GOV. GARDNER WILL INSPECT STRIKE ZONE

Chief Executive Goes to High Point Today to Look Over Situation There.

Raleigh, N. C., July 30.—(AP)—Governor O. Max Gardner left hurriedly this afternoon by automobile for High Point, where hosiery mill workers have been on strike about ten days.

The governor and his private secretary, Edwin M. Gill, left Raleigh a few minutes after 1 o'clock.

Just prior to his departure the Chief Executive conferred in his offices with E. B. Jeffress, of Greensboro, chairman of the State Highway patrol.

The governor told newspapermen who happened to see him as he left the capital after regular office hours that he had made his decision suddenly.

He said he had heard of no trouble at High Point, but had decided to go there to look the situation over for himself.

He added he had no engagements, but would confer with the operators of mills there, as well as with representatives of the strikers.

Wilmington, N. C., July 30.—(AP)—The New Hanover County grand jury investigating the $25,000 extortion plot of Mrs. Jessie Kenan Wise adjourned without filing a report on the case.

John J. Purling, Sr., former police chief here and New Hanover's first recorder, and P. Q. Moore, former Wilmington mayor, are charged with conspiring to obtain the money from Mrs. Wise.

Gastonia, N. C., July 30.—(AP)—Plans for elimination of price slashing tactics in the combed yarn industry of the Carolinas were discussed informally here at one of the largest meetings of combed yarn manufacturers ever held in the South.

Destructive completion was blamed by those in attendance for widespread unemployment in the industry.

The combed yarn business was described as being at the lowest ebb in history.

SOVIET RUSSIA PREPARES FOR JAP ASSAULT

Fortifications Thrown About Vladivostok on Large Scale, Report Travelers.

Harbin, Manchuria, July 30.—(AP)—Travelers arriving from Vladivostok, Siberia, report that the Soviet Russian authorities are fortifying that city's harbor approaches on a large scale in anticipation of a possible attack by Japan.

Troops are arriving every day, they said, transported in closed railway cars and disembarking at night. Ten armored trains were reported to be in the railway yards, and near.

STRIKERS IN BIG PARADE

Hosiery Mill Workers Circle High Point to Emphasize Demand for Higher Wages.

High Point, N. C., July 30.—(AP)—A parade of striking hosiery employees, beginning with one truck and gathering recruits with amazing rapidity, circled High Point today to emphasize the workers' demands for a higher wage scale.

There was no disorder, but drivers of more than one hundred automobiles in the caravan continually honked horns. Some machines carried placards asking for a "living wage."

Highway patrolmen and local police watched the proceedings with a careful eye, a few patrolmen riding with the line of cars as a guard against a possible outbreak.

Only a few mill whistles blew this morning and the majority of owners failed to take the trouble to open their doors to the 6,000 strikers who for the past two days have ignored the open doors of the plants and the owners' suggestions that they return to work under plans advanced by the manufacturers.

Two mills, the Diamond Full Fashioned and the Huntley-Jackson, were in full operation today. Workers there were in full accord with the owners regarding a wage scale while the remainder of the strikers, idle.

'ARMY' PLANS RELIEF WORK

Salvation Army Joins Movement to Provide canned Vegetables for Winter.

Plans looking to relief of the poor during the winter months were perfected at the regular meeting of the advisory board of the Salvation Army here last night in addition to hearing a report from Ensign Joseph Willett dealing with activities of the organization for the last three months.

The board agreed to underwrite the canning of 800 cans of vegetables and fruits to be used in relief work during the coming winter.

There was Alfred Huggenberg, the old-time Nationalist leader, with his call for a return of the Kaiser and the re-establishment of the monarchy, and there was the power of the present government of Chancellor Franz von Papen and the noted junker and former soldier, General Kurt von Schleicher.

On the left were the German Socialists, chief support of the Republican constitution and, still farther leftward, the Communist power under Ernst Thaelmann, who is back on the Hamburg docks with his oar of strategy, in the shadows of the towering masts of thousands of the idle German ships, demanding the end of capitalism and an alliance with the ideals of Soviet Russia.

The commission has made a tremendous reduction in rates during the past ten years and the city has

GERMANY TO GO TO POLLS

Nation Prepares For One of the Stormiest Elections in Years Tomorrow.

By LOUIS LOCHNER
Berlin, July 30.—(AP)—More than 37,000,000 German voters sharpened contemplative pencils today to mark, at the voting booths tomorrow, their final decision on the bloodiest and noisiest election campaign in history of the Reich.

The question was whether Germany will go to the right or the left.

On the right was the luring voice of Adolf Hitler, the former Austrian army corporal and paper-hanger, with his threat that "heads would roll" and his demand for an end of the democracy.

There was Alfred Huggenberg, the old-time Nationalist leader, with his call for a return of the Kaiser and the re-establishment of the monarchy, and there was the power of the present government of Chancellor Franz von Papen and the noted junker and former soldier, General Kurt von Schleicher.

Chicago, July 30.—(AP)—Senator L. J. Dickinson, of Iowa, opening the campaign in the Mid-West for reelection of President Hoover, today attacked the Democratic program as one of generalities, and "ralliance upon demagogic appeals to fan the flames of discontent that always spring up in times of economic distress."

By G. D. SEYMOUR
(Associated Press Staff Correspondent.)
Buenos Aires, July 30.—(AP)—War preparations maturing in Bolivia and Paraguay and predicting more serious strife next week led a list of troubles which caused intense apprehension in South America today.

The Wotonations were mobilizing, economically and otherwise, with a patriotic zeal which threatened a climax to the sixty-year-old quarrel over the largely unmappped patch of wilderness in the Gran Chaco.

In Paraguay no such fervor was known since she held Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay at bay during a

Richmond, Va., July 30.—(AP)—Garland Smith, whose life was in jeopardy at four murder trials, was a free man today.

In granting an unconditional pardon yesterday, Governor Pollard said that to require the young North Carolinian to serve out a 20-year prison term would be a "blot on the administration of justice in Virginia."

The prison term was imposed for the slaying of Mack Tuck, Clarksville town sergeant, who with Bernard Puryear, deputy sheriff, was killed from ambush more than two

OWENS AGAIN ON THE STAND

Gives Second Version of Alleged Attempt to Kill W. E. French at Greensboro.

Greensboro, N. C., July 30.—(AP)—Bert Owens, on trial here with Mrs. W. E. French on charges of attempting to kill Mrs. French's husband, was recalled to the stand today for cross-examination and retail practically the same story he did yesterday.

Owens, accused of conspiring with Mrs. French to take French's life, said French was shot during a scuffle over a pistol the night of February 1 on a lonely road near the outskirts of Greensboro. He said the meeting there was not planned and that the pistol was discharged during his attempt to ward off French.

French and his wife had stopped near the Owens automobile a short time before and Owens charged that French threatened his life.

During his examination, Owens admitted he and "another fellow" had robbed a chain grocery store here on July 9, obtaining $649, but Owens said he only drove a car to the place.

"I have not had a pistol since the war," he said in denying he actually robbed the store or held in his hand the pistol with which French was shot.

Owens said he did not give himself up immediately after the shooting. (Continued on Page Four)

VETS MOVING TO JOHNSTOWN

White House Officials Acknowledge Receipt of Letter from Commissioners Of District Declaring Problem of Dealing with Marchers Up to Local Government; Johnstown Citizens Rise Against Marchers.

Washington, July 20.—(AP)—Federal troops ordered into the District of Columbia by President Hoover to evacuate war veterans from government property were directed today to return to nearby Fort Myer as an air of tranquility prevailed in the city after two tumultuous days.

The order for the return was issued by General Douglas MacArthur, army chief of staff, who directed the military operations which evicted the veterans under a cloud of "tear gas and at the point of sabers and bayonets."

Washington, July 30.—(AP)—An air of tranquility descended on the capital today as scores of bonus seekers continued to flock out of the city after they had been routed from their encampments by Federal troops.

Scattered by the ravages of tear gas and the points of sabers from the shanties and huts which had sheltered them for four months, the former service men left on foot and in any automobile which would provide them free transportation.

Scattered here and there, their numbers were rapidly thinned as they departed in search of a haven elsewhere. Many left for Johnstown, Pa.

The District of Columbia grand jury went ahead with preparations for an investigation of clashes between the veterans and police. This was initiated by President Hoover as a result of riots last Thursday.

White House officials acknowledged receipt of a letter from commissioners of the District in response to a letter from the President declaring the problem of dealing with the bonus marchers was squarely up to the local government.

Johnstown, Pa., July 30.—(AP)—Faced with a rising tide of hostility from Johnstown's citizenry, staff leaders of the "bonus army" retreating from Washington, today telephoned W. W. Waters, commander-in-chief, and asked him to come here at once from Washington to aid in handling the situation.

Meanwhile, tattered and hungry veterans, forced to flee the capital at the point of bayonets, continue to trickle into this city. Already there are more than a thousand here, and the mountains are reported to be honeycombed with others. Many of them are in an ugly mood.

To devise means of coping with the situation, Captain Doak A. Carter, chief of staff, called a conference of his aides this morning. After the meeting, Carter telephoned Waters and told him an airplane is being sent immediately to bring him to Johnstown.

Waters was told that the situation required his presence.

As the staff officers gathered around their conference table, a copy of this morning's Johnstown Democrat was spread before them.

"They read and re-read an editorial headed 'Be Ready to Act.'"

The editorial said that "if any considerable number of men congregate in Johnstown, the governor should be asked to take immediate charge of the situation."

The newspaper recommended that if there is any delay in the mobilization of State forces, "a committee should proceed to take charge of the city government in the event that the administration encourages the unemployed to locate here."

It was on the invitation of Eddie McCloskey, fighting red-head mayor, that the "bonus army's" staff located here. The "privates in the ranks," not having any place else to go, headed for Johnstown. McCloskey says he invited only the staff, but if large groups of the men (Continued on page four)

Government Speeds Plan To Rehabilitate U. S.

Washington, July 30.—(AP)—The administration sought speed today in carrying out an elaborated rehabilitation program involving some things a Democratic spokesman insisted should have been proposed to congress earlier than "two years after the economic collapse."

President Hoover himself made the nine-point proposal public.

It includes plans for replacement of slum districts, expansion of credit facilities, stimulation of railway maintenance and repair work, broadening of livestock and feeder loans, faster movement of agriculture commodities, shorter working hours, swift organization of the home loan bank system, construction of self-liquidating projects and "other avenues of cooperation between the government in aid to public and private agencies."

Many of these things would be done through the new $3,800,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation. In a radio address prepared before the Hoover announcement, but nevertheless covering some of the same subjects, Senator Harrison of Mississippi opened the Democratic campaign over the air with a statement that relief legislation enacted by congress "was woven and lined with Democratic thought."

The troubles started in October, 1929, Harrison said, while the President made no suggestion of "any legislative relating to economic cure or restraint" until June 1931, when he proposed the moratorium.

"The first intimation that President Hoover had a program for our economic recovery was in October, 1931," Harrison continued. "It required two long years for the administration to present even that plan and now he is glorified for it only by his own cabinet who are equally responsible for the inaction, procrastination and uncertainty of this administration to meet courageously and promptly these pressing problems."

Mr. Hoover said he wanted to stifle "erroneous speculation" about staff, but if large groups of the men (Continued on page four)

ABOUT TOWN

Decision of the Board of County Commissioners to retain the Home Demonstration Department after abolishing it the first of the month was received with gratification by supporters of the organization who gathered at the courthouse Thursday to protest against the former action of the commissioners.

Prominent club women from all parts of the county were on hand to speak a good word for the department and it was their insistence that caused the commissioners to change their mind and revoke former action.

The Home Demonstration Department has taken a prominent part in the conservation of farm products the last two years, and a considerable portion of the surplus crop each season has been canned and kept in readiness for the winter months.

The conservation movement last year was responsible for relief of much of the suffering existing among the unemployed last winter. Persons who had pantry shelves filled with products of this kind shared them with their unfortunate neighbors. The thrifty spirit is directly attributable to the Home Demonstration Department which has worked unceasingly to show the farm women the advantage of living at home.

The women's clubs engage in various other activities looking to improvement of community life, including short courses, community sings and other public undertakings. They have done much to better the condition of rural life and are striving to greater heights of achievement.

The Health Department has set aside certain hours every day next week for the inoculation of those desiring to immunize themselves against typhoid fever.

The action was taken with a view to speeding up campaign against typhoid in this county and to give everybody an opportunity to avail themselves of the free treatment.

While over six thousand persons have already been vaccinated this summer, the health workers are looking forward to setting a state record from the standpoint of the number inoculated, in spite of the fact that some other counties have far greater population than Pitt.

Clinics have been held in several sections already, and will be carried to other territories as the health workers continue their efforts to reduce typhoid.

Fourteen cases have been reported this year with two deaths against seventeen and three deaths last year. The record is comparatively good in view of the scope assumed by the fever in some other sections of the state and is indicative of the splendid results obtained from campaigns in recent years.

The contingent of the bonus army which visited Greenville this week was able to send a truck load of food and clothing to their studies gathered in the vicinity of Washington trying to convince officials of the fairness of their cause.

The boys said they were grateful for the spirit of co-operation exhibited by the people of this section who contributed liberally and did what they could to help the cause.

The bonus seekers were firm in their belief the army would continue to camp around Washington until the bonus has been paid, regardless of how long it takes to accomplish the purpose.

The group will visit other towns in this part of the state to collect more clothing and food and attempt to convince the public that the bonus should be paid.

A Washington girl won the distinction of the healthiest girl in the state as result of the state-wide contest held this week. She was one of the several hun-

Chapter 18
"SHE'S GONE!"
 Sondra said lightly—"I saw a picture taken of you at Biarritz in one of the papers, John."
 "Is that something so out of the ordinary?" he asked with a slight smile.
 "No—but you were with such a very charming girl."
 "I know many very charming girls."

They had come to the end of the path and were forced to stop.
 "I must go back," Sondra said.
 "I will walk back with you," Anderson answered.
 They turned together.
 "And how is everybody?" Anderson asked casually. "I seem to have been away an unconscionable time."
 "A month," Sondra said. "But everyone is quite well in spite of your absence," she added with a touch of sarcasm.
 He ignored that.
 "Have you heard from Merriman?" he asked.
 Her heart missed a beat.
 "Yes, once—he seemed to be enjoying life."

It was not the truth; Mark had written that he was no re unhappy than he had ever been.
 "I had a note from him, too," Anderson said. "I hope he will do well."
 "I hope so too—for your sake."
 She felt his eyes upon her.
 "And not for his—a little?" he asked.
 "Of course—but you have been so good to him. I should like him to reward you."
 "You have been good to him also," Anderson said quietly.
 Sondra raised startled eyes.

"What do you mean?" she stammered. "I... at least—I only—I only asked you to help him."
 "Isn't that being good to him?"
 She was unappreciative, and suddenly Anderson stopped.
 "I must leave you—I have an appointment at twelve. You are not looking very well, Sondra."
 She said again dispiritedly: "My head aches, I haven't been sleeping very well."
 "You want a massage?"
 "I am going to Massachusetts next month—with Beatrice."
 He made a little grimace.
 She frowned and looked away from him, and he said again—
 "Well, must be going—"
 He raised his hat and had turned away when she spoke his name impulsively. "John—"
 He came back.
 "Yes, Sondra—"
 She stood silent, her eyes distressed, her cheeks flushed.
 "Are you angry with me about anything?" she stammered.
 "Angry!" he smiled as if she had found a child. "Have you done anything that I ought to be angry with you about?" he asked whimsically.
 "Of course not," but her eyes fell.
 "Then I am not angry," Anderson said. He waited a moment, and this time it was Sondra who turned away.

She walked along with unseeing eyes; there was a curious mixture of anger and unhappiness in her heart.
 She almost felt as if she had forced herself upon him and had been curiously dismissed, and yet—he had been perfectly courteous and friendly, and again she wondered if perhaps the fault lay with herself?
 Was it because she felt guilty? and yet—what was it to do with Anderson if she chose to marry and keep it a secret? She was in no way tied to him. He had gone away after she had asked him to stay; it was for her to be angry. Not that she cared what he did, or if he never spoke to her again; and then swiftly on the heels of that thought came denial.
 "That's not true—I do care. I'm fond of him."
 Fond of him, and used to him also—she had unconsciously grown to rely on him; he had always been there, her willing cavalier—she would miss him terribly if the old happy friendship was indeed at an end. And he had been in too much of a hurry to ring her up—her cheeks burned as she recalled his words.
 The order of things was indeed reversed—it had always been she who had put him aside for other inclinations, but now...

 Of course he was lunching with Nathalie Symons; Sondra felt hurt and humiliated.
 She would have liked to lunch with John—she missed him terribly during the past month, but it was only now that he was home again and not seeking her company, that she realized how much she had missed him.
 Had Beatrice been right when she said that John had not believed them that day? Beatrice was always full of stupid ideas—
 Sondra was quite sure that John had not suspected anything; why should he? and yet... it was from that moment that the easy feeling of friendship between them seemed to have altered.
 But she could make no more overtures to him—she would have to stand aside now, and let him take the initiative.
 She went home restlessly; her meeting with Anderson had quite put her thoughts until the butler asked her to go to Mr. Lomax at once in the study.
 It was so seldom that Ben ever noticed his sister-in-law that Sondra felt a sudden throb of anxiety as she went to his study door; surely Flora had not carried out her foolish threat?
 Ben was sitting in his chair at the elaborate desk, staring at his wife's portrait, and he did not move when Sondra entered.
 She went quickly to him—
 "Ben... is anything that matter?"
 He turned his eyes to her face, curiously blank eyes they were, as if some shock had wiped out their intelligence.
 Sondra laid a hand on his arm, shaking him.
 "Ben!... what is it? What has happened?"
 His face worked convulsively, he made an effort to speak. "She's gone... left me... I didn't think she meant it—no woman could be so cruel... She said she hated me—how could she hate me, I've never been anything but good to her... Gone without a word... All her jewelry left behind—never coming back... Oh, my God, what's to become of me?"
 Sondra stood helplessly silent, her hand on his shoulder.
 She had never liked this man, but it was impossible not to feel sorry for him; after all he had loved Flora—love was so cruel, as Flora had said last night—"It's not happiness, it's just suffering all the time".... Lomax went on—utterly unmoved.
 "I'd have given her the moon if she'd asked for it—and she said she hated me... oh, my God, what's to become of me?"
 Sondra bit her lip to hide its sudden trembling.
 "She'll come back—" she said hoarsely. "Don't be so upset—I'm sure she'll come back—" but she knew that Flora would never come back, and Lomax's broken words found a terrified echo in her own heart—"What's to become of me?"

It has been truly said that the big events of life generally happen with unexpected suddenness, and certainly during the next two days so many things happened to Sondra that she was left bewildered and uncertain which way to turn.
 Lomax recovered his poise with surprising rapidity, and on the morning following his wife's departure he sent for Sondra.
 She had never known him very well; he had always rather ignored her; and now with only a curt good morning he began to tell her as briefly as possible of his plans for the future.
 "I am shutting up the house, and I sail at the end of the week for Europe. I presume you have friends you can go to; you can't stay here anyway. I don't know how you are placed about money—" (he did know, perfectly well) "but if you are anything like your sister, I suppose you are hard-up." He pushed a check across the table. "This is for $2,500. Please sign the acknowledgment."
 Sondra stared at him, her face flushing.
 She knew that this was his way of repudiating all further responsibility of her; she had always guessed that he would do something of the kind if ever Flora left him, but this curt dismissal seemed like an insult.

Sondra tries, on Monday, to solve the problem of her suddenly uncertain future. What can she do?

I don't know how you are placed about money—" (he did know, perfectly well) "but if you are anything like your sister, I suppose you are hard-up." He pushed a check across the table. "This is for $2,500. Please sign the acknowledgment."
 Sondra stared at him, her face flushing.
 She knew that this was his way of repudiating all further responsibility of her; she had always guessed that he would do something of the kind if ever Flora left him, but this curt dismissal seemed like an insult.

It has been truly said that the big events of life generally happen with unexpected suddenness, and certainly during the next two days so many things happened to Sondra that she was left bewildered and uncertain which way to turn.
 Lomax recovered his poise with surprising rapidity, and on the morning following his wife's departure he sent for Sondra.
 She had never known him very well; he had always rather ignored her; and now with only a curt good morning he began to tell her as briefly as possible of his plans for the future.
 "I am shutting up the house, and I sail at the end of the week for Europe. I presume you have friends you can go to; you can't stay here anyway. I don't know how you are placed about money—" (he did know, perfectly well) "but if you are anything like your sister, I suppose you are hard-up." He pushed a check across the table. Sondra tries, on Monday, to solve the problem of her suddenly uncertain future. What can she do?
 She had never liked this man, but it was impossible not to feel sorry for him; after all he had loved Flora—love was so cruel, as Flora had said last night—"It's not happiness, it's just suffering all the time".... Lomax went on—utterly unmoved.
 "I'd have given her the moon if she'd asked for it—and she said she hated me... oh, my God, what's to become of me?"
 Sondra bit her lip to hide its sudden trembling.
 "She'll come back—" she said hoarsely. "Don't be so upset—I'm sure she'll come back—" but she knew that Flora would never come back, and Lomax's broken words found a terrified echo in her own heart—"What's to become of me?"

DODGERS TAKE 7 TO 4 CONTEST FROM CARDS

By GAYLE TALBOT
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 They laughed early in the season when Hack Wilson planted his piano legs before the plate at Ebbets field and couldn't hit a lick, but the waning days of July find the Martinsburg bomber in a fair way to becoming a hero in Brooklyn.

The Chicago cast-off got away to a poor start with Flatbush fans. But he has made a grand comeback in the last two months. He finally boosted his batting mark over the magic 300 figure yesterday, leaving him second only to Lefty O'Doul among the club's hitters, and his total of 83 runs batted in is topped in the National league only by the two Phillie sluggers, Klein and Hurst. He has belted 18 home runs and 25 doubles.

Battling in the clean-up position yesterday, Wilson smashed a home run and a double to drive across three runs and scored a pair himself to feature the Dodgers' 7 to 4 victory over St. Louis.
 The Pittsburgh Pirates poured another salvo into the floundering Giants, scoring four runs off Adolfo Guanz in the eighth inning to win, 4 to 3. As Chicago was held idle by rain, the Pirates increased their lead to six games over the field.

Ed Holley kept nine hits scattered to give the Phillies a 5 to 2 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.
 Cleveland made it three out of four over the Yankees, with a 4 to 3 victory.
 Al Thomas scored his fourth consecutive victory over the St. Louis Browns as Washington pounded Sox' home run, the Chicago White Sox' home run, 4 to 3, their first win of the four-game series. Philadelphia and Detroit were not scheduled.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)
 Earl Averil, Indians—Hit a home run with two on to beat the Yankees, 4 to 3.
 Joe Cronin, Senators—Hit two doubles and a single, scored twice and handled twelve chances to help beat St. Louis.
 Adam Comorosky, Pirates—His eighth inning rally that subdued the Giants.
 Hack Wilson, Dodgers—Belted a home run and double against the Cards.

CLASS LIMIT TO COME UP IN PIEDMONT

Charlotte, July 30.—(AP)—After losing by a mail vote a few weeks ago, the New York Giants today were understood to have succeeded in getting their plea for a higher class limit before a meeting of the Piedmont league's board of directors.
 The Giants, owners of the Winston-Salem franchise, are reported in sore need of a place to dispose of several promising players for the time being.
 W. G. Bramham, Piedmont president, in announcing a meeting of directors had been called in Durham today, admitted the class limit and other matters would be taken up, but declined to discuss what the "other matters" might be.

Raleigh baseball magnates were reported to have agreed with members of the Ministerial Association and civil authorities not to stage any more Sunday baseball games there.
 Raleigh and Winston-Salem players and officials are now awaiting trial for Sabbath violation because of a Sunday game. Meanwhile, Charlotte and Winston-Salem prepared for a game here Sunday afternoon, city officials having deferred action of a proposed ordinance prohibiting Sunday baseball.
 Wilmington officials announced some time ago no Sunday games would be played there because of beach competition.

Heavy rains yesterday put a temporary quietus on the pennant race. Greensboro beat Durham, 7 to 2, and the others were not in action. There was no material change in the club standings, although the first climbed a game nearer the first place Hornets.

GIRL WINS BET AND MAN WILL NOT PAY

New York, July 30.—(AP)—Ellen Meyer—she wins and she loses.
 She laid five dollars last Tuesday on each of two horses, and the nags came in all by themselves. As such matters go, Miss Meyer won $92.
 The man with whom she placed the bet declined to pay.
 Miss Meyer had James Moore in night court about it. The magistrate said it was too bad, but the law doesn't recognize gambling debts. He urged Moore, however, to be a sport and pay the lady.
 Moore walked out without committing himself.

N. Y. Stock List

New York, July 30.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady 2.4 higher on trade buying and week-end covering and on reports of increased activity in the textile trade. Oct. 5.97; Dec. 6.16; Jan. 6.224; Mar. 6.37; May 6.52.

A more favorable view of weather conditions in the eastern and central cotton belt states checked advancing tendencies and early in the day there was a partial reaction under selling by commission houses and local traders. Offers were moderate, however, and the undertone was steady. The fact that the new season opens Monday seemed to check new buying and there was a noticeable disposition to await the government crop report and the policy of the Farm Board in connection with its sales during the coming season of 650,000 bales.

Liverpool was observing a bank holiday and will remain closed until Tuesday. Cotton on hipboard awaiting clearance was estimated at 75,000 bales compared with 36,856 last year and 34,849 two years ago.

Grain Market

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN
 (Associated Press Market Editor)
 Chicago (July 30.—AP)—Abatement of speculative interest accompanied a narrowing of price changes in wheat today, and the market developed no definite trend.

Reports suggesting that the 1932 United States cut turn of all wheat would be somewhat below trade expectations and 38,000,000 bushels under the government figures of July 1 had no lasting effect, and neither did absence of rains in Canada or likelihood of a return of high temperatures. Late firmness of the stock market was a steady influence.

Wheat closed irregular 1-2 lower to 1-4 up compared with yesterday's finish; corn at 1-4 decline to 1-4 to 3-8 advance; oats unchanged to 1-4 to 3-8 off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

Stock Market

New York, July 30.—(AP)—Bull forces kept the stock market well in hand today, in the face of week-end profit taking.

The list sagged moderately in the first hour, then stiffened in the later trading, with steels turning notably active. Changes were largely narrow at the finish, but a number of the leaders were up fractions to more than a point and the closing tone was firm. Trading continued in fair volume and the turnover for the short session approximating 800,000 shares.

The market's further slight advance was the 9th upturn in the last 10 sessions. The advance has now been slackening for the past three sessions, however, prompting a number of brokers to look for the usual "corrective reaction" that normally punctuates advancing markets.

The list appeared to be carried forward chiefly by its own momentum. Among favorably interpreted developments at the end of the week were the announcement of plans developing in the program of the Reconstruction Finance Corp., and the general agreement of the weekend business reviews that sentiment had improved markedly in most parts of the country, but distinctly new developments were largely lacking.

Rails closed with a few fractional losses, although somewhat above the low points reached in the first hour. The weekly car-loadings report was substantially more favorable than advance estimates had indicated. The volume was 501,130 cars, off only 2,964 from the previous week. In some quarters, a decline of about 15,000 was anticipated.

In the commodity markets, cotton held up well, closing with gains of 20 to 30 cents a bale. Foreign exchanges stiffened, particularly sterling, which has been on the down grade most of the week. Wheat cables ruled at $3.50 3-4, up 1-4.

Mr. Timberlake for the last four years has operated the Carolina Warehouse at Wilson and had the unique distinction of increasing his sales approximately a half million pounds last year in the face of a twenty million pound reduction in market sales. He was in the tobacco business here some years ago.

Mr. Spence has been employed as bookkeeper for one of the largest warehouse firms in Lexington, Ky., for the past several years.

Mr. Spence will be in charge of the office and pay off of sales here and Mr. Timberlake will conduct outside work in addition to the management of sales. They will be assisted by a corps of experienced tobacco men.

 now for over two weeks, are demanding an upward revision of their wages.

Today's parade started when 25 girls hired a truck, loaded a looping machine (a machine used for finishing hosiery) on it, hung it with placards and began a tour of the industrial district.

Soon automobile after automobile joined the procession and in a short while more than one hundred machines were in the group which circled the strike areas, gathering more recruits.

Then they headed for the business section and paraded through the main streets honking horns. Otherwise, the situation was quiet. Meanwhile, no further plans had been advanced by strikers or manufacturers looking toward an ending of the strike. All were quiet, each apparently looking to the other to relinquish their stand and break the strike.

It was said that the people of Vladivostok have been trained in the uses of gas masks, in rifle fire and in seeking safety in underground shelters already prepared.

Similar activities are reported at Khabarovsk and Blagoveschenok. Meanwhile the Soviet authorities are rapidly liquidating their interests in Manchuria. The staff of the Soviet bank here has been reduced by more than half.

 to satisfy the American people in this campaign," the Senator asserted in a radio address. "Arriving class against class never has, never can win a war on depression. We are in the midst of the greatest war in this character in our history. We can only win it by standing together as a whole people."

Discussing governmental economy the tariff, farm relief and waterways, the Senator contrasted what he termed "Democratic promises" with that party's performance. He singled out Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, its candidate for President, for a major portion of his assault.

Mr. BURGESS said that the Democratic platform promises to save not less than 25 per cent in the cost of Federal government," Dickinson said, "in New York under Governor Roosevelt's administration since 1929 the cost of State government has increased approximately $100,000,000."

"Since the Democratic nominee failed to put his preachings into practice in his State, it is to be presumed that he could be any more successful in handling the finances of the Federal government which runs into the billions?" the Senator asked.

 is a lifelong friend of Robert R. Reynolds and John C. B. Ehringhaus, the senatorial and gubernatorial nominees. He played on the football team at the University of North Carolina with Governor O. Max Gardner and Reynolds. He is a personal dry, but is also a party Democrat.

Ehringhaus was in Raleigh this week on a pop visit which was kept very quiet. He is known to have seen Governor Gardner, but what the outcome of their conference was is unknown.

Reynolds was expected to come here late today or early next week for further conferences with party leaders about the chairmanship.

That Ehringhaus and Reynolds will be in absolute harmony about the chairmanship is becoming more apparent every day if talk of party leaders is any indication.

Factions opposed to Governor Gardner and Ehringhaus, who was termed Gardner's "heir apparent" during his campaign, are understood to be grooming their own candidates.

Talk that C. L. Shuping, of Greensboro, with the backing of Senator J. W. Bailey, was making an effort to get the chairmanship was termed without foundation by Bailey. The Senator asserted he had made no effort to name anyone chairman, knew he could work harmoniously with any man selected and had said nothing to anyone about the chairmanship unless first asked about it.

Another report circulating here is that the name of A. L. Brooks, of Greensboro, will be presented with considerable backing.

 some of his recent conferences. Then he enumerated the nine things he wanted, toward which work already is under way.

When the plans get far enough advanced in Washington, he added, committees in each of the twelve Federal Reserve districts will be called into conference to establish "united and concerted action on a broad front."

The first is that for a slum-clearing campaign financed by money from the Reconstruction Corporation. That, he said, "is being given immediate examination with view to early expansion of employment through such programs of modernization."

A list of the figures showing reductions made from time to time was released by the commission today and it is a revelation of the effort which is being made by the municipal plant to give the city the best of service at the lowest possible price.

 and a half years ago.

Sentenced to die in the electric chair for the Puryear slaying, Smith through the intervention of volunteer Attorney Gordon Ambler who carried the case to the Court of Appeals, won a second trial.

Again he was convicted but the sentence was reduced to twenty years, for the second time the commonwealth confessed error and at a third trial, held at Danville, Smith was acquitted.

The governor pointed out also that since both police officers were killed by the same volley it would be inconsistent to say that Smith was innocent in the Puryear case and guilty in the Tuck case.

The Chancellor's address was broadcast to the United States.

Former Chancellor Heinrich Brüning, the tall, silent quester mark in the campaign, was widely cheered 20,000 people at the Sportsplatz last night as he addressed his last campaign meeting.

While Hitler flashed about in his airplanes and Thaelmann shouted among the Hamburg ships today, Brüning, the scholar, remained in his study, with his lone black cigar and pondered the possibilities.

Rioting continued to the last. Hitler, after a whirlwind tour of Aachen, Frankfurt-Am-Main, Wiesbaden and Palatinat, last night flew to Ruetlingen to address a meeting. His Nazi adherents were set upon by a hostile crowd as they gathered to listen to him, and police had to break up the fight with their clubs.

 five year war in 1865. Bolivia was under virtual military rule and hastening soldiers into the southern Chaco where the swampy jungles offered a most inhospitable battlefield.

The status of the Brazilian civil war remains largely unchanged, in spite of the activity of the Federal troops, along the northeastern front which is the key to effective domination of the Sao Paulo revolt.

The federal troops continued to hammer along a front on three sides of Sao Paulo but they had not as yet approached nearer than 125 miles from the city, from any angle. The hardest drive was toward Cruzeiro, where they hoped to crush the main Rebel army.

The break between Argentina and Uruguay was still unhealed and although rumors that conciliatory conversations were under way were heard in Montevideo, Argentina

He completed his examination with a denial that he sent a threatening letter and a bullet in a box to French in a hospital while the wounded man was recovering from the pistol wounds.
