WOUNDED BONUS-SEEKER DIES AT CAPITAL CITY

Many Witnesses Heard As Government Pushes Suit On Coal Concerns

BUY FROM MINE AND NOT AREAS

Government Trying to Test How Far the Sherman Law Goes in Controlling Formation of Cooperative Groups in Seeking Dissolution of Appalachian Coals; Operators Deny Any Price-Fixing Methods.

Asheville, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Witnesses in the government's anti-trust suit against Appalachian Coals, Inc., and 136 coal operators today testified before a three-judge federal court here that they bought coal from particular mines instead of from mining areas.

The suit involves a test of how far the Sherman law goes in controlling formation of cooperative groups and the government is seeking to dissolve Appalachian Coals, contending it is a combination in restraint of trade.

The defense, however, contends contracts between members and Appalachian Coals are only contracts involving production or price.

George A. Hendricks, purchasing agent for the Bryant Paper Company of Kalamazoo, Mich., was the first witness called by the government today as the suit entered its second day.

He testified his plant purchased coal from the Appalachian section because tests showed it met the plant's demands better than coal from the Ohio or Pennsylvania fields. He said some of the Appalachian coal's efficiency was due to the fact that it was "better cleaned and prepared."

The government, through Hendricks and other witnesses, said it would show individual plants have installed equipment for using coal from individual mines rather than from general areas.

M. G. Geiger, manager of Westvaco Chlorine Products, Inc., of South Charleston, W. Va., and R. B. Robertson, president and general manager of the Anderson, S. C. Gas & Utility Co., followed Hendricks.

Geiger said equipment in his plant confines coal purchases to certain mines and said all coal in the Appalachian section are not possessed of similar properties. He admitted mines not members of Appalachian Coals were able to provide his plant with the necessary coal.

Robertson said his plant used 200,000 tons of coal yearly and that its equipment, installed at a cost of $1,500,000, required the use of certain coal mined in the Appalachian area. He said the equipment did not permit the use of other coals if "the present efficiency is to be maintained." He said because of a low fusing point, some Appalachian coals were not usable.

Al Smith Nephew Held For Killing

New York, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff Vincent J. Glynn, a nephew of former Governor Alfred E. Smith, shot and killed Walter Edward Webel, Jr., today after he said Webel struck him and fled in an effort to escape service of a contempt of court warrant.

Webel and Inez Murray, both residents of Brooklyn, were married when minors and the girl's parents succeeded in having the marriage annulled. A child was born and Webel was ordered by the court to pay $10 a week toward its support. Having fallen far in arrears, a warrant was issued for his arrest on a charge of contempt and Glynn was given the warrant to serve.

Prior to the shooting Glynn said that he went to the home of Webel's parents, waited until Webel came out, and then told him he had a warrant for his arrest. Webel, he said, struck him and then started to run. Glynn said he followed, firing two shots in the air as a warning.

RUM RUNNERS FLEE IN DARE

Many Surrender To Police as Federal Agents Begin Concerted Drive.

Manteo, N. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—With the threat of many warrants hanging over their heads today, connived Dare County rum runners either fled to the swamps or surrendered to police as a huge drive against the blockaders got underway.

Prohibition officers captured a rum boat, invaded filling stations, arrested "big boys" and "little fry," and went into Tyrrell County where they arrested the captain and engineer of the Fort Landing-East Lake ferry boat. While they worked, they received a few liquor-law violators who thought it best to surrender.

Rowland Eawyer, one of these, voluntarily made a trip to Winterville and surrendered on charges of selling, manufacturing and possession of liquor.

Two men were captured off Nag's Head Landing when officers found them trailing a jug of liquor at the end of a rope in the water. More liquor was found aboard.

Mr. Galloway discussed the part which the Mutual Exchange is playing in the life of the grower and developer of the curb market, which has doubled its revenue in the last year. He said the exchange, working in conjunction with E. F. Arnold, director of the farm department, had been able to provide markets and good prices for all. (Continued on Page Three)

BOARD ADOPTS BUDGET HERE

Commissioners Make Slight Change in Tentative Budget But Rate is Unchanged.

Adoption of the budget and consideration of routing business occupied the attention of members of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners assembled in regular session here yesterday.

Only a few minor changes were made in the budget which was tentatively adopted by the board at a meeting during the early part of July, but the tax rate remains 83 1-2 cents on the $100 valuation, a decrease of 10 1-2 cents compared with last year.

The changes were necessitated by reinstatement of the Home Demonstration Department which was abolished at the time the tentative budget was adopted and then later retained following protests of a. (Continued on page six)

Death List Of N. Y. Fire Grows

New York, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The death list had grown to seven today as officials strove to determine the cause of a double-explosion that turned the sub-cellar of the Ritz tower, Park Avenue skyscraper hotel, into a narrow-chambered inferno.

Two more firemen—torn, burned and poisoned by fumes—died last night after five of their fellows had died earlier. Several others of the twenty-five hurt were in a critical condition.

A rush of air hitting pent-up vapors was one explanation advanced for the blasts. Summoned to fight a small blaze in a paint shop in the cellar yesterday, the firemen descended and were trapped.

Workmen labored today to repair the elevator and lighting system of the hotel, put out of commission by the blast. The damage was estimated tentatively at $200,000.

Thursday, August 4th, has been designated as "Dollar Day" in Greenville and shoppers of this great trade territory will be offered some of the best values in recent years.

"Dollar Day" is a semi-annual bargain event sponsored by the Merchants Association for the last several years, and a time when the leading merchants share their profits with patrons.

Six merchants will take part in "Dollar Day" this year and each one was busy today arranging stocks to take care of the rush expected. Unheard of values have been offered on occasions of this kind in recent years and it was believed by many that values this year would surpass all others.

Firms taking part in "Dollar Day" this time are: Blount-Harvey Co., C. Heber Forbes, McKay-Washington Co., White's Stores, Inc., The Greenville Salvage Co., and Quinn, Miller & Co.

Greenville has the reputation of being the "greatest shopping center in Eastern Carolina," and the merchants here always offered the best to be had at lowest possible prices to be able to continue to hold the distinction.

Some have visited northern markets to lay in additional stocks to. (Continued on page six)

Aged Farmer Jailed In Connection With Killing

T. H. Barnhill, 72-year-old farmer of the Bethel community, was held at Williamston today in connection with the mysterious death of Jesse Barnhill, who was found dead on the highway near Flat Swamp Church last April 16.

Barnhill was arrested by county officers last Saturday and carried to Williamston and confined in the county jail. Although officers refused to reveal the nature of the evidence which they have against the aged farmer, it was intimated several other arrests would be made before the roundup is completed.

The body of Jesse Barnhill, 25, who was reared by the elder Barnhill and lived with him at the time of his death, was found on the highway by motorists with bullet wounds in the head and chest.

Officers at the time expressed belief the young man had been killed in some other section and brought to that locality in an automobile and dumped upon the highway. This theory was further borne out by the fact that Barnhill's life was insured for $22,000, $10,000 of which was made payable to the man in whose home he was reared.

Although the insurance company has held up payment pending further investigation of the death, officers were said to be working on the assumption that the man was killed for his insurance.

It was rumored that Barnhill was hard-pressed for times at the time of the slaying, but he vigorously denied he had anything to do with the slaying when taken into custody.

Sheriff Whitehurst was reluctant to discuss the nature of evidence upon which Barnhill is being held, but did say he expected to make several other arrests and hoped to be able to obtain further evidence when the round-up had been completed.

Although the murdered young man was reared in the home of T. H. Barnhill, officers said he was not related to the family.

U. S. DEFICIT STILL MOUNTS

Government Ends the First Month of Fiscal Year with Deficit of $263,290,620.

Washington, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The government ended the first month of the present (1933) fiscal year with a deficit of $263,290,620, which was $2,000,000 greater than for July a year ago.

Though the deficit for the first month was larger, there was a bright spot in the situation because $100,000,000 of it was due to money paid to the adjusted service certificate fund from which World War veterans draw their bonus.

During the month the government collected from all sources $97,764,206 and spent $351,054,827.

The receipts were approximately $32,000,000 less than collected in the first month of last year and the expenditures $30,000,000 greater than those of July, 1931.

The effect of the economy program was reflected in a decrease in the general expenditures of the government as compared with last July. Under this heading is included all. (Continued on page six)

Agents, it was said, have resorted to devious means of obtaining evidence. Out for an evening ride, the agents would ask for a drink and the girls, whether they drank or not, told where it could be obtained.

"We have been assured that further consideration is to be given his and other means for spreading employment and that there will be other conferences and other discussions along this same line," Winant said.

Administration leaders also are contemplating even the four- or three-day week, the six-hour day, staggering of working hours and flexible work weeks depending upon the volume of business. Application of these plans, they say, while reducing incomes of employed workers would give much-needed jobs to others.

President Hoover in his recent nine-point rehabilitation program indicated he favored a plan of this sort when he said: "I have under discussion with various agencies the question of a movement to further spread existing employment through reduction of work hours."

cooperative shipments of products made from this county, and that its constant aim would be to render the same high plane of service in the future.

Mr. Thorne confined himself to improvement of soil. He told the value of legumes and what experiments in this county had revealed. The time has come when farmers must cut down the cost of fertilization and the use of plants for this purpose should result in saving of thousands of dollars for the growers of the district, he stated.

Mr. Cox, manufacturer and grower, was optimistically inclined, and expressed opinion that good days were behind the dark cloud which has hovered over the world for the last two years.

Hog raising and its value to the farmers of this district was set forth by Mr. Martin. He said this industry held great possibilities of new revenue in years to come.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, of Tennessee, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Adams, delighted their hearers with a musical program consisting of three numbers. Mr. Lewis, accompanied by Mrs. Lewis at the piano, rendered three solos and his rich baritone voice added considerably to the evening of entertainment.

Charlie Phillips, of Greensboro, district governor, and his wife, will be guests of the club at the next meeting. All wives of club members will be guests of the club at that time. A meeting of chairmen of all committees will be held during the afternoon.

ABOUT TOWN

A trend back to the church is what the nation needs to help it recover from the period of depression, in the opinion of Rev. W. S. Harden, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, speaking at the union services on the courthouse lawn Sunday night.

Deploing the widespread tendency to forget God and to attribute abnormal business conditions to various causes, the speaker declared what the nation really needs is the setting aside of a day for fasting and prayer whereby the public may acknowledge that supremacy of God and consecrate themselves to His cause.

Depression, he asserted, is not caused by the Republican party, prohibition, after effects of the war, or national leaders' claim, but is the result of widespread sin and lack of regard for righteousness.

When people return to God there will be a change of conditions, he declared, and not until this has been done need anybody expect anything from remedies suggested by leaders of any particular field of life.

With the ending of the strike in High Point, business conditions should improve in that section and the state generally.

Strikes not only affect the men and mills involved as in this case, but hundreds of people in other fields of business depending upon them to keep the wheel of industry humming.

The strike coming at this time was more serious than it would have been under ordinary circumstances, but the strikers and operators showed their wisdom by reaching an agreement as early as possible.

This is a time when every job is in demand and when a group of men are out of employment it affects the life of the community and other parts of the country depending upon that community to meet its moral and financial obligations.

It is generally hoped this will be the last strike the state will have in many a day and that any misunderstanding may be settled by operatives and employers before walkouts are resorted to.

Low prices of whiskey are evidently causing bootleggers to use inferior materials in manufacturing the beverage, leading by the eighteen deaths from poison whiskey reported in New York during last week-end.

If that condition exists in New York it will also apply to other sections where low prices have also hit big and little distillers hard and caused them to resort to lower grade materials in their production.

People are foolish to drink whiskey without knowing where it comes from and how it is made, and it is a safe bet those in New York will be more careful how they use the stuff in the future.

Manufacturers have been seriously affected by tight money in this immediate territory, and it is presumed they will be forced to use new and better products in meeting the demand of their consumers. While nobody would intentionally be taken in the manufacture of the beverage, it is impossible to say when the stuff may become poisonous and result in several deaths.

SYNOPSIS: When her brother-in-law, Ben Lomax, tells her to leave his house, because her sister Flora has run away from Ben, Sondra Kent expects Beatrice Taylor to entertain her. But Beatrice proves a fair-weather friend. Sondra hopes her friend, almost guardian, John Anderson, won't learn of her secret marriage.

Chapter 20

LOOKING FOR A REFUGE

Beatrice knew everything, of course—knew that Flora was not coming back, knew that Sondra herself had no home and no money.

Well, Beatrice wasn't her only friend—there were other people who had always been only too glad to have her with them—she could ring up at least half a dozen and suggest inflating herself upon them for a week or two.

But the Macays were going out of town—the Longdons had the cure son of the family home from school with a broken leg—the Leighs were full of "relations from the country—so deadly dull, Sondra—and at last in despair she gave up the attempt to find a refuge.

She had never dreamed that she would be in such a desperate plight, and her courage almost failed.

Useless to remember her father's cheery optimism.

"Never despair—" he was fond of saying. "When one door shuts, another always opens—" he had always insisted upon the truth of this, even to his dying day, and after every available door had been slammed in his optimistic countenance.

"If only I'd been free—" Sondra thought wildly, and then was ashamed. It was her own fault that she and Mark had been married—she had allowed herself to be carried away, by the fact that he was leaving her.

She could always go to him, of course—he wanted her even though nobody else on earth seemed to care; the trouble was that she did not want him.

"It was a mistake—a dreadful mistake," she told herself in an agony of mind. "Why was I, such a fool?"

Ben's money was all that stood between her and life; how long could she make it last?

Sondra had never known the value of money—like her father she had always had everything she wanted whether she could pay for it or not, but then there had always been Flora to fall back upon . . . now there was nobody.

"I suppose I might get a job as a mannequin—" she thought dreadingly, but what a job!

She tried to comfort herself with her father's philosophy. "Something always turned up when things were at their worst; she would not despair.

For the next two days she made no plans—she went about everywhere, and laughed and skillfully parried the many pertinent questions that were showered upon her, although there was an ever growing fear in her heart, and then as she was going out to dine with some people on the Thursday night Lomax topped her in the hall.

"I leave early in the morning, so I shall not see you again. Can you give me your new address in case I want to get in touch with you?"

"My new address?" Sondra stammered—so this was indeed the end she had come upon a high wall that shut out the future; no miracle was going to happen, she was at last thrown entirely on her own resources.

In desperation she gave the address of a friend—"I shall be there for the next week or two."

Lomax made a careful note of it and then turned away without even a handshake.

Sondra followed him to ask one last question.

"Flora? Have you heard from her?"

"No—" for a moment a look of great pain crossed his face, rather unly face, but it was quickly gone. "She has made her bed, and she can lie on it," he said, brutally.

Sondra laughed.

"Well, it's something to have made!" she said flippantly. "It was more than she had done, and she had no idea where she could go when tomorrow came."

She looked up at him with too bright eyes. "Do you know—" she said mockingly, "I have the kind of feeling that you would like me to say 'to the devil'—but it's nothing so romantic. I am merely going to a hotel until I can make plans."

"Won't that be dull? Surely you must have dozens of friends you could stay with."

"Do you think so?" she was conscious of a sudden tightening in her throat. "Perhaps I would rather be alone."

"You are too young to wander about by yourself."

She laughed. "Did I say I proposed wandering? I'm afraid there's nothing so exciting in store for me."

"Way should you be so interested?"

"Only because I shall probably be out of town for the next few days, and I should like to know where you are to be found."

"I'm very kind of you."

He ignored the sarcasm.

"Does that mean you have no intention of telling me?" he asked. "It doesn't mean anything—perhaps I'll write and tell you, only I'm not very good at letter writing—" she added deliberately echoing the words he had spoken to her in the park.

Anderson changed the conversation. "I had news of young Merriman this morning."

Sondra turned her face away. "Oh, did you? How is he?"

"Unfortunately he has already gone down with a touch of fever. It seems amazing—he should have got it so soon, a man of his physique."

She looked at him swiftly. "Fever? Is that anything serious?"

"Oh, no; everyone has it more or less, but he's been out there such a short time."

"There was a little silence. 'I hope he will be all right,' Sondra murmured."

"Sure to be; you need not worry."

"I—worry?" she laughed nervously. "What queer things you say."

He did not speak for a moment, then he said—

"Sondra, may I ask you something—rather personal?"

Her heart missed a beat. Was it about Mark?—how much did he know or suspect?

"Ask me anything you like—" she told him carelessly. "But I don't promise to answer, and anyway, why not leave it till later? We are sure to be sent in to dinner together."

She added with a touch of sarcasm.

"I am afraid not," Anderson said. "I've just been told that I am to escort Miss Symons—"

"Oh," Sondra's lips felt cold. "Well, in that case—" she said with an effort, "you had better ask me this very personal question now—I shall be leaving soon after dinner."

"It's about your future, Sondra."

"My future? That sounds terribly dramatic! . . . what possible interest can it be to you?"

"Only the interest of friendship. You must forgive me, but I know that as far as money matters—"

She cut him short with a quick laugh.

"Oh, but that's where you are utterly mistaken. My brother-in-law has been most amazingly generous—so generous in fact that I intend repaying . . . some of my debts."

There was a profound silence, then Anderson said quietly—

"I am glad Lomax has been generous."

He waited a moment, then as another man joined them, he bowed and left her.

It was a miserable evening for Sondra; down the long table she could see Anderson very attentively Nathalie Symons, and never once glancing her way.

As soon as dinner was over, Sondra tried to escape.

In the midst of attempts to adjust herself to her new life, in the next installment, Sondra gets word from Mark.

Bolivia And Paraguay Prepare For Warfare

Asuncion, Paraguay, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Hundreds of Paraguayan youths swarmed around army headquarters today and clamored to be the first enlisted in this general mobilization against Bolivia authorized by congress last night.

The young men, eager to join the armed resistance decided upon as a result of Bolivian attacks on Paraguayan forts in the long-disputed Gran Chaco region, refused to await the government's call upon them for service.

Thousands of trained troops were moved from their barracks to other quarters to make room for the new enlistments. Military cadets marched through the streets, lined with huge, excited and milling crowds, demanding to be sent to the "war" area. They filed up to the residence of President Jose P. Giggari and cheered his action in deciding to defend the country.

Events moved rapidly after the decision of congress to mobilize the military and economic resources of the country last night.

Plans to call the army and navy reserves were rushed. In the meantime, Foreign Minister Higinio Arbo sent a note to the League of Nations council declaring Bolivia had violated Articles 10 and 11 of the League covenant, which require members to respect the peace and territorial integrity of other members.

Besides the news of the attack on Fort Boqueron, one of Paraguay's important strongholds in the Chaco territory, the government also heard that the Bolivians were marching on Fort Itapiti which also has figured in the six-year-old dispute between the two nations over the wild, swamp, mostly unmapped territory which forms their boundary line.

Economic pressure and the need for both nations to expand have aided in bringing the old issue to the danger point again.

Although the Chaco is a vast jungle, consisting of thousands of square miles between the Pilcomayo and Paraguay Rivers, it is also potentially one of the richest areas in the world.

Bolivia has been land-locked ever since she was pushed back from the Pacific by Chile. The Paraguay River, along the west bank of which Paraguay has built her settlements and strung her forts, is navigable, while the Pilcomayo, where Bolivia's outposts are, is not.

La Paz, Bolivia, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Bolivian people with holiday enthusiasm, cheered the government today for its decision to settle the 60-year-old boundary dispute with Paraguay, even if it means war.

They took a day off yesterday to celebrate the Bolivian attack on Fort Boqueron and the government's note to Secretary of State Stimson at Washington informing him of Bolivia's intention.

The note to Secretary Stimson declared that Bolivia was not interested in "investigations which do not define the fundamental issue." It was sent in reply to offers of conciliation by neutral nations.

"We defend ourselves in a territory we consider ours," the note said.

Washington, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The American government today looked for something that would at least bring a truce between Bolivia and Paraguay, two South American countries where United States citizens have millions at stake.

Just what could be done was problematical, especially in view of the decision by the Paraguayan congress last night to order a general mobilization of its armed forces.

Further difficulties between the two would be reflected in their trade with the United States. In 1931, Bolivia used $1,772,172 worth of American goods while sending only $42,975 to this country. Paraguay's exports to the United States last year were $155,326 and her imports $592,493.

Then, too, Americans hold some $54,000,000 in Bolivian securities. These include a 1927 loan of $14,000,000 and one in 1928 for $23,000,000. Bolivia already has defaulted on a number of her foreign loans.

There are 248 Americans in Bolivia and 74 in Paraguay.

PIRATES HIT HOMER TO WIN OVER 'BEES'

Charlotte, N. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Their lead over the balance of the Piedmont League field cut to a game and a half, the Charlotte Hornets set out today to reverse the situation which made them the goat of a 5 to 3 game at Wilmington as the week opened.

Jimi Galvin turned the trick for the Pirates when he patted one of Settemire's offerings for a homer with two on in the fourth. Trailing 1 to 5 as they entered the ninth, the Hornets staged a brick rally which netted two runs, but were not able to keep up the good work, and the Bees didn't have to take their last bat.

Big Tom Wolfe, Durham outfielder, with three hits out of five trips, boosted his league leading 83-game batting average to .380 as the Bulls staged a ninth inning rally to score three runs and beat Raleigh, 6 to 5.

Viahi, Durham shortstop, and Smith, Raleigh outfielder, also batted three out of five for the day.

Fritz Ostermuller, Patriot pitcher, held the Winston-Salem Twins to five hits, and got two himself, one of which was a home run, as Greensboro won, 8 to 3.

Wilmington's victory came in the nature of a celebration, warrants drawn against the Pirates for a Sunday ball game having been dismissed in recorder's court a few hours before the game. The judge said the Sunday ball question had been hanging fire over the State too long, and decided to end one part of it.

Woman Slayer Causes Trouble on Visit to Grave

Chicago, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Pollak, 26, and comely, whose appearance at her husband's funeral precipitated a riot near as thousands crowded into the cemetery to see her, was back in the county jail today planning her defense against murder charges.

Her attorney has announced new evidence had given him "a clear case of accident" as a defense. The widow had previously been quoted as saying she shot her husband in self-defense after a quarrel over another woman. The state adjourned the first session of the coroner's inquest with the announcement that "it desired more time for investigation" of a theory that Mrs. Pollak killed her husband, Joe, during a quarrel about money.

At the cemetery yesterday workmen and police struggled in vain to keep thousands who wanted to view the self-made widow from tramping over the graves. A woman and two children were shoved into Pollak's grave by the pushing crowd as it strove to approach.

Amid the cries of "She ought to burn," and other imprecations which delayed the minister in reading the service, the widow, handcuffed, sought to jump into the open grave. A woman raised an umbrella, swung it twice at the widow, missed her, but struck the guards.

As she was led away from the cemetery and back to her cell she sobbed: "I'm going to miss him. When I die bury me in the same grave."

RHEM BOOSTS CARDS TO WIN OVER PIRATES

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Credit for the year's greatest baseball comeback seems to belong almost without question to Flint Rhem, erstwhile play-boy of the St. Louis Cardinals and now a consistent winner for Murt Shotton's failing Phillies.

The right-hander whose disregard of training rules and ineffective pitching finally cost him his place in the far-flung Sardinal organization has rolled up a string of eight victories against only two defeats since he joined the Phillies early in the campaign. For the Cardinals he had won four games and lost two.

Rhem's pitching was responsible in no small measure for the Phillies' third straight victory over the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday, 18 to 5. It was significant that Rhem blanked the Pirates until 0 lead for him. The Phillies fogged the teammates had piled up a 9 to 0 lead for him. The Phillies flogged four Pirate hurlers for 23 hits to pile up their one-sided triumph, their tenth in fourteen games with the league leaders this season.

Tex Carleton pitched the Cardinals to a 4 to 2 victory over the Boston Braves in the only other game on the National League program. Carleton allowed only seven hits and had sensational support from his teammates, especially Jimmy Reese who handled twelve chances without a bobble at second base.

The New York Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics were the day's winners in the abbreviated American League program.

The Yankees tripped Detroit, 6 to 3, as Danny MacFayden kept eleven Tiger hits well scattered. Babe Ruth's sensational hitting streak came to an end as Whitehill and Wyatt walked him four times after he had been called out on strikes in the first inning.

Rube Walberg had a slight edge on Wes Ferrell as the Athletics nosed out the Cleveland Indians, 1 to 0. Ferrell allowed only two hits until the ninth when singles by Cochrane, Fox and McNair scored the only run of the battle. Walberg was reached for only four hits. It was the Athletics' second 1 to 0 victory over the Indians in as many days.

Four Convicted Bankers Seeking Another Trial

Brevard, N. C., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Four men, seeking a new trial after being convicted of conspiring to prevent the credit of Transylvania County to aid the now defunct Brevard Banking Company, charged a member of the jury with promising their conviction before the trial was over.

Both W. R. Medford, a former sheriff who served on the jury, and E. F. Moffitt, signed affidavits denying affidavits by S. G. Fisher and T. G. Miller that Moffitt, after telling Medford the people wanted the defendants convicted, was told: "Don't worry about their being convicted. That is what we are over here for."

Those who are seeking a new trial are: Thomas H. Shipman, J. H. Pickelimer, Ralph R. Fisher and G. W. Brown and wife to P. C. Spencer, McNeely. All were sentenced to from two to five years in State's Prison and fined $5,000 each.

FARMERS WILL STRIKE IN WEST

Farmers' Holiday To Begin August 15th in Effort to Improve Conditions.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Farmers of Middlewestern states will attempt to improve their status through institution of a strike, or "farmers' holiday," beginning August 15. Milo Reno, head of an association backing the movement, said today.

Declaring that there is nothing revolutionary or un-American in the move, Reno explained it as an attempt to raise the price obtained by farmers for produce above the cost of production by abstaining from selling and buying over a period of at least thirty days. Reno is president of the National Farmers' Holiday Association.

Unless purchasers are willing to pay what will return the producer a profit, leaders of the holiday movement have advised farmers to "stay at home and sell nothing." They said they believed this organized refusal to sell farm products at less than production costs will not only increase farm prices but will also teach the farmer the power of organization and the economic force which he is capable of wielding.

Half a million Mid-West farmers have already signed, or are signing, pledges to follow the conditions of the strike, Reno said.

NOTICE OF RE-SALE OF LAND UNDER DEED OF TRUST

Whereas, R. T. Cox and wife, Celest Cox, executed and delivered a deed of trust to Julian Price, Trustee, on the first day of May, 1928 and which is recorded in Book Q-17, page 71 of the Pitt County Registry, and whereas default in payments was made, as provided in said deed of trust, and the same was sold under said deed of trust on the fifth day of July, 1932 and the sale reported to the Clerk of Court, and whereas the bid has been raised as provided by law and the Clerk of Court of Pitt County on the 15th day of July, 1932, ordered a re-sale of said land described in said deed of trust and hereinafter described.

SPORTS SLANTS

One of the most satisfactory answers I have found to the demand of boxing fandom for a system of scoring the rounds that will inform them how matters are progressing, among the officials' mind, is in a ruddy-faced, strong-armed Los Angeles referee, Lieutenant Jack Kennedy, U. S. N.

Kennedy is a familiar figure to southern California fight fans, but he is a novelty elsewhere, especially to an Easterer who has been peering for a number of years at the professional fights and wondering just how many of our better judges and referees reach their conclusions.

Whether the gallery boys like it or not, they know how Kennedy stands. He may indicate how he scored at the end of each round by pointing to either corner or, as he did after eight rounds of slashing punching in the Steve Hamas-Lee Ramage fight in Los Angeles, he may demand attention and, with gesture and to the accompaniment of the crowd's audible count, toll his score for each fighter.

Count Spurred Steve
It was "four-three-and-one," in Hamas' favor, as Kennedy took the crowd into his confidence. The immediate effect was to inspire the Penn State slugger to put on a brisk finish and settle all question of the outcome.

It is obvious that it takes a peculiar type of referee, of unquestioned integrity and forcefulness, to act as Kennedy does. This naval officer was born to command respect and inspire confidence.

Any hesitation immediately may be seized as a sign of weakness or grounds for suspicion. Then, too, where two judges, as well as a referee, enter into the decision, some complications are presented in giving the onlookers the round-by-round score.

Still, the opportunity for a workable scoring system, open and above board, exists, for some such group as the National Boxing Association to consider and act upon.

Hamas' Legs Wobbly
Steve Hamas is a handsome young heavyweight with a terrific punch, but his legs apparently will keep him from advancing very far in the professional game.

Football and other sports seem to have taken some of the spring from Steve's underpinning. He has to wear an athlete bandage around one knee. He so wearied himself trying to put the crusher on Ramage in the early rounds that he wore himself down to a point of exhaustion.

Both fighters had to hold each other up at several stages of one of the most exciting heavyweight brawls we have watched in some time.

Ramage, just a school boy, is game, shifty and has a useful left but his fighting equipment otherwise is not calculated to carry him into the front ranks. A few more beatings such as he took from Hamas will do him no good.

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 5 to 9 points lower in response to lower Liverpool cables and under southern hedge selling and liquidation.

Oct. 5.95; Dec. 6.12; Jan. 6.21; Feb. 6.32; Mar. 6.46; July 6.58.

Selling tapered off after the initial offerings had been absorbed by trade buying or covering, but demand was light and the market became quiet. Buyers showed little disposition to follow the bulges and futures were off about 7 to 9 points net at the end of the first half hour when October sold around 5.92. The early weather news created no fresh market interest, while uncertainty as to the probable showing of the government crop report next week may have restricted business. Liverpool cables reported hedge selling there and said the market for cotton cloths in Manchester was quiet.

Grain Market

Chicago, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Faced by unofficial estimates that the 1932 North American wheat yield would be only 2,000,000 bushels less than in 1931, wheat values suffered material downturns today.

Exports business aggregating 1,000,000 bushels of wheat failed to rally prices. The movement of the new domestic spring wheat crop was reported increasing fast.

Stock Market

New York, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The stock market showed signs of fatigue today, after three weeks of almost steadily rising prices, and bullish efforts, concentrated in the copper group, failed to attract a following.

The list turned conspicuously weak in the early afternoon after the red metal group had been boosted substantially around midday.

The list had started to sag at the opening, but soon stiffened. Wall Street was not much disturbed over the evident weakness of the market, however, since traders had been inclined to look for a "corrective reaction."

American Telephone, having been up more than a point, showed a loss of a point by early afternoon. Others off 1 to 2 included Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, American Can, Allied Chemical, Case, Woolworth, Santa Fe, Union Pacific Pennsylvania, American Tobacco "B," U. S. Steel Common, Bethlehem Common, Standard of New Jersey, and others. U. S. Steel Preferred dropped 3 rails. Utilities and Steels were conspicuously heavy. Among coppers and other non-ferrous metals which got up 1 to 2 points in the middle bulge were Kennecott, Howe Sound, Federal Mining, International Silver and St. Joseph Lead, while Phelps Dodge, Anaconda, American Smelting and several others were up fractionally for a time.

Trading was quiet during the morning, but quickened on the afternoon sag. The foreign buying in this market was said to have dwindled since the middle of last week.

The attempt to move the coppers was evidently predicated on the somewhat better feeling reported in the industry, and rumors that an attempt to mark up the domestic price from the current level of 5 1/4 cents a pound to about 7 cents might be made. Among other non-ferrous metals, lead and zinc has firmed somewhat in the domestic market during the past week.

On the whole, business news of the day was not particularly revealing. There was considerable interest in the possible dividend action of General Motors directors tomorrow, with some quarters looking for an other payment of 25 cents on the common.

While an investigation into these deaths was under way, officers attempted to learn the circumstances surrounding the death of Mrs. George Lane who died soon after eating breakfast last February.

Toady Lane was in jail at Hertford charged with murdering his son who was found with his head crushed near a chopped tree Thursday.

Lane told police he and his son, Woodrow, were chopping trees and that one fell on the boy, but officers said blood was found twenty feet from the body. They investigated the theory that Lane killed the boy and his wife, saying he carried insurance on both.

BOARD ADOPTS BUDGET HERE

Prior to elimination of the department, $1,600 had been set aside for its administration. This was reduced to $1,300 yesterday with reductions being made in other departments to provide the required sum.

The courthouse janitor was reduced from $60 to $50 a month, and a saving of $40 a month was realized by discontinuing the office of court crier. This service will be left in the hands of the sheriff, it was stated.

Further reduction was obtained by slicing the pay of deputy sheriff service from $300 to $250 a month. The 10 1-2 cents reduction of the tax rate this year brings the total reduction since 1930 to 51 cents. The commissioners consider this a tremendous saving to the taxpayers of the county in the face of increased rates reported from some of the other counties suffering severely from the effects of depression and inability to collect taxes.

What part the supposed internal revenue collector had in the affair Prosecutor White was unable to say, and it was not known whether or not he accompanied Davis and Robinson down the road.

Davis was the donor of the land for the orphanage of which Robinson is superintendent.

BRITISH FLIER GOES ON TRIAL

Clarke was mysteriously shot April 21 in the bedroom he and Lancaster occupied in his home here.

James M. Carson, chief of the defense counsel, moved in vain for a continuance of the trial until September 15 as soon as court opened.

He asserted Dr. P. L. Dodge, a specialist who was to be one of the chief witnesses, is ill in Boston and unable to attend the trial.

The motion declared that Dr. Dodge, head of a commission that conducted an autopsy over Clarke's exhumed body several weeks after his death, was convinced that the youth was a narcotic addict and committed suicide.

Judge H. F. Atkinson denied the motion after the roll of one hundred prospective jurors was called.

The crowd of curious, including many women, jammed courthouse corridors before court was opened.

Lancaster and his attorneys and Mrs. Keith-Miller appeared in the courtroom early and posed for photographers.

Both appeared nervous, but both proclaimed their belief he would be acquitted. Lancaster expressed hope that his father, Edward William Lancaster in London, would not worry about outcome of the trial.

Beverly Clarke, New York chemical engineer and brother of Haden, sat with State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne and other prosecution counsel.

SIX DROWNED AS HOME IS SWEEPED AWAY BY FLOOD

(Continued from Page One) other children, Thelma Bledsoe, 14, and Orval Bledsoe 18, occupants of the same house, managed to save themselves. The house was carried across a road by the waters.

The heaviest rain ever recorded in this section fell early in the day, being gauged here at seven and a half inches, and causing damage estimated at many thousand dollars.

Downtown streets in Lexington were flooded in one to four feet of water. Motorists had to leave their cars and flee.

In lower parts of Lexington the water was estimated at nine feet deep. Police and firemen rescued many children and sick persons.

From Winchester and Frankfort and other nearby places came reports of heavy rainfall, and the Kentucky River and other streams rose rapidly, flooding highways and halting interurban trolley cars.

Many unconfirmed reports came of houses being washed away in nearby villages and towns. A negro family was reported marooned on a house-top at Fort Spring, signalling for help. County police sent for a boat to try and reach them.

POLICE SEEK MISSING MEN

(Continued from Page One) young men who were arrested by officers planted in the bank following a tip that Davis was being brought there for an enforced withdrawal of ransom money.

While the prisoners were undergoing questioning at police headquarters, Davis, who with Robertson also was taken there, told a story of having been lured from his home last night supposedly to straighten out his income tax return, only to find himself kidnaped by several heavily armed men who demanded $10,000 in cash for his release.

FIVE FIRST MAN SLAIN IN EVICTION RIOT LAST WEEK

Counsel for the men opposed the postponement, insisting that under habeas corpus proceedings they had brought, the men were entitled to an immediate trial.

National Guard officers continued an inventory to determine how many of their tents had disappeared during the exodus of the bonus army from Washington. Warrants charging larceny of the property were served at the Johnstown, Pa., encampment during the day.

The equipment had been loaned to Glassford for use of the veterans. It was said he was responsible for it.

By LEO W. SHERIDAN

Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 2.—(AP)—Warrants charging larceny of National Guard tents were served today on William Walte, commander of the camp of the bonus expeditionary force.

A John Doe warrant was served on the camp commander, another warrant specifying that property was stolen was served on Isadore Kenner and he was taken before United States Commissioner Ray Patton Smith.

The officers also have warrants naming Frank Muggie and Buck Reynolds.

The warrants were served on Walte and Kenner by United States Marshal J. G. Lowers, of Pittsburgh.

The officers also had a writ of replevin on the veterans' camp near here. They planned to visit the camp this afternoon.

The warrants place the value of the tents at $1,200, but the officers said in connection with the charges they were told the shelters were worth $3,000.

The papers said that there were thirty-two tents belonging to the National Guard at Washington. They set forth that these were loaned to the veterans and were carried away when the bonus seekers left Washington last week.

Included among the officers were J. C. Lowers, from the United States Marshal's office at Pittsburgh; R. N. White, J. E. Bennett and Detective Sergeants J. J. Tolson and C. L. Carper, of the Washington police.

The veterans' camp hummed with activity as its 7,000 occupants prepared for rain this morning. The sky was overcast. Few of the men, women and children have any protection, although crude shelters of boards, grass and leaves and tents were erected hastily.

Police feared that if rain fell there would be a stampede to a few buildings in Ideal Park, an amusement center. Most of these buildings were locked.

The supply of food was fairly good. Doak A. Carter, the veterans' chief of staff, was in camp, directing activities.

Waterbury, Md., Aug. 2.—(AP)—In contrast to the plight of thousands gathered at Johnstown, Pa., veterans at Camp Waters, bonus army haves, today found themselves literally swamped with food.

While their comrades in Pennsylvania were experiencing difficulty in obtaining enough to eat, the tiny contingent in Maryland had an overstocked commissary.

Gifts poured in yesterday and early today. One unidentified man brought them 200 loaves of bread, another presented them with 50 pounds of dressed chicken.

Their breakfast this morning consisted of bacon, eggs, fried tomatoes, cantaloupe, bread, butter and coffee.

There was one difficulty. They were almost without water. With all streams nearby condemned by the State Health Department, they were forced to use a tiny spring at a negro dwelling some distance from camp. The supply was soon exhausted and the problem of securing adequate drinking water had become acute.

In the meantime, the camp commander, Major E. M. Lambert, acting under orders from Walter W. Waters, bonus army commander, set guards around their retreat to prevent any more persons from settling there.

The number of residents had increased to thirty-eight, and no more would be received, Lambert said, for a week or ten days.
