a rampage, grabbed his neck and paled it so tight the dentist almost strangled before he could turn off the motor.

ABOUT TOWN

The textile strike in the High Point community is assuming serious proportions, but it is hoped no disorders will take place. The men walked out Monday because they were informed their wages were to be cut. The total number of strikers at this time has reached six thousand.

This is a deplorable situation coming as it does during one of the most acute economic situations the state and nation have faced in many a day, and if possible the strikers and operators should do everything in their power to reach satisfactory settlement.

This is no time for strikes because work is too scarce, and if the employees know what is good for them they will go back to their jobs and attempt to find an amicable solution to the situation.

Strikes are costly not only for the strikers themselves but to the mills affected and surely the operators could be induced to come to terms as well on the job as through litigation.

President Hoover became alarmed when told that a group of communists connected with the bonus army was planning to invade the White House. Extra guards were thrown about the executive's home but the fifty members of the invading group were dispersed without trouble.

There may be some radicals in the bonus army at the capital, but the conservative element is sufficiently strong to prevent them from resorting to disorder.

The boys did not go to the capital to harm anybody. They merely intend to show the president that they want what the government owes them for long months of service on the battlefield, and when that is paid they will return home and resume normal life.

Lots of them are discouraged and some mad but this will not cause them to take drastic measures to collect. They know what is expected of them in this country and that any attempt at violence would retard instead of hasten any hope they might have of collecting their compensation.

The president should not be alarmed by activities of the army. It is an endurance battle of wits they are fighting and not one of blood. They spill enough blood in Europe to last them the rest of their lives and have no disposition to see a repetition of bloodshed in their own beloved country.

The extended school term of Pitt county schools is in doubt at this time and will be considered by the commissioners and school board here August 1st.

If the special term is abandoned it will be because of the inability of the county to collect taxes. This places the responsibility of the schools upon the shoulders of the taxpayers, and it is hoped those who have not settled their obligations to the county the last year or so will get busy and do so at once and aid the schools.

If the extended term is abandoned it will mean the county will have only the regular state-supported term of six months. Two months cut from the school system will bring about a great change in the educational standard of the county, requiring a longer time for students to complete regular courses.

The paying of taxes is more important today than it has been in many a year, and if the public will co-operate it is possible the schools may be saved from the curtailment and held up to their usual standard.

The North Carolina Post of the American Legion is in favor of the payment of adjusted compensation to soldiers of the World War despite the fact that Henry Stevens, former commander, expressed opposition when the matter came up for consideration.

The Legionnaires in convention at Asheville endorsed the bill providing for payment of the bonus, and the decision will be recorded

SYNOPSIS: Sondra Kent watches the ship that will carry Mark Merriman to the Congo go slowly down the river. She has been his wife only since yesterday, and now she must face five years of separation. She can not have sympathy, or the pleasure of talking about her marriage, because it has been decided to keep the sudden wedding a secret. Mark cannot support her comfortably, and Sondra has been used to luxury. She is certain she would hate to live in the Congo. And if her marriage were known, her sister, Flora, with whom she lives, would seize the chance of getting rid of the responsibility and expense of Sondra. At least friendships is left: John Anderson, who has given Mark this job, is her loyal friend and is in love with her although an unhappy marriage keeps him from declaring it. As the ship disappears, she wonders what to do.

Chapter 9 ENCOUNTER IN THE PARK
 One of Mark's friends, who had been lustily cheering and waving his hat, came to Sondra.

"Can I give you a lift, Miss Kent?"
 She stated and turned.
 "Thank you—I . . ."
 Anderson spoke beside her. "Miss Kent is coming with me."
 Sondra walked by his side from the long, fast-emptying pier. She felt as if she had to force her feet to move—first one and then the other—one, two—one, two. . . . Outside, Anderson took her arm. "Where shall we go, Sondra?"
 "Anywhere—I haven't anywhere particular to go. . . ."
 "Would you care to drive round, and then lunch with me?"
 "Thank you."
 "Anything would be better than going back to Flora's, or being left alone."
 She leaned back in Anderson's big car with a sudden sense of bodily weakness.

It was all over—Mark had gone. Somehow until the very last she had thought that something would happen to keep him with her. A silly thought—for what could happen?

"Do you think Merriman is keen about his job?" Anderson asked.
 "Yes. . . . oh, yes, I think so. He's very lucky to have got it."
 "I think he'll do well. I hope so!"
 The big car rolled on its way. Anderson turned into the park—he was driving himself and perhaps it was the traffic that engrossed his with those posts taking similar action.

 It is the consensus of opinion that payment of the bonus would greatly improve the economic welfare of the people of America by increased circulation of money as well as carrying relief to the thousands of former soldiers suffering from the effects of unemployment.

While Congress quit work and went home without helping the soldiers, the boys are undiscouraged and will be ready with their fighting clothes on when another session convenes. It was this tenacious spirit which enabled them to break the Hindenburg line and win the World War and certainly they will not be defeated back home.

Increased interest has been manifested in the campaign against typhoid fever in this county and thousands of people have been vaccinated. The number is the largest of any year since the immunization work started, due largely to prevalence of fever in some sections of the county and health authorities are pleased with the results obtained.

Typhoid is one of the most deadly forms of illness and while it has been greatly reduced, it will assume great proportions again if immunization work is not continued. It is a great task keeping the nation healthy, but health officers are doing their bit and will be successful if the public co-operates.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL
 And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks lank, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels, gas blows up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

attention and kept him from looking at Sondra.
 He said presently: "I rang you up last night, but Mrs. Lomax told me you were away."
 "Yes. . . . It was an effort to remember what she had told Flora. "Yes, I stayed the night with Beatrice. I came up this morning."
 "I see; and how is Beatrice?"
 "Very well."
 They were driving through the big park now. Anderson drew the drive two-seater to one side of the drive and stopped the engine. "I wanted to see Cass if he is anywhere about."

Sondra roused herself and looked round.
 "He rides every morning, doesn't he?" she said vaguely.
 "As a rule, I believe."
 "Why did you ring up last night?" she asked. She was not interested, but it was something to say.
 "Only to tell you that I was writing to you. However, as you were not there, I didn't post the letter. I've got it with me."
 She raised her eyes to his face.
 "A letter?" she asked.
 "Well—yes." He took an envelope from his pocket and laid it on her lap. "Don't open it now. Later on will do."

"Very well," Sondra said slowly, but she left the letter disregarded; she knew well enough what were its contents.
 "Here is Cass," she said abruptly. A man on horseback had come trotting up to them.
 "Hullo you two!" He saluted in mock military fashion.
 He was a quaint looking man, and he sat his horse badly.

He wore rather loud check riding breeches and a brown coat with a leather collar; his close-cropped head was hatless, and he smoked an enormous cigar.

 A man who must have been on the wrong side of fifty, he had a cherubic face and the smile of a boy.
 Everybody who knew Cass loved him, and he was John Anderson's greatest friend.
 Nobody quite knew why, for Cass was in a perpetual state of being broke, and he and Anderson had not a thought or taste in common apart from their mutual affection.
 Unkind people said that Cass lived on his friend's bounty, but it was not the case. Cass had never been known to take a shilling from John Anderson, and Anderson knew better than to offer it.

How he lived and kept up the appearance he did was a mystery.
 There were fantastic stories of a back room in some shabby street, where Cass slept and ate and had his being, but as nobody had ever visited him there, nobody was in an exact position to verify the stories, and Cass kept his own counsel.

Whenever he appeared in public he was smart and well groomed, if a trifle loud in his choice of clothes; he gambled recklessly when he had anything to gamble with, and enjoyed life no matter what it offered him, good or bad, cheerfully robbing Peter to pay Paul.

His real name was Stephen Cassidy, but he was known to every one as Cass, and even his enemies credited him with being the owner of the kindest heart and the most tolerant soul in the world.

Sondra liked him, though she did not know why—and she trusted him, too.
 "Well, fair lady—and how have you managed to drag John out at this early hour of the morning?" he demanded, with his boy's smile.

Anderson answered for her.
 "We've been down to see young Merriman off."
 "Oh!—so he's really gone, has he?" Cass raised his brows. "Never thought he would somehow," he said thoughtfully.

"Why not?" Anderson asked; there was a sharp note in his voice.
 Cass shrugged his padded shoulders.
 "Don't know, dear boy—can't explain—never can explain anything. I just thought it, that's all. Grad morning, isn't it?"

 He addressed Sondra, but she seemed aware of it, and Cass filled in the following silence with a little snatch of song—
 "He told her he loved her, but, oh—how he lied!
 "Oh, how he lied! Oh, how he lied! . . . He broke off as suddenly as he commenced to say: "By Jove—that girl's got a fine figure. . . . Excuse me, it's worth following."
 And he had trotted off again before either of them could speak, riding about as badly as a man can ride.

Sondra laughed as she looked after him.
 "I never knew anyone so persistently cheerful," she said.
 "He'll break his neck before he's done," Anderson answered.
 He looked down at her.
 "Well—shall we go on?"
 "Yes."

Sondra closed her eyes, gratefully conscious of the sun upon her face. Her body felt so cold, as if the storm of emotion that had swept over her during the last few hours had taken all her vitality and bodily warmth with it.

She could not think, was not even conscious of pain; it was just as if something vital had forsaken her, leaving her empty and inert.
 It was some time before Anderson spoke again.
 "Is it too early for lunch?"
 "No, I'm rather hungry."
 "It was not the truth, but she was so used to voicing untrue platitudes. She seemed to grow suddenly aware of Anderson's silence and she roused herself to talk to him.
 "You didn't have much opportunity to speak to Cass."
 "N—it doesn't matter, I know where I can find him later on."
 She said with attempted interest, "I often wonder why you two are such friends."
 Anderson smiled. "I've often wondered myself; we've known each other a great many years; perhaps that's the explanation."
 "Is it? I shouldn't think so. There are lots of people I have known all my life and still cannot tolerate."
 "But your life has not been half the length of mine," he reminded her whimsically.
 She sighed. "Sometimes I feel as old as Methuselah."

"Only when your head aches and you want your lunch," he answered. "I am sure your head does ache, Sondra."
 "Oughtn't I to be the best judge of that?" she demanded a little querulously.
 "I beg your pardon."
 She was conscious of a faint unconsciousness. John seemed different somewhat this morning—almost like a stranger—or was it that she herself was so vitally changed?

An unexpected meeting, tomorrow, threatens Sondra with being caught in a lie before Anderson.

 All thirteen policemen were charged with conspiracy to obstruct justice and seven of them were charged with second degree assault. Deputy Police Chief Frank Tappen was named in two warrants. Once for neglect of duty and again as having been an accessory to the third degree beating of Stark which caused his death.
 All 13 were arrested in the court room where a John Doe hearing into the slaying was in progress and turned over to the sheriff, who was instructed to treat them just like any other prisoners.
 Bail was fixed by Supreme Court Justice Meier Steinbrink, who presided at the hearing and signed the warrants, at $10,000 each for the officers charged with second degree murder. Bail of $2,500 each was set for the assault charges and bail of $,500 was fixed on the conspiracy charges and neglect of duty charge against Tappen.

 Mrs. Smith and her baby were taken to a Pinehurst hospital where physicians said their conditions were critical and that it was doubtful if they would live.

The Whole Trend is toward a Milder Cigarette

Do you remember the days when you first started to smoke?

ALL CIGARETTES tasted somewhat alike to you, but after a while you noticed that some cigarettes were decidedly stronger than others . . . Remember?

As smokers become more experienced, they demand milder cigarettes. Chesterfields are milder. There is no argument about that. Their mildness is a feature as distinctive as their packaging or their trade mark. Their tobaccos are mild to begin with. Patient aging and curing make them milder still. Chesterfields contain just the right amount of Turkish—but not too much—carefully blended and cross-blended with ripe, sweet Domestic tobaccos. In this nerve-racking time, smokers—men and women—are showing a decided preference for milder cigarettes. Chesterfields are milder. They taste better. That's why "They Satisfy."

DEATHS FROM HEAT MOUNT

Two Score Victims Claimed as the Hot Weather Sweeps the United States.

(By The Associated Press)
A torrid sun scythed through the land with full-strength harvest-time heat yesterday gathering nearly two-score victims.

Relief was predicted in some of the sweltering regions today, but the Middle West wilted under a continuance of the blistering blasts.

That section led in fatalities yesterday. Seven deaths were attributed to the heat in the Chicago area where the maximum was 97.

Milwaukee, Wis., with the hottest July 19 in its history at 98, reported three deaths. Detroit's warmest weather this year brought three heat deaths and six drownings with no relief in sight.

Valentine, Neb., staggered under an official maximum of 104; Finlay, O., and Kokomo, Ind., had 103 each; and temperatures of 100 were reported in many other Middle West communities.

The East lost its comfortable weather, and as the mercury climbed in hitherto cool New England, seven drownings swelled the nation's death list.

In the South ocean breezes cooled Florida and showers brought some respite elsewhere. Clouds and rains broke the heat wave in Texas and some alleviation from 100 degree warmth was accorded Oklahoma.

Idaho was the envy of the nation with subnormal temperatures following rains. The Pacific Coast continued serene with normal weather.

Twenty others of the unionist forces were hit by shotgun pellets and another score of both affiliations battered by clubs and stones.

Chester, S. C., July 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Beatrice Ferguson Snipe today faced a formal charge of murder while her husband, Clyde Snipes denied that he had seen his wife fatally shoot Elliott Harris, York county policeman.

Mrs. Snipes, 35, of Columbia, admitted she killed Harris but contended she shot in self-defense. She was formally served with a murder warrant last night. Her husband, whom Harris was attempting to arrest at the time of the slaying, said his back was turned and he did not see the shots fired.

"I did not see her," Snipes, held as an accessory, said, "when she took the policeman's pistol and I did not see her when she fired any of the shots. My back was turned toward her."

Employees Of Courthouse Go To Morehead

Employees of the courthouse went to Morehead City this afternoon for their regular summer picnic and outing.

The courthouse closed at the noon hour in keeping with the half holiday closing plan observed here on Wednesday during the summer months, and immediately afterwards officials and assistants fled away for the cooling breezes of the beach.

They will spend the afternoon in swimming, boating and fishing, and some will probably remain over for the dance this evening.

This was the first general outing by the combined crew of the courthouse this season, and everybody was looking forward to the holiday with undisguised pleasure.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, July 20.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady 1.6 lower in response to lower Liverpool cables than expected and on fairly favorable weather reports.

The comparatively light offerings were readily taken by covering combined and trade buying. While there was also a little buying by houses with Liverpool connections, but the market worked off to 5.81 for October and 6.06 for January, making net losses of about 3 to 7 points. Covering in July held that position relatively steady but southern selling as well as scattering liquidation appeared in later months with the market otherwise showing no particular feature at the end of the first half hour.

Liverpool cables reported that covering had been supplied by hedge selling and said there was an improved business in cotton cloths for shipment to Egypt and the near East.

Stock Market

New York, July 20.—(AP)—The advance in the stock market was quickly resumed today as traders took courage from the continued steadiness of the bond market and the quiet drying up of the liquidation in shares, which appeared Monday.

The turnover in shares remained small, but shorts seeking to retire their commitments found nearby offerings scarce, and prices quickly rose a point or more in several of the leaders. There was some recession from the best in the middle of the day, but the list stiffened again in the early afternoon.

Shares rising a point or more included such issues as American Can, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas, Borden, Case, American Tobacco "B," Liggett and Myers "B," Brooklyn Manhattan, Public Service of New Jersey, Auburn, Santa Fe, and Union Pacific. U. S. Steel was up a fraction. Penney and McKesson were isolated soft spots off more than a point.

The meeting of the Railway Executives Association to discuss measures to ameliorate the situation of the carriers was watched with considerable interest. While most quarters feel that only a substantial pick-up in traffic will serve to put the roads generally on a paying basis, it is acknowledged that much may be done in the way of economies, both individually and co-operatively. The Illinois Central has been pointed to as an indication of what roads can do individually. Its net for the first half of the year actually showed a gain of about $1,000,000 over the like period of last year.

The mid-week business statistics were somewhat mixed in tenor. Sentiment seems to have improved somewhat in the steel industry, although little in the way of substantial quickening of operations is expected for some weeks. The Youngstown area, however, has shown some gain at the middle of the week as result of resumption by some plants which had been awaiting an accumulation of orders. Quick fluctuations in the rate of activity tend to increase steel making costs.

TWINS DROP 9 TO 7 GAME TO HORNETS

Charlotte, N. C., July 20.—(AP)—A trio of heavy-hitting games was entered in the Piedmont League's record books today, to record the triumphs of Charlotte, Greensboro and Raleigh in the final contests of the series just past.

Charlotte's league-pacing Hornets made a clean sweep of the two-game engagement at Winston-Salem, staving a six-run uprising in the fifth inning to down the Twins, 9 to 7. The home boys made a gallant five-run rally in the sixth, but fell short of the needed margin.

The Hornets garnered twelve hits off Mullican, Ryan and Selverson, while Merle Settemire held the Twin batsmen to eight bingles.

The Patriots of Greensboro, collected eleven hits in winning over the Durham Bulls, 9 to 3, in a loose-played contest in El Toro Park. Durham hitters got only six hits off the delivery of Ostremuller. The Pats made their score impressive by one big inning, the seventh, in which they crossed the plate five times.

A thriller was offered Capital City fans when the Raleigh Caps duplicated their Monday night performance and nosed out the Wilmington Pirates by a 10th inning rally.

Held scoreless for eight frames the lads from the seashore drove George Petty at Goat Walker from the box in the ninth with a fierce attack that netted five runs and gave them a two-run edge over Raleigh. McFadden went to the batter after Walker and halted the offensive.

But the Caps came back with three more tallies in their half of the ninth to chalk up a 6 to 5 victory.

Novocel, the Pirate third baseman, hit for the circuit, the only home run registered for the day in the league.

Sam Rice Day is Observed by The Senators

Washington, July 20.—(AP)—Sam Rice, who has been with the Senators seventeen years, is willing to vouch for the fact that there still is sentiment in baseball.

Yesterday was "Sam Rice Day" out at the American League ball park. Besides the tributes, Sam was to get all ticket receipts above the usual 5,000 Tuesday crowd.

But when tabulators finished their work, they found only 5,093 customers. President Clark Griffith of the Nationals telephoned President Frank Navin of the Detroit Tigers with the result that they decided the usual Tuesday crowd this time should be considered 3,000.

Hence Rice gets about $2,000 as his share of the purse instead of less than $100.

Besides that, the Washington outfielder hit .400 for the day, got a congratulatory message from President Hoover, a couple of silver service sets, a wrist watch, a set of golf clubs, an oil portrait of himself, an automobile, flowers, a loving cup, the ball he hit for his first single of the day an electric clock and a set of wicker furniture.

CUBS TAKE CLOSE GAME OFF GIANTS

By GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer) Having made what many predict was his valedictory as an active player, Rogers Hornsby, one of the greatest infielders of all time, has turned the job of winning the National League flag over to his youngsters.

The Rajah, dissatisfied with Stanley Hack's play at third base after Bill Jurges was laid up with gunshot wounds, stepped in to plug the hole, but after listening to the Chicago fans for five days decided to return to the cooling confines of the dugout.

In the last four times he played, the once peerless batsman collected only two hits, and his fielding was a thing of the past. When he made two errors Monday and failed to handle several other chances properly, he must have made up his mind. Today he is on the bench, and beside him sits the mighty Burleigh Grimes, waiting to do an occasional job of relief pitching. With the youthful Hack back in the line-up yesterday and the batting order juggled, the Cubs took a close one from the Giants 5-4, and gained a half-game on the leading Pittsburgh Pirates, who were splitting even with the Phils. That left the Chicagoans only two games behind.

Bill Swift pitched the Pirates to a 5-2 victory in their first bout with the Phils, his seventh straight but the eastern delegates came back to take the nightcap 6-5 in 11 innings. Phil Collins won his own game in the 11th when he tripled and scored on Bartell's single.

Ed Brandt was in top form and the Boston Braves knocked Cincinnati a little deeper into the cellar, 2-0. The St. Louis Cardinals, after being held to one hit for five innings, drove Dazzy Vance from the box in the seventh and defeated Brooklyn 5-3.

Playing without Babe Ruth, the Yankees took their fourth straight from the Chicago Sox, 6-3, with Lefty Gomez hanging up his 16th victory. The Washington Senators celebrated "Sam Rice Day" by dropping their third in a row to Detroit, 3-2.

Wes Ferrell yielded only four scattered hits as the Cleveland Indians blanked Boston 7-0. Ferrell thus came into his 17th victory, which is top for both leagues. The
