STORM CLOUDS AND FLORIDA IS OUT OF DANGER

Tropical Disturbance Switches In Another Direction After Hitting Bahamas

Miami, Fla., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Miami weather bureau announced today that the tropical storm east of the American mainland has recurred out to sea and Florida is no longer in danger.

At 8 a. m., the disturbance was somewhere east of Titusville, Fla., and was far enough out in the ocean to miss the Florida coast even if it should curve back westward, said Richard W. Gray, government meteorologist.

He said he had not succeeded in locating the center of the storm but he was convinced it would pass east of Jacksonville.

Gray advised residents of the Lake Okechobee area in the Everglades that danger is past and there is no need for them to evacuate the district.

Wilmington, N. C., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Wilmington and the North Carolina coast will be swept by a 40-mile-per-hour wind should the tropical storm now approaching over the coast strike near here, weather bureau officials said today.

Coast guardsmen at Oak Island this afternoon reported the sea calm and a brisk northeast wind blowing. The Eastern Temple, bound from Galveston to New York, was put in at Southport to ride out the storm, and the coast guard prepared for an emergency. The cutter "Modoc" left this morning for its regular cruise along the coast, and will maintain a lookout for distressed ships should the storm arrive.

It was partly cloudy here, with a light wind blowing.

Declares War On Vagrants

Burlington, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The days of Burlington's vagrants are numbered.

With an announced demand for textile workers coming from mills here, Mayor E. B. Horner gave orders in police to round up all loafers and notify them "there's no excuse for not working."

One hosiery mill superintendent notified the mayor he needed 25 additional workers and said he knew of other plants also seeking employees.

Reynolds Will Be Speaker At Field Day Event

Wilmington, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The 16th annual field day of the coastal plain agricultural station, located between Willard and Wallace, will be held Thursday with Robert R. Reynolds, Democratic senatorial nominee, as the speaker. W. A. Graham, state commissioner of agriculture, will introduce Reynolds.

Speakers will include McRae of Wilmington, president of the South-eastern Economic Council; Bruce D. Webb, Asheville publisher; Dr. R. Y. Winters, director of the North Carolina experiment station; and Mrs. Estelle T. Smith of Raleigh, district home demonstration agent.

Argument Nears End Killing Case

Fayetteville, N. C., Sept. 6.—(AP)—J. O. Webb, Charles Jones and Roy Adams today were convicted of second degree murder in the slaying in a holdup June 11 of A. C. Willis, Fayetteville grocer.

Fayetteville, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Trial of three young white men charged with first degree murder in connection with the slaying of A. C. Willis, grocer, in an attempted holdup here June 11 neared the jury stage today.

Only two arguments and the charge of Judge Walter L. Small remained before the trial would be completed.

The defendants are Jeff O. Webb of Rocky Mount; Roy Adams of Fayetteville, and Charles Jones of Fayetteville. Their attorneys argued they were so drunk the night of the slaying that the element of premeditation was absent and therefore the slaying was not first degree murder.

Says Utility Companies Will Reduce Electric Light Rates In This State

Raleigh, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Stanley Winborne, one of the three members of the State Corporation Commission, said today after the commission had held a conference with representatives of the Tidewater Power Company that "there will be rate reductions for consumers of electrical power served by the major utility companies in the state."

Mr. Winborne made it clear he (Continued on page two)

Nation Will Take Steps to Defend Herself Regardless What Other Powers Do

Berlin, Sept. 6.—(AP)—General Kurt von Schleicher, who startled Europe recently by asserting that if Germany is not granted equality of arms she will arm anyway, told the press today that he meant what he said.

Emphasizing his remarks with vigorous gestures, the minister of defense declared in an interview at Koelberg that Germany "under all circumstances will do what is necessary for her defense."

DOOLITTLE SCORES AGAIN

Missouri Flier Captures Free for All Races at Cleveland Air Event

Cleveland, Sept. 6.—(AP)—The roaring mounts of two Missouri flying comrades have turned in a grand slam in aviation's high speed classics.

Major James H. Doolittle, riding his red-nosed monoplane, completed the supremacy at high speeds demonstrated during the National Air Races by his wide margin victory in the 100 mile free-for-all race yesterday.

His flying comrade, James Hailzlip, a week earlier had flashed across the continent to a new trans-continental speed mark of ten hours and nineteen minutes. Hailzlip's wife, May, a few hours before, had pushed the unofficial women's land plane speed record to 255.53 miles per hour, and Doolittle himself on Saturday had boosted the men's landplane speed record to 296.27 miles per hour.

Mrs. Hailzlip's performance, which replaces the 210 mile an hour record of Miss Ruth Nichols of Rye, N. Y., came on the same day Miss Nichols lost to Maryse Hiltz, of France, her women's altitude record. The Aero Club of France yesterday recognized Mme. Hiltz's mark of approximately 31,900 feet.

Radio Cracksmen Sought by Police

Chicago, Sept. 6.—(AP)—A gang of "radio cracksmen" was sought today by the police for the robbery of the safety deposit boxes of Koch & Co., where they obtained loot variously estimated from $100,000 to $1,000,000.

The "radio" burglars, so called by the police because they are said to set up a low wave radio to notify them if a police alarm was sent out while they were at work, are believed by the authorities to have been operating on a nation-wide scale.

Police-Lieutenant Joseph Ronan said the same group of criminals was responsible for a safe-blowing "job" in Cincinnati, which netted $500,000. He also said he believed they cut into a vault of a bank at Highland, Wis., last October 9 and escaped with a large sum of money.

"Last October 26 this same radio precaution," the lieutenant said, "saved the entire gang from capture. The radio brought the police alarm to the cracksmen just when squads were ordered to trap them in the International Investment Co., where they were preparing to cut up from the basement into the safety box vault."

Dr. Clarence True Wilson Faces Verbal Spanking of Church for Utterances

Cincinnati, Sept. 6.—(AP)—A second broadside fired by Dr. Clarence True Wilson against the administration of Pres. Hoover and anti-prohibitionists today brought, the Enquirer says, a threat of verbal spanking by his church.

Dr. Wilson, secretary of the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, the paper says, is criticized in a resolution prepared for submission before the closing session of the Ohio Conference of the church for making what the resolution calls a "political speech, unseemly and most out of order."

In the address, delivered Sunday night, Dr. Wilson accused President Hoover "of deserting the dry forces the first day he was elected."

In a subsequent formal statement, he asserted "Mr. Hoover expects us to vote for him while he emancipates prohibition," assailed both political parties, and charged there is a "millionaires' conspiracy to set a monopoly of the returned alcohol business, as they now have the monopoly of ammunition."

CONGRESSMAN SPEAKS HERE

Lindsay Warren Warns Rotarians of Attempt to Destroy Foundation of Gov't.

Warning against attempts being made to destroy the power of the great legislative bodies of the nation and to centralize government at the White House, Congressman Lindsay Warren, of Washington, delivered the principal address at the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club last night.

Declaring that certain factions of the press, backed by powerful individuals, were attempting to destroy the foundation of government by transferring the rights and freedom of the people to a single source, Mr. Warren impressed upon his hearers the necessity of continued representation of all the people if the nation is to go forward in the future as in the past.

Referring to the statement of a prominent man that what this country needed to put it back on its feet "was another Mussolini," the speaker asserted that what it really needed was a more concerted effort of the people for their own personal welfare.

K. W. Cobb presided over the session and the program was in charge of John Clark, of the community service committee. Hon. F. C. Harding was presented by Mr. Clark who in turn presented Mr. Warren as the "next Speaker" of the House of Representatives, and paid a glowing tribute to his long record of service while in Congress.

Speaking on the subject of "Congress," Mr. Warren graphically portrayed the set-up and functions of the great legislative body, and the power of its committees and prominence of its members.

Discussing the movement being made by some factions to attempt to detract from the work of the members of Congress, the speaker declared that 90 per cent of them were imbued with lofty ideals and wished to alleviate the conditions confronting the nation at this time. They aren't any different from men who have represented the nation in other periods, he asserted, and are attempting to do the best in their power for their constituency even as others did (Continued on page two)

TWO HELD FOR ASSAULT HERE

Robert Tyson and Elmer Dail Charged With Attack on Marvin Barrow

Robert Tyson and Elmer Dail, young white men of the Ballard's Cross Roads community, were held in the county jail here today on a charge of assaulting Marvin Barrow during a dispute near Ballard's Cross Roads Saturday night.

Barrow, who at first was thought to have been fatally injured, was reported as getting along nicely at the local hospital today and hope was entertained for his recovery.

Reports of the assault were meagre, but it was said that Barrow was hit in the head with an automobile crank, inflicting such serious injury that he was rushed to the hospital here for treatment.

Corn Fed to Hogs Nets $1.07 Bushel

Newton, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Corn fed to hogs during the past two months netted J. G. Carpenter of White Church, Catawba county, $1.07 per bushel, County Agent T. L. Robinson reports.

Carpenter fed seven pigs 217 bushels of corn, which had a market value of $19.85 and also added 200 pounds of a fish and cotton seed meal mixture to make a total food cost of $14.85.

During the period the pigs gained 544 pounds in weight. At the present market price of hogs the gain is worth $27.20, leaving a profit over food cost of $12.35 or the equivalent of paying $1.07 for each bushel of corn used.

OFFERINGS OF LEAF LIGHT

Prices Range From 1 to 30 Cents a Pound During the Morning Hours With Greater Strength Noted at Noon Hour; Grades Under 10 Cents Are Three to Five Cents Higher Than Last Year; About 800,000 Pounds on Floors of Various Warehouses

The prices situation reflected a distinct gain over last year as the Greenville tobacco market swung open for the 1932-1933 season today.

Although official figures were not available, conservative estimates placed the average at between 10 and 11 cents a pound compared with $6.90 a hundred pounds on the opening day last season. Prices were reported as showing greater strength at the noon hour.

It was estimated that there was about 800,000 pounds of leaf on the floors of the various warehouses and that the five sales running simultaneously would not be completed before mid-afternoon.

Prices ranged from 1 to 30 cents a pound during the morning hours, and grades under ten cents were three to five cents higher than last year.

The quality of the weed was slightly below that of last year and a quantity of black tips held the general average down considerably.

Prices apparently were up to expectation and very little sign of dissatisfaction was exhibited on part of the growers.

The sale was the lightest of any opening day in years due largely to tendency of the farmers to hold their crop back to get the first news of the price trend.

With the crop cut below 50 per cent, it was expected the season would be short, and sales, it was believed, would show distinct gains between now and the Thanksgiving holidays when the bulk of the crop will have been disposed of.

As usual on an opening day, the market was flooded with visitors seeking to get first-hand information of the price trend and first figures apparently met expectations of the hundreds of growers gathered to see the curtain swing up on a new season.

Traffic conditions through the narrow streets of the tobacco district were probably the best in years, and while some of the main thoroughfares were congested, the streets were kept open and traffic flowed freely and without hitch.

Barbecue and hot dog stands along with the usual number of concessions did a land office business during the morning hours, and this was expected to continue in the face of higher prices for the products of this great bright leaf-producing district.

By reason of the short crop and increased prices on the border markets, the crowd attending the opening today was probably the largest in years. Had everybody had tobacco for sale, one of the spectators remarked that the market would have been hopelessly blocked for a week or more.

The market this year with eight warehouses and nine factories has sufficient facilities to take care of 1,750,000 pounds of tobacco daily, almost completely eliminating the possibility of block sales as in recent years. Only a few blocks were reported last year when the market sold more tobacco than any other market in the great bright leaf belt.

ABOUT TOWN

The address of Congressman Lindsay C. Warren at the Rotary Club last night was received with interest by club members and the public generally. Mr. Warren is not only one of the most popular statesmen of this part of the state but of the nation. He has been the recipient of much favorable comment for his constructive work in Congress, and the people of the district he serves are proud of him. His political acumen has stood him in good stead in his contact with various phases of governmental life at Washington, and his future as one of the leaders of government is as bright as any young man in Congress, in fact, probably brighter, by reason of the recognition which has been accorded him by leading members of the House as well as plenipotentiaries of business and industry. Mr. Warren has served his district in a way that will be instrumental in sending him back to the halls of Congress for further service, and the extent of his popularity which is gradually cementing will be evident in the next election when he will be sent back to Washington by overwhelming majorities. Realizing the serious economic situation of the people of this section the Board of County Commissioners yesterday deferred the advertising of 1931 taxes until Oct. 15. This is the third time taxes have been postponed since the first of the year and is the last time such action is to be taken. By the end of the month the people should be in much better financial condition than at this time, and it is hoped all of those who are behind will rally to the call of the government and settle whatever they owe the county for last year. The only way any city or county can pay its debts is through taxes, and if this is neglected for any great length of time it will not be long before it is impossible to meet their obligations. The people should realize the fact and do everything in their power to help the county live up to its obligations. Greenville extends a cordial welcome to the thousands of people gathered here today to attend the opening of the tobacco market. It is one of the greatest occasions of the kind of the year and one in which everybody is interested by reason of the fact that it is the season when millions of dollars will be poured into the pockets of the people to enable them to improve their condition. The market holds more than usual significance this year by reason of the need for better prices, and the thousands of people gathered here will watch each sale in the hope that the situation will be sufficiently favorable to enable the community to rise from the bottom of depression on where it was tossed by low prices over three years ago. It is hoped prices will do like those on the border markets and show increased strength each day. If that should be the case it will not be long before money will be in the pockets of everybody and the lines of care which covered their faces will be replaced by smiles of joy and satisfaction. What this part of the country needs more than any other thing is employment and the money derived from the sale of crops, and if it realizes that then the well which has lingered around the doorsteps of thousands will be pushed farther away and the people saved from more misery and suffering. Nothing Venture By PATRICIA WENTWORTH

SYNOPSIS: While at dinner in the Hotel Luxe Jervis Wear has for the first time shown consideration for his wife, Nan. She has loved him since as a girl she saved his life; he has married her as a means of saving his fortune from Rosamund Carew. Rosamund has Robert Leonard, whom Nan suspects of two attempts on Jervis' life, also are in the restaurant.

Chapter 14 ROSAMUND'S DEMAND Rosamund Carew settled herself into the corner of a gold sofa and lit a cigarette. The smoke hung about her like a bluish mist. Jervis had not spoken a single word. His lips were smiling, his eyes aloof and dark. For a minute or two Rosamund smoked in silence. Then she said lazily: "Hadn't we better talk?"

"Oh, certainly. What shall we talk about—the weather? They say it will be hotter tomorrow." "I want to talk to you about my money," she said. Jervis continued to smile. "Your money?" "Yes."

"What money?" "You know as well as I do that Uncle Ambrose would have left me wealthy if he had not thought we were going to be married. He had his own ideas about the man having the purse-strings."

"Yes—very sensible ideas." Rosamund's lashes came down upon her cheek. She conveyed without further effort a complete indifference to Jervis' approval. "Hadn't we better keep to the facts?" she said. "He left me twenty-five hundred dollars. That's nothing—I can't live on nothing—and you have married someone else. Those I think are the facts."

Jervis' eyes hardened. "I'm afraid we're talking at cross purposes. My grandfather didn't leave you anything at all except a sum for your trousseau." She lifted her cigarette again. The ash broke and fell, powdering the gold of her dress. She was silent for a moment, inhaling the smoke. In the silence thoughts moved between them—violent, resentful, dominant, resisting. With half closed eyes Rosamund continued to smoke. Whatever happened, he should speak next. If it was a battle between them she knew where her advantage lay. She sat entrenched in silence. In the end it was he who broke it.

"I don't think there's anything to be gained by this discussion. You played me the dirtiest trick I've ever heard of—and now you want your legacy." "And a bit over," said Miss Carew, her blue eyes veiled. "I'm afraid you won't get it. You can have fifteen hundred a year, but I won't discuss the matter with you. You must see Page."

She held the cigarette a little away and opened her eyes upon him. "My dear Jervis, what do you expect me to do?" "One might work," he suggested. Rosamund's lip rose in a swift smile. "I believe Mr. Page has a vacancy for a typist. Shall I apply for it?" She smiled her exquisite smile, then leaned towards him. "I'm not clever enough, I'm afraid. What's the good of quarreling? Make it twenty-five hundred, and let's be friends. Family quarrels are so exhausting, and there's a heat-wave coming." She paused for an answer, and got none. "Come—twenty-five hundred—and I'll owe my dressmaker the rest."

Jervis rose to his feet and offered her his arm. "Nothing doing, I'm afraid. Shall we dance?" Ferdinand Francis had taken Nan by way of a long corridor into one of those immense rooms with gilt mirrors and brocaded furniture which are, mercifully, only to be met with in hotels of the more expensive sort. They sat down in a window-seat framed with rose-colored satin curtains looped with gold. Their feet rested upon a carpet an inch thick, also rose-colored.

"Well!" said Mr. Francis, "if we aren't grand! Now last time I had the pleasure of a conversation with you." Nan colored a little, but her dimple showed. "Is that my cue? What do I say?" "You say 'last time'?" Nan caught the corner of her lip between her teeth. "Have we met before, Mr. Francis?" "Oh, yes, Mrs. Wear."

"Have we? Are you sure?" "Oh, quite sure. I've been quite sure since twenty minutes past four this afternoon." Nan caught her eyes away from his. They were twinkling, but under the twinkle he was dead serious. She looked down into her lap, and then of her own free will she tilted her head and looked back at him.

"Well?" she said. Her lips just parted on the word; and then closed in a firm, sweet curve that was not quite a smile. "If you'll go back in your mind," said Ferdinand, "maybe you'll remember that after I'd picked Jervis out of that pool on Crey's rocks, I came back for the plucky child who'd saved his life by holding him up in the water. She grabbed him with both hands and said: 'Is he dead?' And I said, 'Not within eighty years of it, thanks to you.' Come—you remember that?" "If?" said Nan.

"Yes, you. I said, 'I'd like to know your name,' and she said, 'Nan.' And when you said 'I'm Nan,' this afternoon March 1, 1933 with the same exceptions noted by the cooperative. On July 1 this corporation held 1,000,000 bales. Congress allotted 500,000 bales for relief distribution and the corporation designated 650,000 bales for marketing during the rest of the fiscal year. "Of the 650,000 bales... more than 300,000 bales have been sold," it said. "The corporation immediately will withdraw its remaining stock from sale until March 1, 1933....."

PAUL BERN KILLS SELF (Continued from Page One) grief and her anguished cries could be heard by a crowd which gathered about the residence of her mother, Mrs. Marino Bel'o. Physicians quieted her with sedatives and detectives who sought to discuss the tragedy with her left. They said they would return today, after a coroner's autopsy, in an attempt to find a plausible reason for Bern's act. Close friends of the 42-year-old film executive, including Irving Thalberg, who was among the first to reach the residence after the discovery by the butler, said Bern had appeared at his office infrequently during the past ten days. Some expressed the opinion he was on the verge of a nervous breakdown. Others said Bern had hinted a man might well conclude his life when his work was done. Possibility of domestic difficulties between the couple drew quick denials from intimate friends. Miss Harlow was at her mother's home when she received word of her husband's death. She had gone there on Saturday night after working at a studio. Friends said she understood Bern would be occupied by a business engagement and she wished to be with her mother, whose husband was on a fishing trip.

CONGRESSMAN SPEAKS HERE (Continued from page one) before them. The most far-reaching measures in the history of the nation were transacted by the last Congress, he explained. Although every effort was exerted to ameliorate the suffering existing among the jobless thousands, and stagnated business and industrial fields, he said he was yet to be shown where the country was to profit by increased debt. The relief projects are nothing more than opiates to relieve a temporary condition, and nothing lasting on permanent will eventually until the people generally realize that they must work out their own salvation with fear and trembling. The popular belief that prosperity can be legislated was denied by the Congressman who stated, however, that legislation did play an important part in the life of a government. Congress is doing the best it can to meet the unusual situation arising from world-wide economic depression, and he predicted that the future is safe as similar periods in the past have been. Mr. Warren paid tribute to Nicholas Longworth, former Speaker of the House, and to John Garner, present speaker, and candidate for vice-president and Congressman from the state of Texas. He stated that Garner occupied an unique position in his candidacy for two positions and that it would be possible for him to hold both if elected under the laws of Texas. He described the present Speaker of the House as one of the most powerful individuals of the day, a man with his faults, but whose broad perspective had enabled him to rise to unobstructed heights of eminence in governmental life. The address was heard by a majority of members of the club in addition to several visitors, and was described as one of the most interesting and instructive heard by the club in some time.

The situation again became tense last night and Sheriff Climer asked for the National Guard protection. Special Deputy Sam Smith was shot in the arm by a pistol bullet at the negro cabin. MASKED MEN ROB BANK (Continued from page one) began the change, the three whelped out pistols and covered him and the two customers. They scooped up all the currency in sight and fled to the machine which roared off in the direction of Asheboro. Several citizens of Denton gave pursuit but the bandit car was lost after a chase of a few miles. Witnesses said the robbers were driving a wine-colored sedan of the moderate price variety. Bank officials said the loss was insured. Police in all sections of this territory were asked to be on the lookout for the fleeing men. SAYS UTILITY COMPANIES WILL REDUCE RATES (Continued From Page One) was speaking for himself, saying the commission had not reached any final decision in regard to proposed lower rate schedules. Chairman W. T. Lee and George P. Pell, the other commission members, have also plainly indicated they feel reductions are in prospect. The conference with the Tidewater company representatives today completed the series of meetings with major utilities companies. The Carolina Power and Light Company, the Durham Public Service Company, and the Southern Public Utilities Company had previously been heard. The Tidewater conference developed into a form of hearing this morning despite the efforts of Chairman Lee to "keep away from hearings." Marsden Bellamy and R. M. Ker-man, representing the town commissioners and citizens of Wrightsville Beach, brought a complaint before the commission that "seasonal rates" charged at the beach by the utility were discriminatory. Bellamy and Kerman pointed out to the commission that year-round residents of Wrightsville Sound, one mile nearer Wilmington than the beach, were given the same rate charged in Wilmington. Also, they said, year-round residents of the beach community get the Wilmington rate but summer residents are charged a 50 per cent increase unless they have an annual "combination rate" contract with the company. BULLS AGAIN HIT STOCKS (Continued From Page One) the stage of interest away from security prices although they, too, were higher. Cotton opened about $1.50 a bale higher and gradually extended its gains. In later dealings, all options on future delivery of cotton were at least $1.50 higher. Wheat prices, like cotton, benefited from the Farm Board announcement that no large stocks of those two staples now evering the markets, the Farm Board having arranged to keep its holdings off the market. Stocks lost most of their momentum after a strong opening but some held tenaciously to their earlier gains as the market entered the afternoon trading. The cotton cooperative said its present stocks, approximating 2,000,000 bales, will not be sold before July 1, 1933, except where there are existing consignments or where a 12-cent price, based on the near month of the New York Exchange, can be obtained. THE RUMINATIONS OF AN IDLE GOAT. Quote Mr. Webster: "Ruminate—to chew over again. To meditate or ponder over; to muse on."

This is what stuck in an idle brain from the morning paper: Major Doolittle of St. Louis seems to have the wrong name. HIGHER PRICES REPORTED OVER BRIGHT LEAF BELT

Kinston and Wilson reported 600,000 pounds each on roosts there with prices above those of the 1931 opening. Thousands milled about the marts.

Wilson's average was estimated at between 12 and 13 cents, an appreciable increase over 1931, with an average of $7.82 a hundred. The average of Kinston appeared to be about 12 cents, but accurate data was difficult to obtain, so fevered was the selling.

Poorer grades at Goldsboro sold two to three times higher than last year and better grades ran twice as high. An estimated 100,000 pounds was selling for between $12 to $14 a hundred in contrast to an opening average last year of $7.95. Prices there were the best recorded in three years.

The weed averaged $12.95 as sales opened at Rocky Mount where approximately 100,000 pounds, consisting mainly of first primings, was offered. Common tobacco there was 200 per cent higher than that of last year with the increase gradually declined as better grades sold. Estimates were that sales were 30 per cent higher than last year on the entire offering.

No tags were turned at Rocky Mount. Some tobacco held over from last year averaged $6. The streets were crowded and in the warehouses farmers applauded the sales.

At Tarboro the market opened with low grades selling double those of last year and good grades sold as high as $45 a hundred. The average was between 12 and 13 cents. An estimated 67,000 pounds were on the floors. The crop in that section was estimated at 60 per cent short.

Prices at Zebulon average $15.55 a hundred, almost twice that of last year's opening day. Only about 15,000 pounds were offered, however, but farmers there were pleased and refused to turn tags.

Around 60,000 pounds were dumped on floors at Washington where cheaper grades brought two to three times what they did in 1931. Medium grades brought 50 per cent better prices and better grades averaged about the same. No tags were turned by farmers who declared themselves highly pleased with prices.

The first two rows at New Bern, containing 3,680 pounds, sold for an average of $7.38 a hundred against an average of $9.28 last year, but today's grades were much lower than those of 1931. It was estimated that between 50,000 and 75,000 pounds were offered.

All over the belt, in which four of the nation's largest markets are located, farmers showed a high degree of pleasure over the turn of events.

A curtailed crop and higher prices in other sections gave rise to optimism before the markets opened today, and as the day wore on, farmers saw a realization of their hopes.

Wendell reported prices ranging $4 to $44 per hundred pounds for about 80,000 pounds offered with indications the average would be about twice that of opening day last year.

Farmers on the Wendell market said prices were better than they had expected, and no tags were turned. Turning of tags is the method farmers use to reject bids.

Farmville estimated sales at about 350,000 at an average of between 10 and 11 cents.

Williamston had about 85,000 pounds at an average on first 150

Spend Labor Day Teasing the Fish Near Swansboro

The water was rough, so rough, in fact, that some of the boys felt like running their stomachs inside out, but the fish bit like they had never had an opportunity to bite before, according to reports of a fishing party which spent yesterday at Swansboro.

The party returned late yesterday afternoon with eighty fish, which equally distributed, gave everybody a sufficient supply to satisfy the gastronomic cravings for the time being at least.

While many of the fishermen spent the most of the time trying to alleviate sea-sickness, the remainder had the time of their lives reeling in the finny tribe, and reported one of the best Labor Day celebrations in years.

The following composed the party: Dr. W. I. Woolen, Dr. R. S. McGeachy, George Woodward, J. H. Waldrop, J. C. Lanier, W. W. Lee, Howard Moyer, C. C. Hilton, Reid Gaskins, John Staton, E. C. Hollar, and A. J. Moore.

Many Homeless In Flood Area

Brownsville, Tex., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Hundreds of persons were homeless but the rich citrus and farming lands of the lower Rio Grande valley appeared to have escaped major damage as the Rio Grande flood crest swept slowly toward Brownsville and the Gulf of Mexico today.

Lowlands adjoining the river were under water, but levees and floodways protected other sections.

The crest passed Rio Grande City in Hidalgo county last night. Army aviators reported the river was from two to five miles wide between Brownsville and Rio Grande City, but that stretch of land is outside the Hidalgo county flood control works. Little water was running through the floodways.

Water entered the outskirts of Reynosa, Mexico, but none of the numerous international bridges below Rio Grande City had been damaged. Further rains were reported on the San Juan watershed in Mexico but the added flow into the Rio Grande appeared to have little effect.

Smithfield had the smallest opening sale in years, with about 100,000 pounds selling for an indicated average of $12.50 per hundred.

Farmers expressed themselves as delighted when poor grades sold for 9 to 12 cents a pound, double last year's opening day figure, while better grades ran about the same as last year at 18 to 25 cents per pound, usually.

Prices at Ashokie were reported from 30 to 45 per cent higher than last year's, with a break of 150,000. Common grades were about twice as high as in 1931. The Bank of Ashokie re-opened today for the first time since December, 1931, to handle the business.

Will Attempt Dawn to Dusk Flight in N. C.

Washington, N. C., Sept. 6.—(AP)—From Manteo to Murphy, the term a thousand speech makers have used to embrace North Carolinians from the Mountains to the sea, may turn out to be just a one-day round-trip for three Washington aviation enthusiasts.

John Parrott, 17-year-old pilot; his father, Dr. Albert Parrott, of Kinston, and Carl Goerch, Washington newspaperman, plan to make the 1,200-mile trip Thursday. Their object is to fly from Manteo, on the coast, to Murphy, high in the Blue Ridge mountains and return between dawn and dusk.

No stop would be made in Murphy, but a message from the mayor of Manteo is to be dropped there. The plans, as tentatively announced, call for the fliers to take off from Kinston Wednesday afternoon and fly to Manteo so as to get a nearly start Thursday. Their route across the State would be over Washington, Kinston, Fayetteville, Charlotte, Brevard and Murphy, with a stop at Charlotte each way for refueling.

Despite his youth, young Parrott has had 500 hours of flying. The cabin model ship the trio will use has a cruising speed of 100 miles an hour.

Plant Crops for Jobless People

Wilmington, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Forty-two acres of land near Wilmington have been planted to fall and winter vegetables during the past two months and the yields will be distributed to unemployed families of New Hanover county when they are harvested.

County Agent J. P. Herring reported that eleven acres of snap beans, seven of collards, fifteen of turnips and not quite ten of six-weeks pears were planted.

High McRae, Wilmington realtor, donated the use of the land and the work was done by volunteer labor from ranks of unemployed.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened very steady 25-32 higher on higher Liverpool cables cables and heavy rains in Texas.

The over-holiday announcement for Washington with reference to financing cotton held by the Stabilization Corporation and cooperatives was a factor on the opening advance which carried December up to 9.35 or 36 points above last Saturday's close.

Private reports of damaging rains in Texas stimulated the buying but the advance met realizing, southern offerings and selling through hours, as with Japanese connections. This supplied the demand and the market at the end of the first half-hour showed reactions of 5 or 6 points from the best.

A private crop report placing the condition at 55.7 and the indicated yield at 11,285,000 bales attracted little comment during the early trading.

Grain Market

Chicago, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Wheat rose more than 2 cents a bushel today, but later the gains faded out.

Word that 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels of cash and futures holdings of wheat sponsored by the Federal Farm Board would be held off the market during 1932 was almost entirely responsible for the price bulge. Active hedging operations at Winnipeg, though, tended afterward to drag down the market here.

Stock Market

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Editor)
New York, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Trading was resumed in the financial markets today, with bulls still dominating the situation, but laborious operations for the rise encountered considerable opposition in shares.

Steels, Coppers, Oils and Industrial Specialties were whirled up rather vigorously during the morning, but the rails were sluggish from the start, and turned weak after midday, causing some recession from the best in other groups. Strong spots included Bethlehem, Youngstown, International Telephone, A. M. Byers, American Smelting, United Aircraft and Lambert, up 2 to more than 3 points at the best. Many issues advanced a point or more, including Anaconda, Kennecott, Standard of California, Texas Corporation, U. S. Steel, National Steel, American Can and others.

Eastman made an extreme gain of 4 points. These advances, however, were substantially reduced, or lost, as Santa Fe declined more than 2 points, and losses of a point or more appeared in Union Pacific, New York Central, Southern Pacific, American Telephone, American Water Works, Woolworth, American Tobacco "B," Allied Chemical, Westinghouse and others.

Continued strength in commodities remained the principal bull talking point in the share market. Copper showed further pronounced firmness in the foreign market, and domestically, zinc and silver were higher, while the wheat and cotton markets were helped by the Farm Board's announcement that it would hold its supplies off the markets during the current season. Copper, however, was still substantially under the average domestic production cost.

Most Wall Street analysts described the upswing in the market of the past two months as chiefly reflecting a reaction from panic psychology, and several felt that

ALLEN AGAIN HELPS YANKS WIN A GAME

Facing the Philadelphia Athletics their closest rivals, the Yankees tossed their twin mound aces, the very left handed Vernon Gomez and right-handed Johnny Allen, into the fray and emerged with two victories that left them only six more to win in order to clinch the American League flag.

As the teams stood today, the Yankees led the Athletics by 12 1-2 games. Six more Yankee victories or any combination of Yankee victories and Athletic defeats which totals six, automatically will give the Yankees the pennant. Washington in third place, will be eliminated when the Yankees win five or when Yankee victories and Washington defeats total five games.

Gomez turned in his 23rd victory against six defeats in the opener which the Yankees won 8-6. Allen won his 16th game against two losses in the nightcap. The score was 6-3. Babe Ruth has his 40th homer in the first game.

Cleveland walloped the St. Louis Browns twice 12-9 and 6-4, Earl Averill clouting his 29th and 30th homers in the opener.

Earl Whitehill pitched steady ball as Detroit turned back the Chicago White Sox 5-3, but the Sox came back to take the nightcap 3-1.

In the National League, Pittsburgh shaved another game off the Chicago Cubs' lead by whipping the St. Louis Cardinals twice 4-3 and 3-1, behind effective pitching by Heinie Meine and Larry French.

The Cubs split a double header with the Cincinnati Reds, winning the first 9-2 but dropping the second 6-5.

EVERY TEAM COPS GAME IN PIEDMONT

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The Piedmont League had a big time Labor Day—every team won a ball game, nearly every player got a hit and someone on each team hit at least one home run during the games. The equal division of the holiday double-headers left the season ending Saturday and only six games to go, Charlotte's five and a half game margin over Greensboro for the leadership became more impressive.

Charlotte and Wilmington put on pair of wild scoring affairs, the Tars getting the first 11 to 5 and dropping the night cap 13 to 3.

There was also plenty of scoring at Durham where the Bulls beat Raleigh 13 to 8 in the first game and the Caps won the second 9 to 4.

Things were different at High Point where the score of 4 to 3 decided each game, Greensboro winning the first an dthe Pointers taking the second.

Excluding pitchers and players who went to bat only once, there were only six players, half of them on the Charlotte club, who failed to get a hit in one of the Labor Day games.

The six were Synder, second baseman; Biggerstaff, right fielder, and Pond, catcher, all of Charlotte; McCadden, Raleigh right fielder; Brannen, Wilmington, third-sacker, and A. Shires, Durham first baseman.

Carter, Charlotte left fielder, cracked his team's only four-bagger of the day. For Wilmington, Burns, Parks and Lindley parked them beyond the fence.

Wright, outfielder, slugged one out for the Pats in the first game and snappers rapped another in the second, but it was Joe Martin's four-base blow in the second game that really came at the crucial time.

The second game was scheduled for five innings, but went seven, when it got tied up three all. In the seventh, Martin slammed out his homer and the Pointers had won a ball game.

Lennox for Raleigh and Wilmington for Durham did the Babe Ruth stunt for their teams. Both game

In the second game and Wilmington's licked cleared the flag-pole in centerfield to gain the distinction of being the longest hit of the year at Durham.

"I NO LONGER HAVE TO TAKE LAXATIVES OF ANY KIND... SARGON SOFT MASS PILLS HAVE ENTIRELY FREED ME OF CONSTIPATION"

The commonest curse of mankind is constipation. It poisons us, breaks down youthful strength and vigor, ages us prematurely, and leaves us an easy victim of countless diseases. Millions are slaves to the laxative habit. The effect of ordinary cathartics is only temporary; they weaken the bowels and lower their effect. The more we take the more we have to take.

A New Discovery
Bile, prepared by the liver, is Nature's great weapon against constipation. It is a natural laxative, antiseptic and antacid. Bile is also a digestant without which sound digestion is impossible.

Until the discovery of Sargon Soft Mass Pills, we have been blasting out the intestines with cathartics and purges, believing that they stimulated the liver. Science now knows that calomel, salts, oils and other ordinary laxative drugs have no effect whatever on the liver.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain an amazing substance which highest medical authorities agree is the only effective stimulant to the bile producing activity of the liver known to Materia Medica.

Unlike ordinary cathartics, this substance does not shock or upset the system. It does its work by gently stimulating the liver to cleanse itself by increasing its production of bile—a more natural and thorough laxative than can ever be devised by man.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills are not like any laxative you have ever taken. They are so gentle and thorough in their action that there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all, their directions call for a gradual reduction of the dose until the point is reached where you no longer require a laxative of any kind.

This remarkable medicine may be obtained from
