Sheriff Transou Scott said he was performing the duties of the office to which he was elected; Coroner W. N. Dalton said Mrs. Reynolds had been shown every courtesy; Assistant Solicitor J. Erle McMichael would not comment; Solicitor Carlisle Higgins was resting in the cool of his mountain home at Sparta.

Holman, an attorney of Cincinnati, made his charges in an acried telegram sent from his home. He also gave the message which was addressed to "Sheriff Transou Scott, or Solicitor Carlisle Higgins, or Assistant Solicitor J. Erle McMichael" to the press in Cincinnati.

Appalachian Coals, Inc., represents about 70 per cent of the 100,000,000 tons produced in this region in 1929.

The government seeks to prevent consummation of the proposed agreement and contract. It contends that because of the uniform selling agency contract a combination and conspiracy in restraint of interstate and foreign commerce in bituminous coal is formed, and by such means the defendants have combined and conspired to monopolize, or attempt to monopolize, a part of the interstate commerce in bituminous coal in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

It contends, too, that there was a conspiracy to create the selling agency that would regulate production, prices and the like.

Coal operators deny all allegations with reference to monopoly or that there is any intention whatsoever to restrain competition or production.

"IT'S MARVELOUS," SHE SAYS OF NEW SARGON

"I Don't Believe There's Another Medicine on Earth Like It," States Mrs. Nora Padgett.

Many marvel at the speed and thoroughness with which Sargon goes to the very source of their ills and brings them new-found health after all other medicines had apparently failed. Others are astonished at its wonderful strengthening effects. Mrs. Nora Padgett, Route 3, Spartanburg, S. C., who has taught a Sunday School class at the Methodist Church for the past seven years, declared:

"I don't believe there's another medicine on earth like this new Sargon; the way it brought back my health, strength and energy was marvelous! I was terribly rundown and awful headaches at times almost drove me frantic. I could scarcely retain a thing on my stomach. I had smothering spells and my heart would just seem to 'run away,' the pressure was awful. My nerves were so on edge I would keep waking up off and on all night, and I'd get up in the morning so tired and achy it was an effort to get anything done around the house. I suffered a great deal with constipation too, and had to take some kind of laxative every day.

"I'm like an entirely different woman since taking Sargon. It corrected my stomach trouble almost from the first few doses and even the heartiest meals don't bring on distress of any kind now. My nerves have improved wonderfully. I sleep soundly and get up mornings feeling alert and full of energy. I've helped out at my husband's store now and then without getting tired.

"I used the Sargon pills along with the tonic and they are the most natural acting laxative I've ever taken. They don't have any disagreeable effects whatever, and have regulated me perfectly."

In all cases where constipation ruins Sargon Soft Mass Pills about as quickly in connection with Sargon until regularity of bowel movement is established. Then and then only should their use be discontinued. They are unlike any laxative you have ever taken. They are so gentle and thorough and yet so natural in their action that there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine.

'Sargon Has Earned My Confidence-- I Earnestly Favor Its Use for Sickly Nervous, Run-Down People!'

—Says New York Physician.

Sargon! The medicine which has swept the nation, astounded physicians, won the high regard of druggists, nurses, ministers, governors, congressmen and senators, and has won the confidence of many of our local people.

In commenting on the value of Sargon in helping to overcome many of the every-day ailments that handicap men and women in every walk of life, Dr. G. Warburton, M. D., of New York, who was especially retained to study the Sargon formula, declared:

"Sargon should exert a beneficial blood-cleansing influence upon those simple anemic sufferers (and there are thousands) who are literally starving for lack of iron in the blood.

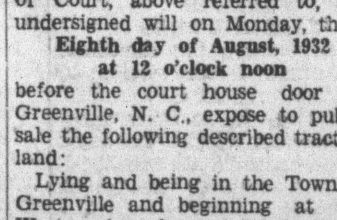

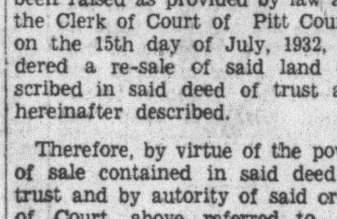

"It is not what we eat that counts, but what we assimilate. Sargon helps us to get more good out of our food, thus adding the natural building up of our strength. FITZGERALD, PHARMACEUTICALS, INC., 100 N. 3rd St., Philadelphia, Pa. Sargon is made in accordance with the Sargon principle."

COL. F. G. JAMES.

In the death of Colonel F. G. James, Greenville and Pitt County have lost one of their most prominent and beloved citizens. It is needless here for us to attempt to proclaim his activities or his achievements for during his more than sixty years of residence in this county he has won the love and esteem of our people. It is sufficient to say that he was a loving husband and father, a true friend and a citizen of the highest type, interested always in the welfare and development of the city and county.

ABOUT TOWN

Strikers are adamant in their determination not to return to work until their demands have been satisfied.

Just what this position is going to mean is difficult to determine, but in the face of existing conditions, it is to be supposed that the mill owners will give the boys time to cool off.

Strikes at this time are very deplorable. The men need the work more than the mills need the labor in face of demand for their products and this means the men will suffer more acute from a long period of idleness.

If there is anything the people of this country need at this time it is work at living prices, and if they can get that the time ought not to be far distant when normal conditions are restored.

North Carolina will be able to start first construction work from Federal relief funds during the month of August, in the opinion of members of the Highway Commission.

It has not been stated how many people would be employed on the construction forces, but it is certain that every effort will be made to provide work for as many as possible.

The whole object of the program is not so much to make improvements as to provide work for the unemployed, and the first thing to be considered is the number of men to realize from the Federal funds loaned to the State to improve conditions.

The circulation of this money will do much toward stimulating business in the areas affected, and before the program is over, it is expected common labor in all sections will derive benefit from the fund.

Distribution of funds among the average man is what the country needs for rejuvenation of business, and when that has been accomplished economic conditions everywhere will be better.

A movement is under way in this community to can fruits and vegetables for distribution among the poor during the winter months.

The assistance of clubs has been sought in an effort to finance the project, and if successful as it no doubt will be, it will be of great help to relief agencies upon whose shoulders rests the responsibility of providing for the indigent population during the cold weather.

Similar action has been taken by other communities in this State, and much of the food products wasted in bygone years will be conserved for human consumption this time.

Pitt County, as other counties in the great agricultural section, have thrown a way sufficient surplus foods in past years to feed the entire poor population, and the canning plan will prevent the waste.

Clubs should get behind the movement and do their best to see that as much canned goods as available

SYNOPSIS: Sondra Kent is sure she could not endure economy in a suburban house with Mark Merriman, and persuades John Anderson to give him a position in the Congo. Yet, when Mark is ready to sail, she realizes how much she loves him and will miss him, and marries him secretly. She is not making her marriage public, because her sister Fieca would not let her live with her, if she knew Sondra had a husband able to support her in any manner. And Sondra wants to live in luxury with Flora, while Mark earns wealth in the Congo. John Anderson loves Sondra, although he is prevented by an unhappy marriage from telling her. He has been for years an adviser, almost a guardian to her. Sondra believes her marriage may have altered her manner toward him. They ask each other, one evening, if each is bored with the other.

Chapter 13 TAKING A RISK

Sondra shrugged her shoulders. "It's no answer to one question to ask another," she said. She fancied that Anderson winced, and she said quickly, "I'm sorry, I didn't mean to be disagreeable"—and after a moment, "Thank you for your letter, John."

"The honor is mine," he answered gravely. He talked very little for her during dinner—devoting himself to the woman on his other side, and Sondra felt lightheaded.

Later in the evening when he asked if she would care to go to the races with him the following day she said coldly: "Isn't there someone else you would rather take?"

He checked a smile. "If there was, should I ask you?" "You might—if you thought I expected you to."

"Isn't that rather an insult—to yourself?" She flushed a little. "You seemed rather engrossed with Mrs. Layton at dinner time I thought," she said resentfully.

"I was trying to spare you the necessity of talking to me—after what you said." Sondra sighed. "Life's such a juggle," she said, unconsciously echoing the words Fieca had spoken earlier in the evening.

"That needs explaining," Anderson told her lightly. "Does it?" She looked at him rather wistfully then suddenly she said: "John, has it ever occurred to you—what people think of us?"

"Of you and I?" "Yes." "I never trouble my head what people think."

She was silent for a moment, then she said: "Flora came into my room this evening, and—her money was lying on the dressing-table."

"Was it?" "I didn't like it." "The remedy is in your own hands."

"What do you mean?" "Only that you should not leave money lying on your dressing table—it might be stolen."

"You're splitting straws," she said rather impatiently. "Flora knows quite well that I can't dress as I do—on what she gives me."

"She must have known that for some time."

"Yes—but it was only tonight—that I realized it."

"Why tonight?" "I don't know; at least—she broke off. She knew well enough—it was Mark who had made her be made accessible to the relief committee when the cold weather rolls around again."

The disarmament conference has suspended work indefinitely at Geneva with assurance that armaments will be reduced at sessions at a later date. The promise is comforting to say the least, but what the country wants to see is actual reduction whereby the nations may save millions of dollars.

The question is one of paramount importance to the entire world especially in face of unusual conditions arising from the economic situation. The various nations must make an effort to determine what they can do without and not what they are going to need to meet certain requirements before a definite decision can be reached, and the sooner they realize this fact and get down to business, the quicker some relief will be furnished the taxpayers.

It was raining hard. Sondra stood at the window of Flora's drawing room, drumming her fingers on the window down which the big drops fell in an endless stream.

participation to spending the month of June in Massachusetts with Beatrice Taylor. It seemed queer. As she looked out at the pitiless rain and watched the postman making his way from door to door there was a strange little feeling of shame in Sondra's heart that she had—if not forgotten Mark altogether—at least she had learnt to do without him. Stephen Cassidy brings Sondra starting news in the next installment.

I got water from a small mountain stream and caught a few crabs and ate them. "July 13 was my lucky day. That evening I came upon a herd of cows beside a stream, and what do you hope was the sight of four calves tied to trees. I knew somebody eventually would come to untie those calves, so I stopped right there. I was too weak even to try to milk a cow. "The next morning the Indian boy came. I mentioned that I wanted some food. He milked a cow and gave me some milk and some cheese he had. By signs I told him of my predicament and he understood. He built a small lean-to to protect me and left for help.

Moore, suspecting that the ring was of considerable value, carried it to Best's jewelry store to determine its value and to attempt to get a line on the owner. Bob Green, manager of the store, immediately recognized the ring as the property of a local citizen who had procured a loan on it, and notified the bank. Bank officials immediately got busy and in a short time the youthful janitor was under arrest and was said to have confessed the crime. He was held in city jail until yesterday when he was released to await action of Juvenile Court. J. Frank Harrington, Clerk of Court, who is also judge of Juvenile Court, said he would probably dispose of the case during the early part of the week.

THINK MELLON WILL RESIGN

(Continued from Page One) bassy work. He, himself, said the trip had no political significance. Today, however, his leaving was coupled with the departure of the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, from Washington and other newspapers besides the Herald printed dispatches from New York and Washington speculating on the coincidence. Before he left here the ambassador indicated to his associates he intended to remain in the United States two or three weeks and be back in London before the end of August. So far as was known in official circles here today his plans have not been changed. There has been no official intimation whatever that he had any intention of relinquishing his post. The visit is purely personal, it was said, and was planned sometime ago.

Washington, July 25.—(AP)—The State Department said today it had no knowledge of reports from abroad that Andrew Mellon plays to resign his post as Ambassador to Great Britain.

Los Angeles.—W. J. Kirkpatrick made good his boast, but the cost was heavy. Often he told his friends no robber could make him submit. Dropping in a jewelry store just as three hold-up men went to work, he was ordered to raise his hands. He calmly turned around to walk out—and was shot dead.

TURNAGE BROTHERS COMPANY INCORPORATED AYDEN, NORTH CAROLINA J. R. TURNAGE, PRESIDENT T. G. WORTHINGTON, SECRETARY July 23, 1932. Mr. D. J. Whichard, Editor, Daily Reflector, Greenville, N. C. Dear Dave: In your issue of the 21st you carried an advertisement in your paper, advertising the stock of merchandise recently purchased by me and formerly owned by my brother, Roy L. Turnage. I thought you would be interested perhaps in knowing the results obtained from this advertisement. From the moment the doors opened on yesterday morning, great crowds thronged the store all day until the closing hour at 7 p. m. On account of the immense crowd, it was necessary to close the doors a number of times during the day. The fact that so many people from Greenville and the surrounding territory attended the sale on yesterday, is evidence to me that the advertisement inserted in your paper about this stock of merchandise was most effective. More than a thousand people attended the sale on yesterday and I am anticipating equally as large crowd today will be in attendance. I wish to take this opportunity to thank you for the splendid results obtained from this advertisement. With best wishes, Yours very truly, (Signed): J. R. TURNAGE.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, July 25.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 4 to 6 points lower in response to lower Liverpool cables and on generally favorable weather over the week-end.

Further selling through brokers presumed to be operating for the cooperative interests was reported at the opening, but offerings were light and the market steadied after the call on trade buying and covering.

October, which had sold off to 5.68 at the start, rallied to 5.74, while December sold up to 5.89, making the general list about net unchanged to 4 points net higher at the end of the first half hour.

Liverpool cables said there had been continental selling and hedging in that market and reported a moderate British home trade demand for cotton cloths.

Grain Market

Chicago, July 25.—(AP)—Under a noticeable curtailment of speculative buying, grain prices declined today after an early advance.

Shrinkage of buying demand for wheat was attributed in part to unsettled trade as a result of Washington administrative steps toward a shutdown of grain exchange operations here.

Scattered showings in the American and Canadian northwest were also a bearish factor.

Stock Market

New York, July 25.—(AP)—With shorts on the run, speculators for the rise were able today to push the stock market out of its narrow trading range of the past two months up to the best average level since May.

The move was rather selective, but Tobaccos, Oils, Steels, some of the Utilities and Rails, were sent up 1 to more than 2 points with apparently little effort.

Brokers gossiped had it that shorts were unnerved over the prospect that U. S. Steel would order the regular preferred dividend tomorrow, and that its quarterly earnings may not show a severe deficit as had been predicted.

Among issues up about 2 points or more were U. S. Steel preferred, Bethlehem preferred, American Tobacco B, Liggett & Myers B, Consolidated Gas, Allied Chemical, Union Pacific, National Biscuit, Drug, Standard of California and Consolidated Oil preferred.

Shares up a point or more included American Can, American Telephone, Norfolk and Western, Standard of New Jersey, Consolidated Oil common, Atlantic Refining, American Water Works, Sears-Roebuck, and others.

Santa Fe and Bethlehem Steel common rose a point, then slipped back in a temporary sag in the general list just before midday.

Reading Company and Crucible preferred shot up 5 points.

In addition to expectations that the U. S. Steel directors would order the regular preferred dividend at their meeting late tomorrow, steel shares were helped by trade surveys indicating a slight but not yet conclusive quickening of ingot output this week, and a growing feeling in the trade that with production well below the per capita consumption as far back as 1930, before the days of automobiles and skyscrapers, some improvement must materialize before many more months. The move, however, was frankly based on hopes.

In the oils, a turn has been reflected in actual earnings. For the June quarter, Phillips reported net of 32 cents a share, against a substantial loss in the like period of last year. A few railroads are showing the results of economies. Reading Company, according to a news ticker forecast, will report June net above a year ago.

Southern Pacific, however, reported June net of $692,729, a drastic decline from the $3,852,453 reported a year previously.

fact she had testified in court that the money taken from her in the highway robbery was all she had in the world.

The fund at Wilson was seized under court order, and was released several weeks ago to permit the settlement of debts incurred by the Ballard.

The death of Ballard removes one of the State's principal witnesses in the highway robbery case to be given a second hearing in criminal court here probably during the fall, and this, combined with the finding of the fund in the Wilson bank, is expected to give the case a entirely different complexion.

Aged Colored Man Dies at Home Here

Amos Elks, 86, highly respected colored man, passed away at his home here yesterday morning at 11:30 o'clock. He will be buried Wednesday at 1 o'clock.

Elks was one of the most substantial colored men of the community, and enjoyed the respect and confidence of members of both races. He was a native of this county and spent practically his entire life in Greenville where he had scores of friends who received news of his death in profound sorrow.

RAIN CARRIES RELIEF SOUTH

Temperatures in the middle 90's persisted from Jacksonville to Savannah, Ga., Charleston, S. C., and Wilmington, N. C., but clouds cooled Little Rock, Ark., after a 91 maximum and the mercury dropped from 91 at New Orleans as rains fell.

Tennessee points had 90-degree readings and Richmond Va., was comfortable with a high of 82.

HOLMAN RAPS N. C. OFFICERS

Objecting to the possible presumption from the report that his daughter was attempting to conceal her whereabouts from authorities, Holman said, "Mrs. Smith Reynolds has not disappeared and is available any time the cause of justice demands and her shattered mind and nerves permit."

Commander whenever you believe Mrs. Reynolds' presence in Winston-Salem is necessary. Holman said his daughter was keeping the doors closed until the workers can return to their posts in a peaceful atmosphere. A strong police guard had been ordered to the mill today after other strikers threatened violence in the plant attempted to reopen.

State highway patrolmen were ordered here to reinforce local officers.

At a mass meeting where announcements of the plans of the Diamond mill employees was made, there were cries from strikers of "You won't go to work, you'll go to Almighty God," and "Go to work but don't take your lunch, we'll get you out in time for it."

Meanwhile, with every state highway patrolman here except two who are ill, City Manager E. M. Knox announced that High Point "has provided ample protection for any mills or employes that need or desire that protection to return to work."

He said the city "will not continue to maintain this protection in the face of the manufacturers' inability to agree" on a definite course of action and added that the city "in no way" is doing anything to break or prolong the strike.

Knox did not amplify his statement regarding how long the patrolmen would remain stationed here. It is understood by the city officials that more than half of the mills and employes concerned are in sufficient agreement to make peaceful resumption of operations possible but apparently the mill officials were waiting until they are sure no complications would arise from their opening their doors to the idle workers.

Approximately 6,000 hosiery workers struck last Tuesday when some mills cut the wage for boarding room employes to $1.50 per hundred dozen pairs. Last April 1 the wage in most plans was cut from $2.50 per hundred dozen pairs to $2.00.

The strikers demanded a return to the wage prevailing before April 1 and were met with a counter-proposition from the manufacturers to pay $2.00. This offer was refused.

'MA' FERGUSON LEADS VOTING

Ma's campaign largely was conducted in the columns of the "Ferguson Forum," a weekly newspaper. It was featured by attacks on reputed extravagance of the Sterling administration.

A proposal that Congress be petitioned to submit repeal or retention of national prohibition to the states carried two to one, but less than half the Democrats had expressed themselves on the issue.

Prohibition leaders claimed that the majority abstaining from the vote were of the prohibition faith. United States Senator Morris Sheppard, co-author of the Eighteenth Amendment, withheld comment on the significance of the referendum.

Rom H. Hunter, independent oil operator of Wichita Falls, was a strong third in the governor's race. The latest returns gave him 139,944 votes; Sterling 191,428, and Mrs. Ferguson 264,594.

DAWN TO DUSK FLIGHT

(Continued from Page One) miles through 14 states. Thirty packages of letters were aboard the plane and the fier planned to drop them at intervals as he roared along his proposed route. Besides airmail stamps, the letters carried special tags requesting the finder to take them to the nearest postoffice.

It was hoped they would all be placed in the mail for delivery by tomorrow, July 26. On this date, in 1775, the Continental Congress established the postal service with Benjamin Franklin as its chief.

In New England, Major Doolittle's proposed route covered Kittery, Portsmouth, N. H., Boston, Providence, R. I., and New Haven, Conn. From the latter city he would fly over Brooklyn, Monmouth, N. J., Morristown, Trenton, Philadelphia, Valley Forge, Wilmington, Annapolis and Washington. He hoped to arrive at Washington about 7 p. m.

BORAH ADVOCACY OF DEBT REVISION DRAWING FIRE

But congressional leaders who were in town asked the question over. They conceded the proposal was important because Borah is chairman of the foreign relations committee and generally is recognized as an outstanding spokesman of international problems.

Senator Lewis, Illinois Democrat on Borah's committee, found himself "little less than astonished" at the idea of placing the war debt question before a conference controlled by debtors to the United States.

Senator Smoot of Utah, Republican, who heads the finance committee, expressed an inability to see "why we should make further sacrifices."

"I can't see what we could gain and I think our sacrifices have been all that the other countries could ask," he added.

Others, including Rep. Rainey of Illinois, House Democratic leader, stuck to their positions that the attitude of Congress has not changed. They held failure of President Hoover's appeal for recreation of the debt funding commission to meet even partial success in the seven months session just ended still reflected Congress' attitude.

COMPLETE SHUTDOWN OF MILLS CONTINUES IN THE HIGH POINT STRIKE ZONE

Frank Wineskie, president of the mill, said today his employes want to return to work and that they will "as soon as conditions permit."

He said officials of the mill were keeping the doors closed until the

YANKS DOWN ATHLETICS BY 9 TO 3 SCORE

By GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer) Lefty Gomez, who in less than two seasons has risen to the status of the game's greatest pitcher, finally has achieved his most burning ambition—a personal triumph over Robert Moses Grove, the veteran he supplanted.

The two great southpaws clashed yesterday for the first time, and the Yankee star scored an impressive victory, 9 to 3. It marked the Castilian's sixth consecutive win over the Athletics this year and his ninth in ten times he has faced the former champions in two years.

It turned out to be much of a battle. While Gomez did his part, shutting the Athletics out with four hits until the eighth inning, Grove was battered for eleven hits and six bases on balls. Joe Sewell led the Yankee attack with five blows, including a home run.

The defeat cost Philadelphia second place in the American League, the Cleveland Indians passing them with a pair of victories over Chicago, 9 to 7, and 9 to 6.

St. Louis and Detroit broke even, the Tigers taking the first, 6 to 2, after a first inning outburst that scored four runs, and the Browns scoring back in the nightcap, 10 to 7, to give Wally Herbert his first win in nine games.

Although Dale Alexander clouted a home run with two on, the Boston Red Sox bowed to Washington, 12 to 6. Five pitchers tried their hand for the losers.

The Pittsburgh Pirates held their four and one-half game lead over the National League by dividing with Chicago. The Cubs captured the first, 7 to 2, as Lonnie Warneke registered his fifteenth victory, but the Corsairs took the second, 7 to 5, thanks to some great relief pitching by Bill Harris and a homer by Gus Suhr with two on.

St. Louis built up its fences with two triumphs over Cincinnati, 7 to 3, and 1 to 0. St. John's batted four Cardinal pitchers for thirteen innings before his own error cost him defeat in the second game.

Boston and New York broke even for the day, the Braves winning 4 to 3 and the Giants 7 to 3.

Dazy Vance, by striking out ten batters, and Hack Wilson, hitting his seventeenth home run with two mates on base, enabled Brooklyn to defeat the Phillies, 5 to 4, and break a five-game losing streak.

SLUMP HITS HORNET CREW

Charlotte, N. C., July 25.—(AP)—Unless all the signs fall, one of those slumps which catches them all once in a while has the Charlotte Hornets, and before this week is over another club may be leading the Piedmont League.

After winning fifteen of seventeen games played during the second half the Hornets dropped three in a row last week-end to Greensboro. The Pats were running under full steam and took them in their stride, but nevertheless, there were alal the earmarks of a slump in the play of the Hornets.

The victories let the Pats creep within a game and a half of the league leaders and gave them a record of five games won and two lost for the week's play.

The chances for the Patriots to overtake the Hornets were strengthened by the schedule for the series opening today. Greensboro took on the weaker Wilmington club while Charlotte clashed with the always tough Caps.

Most of the honors for last week's play were carried off by the Patriots. They scored the most runs, held their opponents to the least number, made the most hits, and most home runs, and tied for leadership in double plays. The one weak spot was a tie for leadership in number of errors.

Charlotte won four games and lost three. Wilmington lost five of six encounters.
