FARM NOTES

(By E. F. Arnold, County Agent)

Swine Last week J. H. Boyd sold sixteen 200-pound registered Duroc-Jersey gilts to farmers in Northampton county. Well-bred gilts can be purchased at this time for about the same price that 200-pound grade hogs sold for two or three years ago, and as I see it, now is the time for farmers to sow their farms with pure-bred hogs because they are sure to increase in price for the next three to five years.

J. E. Winslow's farms in Pitt county are alive with hogs. I vaccinated recently more than one thousand hogs weighing from 15 to 300 pounds. I find that every ten on these farms has from 15 to 35 or 40 hogs.

The vaccinating campaign is now on and will be closed within the next 20 or 30 days. Farmers who desire to have hogs vaccinated should list same in this office immediately.

Farm Meetings. The county agent is planning to hold a series of farm community meetings within the next thirty days for the purpose of setting up a farm program in Pitt county for 1932-33. The first meeting will be held at Fountain high school Tuesday night, Sept. 27 at 8 o'clock. John T. Thorne and J. C. Galloway, two of our leading farmers, will be on the program. One of the main features to be taken up at these meetings will be the seeding of fall grains and pastures, he also had hay shortage in Pitt county is such that it is necessary that farmers sow more small grain this year than ever before.

Junior Woman's Club Meets. The regular meeting of the Junior Woman's Club was held at the Woman's Club building Friday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. W. F. Young. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. J. B. Dunn and Mrs. George Wallingford.

The regular order of business was followed. Miss Sue Barrett, member of the dance committee, reported a sum of $13.95 profit on a dance the club sponsored. The club voted to sponsor "Once in a Blue Moon" by Paul Green, one of the Carolina Playmakers plays.

The program committee with Mrs. C. W. Porter, chairman, submitted the program for 1932-1933, and was accepted.

Mrs. Norman Winslow was put on a committee to confer with the senior club to extend the time on dances held around at the club building.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Wallingford and Mrs. Dunn. —Reported.

Several Injured In Accident On French Submarine

Cherbourg, France, Sept. 26.—(AP)—The French submarine Persee, today sent out a call for assistance after an explosion in the battery room. She was taken in tow later, and was enroute to this port this afternoon escorted by a number of naval and salvage vessels.

The first message for aid was sent out by Commandant Bertrand while the vessel was between Guernsey and the French coast. Details of the accident were not immediately available.

Wage Increases Urged by Labor Federation Body

Washington, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Wage increases were urged today by the American Federation of Labor to "build up buying power and keep business rising."

In its monthly survey of business, the Federation said: "Confidence is spreading, but we can not expect convalescence to develop into a cure until consumer buying picks up.... Increasing wage cuts have recently speeded the decline in workers' income. The time has come to reverse this trend."

"Our object from now on should be to raise wages not reduce them. A movement for wage increases would at once carry industry forward...."

"Hours must be shortened as well, but if shortened hours mean just another income cut, this move will not be fully constructive. The change is coming slowly," and added that while the unemployment rise was stopped in August, "11,400,000 are still out of work."

It cited indications of business gains in textiles, shoes, clothing, steel, automobiles, coal car-loadings and commodity prices.

National Balloon Race Under Way In Switzerland

Basle, Switzerland, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Headquarters of the Gordon Benhere yesterday when sixteen balloons, including two from the United States, were released, received a telegram today saying the U. S. Navy bag passed over Litomyse, Czechoslovakia, at 6:05 a. m.

Weather reports from various parts of Europe where the balloons might have drifted said conditions were good.

The sixteen balloons were released here late yesterday and a strong north wind carried them away from the Alps, some of them heading north over Belgium.

The "Goodbye 8," piloted by F. T. Vann Orman, who is seeking his third successive victory in the contest, was near the last to take off. Just before him the U. S. Navy bag, which won the American national race last year, floated away, piloted by Lieutenant E. G. W. Settle and Wilfred Bushnell. R. J. Blar accompanied Van Orman.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning 'Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine. For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

ABOUT TOWN

It must be disconcerting to the weather man and the engineer of the Conservat on department in charge of reporting on river conditions to miss the mark so many times.

Twice last week the weather man predicted rain that never came. Twice this season the engineer predicted Tar river would be so low as to offer a menace to the water supply of the towns depending upon the stream for support.

Tar river, it is true, was low at one time but not to such an extent as to cause any grave concern. It is nearer normal at this time than any time of the season, and if there is any indication of a shortage, it isn't apparent.

The weather man is noted for making mistakes, but when he and the river man too, begin missing the mark, it causes deep concern on the part of the people who believe in their infallibility.

It is presumed that when the weather man predicts rain we may expect dry weather and when he forecasts dry weather we may look for rain. The same probably applies to the river engineer; at least that's the way it seems at this time.

Commendable indeed is the movement of the Red Cross looking to the clothing of improperly clad school children of the poor during the cold winter months.

This is a condition that should have been provided for more adequately in recent years, but since the Red Cross has gone into action a decided improvement may be expected in the near future.

Thousands of yards of cloth has been sent to the local organization by the national body and with the assistance of Home Demonstration Clubs, Parent-Teacher Associations and Home Economic departments of county schools, the organization hopes to make the cloth into garments to meet every need of the winter.

Through another plan not yet developed, the Red Cross is planning to provide schools for the children in addition to proper clothing. Whatever the plan may be the public should support it, realizing it is a tremendous stroke in behalf of humankind.

Scores of children are forced to remain out of school in the winter because they do not have sufficient clothing to keep their tiny bodies warm, and the movement of the Red Cross promises to aid materially in improving the general educational situation throughout the county.

The football season took hold of the nation last week and from now on until the beginning of the holiday season tired business men and other enthusiasts will sit by the radio and listen to the returns from the fields of battle. Others will visit newspaper offices to get the last word on the games, and still others will wait for the morning papers to get full details and see who were the stars.

Not so many years ago baseball was the national sport, but it has been largely superseded by football and gate receipts in one game of football would be as much received in several games of baseball, league ball at that.

It is strange the way conditions change, but it is one of the prices of progress, the aspiring of the human heart to reach greater heights of achievement, whether in sports or what not.

Postponement of taxes extend until October 1st, and after that time both city and county will put forth best efforts to obtain payment from delinquents.

The governing boards of the various counties of the state have been very liberal in recent months because of the unusual economic situation, but they have been lenient as long as they can and must collect to enable the governments to meet expenses.

Nothing Venture

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH

SYNOPSIS: Nan, her husband, Jervis Wear, and Ferdinand Francis, their guest, are saved almost miraculously from death beneath their car, which overturns because of a mysteriously loosened wheel. Two days before Nan and Jervis nearly fell to death through a weakened bridge. Robert Leonard is hovering near, yet Jervis sees nothing strange although Ferdinand describes a chemical to rot wood about which Leonard could have known.

Chapter 31

DAMAGING PROOF

Jervis turned to Francis: "So Leonard put your friend Eischthal's stuff to weaken wood on the bridge, and then—did you happen to think out how he was going to arrange that it was Nan and I could cross the bridge at the psychological moment?"

"It didn't require much arranging. You brought Nan down here on a pouring wet evening. It was a certainty that you weren't going to wander round and show her the sights in the rain. It was certain that as soon as it stopped you'd show her around, and one of the first things you'd show her would be the waterfall.

"And what does everyone do when they're being shown the fall? Don't they stand in the middle of that bridge and look down into the pool? Robert Leonard knew that just as well as I know it, and he'd only got to slip over to the bridge any time in the night to arrange things so that the next person who walked over the bridge would give an exhibition of high diving."

"You only want that convenient witness of yours! Can't you produce him? He ought to have seen Leonard at the fatal spot."

"I did see him," said Nan. "I told you I did."

Jervis laughed. "Oh, yes—I forgot—and saw him! The case is complete! She looked out of her window in the middle of the night, and saw him by a flash of lightning! He must have been the best part of a couple of hundred yards away—but what is that to the eye of faith? We couldn't have an accident without Leonard, so somebody's bound to have seen him hanging around!"

"Come on, F. F.! It's going to be a job to saddle him with the wheel coming off my car, but I suppose you're going to try."

He tilted his black head and looked at them both. Hisrown was gone. His look had a surface brilliance of amusement, but under it Nan, at last, was aware of something fiercely challenging.

"Come on, F. F.! It's going to be a job to saddle him with the wheel coming off my car, but I suppose you're going to try."

He tilted his black head and looked at them both. Hisrown was gone. His look had a surface brilliance of amusement, but under it Nan, at last, was aware of something fiercely challenging.

"Well," he said, "if Robert wanted to tamper with your car, you made it easy for him."

"Attaboy!" murmured Jervis. "Well, didn't you? After you'd put us down at the front door you ran way back into the shade. I located the place after I'd cleaned up. Your oil had dripped some. There you were, half way down to the garage with that left front wheel in a lot of bushes.

"And where was Robert till about the middle of lunch? Messing about with his car in the garage, wasn't he? And what was to prevent him stepping into the bushes on his way up to the house and operating on that wheel of yours with a wrench? He was going to be late for lunch anyhow, so he wouldn't be in a hurry. As a matter of fact, he wasn't in a hurry."

"Go on F. F., you're doing it awfully well."

"I am going on. I'm going to tell you how I know he wasn't in a hurry. I stepped down to the garage and I had a look at his car. There probably not any better off now than they were the first of September, but they should not let this prevent them from attempting to pay taxes."

Collection of taxes is the only way governments have to pay their expenses and if everybody doesn't pay budgets will fall behind and the communities will find themselves in an uncomfortable position.

Civic pride alone should inspire people to do their best to settle their taxes and enable their government to live up to the responsibility resting upon them.

Ayden is going to have a Hoover Car parade as one of the highlights of the political rally to be staged there October 8th, we are told. In striking contrast to the Hoover parade, Greenville Democrats are planning a property parade to be held here during a Democratic rally at a later date.

Both towns will get much attention from the effort to boost the cause of the Democratic party. The Hoover parade will emphasize the poverty which Republican prosperity promises have brought to this part of the country and the property parade will give people some idea of what they may expect if the Democrats gain control of government.

Democrats are doing everything in their power to impress upon the people the necessity of voting the straight ticket in the forthcoming election and if that is done the Republicans will be swept out of the White House with greater vigor than they went in on that landslide only four years ago.

were a couple of chauffeurs there, and we got chatty—conversation flowed. I wanted to find out just how much time Robert had really wasted over his old wreck. He didn't waste so very much. He left that garage at one-fifteen precisely. The second chauffeur happened to notice the time, because he'd got a date with a girl—at least that's what I gathered from the way he looked when the other one chaffed him about being so sure of the time. So you see Robert didn't hurry."

"Well played!" said Jervis. "That's a very good effort, but I'm afraid it's not quite good enough. If Leonard had been up to any monkey business with the wheel, the last thing he'd do would be to ask for a lift in a car that might go to glory at any moment."

"Say first instead of last, and I'm with you."

Jervis gave a short laugh. "So he's suicidal as well as homicidal?"

"Ferdinand sat back in his chair. "We've got to take some risks in this world," he replied. "Isn't it obvious he'd have left the wheel so that it would have run you well away from the tetterleys? And if he'd been in such a hurry as he said to reach those incubators would he have stood mopping his face and watching us out of sight when we put him down?"

"Hum! And F. F., can you give one single reason why Leonard should want to kill me?"

Ferdinand glanced quickly at Nan, but she was looking down into her lap. Jervis went on: "It's not up to me to unravel your mystery. But I might say that if I had been killed this afternoon Leonard would not have profited one cent."

"Who would?" asked Ferdinand. "You, if you'd been a survivor. Are you carrying a wrench today? Because you're down for $10,000 in my will, and there's about as much evidence against you as against Leonard. You were present the day I almost drowned; you knew the chemist; you were in New York when the taxi ran me down—"

Francis laughed, and held up his hand. "Is there anybody who might inherit your property when you could not cut out of your will?"

"Rosamund Carew."

"And whom is Leonard with almost constantly the last few weeks?"

"Rosamund, but—"

F. F. shrugged. "There you are, Jervis."

VANDERBILT TO BATTLE AT CHAPEL HILL

Charlotte, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Vanderbilt's big team comes to Chapel Hill to meet North Carolina in what is easily the standout game for Tar Heel gridiron fans this week.

The game, carded for Saturday in Kenan Stadium, besides launching North Carolina's Southern Conference campaign, will furnish an answer to the question Wake Forest raised by holding the Tar Heels to a scoreless draw Saturday.

That question is, were the doctors who picked the Tar Heels to win early overrating them or under rating the Deacons.

If the Chapel Hill team performs creditably against the powerful Commodore, an upward revision of estimates of Wake Forest will be in order.

Only one other game involving a Big Five team will be played within the state, Davidson meeting Washington and Lee at Davidson.

Duke Plays V. M. I. at Lexington, Va., and N. C. State engages Richmond at Richmond, Va. Wake Forest has an open date and does not get into action again until October 8 when the Deacons meet South Carolina at Charlotte.

Despite their 13-0 defeat by Duke the Wildcats will go into the fray with the Generals accorded at least an even chance to win. Washington and Lee was bowled over Saturday by George Washington 18-0. The Wildcats won last year.

Duke will be a heavy favorite at Lexington. The once mighty flying cadets who lost to the Blue Devils last fall, were beaten by Kentucky 23-0 Saturday.

N. C. State displayed impressive power in whipping Appalachian 35-0 and the Wolfpack's supporters will expect it to take the Richmond Spiders without any difficulty.

Three games by North Carolina conference teams round out Saturday's home state program. Guilford meets Randolph-Macon at Greensboro, Catawba takes on Newberry at Salisbury and Appalachian plays Greenville at Boone. The Quakers lost to the Langley Field, Va., eleven Saturday 14-0.

Two other North State Conference teams journey out of the state, Elon goes to Salem, Va., to meet Roanoke and High Point to Spartanburg, S. C., to play Wofford.

High Point was idle Saturday while Elon lost to Emory and Henry 14-0.

Duke's victory over Davidson put the Blue Devils out in front in the state title chase with Wake Forest and North Carolina tied for second place. N. C. State does not begin its Big Five campaign until October 15 when it opens with Wake Forest.

Schmeling 3 to 1 Favorite Against Mickey Walker

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—To the betting fraternity, Max Schmeling is a 3 to 1 shot to whip little Mickey Walker in their 15-round heavyweight match in Madison Square Garden bowl tonight but Mr. John H. Fan seems to have another idea.

Otherwise there's no explaining the heavy advance sale reported by the Garden nor the apparently reliable predictions of a "gate" of around $200,000 and a crowd of 60,000 or more.

Perhaps the large percentage of prospective customers recalls the July night last year when Mickey stepped into the ring to face Sharkey, now the heavyweight champion. The Rumson, N. J., gamester conceded Sharkey 30 pounds in weight and every other physical advantage that night yet gained a draw in 15 rounds and, in the opinion of some critics, was clearly entitled to the decision.

YANKEES' BEST BETS TO STOP THE CUBS

Here's the "Big Four" of the New York Yankees' mound corps—all of whom are slated to see action in the world series against the Chicago Cubs. All have had big seasons, with Allen leading the American league in games won and lost, and Gomez challenging Lefty Grove of the Athletics as baseball's greatest southpaw. (Associated Press Photos)

CONTRAST IN RECORDS OF SERIES TEAMS

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr. (Associated Press Sports Writer)

The records of the New York Yankees and the Chicago Cubs for the 1932 season furnish a study in marked contrast as the teams wait for the signal that will send them against each other Wednesday in the world's series.

The Yankees ran away with the American League flag, finishing with the second highest percentage ever recorded by a pennant winner in the junior circuit. 692. The Cubs won only after a terrific battle and then were only one game ahead of the lowest mark that ever won a National League flag. The Yanks won 107 games and lost 47 and might have done better if they had been pressed in the latter part of the race. The Cubs recorded 90 victories and 64 defeats for a .584 average.

The league records they approached are 714 by the 1927 Yankee team and .578 by the St. Louis Cardinals in 1926.

One point of similarity cropped up yesterday when each team lost its final game of the season to a last place club, the Yanks succumbing to the Boston Red Sox 8-3, and the Cubs going down before the Cincinnati Reds 5-3.

In keeping with the tightness of the National League race all during the season, two places in the final standing were not decided until the final day. Philadelphia took third by winning the second game of a doubleheader from New York 6-3, after losing the first 5-3. The single victory kept Boston out of a tie even though the Braves trounced Brooklyn 13-7, New York and St. Louis tied for sixth as each split a twin bill. The Cardinals lost the first to Pittsburgh 7-1 and won the second 7-4.

The runaway race in the American League did serious damage to attendance figures but as a whole it was a fair season financially for most of the club owners.

MARKET REPORT

Sell Your Tobacco in Greenville FOR MORE MONEY

Greenville is unquestionably the highest market in Eastern Carolina and the buying competition is keener in Greenville than on any other market. We know of a farmer who split his grades last Friday selling part in Greenville and part on another market. The better grades sold for 20c per pound more in Greenville and all the other grades brought more money here. It is mighty easy for you to lose from $50 to $100 in one load of tobacco at present prices, if you fail to take advantage of the best market in Eastern Carolina.

Sales Friday were the highest of the season, although the market was again flooded with common black and green tips. A few of the better grades showed up and the readily brought from 55c to 65c per pound.

Now that most of the cotton is picked, attention will be turned marketing the tobacco. A great deal of tobacco reaches the market after sale time. Let us suggest that you bring it in earlier in order to avoid any rush.

No market has keener buying competition than Greenville. Keep your tobacco dry and market it in best possible condition.

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

New York Cotton

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady 10-15 higher on general rains in the cotton belt and higher Liverpool cables.

The advance extended to 7.65 for December and 7.77 for March during the early trading or about 18 to 24 points net higher on trade buying and covering, while there was also considerable buying here through houses with Liverpool connections.

Some southern selling was reported but it was in comparatively small volume, and offerings were absorbed on slight setbacks during the first half hour. Liverpool cables reported speculative buying and covering in that market on reports of rains in the south and the settlement of the labor difficulties in Louisiana.

Grain Market

Chicago, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Paralleling the course of the New York stock market, wheat receded today from an early advance.

Selling of wheat here against purchases at Winnipeg had an unsettling effect. An increase of 10,21-600 bushels in the Canadian wheat visible supply was noted, together with 1,606,000 bushels enlargement of the United States visible.

Stock Market

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
(Associated Press Financial Editor)

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—An early bugle in stocks failed to attract new buying orders, and the market dropped rather sharply, although trading remained sluggish.

The bull forces, which had hoped for a further advance in response to favorable incidents in the railroad field late last week, were plainly disappointed when gains of 1/2 to nearly 2 points in the carrier shares failed to hold, considerable profit-taking appeared. Losses of two points were recorded by Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Northern Pacific, New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio and Pennsylvania while Union Pacific dipped more than 4 and Lackawanna sagged nearly as much. Ltr, however, about half of these declines were made up.

The selling, while it did not reach large proportions, found few takers of the stocks and extreme losses of 2 to 3 points also developed in numerous utilities and industrials, notably among issues which last week had gained substantially, including Consolidated Gas, American Telephone, Dupont, Air Reduction, U. S. Steel, Case, Harvester, Westinghouse and United Aircraft.

Wall Street market commentators scanned the industrial prospect for the coming week. Considerable attention was turned to the possibility of a further increase in electric power production figures. Last week the gain was still small, due to the Labor Day week rather than the following week. Some quarters felt that the new weekly figures in relation to 1931 volume would show a fairly sizeable gain, representing in part a swing back to more normal bases for comparison with preceding years.

Interest also centered in the report of plans to sell 15,000,000 bushels of American wheat to China, particularly because of the effect that such a procedure might have on grain prices.

ONLY FIVE MAKE RETURNS FOR FIRST CONTEST WEEK

brighter than what appears on paper. The campaign manager has journeyed to various sections of the county and has interviewed promising candidates. It is expected that before the week is out a good many more than the five mentioned above will be enrolled and the race for the $1,500 in awards will then be on in earnest.

Today marks only the opening of the second week of the eight weeks' contest for more readers to The Daily Reflector. It may be that a lot who have been thinking about joining the enterprise and competing for the awards of $600, $300, $150, $100, and $50 will send in their names this week now the campaign has gone through with its early stages.

But the campaign department wants to urge every man or woman who is thinking seriously of enrolling to lose no further time. While some few subscriptions have been turned over to the office, the manager finds on a slight canvass of the territory that everything is ripe for a big subscription round-up during the coming weeks.

Many, many folks have gone without a paper or magazine of any description during the past few months, and now with a little money coming into the family purse they are just hungry and anxious for news. Candidates who accept this as the opportune time to enroll in this enterprise will find that they will fare well when they rally forth with one of The Reflector's subscription receipt books in the hunt for renewals and new subscriptions.

Not only will every candidate who enrolls be assured of fifty cents on every renewal or new subscription for a year that they turn in, but they will have a splendid opportunity to win one of the five cash prizes.

A novel feature of this undertaking is the fact that every candidate can draw down their 10 per cent cash commission on each report made. This commission money will go a long way in defraying the expenses of a candidate in the field such as gasoline and other incidentals. All candidates receive this commission money each report, but it is understood that each eventual winner of the five awards will consider this commission money as advances made toward the prize won.

All awards as mentioned several times before in the columns of this paper will be determined from the number of votes a candidate earns on paid subscriptions. Each subscription that a candidate collects will earn a special number of votes toward the prize as shown by a schedule of votes appearing on the cover of each receipt book. Renewals and new subscriptions count the same. At the end of the drive, November 12, judges will count the number of votes each candidate has earned and determine the prize won or the amount of commission money that they have received or is due them.

An office for the conducting of the drive has been opened upstairs in The Reflector building. Telephone No. 43. All interested are invited to call or write.

I'd want to talk to Gov. Roosevelt when he gets back."

New York, Sept. 26.—(AP)—Speaker John H. Garner, Democratic Vice-Presidential candidate, arrived from Washington today for a conference with Democratic leaders, and while here hopes to see at least one World Series baseball game.

The Speaker was accompanied by William Bray, his personal aide, and Charles S. Hand, in charge of his campaign.

Asked if he had any plans other than political, for his stay in New York, Garner replied:

"One thing I am going to try to do, and that is attend one of the games of the World Series. All my life I have been an enthusiastic baseball fan, and when I have the opportunity to attend games down in Washington I do so."

Hand recalled that Garner, when a young man, played with the Coon Hollow team in the Red River section of Texas.

Asked what team he was going to root for, Garner countered with:

"Well, which has the greatest number of Democrats? When you tell me that I'll give you my answer. I suppose baseball players are like nearly every other person I have met recently, they are nearly all Democrats. But I guess the best team will win."

Dr. E. C. Brooks, president of N. C. State, said the college had burglary insurance totaling $3,000. Additional insurance was carried last week while registrations were at the height, but it expired Saturday at noon.

It was the second "college robbery" in the Carolinas in the last two weeks. The business office at Furman University, Greenville, S. C., was robbed two weeks ago.

FIRE DESTROYS PITT SCHOOL

fiers today began an investigation. As soon as word of the fire was received here, Donald Conley, director of public instruction, left for the scene of the blaze to assist in the investigation and arrange for transferring students to another school.

The fire was discovered about 8:30 o'clock and had gained such headway that efforts of people of the neighborhood to check it proved futile. Opinion was expressed that the structure was fired by several persons reported to have been seen hanging around the place at night.

The building was one of the early type used in the educational program in this county which has been largely succeeded by consolidated brick buildings in many other communities.

The forty-five children who enrolled for study the first of last week will be transferred to Simpson immediately, Mr. Conley stated today, and little disruption of service is expected to result from the fire.

Two teachers were employed at the school. They were Misses Edna Melton, of Rocky Mount, and Ethel Little, of Grimesland.

Owing to the depressed state of finances of both State and county, Conley said no effort would be made to rebuild at an early date, although the question would probably come up for consideration at the next meeting of the School Board.

CAPONE FACES NEW CHARGES

Atlanta, Ga., Federal penitentiary on the ground his income tax conviction was illegal under the three-year statute of limitations.

The three-fold purpose is back on the new indictment, the Tribune said. It will include all recent evidence, bringing it up to date to preclude appeal to the statute of limitations. It will also add new members of the Capone syndicate. Federal agents were quoted as saying that in addition it would do much to head off any attempt by gangsters now in prison to win their freedom by parole.

United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green said no attempt would be made at this time to return Capone to Chicago for trial on the liquor charge.

"Which had you rather be, again asked the chief, 'a Republican or a dead Democrat?'"

Brownie again wagged his little tail speculatively, rolled over on his back and folded his paws over his breast.

Further testing the wisdom of the animal, Chief Taylor asked the dog what he would do should he vote the Republican ticket. The dog made no bones about his opinion in this instance as he did about the gations of the League covenant on all States, whether weak or strong. The criticism, much of which he called justified, comes from all sides, he said, but the League must prove its value to survive.

Asserting the world public is largely cynical of its activities, he said the critics would have confidence only in the security the League is capable of affording.

The success or failure of the Arms Conference, he said, will be a measure of the confidence which the League merits, adding that "without progressive disarmament, it is almost impossible that the League could survive."

The Irish president rejected the prepared speech which customarily is furnished to president by the League secretariat and prepared his own address.

Nicholas Politis, Greece's representative and a supporter of French policies, was chosen president of the assembly by a vote of 44 out of 50.

miners were cut from the entrance by a flanking movement.

A shot was fired, allegedly from the ranks of the United Mine Workers. The insurgent group closed in. Heads were cracked as clubs were brought down on unprotected skulls. Fists flew back and forth, knives flashed, and more shots were fired.

A Springfield detective, Sergeant Porter Williams, among the number seeking to restore order, fell fatally wounded.

On the ground, bleeding from three stab wounds, was Garnet Smith who was later charged with shooting Williams. Smith was a member of the United Mine Workers. One of the Progressive miners, Dominic Dirigalanc, of Springfield, was shot and seriously wounded.

The fight, at times, was carried into the hotel lobby, then back into the streets. Sheriff's deputies and members of the Illinois highway patrol were rushed to aid city police and used tear gas bombs to restore order ultimately.

Speaking on the subject of "The Doors of Religious Opportunity," Dr. Dickey brought a powerful sermon to his hearers. He declared obstruction faced by the church today did not come from the outside as in olden times, but from the inside where inactive members were failing to live up to their responsibilities.

In the early life of America, he said, religious persecution came from the outside, but that today with the privilege of civil and religious liberty fully established, the church member failed to appreciate it and the vast opportunities it offered for expansion. He scored the godless lives of professing Christians, and declared they were responsible for the wrecking of the foundation of the home where children are no longer taught the great truths of the Bible. He deplored the death of spirituality and asserted the nation needed a more wholesome influence both in the home and church.

Discussing the opportunities of the church, the speaker said every congregation needed messages of encouragement from the pastors, and the recognition of their achievements. Oratorical effort instead of the preaching of plain truths of the Bible was discouraged in the hope of meeting more fully the spiritual needs of the church.

The fanatical denominationalist forgets the real issue of the Christian, Dr. Dickey said. The only thing that matters is the kingdom of God, and as all denominations were striving to reach the same objective, denominationalism should not stand in the way of achievement.
