High Point Mills Again Throw Open Their Doors But Workers Remain Out

SITUATION IS STILL QUIET

Workers Return to Amos Mill But Leave In Face of Wage Cut Poster; Police Forces Reduced and Only Highway Patrolmen and Local Police Stay on Duty; Strikers Return at Kernersville

High Point, N. C., July 29.—(AP)—High Point's twenty-four hosiery mills opened their doors again today to 6,000 striking workers who, uninterested in the owners' wage offers, refused to return to work.

Yesterday the mills opened for the first time since the general walkout over ten days ago, but only a small portion of the strikers returned. Today the number was reduced.

Early today workers at the Amos Mill which had come to terms with a portion of the strikers regarding a higher wage scale, walked out. They said a wage cut notice for several weeks hence was posted as they returned and so they walked out again, leaving the mill idle today.

The situation remained quiet. Police forces were cut down and only State Highway patrolmen and local police remained in the strike vicinity.

A few workers were back at their posts at the Adams-Mills plant and a few were at work in small, outlying plants, but for the most part the strikers maintained their union in a demand for a higher wage scale than offered by the manufacturers and remained absent from their posts.

Apparently, those still on strike today were considered resigned, for yesterday the mill owners said all workers who failed to return to work would be considered employees of the mill's concerned no longer.

Today, however, there was no amplification of this statement, and the workers, still silent, held out for an upward revision of their wages.

Kernersville, N. C., July 29.—(AP)—M. W. Tucker, assistant superintendent of the Adams-Mills Hosiery Mill branch here, announced that all of the 235 workers in the local plant have returned to work.

Mount Airy, N. C., July 29.—(AP)—Approximately 300 workers at the Mount Airy Mantle and Table Company remained on strike today for a higher wage scale than that offered by the mill owners.

The men struck last week when they said their wages had been cut an estimated 50 per cent during an eighteen-month period.

Daily meetings are being held, but the absence of George Graves, president of the company, has prevented negotiations looking toward a resumption of work.

Owen Faced By New Charges

Greensboro, N. C., July 29.—(AP)—Bert B. Owens, insurance agent, today faced charges of grand larceny and highway robbery, in addition to the charge of assault with intent to kill William E. French, former traveling salesman, here.

Owens and Mrs. French were placed on trial yesterday on the charge of attempting to kill her husband. French testified that she lured him to the outskirts of Greensboro and that Owens shot him.

Owens was arrested late yesterday on the robbery charge, based on the hold-up of a chain grocery store in which 750 was taken at pistol point July 9. He was also charged with stealing an automobile valued at $350.

SIDELIGHTS ON BONUS RIOTING

Various Incidents Are Taking Place During Eviction of Veterans From Capital

Washington, July 29.—(AP)—With these words, a veteran started to argue an order by Pelham D. Glassford, police superintendent that nobody could re-enter the ravaged Anacostia camp.

"Well, Commander Waters—

"You can stop right there," Glassford said sharply. "I want you to understand that the bonus army is a thing of the past and you are now rioters and every one of you will be removed from the city. That's your status now."

One group of veterans, ousted from Anacostia, was stopped by a raised drawbridge. Said a Kansan: "Wal, they make us go and they won't let us out."

A cavalryman, cut off from his fellows, spurred his horse plunging through a threatening line of bonus marchers. When the soldier reached his troop with comparative safety, he leaned over, calmed the horse with a pat on the neck and murmured: "Good boy!"

Motion picture trucks, darting in and out of skirmishes in the capital, were about the only thing that kept the scenes at times from looking like a repetition of war days.

One woman, packing her trunk, was allowed to stay in a Pennsylvania avenue hut long enough to finish the job while men were hustled out.

Chased from their shelters, bewildered groups of marchers wandered about the streets for a time, piling their blanket rolls along the fences and curbstones while they decided what to do.

A water cask delayed the attack on the radical camp. But after cavalrymen and veteran alike drank, the drive went on.

Glassford lost his gold badge in a melee. An obliging veteran returned it later.

General Douglas MacArthur, chief of army staff, when he arrived with the soldiers, answered all questions as to what he was going to do with (Continued on page two)

N. C. TO VOTE ON AMENDMENTS

Four Constitutional Issues to Come Up for Consideration in November Election

Raleigh, July 29.—(AP)—North Carolinians will hear personalities, parties and prohibition discussed before the November general elections and on the side-lines at all "times will be talk pro and con on 'four constitutional amendments to be voted on."

One of the most important amendments proposed in recent years will be that which will provide "a way of amending the constitution."

Under the present constitution it can only be amended at general elections but if the proposed amendment gets a majority vote amendments may be voted on in the future at special elections or at general elections.

With a constitutional commission now engaged in drawing up changes in the state's basic law to recommend to the 1933 General Assembly special importance is attached to the proposed amendment by leading citizens of the state, both Democratic and Republican.

Leaders Say No Effort Made to Wreck Confidence in American Banks

New York, July 29.—(AP)—Communist leaders entered a general denial today of charges that members of their party had engaged in any so-called "whispering campaign" to wreck confidence in the country's banking institutions.

Statements were issued by Israel Amter, Communist candidate for governor of New York, and by the united front Communist election campaign committee, of which N. S. Savenis is head, in addition to a denial of the charges last night by C. A. Hathaway, chairman of the national Communist campaign committee.

"The whole thing is obviously a red scare in order to justify police and gangster attacks on the August 1st demonstrations of the Communist party," said Amter. "This is the usual practice of the capitalist authorities."

The statement from the united front committee described the charges as "ridiculous."

PUSH FIGHT ON TYPHOID HERE

Health Department to Be Open for Vaccination Every Day Next Week

In an effort to speed up the typhoid immunization campaign in this county, Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of the Pitt County Department of Health, announced today that vaccinations would be given at the Health Department in the courthouse every day next week.

Public health workers will be at the office every morning from 8:15 to 10 o'clock for the purpose of giving vaccinations, and the office will be open for the same purpose all day Saturday.

After the morning hours, the workers will go to other sections of the county for regular clinic duty, and people who have not yet immunized themselves against typhoid were urged by the health director to take advantage of this opportunity.

Dr. McGeachy said yesterday that over six thousand people had been vaccinated in this county during the present summer, and with several more clinics to be held, expressed belief Pitt county would outstrip all other counties from the standpoint of numbers inoculated.

Discussing the scope of the fever this year, Dr. McGeachy stated the situation was no worse than it was last year. Fourteen cases with two deaths have been recorded this summer as against seventeen and (Continued on Page Three)

BONUS SEEKERS LEAVING CITY

Head of Veterans Organization Says Attempt Will Be Made to Set Up New Organization; Police-man Injured in Rioting Remains in Serious Condition; Veterans Forced to Evacuate Camp in Maryland

Washington, July 29.—(AP)—A Federal grand jury investigation, to be undertaken at the direction of President Hoover, loomed today in the wake of yesterday's tragic clashes between the police and bonus-demanding veterans and later between Federal troops and the rebellious squatters of Federal property.

While a more or less general exodus from the city appeared to be taking place among the veterans, their families and adherents, and with infantrymen standing guard over the four encampments which had been bathed in tear gas to force the occupants out yesterday and last night, the Justice Department issued this statement:

"In response to the President's direction to the Attorney General to inquire into the recent disorders in the city the Supreme Court of the District has been requested to lay the subject forthwith before the grand jury now in session."

At Emergency Hospital, Private George Scott—the policeman first injured in the clashes—remained in a serious condition from a fractured skull caused when hit by a brick.

On behalf of Walter W. Waters, the one-time commander of the "B. E. F.," it was said an attempt would be made to set up a national organization among the veterans.

One of his aides headed toward Johnston, Pa., with a view to setting up headquarters there. Also, a group of veterans who had spent the night in Virginia were allowed to re-enter the city and escorted to the Maryland border line on their way, they said, to Johnston.

Meanwhile, in nearby Maryland a mile from the Anacostia camp that was razed by fire last night, a number of veterans voluntarily evacuated "Camp Sims" after a visit from a National Guard officer of Maryland.

The officer informed them that he expected orders later today to clear out the camp.

Camp Sims was a small group of tents in which most of the sick and disabled from the bonus army were cared for.

There were no signs of disorder today, but soldiers and police were held in readiness—especially in the vicinity of the White House.

There it was said that numerous overnight communications had arrived from radical organizations, protesting and threatening the government as the result of the happenings of yesterday.

Members of the "B. E. F." who had gone to a private estate, christened Camp Bartlett, 1.66 miles from the burned Anacostia camp, gathered today their few belongings to depart this forenoon. Many swung packs over their backs and left individually or in small groups.

A few returned to the Anacostia flats and sought permission to search among the charred ruins for belongings they had left in evacuating last night before the arrival of troops.

The number became so great that orders were issued that no one be allowed among the ruins, some of them still burning or smoldering.

At Camp Bartlett the men had a light breakfast of stew and bread. A milk company donated sufficient milk for children.

Veterans who had brought their families here were at a loss to know where to live after the eviction. Men, women and children sat on trunks or boxes along the curb until helpful comrades offered lifts out (Continued on Page Three)

ABOUT TOWN

With appropriations of $500,000 announced for Great Smoky Mountain National Park, further relief for unemployment is assured for workmen in this state.

An enormous amount of work will have to be done before the park becomes what it should be and the labor to be used for this purpose should do its bit toward relieving the unemployment situation.

Construction work of this kind is what the entire nation needs to lift it from the morass of depression, and the greater the volume the sooner conditions will improve.

Another indication that business is on the up-grade in this state is seen in the announcement that charters were granted to more than 2,500 new businesses during the two year period ending June 30.

As long as people continue to make investments of this kind nobody should have the slightest fear concerning the future of the state. North Carolina people have always faced serious economic conditions with equanimity and the report of new business for the two year period shows they have lost none of their even-mindedness.

While it will take a year or more to see the effect of economic rehabilitation plans now being developed in this country, a change is in the offing and when it comes North Carolina will be among the first to lift her head from the quagmire of despond.

While the typhoid fever situation is serious in some sections of the state, it is no worse in Pitt county than it was last year, in the opinion of Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of the County Health Department.

Discussing the situation yesterday the health director stated that there had been fourteen cases of typhoid reported in the county this year with two deaths, against seventeen cases and three deaths last year.

This condition was considered very favorable in view of the widespread scope assumed by the fever in some other sections. In fact, it is remarkably fine and will improve each year if the people take advantage of the campaign launched by the health department to eliminate fever.

Clinics held in various parts of the county from summer to summer have helped tremendously to reduce the fever, and if all the people were to take advantage of free vaccinations it would not be many years before typhoid fever would be practically unheard of.

Although the campaign is not over here, over six thousand people have been inoculated this season. The health officers expressed belief the county would surpass all other counties in the state for the number of vaccinations given, regardless of population.

This shows the people are co-operating splendidly with the department in its effort to curtail fever and if they will continue to do that the condition will be far better in years than it is today.

Pitt county Democrats are prepared to begin campaigning for the presidential election as soon as state leaders give the word, it was stated yesterday by W. E. Hoke, of Ayden, chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee.

Believing that his party stands better chance of regaining power this year than in many past years, the chairman is anxious to get the ball rolling and let the people know about some of the reasons they should vote for the Democratic party.

First and foremost will be the perilous times which the business world has faced the last two years and the inability of the Republican party to do anything about it.

The Democrats firmly believe that by inaugurating a program of thrift and lowering the tariff rates they will be able to bring about a revival of business with other nations. The tariff wall has worked unpeppable harm the last several

The Faithful

Cheat

By Ruby M. Ayres

SYNOPSIS: Troubles crowd upon Sondra Kent Merriman. She is secretly married to Mark Merriman, who is in the Congo trying to become wealthy. Her friend, John Anderson, seems to have become distant. And now her sister Flora, with whom she lives, tells her she is going to leave her husband, Ben.

Chapter 17 A NEW ANDERSON

Flora was proposing to behave in an abominably selfish way. And yet—was she herself any less selfish, Sondra wondered.

Sondra knew she was not. She cared nothing for Flora's happiness as long as her own life was secure; she had not even cared for Mark's happiness. She had not been willing to share his life with him, and she had snarled from the hardships and discomforts.

If she could only see him again, just for a moment, only be reassured by his love. She hardly closed her eyes all night, and when the maid came in the next morning her first question was—

"Have you seen Mrs. Lomax this morning?"

"Yes, miss—"

"Is she... quite well?" Sondra asked.

"Oh, yes, miss—I am taking her breakfast up at nine."

Sondra gave a sigh of relief. Last night was a bad dream which the daylight had dispelled.

When the maid had gone she took up the telephone receiver from beside the bed and called John.

Silly to feel so diffident where he was concerned; they had parted the best of friends.

Anderson's man answered the phone—Mr. Anderson was not yet up, he told Sondra.

He evidently recognized her voice for he asked if she could give a message.

"No—nothing thanks; just ask Mr. Anderson to ring me later."

She tried to feel reassured, but there was a dark little spot of doubt in her mind; supposing John did not phone?

She dressed and went to Flora's room.

Flora was breakfasting in bed; she looked very much as usual and made no reference to their conversation of the night before.

Sondra felt comforted. People said all sort of silly things late at night, when they were tired and overwrought.

At half-past ten when Anderson had not phoned, Sondra went out. She told the maid casually that if Anderson called, to say she would be in during the afternoon.

She went to the park and met Beatrice Taylor.

Beatrice looked fluffly and frilly as usual. "You look worn out," she said bluntly.

Sondra flushed. "My head aches," she said untruthfully. "I thought the air would do it good."

They walked along together, and Beatrice said with a giggle:

"I met Mr. Anderson a moment ago. He's so good looking—I haven't seen him since that day you were lurching with him and I nearly gave the game away, do you remember?"

Sondra nodded; that was a day she would gladly have forgotten.

"I've never asked you before—"

Beatrice went on. "But do tell me, darling, where were you that night when you were supposed to have been with me?"

Sondra tried to laugh. "Wouldn't you like to know!" she said lightly.

"That means that you don't intend to tell me," Beatrice sighed.

"All right—I'm not curious, but you know I don't believe Mr. Anderson believed either of us."

"Why shouldn't he? It's no concern of his anyway."

Beatrice gave her a quick glance. "Oh—well!" she said.

There was a little silence.

"It's such a pity he isn't a widower," Beatrice said thoughtfully, after a moment. "But women like Evelyn Anderson never die, do they? I should think she will live to be a about a hundred."

"I hope she does," Sondra said calmly.

Beatrice giggled again. "Darling, you're such a shocking liar," she said. "And talking of the devil—here comes Mr. Anderson. I'll disappear. I'm sure you don't want me! or at any rate, I am sure he doesn't." And in spite of Sondra's protestations, she took her departure just as Anderson drew near.

Sondra tried to meet him calmly. "I believe Beatrice is afraid of you," she said with a light laugh.

"She ran away as soon as she saw you coming. How are you, John?"

"Very well, and you?"

"Splendid thanks."

He turned and strolled beside her. He looked very bronzed and fit, but once again Sondra had the strange feeling that there was something different about him—or was it some change in herself that made it hard to feel and speak naturally.

"I ran you up at a shockingly early hour this morning," she said, breaking the silence. "You were still in bed."

"Yes—Janson told me." She was conscious of a sudden queer feeling.

"I asked you to ring me up," she said with an effort to speak lightly.

"I got your message, but I was in a hurry—was it anything important?"

"No, only to say how are you? and that I am sorry I could not meet you yesterday."

"I hardly expected you."

"Cas was there—he told me you had an engagement."

"I should not have had one, had I known you were expected," Sondra said impulsively, and then would have given five years of her life not to have said it.

"I was always a bad hand at writing letters," Anderson said. She rallied with an effort.

"Well, now we have met again, would you like to lunch with me?" she asked laughingly. "I'm at an entirely loose end for once."

"I should have liked it immensely, but unfortunately I have a luncheon engagement."

"I see," Sondra was conscious of a sudden tightening in her throat. He was lurching with Nathalie Symons, of course.

"Some other day then," she said with an effort.

"I shall be delighted."

It was all so terribly formal; it would have thought they were the merest acquaintances.

A month ago Anderson would never have dreamed of making any engagements for the first day of his return, except with her!

A month ago she could have managed this man without the least effort, but today she found herself exerting every nerve to win back to the old footing that had existed between them.

Ben gives Sondra a shock tomorrow, with a sudden announcement.

STUDY DENIAL OF WALKER

complaint that he was unfit to remain in office was submitted to the governor yesterday. In 27,000 words he set forth his reasons for contending that Seabury and others who sought his removal were wrong in believing that he had used his office for personal gain.

"Since the day of my birth,"

Walker assured Roosevelt, "I have lived my life in the open. Whatever shortcomings I have are known to everyone—but disloyalty to my native city, official dishonesty or corruption, form no part of these shortcomings."

The mayor denied all accusations and assailed bitterly the counsel to the Hofstadter legislative committee. He said that in one instance "Mr. Seabury deliberately falsifies the meaning of the record."

Lashing back at the Republican legislature which ordered the inquiry "was conceived, born and fostered in politics."

Governor Roosevelt may either remove Walker or exonerate him. Walker informed the governor that "with all the power of the State of New York behind the investigation" Seabury was "unable to find or to charge that I had caused the wrongful expenditure or loss of a single dollar to the people of New York City out of upwards of $5,000,000,000 expended during my whole administration."

He denied Russel T. Sherwood, missing accountant, was his agent. Of Seabury's claim that Sherwood had deposited $1,000,000 which the mayor failed to explain, Walker said: "These accounts were not my accounts and I had no beneficial interest in these accounts. I did not have any knowledge of these accounts. Under the circumstances it is absurd to expect me to explain anything about them."

Of his relations with Paul Block, publisher, with whom he operated a joint brokerage account, Walker said: "Evidently counsel to the committee cannot understand friendship without an ulterior motive."

"Mr. Block, who has been my intimate personal friend for many years, is a man of great wealth. He has no need of anything which I as mayor could give him. He would not ask any favor or consideration to which the slightest impropriety could be attached, and he did not."

COMMENT ON METHODS USED AGAINST VETS

rioting and defiance of civil authority. I have asked the army to assist the District authorities to restore order. Congress made provisions for the return home of the so-called bonus marchers. A considerable part of those remaining are not veterans; many are Communists and persons with criminal records. The veterans amongst these numbers are no doubt unaware of the character of their companions and are being led into violence which no government can tolerate."

General Douglas MacArthur, chief of army staff—

"The President would have been derelict in his duty if he had not acted. He had gone the limit in the exercise of patience before he used force. It was bad looking mob which we faced on Pennsylvania Avenue and it was animated by the essence of revolution. It had come to the conclusion because of kind treatment that it was about to take direct control by indirect methods."

Walter W. Waters, commander-in-chief of the B. E. F.—

"The men got out of control. There was nothing and is nothing I can do to control them. What happened is weighing very heavily on me. Every drop of blood shed, or that may be shed in days to come as the result of these events can be laid directly on the threshold of the White House."

Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police—

"I handled the situation for nearly two months without bloodshed. But subsequent orders, I am sorry to say, resulted in the death of one man. The veterans, their organization broken up, now will be on the hands of police, but not restrained by their leaders."

Attorney General Mitchell, ordering the arrest of all law violators—

"Many (bonus army members) are violating the laws of the District. It is high time this conduct should end. No one has any disposition to be unduly harsh... but it is hoped that these men and their leaders will realize that the illegal possession of government property and other unlawful conduct cannot be longer tolerated."

Policeman George Shinault, who fatally shot William Hushka—

"They were attacking me. It was shoot or get killed."

HITLER CALLS OUT TROOPERS

Nazi organizations had received orders to stand by.

There was no precise indication as to the purpose of the concentration except that they were instructed to provide themselves with three days' rations and sleeping equipment.

The opposition opened a smashing last-minute drive today against Adolf Hitler, after the Nazi leader had suddenly refused to make a widely advertised campaign address over the radio last night.

Hitler's action of the microphone, taunted the Socialist press. "He's afraid he'll flop when deprived of his soldiers, his rooting sections, his bands, music, salutes and dramatic entrances."

Addressing a crowd of 60,000 last night, Ernest Thaelmann, Communist leader, said capitalism in Germany was "at its rope's end." The crowd cheered as he compared the record of Soviet Russia with that of Germany.

SIDELIGHTS ON RIOTING

"Just watch me."

The flag several times was a rallying point for veterans. Once a negro, forcing his way into the street, was knocked down and his standard taken away by a cavalryman. The bonus army's advance halted. Again, a number of veterans gathered around a big American flag at Anacostia. Infantrymen with fixed bayonets finally made them move on where gas had failed.

FIVE DIE IN MINE SHAFT

and two miners lost their lives trying to rescue them.

Four youngsters made the experiment, clambering down a rickety ladder in an abandoned shaft not far from town yesterday. The first one down choked as gas seeping from the worked-out vein overcame him. He lost his hold on the ladder and dropped forty feet into a pool of water at the bottom.

Two of the others had started right behind him. They too lost consciousness and fell.

Six-year-old Joe O'Leary, the fourth, had lingered a little. He saw his friends drop and fled terrified, coming back with his father and several other men.

Two of the men started down the ladder. Both succumbed to the gas and fell. By this time a crowd had gathered about the head of the shaft and a hundred men had been mobilized for the rescue. One of them was lowered on a rope and stayed down long enough to tie a line about one of the bodies. It was hauled to the surface, but the rescuer also was unconscious when he was lifted out. While a doctor revived him other men went down and by evening all the bodies had been recovered. The three boys and two men who first attempted the rescue were dead.

They were: Alwyn Gaudine, 9; Cyril Strack, 13; his brother, Vernon Strack, 10; Vernon Betts, 37 (father of five children, and Thomas Gallant, 48, father of nine.

A third proposed change in the constitution would make the terms of sheriffs and coroners four years instead of two.

The fourth amendment would protect the life insurance of an insolvent person for his widow and children. It would amend article ten, section seven, of the constitution.

bedding and mattresses was loaded by the veterans in Greenville, Ayden, Bethel and Robersonville and dispatched to headquarters last night. The truck was loaded to the bonus army by Ricks Transfer Co., and a considerable amount of gas was contributed by other agencies here.

Kirby Tyndall, head of the North Carolina bonus workers at Washington, and who had charge of the contingent here, expressed appreciation of the liberality of people of this section. He said they had shown a splendid spirit toward the cause for which the veterans were fighting and that every one of them appreciated the attitude.

During their stay here, the bonus seekers also attempted to crystallize sentiment in behalf of the cash payment of veterans compensation certificates which the bonus army is fighting for. Three speeches were made by Raymond Andrews of Raleigh, who explained the bonus campaign and launched a vigorous attack on the method of financing employed by the federal government. Two of the speeches were delivered at the court house and caustic criticism of President's Hoover's attitude toward the veterans caused many a titter among his audience.

The contingent is traveling in an automobile loaned the bonus seekers by a cab company at Washington. They said they had been favorably received wherever they had been and had raised considerable clothing and food for the thousands of men, women and children gathered around Washington in an effort to convince the government the veterans should be paid for their services during the war.

CONSTIPATION

The Curse of the Ages

Has Science at Last Solved This? Great Problem of the Human Race?

NEW DISCOVERY BRINGS LASTING RELIEF TO THOUSANDS

Medical Authorities Agree That Old Fashioned Purgatives, Salts, Oils, Cathartics and Laxatives Have Never Cured Constipation and Never Will.

Remarkable Treatment Discovered

The commonest and greatest curse of mankind is constipation. It is man's greatest enemy. It poisons him, slows him down mentally and physically, breaks down youthful strength and vigor, ages him prematurely and leaves him an easy victim to the attack of almost countless diseases. Millions are virtual slaves to the laxative habit, without obtaining real or permanent relief.

Cathartics do relieve constipation for the time being, but their effect is only temporary and best and the more we resort to such artificial aids, the more we require, because their continued use weakens the natural action of the bowels.

AN AMAZING DISCOVERY

Medical Science has discovered that bile, prepared by the liver, is a natural laxative and that people with a normal flow of bile are practically immune to constipation. Furthermore, we now know that bile is an antiseptic and anti-acid and combats putrefaction and the formation of gas in the bowels. It's also a digestant without which proper digestion and assimilation is impossible.

A QUART A DAY

But when our livers become inactive or sluggish and fail to pour into the intestinal tract the necessary quart of bile each day, we suffer from constipation, indigestion, headaches, biliousness, sour stomach and many other common ailments. Recent reports indicate that probably seven out of every ten persons past thirty years old suffer frequently from lack of bile due to a sluggish liver.

OLD THEORIES OVERTURNED

Until the discovery of Sargon Soft Mass Pills it has been the common practice to blast out the intestines with calomel and other drastic cathartics and purges, believing that they stimulated the liver. But Modern Medical Science has now learned that calomel, salts, oils and other laxative drugs have no effect whatever on the liver or its production of bile.

THE PROBLEM SOLVED

A world wide search has been carried on for a harmless substance which would actually invigorate a sluggish liver to normal production of bile—Nature's Great Weapon Against Constipation. This has been accomplished.

The principal ingredient in Sargon Soft Mass Pills is an amazing substance which the highest medical authorities agree is the most effective stimulant to the bile producing activity of the liver known to Materia Medica.

Unlike calomel or other cathartics, this substance does not shock or upset the system, cause nausea or other ill effects.

It does its work by gently but steadily stimulating the liver to cleanse itself through increasing its production of bile, which is a more natural and thorough laxative than can ever be devised by man.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills are not like any laxative you have ever taken. They are so gentle and thorough in their action that there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all, their directions call for a gradual reduction of the dose until the point is reached where you no longer require a laxative of any kind.

So remarkable are the results from Sargon Soft Mass Pills that they are sweeping the Nation; over 135 Million have been sold in the past four years. The great Sargon Laboratories at Dayton, Ohio, have been obliged to steadily increase production to meet the rapidly growing demand.

PRESIDENT ORDERS INQUIRY INTO DISORDERS RESULTING FROM EVICTION BONUS ARMY

The veterans carried their belongings, mostly swung over their backs, and almost everyone had a can of baked beans in his pocket. They seemed in good spirits and readily went where directed.

At the Anacostia branch of the Washington postoffice more than 150 men lined up leaving forwarding addresses.

Clerks said that most apparently were going to their homes. General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, made a tour of inspection of the affected zones and found everything quiet.

Between 600 and 700 cavalrymen and infantrymen were on the patrol duty, but the only time any of these men went into action was when some spectator or evicted veteran attempted to enter the guarded area.

Police Chief Glassford strongly advised against wives and children accompanying the men of the routed bonus forces to Johnstown, Pa.

He said everything possible would be done for the stranded families, and recommended that the women go temporarily to Camp Bartlett where no attempt was being made to assist the veterans. Bartlett is private ground and not subject to troop activity.

General MacArthur planned a final clearing out of all veterans on Federal property for the afternoon after a request for such a move from the District of Columbia commissioners.

Practically the same troops which moved yesterday against the camps will be used.

Blue smoke continued to spiral up from the ruins of the camp in Anacostia, and here and there a blaze broke out when sparks found some piece of bedding or tent which did not add its part to the glowing fire of last night.

Washington, July 29.—(AP)—The might of the United States Army, summoned by President Hoover, today at last had smashed the tight grip held on Washington for months past by thousands of bonus-demanding veterans.

Mute evidence of a struggle that has no identical parallel in American annals, four war-scarred areas mark the once populous encampments of the bonus expeditionary force; one ex-soldier lies dead; scores are nursing injuries.

The troops, their major task done last evening and night, remained in command. The veterans, driven forth by tear gas and flaming torch applied to their crude shelters, clustered in small questioning groups or headed from the city seeking to reorganize elsewhere.

The use of troops—cavalry, infantry, tanks and machine gun corps—was ordered by the President after police efforts to carry out a demand for immediate evacuation of federal property had pre-

The jurist, however, ordered Noland released under $1,500 bond until the term of court beginning August 15. He said the extent of the investigation would depend upon evidence developed at that time from Noland.

The offense of attempted bribery is punishable by a prison sentence of one to five years.

WASHINGTON GIRL NEW BEAUTY QUEEN

Raleigh, N. C., July 29.—(AP)—The new queen of health selected from among the membership of North Carolina Club Girls is Velma Cutler, 18-year-old brunette who lives in Washington.

Miss Cutler's selection was announced here at the same time as the choice of Charles Palmer, also 18, of Lawnsdale, Cleveland County, as king of health was announced.

Announcement was made in connection with the annual 4-H short course at State College. The king and queen were chosen from 30,000 members of the clubs.

Miss Cutler weighs 116 1-2 pounds and is 5 feet 2 1-2 inches tall. She scored 95.8 per cent.

Palmer is five feet nine inches and weighs 159 pounds.

PUSH FIGHT ON TYPHOID

The situation is considered remarkably good compared with other parts of the State where the fever has been reported as the worst in years, and health workers hope to be able to check the advance here by the increase of inoculations.

The vaccine administered by the department at this time is good for both typhoid and paratyphoid, generally known as walking typhoid.

Dr. McGeachy said none of those reported ill from typhoid fever this summer had ever been vaccinated, and he urged that everybody avail themselves of the opportunity offered by the Health Department for immunization.

ceptitated a riot.

In it bricks and slabs of concrete flew, and finally shots were fired by police as they found themselves almost overpowered by the angry mob of ex-soldiers.

One man, William Hushka, 37, a Chicago veteran, was killed.

The District of Columbia authorities, certain that more bloodshed would be the only result if the police pressed at their task, turned to the White House. The President summoned cabinet aides and an order went forth bringing in from Fort Myer, Va., nearly 300 cavalry men, a battalion of 350 infantry.

They assembled near the White House and then marched down Pennsylvania avenue to the first of the bonus army camps, almost in the shadow of the capitol.

After a pause to give the hundreds of veterans there a chance to move out peacefully, the khaki line, steel-helmeted and in full battle equipment, moved forward with tear gas bombs and fixed bayonets. The cavalry with drawn sabers pressed the charge, and the job was quickly done despite resistance.

Without respite, the attacking troops moved on and cleared two other camps in the city and then swooped down on the largest of all, at Anacostia, six miles from downtown Washington.

The withering combination of fire and tear gas left the veterans shelterless, demoralized and without shelter. They spent the night in open fields, parks and wherever they could find a haven. Many started for home.

Walter W. Waters of Portland, Oregon, commander-in-chief of the bonus expeditionary force, was not at the Anacostia camp when it was emptied and consumed by flames. There were reports that he had left, telling some of his followers to meet him at Johnstown, Penna.

Earlier, he issued a statement saying "no matter what may happen from now on the B.E.F. will carry on. We have gone too far to quit."

The operations of the military began in mid-afternoon and were climaxed when the last veteran was driven behind bayonets from the Anacostia camp beneath a starless midnight sky.

The torch was applied to three of the encampments, and fire razed the shanties and huts in which the veterans had been living. Witnesses disagreed as to whether the military or the veterans started the fire at Anacostia. In the others the soldiers did the work.

The action of the chief executive was strongly supported today by General Douglas MacArthur, army chief of staff, who had led the march on Anacostia.

MacArthur issued a statement to the effect that the chief executive "would have been derelict in his duty if he had not acted."

Three Negroes Are Executed In S. Carolina

Columbia, S. C., July 29.—(AP)—Three young negroes died in South Carolina penitentiary's electric chair today for murder, one protesting his innocence to the end, one silent, and one confessing a murder for which he was never tried.

Evans Wood, convicted of killing his common law wife last January, sat calmly in the death chair and confessed "I killed a woman I was living with in Ohio in '31."

Booker Copeland, convicted with Buster Tucker of slaying H. C. McMillan, a Colleton county farmer, last April, broke into song while praying as he was strapped in the chair.

"They didn't give me justice," he said, "but Jesus Christ will give me justice."

Tucker preceded Copeland in silence. Yesterday he absolved Copeland of any blame in the white man's death but Governor Ibra Blackwood refused to intervene.

FILM ACTRESS POISONS SELF

(Continued from page one) found her in her apartment writhing in agony was a note addressed to "Jack." It read:

"I love you. Only you. I couldn't help it. I couldn't go on without you."

Physicians said her condition was critical.

The twice-married actress took a caustic poison after spending the evening with Hayes. She had been so despondent, Hayes said, that after leaving her at 11:30 he telephoned her when he reached home.

"Are you all right?" Hayes said he asked.

"Sure I'm all right," he quoted Miss Basquette as replying. "I have just taken poison."

He said he rushed to the apartment and was so busy giving first aid treatment he couldn't open the door to let police in.

The police came in answer to an anonymous telephone call that a woman had taken poison. They broke in the door of the Hollywood apartment and found Miss Basquette writhing in agony on the divan.

She was taken to the police emergency hospital where first aid treatment was administered before she returned to her home under the care of her private physician. Police said it might be several days before she would be out of danger.

Miss Basquette attempted suicide once before. That was in 1930 after an unsuccessful effort to obtain custody of her child from Harry Warner, brother of her former husband, Sam Warner.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Karin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salt, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skid, often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

BONUS RIOT OCCURRED ON FAMILIAR SPOT AT CAPITAL

In these familiar scenes occurred the police attempts at eviction—attempts which ended in riot, death to one man, and the call for the army forces. But only a few hundred of the veterans were gathered there.

The thousands were in far-away Anacostia camp. The charred ruins which today remain of this tented city—except for absence of a "big top" it had looked more like a circus ground than anything else—are outside Washington proper. A line drawn from the White House, through and past the Capitol, would just about hit the site, across the Anacostia River about a mile above where it joins the Potomac.

Looking from the Washington shore at the Navy Yard and gun factory at the tented city sprouted just across the water. To the left is the draw bridge by which Anacostia is reached. The small huddle of buildings that is Anacostia itself is right behind, and to the right the army and navy flying bases, Bolling Field and the Anacostia naval air station, close in to the water's edge.

Halt Immodesty At S. C. Beaches

Charleston, S. C., July 29.—(AP)—Bathers at Charleston's beaches may be in a quandary about what they should wear, but the police are not.

The officers have ordered to prohibit "any immodesty" at the beaches, and today stood ready to enforce the law.

Apparently the women are not under censorship for no complaints have been entered against them, but several men have been arrested.

Officers say they will not tolerate any one-strap suits, whether the wearer wants a tan or not, and that the "wearing only of trunks or less" is simply out of the question.

It was pointed out that a phrase in the law that prohibits persons "wifely and maliciously" appearing in public in a state of indecent exposure might help the situation, for the phrase wifely and malicious would protect any one who accidentally tears, rips or loses his or her suit while in swimming.

The only question regarding bathing not yet settled is what the procedure would be if any offending persons remained in the water.

Officers are reluctant to say whether they will attempt to capture the bather at sea or wait until he "beaches" himself to make the arrest.

Raleigh, N. C., July 29.—(AP)—The State Corporation Commission has authorized the Southern Public Utilities Company of Charlotte to absorb five public utility concerns in North Carolina which the Duke subsidiary already controlled through stock ownership.

With an aggregate capital of about 750,000, the five companies are: The North Carolina Public Service Company, which serves Greensboro among other places; the Caldwell Power Company, operating in Lenor and Granite Falls, and three other small companies in the Piedmont area, the Bradley Electric Company, the County Service Company, and the Surry Power Company.

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, July 29.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 2 to 5 points higher, on continued showery weather, and some less favorable crop advices which offset disappointing Liverpool cables.

The market was hesitant during the early trading. Offers were limited and price changes were narrow. Uneasiness over the condition of the growing crop served to discourage active selling, and on declines the market met a fair demand from the trade and shorts.

Chicago, July 29.—(AP)—Reactionary trends developed in grain prices today, with late dealings showing most weakness.

Caution as to taking the purchase side of the wheat market was displayed because of 7 cents an abrupt advance from last week's low. Favorable weather for harvesting and threatening in the American Northwest was a bear factor.

Wheat closed unsettled 1-4 to 1 cent under yesterday's finish; corn 3-8 to 5-8 off; oats at 1-4 decline to 1-8 advance, and provisions 7 to 15 cents down.

Stock Market

New York, July 29.—(AP)—Bulls kept the whip hand in the stock market today, in the face of further furries of profit taking.

The market followed yesterday's pattern, by sagging a little in the first hour, sweeping upward in the middle of the day in active trading and easing off a little from the best in the early afternoon. The market has now forged ahead for eight out of the past nine sessions.

Rails led today's upswing, with advances of 2 points or more in such issues as Santa Fe, Union Pacific, New York Central, Pennsylvania, New Haven, Southern Pacific and others. These gains were not fully maintained however, American Telephone, American Water Works, U. S. Steel preferred, Johns Manville, Allied Chemical, Consolidated Gas and others also advanced about 2.

Among issues up a point or so were American Smelting, International Harvester, U. S. In Alcohol, American Commercial Alcohol, American Can and others. The Bethlehem stocks reacted on overnight announcement of the preferred dividend omission, then recovered. The preferred got down more than 3 but then made up most of its loss.

The further brisk upswing took a large section of Wall street by surprise, as many brokers had felt the advance was going too fast, and that a temporary reaction was in order. Traders had been inclined to put out short lines yesterday, and some added to the momentum of the upturn today by hastily withdrawing them. Buying from abroad, particularly London, was again reported.

BULLS HALTED BEFORE SHARP HORNET FIGHT

Charlotte, N. C., July 29.—(AP)—The two leading teams of the Piedmont loop gazed upon reduced figures in the percentage column as the result of yesterday's play.

The Charlotte Hornets, who for a time threaten to make a runaway race and still hold a comfortable margin, were humbled, 8 to 1, by the Durham Bulls, while the second-place Greensboro Patriots were forced by the Raleigh Caps to eat two dishes of crow, 4 to 1 and 4 to 2.

The Winston-Salem Twins and Wilmington's Pirates exchanged places at the foot of the ladder. The Pirates took the contest 4 to 1, and the Twins therefore dropped again into the cellar, after a brief sepi in fifth place.

The hornets were completely tamped by Tiny Butler, who allowed only three hits and was accorded brilliant support by his teammates. Dizeno, Bee hurler, was touched for twelve safeties, including a homer by Wolfe in the fifth inning. He was hit especially hard in the first, second and fifth frames.

Right-handers had the best of southpaws in the two Greensboro-Raleigh meetings. George Petty, Cap hurler, reeled the benefit of three bunched hits that accounted for four runs in the seventh inning of the first game.

In the second contest, Jit Benton poled a homer over left field fence with two men on base to provide the necessary margin. Kleinhaus, Pat pitcher, yielded only six hits in the first, while Ostermuller was touched for only five in the seventh-inning night cap, which Flynn hurried for Raleigh.

Martin Baylin was credited with Wilmington's victory against his former teammates. He had the Twins under control in the pinches, and a big sixth-inning rally accounted for the four runs of his team, all that were needed. Hits by Allen, Walsh, Parks and McCrone scored the six counters. Salverson was touched for ten bingles by Pirate batsmen.

PIRATES WIN DOUBLE BILL FROM GIANTS

By GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer)

The Texas League, proving ground for the hero of the last world series Pepper Martin, may also have spawned the shining light of the next.

Tony Piet, the young second baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates who walloped six hits, including a pair of home runs, drove in nine runs and scored four times himself to help trounce the Giants twice yesterday 10-7 and 9-1, has all the earmarks.

Piet, like Martin, took over his berth with the Pirates at the start of the season without benefit of ballyhoo.

Born at Berwick, Pa., 25 years ago, Piet played with a semi-pro outfit around Chicago before he signed with Corsicana, Texas, in 1928. The Pirates brought him up last season, and in 44 games he hit .289.

In addition to his great hitting exhibition against the Giants yesterday, Piet handled 19 chances without an error.

The Chicago Cubs turned back the Boston Braves, 4-1, with Lon Warneke hanging up his ninth straight win and his 16th of the year. Warneke knocked in two runs.

The Cincinnati Reds halted the Phillies again, 7-4, when George Grantham smote a home run in the ninth with two mates on base. Brooklyn made it four out of five over the St. Louis Cardinals by splitting a double header. The Dodgers took the first 9-6 and dropped the nightcap 8-6.

With Babe Ruth returning to the lineup to bang his 27th and 28th home runs and drive in seven runs, the Yankees took a 10-1 fall out of the Cleveland Indians in the American League feature.

Eddie Durham pitched pretty ball, keeping nine hits well spaced, to give the Boston Red Sox their third triumph over Chicago 2-1. Walter Stewart pitch the St. Louis Browns to a 6-4 win over Washington and singled across two runs.

Detroit made enough runs off Kim McKelthan, former Duke University star, in the two and a third innings that marked his debut with Philadelphia to defeat the Athletics 4-2.
