ABOUT TOWN

The Republicans are trying to confuse and evade the prohibition issue by trying to get the public to believe the Democrats are wet to the core...

President Hoover doesn't have room to criticize the Democrats for their moist platform since he has come out in favor of state's right and in direct contradiction to the platform of his party.

The series of union services conducted on the courthouse lawn during the summer months was concluded last night and it is believed the inspiration of the gathering will do its bit toward improvement of the moral and spiritual life of the community.

In the opening sermon, Rev. A. W. Fleishmann, lashed out against the forces attempting to bring back legalized sale of whiskey, and declared he would fight such influences to the bitter end.

Other speakers from time to time referred to other things tending to undermine the foundation of society, and urged the people to be aware of the tentacles of the monster sin gradually edging his way into the life of all communities.

Prices continue to advance on the cotton and stock markets and farmers who have been seeing the world through blue glasses for two years are beginning to get a different view of conditions.

The improvement will not only affect the growers themselves, but should impart new life to business, which like everything else, has wallowed around in the mire of depression until getting out is something of a scientific process.

While this part of the country has not felt the effect of advancing prices, it hopes to do so in the next few weeks when the tobacco market opens and money begins to pour into the pockets of the growers.

This is the season of the year when everybody feels slightly uplifted, and if prices for our products continue to advance, the feeling will gain greater momentum.

Nothing Venture

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH

SYNOPSIS: Just after marrying Jervis Wear and accepting $10,000 for it, Nan Forsyth sees the photograph of a man she has hated and feared for ten years in Jervis' room.

Chapter 7 A LIFE ENDANGERED Cynthia was married on August 20 and on the 22nd she sailed with Frank Walsh for Australia.

Nan went to the boat to see them off. She was dutifully kissed by Frank, and rather perfunctorily by Cynthia. She walked back to a room strewn with all the odds and ends which had not been worth taking to Australia.

She tied the room, and then sat down to face the future. She had been married six days, but it was the first time she had really had time to think. To get Cynthia married, to buy Cynthia's outfit, and to get her off by the same boat as Frank, had taken every bit of her thought and time and energy.

Some day she would come back. Some day she would probably want Nan again. But Nan was not able to derive a great deal of comfort from this thought. She had mothered Cynthia ever since Cynthia was born and she, a baby of three, had cuddled the new baby in her small strong arms.

When she had sat on the edge of the bed for about half an hour she got up, put on her hat, and went out. It had become clear to her that she must have a job—and jobs do not just drop into your lap; you have to go out and wrestle for them.

When she had been to three agencies, she felt better. None of the agencies had anything to offer her, but one of them had asked whether she would care to make a voyage to South America in charge of children. She toyed with the idea over a cup of tea. It was not without its charm. Very, very badly she felt the need of someone to look after.

What she really wanted to do was to look after Jervis Wear. She wondered if he was sleeping better. She wondered if he had left town. She wondered who darned his socks. She wondered if he was very much in love with Rosamund Carew. She wondered where the tall, fair Rosamund was now, in town, or in the country? It would be quite easy to find out. She knew Rosamund's address well enough, since she had often taken letters to her for Mr. Page.

She paid her bill at the tea-room and walked slowly along. It would be quite easy for her to walk down East Sixty-fifth Street. It was, of course, very imprudent that she would learn anything by doing so. It was irrational to expect to learn anything. It was irrational to want to see Rosamund.

She walked through Sixty-fifth street. The door of No. 29 was shut, and the blinds were down. When Nan had walked to the end of the block she turned back. This made it necessary for her to pass No. 29 again. She stood still and looked at the house. Something came to her from it—she didn't know quite what it was, but she didn't like it.

As this thought went through her mind, she saw a taxi coming up the street towards her. The taxi stopped in front of No. 29. With out conscious plan, she whisked round behind the taxi, and was in time to see Rosamund Carew emerge and mount the steps which led to No. 29. Nan received an impression of height, grace, and brilliance. Rosamund went up the steps, and a man got out of the car and followed her.

Nan leaned sideways against the taxi. She tried to step back, and the pavement lifted under her foot. The man was Robert Leonard. After ten years, she was just as sure of that as she was that when she had seen him last he had just struck down Jervis Wear and left him to drown.

Nan stood behind the car, waiting for her strength to return. In an instant, Robert Leonard ran down the steps. Nan saw him for a moment in profile, and then the car was between them. He wore a light felt hat and a grey suit. His face was round and tanned. He had a small fair clipped moustache and a straight line of light eyebrow. The eyelids beneath it had a crumpled look.

away. He's sure to walk—he has a craze for exercise. "And suppose he takes a taxi—what then?" This was the driver, in a hoarse, throaty voice. "You must do the best you can," said Leonard impatiently. He turned away. The driver's voice followed him. "Look here, cap'n, I'm not so keen on this job as I was." Leonard turned round again. "Take it or leave it!" he said. "Twenty-five hundred dollars, two y-five hundred dollars," said the hoarse, complaining voice. "Exactly." "And jail's jail." "Well," said Leonard carelessly, "you needn't touch it if you don't want to."

"Oh, I'll do it," said the driver. "I'm a man of my word, I am." Nan heard the whirr of the start-off. Her knees were shaking. The taxi began to move. It slipped away leaving her shelterless.

Robert Leonard, with his back to her, was mounting the steps of No. 29.

Nan makes a mad dash to save a life, tomorrow, and meets an important person.

Sanford, N. C.—(AP)—A number of Lee county farmers, reporting serious loss of poultry this year, say an overabundance of foxes in this section is responsible for the depredations.

Greensboro, which had an off day, filled in an exhibition game with the Bulls, losing 4 to 3. The game attracted 1,500 fans.

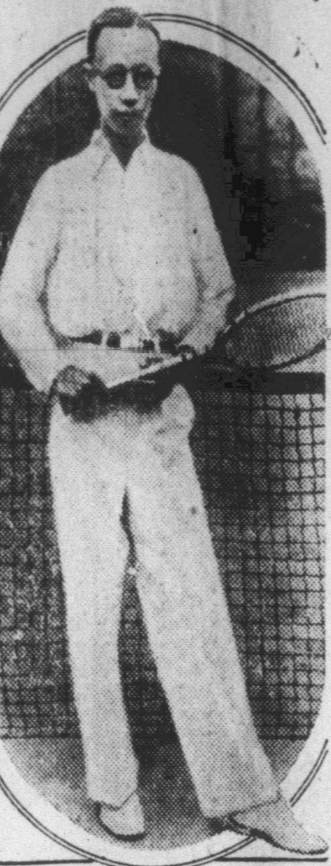

In the only official contest of the Sabbath, Raleigh's Caps made a strong bid to climb from the cellar by licking High Point twice, 7 to 3 and 1 to 0. The second game was a five-inning affair.

Maneater Odie Strain of the Caps hit two home runs in the opener. The defeats dropped the Pointers from fourth to fifth, one game ahead of Raleigh.

Statistics for last week's play show, the field was dominated by Charlotte's speeding Hornets, who have won 15 of their last 17 stars.

The Hornets had a nine-game lead over Greensboro, virtually assuring them of the second half pennant.

A'S PUSHING YANKEES FOR FIRST PLACE

By HERBERT W. BARKER Associated Press Sports Writer

If you're interested in mathematical possibility, the New York Yankees can clinch the American league flag with 18 more victories while the Chicago Cubs need 22 to assure themselves of the National league pennant.

Thus the Yankees, by winning 18 of their remaining games, can clinch the pennant regardless of what Philadelphia accomplishes. Washington is in an even more dangerous position for the Senators automatically will be eliminated as soon as the Yankees win 13 games.

In the National league Pittsburgh could win all of its remaining games and still finish no better than second if the Cubs can take 22 decisions. Brooklyn will be eliminated as soon as the Cubs win 30 games. It might be remembered to that each time their closest rivals are beaten the Cubs and Yankees will need one fewer victory to clinch.

The Cubs continued their mad dash through the older circuit yesterday, nosing out the New York Giants, 5-4, for their tenth successive triumph. Kiki Cuyler drove in four runs with a single, home run and long fly, the latter blow knocking home the winning marker in the ninth. Brooklyn's hopes for a sharp drop as the Dodgers lost two decisions to the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-1 and 6-4. Dizzy Dean won his third game in five days in the nightcap although he was relieved by Sylvester Johnson in the ninth. Cincinnati and Philadelphia split two well pitched games, the opener going to the Phillies, 2-1, and the second struggle to the Reds, 3-2.

The Yankees maintained their 10-1-2 game lead in the American circuit by splitting two games with the Chicago White Sox. The Sox took the first contest, as Ted Lyons held the Yankees to five hits, but dropped the second 11-5, when Ruth hit a homer in each game to bring his season's total to 39.

Cleveland scored seven runs in the first inning to win the first game from the Boston Red Sox, 10-1, but dropped the second, 4-3, when Benny Taylor clouted a homer in the 11th inning. Detroit pounded Weaver, Brown and Coffman for 21 hits and won a 15.7 victory over Washington.

NOTICE OF SALE OF VALUABLE FARM PROPERTY
Under and by virtue of the authority conferred upon us in a deed of trust executed by Johnnie Williams and wife, Naomi Williams, on the 21st day of January, 1926, and recorded in Book K-15, page 536, we will on Saturday

3rd day of September 1932, at 12 o'clock noon, at the Court House door in Pitt County, Greenville, N. C., sell at public auction for cash to the highest bidder the following land to-wit:

That certain tract or parcel of land lying and being situated in Chiefton Township, Pitt County, N. C., bounded on the N. by the lands of H. H. Proctor, and on the East by the Sutton Road and on the E. by F. C. Harding; on the S. and W. by the lands of William Morris, and more specifically described as follows, to-wit: Beginning at Ed Cross and William Norris' corner on Sutton Road and running thence with the line of William Morris N. 5-30 E. 1706 ft. to William Morris' corner, an old corner of Bettie Mills land; thence with the line of William Morris S. 84-30 E. 695 ft. to a pine and gum on Creeping Swamp in H. H. Proctor's line; thence with H. H. Proctor's line and an old ditch in Creeping Swamp S. 4-10 W. 1006 ft.; S. 6-30 W. 267 ft.; S. 12 W. 327 ft. to the Sutton Road; thence with the Sutton Road, it being the line of F. C. Harding, N. 83-40 W. 265 ft.; S. 63-10 W. 268 ft.; S. 79-10 W. 187 ft. to Ed Cross and William Morris' corner on the Sutton Road, containing 25.35 acres as is shown by map of survey made by W. C. Drebach, C. E.

This sale is made by reason of the failure of Johnnie Williams and wife, Naomi Williams, to pay off and discharge the indebtedness secured by said deed of trust. A deposit of 10 per cent will be required from the purchaser at the sale. This the 27th day of July, 1932. W. G. Braham and T. L. Bland, Receivers for First National Company of Durham, Inc., Trustee; Formerly First National Trust Company, Durham, N. C. Aug. 2-11w-4wks.

Grain Market

Chicago, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Aggressive buying of both wheat and corn lifted all grains smartly higher again today after an early profit taking movement had caused fractional recessions. Corn received the most attention in weeks with the December delivery advancing two cents to the highest level since May, December wheat sold at the best price since August 11. The upturn in stocks and cotton following an early decline had some effect on sentiment. Oats showed more activity, prices pushing up a cent or more when wheat was in the throes of profit taking sales. Provisions eased with hog. Wheat closed strong at almost the day's top level and 1.8 to 1.5 cents above Saturday's finish.

Stock Market

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The Stock Market managed to hurdle fresh waves of profit taking to push generally higher today, along with the principal commodity markets. The coppers and utilities were actively bid up in the morning, and under cover of strength in those groups, considerable selling was absorbed elsewhere, but bullishness expanded to embrace much of the list after midday. Some of the industrial shares, however, found the going rather laborious. Coppers were particularly strong, with American Smelting moving up nearly 3 points. Westinghouse rose 3 to a new top for the year, and General Electric half as much. Columbia Gas, American and Foreign Power, United Corp., Radio Corp., and Goodyear were among other issues up a point or more to the best prices for 1932. U. S. Steel, Case, American Telephone, American Can, and others managed to recover morning losses of a point or so to show gains of 1 to 1.1-2 but these advances were not well maintained. Rails had a period of heaviness, and a drop of more than 3 in Union Pacific was not fully regained by early afternoon. Increase little more than 6,000 cars in weekly freight car loadings, as reported on Saturday for the week ended August 20, was somewhat disappointing, but inasmuch as the movement of coal and miscellaneous merchandise continued to gain, while the movement of grain fell off as there was a tendency to hold the crop for higher prices, Wall Street analysts said the showing was not necessarily bad.

IN BANKRUPTCY

SCIENTISTS PREPARE FOR SOLAR ECLIPSE WEDNESDAY

widely heralded event of its kind in years. Instruments were being adjusted to the last thousandth of an inch, and cameras which are the last word in precision and which range from comparatively small moving picture apparatus to giant photographic telescopes supported by huge wooden scaffolds were being carefully checked against the possibility of error.

Hundreds of Sunday visitors watched the expeditions work from behind roped enclosures. Amateurs by the score were on the scene. They followed harassed astronomers about plying interrogations and as often as not, volunteering views on every question on and under the sun. Even at night there was no escape for members of the expeditions as the more determined seekers of information hurried themselves into the various social gatherings of the several university and institute parties on the spacious porch of the presidential inn.

Next to purely scientific discussions, and there is a great deal of that, every one talks about what the water will be Wednesday afternoon. There was a general storm over the week-end and while the mist from low lying clouds continued to stream at intervals from the peaks of presidential range today, the sun shone brightly and every one was agreed that the prospect for an auspicious week had been improved.

It will be little short of a calamity for the local trades people if anything goes wrong Wednesday for they have ordered huge stocks of food and supplies and there will be no other chance to dispose of them this year.

Rumors concerning the expected multitude and what will be done to house and feed it are as free as the white mountain air.

One story that 10,000 "hot dogs" had been ordered in anticipation of the throng was quickly superseded a moment later by a bystander's assertion that a single dealer alone had made arrangements for 30,000. Conversation dealt most exclusively with things in terms of thousands.

Late last night a brilliant display of Aurora Borealis brought most of the scientist quartered here from their beds long after they had retired. Although obscured from time to time by heavy clouds in the north the magnetic display was at least strong enough to start an impromptu forum on the possible effect of magnetic storms on radio tests planned for the day of the eclipse.

The battle started at 8:15 a. m. Federal forces captured the city of Magdalena, six kilometers south of Quito, after brisk fighting and then pressed on toward the capital.

Five infantry battalions and two regiments of artillery were taking part in the action, according to the official announcement.

Before the battle communique was issued it was said that the leaders of the rebels, who had set up a provisional government, were hemmed in and asking for a parley.

Mrs. Miriam Amanda Ferguson, by the Texas election bureau's figures, led Governor R. S. Sterling in a run-off primary for the party nomination by 493 votes—less than one-tenth of one per cent of the ballots tabulated. Dallas County returns received after the State Bureau last night gave Sterling a majority of 916. In Texas the Democratic nomination has been equivalent to election since the Carpet-bagger days.

The State Bureau's figures gave Mrs. Ferguson 459,898 votes, Sterling, 459,405. The additional Dallas returns were made by the Dallas county election bureau, whose figures are used by the state bureau.

of crime coming before the courts at this time, and urged the jurors to weigh the facts carefully and to return indictments wherever they found sufficient evidence for such. It is not a reflection upon a jury to fail to return a true bill, he said, and such action was to be expected wherever evidence was insufficient to support the charge.

The new jury is composed of the following men:
W. G. Smith, Jr., foreman; T. A. Person, J. R. Tugwell, Charlie Foster, B. C. Turnage, W. O. Cherry, R. C. Taylor, L. J. Whitehurst, Robert Clark, H. E. Weston, N. S. Cox, Alton Chapman, E. B. Hardee, M. E. Follard, J. A. Newton, W. C. French, J. R. Chauncey, and G. D. Vinson.

ed for the Federal Department of Justice, then for several years practiced in Asheville, where he lived when he was appointed to the bench.

Brothers and sisters surviving are James C. McRae, of Fayetteville; Dunca McRae, of Baltimore; Theodore McRae, of Asheville; Mrs. Robert L. Gray, Sr., of Raleigh, and Mrs. John Land, of Baltimore.

Informal last night at Shelby by Judge McRae's death, Governor Gardner lauded him as "a very fair and just judge."

PRICES BOOST COTTON AREAS

they had almost forgotten. Last June cotton prices hovered around their all-time lows. Since then the commodity has advanced some $20 a bale, an increase that the ordinary farmer could hardly credit. Cotton started to firm moderately in July and really became buoyant following the government's crop estimate of 11,306,000 bales early in August.

At present prices, the approximate total value of the cotton crop in the United States for this year, and of the carryover for last year, has increased nearly $500,000,000 from the year's bottom figures. Only a part of this, naturally, will go to the cotton farmer. But that part will mean considerable to him when it is seen that during the past year the average gross income of cotton planters has been barely $200.

god and his wife slain by hijackers whom they resisted on a lonely road six miles from Marshall.

"I want to spend the rest of my life paying my debt to society by teaching in the penitentiary," State's Attorney Victor Miller quoted Moor as saying in his confession, made yesterday at the county jail. Miller said he would recommend life imprisonment for the prisoner if he pleaded guilty at the next term of court in November.

"I was tired of going home every night to a dirty house and a sink full of dishes," Moor was quoted as telling the state's attorney.

"We all have our dreams which can't be realized because the facts of life are hard. My dream was advancement in my own profession and a home with a devoted wife and happy children. But Marjorie was not a home girl. She wanted her own life apart from mine. Perhaps she was a better teacher than I. I wasn't sure about that. So we gradually drifted apart. It was intolerable. For a while I thought I'd kill myself. But to get out of the picture that way would mean she would have a second husband. At least I felt she would. We had loved each other and I couldn't stand to think of her marrying again.

"Every night I would return home to find the house dirty and the sink full of unwashed dishes. I swallowed my resentment, but I brooded. There was no quarrel preceding the shooting. I simply decided that the only way out was to kill her."

defiance especially to the outspoken Nazi leader, Adolf Hitler and served notice that he would keep the seat of power thus: "If necessary I shall use force to bring about recognition of the equal rights applicable to all German citizens. I am firmly determined to stamp out the smoldering fires of civil war and to suppress increasing political unrest and political acts of violence."

Then came the surprising Junker scheme to coax back prosperity and give more than 1,500,000 of Germany's 5,000,000 jobless something to do. It was based on this promise: "We proceed from the consideration that important signs point to the fact that the bottom of the depression has been reached, hence all efforts to reinvigorate industry will contribute toward actual revival."

Because Joe Maffini went home to Italy for a visit and didn't come back, his wife, Balbini, crept into a wardrobe closet to have a good cry. When she tried to come out the door wouldn't open. Police, tracing her cries, rescued her 24 hours later.
