MOLLISON MAKES FIRST WESTWARD ATLANTIC HOP

Court Postpones Consideration Of Walker Petition

TO CONTINUE BORDER LEAF WORK MONDAY PRICES MOUNT

Justice Staley instructs attorneys to prepare briefs on arguments and submit them Monday; arguments heard for and against another effort to halt oyster proceedings against New York Mayor

Supreme Court, Albany, N. Y.—(AP)—Court consideration of Governor Roosevelt's power to judge the fitness of Mayor Walker to remain in office was continued today until next Monday.

Justice Staley instructed Sidney Levine, attorney and Henry Epstein deputy attorney general, to prepare briefs on their arguments and submit them next Monday at 10 a. m.

Levine, representing George Donnelly, a "home rule" enthusiast, argued the state constitutional provision was to invest cities with power to remove their mayors and other officers.

Epstein contended the courts had no power to restrain a governor from exercising his executive duties. He insisted the governor had equal powers with the courts and the legislature.

As he adjourned the hearing, Justice Staley remarked that he was more interested in having someone explain to him how the constitution delegates to the governor the power of removal than he was in the New York City "home rule" provision for local determination of removal methods.

Executive Chamber, Albany, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(AP)—John J. Curtin, attorney for Mayor Walker, resumed his argument today for dismissal of oyster charges by Governor Roosevelt. Paul Block, newspaper publisher, appeared in the "Hall of Governors" to testify for the mayor.

TOO TIRED TO TRY FOR N. Y.

Noted Long-Distance Flier Lands Forty Miles From St. John After Being at Controls of 'The Heart's Content' for More Than 24 Hours; Covers Over 2,300 Miles in Trip From Ireland; Had Gas Enough to Continue to New York But Too Tired to Try it

St. John, N. B., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Capt. J. A. Mollison completed the first westward solo flight across the north Atlantic today, bringing down his small sports plane to a perfect landing at Pennfield Ridge, 40 miles from here.

He had plenty of gasoline left, he said, and might have gone to New York, but he was too tired to do any more flying.

He had been at the controls of his "The Heart's Content" for more than 24 hours, sitting on a bare, un cushioned seat pushing his flying gasoline tank across more than 2,000 miles.

He had intended to stop at Harbor Grace for fuel, but he got better mileage than he had expected and passed by Harbor Grace without stopping.

At 5:05 o'clock this morning he flew over the air port at Halifax, 100 miles east of St. Johns, headed west. Then for a time he was lost to sight in the fog which blanketed the Bay of Fundy region.

"I was too tired to go on," he said over the long distance telephone, "I passed Harbor Grace and Halifax this morning and went over St. John at noon."

"I hoped to get on to New York, but when I got this far I was so tired that I just couldn't go on."

All through the night, he said, he flew through clouds and heavy mist. During the last 18 hours the weather was especially bad.

CREDLIE-MANN

Lake Landing, Aug. 16.—A marriage of much interest to friends here and elsewhere in North Carolina was solemnized at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, Aug. 16, at the old and historic home of the bride's aunt, Miss Bettie Mann of Lake Landing, when Miss Eunice Lunsden Mann, the attractive daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John L. Mann, became the bride of Blount A. Credle of New Holland, N. C. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. C. D. Noe of Ayden, a former rector of St. George's Episcopal Church here, and she was given in marriage by her brother, John L. Mann.

For the nuptial service the spacious living room was beautifully decorated with clematis, ferns and garden flowers, forming an improvised chancel and altar, with softly lighted candles in the background.

The bride was attractively gowned in a three piece semi-tailored navy blue ensemble with accessories to match and was unattended.

Mrs. Credle was educated at North Carolina College for Women, Greensboro, and for several years has been a member of the Lake Landing high school faculty.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Laura Credle and the late O. T. Credle of New Holland and is a prosperous merchant and farmer of that community.

Immediately after the ceremony, which was witnessed by only the families and a few friends, the couple left for a tour of northern cities, after which they will be at home in New Holland.

SPECIAL DANCE ORCHESTRA AT ATLANTIC BEACH

Morehead City, Aug. 19.—Negotiations to have Vincent Lopez and his St. Regis orchestra play for a dance at the Atlantic Hotel in Morehead City Saturday night have been cancelled, it has been announced by D. C. Bell, hotel manager, who had made plans for a Lopez dance during the week-end. Appearance of the famous orchestra has also been cancelled at several other southern points. Lopez having decided not to make his planned southern tour at present.

Manager Robert W. Cordon of Atlantic Beach, however, announced Friday that he had succeeded in obtaining Freddie Hoch and his Buccaneers for a special dance Saturday night at Atlantic Beach Casino. This orchestra is also said to be unusually good and a large crowd of dancers and spectators are expected to be on hand for the dance.

The Hoch Buccaneers are also expected to remain over next week to play for the dances to be given at the beach casino for the members of the Junior Order, which will hold its state convention Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at Morehead City.

Births Treble Deaths in N. C. During July

Raleigh, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Births in North Carolina in July nearly trebled deaths, the State Board of Health announced today in its provisional report on vital statistics for the state for July.

There were 2,545 deaths last month and 6,168 births, giving the state a July death rate of 9.4 per thousand population and a birth rate of 23 per thousand.

The birth rate for the state for 1931 was 23.3 per thousand population, coming second to New Mexico for the first time in a decade that North Carolina had not led all states in birth rate. The death rate was 10.3 per thousand population last year.

There were 455 children under one year of age which died in the state last month and the infant mortality rate was 73.7 deaths per 1,000 live births. Fifty-five mothers died giving birth to infants, the rate being 8.9 per 1,000 live births.

The report showed that drownings claimed 36 lives in the state in July, automobile accidents resulted in 48 fatalities, four were killed by being accidentally shot, there were 20 suicides and 29 homicides.

Thirty-one persons died from appendicitis, 165 from cancer, 26 from whooping cough, 26 from typhoid and paratyphoid, 14 from influenza, 67 from pellagra, 13 from pneumonia, 20 from diabetes and 8 from measles.

Department Store Being Remodeled

Young's Store, Dickinson Street, has united with the Federated Stores of America, a voluntary chain of independent merchants co-operating for the purpose of buying more favorably and rendering better service to their patrons.

The Young's Store will be individually owned and will continue giving the same personal attention to the needs of the community.

Under supervision of the central headquarters staff represented by W. M. Young and T. F. Mallet, of Baltimore, Md., the store is now undergoing complete remodeling and modernizing in every respect. Every article of merchandise is being thoroughly scrutinized and anything, whether soiled or overstocked, will be disposed of in a sale which will soon be announced.

But whether or not people are interested in making purchases, they are invited to visit Young's. They will be both surprised and pleased with the changes made, although the final touches will not be completed for about three weeks.

Tommy Abbott Passes Away in Massachusetts

Tommy Abbott, utility star who was a familiar figure to Virginia and Piedmont league fans a number of seasons back, has passed on. Tommy died last Saturday at his home in Groveland, Mass.

Abbott, quite slim for a catcher, was a good backstop nevertheless. He was a real hustler. And he was a good utility man.

Abbott managed Danville's Piedmont league club at one time. He came to this section in 1919 to catch for the Richmond Colts in the days when Chief Bender was the Richmond ace. Bender won twenty-nine games and lost two that season. Later Abbott played for Norfolk and managed Petersburg.

Tommy's real name was Leighton Abbott Greenough.

The death of Tommy Abbott was received with sorrow by followers of the national pastime in this city. As a member of the Greenville club of the Eastern Carolina league about five years ago, Abbott made himself very popular among a wide circle of friends. He was considered one of the most consistent catchers in the league.

Sen. Robinson Preparing to Leave Ocracoke

Ocracoke, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Senator Joseph T. Robinson prepared today for his return to the world of business and politics after several days of fishing and attending the recreations of the island folk.

He already knew all about fishing, but there was one thing for him to learn. So, tutored by Simle O'Neal, his guide, he attended a square dance at Pamlico Inn. Reports said Simle taught the senator all the fine points of the ancient pastime, but how far the senator's participation went was not recorded when the party returned.

"I have been fishing all my life," he said, "but I have never seen the equal to the salt water angling this section, or the Carolina coast has to offer."

Inspect Hull of Saratoga After Mishap

San Pedro, Calif., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A thorough inspection of the hull of the U. S. S. Saratoga was started by divers today to determine if any damage was done the huge $35,000,000 airplane carrier when it grounded yesterday afternoon on a sand bar off Sunset Beach. Arrangements for a naval board of inquiry to place responsibility for the mishap were started.

The Saratoga rested today at its regular anchorage in battleship row here after being conveyed from Sunset Beach by three navy tugs which had pulled her clear from the sand bar with the coming high tide at 6:52 last night.

With a crew of 1,700 officers and men and carrying eighty planes as eyes of the fleet, the Saratoga apparently suffered no damage when she lay stranded for more than four hours on the sand bar a mile off shore. However, if the divers report evidence of strain on the hull, the ship will be sent to the United States Navy Yard at Bemberton, Wash., for further inspection.

The Saratoga, largest ship in the history of the navy to be grounded, was engaged in largest maneuvers offshore between Sol Beach and Huntington Beach when the mishap overtook her. First reports that the weather was foggy were later denied by observers from the shore. Although navy officers would make no statement, it was reported by mariners that the sand bar at that point had not been properly charted.

Refloating of the big airship carrier was a comparatively easy task.

Sues Mill for Injury Sustained During Strike

Greensboro, Aug. 19.—(AP)—An echo of the recent High Point strike was heard here today with the filing by Robert Reese of a $100,000 damage suit against C. L. Amos and the Melrose Hosiery Mill, and F. H. Clark, forman in the mill.

His complaint alleged he entered the mill, owned by Amos, at 4 p. m. July 18, with other strikers, went to the boiler room and blew the whistle to halt operations in the mill. As he came out, he claims, Clark threw a pitcher of acid at him, in a flitting serious burn.

The acid throwing incident was the only major case of violence in the general strike which for 48 hours involved approximately 15,000 people and which resolved into a two weeks' hold out by 6,000 hosiery workers.

Survey State Duck Situation

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 19.—(AP)—The question as to just how much of a "gad-about" is the black duck, which spends a considerable portion of its time on the North Carolina coast, is expected to receive some light as a result of studies being undertaken by the United States Biological Survey with the co-operation of the State Department of Conservation and Development.

W. L. Birsch, United States game protector with headquarters at New Bern, and Charles J. Moore, Assistant State Game Warden, recently released twenty-five ducks furnished by the United States Biological Survey in Eastern North Carolina for the purpose of tracing movements of the birds.

Sixteen of the ducks were released in the 600-acre rice field in Lake Mattamuskeet bottoms, in Hyde County, and nine were placed in Lake Ellis, in Craven County. The ducks released in the Lake Mattamuskeet field were reported to have circled several times and to have settled in the rice ditches.

All of the birds released, the game officials reported, were young ducks of the current year's brood. They bore leg bands and the dates and places in which they were released have been recorded for reference when any of the bands are returned.

Negro Held for Investigation in Capital Shooting

Concord, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Oscar Williams, alias Oscar Edgeworth, Pageland, S. C. negro is being held for investigation here after he boasted to other negroes that it was he who killed Patrolman George Shinault at Washington.

After his arrest Williams claimed he was joking, and had not been in Washington for two weeks, but displayed considerable knowledge of the slaying, for which District of Columbia authorities are seeking a negro.

Gloria Swanson Being Sued by House Furnishers

Los Angeles, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Nearly $50,000 worth of Gloria Swanson's furniture will leave her Beverly Hills home suddenly unless someone enters court with a $28,000 bond today.

Alleging a $14,000 debt, W. J. Saylor Ltd., dealer in expensive chairs, tables, beds and so forth, filed a suit which sent deputy sheriffs to the mansion with a writ of attachment.

They found a lone caretaker, Miss Swanson being in England with her new husband-farmer. The caretaker accepted the writ, and thereafter was no longer alone, for a deputy sheriff remained to keep a constabular eye on the many rich whatnots.

A $28,000 bond will satisfy the attachment until the suit is decided. Otherwise, the beveled mirrors that intimately knew the famed Swanson beauty, the lounges that often bore the classic Swansonian form, and the deep rugs and rare buffets of a reigning movie queen are to be removed to a warehouse.

Miss Swanson bought the furnishings between husbands in 1931. She and the Marquis Henri De Lay Falaize had just been divorced. Now, living in London with farmer and their infant daughter, she is planning an English motion picture.

The suit said she completely refurbished the house at a cost of $44,000, paying $30,000 and promising the balance.

Six Persons Burned to Death in Auto Wreck

Midland, Mich., Aug. 19.—A father and mother and their four children were burned fatally early today in an automobile which caught fire colliding with another car.

The Messer family consisted of Mr. and Mrs. George Messer, of Thomasville, Meigs, and their children, Edward, 12; Forest, 10; Stella, 6; and Mary 4. Three of the children died.

The Messer car collided with one driven by George Patrick, which bore an Ontario license. Patrick was carrying two five-gallon cans of gasoline on his running board, and in the collision the caps burst.

The gasoline was sprayed over the Messer car, which caught fire. The seven occupants were trapped, and Edward, Stella and Ruth were dead by the time persons attracted to the scene could check the flames and reach them. Forest died two and a half hours later in Mercy hospital at Bay City.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those fool, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Rosent & substitute, 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

The Faithful ∴ Cheat ∴

By Ruby M. Ayres

SYNOPSIS: Mark Merriman's mother brings to him gossip about his wife, Sondra, and John Anderson. Sondra has been faithful to Mark, although she loves John. She and John intend that Mark shall never know of their unhappiness. John, for years, has held the position of a guardian toward Sondra.

Chapter 35
 SONDRAS HARDES BATTLE
 A flash of jealousy crossed Mrs. Merriman's face; she had never liked Sondra and she had never forgiven her for marrying Mark so secretly "as if there was something to be ashamed of," so she told herself.

"Beatrice didn't say anything against her," she protested. "Beatrice merely repeated what apparently everyone knows, that Mr. Anderson has always been in love with her, and would have married her long enough ago if he had been free."

"Is that all?" Mark laughed weakly. "Well, are you going to blame Sondra for that? How can she help it if Anderson loves her? It would be more wonderful if he didn't."

He was conscious of an enormous relief; he had given his mother credit for more sense than to turn a thing like this into a so-called "scandal."

"Is that all?" he asked.
 Mrs. Merriman hesitated, then she said offensively. "Of course I've no more to say if you are going to take it like this. I only spoke for your own good."

"Thank you. I know all there is to know about Sondra, and anyway, Mother, I don't want you to repeat anything to me. She's more to me than anyone in the world, and if all the world came to me with stories against her, I should not believe them." He was silent for a moment then he laughed. "I don't see why you should be so indignant because another man wanted to marry the woman who married me."

There was a little silence, then Mrs. Merriman said in a bitter voice. "You haven't allowed me to tell you everything."
 Mark rose unsteadily to his feet. "You drive me to say things I wouldn't," he said hoarsely. "You come here insinuating things against the woman I love—its—its cruel and unnatural. If you don't like Sondra, Mother, for God's sake let's not speak of her, or if you can't come here without speaking of her, please don't come at all."

He was pale and breathless, and he put out a hand to steady himself against a chair.
 For a moment Mrs. Merriman was silent, her lips pale, her eyes downcast, then she rose slowly to her feet.

"You need not be afraid," she said in a queer voice. "I shall not come again, but perhaps some day you will regret having turned your own Mother away for the sake of a—"
 Mark took a quick step forward. "How dare you?" he said hoarsely. She laughed, her bitter jealousy rising in an uncontrollable flood.

"Very well, I'll go," she said. "I'll go and be glad to, but perhaps you'll ask Sondra who has paid for her fine clothes all these years, and if she tells you that, then ask her what she gave in return—ask her why you were sent abroad—ask her why John Anderson is the good friend to you you say he is—ask her whom she was with at the shore just before you came home; ask her..." She broke off as the door opened and Sondra came into the room.

She stood for a moment looking from one to the other, the smile fading on her lips, then she took a little running step forward—
 "Why, Mark... Mark—" she put her arms around him, steadying him and he sank into the chair, his eyes closed, trembling from head to foot.

"What is it, dear?" Sondra asked tenderly; she looked back at his mother. "What have you been doing to him?" she demanded angrily.
 Mark recovered himself with an effort. "It's all right—" he tried to smile. "It's my fault—I got angry... all about nothing. I'm all right—don't look so frightened, Sondra... just leave me alone for a moment."

Mrs. Merriman came forward, her eyes piteous.
 "I didn't mean it, Mark... it wasn't true... not one word of it. Oh, my dear boy."
 "I think you had better fetch the nurse," Sondra said. "And don't go, please... I want to speak to you."
 She took Mark's hand and held it to her cheek. His eyes were on her face with almost agonized inquiry.
 "What is it, Mark? Oh, what is it?" she asked in distress.
 But he only turned his head away.
 Mrs. Merriman was downstairs in the waiting-room when Sondra presently sought her. There was nobody about, and Sondra closed the door behind her.
 Mrs. Merriman turned around from the window, her face pale, and strained. "How is he?" she asked eagerly.
 "The doctor says he will be all right—that he had overdone things a little."
 There was a short silence, then Sondra said in a tense voice: "I heard what you were saying—I heard what you were saying as I opened the door," and then as the elder woman said nothing, she broke out passionately: "Oh, how could you have been so cruel—your own son."

 "It was true what I said—every word was true."
 "Does that make it any the less cruel?" Sondra asked.
 Mrs. Merriman broke into bitter weeping. "You've taken my son from me—he'll never be the same to me again, and you don't love him. I know you don't really care for him at all."
 "Everyone will hear, if you cry like that," Sondra said.
 In spite of herself there was a vague pity for this woman in her heart. It was true—she had taken Mark away—true that she did not love him, and yet—she knew she would rather have died than hurt him as his mother had done.
 She supposed dully that it was jealousy, but somehow she had never imagined Mrs. Merriman felt like that towards her; outwardly at all events they had been good friends.
 She said patiently: "If you will listen to me for a moment, I will try to explain. I know what you think of course—I daresay you are not the only one who thinks it, but you are quite wrong—Mr. Anderson has never been anything to me but a good friend. I heard you tell Mark that he had paid for my clothes—that is not true either—he has given me presents, but not since... not since I married Mark. You wouldn't understand if I tried to explain how I feel about him and I look at things; we've been brought up so differently, but I hope you will believe me. I hope you will believe me when I say that... that I mean to do my best—always for Mark; to make him happy." Her voice trailed away desolately, remembering that only an hour ago she had tried to say something like this to Anderson.
 It had been a terrible time for her; both of them trying to talk lightly of every subject but the one nearest to both their hearts, and then just before she had left him Sondra had said—
 "I can't ever thank you for all you've done for us, but I'll try... to be decent. I'll try to do what you said—to stand by my mistakes; and not... not vent them on someone who is innocent."
 She wondered a little at herself, and why it was that she was so determined that Mark should not be the one to suffer.
 Was it because she loved him, in all ways, perhaps, but the one way which was the only way that mattered? Or was it because she was so desperately sorry for him, and that out of that sorrow something loyal and protectiveness had grown?
 "Perhaps I've been what they call 'saved,'" she told herself with a hysterical desire to laugh, as she went over to Mark's mother and took her hand. "I could make Mark so much happier if you would help me," she said, but she realized the futility of the appeal. Mark's mother would never forgive her, or feel any affection for her. She had to fight this, the hardest battle of her life, alone.
 Presently she went back to Mark; he was lying with his face turned away and he did not move when she came into the room.
 Sondra went to him and laid a

PATS BEGIN FALLING BACK IN FLAG RACE

Charlotte, Aug. 19.—(AP)—If the Patriots of Greensboro want to cop the second half bunting of the Piedmont league, Manager Fred Myers had better call for a hypodermic or two to administer his lagging charges.

A little more than a week ago the Pats were yapping at Charlotte's heels and the race looked as heated as a political campaign. But, alas, the Greensboro club began to slip while Charlotte kept in its winning ways.

Statistics served up today point out in black and white that the Hornets boast a five game lead over the half winners. Three weeks remain before the shouting is over, it's true, but a five-game margin isn't to be sneezed at this late in the summer.

In fact, things have progressed to such a stage that Guy Lacy, acting manager of the Hornets, says there will be a series play-off between his club and the Pats, whether the league blows up or not.
 "There was some talk around Greensboro that there would be no series should the league go under," Lacy said, "but I'm sure there will be."

Although shorn of the support of the New York Giants, Winston-Salem is continuing to operate, but not in a highly successful manner. The orphans were bowled over twice last night by Durham.

Greensboro failed to keep in step with Charlotte, losing to Wilmington, 5 to 3. The Hornets trounced Raleigh, 6 to 0 behind the brilliant twirling of Sam Dizenzo.

 He made no reply, and she said gently: "I want to tell you some thing—I want to tell you a great many things..." she paused and then: "I heard what your mother said to you, Mark."
 He moved a little as if she had hurt him and Sondra went on steadily: "It wasn't true—at least..." she stopped hopelessly, not knowing how to explain—where to begin. Would he believe her, no matter what she said?

CUBS TAKE THRILLER IN BRAVE TILT

By HERBERT W. BARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer
 No matter who may win the National league pennant, the Chicago Cubs and Boston Braves seem to have clinched the marathon championship beyond a doubt.

They've just completed a three-game series and the Cubs have had to travel 43 innings—the equivalent of almost five ordinary contests—to win three one-run decisions.

Charley Grimm's outfit scored four runs in the ninth to win the first game, 4-3, Tuesday, and Wednesday the clubs fought through 19 innings before the Cubs won, 3-2.

Taking up right where they had left off, they fought through another extra-inning thriller yesterday until Riggs Stephenson broke up the ball game in the 15th with a single that gave the Cubs a 4-3 triumph and stretched their league lead to 2-1-2 games over the idle Pittsburgh Pirates.

Huck Betts, always tough for the Cubs to solve, pitched the first 14 innings before going out for a pinch batsman. The Cub's soon napped on Siebold for the winning run. Elwood English started with a single and on Cuyler's attempted sacrifice Al Spahr's tossed the ball wild and English reached third and Cuyler second. Stephenson's game-winning hit followed. Guy Bach pitched the last frame for the Cubs and received credit for his second victory in as many days. He pitched the last frame of Wednesday's 19-inning battle.

 The Phillies turned back the St. Louis Cardinals in both ends of a doubleheader, 10-4 and 9-4. The Phils uncorked one five-run rally off Dizzy Dean in the third frame of the opener and another off Paul Derringer in the sixth. They won the second game with another five-run rally off Stout and Carleton in the fifth inning. The New York Giants made it four in a row from Cincinnati, 7-3. Waite Hoyt held the Reds in subjection until the eighth when he lost control and had to be relieved by Dolf Lique.

The only American league game of the day was a spectacular struggle between the Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns which the former won, 7-6 in 15 innings. George Stumpf, rookie outfielder, tripped in that frame and scored on Hal Rhyne's long fly. The Browns tied the score at 2-all in the ninth. In the 11th Levey of St. Louis and McManus of Boston hit homers. In the 14th the Browns apparently won the game with a three-run rally but the battling Red Sox tied it up in the half once more. Irving Burns, Browns first baseman, collected five hits.

Yesterday's Stars

Riggs Stephenson, Cubs—His single in 15th drove in run that beat Braves.
 George Stumpf, Red Sox—Tripled in 15th and scored run that beat Browns on long fly.
 Chuck Klein and Jim Elliott, Phillies—Former pounded Cardinal pitching for two doubles and single in first game; later halted them with eight hits in nightcap.
 Waite Hoyt, Giants—Pitched effectively to beat Reds, 7-3.

ABOUT TOWN

Bishop Cannon, long the storm center of the Methodist Church, forged into the limelight again yesterday with the declaration that "President Hoover had surrendered to the speakies."

That's rather a bold statement to make about a man who promised to give the nation continued prosperity during his administration, but Bishop Cannon is a bold man and has said things that made his brethren gasp in pure astonishment long before this attack on the President.

We wouldn't say that the President has surrendered to the liquor interests, but it is a foregone conclusion that his support of state's rights has caused him to lose support of the dries, who were lining up against him in all sections of the country in opposition to the Democratic repeal plank.

Although there have been rumblings of discontent ever since the utterance was made, this comment from Bishop Cannon is the most direct denunciation so far recorded. As a leader of the dry movement, it is expected the entire organization will fall in behind the bishop and help frustrate the President's attempt to regain his seat in the White House.

Improvement of the price situation at the opening of Georgia markets will be viewed with satisfaction by growers of this section who have watched with interest all developments on all markets this week.

Especially impressed are some of the tobaccoists with the situation that they have stated they expect favorable prices to prevail at the opening of this belt, enabling the farmers to recover somewhat from low prices prevailing during recent years.

With the crop in this section 50 per cent short as compared with last season, it is natural to presume that higher prices will be the order of the day. Growers, in the opinion of one prominent tobaccoist, would do well to prepare their crop carefully for marketing and in that way make it more attractive to the buyers.

Another low priced crop for this belt would not only prove disastrous to growers, but would do more to damage the industry than anything in the history of the belt.

Additional reports of improved business conditions in this state are evident in the resumption of operation of textile mills and general reconstruction work.

It is such things which contribute to the economic welfare of the people and the more mills set in motion the sooner the depression experienced the last two years will be eliminated.

Not only North Carolina, but other states of the union are reporting general improvement in business conditions and if this should continue for another year some of the prosperity lost in the last few years should return.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady 2.7 higher on steady Liverpool cables and a constructive interpretation on the formation of the commodity financial corporation.

There was trade and commission house buying on the opening advance as well as covering but the demand was supplied by southern and local selling, while there was also some selling here for Liverpool account and the barge seemed to bring in considerable profit-taking.

Offerings were not particularly heavy or aggressive but were sufficient to ease the market off after the opening, and prices at the end of the first half hour were holding within a point or two of yesterday's closing quotations.

Liverpool cables reported local and foreign buying supplied by hedging in that market and said the labor situation was restricting business in cotton cloths at Manchester considerably.

Grain Market

Chicago, Aug. 19.—(AP)—With Canadian country deliveries of wheat reported as almost three times larger than a year ago, wheat prices today lacked aggressive support.

Messages from the American northwest indicated that domestic farmers were holding their wheat back with surprising tenacity. Pit traders here were disinclined to bear the selling side of the market, fearing that concentrated buying might develop the same as it did yesterday.

Stock Market

New York, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The stock market made a brave start today, but soon lapsed into a weary zig-zag movement.

Stocks still seemed to be tied to wheat, and when that market sagged, shares eased off as well. An opening burst of buying carried many of the leaders up 1 to 2 points. These gains were soon lost, and in the late morning the specialties failed to inject new life. Several of the principal issues were off 1 to 2 points net by the fourth hour.

Cases registered a somewhat wider decline, off more than 3. Issues down 1 to 2 net included International Harvester, American Telephone, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco B, Corn Products, Westinghouse Electric, Union Pacific and Santa Fe. Gotham Silk Hosiery was boosted more than 5 points in the morning, and American Smelting and Bohn Aluminum about 2. Rails were prominent in the temporary upswing at the opening, and some of those issues held up fairly well, notably New Haven and Canadian Pacific. Some of the aircraft stocks were bid up in a morning demonstration, and held up reasonably well, notably United Aircraft and Bendix Aviation.

The market obtained only temporary stimulus from the overnight announcement of the formation of the Commodities Credit Corp. Possibly the announcement was a little disappointing to some brokerage quarters that had been talking enthusiastically of "commodity pools."

The weekly mercantile reviews again spoke optimistically of developments in general trade conditions, pointing to further gains in wholesaling, and increasing activity in manufacturing in such lines as textiles and shoes. They failed to shed any particularly new light on the situation, however.

MILLS REPORTS LOANS

O RECONSTRUCTION BODY (Continued from page one) In addition to the above, 500,000 individual loans to farmers, aggregating $65,000,000, have been made by the Secretary of Agriculture out of the $97,000,000 thus far allocated to him.

"It has been said that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation benefits only the great city bank and other large institutions," Mills continued. "The contrary is true. The great majority of banks which have borrowed from the Corporation are located in small towns."

Mills said the Corporation's activities had tended more and more to restore confidence in financial institutions and that the shrinkage in bank deposits and bank credits which had been "proceeding at a disastrous rate for months has been partially checked."

"Men may not look to the immediate economic future with complete assurance," Mills said, "but today they are at least facing it unafraid. Our ship has come through a financial hurricane with much suffering, some broken pars, torn sails and wreckage on deck, but the hull is sound and neither crew nor passengers doubt but that we shall come safely to port."

HOOVER AN DCURTIS AT

ODDS ON 'DRY' QUESTION (Continued from page one) spent the morning in his office where he read the congratulatory messages and received callers.

Mr. Curtis said the telegrams singled out no particular sections of his address for comment.

By BYRON PRICE

(Associated Press Staff Writer) Acceptance speech and the daily grip from the still politically ponderable personal inquiry by Governor Roosevelt into the case of Mayor Walker, vice-presidential nominees took over the national campaign as another week rolled by.

A high point for political discussion lay in Vice-President's Curtis' unqualified declaration in accepting renomination as Mr. Hoover's running mate against repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. Yet the excursion from his Texas home of Speaker Gardner, Democratic rival for the Vice-Presidency, to attempt in person the enlistment of Alfred E. Smith at his New York and New England following in active support of the Roosevelt-Garner ticket vied for attention with the Curtis speech.

Mr. Curtis, speaking at notification ceremonies at Topeka, added fuel to the fire of prohibition discussion precipitated by President Hoover's acceptance address a week earlier. With the exception of publication of Garner's acceptance letter, the notification phase of the campaign is now complete.

The Democratic orators will make much of any differences in prohibition views they may profess to detect on comparison of the Hoover and Curtis position is to be expected. Their own candidates are pledged to repeal both personally and by platform.

To complicate the vexed picture of the place prohibition will have in the election, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., contributed from Switzerland.

Like the convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union in Seattle, which predicted the rise of a new party, the Bishop saw only in the Congressional elections a place for advocates of Federal prohibition.

Speaker Garner, aside from his reiterated assertion of party loyalty in 1928, sought to refute during his New York visit the charge of radicalism raised in the East by Republican spokesmen. It was promptly reiterated from the new-established Republican headquarters in New York City.

More than that, Republican plans to throw Secretaries Mills and Hurley into the Maine state campaign which terminates September 12 were disclosed. That will be the first real test of the election.

On the Democratic side plans for a Roosevelt twenty-one-state swing through Middle, North and South West and the Pacific Coast in September were announced. Before that, however, what the Democratic candidate will say in answer to President Hoover at his speech tomorrow in Columbus, O., was the next major scheduled event of the campaign.

With that speech, the Democratic Presidential drive will be fully launched. President Hoover's personal campaign plans are yet to be disclosed in detail.

FICCAR DWILL TRY NEW

FLIGHT IN CANADA SOON (Continued from page one) terday's flight," he said, "we will begin preparations for the third experiment."

"We plan to take off from the northwest shore of Hudson Bay, as close as we can get to the north pole. Our purpose will be to complete the study of cosmic rays at a point where the lines of magnetic force penetrate the stratosphere."

"A solution for many scientific problems will be provided when we know how the rays act under these conditions."

The third expedition, he said, would not begin until the middle of next summer.

Asked what he was going to do now, the bushy-haired little scientist said with a smile: "I'm going to take a swim in Lake Garda."

Lake Garda, near here, was spotted at his yesterday from the skies as a guide to a landing and he came down near its shore. His next scientific move, he said, would be to take to Zurich, Switzerland, the instruments he carried with him yesterday to a height of more than 10 miles above the earth. Zurich was the starting point of his flight and there he will have the seals removed and the results verified.

"Then," he said, "will begin several months of figuring on our experiments. After that we will be free to start planning the third flight from Hudson Bay."

Pending the examination of the instruments, he refused to say more than that he had reached a height of nearly 55,000 feet and encountered temperatures which were five degrees below zero inside the spherical aluminum gondola and 67 degrees below on the outside.

The instruments, as well as the gondola itself, were taken last night from Cavallaro Di Monzanaro, where he landed, to the Italian aviation school here. Prof. Piccard said they had not been harmed by the jar when the gondola hit the ground, although the gondola itself was dented a little by the impact.

Undoubtedly, he said, they would reveal very interesting information especially on the effect of cosmic rays that far above the earth's surface. The study of which was the principal reason he braved the stratosphere a second time.

From the minute he crawled out of the gondola yesterday, shaky after the sudden drop from below zero temperatures to sizzling heat, the professor was all the calm scientist. All his movements have been cool and methodical.

BORDER LEAF PRICES MOUNT

(Continued from page one) erage of about $9 per hundred. The price range at Darlington was from 10 to 26 cents per pound, with the market forced to close early because of rains last night and today had prevented farmers from reaching the floors with their product.

Pair Bluff, N. C., where rains held offerings to 24,340 pounds, reported an advance price of $11, the highest in the belt.

Prices at Lumberton, N. C., also were reported rising today, while official figures for yesterday's business showed sales of 288,074 pounds at an average of $8.93.

The break at Dillon today also was light, official figures for the short day showing 21,436 pounds sold for an average of $9.75 per hundred.

Kingstree was the only reporting market which failed to show a higher trend. Light sales there, also attributed to rain, consisted principally of the medium and lower grades at an average of eight cents per pound, with better offerings bringing in from 20 to 25 cents.

Rain throughout the Florence, S. C., section likewise curtailed activities.

At Timmonsville estimates placed sales at 110,000 pounds at an average of about 10 cents per pound. Timmonsville's total sales for the first three days were 610,432 pounds, averaging $8.72 per hundred.

No change in prices was reported at Pamlico, where approximately 3,000 pounds were sold.

Steadily increasing prices were reported from Lake City, S. C., with 75,000 pounds, mostly first cuttings, sold today at an average of about $10 per hundred. Farmers there expressed growing satisfaction with the trend of the market.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Production of broad leaf tobacco in the Connecticut valley is estimated at 40 per cent lower than last year by the New England Crop Reporting Service, Charles D. Lewis, Hartford, County Farm Agent, said today.

The estimated yield is the lowest since separate figures have been kept for broad leaf. Without considering hail damage, the crop is believed to total slightly more than 11,000,000 pounds.

W. E. HOOKER RETIRES HERE

(Continued from page one) caused them to change over to the sale of Ford automobiles with complete repair departments, including body building, finishing, painting and triming departments.

Since retirement of Mr. Hooker, associated with Mr. Flanagan in the operation of the firm will be his two sons, E. G. Flanagan, Jr., and John Flanagan.

BETTER TIMES VISIT SOUTH

(Continued from page one) projects and a generally improved economic outlook as tobacco growers in South Carolina and Georgia and cotton farmers over the belt jingled money from higher priced crops in their pockets.

In Virginia, the Lone Star Cement Company at Norfolk has reopened to meet a payroll of 200 persons and the Sichel Silk Mills at Waynesboro, which recently added 150 workers, announced an increase of 10 per cent in piece work wages.

The Viscose Corporation of Virginia at Roanoke has employed 1,000 workers after laying off 4,500 for more than a month and the road program under which the Virginia highway department expects to spend approximately $20,000,000 this year is getting under way with daily contract awards. Increased orders for colored cotton textiles has caused one division of the Riverside and Dan River cotton mills at Danville to jump their work schedules from four and one half to five and one half days a week.

Textile mills, furniture factories, paper plants and other industrial concerns through the Carolinas have added to forces and increased working hours. The North Carolina highway commission opened bid on $904,000 of road and bridge work this week and plans another letting in the month. South Carolina has just announced plans for a $2,500,000 road construction program, and Alabama is working out a road plan.

The Bemis, Tenn., cotton mills have announced reception of an order for approximately 11,000,000 square yards of cloth, the largest since war times and the Corinth, Miss., hosiery mills and Weaver paints company at Corinth, have just put 400 back at work.

Florida is looking forward to a busy tourist season and is planning horse and dog race track improvements along with other reparations while Tampa Ever Rite Hosiery Mills Company of New York is to build a knitting mills there.

The Louisiana highway commission is resuming road construction by execution of contracts totaling $10,000,000 in addition to asking for bids on 35 miles of pavement between Baton Rouge and New Orleans to cost $50,000. A $320,000 addition to the Louisiana state university stadium is under construction.

COURT CLOSES VACATION

(Continued from page one) Judge Whedbee about three weeks ago to give the farm people of the community a chance to complete the housing of their various crops. Work on the farms has handicapped court action for many years, and recess is declared each summer to give the growers time to complete their work before being called into court to take part in action in which they are involved.

The docket this morning, by reason of the vacation, was one of the largest in months, but court got away to an auspicious start and it was indicated that rapid dispatch would be made of the work.

FIREMEN END MEETING HERE

The annual gathering opened with a general session at the courthouse Tuesday morning, and was marked by a colorful parade Wednesday afternoon, which all departments participated.

Colonel Taylor, of Fayetteville, presided over the convention sessions, and expressed his appreciation of the hospitality shown the firemen by the local fire department.

and the citizenship generally. Other members of the organization were high in their praise of Greenville, and declared in the gathering would go down in history as one of the most important in years.

Claxton's closing day's activities were the reel, hook and ladder and fire truck races staged in front of the Export Tobacco Company yesterday. Beginning at 11 o'clock, the races were not finished until about 3 o'clock.

Warrenton emerged winner in the 100 yard reel race in 20 and 2-5 seconds. Wilson took second place in 27 seconds; East Spencer, third place in 22 seconds, and Greenville fourth place in 22 2-5 seconds.

Wilson won first place in the grab reel race with a time of 20 seconds. East Spencer came second in 21 seconds, and Greenville third in 21 2-5 seconds.

In the fifty-yard fire truck race, Oxford ran away with first honors, making the dash in 12 3-5 seconds. Warrenton came second in 13 2-5 seconds, and Farmville third in 17 seconds. Wilson also came out in the lead in the foot races, with Warrenton taking second place and Enfield third.

Tarboro won first place in the hook and ladder race and Oxford captured second place.

This was the first time Greenville firemen had entered the races in fifteen years, and their time was considered remarkably good in view of the fact that they were competing with teams which had participated about 25 years.

The firemen were entertained at a dance at Gorman's Warehouse each night the convention was in progress, and dances were described as among the most orderly ever conducted here, and the association was praised by public officials for their effort to maintain good behavior.

DAVIS TO FILE LOTTERY PLEA

There was no indication when the trial will be held, although Senator Davis, in a statement issued at Washington, called for a speedy one.

"I am sure these charges will prove false," he said.

At Kansas City, the attorney of Conrad H. Mann, another of the indicted men, said he was convinced "there has been not even a technical violation of the law so far as the fraternal order of eagles and its officers are concerned."

Mann, a prominent business man, was accused of breaking the law in connection with a lottery conducted under auspices of the eagles, of which he is a national official.

Davis, former Secretary of Labor, is alleged to have played a part in a lottery as director general of the Local Order of Moose. Bernard C. MacQuire, who once sold bananas on a street stand in Lowell, Mass., and now is a millionaire promoter, was described as the head of the alleged lottery promotion. Others indicted were Frank E. Herring, publisher of the Eagles Magazine; Raymond Walsh, an employee of McGuire; Theodore G. Miller, head of the Mooseheart propagation department; M. J. Rivise, in charge of the package delivery department of Western Union. The latter company was also indicted.

Federal officials said about 50,000-000 tickets costing 50 cents and $1 were issued. Lodge officials said the purpose was to raise charity funds.

SHIP ANOTHER CAR OF HOGS

(Continued from page one) without any cost. However, those remaining in the dormitories will have to bring their own bed linen, towels, etc. Meals will be served on the campus at 25 cents each.

Farmers are urged to attend this convention, and it is suggested that parties of some four or five go in one car and all share the expense of gasoline and oil, which would be very little for each one. Next year the convention, it is understood, will be held as heretofore in July.

Therefore, if our farmers do not avail themselves of this opportunity to attend the convention, it will be two years before the date will be convenient for them.

The program, which is being prepared, will be published later.

Small Grains Last year farmers of Pitt County had an abundance of corn and hay for feed purposes. This year, due to the drought, even though we have had an increased acreage of these crops, a great many farmers will find that they will not have enough grain and hay to take care of the livestock they have on their farms, and unless some provisions are made this fall, they will be forced to purchase feeds next spring. Therefore, we are suggesting that at this time farmers of Pitt County, and especially those whose crops have been materially decreased by the drought, sow fall decreased to be used as mule feed, preferably by cutting and thrashing same and feeding the grain. We also suggest that those who have hogs and a shortage of corn, instead of disposing of the hogs, sow barley this fall.

Barley will produce from 25 to 40 bushels per acre and is an excellent feed for hogs. This too should be cut and hogs if under fence. It may however be good advantage hogged down to good advantage in addition to these small grains every farmer in Pitt county should have a small acreage of wheat to provide bread for his own family. These small grains will be ready for use during the months of June and July and will come in at a time when the farmers find it necessary to purchase feeds in the case of shortage.

We realize that handling of small grains calls for additional machinery, but the cost of machinery
