Bulls Sweep Prices Up On Stock Market

Gains From $2 To $12 Share Reported on N. Y. Exchange During Close

BUYING POURS INTO MARKET

Bullish Enthusiasm Reaches Its Climax in Final Half Hour When it Appeared that Buyers Were Willing to Pay Almost Any Price to Obtain Their Favorites

New York, Aug. 5.—(AP)—A hurricane of buying swept the trading floor of New York Stock Exchange today, hurrying prices upward in one of the most sensational advances of the past three years.

Gains of $2 to more than $12 were recorded on this rising tide of bullishness which threw aside all opposition from shorts and so swamped the facilities of the market that the quotation printing machinery at times was seven minutes behind actual transactions.

Heavy profit-taking just before the close pared down extreme advances, in some instances substantially. At the height of the rising trading was frenzied and the exchange authorities were forced to halt temporarily dealings in two leaders, Allied Chemical and Union Pacific, because there were no selling orders to supply the huge accumulation of purchasing contracts.

Encouraged by strength of Friday's close and fortified by a large accumulation of overnight buying both from this country and Europe, bulls went to work on the rejuvenated market from the opening gong and by the beginning of the last half hour a tremendous momentum had been attained, one group after another was caught up in the swirl—Rails, Electrical Equipments, Utilities, Farm Implements, Chemicals, Communication, Steels. In the final ten minutes realizing began to make its impression, but many pivotal shares ended the wild two hours not far below their high quotation.

Eight Men Held in Investigation of Kidnapping

Durham, N. C., Aug. 6.—(AP)—Police today held six white men and two negroes here while they investigated reports that the nine kidnaped white girl from a westbound freight train here last night following information by a railroad telegrapher that the girl was being held aboard.

Police were notified by an operator at the East Durham Railroad tower who said his information was received from a Raleigh telegrapher. As the train stopped at Raleigh, the telegrapher said, a negro jumped from the train and reported the girl had been dragged into the car at the North Carolina capital.

Paraguay Ready to Sign Truce; Bolivia Adamant

(By The Associated Press) Paraguay signified her willingness today to declare a truce in the Grain Chaco dispute but Bolivia declared she was compelled to go ahead with preparations for armed defense (in view of active mobilization by Paraguay). The attitude of both nations was expressed in replies to notes sent by the United States and 18 South and Central American nations, requesting an amicable settlement. Peace efforts were complicated however, by reports of a renewal of fighting in the Chaco area. A Bolivian patrol fired on an outpost of Fort Presidente Ayala late yesterday, but the attack was repulsed the report said.

Fort Presidente Ayala is one of 11 Paraguayan forts grouped within a 50-mile radius in southern Chaco. Bolivia has the same number in the same area. Paraguay's proposal for a truce, as outlined in the reply to the 19 neutral nations, included a provision that the truce be declared on the basis of the status of June 1, a condition to which Bolivia has objected. A thousand school children asked the Paraguayan general staff yesterday for permission to form a fighting regiment.

City to Get Nine Months' School Term This Year

If tax collections are anyway near normal Greenville will have a nine months' school term this year. This was the consensus of opinion at a joint meeting of the Board of Trustees of city schools and the Board of Aldermen at the high school building last night.

The meeting was called for the specific purpose of discussing the school budget and to fix a definite tax rate for the extended term. The school board at a meeting the night before had gone on record. (Continued on page four)

New York Mayor Requested to Appear Before the Governor During Thursday

New York, Aug. 6.—(AP)—James E. Finegan, leader of one of the civic groups that asked the removal of Mayor James J. Walker, announced today that Governor Roosevelt, in reply to his rebuttal, informed him Mayor Walker had been requested to appear before the governor in the executive chamber in Albany next Thursday at 1:30 p.m. to answer the removal charges. In calling the mayor to Albany to answer the charges, the governor is following the same procedure he adopted in the case of former Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, who was given a public hearing on removal charges filed by Seabury. Farley subsequently was removed from the office of sheriff of New York County by the governor on the ground that Farley did not satisfactorily explain his large income.

TORCH SINGER WILL RETURN

Libby Holman, Missing Wife of Smith Reynolds Will Return to Winston-Salem to Face the Charges Within Week; No Further Move Will Be Made by Father to Obtain Bond; Whereabouts of Former Broadway Favorite Unknown

Winston-Salem, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Judge A. M. Stack announced today he would grant bond to Ab Walker, Winston-Salem youth, indicted with Libby Holman in the death of the latter's husband, Smith Reynolds, Winston-Salem millionaire.

The judge's announcement followed a statement by Solicitor Carlisle Higgins that the facts, now before him, do not support the charge that the offense is non-bailable.

Higgins did not immediately say that Walker and Mrs. Reynolds would not be tried for first degree murder.

Bailey Lipfert and Oscar Efrd, attorneys for Walker, argued for a light bond.

They said they had no one to look to for the money except the youth's father, B. B. Walker, described as a large owner of real estate, but with little ready cash.

Judge Stack then fixed Walker's bail at $25,000.

An hour later Bailey Lipfert, one of Walker's attorneys, went to the office of the clerk of the court and announced that bail had been arranged. Lipfert was accompanied by the youth's father, B. B. Walker.

Young Walker was brought in from the county jail where he was remanded after the hearing and his father signed the bond.

Walker refused to answer questions as he left the clerk's office with Lipfert.

Although Higgins told the court the evidence now before him did not constitute a non-bailable offense, he made it plain that he reserved the right to try Walker on a first degree charge in the event additional evidence is uncovered before the trial begins.

Asked if his action today indicates that he will adopt a similar attitude toward Mrs. Reynolds' when her petition for bail is submitted, Higgins said:

"Emphatically no. They are two separate cases. I will not cross that bridge until I come to it."

More than thirty minutes before habeas corpus proceedings in Walker's behalf were scheduled to be argued before Judge Stack, reports swept through the court house that the state would not oppose the temporary freedom under bond of the friend and chum of young Reynolds.

At 11:30 o'clock, Judge Stack conferred at length with Solicitor Higgins and Sheriff Traasou Scott. Shortly afterwards, Scott telephoned. (Continued on page four)

JUDGE COWPER SPEAKS HERE

Says Breakdown of American Home is Cause of Crime Wave in This Country

The breakdown of the authority of the home was advanced as the chief cause of the crime wave sweeping over this country the last few years by Judge Vernon Cowper, of Kinston, speaking at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club here last night.

Describing home building as the very foundation of civilization, Judge Cowper expressed belief that the only remedy for the crime situation was patriotism to the cause of the American government and a return to the principles upon which our forefathers based the foundation of this great nation.

Introduced by Dink James as one of the ablest members of the judiciary in this State, Judge Cowper discussed the law-enforcement angle in a way that clearly indicated the appalling scope which the wave of criminality has assumed throughout the country.

He said the crime situation was not confined to any single community but spread octopus-like throughout the entire State and nation. He did not trust his own judgment of the situation, but read facts taken from a brief statement by President Hoover two years ago showing that there were nine thousand unlawful homicides in United States during each of the two years. Of that number a little over one-half was ever arrested, less than one-sixth was ever convicted and a small per cent of that number ever punished.

There were times more crimes in America than in Great Britain, according to population, and fifty times more robberies. He said the president's resume of the situation was concluded with the statement "that no part of the nation is immune from the crime wave, and that life was more unsafe in America than in any other nation on the globe."

In 1929, the speaker said, there were more homicides in North Carolina than in the city of Chicago for the same period. Jails are crowded and public officials find themselves almost unable to deal with the congestion.

From this condition, Judge Cowper stated, two questions arise: What is the cause? and "What is the remedy?" He expressed opinion that the cause was not ignorance and poverty or a false security following the period of inflation, but the absolute breakdown of the American home.

The remedy, he believed, will be found in patriotism to the principles of government enunciated by the American forefathers. He expressed belief the condition was only temporary and held out hope of better days in the future.

Oliver Matthews was inducted into the club by Rev. E. L. Hillman, and Dave Moore gave a graphic account of the Kiwanis ball game with Wilson last Wednesday in which the local club emerged victorious. The club accepted an invitation. (Continued on page three)

SEVEN HELD IN SLAYING

Natchez Authorities Attempt to Find Clue in the Murder of Aged Recluse

Natchez, Miss., Aug. 6.—(AP)—The mysterious slaying of Miss Janet Surget Merrill, belle of the 70's who turned eccentric recluse, has caused arrest of seven suspects under the vigorous effort of authorities to find a solution to the crime.

A witness was found who said he heard pistol shots and a woman's scream Friday night at the aristocratic mansion, where the aged spinster lived alone. With that information, officers brought in four white men, a white woman and two negro men for questioning yesterday.

The list comprised Richard Dana, bearded and long haired owner of the plantation adjoining the Merrill place; his housekeeper Miss Octavia Dockery; John Geiser, a logger who identified a coat found in the Merrill home as his property; Odell Ferguson and T. W. Carr, white, and George Sims and R. Norman, negroes, who were trailed. (Continued on page four)

City Tax Rate Reduced To $1.00 For This Year

A reduction of eleven cents in the tax rate for the city of Greenville during the present year was ordered at an adjourned meeting of the Board of Aldermen at the City Hall last night. The new rate was fixed at $1.00 as against $1.11 last year.

The reduction brings the total tax rate reduction to 30 cents for the last two years, and was made in the face of a three-quarters of a million dollar shrinkage in valuations.

With adoption of the tax rate, which followed a joint meeting of the aldermen and members of the schools and at the high school building, the board adopted a tentative budget for the new year, and this will be open to public inspection for the next twenty days before final adoption. A copy of the budget will also be sent to the Local Government Commission at Raleigh for approval before final consideration is given.

The tax rate for the year will be divided as follows: General fund, 16 cents; city debt service, 32 cents; school debt service, 32 cents; school maintenance for extended term, 20 cents; total $1.00. In adopting the low tax rate, Mayor Flanagan called attention to the necessity of reasonable tax collections during the year to enable the city to go through with its program, and urged that the public be impressed with the responsibility resting upon them.

The rate was based on an estimated valuation of $9,250,000 as against $10,000,000 for the previous year. The reduction was obtained through slashes of appropriations in virtually every department of government, and again went in to the school where teachers salaries were sliced to the State rating.

Members of the board were determined to give substantial tax relief to the city, and more time probably was spent on hewing down departmental expenses than any other year in history of the city.

Mayor Flanagan expressed gratification over completion of the budget, and members of the board, worn and haggard after long hours of attention to figures, engaged in a back-slapping, handshaking demonstration when final budget was written on the pages of the tentative budget. Two or three other matters were considered by the board after disposition of the budget, principal among them being the annual appropriation to the local military unit. The board the previous year appropriated $360 to the cause, but runs. (Continued on Page Three)

T. H. BARNHILL IS HELD HERE

Man Charged With Slaying of Ward Remanded to Jail Without Bond

Charged with the murder of his ward, Jessie Barnhill, T. H. Barnhill, 72-year-old farmer of the Bethel community was remanded to jail following preliminary hearing before Justice of Peace John Ivey Smith here yesterday afternoon.

Arrested last Saturday and confined in the Williamson jail, Barnhill was returned to Greenville yesterday afternoon to face hearing. He was believed to have killed his ward for the purpose of obtaining $10,000 insurance which had been made payable to him in case of the other's death. The total amount of insurance on the young man's life was estimated at about $20,000.

Owing to the mysterious circumstances connected with the death, the insurance company withheld payment of the insurance, and Barnhill sometime ago filed suit to obtain payment.

Jesse Barnhill, 25, was found dead on the highway near Flat Swamp Church the night of last April 16, and the arrest of the older Barnhill followed several months of investigation by representatives of the insurance company and county officers, headed by Sheriff Sam Whitehurst. Officers expressed belief that the ward was shot and then carried to the Flat Swamp Church and dumped upon the highway. Bullet wounds were found in his head and chest and death was believed to have been instantaneous.

Four witnesses testified at the hearing yesterday. They were Sheriff Whitehurst, Mrs. Jesse Davenport wife of the slain man; Ed Pilgreen and John Williams, colored, who for years was employed on the farm of the defendant. Barnhill did not take the stand.

Williams, considered the star witness for the State, testified of seeing the two Barnhills and two other people riding along the road some distance from their home the night of the slaying. He said he went to the Barnhill home but nobody was there. He then went to Pilgreen's house, and while talking to Pilgreen the elder Barnhill opened the window of his home a short distance away and called to Pilgreen to come over there. The two went to the home, and the negro stated that Barnhill expressed concern about the safety of his ward and said he was afraid he had been killed.

A short time later the body of Jessie Barnhill was found on the highway near Flat Swamp Church. Testimony of Williams was corroborated by Pilgreen as it pertained to the visit to the Barnhill home. That of Sheriff Whitehurst dealt largely with the investigation, while Mrs. Davenport dealt with her relations with the dead man.

Barnhill will be held in jail here until the next term of criminal court when he will be given a hearing.

SHOT, FARMER TRIES SUICIDE

Steve Sutton Cuts His Throat After Being Shot by S. A. Bland Yesterday

Said by officers to have been on a drunken spree, Steve Sutton, 55-year-old farmer of the House Station community, beat his wife, and then slashed his throat after being shot in the legs during an attack on S. A. Bland, at the latter's home about two miles from House Station yesterday afternoon.

Suffering from jagged gashes on each side of his throat and gunshot wounds in his legs, Sutton was brought to Greenville and given medical aid. Although his condition was critical, belief was expressed he would recover.

Said to have been in the habit of venting his wrath upon his wife while drunk, Sutton administered a sound thrashing again yesterday. The woman, afraid of another attack, went to the home of Bland for protection. Sutton followed sometime later and when Bland ordered him not to enter his house, he was said to have pulled his knife and advanced threateningly upon Bland. Bland brought his shotgun into play and fired a charge into. (Continued on Page Three)

Political Lull Will Be Broken In State Tuesday

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 6.—(AP)—the committee session. The political lull that has prevailed in politically-minded North Carolina for the past several weeks will be broken next Tuesday night when the State Democratic Executive Committee meets here to name its chairman.

The meeting will mark the official launching of the Democratic campaign. The Republicans of the State have had their battle underway for sometime, but so far it has been more or less shadow boxing. Most of the State's Democratic leaders have been away on vacations or have held their tongues pending

Robert R. Reynolds, the Democratic candidate for Senator, will end his vacation this week at White Sulphur Springs, Va., and will be in Raleigh Monday.

J. C. B. Eringhaus, the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, is in the East winding up his law practice preparatory to launching his campaign which he hopes to elect him. Governor O. ABOUT TOWN

The tax rate reduction effected by the Board of Aldermen will be received with interest by the citizenship in view of the hard-pressed situation in which they find themselves at this time.

The reduction was obtained by cutting appropriations to the various departments, including another sacrifice on the part of the schools.

The tax rate has been cut regularly every year for the last four or five years, and this has brought the Greenville rate to a lower point than any other town of similar size in this part of the state.

The cleanest, purest place to swim in this part of the state is Westbrook swimming pool, according to representatives of the county health department who have charge of the sanitation of the public playground.

The sanitary condition of the water at a place of this kind is of vital consideration of the hundreds of people who patronize it each season, and the rate rating given the pool by the health officers should be a source of pride to the entire citizenship.

In addition to sanitation, every safeguard is thrown about swimmers while enjoying this delightful diversion. Two life guards on duty day and night to render assistance in case of trouble, and persons who can't swim as well as little children are able to enjoy themselves in complete safety at all times.

The pool is sponsored by a group of business men attempting to provide a safe place to swim during the summer months, and persons who take advantage of the effort will show their appreciation in a way that should inspire continued operation of the place in years to come.

Three or four lives have already been lost in the river this summer in addition to others who were drowned swimming in creeks and other such places.

The Library Commission has been thanked for its splendid service by members of the Board of Aldermen.

SYNOPSIS: Sondra Kent hides away from her former friends, when her sister Flora's decision to run away from her husband leaves Sondra homeless. She tries to find work, until she falls ill. She regrets her secret marriage to Mark Merriman, when she learns that John Anderson's wife is dead.

Chapter 24 NO ESCAPE Sondra stayed in bed for nearly a week, resisting all Mrs. Sears' entreaties that she have a doctor.

At the end of the week Sondra struggled up; she felt terribly weak, and the sight of her face in the mirror shocked her.

"I look a sight," she thought with sudden fear. "What on earth will become of me if I don't get well?"

Mrs. Sears made her as comfortable as she could in a big chair in the living-room, and opened the windows wide to catch what little air there was.

But she did not blame Flora for her present situation. She was beginning slowly to realize that perhaps they had both escaped from something that had merely been a luxurious prison.

The men were still washing cars in the garage outside; Sondra closed her eyes and tried to sleep, but her brain would not rest; it seemed moving on like a restless kaleidoscope, showing her picture after picture of the past—her room at Flora's house—hot, crowded ball-rooms where she had danced with John Anderson—the rather dreary office where she and Mark had been married—that seemed the most unreal memory of all.

Mark had not been to blame. Mark was a thousand times too good for her, Mark whose heart would break if he knew that already she regretted.

"You're not sorry?" he had said that to her the morning he went away; perhaps even then there had been a little seed of doubt stirring in his mind.

"It was my fault—all my fault," Sondra told herself achingly, and felt the tears on her cheeks.

"Mrs. Sears aren't asleep?" she looked at Sondra with critical eyes as the girl hastily brushed her tears away.

"Who is it? Didn't he give a name? I can't see anyone." Mrs. Sears shook her head aggressively.

where to do." "You could have come to me." She shook her head.

"Not want your . . . For a moment he was silent, then he said quietly. "We'll talk about that presently but there is something I want to ask you first."

"Will you marry me, Sondra?" The silence of the world seemed to fall on the little room, and suddenly Sondra seemed once again to see a river, and Mark's face bent above her own.

"Does that mean that you don't want to?" he asked with a faint smile. "Or are you saying it because you are angry with me? I should have asked you months ago, Sondra, you know that—but I wasn't free."

"I don't know why you are saying this—now. You haven't been near me for weeks—you never even wrote me or told me you were coming home. If you think I can forget the way you've treated me—"

"I want to be quite honest with you, Sondra, as I have always tried to be. So I am going to tell you that the night before Merriman went away, when you told me you were with Beatrice Taylor, I did not believe you. Perhaps you can guess what I thought. I believe now that I was wrong, and so I can only hope once again, that you will forgive me. It hasn't always been easy—trying to be just a friend to you—"

"It would be interesting to know why you suddenly think you may have been wrong?" Anderson said quietly.

"I was the look in your eyes that day we met in the park. I thought . . . I hoped—that perhaps you had discovered that you . . . liked me . . . just a little more than as a friend."

"You thought in fact, that a little neglect had done me good, is that it? That I had fallen desperately in love with you all at once. . . . Anderson did not answer for a moment, then suddenly he stooped and lifted her to her feet again, keeping his arms about her.

"Don't hurt me any more, Sondra—I love you so much. Oh, my dear, don't hurt me any more—if you know how I've wanted you—Sondra—"

"She tried to fight against him, tried in vain to nod him back. "Don't . . . oh, please don't . . . Oh, you mustn't . . ."

"Why did you run away Sondra?" The tears were raining down her face; until this moment she had not known how much she wanted to see him.

with a sharp cry of pain she slipped out of his arms. They looked at one another silently, and into Sondra's mind flashed the thought that she had never seen him look so young, so happy.

Miss Pattie Whitehurst Gives Watermelon Party
Miss Pattie Whitehurst enjoyably entertained about two dozen friends last evening at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Whitehurst on Ninth street. The occasion was to honor her house guests, Misses Rebecca Williams and Dorothy Tillet of Newport News, Va. The guests arrived about eight o'clock and enjoyed music, dancing and merry conversation until a late hour, when ice watermelon was served.

Fall Gardens
The planting of large varieties of fall vegetables is urged for all winter needs. Pantry shelves in all homes should be filled to overflowing to insure relief from hunger this winter. Between August 1 and 15 plant beets, kale, radish and turnips. After August 15 plant snap beans, leaf lettuce, mustard and spinach. With a late fall you could also plant cabbage, carrots, celery plants, corn, Irish potatoes, onions, parsley, radish, spinach, squash, and tomato plants.

State Short Course
The annual farm and home convention will open at State College August 29 and will continue thru the week. This short course attracts hundreds of men and women from all parts of the state each year. If you have never gone you have no idea what you have been missing. A number of women have already signified their intention of going this year. Why not join them? The best way to go is for several to go together and divide expenses of the car. The only other expense for the week is for your meals. There will be information, inspiration, recreation and lots of visits with friends from clubs in other sections of the state.

Booze Hounds Escape Law
High Point, N. C., Aug. 6.—(AP)—They were just three booze hounds with 83 gallons of whiskey, but police can't charge them with a single law violation. The reason is simple: Police found the whiskey under a dog house owned by T. B. Hyde and occupied by three hound dogs. A trap door led to the discovery and a warrant was issued for Hyde.

High Point, N. C., Aug. 6.—(AP)—They were just three booze hounds with 83 gallons of whiskey, but police can't charge them with a single law violation. The reason is simple: Police found the whiskey under a dog house owned by T. B. Hyde and occupied by three hound dogs. A trap door led to the discovery and a warrant was issued for Hyde.

CONSTIPATION

The Curse of the Ages

Has Science at Last Solved This? Great Problem of the Human Race?

NEW DISCOVERY BRINGS LASTING RELIEF TO THOUSANDS

Medical Authorities Agree That Old Fashioned Purgatives, Salts, Oils, Cathartics and Laxatives Have Never Cured Constipation and Never Will.

Remarkable Treatment Discovered

The commonest and greatest curse of mankind is constipation. It is man's greatest enemy. It poisons him, slows him down mentally and physically, breaks down youthful strength and vigor, ages him prematurely and leaves him an easy victim to the attack of almost countless diseases.

Cathartics do relieve constipation for the time being, but their effect is only temporary at best and the more we resort to such artificial aids, the more we require, because their continued use weakens the natural action of the bowels.

AN AMAZING DISCOVERY

Medical Science has discovered that bile, prepared by the liver, is a natural laxative and that people with a normal flow of bile can practice immunity to constipation.

A QUART A DAY

But when our livers become inactive or sluggish and fail to pour into the intestinal tract the necessary quart of bile each day, we suffer from constipation, indigestion, headaches, biliousness, sour stomach and many other common ailments.

OLD THEORIES OVERTURNED

Until the discovery of Sargon Soft Mass Pills it has been the common practice to blast out the intestines with calomel and other drastic cathartics and purges, believing that they stimulated the liver.
