MAYOR RESTS FROM LABORS

New York Official Apparently Seeks to Substantiate Contention That Legislative Inquiry Resulting in Removal Charges Is "Republican Fishing Party;" Several Republicans Summoned to Hearing Monday

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 20.—(AP)—A charge from the Republican camp that Mayor James J. Walker seeks to twist his hearing into a "mock trial of political issues" echoed today as the mayor rested for a renewed fight for his post.

The charge, voiced by W. Kingsland Macy, G. O. P. state chairman, resulted from Walker's action in summoning Macy and other Republican leaders to appear before Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt Monday and be questioned by Walker's attorneys.

The mayor apparently seeks to substantiate his contention that the legislative inquiry which resulted in the removal charges against him was a "Republican fishing party."

Macy, declaring he was ready to appear, said last night at Syracuse that the mayor was trying to "twist a question of good government into a mock trial of political issues."

He also declared it was axiomatic that Tammany resents "interference with its methods."

The Republicans are expected to be called Monday unless the Supreme Court upholds a court hearing by Walker to halt the hearing altogether.

Winston-Salem Watching For Dick Reynolds

Winston-Salem, N. C., Aug. 20.—(AP)—His home town was on the lookout today for R. J. (Dick) Reynolds, brother of the late Smith Reynolds, whose whereabouts have been subject to conflicting reports.

He was late reported en route to Winston-Salem where his brother died of a bullet wound July 6.

Farmer Shoots Man Over Wife

Page was placed under bond pending the outcome of Blackman's injury.

Page said he awoke late in the night to find his wife gone. He became suspicious and began a search. Finding the mat, he opened it.

Struck by one bullet, Blackman ran until he fell in a cane patch, and then crawled to the nearby home of a man named Hardin, who telephoned for assistance and Blackman was brought to a hospital here.

COUNTY COURT PUSHES WORK

Dozen Cases Disposed of Yesterday With Many More Pending Hearing Today

Getting down to work after a vacation of three weeks, county court disposed of approximately a dozen cases yesterday and hoped to clear the docket of at least that many today.

The docket of forty cases is composed largely of charges of larceny and violation of traffic and prohibition laws, and is one of the most congested in months by reason of the time off by the court to give farm people a chance to catch up with their work before being interrupted by court actions pending against some of them.

Judge W. L. Wheabee presided over the session and did everything in his power to speed up consideration with a view to clearing the docket as early as possible.

Bill Hines, colored, charged with possessing more whiskey than the law allows on the outside, found his way to the roads for ninety days.

Claude Bateman, appearing on a charge of driving drunk, was taxed $50 and costs and had his license revoked for ninety days.

Joy-riding on other people's gas isn't profitable and nobody knows it better than Ed. Farmer, colored, who was sentenced to four months on the roads for stealing gas from the Harvey Filling Station here.

Convicted of possessing whiskey in a very small amount, James Fleming, colored, was sentenced to the roads for sixty days.

Judgment was suspended upon payment of cost in the case of Sam Hemby, colored, charged with stealing a pair of hose.

Judgment was suspended upon payment of cost in the case of Jack Atkinson, colored, charged with assault.

Roy Mills was ordered to pay $50 and cost and to drive again in 90 days when he was convicted on a charge of driving drunk.

Liquor caused the downfall of Shelton Grimes, colored, who was sentenced to the roads for 60 days for possession of too much rum.

WOMEN FLIERS SET NEW MARK

Ladybirds Will be in Air in N. Y. One Week After One P. M. Tomorrow

Valley Stream, N. Y., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Already aloft longer than any other women in the history of aviation, Mrs. Frances Marsalis and Mrs. Louise Thaden flew on today's with a full week in the air as their next goal.

They established a new women's endurance record of 123 hours at 5 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) yesterday. At 1 p. m. tomorrow it will just a week since they left the ground.

After taking on about eighty gallons of gasoline in the refueling plane this morning, and catching their breakfast, lowered in a bucket, they dropped several notes saying they were near exhaustion, but

Extortionists Sent to Prison

Carthage, N. C., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Joe Lucas and Howard Dean, who confessed they sought to extort $5,000 from Verner Z. Reed, wealthy Pinehurst sportsman, today prepared to start serving terms of 10 years each in state's prison.

After brief presentation of the state's case the men submitted themselves to the mercy of the court without waiting for a jury verdict, and Judge John M. Oglesby passed sentence, remarking:

"Just let the word go out that if you start any kidnaping in North Carolina the penitentiary is right there."

Lucas and Dean confessed they wrote to Reed, threatening to dynamite his home and kidnap his children if he did not deposit the money at a church near here last June 3.

Reed placed a dummy package at the designated spot, and officers secreted nearby captured Lucas when he came for the money. Lucas confessed, and implicated Dean. Lucas said he was to have given Dean $500 for writing the note.

Raleigh, N. C.—(AP)—Fred W. Farmer, 58, retired railroad engineer, was found hanging in his basement here. Coroner L. M. Waring said it was a plain case of suicide and no inquest was held.

REACH PEACE IN MILK WAR

Trouble Expected From Trucks Carrying Milk in Zone of Strike, However

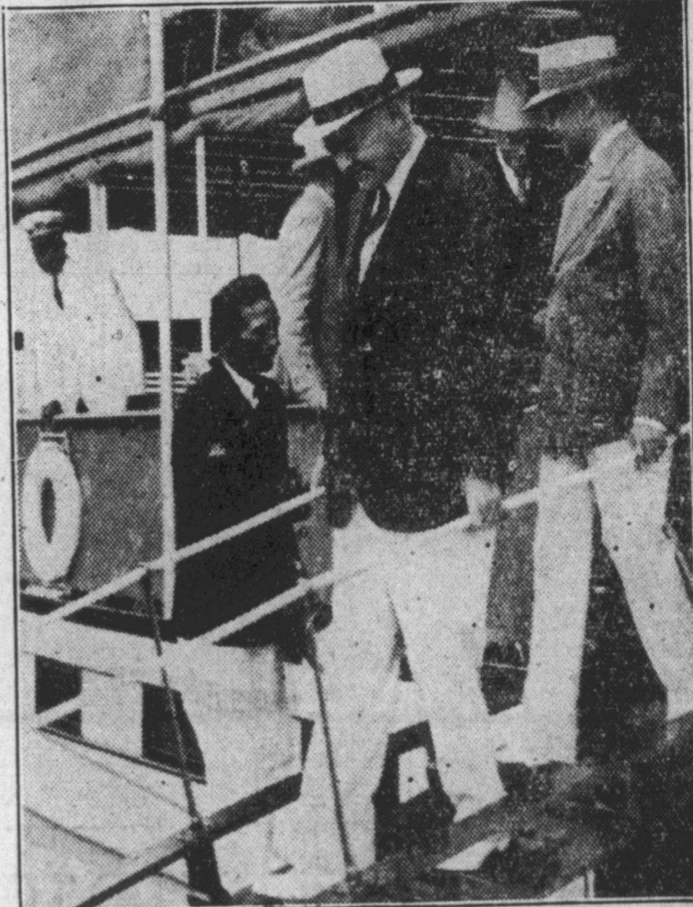

Sioux City, Iowa, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Peace has been declared in Sioux City's milk war, but fears were expressed in some quarters today that this might aggravate rather than lessen the tension in the mid-west farmers produce strike.

Some of the leaders of the strikers expressed the opinion today that trouble might break out if trucks carrying milk are allowed to pass through blockades with livestock or grain.

The milk trucks, under an agreement reached between milk producers and distributors last night are to be allowed to enter the city unmolested starting tomorrow. The agreement provided that dairy farmers are to receive an increase of 55 cents per hundred pounds of milk of 3.5 per cent butterfat. The new scale gives them $1.90 per hundredweight of milk, and the retail price is to be increased from eight to nine cents a quart.

There was no relation between the milk war and the general strike of farmers for higher produce prices, and the picketing grain and livestock (Continued on page four)

HOOVER BOLL WEEVIL HERE

Enormous Insect Captured Near Greenville Attracts Considerable Interest

Following closely on the heels of the discovery of the "Hoover cart," new method of transportation among the growers of this district, comes announcement of the capture of the original "Hoover boll weevil."

The insect, bearing close resemblance to a baby terrapin with a face like a crawfish, was captured by Bert Nichols of Greenville, Route 6, and brought to the Reflector office and placed on display. Nichols said he pulled the strange-looking beetle, bug, weevil, or whatever cognomen one might designate, from the rotten end of a watermelon on his farm several days ago.

Persons who viewed the constantly crawling, fluttering, nocturnal insect said it might be an enormous tobacco beetle, others thought it an over-size weevil, but nobody could say definitely what it is.

However, considering conditions which have confronted the farmer the last two years because of the economic situation, everybody unanimously agreed it was a "Hoover boll weevil" and seemed perfectly satisfied with the name.

Whether the bug liked the name could not be determined, but he is thriving along with it and apparently was as vigorous today as when he was brought to the Reflector office and placed in the front window to attract attention of the curious.

Occasionally, the beetle becomes fatigued from crawling and fighting the sides of the glass jar. At such times, he flaps his wings and settles down to a period of repose of very short duration. The flapping of the shell-like brown wings, some have indicated, is indicative (Continued on page four)

NEW YORKER SPEAKS TODAY

Democratic Nominee for Presidency to Fire Opening Shot at Columbus Late This Afternoon; Expected to Discuss the Economic Issues Which He Contends Must be Met in This Year's Presidential Drive

Columbus, O., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Ohio Democrats, working harmoniously, gave complete endorsement of the party's national platform today and then adjourned their State convention to hear Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt fire the opening salvos of his road campaign for the Presidency.

Only about half the State delegates were present at the final session, but unanimous approval was rendered the Chicago platform.

Governor Roosevelt, who this afternoon at 4 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time) is to make his first away-from-home address at the Columbus baseball stadium, arrived shortly before noon with his party from Albany.

The weather was fair and cool and a capacity crowd estimated to reach 50,000 was expected at the stadium. A nation-wide radio hook-up will broadcast the governor's speech.

In the governor's party was Mrs. Roosevelt; their daughter, Mrs. Curtis Dall and her husband; James Roosevelt, the governor's son, James A. Farley, national chairman, and Joseph O'Mahoney, of Cheyenne, Wyo., national committeeman.

Following their arrival, they were the luncheon guests of W. A. Julian, of Cincinnati, national committeeman. The luncheon party numbered more than two hundred.

The governor was in good humor when he arrived and eager to appear before his audience.

This afternoon the governor is expected to discuss the economic issue which he has contended is the problem to be met in this year's presidential race. There is a possibility that the Democratic nominee may answer the acceptance speech of his political rival, President Hoover.

In choosing Ohio for his first away-from-home campaign address, Governor Roosevelt invaded what in normal Presidential elections has been a Republican stronghold. Only twice has the Buckeye State been carried by a Democratic candidate for the Presidency. Woodrow Wilson won its electoral votes in 1912 and again in 1916.

Two years ago, however, Ohio gave an overwhelming majority to the Democratic Senator, Robert J. Bulkley, and to the Democratic governor, George White.

Governor Roosevelt will be introduced for his address by his running mate of 1920, former Governor James M. Cox, who was then the candidate for President.

Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, will be the only prominent Ohio Democrat missing from the platform. He has expressed regrets that he will be unable to attend because of previous engagements.

Rockefeller Goes To Sister's Bedside

Chicago, Aug. 20.—(AP)—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., violating "strict doctor's orders not to travel," arrived from the East today and rushed to the bedside of his dying sister, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick.

The New York financier and his wife and son were met by his niece, Mrs. Max Oser, of Switzerland, and Mrs. Ellaha A. Hubbard, of Connecticut, who have attended their mother during an illness expected to prove fatal.

Rockefeller has been suffering from shingles, and under his doctor's orders not to travel.

He was asked if his father would come here to visit Mrs. McCormick, who has not seen him since her divorce in 1921.

"I think it is inadvisable for him to travel because of his age," Mr. Rockefeller said. His father is 82,

Reflector's New Serial Story Begins Monday

Extraordinary and peculiar provisions in wills are found frequently in probate courts, but rarely is there one so filled with potential dynamite as that of Ambrose Weare. It is his final testament that furnishes the story for "Nothing Venture," The Daily Reflector's new serial by Patricia Wentworth.

Weare left his entire fortune to his grandson, Jervis Weare, with only one condition—Jervis must be married within three months and a day after the old man's death.

The will also provided if Jervis failed to marry within the stipulated period, the fortune would go to Rosamund Carew. Nothing so unusual about that, perhaps, except Rosamund Carew, in addition to being Jervis' cousin, is his fiancée. They had been engaged for months

Rosamund wins either way; if she marries Jervis, her husband is wealthy; if Jervis fails to marry, Rosamund gets the fortune herself. The will does not bind Jervis to marry Rosamund, but as the story opens, three days before his final 24 hours of grace, he still expects to become his bride. There is not much time to find a substitute if it should be necessary.

Around this ironic situation, Miss Wentworth has written a powerful story of romance and adventure, a serial packed with action, excitement and thrills. Watch for the first chapter of "Nothing Venture" in The Daily Reflector Monday, August 22.

ABOUT TOWN

The honor of making the first westward crossing of the Atlantic goes to Great Britain as result of Capt. Mollison's spectacular hop from Ireland to New Brunswick. Numbers have perished in an effort to cross this stormy expanse of the Atlantic and no doubt others will go the same route as they attempt to emulate the example of Mollison.

Charles Augustus Lindbergh was the first man to make a solo crossing of the Atlantic, but his feat was mild compared with that of Mollison. Lindbergh flew with the winds whereas Mollison was forced to combat adverse air currents all the way over. It was these same currents which caused many brave hearts to find a graveyard in the Atlantic.

While the loss of life in attempting to span the Atlantic seems foolish, it is just another one of those trail-blazing adventures which have caused the world to rise from mediocrity to one of the most profound periods of progress of all time.

Mollison's feat may not make it easier for others to follow him, but he has given heart to the world of aviation and, may be the means of opening the way to successful navigation by air of one of the most dangerous routes known to the flying world.

The Republicans have certainly become confused over the prohibition question which they were going to make the principal talking point of the presidential campaign until President Hoover came out in favor of state's rights.

Added to the confusion is the acceptance address of Charles Curtis, vice-presidential nominee, who declares he is unequivocally in favor of prohibition.

This is a disconcerting statement in face of the President's stand for whiskey and the plank of the party platform calling for resubmission. It is enough to cause even the most devout member of the party to slip off into a corner and cry in pure misery and humiliation.

The tangled situation, however, makes it much easier for the Democratic party whose members adopted a repeal platform at the Chicago convention and seem to be pulling together in spite of the rucous raised by dry forces. They can charge the Republicans with responsibility for the present economic situation, and the forces of Mr. Hoover haven't a thing in the world to come back with.

Whereas the dry element was swinging to Hoover in opposition to the Democrat, they have faced about somewhat following scathing denunciation of President Hoover by Bishop James Cannon, one of the most formidable dry leaders in the country.

The President has complicated the situation for his party and if he loses by a larger majority than expected he has nobody to blame but himself.

Additional hogs have been shipped from this county for sale on northern markets and Pitt county growers are jingling money they wouldn't have in their pockets had it not been for this extra source of revenue.

Hog and poultry raising have certainly contributed to the economic welfare of the county in recent years. Farmers who suffered from the effects of low prices for their principal crops found conditions more favorable than they would have been by means of the sale of products from the extra form of industry.

Experience has taught everybody the advisability of not attempting to carry all of his eggs in the same basket and if Pitt county growers continue to stick to hogs and poultry raising the day is not far distant when many of them will be financially independent.

Although this section has felt it very little, the economic situation is showing a pronounced improvement in many parts of the nation,

SYNOPSIS: Sondra Merriman tries to explain to her husband, Mark, that the gossip he has been told about John Anderson and herself is not true. She has not been untrue to Mark. But she loves John. She and John have decided to keep Mark, who has been ill, from knowing this.

Chapter 36
STANDING BY A MISTAKE
 Presently Sondra went on again falteringly—
 "You've never really known me, Mark—not as I am. I know you love me, but sometimes...well love is supposed to be blind, isn't it? You mustn't mind if it hurts you—what I am going to say—but if we're going to be happy, we must understand each other, mustn't we dear?"
 Mark turned then, and looked at her.

"Was Anderson ever your lover?" he asked.
 "No—no—never."
 There was a little silence, and she closed her eyes.
 "Well?" he said patiently.
 Sondra went on.

"I've never had any money of my own—I don't think that you knew that, and I hated being poor. Flora was good to me—while she lived with Ben—but even that wasn't enough...I don't think you understand that there are lots of girls in the world like me—girls who take expensive presents from men and think nothing about it—men they don't care anything about—"

"As you did from Anderson—" he interrupted.
 "Yes—" she caught her breath. "As I did. He was rich, and I didn't see any harm in it—there wasn't, really... You see—" she moved her hands helplessly. "I knew you loved me—I loved you too—at least...but I was afraid—so I asked John to give you that post—to send you away, because I was afraid. I knew we should be poor and I loathed being poor... Then when I knew you were really going, I felt as if I couldn't bear it, and so...well, you know the rest."

She stopped, with a feeling of amazement at herself. Had she ever loved this man so utterly that she had been driven to make the greatest mistake of her life? She felt as if she was telling him about someone else—repeating a story she had heard.

She went on presently. "Well, you went away—and then Flora left Ben, and I hadn't anything—only a few dollars. I suppose I ought to have told you, but somehow I couldn't. Then—Mark—you must try to understand, dear—Mr. Anderson asked me to marry him. His wife died—you know that—and so...so I had to tell him that I was already married to you."

He gave a bitter little laugh. "That was hard luck Sondra—a rich man like Anderson—"

She said brokenly. "Don't be... unkind, Mark—"

"Unkind?... he opened his eyes suddenly, eyes dark with pain. "When I was on the way home, I came across a little verse in a book someone lent me... It was this—'Can't thou be true across so many miles, so many days that keep us still apart'... I thought what rubbish it was—when two people loved one another... I don't think so now."

"You don't believe me—you don't believe me—"

"I am not fool enough to believe that any man will do for a woman what Anderson has done for you, without some hope of return—no doubt he sent me away because it suited him—to leave the field clear."

Sondra said quietly. "You don't know John if you can say that."

There was a little silence, then Mark said dully: "And now I suppose I am to be under a fresh obligation to him—this new job—for your sake no doubt, or perhaps to get me out of the way once more. I suppose you are going to tell me I must go alone—"

Sondra's face quivered. "Do you think I should have married you, if I had cared for—for anyone else?" she asked.

His hand moved a little, groping for hers.

"You ought never to have married me—I've nothing to offer you—I may never have."

"You've given me your love"—Sondra said.

It was like sitting by watching other people, she thought; she would not believe that it was she herself who was trying so hard, and with such an empty heart, to convince him that she loved him.

If reports received recently count for anything, and apparently, they certainly do.

Every day we hear of resumption of operation of mills, the opening of new businesses, and last but not least improvement of prices for cotton and tobacco.

While we have not experienced any of the return of better times, optimism prevails for the opening of the tobacco market, when millions of dollars will be put into circulation among the growers of this district.

We are anticipating better prices as result of the short crop of tobacco and the improvement noted on the South Carolina and border markets and Georgia, and the extra money will help banish at least a part of the clouds which have hovered over the section the last two years.

WILCY MOORE SAVES YANKS FROM TIGERS

By HERBERT W. BARKER
 (Associated Press Sports Writer)
 Back in 1927 the New York Yankees won an American League pennant with the aid of the good right arm of one of the oldest rookies any major league club ever brought up to the big show.

He is Wilcy Moore, relief hurler extraordinary. He was 30 years old when the Yankees first bought him but he proceeded to win 19 games and lose only seven in 1927, his labors restricted almost entirely to relief roles. A few weeks ago the Yankees picked him up again from the Boston Red Sox.

He was shoved into the breach against the Detroit Tigers yesterday, his third relief job in the last five days, and promptly saved the game for the Yankees. The Tigers had won the first battle 4-3, as Elton Hoggset outpitched Charley Ruffing and broke the Yankees' streak of ten successive victories, and the second game was tied up at 5-5 when Moore was sent in to hold the Tigers safe in the ninth. He did and the Yankees proceeded to win the game for him in the last half of the same frame. Tony Lazzari's single driving in the winning run. Babe Ruth clouted his 35th homer.

The Philadelphia Athletics added to their hold on second place by whipping the Cleveland Indians in both ends of a double header 9-7 and 3-2, in 10 innings. Tony Freitas hung up his ninth straight victory in the nightcap. Washington's Senators tripped the Chicago White Sox twice 4-3 and 3-1 but had valuable assistance from the Sox fielders who made six errors.

In the National League, Brooklyn moved into second place, two games behind the Chicago Cubs, by blanking the Cincinnati Reds, 6-0, behind Van Mungo's six-hit pitching. The Cubs dropped a 6.5 decision to the Boston Braves by one run. Baxter Jordan batted in what proved to be the winning run in the sixth.

GIANTS WILL SEND TWINS TO HI POINT

Charlotte, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The Piedmont League will not meet the fate so many of its fellow minor leagues met this summer—disbandment—it appeared certain today.

The franchise of Winston-Salem for the past few days on the death bed, will be transferred to High Point by the New York Giants who reconsidered their complete withdrawal of support from the club.

Formal transfer of the franchise likely will not take place until next Friday as the first four days of next week the Twins are on the road. Since the Winston club is operated as a Giant farm, the transfer will be a simple matter.

High Point started the season with an entry but it and Asheville were dropped, leaving the league a six-club circuit. After the Giants withdrew support from Winston-Salem, President W. G. Bramham filed a protest with Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, head of organized baseball, but no decision is expected from him now in view of the Giant's reconsideration.

Giant officials said they would pay back salaries of all players and assume other debts. They indicated they might consider operation of a club in the league next year. The season ends Sept. 10.

Greensboro's Patriots were still five games behind Charlotte today, but the Pats showed lots of fight last night. It took fight to win a 15-inning battle from Raleigh 6-5. Ab Wright was the hero of the evening, his home run spelling victory.

Charlotte kept its lead intact by downing Durham 7-1. Chester Martin allowed the Bulls but two hits, one in the seventh and one in the ninth, in a brilliant bid for a no-hit contest.

MRS. KITTRELL HOSTESS AT SEASHORE CLUB

Outstanding among the many attractive affairs given at the Seashore Club, Atlantic Beach, was the bridge luncheon on Friday, when Mrs. J. B. Kittrell was a charming hostess, honoring her house guests, Mrs. Elias Carr of Bracebridge Hall, Tarboro; Mrs. James G. Pearing, Elizabeth City; Mrs. William G. Adams and Mrs. William Sanders of Four Oaks, and Mrs. Harrold B. Johnson of Buffalo, N. Y., house guest of Mrs. K. B. Pace.

The guests arrived at the club at ten-thirty and were given a cordial welcome by the hostess and honor guests, and directed to the bridge tables, placed in a lovely setting of roses, verbena and zinnias, carrying out a pink and green color note.

Concluding a number of spirited games the hostess presented Mrs. Carr with jade bath powder; Mrs. Sanders, beads; Mrs. Pearing and Mrs. Adams, silk hose; and Mrs. Johnson, hand-painted sea weed.

Miss Estelle Green was given hand-painted sea weed for making high score, and Mrs. John Glenn a dainty handkerchief for low score.

At noon the guests were invited into the dining room, where a tempting luncheon was served.

Later in the afternoon, surf bath was enjoyed.

In addition to the honorees, Mrs. Kittrell's guests were: Mrs. Beth Royal, Mrs. Valden Fonville, Mrs. Dan Bell and Mrs. Floyd Chadwick of Morehead City; Miss Annie Morton of Beaufort; Mrs. John Glenn of Scarfsdale, N. Y.; and the following from Greenville: Mrs. P. W. Picklesimer, Mrs. J. H. Rose, Mrs. K. B. Pace, Mrs. L. H. Bowling, Mrs. D. M. Clark, Mrs. Luther Herring, Mrs. A. J. Moore, Mrs. C. M. Warren, Mrs. Ray Tyson Jr., Mrs. L. W. Gaylord, Mrs. Leon R. Meadows, Mrs. Edward Batchelor, Mrs. W. C. Jones, Misses Iva Shelburn, Estelle Greene, Bessie Brown, Ward Moore, Sonora Moore and Hennie Whitchard.

Seeing Through My Windshield

Canning
Throughout the county the women are found canning or drying all available fruit and vegetables. The dry weather checked the gardens for a time but several varieties of vegetables are in good condition for preservation at this time.

Soup Mixtures
As non-acid vegetables are hard to keep and tedious to can without a pressure cooker, soup mixture is very popular with most canners. By adding five parts of tomatoes to four parts of other vegetables, such as corn, lima beans and okra the mixture can be processed in the water bath for one period of an hour and a half. The acid in the tomatoes helps to keep the non-acid vegetables. The entire mixture is pre-cooked with two tablespoons of sugar and two of salt until it is thick, which means that you can get a much fuller pack.

Canning Budget
Considerable change has come about in canning habits during the past few years. We can all remember hearing folks talk about how many jars they "put up"—and the stress was usually placed on the hundreds of jars of pickles, preserves, jelly, etc., with little mention of the vegetables and fruits. Hungry people must have the essentials first, and a jar of pickles will not help much. At present you hear women say "I have canned 37 pints of a variety of vegetables for each adult member of my family and 45 pints of fruit. With this supply of canned foods during the winter months each person is supplied with two servings daily of both vegetables and fruits. Folks no longer live on meat and sweets during the winter months. Those who try it have a medicine chest (usually filled with patent medicines) that they resort to frequently.

Baby Rattler Captured Here

A baby rattlesnake, about nine inches long, was displayed on the streets of Greenville yesterday by Bruce Clark, son of Chief of Police George Clark.

The tiny reptile was captured by Bruce's little brother on the bank of Tar River yesterday morning and apparently was thriving in the glass jar to which he was confined.

Showing the fighting spirit of his species, the little snake several times struck vigorously at his captor, but his deadly blows were caught by the jar and did no damage.

Bruce said the snake was too young for rattles, but would develop this form of signal when he gets some older, if he is permitted to live much longer.

Nan Forsyth offered to marry JERVIS WEARE on a strictly business basis, cash on delivery. He needed a bride on 24 hours notice; she wanted the money, not for herself, but for her sister.

To WEARE it was an astounding proposal from a stranger; for NAN it was a chance on which she was willing to risk her own happiness, her whole future. This is the story of

Nothing Venture

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH

Both parties expected their strange relationship to end with the "I do." Neither could foresee the weird chain of events which would make them allies in a fantastic struggle for WEARE's life against an unknown, unseen foe.

Here is a story of adventure, romance and mystery, a serial alive with action, racing along a course of thrills and surprises. It vibrates with fascinating excitement and suspense from start to finish.

Kiwanians And Rotarians To Stage Annual Baseball Classic On Next Thursday

The baseball "classic" of the year will be staged here next Thursday when Kiwanians and Rotarians cross bats at Third Street school grounds. The annual clash of the two clubs is always looked forward to with interest by lovers of the national pastime and the largest crowd to attend a game here this season was expected to be on hand to see the two teams vie for supremacy. Admission will be free, but a free-will offering will be taken to help defray expenses of the tubercular wife of an unemployed veteran of the World War who is confined to a hospital. Members of both organizations were preparing to get down to active practice the beginning of the week in anticipation of the "crucial" game, and as both are determined to win at all costs, some spectacular playing, combined with considerable comedy, is anticipated. Already puffed up with pride because of two distinct victories over the Wilson Kiwanis Club, the Kiwanians will send their best men to the diamond to vanquish their ancient rivals. In the line-up will be seen such former college and Eastern Carolina League stars as Herman Duncan and Dr. Moulton B. Massey. Duncan, who caused the hopes of many a club to be dashed to pieces in the left garden for Greenville and New Bern in the old Eastern Carolina League, will be seen at shortstop Thursday and Massey will be in the initial corner. Other celebrities of college days, such as Hilton, Conley, Dave Moore, Jim Barrett, Flye and Guy Smith will also be seen in action. Although the Rotarians are not boasting of any all-star cast, Manager Martin Swartz has sufficient material on hand to cause him to hope for victory. He is placing main dependence upon the mighty right arm of B. F. "Bull" Bullard, former Carolina moundsman, who has enough stuff on the old apple to make an ordinary ball player dizzy and with which he hopes to be able to silence the heavy artillery of the Kiwanians which played such havoc with the Wilson ball club. The game has been under discussion for several weeks, but it was not until yesterday that Manager Joe Taft of the Kiwanians and Manager Martin Swartz were able to get their heads together long enough to set a definite date. Now that this important decision has been reached each will do his best to carry home the bacon, although the slice may not be as pleasing as in past years. The public was urged to attend the contest in large numbers and rally to the support of the clubs attempting to do their part toward boosting the American Legion charity fund through which provisions have been made to care for the sick wife of the unemployed veteran.

He decided to make the flight, he said, only because it had been planned for six months. "I just got married three weeks ago," he explained, "and if this flight hadn't been planned so long I would have waited a while. "There were people who predicted I wouldn't be able to get off the ground with my small plane and its 170-gallon load of gasoline, and the amount I was carrying did prevent me from rising above the cloud banks. The greatest altitude I reached was 500 feet." "I'm going to fly the same plane back," he said, "but I think the return trip will be easy. Flying westward one has favorable winds and there is nothing to worry about except the possibility of motor trouble, and that is a very fair possibility indeed."

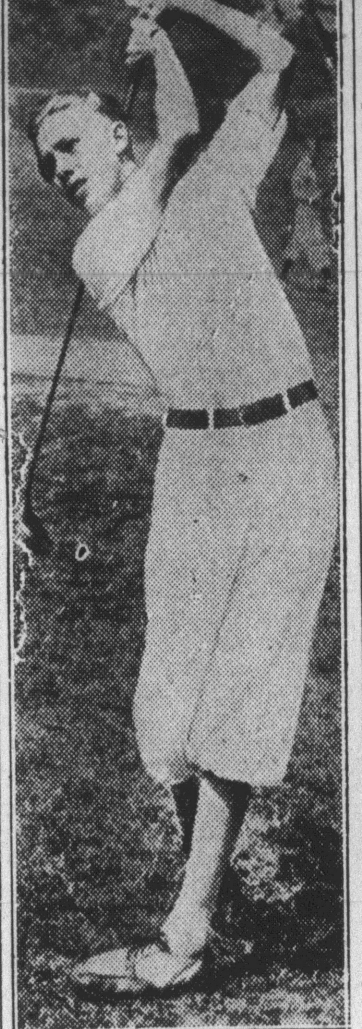

Mollison gave up entirely his original plan to make the round trip flight from Britain to New York and back again in less than three days. After flying to New York Sunday he will wait for his wife to arrive and rest up before attempting the return trip. Mollison was credited today with his present flight—the first flier to fly westward solo over the Atlantic Ocean; the shortest time from land to land on a westward crossing; the first trans-Atlantic flight in a light plane, and the longest duration flight in a small plane. London, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Amy Johnson, noted British woman long distance flier and bride of J. A. Mollison who landed in New Brunswick yesterday after a flight from Portmarnock, Ireland, reconsidered today her decision to sail for New York to join him. Yesterday she announced she would sail today, but this was cancelled and it seemed unlikely she would go at all.

ON ROUND TRIP, OCEAN FLIGHT

J. A. Mollison, British distance flier, took off from Portmarnock, Ireland, on a round-trip flight to New York. If his westward crossing is successful his schedule calls for a quick return flight, without stop, to Croydun, England. His wife, the former Amy Johnson, England's famous aviatrix, is shown bidding him farewell as he left England for the Irish coast. (Associated Press Photo)

(Continued from page 1) served by the company have been invited to attend the hearing, which will start at 10 o'clock Tuesday, but only Raleigh has definitely notified the Commission it will be represented. Asheville has indicated that someone will attend. One month ago tomorrow the Commission issued a general order to all utilities to appoint accredited representatives to confer with the such Commission "with a view to effecting such immediate reductions in rates as may be legitimately possible under present conditions." The Commission today announced that the Durham Public Service Company would appear in answer to the order on August 26 with the Southern Public Utilities Company being scheduled to be heard September 1 and the Tidewater Power Company, September 6. A number of other hearings scheduled by the Commission were announced as follows: September 8: Case of the Raleigh Granite Company vs. the Southern Railway System and Affiliated Railroads seeking a singled line freight rate between the Southern and affiliated lines. September 13: Petition of the City of Asheville against the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company seeking reduced rates of French-style telephones. September 15: Petition of Carolina Mountain Power Company to increase electricity rates at Lake Lure. September 15: Petition of the Southeastern Express Agency to discontinue its agency at Morrisville. September 20: Four hearings on bus line franchises. The Rapid Transit Company of Charlotte will be given a re-hearing on its petition to operate practically a State-wide motor express route to handle packages weighing up to 60 pounds. The P. & F. Motor Transit Company will be heard on a petition to extend its lines from Hamlet to Charlotte and H. Hunt & Company will argue a complaint that the P. & F. Company is infringing on its franchise for a line between Wilmington and Fayetteville. Capt. D. J. Black will seek to extend his bus line from Clinton to Fayetteville.

REACH PEACE IN MILK WAR

SPEED AID TO CATTLE AREAS

(Continued from page one) to livestock raisers for feeding. The feeding is about to begin in the west and middle west. Consequently, the corporation felt establishment of the corporations would meet a pressing need. In a statement, the directors expressed the hope that "the regional credit corporations will move energetically, promptly and sympathetically for the benefit of agriculture." No additional district corporations will be set up shortly. These will be in areas where winter feeding is not necessary so soon, including North and South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida in Land Bank district three and Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana in district five. Headquarters for the first will be at Columbia, S. C., for the second at New Orleans. The new corporations, by making feeder loans, will be taking over a function performed largely heretofore by the Federal Farm Loan Board and the Department of Agriculture. They will have the minimum capitalizations of $3,000,000 specified by the relief law, although in some instances the amount may be expanded.

HEAT WAVE KILLS SCORE

(Continued from page one) other fatalities. Yesterday's high temperature was 99, nearly an all-time record. Thousands sought relief at seaside resorts, and the Thames embankment became a fashionable promenade last night instead of the haunt of the homeless, as it usually is. Ice cream supplies were exhausted early in the day. Even the beer at the "pubs" was put on ice, which is against all British beer-drinking tradition. The sky was cloudless again this morning and another roasting was promised. Hundreds slept through the night outdoors, on roofs, of balconies and in gardens. Thousands lingered in the sea at flood-lit shore resorts and in inland rivers and pools until long after midnight when the thermometer still stood at around 80. The throngs in London's swimming baths late last night were so dense that swimming was impossible, and the best that could be done was to stand packed in the water while crowds outside clamored for admission. The pilots of night planes arriving here from the continent said the heat was as great at an altitude of 2,000 feet as it was on the ground. They had discarded their flying kits

BRITAIN FIXES TRADE PACTS

(Continued from page one) chiefly upon Russia and the United States. The chief results were: 1. An agreement that Great Britain will bar the sale of Russian, or other, goods in the United Kingdom at less than world prices. 2. Trade preference pacts which will mean an estimated loss of $50,000,000 a year to the United States in sales of iron and steel products to empire countries, particularly Canada, as well as the loss of an indeterminate amount of textile business. As an offset to this, the empire spokesmen suggested, the United States, which sold the British empire $1,100,000,000 worth of goods last year in spite of depressed conditions, had reason to be gratified because the way to prosperity was paved for one-fourth of the world's population. The trade preference pacts signed here today, they said, would set in motion in accumulation of goods representing the economic fortune of 450,000,000 people and as the ability of these millions to buy improves their ability to take a larger share of world products would increase. For the moment, it was said, the success of these trade pacts might entail hardships on some United States industries. But they insisted the ultimate expected return might more than compensate for it. The general basis of the agreements is a five-year plan and they may be terminated after that time on six months notice.
