Intensive Search Started By Italians When Plane Fails To Appear In Rome

LAST REPORT WEDNESDAY

As Soon as He Was Sure Fuel of "American Nurse" Must be Exhausted, Minister Of Air For Italian Government Orders All Military and Civil Pilots to Search for Signs of Plane Both on Land and Sea; Entire National Police Also Instructed to Keep Vigilance.

Rome Sept. 15.—(AP)—Every searching agency under the control of the Italian government was set to work today to find the missing monoplane "American Nurse" which had disappeared on a non-stop flight from New York to Rome.

She was due here last midnight with her crew of two men and a woman, but there was no report of the plane after 11:30 a. m. yesterday when a steamer reported sighting it 400 miles off the southern coast of Ireland.

As soon as he was certain that fuel must be exhausted even if there had been no accident, General Italo Balbo the Minister for Air, ordered all pilots, military and civil, on land and sea, to search for signs of the plane or for wreckage.

Forestry workers, lighthouse keepers, warships and merchantmen, as well as the entire national police force, were instructed to be vigilant. Aviation authorities doubted that the plane had reached Italy, but the government notified the American military attaché that everything possible was being done.

When darkness approached last night the huge military airport at Ciampino turned on its ground lights and from dusk to dawn the finger of a large searchlight swept the sky. A great ground crew was kept ready all night.

It was expected that the thorough search already under way would quickly eliminate the possibility that the plane might have landed or crashed somewhere in Italy.

If the "American Nurse" is down or lost it would be the third failure of an attempt to fly from New York to Rome. In 1927 the "Old Glory" was lost with three victims at sea. In 1929 Roger Williams and Lewis A. Yancey started for Rome but landed in Spain.

Two Men Face Trial on Charge Of Extortion

Wilmington, N. S., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Indicted on a charge of conspiring to extort $20,000 from Mrs. Jessie Kenan Wise, Parker Q. Moore, former mayor, and John J. Furlong, Sr., New Hanover Superior Court, with this afternoon tentatively set for calling of the case.

Furlong and Moore were arrested shortly after Mrs. Wise, known for her philanthropy, had received two notes, one demanding $25,000 and the second $20,000, under threats of bodily harm.

The former police chief was implicated by two negroes who were taken in custody when they called at a filling station for a package, addressed to Capt. Mal Rayvee. Mrs. Wise had been instructed in one of the notes to send the money in such a package and with this superscription to the filling station.

Furlong was quoted by officers as saying Moore told him to get the package, and the former mayor was then arrested. The former said he was informed by Moore that the package contained whiskey.

Both men have been free under bond, Furlong's being $1,000 and Moore's $7,500.

DRIVE TO RUN EIGHT WEEKS

Prizes All in Cash and Will Include $600 For First, $300 For Second, and $150 for Third; Other Cash Awards to be Made and Commissions to Non-Winners Given; Subscription Price is Reduced on all Two and 3-Year Terms; Campaign Closes on November 12th.

Frank N. Belgrano Jr.

Believing that times have started up the hill to recovery and feeling that all should do their part in keeping the ball rolling, The Daily Reflector is taking this opportunity to announce an eight weeks' subscription drive to open Monday, September 19th.

Five prizes in all will be distributed at the close of the enterprise and these will all be cash. First prize goes to the one securing the highest number of credits by securing both renewals and new subscriptions. This will be $600.00 in cash. The second award will be for $300.00, while the third on the list will be $150.00. Fourth and fifth prizes will be $100.00 and $50.00, respectively.

In addition to the five cash prizes there will be given to all who participate and fail to qualify for one of the five places a cash commission of ten per cent on all subscription money turned in. This commission will be paid on renewals as well as on new subscriptions collected.

Commissions Each Report. Something a little different in the way of commission money will be inaugurated with this campaign. Hereafter candidates have been compelled to wait until the close of the drive to find out if they won a prize or a commission.

Starting with this campaign every candidate may deduct their ten per cent cash commission from each subscription report as made. In this way candidates will be provided with a sort of weekly pay depending on the amount of subscription money turned in. However, this commission money advanced in the case of the five cash prize winners will be considered as advances on the value of their prize. For example: should the winner of the leading prize of $600.00 have $100.00 advanced to them in the form of commissions during the enterprise, then there will be $500.00 due at the close. And so on down the list.

Determining Winners. The five winners will be determined by the number of votes earned by securing paid subscriptions. A schedule of votes has been arranged and this schedule appears in the page advertisement as published in this issue and also appears on the front cover of each subscription book that may be secured free of cost from the campaign department.

The schedule provides for renewals and new subscriptions ranging from six months to three years, nothing over. A six months subscription at $2.50 entitles the candidate securing same to 800 credits, one year at $5.00 to 2,000, two years $10.00—6,000 votes and three years $12.00 receiving 12,000.

Interested ones will notice that a considerable reduction has been made this year in the price of the longer term subscription thus making a splendid selling point for the contestants and a worth-while benefit to the subscriber.

Three prominent business and professional men of Pitt county will be announced as judges later.

Fair Treatment To All. The campaign this year is under the personal direction of H. B. Main who, previous to the last drive three years ago, conducted three similar drives for The Reflector. The many workers who took part in those endeavors will testify to the fair and square treatment accorded. (Continued on Page Six)

BRUINS LOSE TO GIANTS BY 4 TO 3 COUNT

By GAYE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer)

As the Chicago Cubs continue to back in a little closer to the national League flag day by day, gradually winning the thing by default, so to speak, their manager is perfectly satisfied with their conduct and steadfastly refuses to view with alarm.

Charlie Grimm wants it that way. Not that he wouldn't like to win every day. He's in there fighting on every pitched ball, but he isn't in any great hurry to sew up the pennant. He wants his team to remain keyed up as long as possible, doesn't want them to have an extended "let-down" before they meet the Yankees in the World Series.

"I believe it's better for a club to keep on its toes right up to the series," he said. "These Yanks now have nothing to do for a couple of weeks except play out their schedule, and it might be hard for them to get back that keen edge they had while they were winning the flag."

The Little Bears lost to the New York Giants yesterday, 4 to 3, when Freddie Lindstrom hit a home run in the eleventh inning, but it didn't damage their status any to speak of, as the Pittsburgh Pirates were dropping another game to Boston, 5 to 2. The Cubs hit remained five and one-half games in front with eleven games to play, making it possible for them to clinch the title with seven more wins. A triple play, started by Bill Urbanski, enveloped the Braves' victory over Pittsburgh.

Brooklyn climbed within two and one-half games of second place by taking the St. Louis Cardinals again, 3 to 1, behind Van Munko's steady curving. The Phillies subdued Cincinnati, 4 to 1, as big Roy Hasen limited the Reds to four hits.

Some of the Yankee veterans took a well-earned rest, but the "Jayvees" were able to beat the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 2. Walter Brown, making only his second start of the year for the champions, allowed but six hits until the ninth inning. Detroit whaled four Washington pitchers to win an 8 to 3 verdict.

Jimmie Dykes' home run with two out and the bases loaded in the ninth round set off an eight-run rally that saw the Athletics submerge St. Louis, 13 to 6. Mel Harder kept seven hits scattered in pitching Cleveland to a 9 to 0 win over the Red Sox.

GOOD REPORTS FROM STATE'S GRID SQUADS

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Builders of North Carolina's "Big Five" football machines appear to be pleased with the progress being made in the development of their material. There is little of gloom in the reports that come from the various training camps.

From Chapel Hill comes word that the candidates to the end berths are showing marked improvement, with Walker, a veteran, standing out in scrimmage.

The first casualty of the season on the Tar Heel campus, however, was a potential end, George Marsden. Marsden, a sophomore, who starred in freshman track, turned his ankle, and possibly broke it.

At Duke, where Wallace Wade is working on light material, John Brownlee's performances have been attracting attention. A mainstay of the track team last year, Brownlee failed to make the grade as a regular on the football squad because of his inability to get away in running with the ball, but he seems to have overcome his weakness.

In the last few days, he has been making sensational gains through the second team with regularity. Nick Laney, a regular of 1931, also has been a consistent gainer in scrimmage.

Sophomore are giving some of the more seasoned candidates at State something to worry about. John Stanko, Carl Barnhardt, and Jack Fabri, and Barnes Werth, all new chieftains for the varsity, are staging a battle royal against three letter men, Reid Tull, Willie Duke, and Buck Buchanan, for the Wolfpack's two guard posts.

Coach Pat Miller has found a new backfield combination at Wake Forest that clicks, at least in practice, and he indicated he may start this quartet in the opening game. Zeno Wall, soph quarter; Dunc Wilson and Jimmie Epters, veteran halves, and Roy Meyer, soph fullback, make up the outfit. They ripped through a forward wall of reserves with such speed and power that Miller could not conceal his gratification.

Demidson's backfield candidates seemed to have an off-day yesterday. Their performance brought

Announcement! CASH FOR COAL

The coal consumers of Greenville owe the staggering sum of $20,000 to the coal merchants. We cannot continue to sell coal on a credit basis, so we will sell for cash only. Your coal dealers are compelled to pay cash for their coal.

The adoption of this policy has been necessary due to the excessive number of delinquent accounts and the need for ready money to pay freight on coal, which must be paid for cash on delivery.

On and after Sept. 12th all coal will be cash on delivery. In taking this step, we have reduced prices on all standard grades of coal. Start saving now for fuel needs this winter.

Good Health Depends On Mineral Balance

Lee's Mineral Compound With Vitamins Builds Bodily Strength and Vigor by Supplying Needed Minerals and Vitamins

In the light of recent scientific discoveries, leading Physicians and Health authorities agree that the human race could be practically free from most ailments, and could live to a ripe old age if the system could be regularly supplied with a sufficient quantity of the essential Minerals and Vitamins.

DEFICIENCY OF MINERALS

The process of refining modern foods, bleaching of flour, rice, sugar, etc., together with improper cooking takes out of our foods the very things that God intended we should have.

ACIDITY DESTROYS HEALTH

As the Mineral content of the body is reduced, slowly but surely the acid content of the system is increased until it finally reaches the point where the organs of assimilation and elimination cannot perform their natural functions. Our powers of resistance are lowered. Disease germs creep into the blood. The system becomes clogged with impurities. Various aches and pains appear, and before we realize what is taking place, we are on the very verge of a physical breakdown.

MAKE THIS 10 DAY TEST Convince Yourself!

Stop dosing yourself with "patent medicines," harsh purgatives, oils and cathartics for just 10 days. Go to your nearest Druggist and secure a bottle of LEE'S MINERAL COMPOUND. Take it regularly, and watch the results. You'll be amazed at the feeling of renewed strength and vigor that soon appears. No narcotics or alcohol to "boost you up" but a natural method of restoring health and energy.

For Sale by Warren Drug Store, Greenville, and other good dealers everywhere or, send $1.25 to Lee's Laboratories, 147 Forsyth St., S. W., Atlanta, Ga., for large bottle, postage paid.

to McGene McEver, backfield coach, the caustic comment, "dead, dead," and Head Coach Newton expressed similar sentiments.

But, if the first stringers were lacking in dash and speed, the same thing was not true of the second and third string candidates. They ran a series of plays with snap and precision that brought their praise.

BEEES TO HOOK UP WITH PATS AGAIN TONITE

Charlotte, Sept. 15.—(AP)—A battle between strutting Bud Shaney of the Hornets, and Pat Sims of the Patriots, was expected today when the two clubs hook up in the third game of their fiercely fought series for the Piedmont pennant.

Fritz Ostermueller the big Pat southpaw, was in line to hurl for Greensboro, but the drubbing the Hornets gave Ted Kleinbans, another left-hander, in the second game led observers to believe Skipper Freddy Myers would call on a right hand hurler.

The clubs were scheduled to renew their battle last night but rain caused the contest to be postponed. The Hornets will be without one of their ace pitchers for the remainder of the series. Bill Kermode let a curve catch him on the right hand while warming up Chester Martin for the second game at Greensboro and got a bad finger which will keep him from pitching.

Kermode's loss leaves the Hornets with only three hurlers able to work, Jim Lyle, Shaney and Martin.

There is only ONE 5-STAR MOTOR OIL

WINTER FLUIDITY		★	★
LOW CARBON		★	★
LOW CONSUMPTION	★		★
LONG LIFE	★		★

The perfect motor oil must excel in five qualities—ability to keep its body, winter fluidity, low carbon, low consumption, and long life.

The best Paraffinic oils rate well in three of these qualities. They are deficient in two. Naphthenic (Asphaltic) oils rate well in two of these qualities—are deficient in three.

There has been no commercial method—before hydrofining—which could combine the good qualities of these two types of oils.

Essolube, the hydrofined oil, combines these qualities for the first time. It keeps its body under tremendous engine heat and at extremely low temperatures. This means protection for your engine at all temperatures—less wear on your motor and fewer repair bills for worn-out parts—less wear on your battery. It has winter fluidity. This means it flows freely in cold weather and reduces wear on your motor during winter. It has next to no carbon—this means fewer repair bills for carbon cleaning jobs. It gives you low consumption. This means it lubricates longer, reduces bills for worn-out bearings, reduces oil bills. It has long life. This means it doesn't sludge—fewer oil changes, further savings on oil bills.

Essolube—the Esso of motor oils—is on sale at all dealers and stations of the following companies at no extra cost: Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania, Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, Standard Oil Company, Incorporated in Kentucky, Colonial Beacon Oil Company, Inc.

At this time the bride-elect was directed to follow the guidance of "mysterious hands," these hands being cut from yellow cardboard and arranged about the room so that each hand pointed to a concealed gift. Each package when opened proved to be a pretty and useful piece of linen.

A delicious salad course, carrying out the color scheme of green and yellow, was then served by the hostess, assisted by her sisters, Miss Florence Overton and Mrs. R. A. Fountain Jr., of Fountain.

The choir of the Washington Presbyterian Church has been invited to be present, and have charge of the music on the opening night. It is a fine choir and will render some special music. Brooks Returns To Ky. School

Nathan Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Brooks, left yesterday for Louisville, Ky., to continue his studies for the ministry at the Baptist Theological Seminary.

The young ministerial student filled the pulpit at Memorial Baptist Church during the summer months in the absence of the pastor, Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, who will return to the congregation during the first of October.

Mr. Brooks made a very favorable impression among the numbers of people who heard him speak from Sunday to Sunday during his vacation here, and was highly commended for the splendid organization of subject matter and style of presentation.

He will return to Greenville next summer and will probably enter Harvard the next year to complete his studies in theology.

Nothing Venture

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH

SYNOPSIS: Nan hotly insists that the broken bridge that nearly cost her own and her husband's life was weakened by the murderous Robert Leonard, whom she saw skulking about the estate. Jervis is stiff-necked, and will not believe her. Rosamund Carew, Jervis' treacherous former fiancée, calls with Janet Tetterley and they maliciously force Nan to tell that her father was Nigel Forsyth, famous explorer, who died in 1919 at Bagdad.

Chapter 22
ALMOST AN APOLOGY
 The evening was very hot. Monk brought them iced coffee in the library. It was still broad daylight, the terrace and the long slope to the ravine in full sun and the shadows on the lawn dead and still.

Jervis went out on the terrace, and Nan picked up a book. As long as Monk was in the room they had talked quite easily and pleasantly; when Monk was gone there seemed to be nothing to say—or too much. It was a relief to go through the pages of a book into another world. She had read no more than half a chapter, when she heard Jervis come back.

He rang to have the coffee taken away, and stood by the window smoking a cigarette until the door had closed over to where Nan sat by a window facing the shadowed lawn. He stood looking down upon her.

"Rather unwise of you to commit yourself like that to Tetterley," Nan looked up. If she was startled, she did not show it. Her eyes had the wide, steady gaze which roused something in him. Angler? He took it to be anger.

"Dashing of course—but a bit unwise, don't you think?"
 "I don't know at all what you mean," said Nan.
 "Really?"
 "Really?"
 "I'm afraid you've a bad memory. It was quite amusing to see you call Tetterley's bluff, but I think you'd better have held your tongue. You see, she's only got to look up an old Who's Who to score off you rather badly. And as it happens, Basher is the sort of fellow who would be sure to have cartloads of old encyclopedias and Who's Whos knocking about the place."

"I don't know what you mean."
 He sat down on the arm of a big chair and leaned towards her.
 "Oh, I think you do. Janet's as inquisitive as they're made. She'll go home, and she and Basher will look up the appropriate volume—I forget what year Nigel Forsyth died?"

"Nineteen-nineteen," said Nan.
 "Oh, you've looked it up?"
 "You didn't finish what you were saying."
 "Need I?"
 "Please."
 He laughed, got up, crossed the room, bent to one of the lowest shelves, and came back with a red book in his hand.

"All right—you've asked for it. Here we are! My grandfather was a bit of a collector too. Here we have Who's Who for 1918."
 He flicked over the leaves. "Here goes!—Forsyth, Nigel Darnaway. Third son of Alistair Darnaway Forsyth, of Ridgefield, Conn. Born 1875. Educated Princeton, Oxford."
 "Why are you reading all that?" said Nan.
 "You mean that it isn't news to you—you've been there already?"
 Nan had turned pale. She said: "I would be likely to know."
 He laughed.
 "Meaning that it was premeditated, and you naturally got up the documentary evidence! But now we come to the important part—Married 1908 Constance Lavington."
 "Yes," said Nan—"my mother."
 "It won't do," he said. "You were a little fool to think you could pull it off."
 Nan stood up.
 "You don't believe me?"
 He smiled.
 "Why don't you believe me?"
 He laughed.

"Let's drop it! But if I were you, I should leave the ancestry vague. Nigel Forsyth is just a bit too well known."
 "Nigel Forsyth was my father, and Constance Lavington was my mother."

Democrats of the county at the courthouse tonight. He will be given a cordial welcome to the city as always. His work in the last session of Congress was so conspicuous that he won recognition from some of the ablest statesmen of the nation.

The future of the Congressman from this district is brighter than it has been for years, and that he will receive the support of the people of this part of the state when he runs for re-election is not to be questioned.

er. My father's people were furious about the marriage because my mother was six months old, and my father never forgave his father for the things he had said about her.

"He went out to Mespotamia, leaving us with a sort of aunt. Her name was Mrs. Whipple—she was my mother's half-sister and the widow of a Major Whipple of the regular army. My father only came home once after the war. He died at Bagdad in nineteen-nineteen. There was only a very little money. Mrs. Whipple—" She hesitated. "I can't be fair to her, because she made Cynthia very unhappy. I think she tried to do her duty. She was not fond of children. She wasn't fond of us, and she didn't understand Cynthia. That's why I went to Colano's as a dancing partner—I simply had to get Cynthia away."

The ash from Jervis' cigarette fell and powdered the carpet. He had been looking at her hard. His expression changed suddenly.
 "You mean it's true?"
 "It's quite easy for me to prove that it's true. I have my father's letters—I can show the motto you."
 His face changed again. The momentary embarrassment passed. He looked like a triumphant school-boy.

"I've fallen on my feet. I congratulate myself—you're too angry to do it for me of course—but I'm about to apologize."
 She took a step away from him.
 "Why didn't you believe me?"
 He didn't answer the question.
 "You've seen Rosamund. Probably you know her as well as I. I didn't love her. But I did think we might make a go of it. And when she let me down it was a colossal crash. I'm taking no more chances—I'll bet your pardon when I see those letters."
 "You're going to make me pay Rosamund's debt?"
 "Probably," returned Jervis.
 Nan flared up.
 "But suppose I won't pay?" she demanded hotly.

A strange misunderstanding, tomorrow, brings about an unexpected union.

OTHER WOMAN FOUND DEAD

 had lived, said there was no doubt the body was that of Miss Millette, once known as "Mrs. Paul Bern."
 Barlick said she apparently jumped to her death from a river steamer early in the morning of September 7, less than 48 hours after Bern shot himself in the Beverly Hills home he had given as a wedding gift to his bride of two months, the blonde Jean Harlow of the films. Miss Millette checked out of the San Francisco hotel September 6, the day after Bern's body was found, and took a steamer bound for Sacramento.

The body was discovered floating in the slough by two Japanese fishermen only a few hours after the film executive's will was produced in Los Angeles by his secretary, Irene Harrison.

No mention was made in the will of Miss Millette, though his relatives said Bern had contributed to her support for several years. The entire estate was bequeathed to Miss Harlow who was named sole executrix.

Authorities said the will, dated July 29, 1932, a few weeks after Bern's marriage to the actress, supplanted what they described as two "wills of a sort" found in the film producer's bank safety deposit box. The latter documents each provided an annuity of $2,500 for Miss Millette.

Mrs. Friederike Marcus, Bern's sister, said in Los Angeles her brother and Miss Millette met in Toronto, Canada, when they were both on the stage. They became sweethearts.

Miss Millette, Mrs. Marcus said, became mentally deranged and confined for a time in a sanitarium. Bern continued to provide for her.

After she was released and he had gone into the motion picture field he still sent her monthly sums of approximately $350.

Last spring Miss Millette moved from New York to San Francisco and lived quietly at a hotel there.

In reconstructing the story of her death, authorities presumed that upon learning the film executive had committed suicide, Miss Millette decided to follow him in death.

DEMOCRATS TO ORGANIZE

 sented, enumerate the record of the party and set forth some of the objectives of the Presidential campaign.

This is the second visit of the Congressman to Greenville in the last two weeks, and his coming was looked forward to with general interest by his admirers.

Young Democrats played an important part in crystallizing sentiment in the last national campaign, and they were expected to assist in carrying the doctrine of their party into every section of the county when the campaign is formally launched in this State.

Party leaders have predicted that chances for success are brighter than in many years, and the campaign is expected to be intensive in all parts of the State as an effort is made to oust one of the largest votes in history.

In view of the fact that women are taking an active part in the political life of the nation, quite a number will attend the gathering tonight and lend their influence to the work of perfecting the organization.

In making announcement of the coming of Congressman Warren yesterday, J. Con Lanier, former mayor of Greenville, urged the public to attend and listen to the Congressman as he delivers the opening message of young party members.

HOOVER AGAIN SCORES BONUS

 word statement to the press which he said was "due to the country and to the veterans." It was directed at the American Legion Convention in Portland, Oregon, and was issued after the convention legislative committee had recommended adoption of a resolution favoring full and immediate payment of adjusted service certificates.

"The welfare of the nation as a whole must take precedence over the demands of any particular group," the President said.

"I have the duty not alone to see that justice and a sympathetic attitude is taken by this nation toward the 4,000,000 veterans and their families, but also to exert myself for justice to the other 21,000,000 families to whom consummation of this proposal at this time would be a calamity."

Cash payment of face value of certificates today would require an appropriation from the Treasury of about $2,300,000,000. No matter how or in what form the payment to the veterans is imposed it will come out of all these families, but of more importance, it will indefinitely set back any hope of recovery for employment, agriculture and business and will impose indefinite distress upon the whole country.

"I know the courage, the sacrifice of our soldiers. But there are millions of others in the same circumstances. . . . Their employment and their farm recovery, as well as that of the veterans, can be secured only by the restoration of the normal economic life of the nation. . . . Anything that stands in the way must be opposed."

ABOUT TOWN

Stock market bulls have developed a certain weakness that is causing pandemonium among small buyers who, buoyed by the upward trend of the market sometime ago, thought they would hop in and obtain some "easy money."

The boys who run the market probably have decided they have made enough and will let things slump again.

This condition is mighty bad on Hoover's prospects of regaining his seat in the White House and goes to show that the confidence he put in his moneyed friends is not getting the results expected.

The different relief organizations of the county should heed the appeal of K. T. Futrell, director of the Department of Welfare, that they fill out the questionnaires recently sent out by the State Relief Department, and return them at once.

The questionnaires are sent out for the purpose of determining the needs of the various communities of the nation, and funds from the Reconstruction Corporation will not become available until reports have been received.

The amount of money available to each community will be determined by the information contained in these reports, and it is hoped the various civic and relief organizations will do all in their power to provide the required information as quickly as possible.

The farmers of the nation have not been getting a square deal from the last two administrations, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for the presidency, told growers of Kansas in his campaign address yesterday.

Outlining a six-point program for relief of the growers, Mr. Roosevelt held out the hope that tariff equal to that of industrial products would be provided the growers so that they would be protected just like the manufacturers of the nation.

This is one of the best suggestions so far advanced for the economic relief of the nation. The fact is, farmers have been at the mercy of the moneyed powers ever since the dawn of history and they cannot hope for relief until they have been given some kind of protection.

Roosevelt is nearer a solution to ills of the farm than any man advanced so far, and if he is given a chance to run the government he should be able to show the nation he is capable of carrying out some of his proposals.

The people are really concerned over the inability of the Republicans to produce better times on the verge of the presidential election.

If the party is unable to pull a little business-trick when they stand on the verge of defeat they can't be expected to do it at a later date, and especially if they should win.

The Democrats have gained one of the strongest talking points of years in this time of economic depression, and if something isn't done by the Republicans to inject life into industry their fate is sealed and ready for delivery in the next battle of ballots.

It is easy to talk about prosperity being "around a corner" but bringing it into plain view of the millions of people who have been suffering from the effects of depression is another thing. The Republicans, and especially the President, have done lots of prosperity ballyhooing in recent years, and while they have shown a disinclination to talk it this year, they are trying, however, to induce the people to believe that efforts now under way will effect a change.

It is a poor attempt to snare votes in the forthcoming election, and while some may fall others will not be fooled by propaganda which years ago caused them to vote wrongly and repent it.

Congressman Lindsay Warren of Washington, will address young

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies . . . the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"
 That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.
 Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to 5 higher on steady Liverpool cables being offset by southern selling.

There was some further local and commission house selling but initial offerings were absorbed by trade buying and covering. There was also some buying here through houses with Liverpool connections.

Southern selling seemed, rather less active than anticipated, and after some little irregularity, December advanced from 7.29 to 7.40 with the general list showing net gains of 6 to 7 points.

A belief that rains in the eastern belt might check the movement was probably a contributing factor on the advance but offerings increased after publication of the weather map showing that the heavy precipitation was chiefly along the coast, and the market eased back within a point or two or yesterday's close by the end of the first half hour.

Grain Market

Chicago, Sept. 15.—(AP)—With Europe a tremendous purchaser of Canadian wheat and with some United States wheat also taken, wheat prices showed strength today in the later dealings.

It was estimated that as high as 10,000,000 bushels of North American wheat had been brought so far this week for overseas. Readjustment of the price trend spread between Chicago and Liverpool has been underway, and the difference now was the widest seen in weeks.

Stock Market

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

(Associated Press Financial Editor) New York, Sept. 15.—(AP)—The stock market again attempted to regain its balance today, and managed to recover moderately, although prices fluctuated rather nervously.

The severe jolt late in yesterday's session appeared to have taken the market by surprise, and many traders were obviously anxious to await further testing of the recent support levels before re-entering the market. The market sold off moderately in the first hour, recovered to show advances of 1 to 4 points in the second and third hours, but slid back somewhat in the fourth hour.

Union Pacific, after going up 4 points, lost most of its gain.

Union Pacific, after going up 4 points, lost most of its rise in the early afternoon. Gains of 1 1/2 in U. S. Steel and 2 points in American Telephone were about lost, and there were general recessions of a point or so from the best levels reached on the rally. Stocks setting up 2 to 3 points had included New York Central, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Case, International Harvester, Consolidated Gas, North American, American Water Works, Allied Chemical, Dupont, American Can, Eastman, United Aircraft, and Johns Manville.

While signs of autumn improvement in business continued to appear in corporate and trade news, the fact that the best levels of autumn business should be reached within the next month or two has resulted in an inclination to wait and see how far the betterment goes. Freight car loadings for the week-end last Saturday, to be reported at the end of this week, on the basis of individual reports now available, will reflect the Labor Day holiday with a substantial reduction from the previous week, but may make fully as good a comparison with last year.

New York Central loadings in the week ended September 10 were off 27.6 per cent from last year, which was a little better comparison than the reduction of 28.4 per cent from 1931, shown in the week ended September 3. Sears-Roebuck reported sales for the four-week period ended September 10 at a dollar volume 21.6 per cent under last year, while for the whole period of January 2 to September 10, the recession from 1931 was 21.6 per cent.

Former Mayor Dead —(AP)—J. L. Clements, 61, former mayor and a veteran Southern Railroad agent here, died at his home early today following an attack of acute indigestion. His widow and three children survive.

TROPICAL STORM STRIKES FLORIDA; LITTLE DAMAGE (Continued from Page One) ported. Carrabelle, to the eastward of Appalachicola also had high tides. The wind backed up the flow of New River, flooding some sections around the town without serious damage. Other Gulf coast communities reported somewhat similar conditions. Heavy rains over much of this section since Monday ceased today and there was a zip of fall in the air.

Telephone and telegraph systems reported their services restored with few exceptions. Telegraph communications between Tallahassee and Appalachicola is still out, but was expected to be resumed shortly.

Appalachicola, Fla., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Wind and rain lashed sections of North Carolina and South Georgia today as the Weather Bureau reported a tropical disturbance out of the Gulf of Mexico as curving inland on a northward course. Official observers reported wind velocities up to thirty-five miles an hour as the center of the storm drove overland near Appalachicola late yesterday and an Appalachicola and Northern Railroad train ran into a washout leaving only the engine on the track. There were no casualties.

The Weather Bureau reported 16.56 inches of rain during the past 36 hours last night and water was standing in a few of the residences in the lower sections of the city.

HOOVER SEEKS HELP FOR DESTITUTE DURING WINTER (Continued from Page One) platform were rows of temporary seats, forming an impromptu amphitheater in which sat relief and welfare workers gathered from all parts of the country at the President's behest. They composed the National Citizens' Committee sponsoring welfare and relief mobilization.

Both Mr. Hoover and Baker were applauded as they walked with Mr. Hoover and Mrs. Baker down the gravel path from the Executive offices to the speaking platform. Both drew applause from the former introduced the Chief Executive.

Mr. Hoover's urging that none should go hungry or unsheltered was made by him as the first item of a four-point program. The others were that benevolent relief agencies be "maintained in full strength"; that the "bed-rock principles of our liberties" be sustained by full mobilization of individual and local resources; and that "we maintain the spiritual impulses in our people for generous giving and generous service."

After considerable applause at the conclusion of the President's and Baker's addresses, the meeting was adjourned until afternoon. Mrs. Hoover accompanied the Chief Executive back to his office, but later returned to talk with some of the delegates who remained in conversational groups on the south lawn. No further formal meetings were scheduled until a luncheon gathering at the Mayflower Hotel.

SCORES KILLED AS TRAIN PLUNGES INTO A RAVINE (Continued from Page One) area. General Paul Rollet, inspector of the Foreign Legion, who is directing the rescue work at the scene of the wreck was almost in tears today over the loss of so many of his dashing Legionnaires. "I had 508 brave men on that train," he said, his voice breaking with grief, "and how many will answer roll call now?"

Doctors with syringes in their hands went here and there among the injured still in agony under the mass of wreckage, giving injections to ease the pain. The uninjured soldiers meanwhile, strove with all the might to clear away the debris and free their suffering comrades.

STATE DEFICIT OVER MILLION

(Continued from Page One) WATER SHORT IN TAR RIVER which in turn included $3,747,724 in materials and accruals. During the past fiscal year the state retired $4,600,000 in obligations and put $767,320 in its sinking fund.

Siedman's report showed that general fund expenditures last fiscal year were $26,876,310, compared with receipts of $22,550,900 and that highway expenditures were $26,125,847 compared with receipts of $22,415,345. Due to increased school funds, the 1931-32 general fund expenditures were more than $9,000,000 above the 1930-31 figure of $17,607,664.

Total state expenditures in 1929-30 were $43,505,609 and the balance carried forward to open the year plus receipts aggregated $47,299,772. In 1930-31 expenditures were $48,366,723 and receipts and balance $49,461,514.

During the three-year period the state paid more than $11,500,000 on bond retirements and put more than $2,500,000 in its sinking fund.

DR. SPILLMAN TO SPEAK HERE (Continued from Page One) Carolina, who will address a gathering at the courthouse at 8 o'clock in connection with observance of Constitution Week. He will use "American Citizenship" as his subject.

Announcement of the coming of Dr. Spillman was greeted with interest by club members. He is considered one of the ablest speakers of the Southern Baptist Convention, and in addition, is a humorist of considerable note. Dr. Spillman has spoken in Greenville a number of times in recent years, and will be remembered favorably by members of the Baptist denomination as well as the citizenship generally.

Constitution Week is being sponsored by the State Bar Association with the idea of more fully acquainting the citizenship with provisions of the Constitution and arousing more interest in its relation to the general welfare of the public.

CIRCUS PLAYS TO BIG CROWDS (Continued from Page One) making of a circus. The equestrian stunts of a troupe of Japanese actors were probably the outstanding features of the entertainment, although several acrobatic numbers came in for considerable applause.

One of the Japanese actors, lying on his back, scored a distinct success by holding a ladder on his feet while a woman performer did stunts at the top. Although there were many other features testing equilibrium of the performers, it is possible this act came in for the most pronounced applause.

There were the usual number of trapeze, wire-walking, elephant, dog and horse performances, and the wire-walkers especially were far above the average. A young woman narrowly escaped serious injury when she fell at the end of a daring slide down a rope suspended from near the top of the tent. After walking up the rope she attempted to slide down at terrific speed. Near the end, she lost her balance and plunged to the ground. Although not seriously injured, she was badly jarred and shocked from the fall.

This was the second visit of the circus to the city during the last two years, and the management expressed gratification at the interest as expressed in the attendance.

ROOSEVELT ON WAY TO WEST (Continued from Page One) sas Free Fair with his running mate, Speaker John N. Garner, who announced he had come "to show you that I wear neither horns nor hoofs though I came from Texas," and with Harry H. Woodring, the Democratic governor of Kansas. Governor Roosevelt then wound up the day with a series of conferences with party leaders from Missouri, Iowa, Oklahoma, Texas, Nebraska, and Kansas. There was an almost continuous parade of them through the late afternoon and evening in and out of Governor Woodring's home, where they met their candidates for President and Vice-President.

Last night the governor of New York and the Speaker of the United States House of Representatives parted company. Garner continuing his journey to St. Louis and Roosevelt heading toward Denver where, after stops at Colby and Goodland, in Northwest Kansas, he was to arrive at 2 p. m. (Mountain Standard Time).

A warm and lively Middle Western greeting was given Governor Roosevelt and Speaker Garner as they appeared on the sun-swept south steps of the capitol of Topeka yesterday. There were shouts and applause and whistles. In the crowd was one elderly man who wore, with a conventionally tailored grey business suit of expensive material, a huge cowboy hat. As Roosevelt appeared, he threw the hat high into the air. It was returned to him later, trampled and dusty.

COLLEGE FIRE DOES DAMAGE

(Continued from Page One) floor, went up an air shaft and spread over the second floor where many valuable books were on reference shelves. College authorities said the damage to the building itself would be light compared to the loss of the books. It was not known immediately how many volumes were stored on the second floor but on the first floor, where the water was six inches deep after firemen had the blaze under control, there were 75,000 books.

An aviator flying over the section around 3:30 a. m. today discovered the fire and reported it. His name was not immediately known. The fire was confined to the second floor by a slate roof which kept it from breaking through. Firemen believed water did more damage than the flames.

College officials later began a check of the damage and said they believed less books were ruined than was at first believed. However, they still refrained from estimating the damage to building or books.

The library was built in 1907 and remodeled several years ago. The roof and the inside part of the walls were badly burned by the fire.

WATER SHORT IN TAR RIVER (Continued from Page One) "August stream flow in the Tar River basin," Ray said, "fell below previously established low flows and through the early part of September progressively has become more critical. The future conditions are entirely dependent on extent and distribution of rainfall, but unless we have better than September's usual offering, we will experience before September ends phenomenally low flows in this area.

"In terms of available water in stream, spring and well, the situation appears to be of serious proportions. These conditions are in line with those described as likely in the forecast released August 21. "August stream flow approximates 80 per cent below normal in spite of the fact that rainfall was only 18 per cent below. Cumulative stream flow is 47 per cent deficient beginning with January.

"With poorly distributed rainfall less than normal, the following conditions are expected to obtain: Rivers and larger creeks will shrink to unbelievably small flows; the flow of smaller creeks and branches will continue to dwindle and many will vanish; springs will decrease in boldness and many will dry up; and the water table as reflected by the level in wells will continue to fall and many wells will fail. With rainfall markedly deficient and poorly timed, progressively worse conditions are expected to hold until sometime in October when the moisture demand of vegetation are expected to slacken.

"These forecasts are based on flow records from gaging stations on the Tar River near Nashville and at Tarboro; on Fishing Creek near Endfield; and from special drought measurements by engineering parties.

WOMAN WINS COURT ACTION

(Continued from Page One) noon. Considerably more evidence remained to be offered when court resumed consideration this morning. The lodge contends that Gray was not in good standing at the time of death by reason of his failure to pay his regular assessments.

The widow stated she had given the assessment to the secretary and that he had failed to give proper credit. Considerable evidence was being offered on both sides, and argument was not expected to go under way before the late morning or early afternoon.

The calendar contains around forty cases, and although two or three long issues have consumed considerable time, it was believed the bulk of cases would be completed before adjournment of the one week session.
