BRITAIN SEEKS CONFERENCE ON GERMAN DEMAND

HAPPENINGS FROM AROUND THE UNIVERSE

Graphic Description Of Doings From Nearly Every Country On The Globe

Fish Holy French Relic Cherbourg, France, Oct. 4.—(AP)—An unscrupulous visitor to this city's museum stole a fifteenth century fish-quarry bearing the royal arms of France and containing relics of St. Agatha.

Salt Lake Under Moscow Moscow, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Students of the Moscow Geological Academy, drilling experimentally on the campus, hit a salt lake at a depth of 2,400 feet. The academy is just across the river from the Kremlin in one of the city's residential districts.

Germans Equip 'Fair' Ship Berlin, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The label "made in Germany" is to be shown on far shores in 1933 by a ship carrying samples of everything manufactured in the Reich. The vessel will head for South America, then proceed to the Orient.

Feminine Name Twist Costly to Turkey Kemerhisar, Turkey, Oct. 4.—(AP)—By misspelling his name a peasant in this village made himself officially a woman and for seven years escaped military service and taxes.

Heneff avge his name the feminine twist of Hanife when he registered his coming of age.

An inspector from Angora discovered the deception and Haneff paid for his orthographic femininity in heavy fines.

Swedish Woman Honored Stockholm, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Selma Lagerlof, Nobel prize winner and only woman member of the Swedish Academy, has been given an honorary degree in theology by the University of Kiel in Germany because of her treatment of religious topics.

Steel Sultan's Prayer Rug Istanbul, Oct. 4.—(AP)—A prayer rug, valued at $250,000, was stolen while en route to the religious museum here. It was given by Sultan Murad IV to the chief Mevlevi dervish at Konia and recently was shipped from that town in an iron chest.

U. S. Likes Good Coffee Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The United States bought more from Brazil last year than all of Europe, chiefly because Uncle Sam is the world's biggest coffee drinker and prefers it mild and expensive while Europe takes harsher and cheaper varieties.

Basin Change Pumpkins Into Hitler-ite Posters Hamburg, Germany, Oct. 4.—(AP)—A Socialist market gardener near this city first rubbed his eyes, then boiled with wrath when he saw the Nazi's swastika emblem on each of his pumpkins.

Some of Hitler's men played a mean trick by marking the vegetables when they were small.

The swastika incisions expanded as the gourd grew, leaving the Socialist with a crop which he didn't dare take to market for fear of starting a riot.

This Ox Strong As One Sassari, Sardinia, Oct. 4.—(AP)—An iron spike three inches long was found in the heart of an ox slaughtered here. It seemingly had been there for some time, but the animal had showed no ill effects.

Egypt Threatens School Cairo, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The American University of Cairo, criticized in the Arabic press for teaching religion, has been warned officially that it will lose its annual subsidy of $2,000 unless it changes its course of study.

Give Stamp As Change Magallanes, Chile, Oct. 4.—(AP)—During a recent shortage here of small coins and one peso pieces, shopkeepers used postage stamps as change. The province is so far from the capital that coinage supplies are hard to obtain.

Wooden Nest Eggs Fool Men Portland, Ore., Oct. 4.—(AP)—An Oregonian is doing a prosperous business manufacturing nest eggs of western red cedar.

He claims that his approve them because they warm more easily than glass or porcelain, and their odor is distasteful to vermin.

PUERTO RICO CAPITAL RAVAGED BY HURRICANE

The full force of a 120-mile wind lashed San Juan, Puerto Rico, causing greater damage than that left in the wake of the disastrous 1928 blow. The death toll mounted as ruins were searched by relief workers. Hundreds were injured and thousands were left homeless. (Associated Press Photo)

Shot Trying To Rob Gas Station

Warsaw, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Rupert Thompson, of Bowden, was shot today when he was caught in the act of robbing a filling station.

Bill Hodges, of the Battery Station, said he commanded Thompson to halt and fired when the man failed to obey the command.

JUROR FINED IN DAVIS CASE

Man Who caused Mistrial in Davis Case Required To Pay $100 Fine

New York, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Henry J. Moore, the juror who caused a mistrial in the dame suit against U. S. Senator James J. Davis for violation of the Federal Corruption Act, was required today to pay a fine of $100 or go to jail for five days.

The man, who caused a mistrial after the trial had run two weeks and was nearing conclusion, asked for the mercy of the court. "I am sorry," he told the judge; "I didn't mean to harm anyone."

The judge said he was convinced there was no corruption on the part of the juror.

COUNTY COURT AT WORK HERE

Thirty or Forty Cases To be Disposed of in Regular Sitting of the Week.

After being idle for a week on account of the session of civil court here last week, the regular weekly session of county court was in progress today.

The docket consisted of thirty or forty cases and the session was expected to continue through today and probably until the noon hour tomorrow.

The cases consisted mainly of violation of the prohibition laws, larceny, worthless checks, and other minor charges. Judge W. L. Whedbee presided and the courtroom was well filled with people from various sections of the county.

Illness of Principal Delays School Goldsboro, N. C., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Only two of thirty negro school children reported at the opening of the Wudley negro high school here yesterday.

Parents of the children kept them home, saying they did so because the principal, James Roundhart, was ill.

Six pecans, each three inches long and five inches around were found on a tree near Brownwood, Tex.

Gov. Gardner Sets Aside Fire Prevention Week

It is my firm belief that fire prevention should be accepted as a major civic duty by every good citizen of the State. During the year 1931, two hundred and fourteen North Carolinians lost their lives by fire.

In addition, during the same year fire destroyed property valued in excess of thirteen million dollars. This is the direct loss; it is impossible to estimate the indirect losses incident to the destruction of life and property.

Therefore, in compliance with Section 6080 of the Consolidated Statutes of North Carolina, I do hereby set aside the week of October 9th as Fire Prevention Week, and do urge the people of North Carolina to accept the responsibility that is theirs in this connection.

LEAF SALES LIGHT TODAY

Over Million Pounds Sold Here Yesterday with General Price Improvement.

With the price situation showing a definite trend upward, over a million pounds of tobacco were disposed of on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday, according to official figures made public today by K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales.

With rain coming overnight, sales were the lightest today of any period of the last week, about a half million pounds being offered on the floors of the various warehouses. Sales were expected to be completed during the early afternoon.

The official report showed the market handled yesterday 1,032,798 pounds of leaf for a total sum of $115,954.03 at a general average of $11.22 per hundred pounds.

With several million pound days in evidence the last two weeks, Greenville forged into a definite lead of all markets of the belt during the week just closed.

With improved weather conditions, following the present rainfall, the offerings from this great bright leaf center were expected to again hit a normal level.

Five sales operating at the same time almost completely eliminates possibility of block sales on this market, and farmers are able to sell their offerings and return home the same day.

Located in the largest bright leaf tobacco producing county in the world, Greenville years ago was destined to win the recognition accorded by the government last year as the largest bright leaf tobacco market in the world, and with the lead obtained by the market the last two weeks, it was believed this record would be maintained this season.

Court Considers Motion Suspend Luke Lea Cases

Raleigh, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The State Supreme Court today took under advisement a State motion to suspend the second appeal before it in the case of Colonel Luke Lea, Nashville financier; Luke Lea, Jr., and J. R. Davis, prominent banker.

HOOD SYSTEM BANK CASHIER SHORT $3,500

Board Of Directors Announce Shortage In Accounts of W. C. Braswell

A shortage of $3,500 in the accounts of W. C. Braswell, cashier of the Hood System Bank of this city, was made known to a member of the staff of The Daily Reflector today.

The board of directors of the institution made the following statement public: "An audit of the bank's affairs discloses a shortage of $3,500 in the accounts of the cashier, W. C. Braswell. The bank is fully protected against this loss through a fidelity bond in the amount of $10,000."

Braswell has been connected with the bank for several years, and announcement of the board came as a distinct surprise to the community.

SEEK PAYMENT OF THE BONUS

Hundreds of Veterans of World War Convergence on Uniontown, Pa., for Meeting.

Uniontown, Pa., Oct. 4.—(AP)—The appeal of the bonus expedition forces, the first in the show at Washington, for cash payment of veterans compensation certificates will be heard at the national convention to be held here.

Hundreds of veterans from scores of places came to this convention for the announced purpose of renewing their former campaign halted by evacuation at Washington and later disbandment by leaders.

It was estimated by officers that between four and six hundred veterans would arrive today with hundreds of others expected tonight.

The national commander has promulgated a decree for aid of the unemployed and formation of a national organization.

STOCK MARKET IMPROVES New York, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The stock market improved today in the extreme unit trading. Trade was evidently encouraged by firmness of the cotton market and the selling in Monday's trading.

For the most part, however, trading was confined to metals. Gains of one to two or more points appeared in a wide assortment of issues of rails.

Issues up around two points were American Telephone, Allied Chemicals, U. S. Steel, Corn Products, and Auburn, while others up one included N. Y. Central, American Waterworks, American Tobacco B. Sears Roebuck and Westinghouse.

Renewed buying of improvement shares in the late trading lapsed momentarily as prices ruled higher. Approximately 1,100,000 shares were transferred.

Visit Stratosphere Gondola Obergurgl, Austria, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The aluminum gondola of stratosphere fame, left here by Professor Auguste Piccard after his sensational flight, has proved a great attraction to tourists.

Late News Flashes

BANK REOPENS Henderson, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The First National Bank of Henderson which has been closed since last June, opened today under a depositors' agreement.

The event was sponsored by public exercises in front of the bank. The bank reopened with a paid-in capital of $100,000.

INSULTS INDICTED Chicago, Oct. 4.—Three true bills charging Samuel and Martin Insult with embezzlement and larceny were returned today by the grand jury. The bills were returned after hours of deliberation of the grand jury on evidence given by several witnesses.

Caplases were issued for the arrest on two of the Insults. State Attorney John A. Swanson announced that he would start action to extradite Samuel Insult from Paris and Martin from Canada immediately.

LONDON LEADS NEW YORK CITY

Population of English Capital Nearly Two Million Ahead Of American City

New York, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The official standing of the population of the great metropolitan centers of the world was announced today.

Officially, New York, with a population of 6,581,915 in her five boroughs, plays second fiddle to London with its population of 8,000,000.

But the Merchants Association claims that the American metropolis has a population of 12,000,000 human beings in the city proper and adjoining territories.

JACK BROWN PASSES AWAY

Funeral Services To be Conducted From Home Tomorrow Morning 9 O'clock.

Jack S. Brown, 28, died at his home here early today after a short illness.

Funeral services will be conducted from his late home tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock by Rev. W. S. Harden, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, and the body will be taken to Burlington for burial.

Brown, who had been living in Greenville the last seven years, and operated a barber shop on East Fifth Street the last several years. He was popular among a wide circle of friends who received news of his death with sorrow.

He was married May, 1927, to Miss Virginia Turner, of Oxford, who with a four-year-old child, survive. Other survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Brown, Latta, S. C.; four brothers, Robert, Charlie and Belton Brown, Latta, S. C.; and Marvin Brown, Nichols, S. C.; two sisters, Mrs. Nettie V. Collins, Latta, S. C., and Mrs. Julia M. Roberts, Nichols, S. C.

Electrical Spray from Sun On Earth Given As Key to Compass Trouble Also

Streams of electric particles, shot out from the sun like water from a spinning lawn sprinkler, are pictured as the cause of electrical disturbances on earth in a report of the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

A new way to measure the activity on the sun that sends out these streams, described by Dr. Julius Bartels, may aid in overcoming these disturbances and pave the way to future advances in radio and wire communication.

Dr. Bartels has found the force of the streams varies through 27-day periods, the time of the sun's rotation, and changes in the force can be measured by changes in the earth's magnetism.

Earth 'Soaked' in Minute When the earth runs into one of the streams of particles, it is "soaked" in less than a minute. That is why so-called "magnetic storms" unlike ordinary storms, often begin (Continued on Page Six)

MUCH INTEREST IN PROPOSAL

Sir John Simon Confers With Leaders Regarding Consultation for Bringing Germany Back To The Armament Conference; Officials Insist That Acute Situation Caused by Differences at Geneva

London, Oct. 4.—(AP)—John Simon conferred today with leaders regarding a five-power consultation in London regarding Germany's demand for equality in armaments.

A Berlin report from Geneva said Great Britain has suggested a five-power consultation in London to pave the way for Germany's return to the disarmament conference. The announcement caused great interest among those attending the conference and others interested in the German situation.

Official circles insist, however, that the cause of the acute situation was created by differences created at Geneva.

Declare War On Rat Pest

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 4.—(AP)—A State-wide "war on rats" to save as much of the short corn crop of the present season as possible will be launched during November and December by A. E. Oman, rodent control specialist at N. C. State College here.

Oman said county farm agents in fifty counties will take part in the campaign. It will start on November 17 for the eastern part of the State and on December 10 for the western half.

"This will be a war against filth and waste," Oman said. "We want to start the practice of cleaning up the rat population of this State each fall at the beginning of the storage season."

Reappearance Of Herring Puzzles Lake Fishermen

Sandusky, O., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Fishermen of this region are excited by reports of herring having reappeared in the waters of Lake Erie in quantities.

At one time herring were more numerous in the lake than any other fish. Half the catch was herring and the yields ranged from 18,000,000 to 38,000,000 pounds a year.

Then the herring almost disappeared. Other fish have had their periods of disappearance, too, such as perch, sheepshead, saugers and white fish. But they all came back after a year or two. Not so with the herring.

Prison Movies 'Go Talkie' But The Inmates Do Not

Stillwater, Minn., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Moving picture apparatus at Stillwater prison soon will be one up on the inmates.

For, while the apparatus will be changed from the silent type to talking pictures, the inmates will continue to observe the "silent system" under which they are permitted to converse with one another only at short and limited periods.

Warden J. J. Sullivan is unable to obtain silent film for the old equipment and believes the morale of the inmates is improved by a movie showing once a week, which would have to be abandoned unless talking equipment is obtained.

TRANSMIGRATION

(Dedicated to the family of Mrs. Clara Jane Forbes)

T's morning and I leave this sphere
To journey forth I know not where,
Like some pearl-winged transmigrant bird
Of whom the world has never heard.

For me there is no sable night;
I gently pass into the light—
Into the shrouding gray of dawn,
And leave no word where I have gone.

I leave my dwelling place of clay,
For ended is my little stay
Upon this planet called the Earth
Where I have loitered since my birth.

Into the dawn of a New Day
Whose light will never fade away,
I slip as gently as shade
Across a verdant forest glade.

I soar aloft amid the clouds,
Above the world's contending crowds;
Into the blue into the gold,
Where mortal eye cannot behold.

And as I mount all wondering
I ask myself: Is this the thing
That men call Death? And is this that
About which one dislikes to chat?

There is not aught, if I am dead,
To fill the mind of man with dread;
I rise into delights untold
Into His love made manifold.

No longer old, on tireless wing,
I speed toward life's eternal spring,
And while my form lies in the sod
I circle upward to my God.

White Accepts Position Here

J. M. White of Durham, has accepted a position with Williams Funeral Parlor and has already entered upon his duties. He will be general assistant to A. A. Ellwanger, owner and general manager of the place.

Mr. White, a licensed embalmer, has been in the undertaking business for 18 years and operated a business of his own at Durham for 11 years. He has been living in California the last year.

Mr. White received his training at Renard College in New York and Eckel's College in Philadelphia. He is fully familiar with every line of the business and comes to the concern here with a splendid record of service to his credit.

Baby Show in Ayden.

Ayden, Oct. 3.—Much interest is being manifested by the mothers of Ayden in a Baby Popularity Contest which is to be conducted here under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association.

A parade will be staged Friday afternoon, Oct. 7 at 2:30 o'clock, in which at least 50 children will participate. They will be divided into two groups, the first ranging from six months to two years old, and the second from two to five years old. Two sets of prizes will be given—one set for each group.

The popularity contest will last a week. A picture of each contestant will be placed over a ballot box in Edwards' drug store and the winners will be decided by ballot, each vote costing a penny.

One prize for each group in the parade will be decided by judges and one prize for each group in the balloting will be decided by ballot.

A free physical examination will be given any of the entrants whose parents wish it, by the physicians of the town.

Prof. W. M. Jenkins, chairman of the ways and means committee of the Parent-Teacher Association, is responsible for the contest. He is being assisted by Meadames W. D. Johnson, William Quinley, B. M. Edwards and Moses Phillips.

In Memory Of Helen Everett

(Written By Henry Hardee)

Sweet memories to you of your wife
As you sit in the twilight and dream;
In life's path can never another
Shed over you so happy a beam;
For she watched the play of your children,
And seldom in anger would chide;
At home, in the fields, or in the wildwood,
Your dear one was still by your side.

How silky and brown were her tresses,
How gentle her kindly blue eyes,
How tender her loving caresses;
Ah, why need such a one to die?
You mourn in the desolate gloaming,
And sunrise doth not bring your peace;
Afar over the earth you are roaming,
Yet your sorrow can never cease.

Yet soon will sleep's mantle spread
Over you,
And you up above shall rejoice;
You'll see her sweet face then before you,
And listen again to her voice,
Where never has entered a pain,
Where never a grief has invaded,
Where earth from your spirit has faded,
You'll be with your dear one again.

And you shall never behold the light
Of those blue eyes again,
Shall never more unfold her hands
In pleasure or in pain;
Beneath the drift of winter's snows,
And spray of summer flowers, she's sleeping,
While you wait alone through all
The lonely hours.

Attends Meeting of Democratic Women

Mrs. Elbert Tyson of Farmville was among those attending the meeting of the precinct vice-chairmen, held at home of Mrs. J. B. Spilman Saturday afternoon.

AN APPEAL TO NORTH CAROLINA CLUB WOMEN

A state-wide appeal to the clubwomen of North Carolina to add their names to a roster of 1,000,000 signatures which is being assembled by the National Council of Women will be made during the month of October. Mrs. J. M. Hobgood of Farmville, president of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs, announced yesterday in her council address at Mt. Airy. The subject will be presented at 16 district meetings of the Federation. The signatures, on petitions addressed to foreign governments, will urge the attendance of distinguished women at an international congress in Chicago July 16-22 next year. Mrs. Hobgood said.

"The campaign is a part of a threefold plan for participation in the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition next year, in which more than 5,000,000 women in the 29 organizations affiliated with the council are interested," she added. "A composite exhibit is to be presented, occupying 2,400 square feet of floor space in the Social Science building at the Exposition, which will illustrate what organized womanhood has done to further American progress. Inez Haynes Irwin, the distinguished novelist, is writing a book on a similar theme, from material assembled from the various organizations which will be published by the council at the time of the exposition. In addition, the council will sponsor the international congress."

"To insure if possible, the attendance of representative women from many countries, it is now engaged in a campaign for one million signatures on petitions addressed to governments of the world asking that they will officially recognize the congress by sending over delegations of representative women."

"The month of October is being observed throughout the country as National Council Month, and a special drive is in progress to obtain the remaining 500,000 signatures which the council needs. The North Carolina Federation counts itself fortunate that its district meetings are now in progress and that it has such an effective means of assisting in the drive."

Mrs. Hobgood explained that the National Council of Women sponsored an international congress of women at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893 which was attended by 150,000 women.

"With the increased facilities for transportation today we believe an attendance of a half million women is entirely possible," she said.

The National Council of Women, which is directing the signature campaign was organized in 1888 and had such distinguished founders as Susan B. Anthony, Frances E. Willard, Clara Barton, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and May Wright Sewall. It functions as a clearing house for the women's organizations of the country and numbers among its members such organizations as the American Association of University Women, the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, the National Council of Jewish Women, the American Nurses' Association and other equally well known organizations. The General Federation of Women's Clubs, with which the North Carolina Federation is connected, is its largest member group.

Mrs. E. S. Paddison of Nashville has been appointed state chairman of the signature campaign.

Petitions are to be made available for signatures at all these meetings. However, Postal Telegraph offices throughout North Carolina are also signature headquarters and Mrs. Hobgood urges that clubwomen who may not be attending the district meetings will sign there and help North Carolina to obtain as speedily as possible its full quota of signatures. Any women, whether a member of a federated club or not, may sign and each club has been asked to secure at least as many signatures as its has members and, if possible, twice as many signatures.

Flint, Mich., Oct. 3.—(AP)—One robber was killed and another probably fatally wounded in a gun fight with city and state police on the outskirts of this city this morning. The robbers were believed to be

New Shipments Of Red Cross Cloth Received

Additional shipments of cloth for distribution among the various agencies of the county for the purpose of making clothes for poor school children were received by the local chapter of American Red Cross here today. Twenty-five thousand yards of various materials have been assigned to this county, officers of the organization said, and it will be made into suitable clothing in time to help relieve the sting of cold among the poor during the winter months.

School attendance in recent years has been cut down by lack of clothing for the poor, and it the belief of the organization that this condition will be greatly improved.

Several shipments of the goods have already been assigned to the various relief agencies to assist in preparing the clothing for the children and every effort is being put forward to rush work to completion as early as possible.

Small Blaze Here Today.

Fire early today did considerable smoke damage to the Simpson Bowling Alley on Dickinson avenue. The fire originated, firemen said, among matches in a showcase, and did damage estimated at approximately $150.

Jeffress Will Inspect Roads

Raleigh, Oct. 4.—(AP)—E. B. Jeffress, chairman of the State Highway Commission, will leave Raleigh tomorrow for an inspection trip of roads in Eastern North Carolina.

Jeffress, who will be away for about three or four days, will make a study of the need of improvement of the Spring Hope-Nashville road, and inspect highway projects in Person, Granville, Warren, Franklin, Vance and counties in Division A.

Hogs Profitable to Alamance Man

Graham, N. C., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Fifteen hogs on the farm of V. T. Woods in Alamance County paid him a net profit of 84 cents a day over feed cost in gains made during a 34-day feeding period, County Agent N. C. Shiver says.

The pigs gained 1,035 pounds, or 69 pounds each, during the period. The cost for shorts, fish meal, corn meal and shelled corn consumed was $18.18, and at present prices the gains would add $46.68 to the selling price of the hogs, making a total profit of $28.50 for the thirty-four days.

Observe Natal Day With Cotton Picking Contest

Goldsboro, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Ben Deans, of Buck Swamp township, had unique ideas about celebrating his 73rd birthday and refused to eat a big barbecue and chicken dinner when myriads of relatives gathered in honor of the occasion.

Instead, Deans challenged a young relative to a cotton picking race, and from sunrise to sunset they worked. When they finished, Deans has 180 pounds and his opponent, four times his junior, 184 pounds.

Urges Greater Use Of Wood In State Schools

Raleigh, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Use of wood as a fuel wherever feasible in North Carolina this winter for schools and public buildings was suggested today by the division of forestry of the Department of Conservation and Development.

The adoption of such a practice it was pointed out, will not only make possible economies in necessary expenses, but will furnish additional markets for wood for the farmer and landowner and additional sources of income for some of the state's unemployed.

Action of the State Grange in demanding that wood be substituted for coal as far as possible in heating North Carolina school buildings, to create a market for a North Carolina farm product and reducing the amount of money sent out of the state for school purposes was cited as showing the popularity of such a movement. The North Carolina farm convention and farm women's convention commended action of the Grange in making such a demand.

Trustees of the Jonesboro school have already made known their plan to burn wood during the current school term. Others are expected to fall in line.

Grocery Store Head Dies

Statesville, Oct. 4.—(AP)—R. W. Gracey, 49, native of Columbia, Tennessee, and head of a group of chain grocery stores in Iredell County, died at his home here after a heart attack.

Urges Greater Use Of Wood In State Schools

Raleigh, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Use of wood as a fuel wherever feasible in North Carolina this winter for schools and public buildings was suggested today by the division of forestry of the Department of Conservation and Development.

The adoption of such a practice it was pointed out, will not only make possible economies in necessary expenses, but will furnish additional markets for wood for the farmer and landowner and additional sources of income for some of the state's unemployed.

Action of the State Grange in demanding that wood be substituted for coal as far as possible in heating North Carolina school buildings, to create a market for a North Carolina farm product and reducing the amount of money sent out of the state for school purposes was cited as showing the popularity of such a movement. The North Carolina farm convention and farm women's convention commended action of the Grange in making such a demand.

Trustees of the Jonesboro school have already made known their plan to burn wood during the current school term. Others are expected to fall in line.

Goldsboro, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Ben Deans, of Buck Swamp township, had unique ideas about celebrating his 73rd birthday and refused to eat a big barbecue and chicken dinner when myriads of relatives gathered in honor of the occasion.

Instead, Deans challenged a young relative to a cotton picking race, and from sunrise to sunset they worked. When they finished, Deans has 180 pounds and his opponent, four times his junior, 184 pounds.

ABOUT TOWN

President Hoover has started his campaign tour of the country and the people will now be given an opportunity to hear what he is going to have to say to counteract the effect of Roosevelt's tour of the west.

Once upon a time President Hoover had something to talk about but now since his pronouncement in regard to the liquor question he is without anything to say except his attempt to life the nation out of the pits of depression and that is an undertaking requiring a greater brain than Mr. Hoover's.

The Democrats, on the other hand, are emphasizing the failure of the Republican administration to live up to campaign promises of prosperity in the past and by the time they get through it is going to be as impossible for the President to be elected again as it is for a camel to get through the eye of the proverbial needle.

The President has made a monumental effort to pull himself out of the hole, but his failure is very pronounced, and the world is wondering what he will do in this moment of desperation with failure staring him in the face.

The runaway of the Yankees with the Cubs was one of the most startling performances in the history of baseball. People who had followed the brilliant playing of the two clubs were confident the Cubs would give the New Yorkers the time of their lives, but this confidence was certainly misplaced.

The Chicago organization was much too light for the terrific attacks of the unbeatable Yankee machine known as murderer's row, and the ease with which they were vanquished was just proof of this.

Chicago people especially were looking forward hopefully to the success of this club, but all of their hopes were blasted in the third game when the Yanks proved their supremacy over the Cubs on home grounds. The old saying that a club will fight harder on home grounds was disproven in the Yankees' invasion of Chicago. The Cubs fought to the limit of their resources in New York and at home but heavy stick work by the Yankees proved too much for them.

It will be many a day before the sport lovers of this country will have the opportunity to see a series of this kind and they might as well make good of this year's performances, resting assured that the National League will make a greater effort than ever before to furnish the American League lads with more competition.

A court in Virginia recently declared a large coal corporation a combine in restraint of trade and gave the government permission to revoke the company's charter.

The operations of the concern resulted in control of the price situation in several states and this made it impossible for competitors to meet such competition.

The coal field is not the only branch of industry affected by price fixing combines, and if the court would take more such cases under consideration it is possible some of the unusual conditions existing in the business world would be eliminated.

The situation caused by the operation of monopolists operating under the guise of big business or chains is destroying the very foundation of the American business world, and the little man is absolutely doomed unless some action is taken to improve the situation.

The action in the coal industry should grip the attention of other branches of industry seriously affected by such a condition, because it is through such a cleaning up process as this that orderly trade conditions can be restored in this country.

The effort of Governor Gardner to settle the mill strike at Rockingham is very commendable. It is a pity the mill owners refused to accept effort at arbitration several

Nothing Venture

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH

SNOPSIS: Trying to fight down her growing conviction that Jervis has met with foul play, his wife, Nan Weare, fruitlessly questions the cold and distant Mrs. Mellish. The housekeeper will tell nothing. On the way to ask information of Rosamund Carew, the shifty girl who threw Jervis over in an attempt to cheat him of his fortune, Ferdinand Francis remarks to Nan that Rosamund's mysterious friend, Robert Leonard, has been away.

Chapter 38

NAN ATTACKS

Instantly Nan flashed round on Ferdinand.

"When did Leonard go? Where has he been?"

"He went away on Tuesday."

"This is Thursday," said Nan. She paused. "Isn't it?"

"Yes, it is Thursday all right. It was Tuesday we lunched with the Tetterleys. Leonard had crooked his car, you remember. He got it going enough to take him into Croyston that evening. He ran it into Brown's garage for repairs, and he dined and slept at the hotel. He had breakfast there Wednesday morning very sharp at eight, and hired a man to take him out here in time to tend his incubators. He's got a watertight alibi, you see."

"No, I don't," said Nan. "If he was planning anything wicked, isn't that just what he'd go away and pretend he wasn't here?"

Ferdinand looked at her quickly sideways.

"I went to the George. He was playing billiards until half-past eleven. The chambermaid called him at seven. His car was in Brown's garage out of action—I went there and made sure of that."

Nan's lips made an unwontedly hard line. But nothing more was said until they reached the Tetterleys. Then F. F. looked quickly at her again, thought how pale she was, and said:

"Well, I'm not on this scene, I guess. I'll put the car in the shade and wait."

Nan was shown into the drawing-room, a big formal room which Janet Tetterley used as little as possible. It was still furnished after her mother-in-law's taste, Basher having proved extraordinarily obstinate when pressed to get rid of an ebony grand piano, two ormolu cabinets, and a quantity of water-color paintings executed by the late Mrs. Tetterley in a frigid style.

Rosamund was standing at the far end of this room. She held a cigarette in her right hand. She was dressed in pale yellow linen. As Nan came towards her, she turned away to pick up a match box. Rosamund's strong white hands were perfectly steady. She blew out her first mouthful of smoke before she spoke.

"Wanderer returned?" she said.

"No," said Nan.

Rosamund drew at her cigarette.

"He's not here. Did you think he was?"

Nan said, "No," again in the same quiet voice.

Rosamund laughed.

"I haven't seen him, and I haven't got him here. And if you'll take my advice, you'd stop hunting round after him. Good Lord, my dear! This is the twentieth century, and a man does occasionally go away for twenty-four hours without taking his whole family with him!"

"Yes," said Nan. "Ferdinand said that too."

"It's bound to be true if Ferdinand said it!" Her voice was insolent. Then suddenly she curbed it. "I know Jervis pretty well, and if you want my advice—which I don't suppose you do—I should say let sleeping dogs lie."

She had remained standing. A long window let in a brilliant panel of sunshine which slanted to her feet. Nan was staring too. She came a little nearer and said:

"Do you know where Jervis is?"

Rosamund's beautiful eyeswore rose.

"That's a little crude, isn't it?"

"Yes," said Nan. "I'm not worrying about being crude—I'm worrying about Jervis. If he's all right, he may be anywhere he likes, and he may be with anyone he likes. If you know where he is, will you tell me?"

"I've told you that I don't know."

"Yes," said Nan. "But you keep hinting that you do. I should be very glad if you would stop hinting and say what you mean."

Rosamund gave a short laugh.

"I don't mean anything. If I'm days ago. Had they agreed to such action it is possible the thousand or more men involved in the walk-out would be back at work at this time and the situation resulting from the strike partly relieved.

Strikes at this time are far more serious than in former years by reason of the situation growing out of the unemployment situation the last two years. With so many men out of employment in all parts of the world it is imperative to keep every kind of mill possible in operation so that it may contribute its part toward keeping the wolf away from the door. The people in the Rockingham district have suffered keenly from the walkout and if it isn't settled in a short time it is impossible to say how very the situation will become.

Governor Gardner realizes keenly the inadvisability of suspending operation of mills because of a dispute over wage conditions, and believes the best interest of the state as a whole will be served by resumption of work.

to be quite candid, I think you're making a damned fuss. Men will go off on their own—and, knowing Jervis, I should say there'll be the devil to pay when he nds out that you've been sending the town-crier round after him."

"Yes," said Nan. She fixed her steady eyes on Rosamund. "You say men go off—but do they generally go in the middle of the night without any luggage?"

Something odd happened; but it happened so quickly that it would have been difficult to swear to. Nan had only an impression that Rosamund had begun to say something and that before the words reached her lips the cigarette which she was holding slipped, sideways, so that the red-hot tip burnt her finger. It was just an impression.

The cigarette slipped and Rosamund said:

"Didn't he take any luggage?"

Then she went on without waiting for an answer. "That doesn't mean very much—does it?"

Nan said: "I don't know."

"Do you want me to dot the i's? I don't mind if you don't."

"I would like you to say what you mean."

Rosamund laughed again.

"Perhaps he picked up what he wanted in New York."

"No," said Nan.

"You've been ringing them up?"

"Yes," said Nan.

Rosamund blew a smoke-ring.

"There is an alternative of course. If a man pays the rent of a flat, he very often keeps some things there."

"You don't seem to have a very high opinion of Jervis," said Nan.

Rosamund shrugged her shoulders.

"I don't expect him to be a plaster saint. If you do, I'm afraid you're going to get a good many jolts. If I had married him, I should have been quite philosophical about that sort of thing—but of course I never pretended to be in love with him!" The stress on the "I" was of the slightest, but it was there.

Nan's color rose a little. She kept her voice quiet.

"You are trying to make me believe something that you don't believe yourself. I'm wondering why."

The ash fell from Rosamund's cigarette. It made a dusty patch on the fine primrose linen of her dress.

"Would you rather believe that he was drowned?"

The color in Nan's cheeks drained away. Her voice did not change.

"It's not a question of what either of us would rather believe—it's a question of the facts. I want to know what is true."

Rosamund stood with her hands behind her.

"You're very deatched," she said.

"Well then, here are your facts. Twice this summer, while we were bathing together, Jervis had cramp pretty badly. The last time I had to help him in. I don't think he'd have got in if he'd been alone. Well—you would have it you know."

A little more color ebbed away from Nan's face.

"Is that true?"

"Certainly."

"Then the servants would know about it."

"If you think Jervis would be likely to go round telling people that sort of thing—"

"Did you tell anyone about it?"

"Why should I? I didn't particularly want to make Jervis wild with me just then."

"I see. Then nobody knew about this cramp but you?"

"And Jervis," said Rosamund.

"Yes, of course Jervis would know if he had had cramp," said Nan.

She watched Rosamund's face, but it showed nothing. The sun dazzled behind her.

"You can't tell me anything else?"

"I'm afraid not. Ring me up if you hear anything."

"Yes," said Nan. "I'll ring you up when he gets back."

She said: "Good-bye, Rosamund," and turned and walked out of the room.

Talks to Parents

A Child's Naughtiness (By Alice Judson Peale)

Writing of his 4-year-old daughter Ruth, Rasmussen relates that one day, as she seemed on the verge of a tantrum and had begun to stamp her feet in rage, she hesitated for a moment. Then she stamped once more with one foot, quite gently and slowly, saying: "I think, I think one one legs wants to be a little bit naughty."

The incident illustrates how young children tend to regard their own misbehavior. With Ruth the process happened so quickly that it would have been difficult to swear to. Nan had only an impression that Rosamund had begun to say something and that before the words reached her lips the cigarette which she was holding slipped, sideways, so that the red-hot tip burnt her finger. It was just an impression.

The child refuses generally to accept that part of himself which gives him feelings of discomfort. He separates it from himself and refuses to admit its responsibility.

If these who are responsible for the child's training hold him up to excessively rigorous standards of goodness and obedience he is forced to deny so many of his real feelings that their suppression becomes an enormous task which involves a large share of his emotional energy. This energy is then not available for the learning and for the mastery of his environment which should rightly occupy his attention.

Gentle guidance which spares the child the feeling that a part of him has conducted itself in a shocking, shameful and unforgivable manner is best calculated to give him time gradually to educate his feelings.

Temper tantrums, for instance, do not call for rebuke and punishment except under special circumstances; they need only be consistently ignored—they fall into disuse because the child sees that he achieves nothing through them.

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

TUBBY

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

One of baseball's most baffling mysteries is the reason for the sudden loss of effectiveness by pitchers who have been winning consistently. They feel as well and strong as ever, but overnight become marks for rival hitters.

It's a problem that has caused many a case of premature baldness and graying of the hair among big league managers. During the closing weeks of the American League campaign it had Joe McCarthy, head man of the Yankees, pacing the floor of his apartment nights as though he were trying to break a lease.

Up They Go

All season Lefty Gomez, Red Ruffing and young Johnny Allen had been the triple pluses of a steam rolling pitching staff. With only half a dozen games needed to clinch the pennant, there suddenly arose from the pitching box on successive days three magnificent balloon ascensions.

It was Gomez, Ruffing and Allen, simultaneously losing their winning form. Gomez lost the hop on his fast ball. Ruffing couldn't find the plate. Allen's curve wouldn't break. It was McCarthy with a world series just around the corner.

Doc Painter, master of the Yankee muscled, tried to solve the problem for me in the Yankee clubhouse just before the start of the series with the Cubs. Painter, as trainer of the club, naturally races to make the first diagnosis when the balloon starts to go up.

If it's something physical, Doc must head the relief brigade. But in all three cases he found no patients. Gomez, Ruffing, Allen, all felt better than they had all season. The trouble was, they couldn't pitch.

No Form To Lose

"It had to come sooner or later with Gomez," Doc explained, "and it's an interesting case. He thinks he's got the hop back on his fast ball for the World Series. But nobody knows.

"You see Gomez came up to the big leagues a thrower, without any fundamental pitching form. He let that ball go, and it went places. How he did it, he didn't know. Why he was effective, he didn't know. It happened.

"He never learned to do things the same way all the time. Develop a pitching form that was fundamentally sound and correct. And at a sudden the instinctive form he had departed. He started to do something wrong. But he has no idea where the fault lies. He never knew how he was pitching in the first place.

"Ruffing and Allen are different. They need hard work to keep control. There is nothing fundamentally wrong with their deliveries."

TENNESSEE HAS THREE REGULAR BACKS FROM '31

Chapel Hill, Oct. 4.—The great Tennessee eleven which Carolina will play at Knoxville Saturday has three wheelhorse backs who were regulars on the 1931 team which beat Carolina 7 to 6. The varsity quarterback Brackett, Halback Feathers and Fulback Wynn. The Tar Heels appreciate their all-round abilities from their work here last year, and will spread a strong defense in an effort to bottle them up at the line of scrimmage, as they bottled Tennessee's All-American McEver last year.

TAR HEELS STRESSING WORK ON PASS DEFENSE

Chapel Hill, Oct. 4.—The Carolina football team is doing lots of work on pass defense this week. The Tennessee team which they play at Knoxville Saturday featured a fine aerial game along with a hard running back in routing Mississippi 3 to 0 last week, and on the other hand some of the Carolina backs did poor work covering on passes in the Vanderbilt game.

"BIRD HOTEL" CHECKS OUT 50,000 GUESTS IN YEAR

Waukegan, Ill., Oct. 4.—(AP)—In 20 years more than 50,000 birds have been checked in and out of William I. Lyon's bird hotel here. The birds, lured into traps by food, are checked out at 12-hour intervals with government supplied aluminum bands attached to their legs so that the next bird hunter patronized by the migrators can let him know their next stopping place.

TAR HEELS GET SET TO MEET TENN. GRIDMEN

Chapel Hill, Oct. 4.—Facing another hard game at Tennessee Saturday, the Carolina football squad is applying itself diligently to its preparations, and is working with ardor undimmed as the result of the loss to Vanderbilt.

A loss is a loss, no matter what the score, and Coach Collins was glad that the boys tried 60 full minutes to beat Vanderbilt, rather than resorting to a kicking game and trying to hold down the score.

Neither coaches nor the players are bragging about leading Vandy in first downs 19 to 7 and coming five yards of the Commodores in net gains from scrimmage, but Coach Collins and his associates are glad that the Tar Heels made a real fight of it and gave the fans a good football game every minute.

The squad was in good shape this morning. Tom White with a slightly wrenched ankle and Johnny Phipps with minor leg bruises worked only lightly at yesterday's first big drill for Tennessee, but they appeared to be in shape today.

Tennessee showed its old time punch in routing Mississippi 33-0 Saturday, but the Tar Heels expect to begin turning first downs into touchdowns about Saturday, and plan to give the Vols one of their hardest games of the year, as they did last season when they lost 7-0.

The Carolina backfield is due to receive lots of attention this week, and it is quite possible that Coach Collins will experiment with a number of different combinations in a quest for drive and punch and clicking.

STATE WILL FIGHT TIGERS ON SATURDAY

Raleigh, Oct. 4.—South Carolina's Clemson Tigers and North Carolina State's undefeated Wolfpack today began sharpening their weapons for the football game here Saturday afternoon.

Undefeated and its goal line uncrossed, but held to a close 9 to 0 victory by Richmond University last Saturday, State's Wolfpack is favored to take the Tigers for a ride.

Clemson was defeated 32 to 14 Saturday by Georgia Tech's Golden Tornado. In its opening game this fall, Clemson defeated Presbyterian College.

Saturday's tilt with the Jess Neely coached team will be State's first appearance in the Southern Conference this fall. It is Clemson's second such game, Georgia Tech being the first.

State and Clemson are ancient sectional rivals. It has been a number of years since the two schools have met at Raleigh, and the game is expected to draw one of the Pack's largest home crowds.

The Wolfpack found a tough and fast foe in Richmond University last Saturday. The two teams battled on even terms off the first quarter. Richmond took the second and State the last two. The Spider line smothered State's passing attack and used its own air attack to good advantage, passing featuring two trips to State's one and two yard lines in the second quarter.

Allen Bailey, a sophomore and one of the best passers State has had in a number of years could do little within his heaves as the Spiders swarmed all over his intended receivers. Bob McQuage and Robert McAdams, other Tech passers, fared the same fate.

Although winning, the game proved costly to State in that an injury received by Kenneth Stephens, flashy sophomore end, will probably keep him out for a week. Stephens received a bad cut, requiring three stitches, on his face.

Dixie Second-Year Men Ready to Give Seniors Great Battle For Grid Glory

By DILLON GRAHAM (Associated Press Sports Writer)

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Dixie's flaming sophomores of last football season, now grown a little larger, a little faster and a bit more experienced are planning to grab the headlines from their senior partners this year.

At least a half dozen of these players were stars their first year out in 1931 while the others played prominent parts of their teams' successes.

Earl Clary, the slender blond-haired wreath of South Carolina, probably ranked as the best back in the Palmetto state a year ago. A leg injury held him up some but didn't stop him from scoring on all but one of the Gamecocks' opponents. Bill Smith hustled off the scrub squad in mid-season last year to quarterback the Virginia Military Institute eleven and was such a sensation that his position is enshrined for this campaign.

Alabama looks for Howard Chappell, the fastest and most elusive back on the Crimson Tide, to share honors with John "Hurricane" Cain, the fullback captain. He has a peculiar sliding away motion while running and, leaning far from the tackler, manages to slip loose while traveling at top speed.

Beattie Feathers, a fleet stockily built runner, whose ancestry traces back to the Cherokee Indians of the Southern Appalachians, may make Tennessee fans forget about Gene McEver the "Wild Bill" and Bobby Dodd, the clever quarterback of recent seasons. Feathers is a vicious tackler, a fine punter and an accurate passer.

Ralph Kercheval, a big plunging back, is rated by Coach Harry Gamage of Kentucky as one of the best punters he has ever seen. He was a kicking sensation in his first varsity season and will be spear-head of the Kentucky offensive.

His touchdown runs against Yale in Georgia's big intersectional battle and his playing in other games, brought fame to little Homer Key last year. Now with most of Georgia's veterans lost by graduation, Key will have more chances than ever before to show his stuff.

Clemson plans to use Gordon "Mountain Goat" Lynn in most of its "in the open" plays. He was one of the fastest dash men on southern cinder tracks last spring as well as a sophomore grid star.

IROGEN BUILDS WEAK AND AGED

Many Leading Citizens Come Forward With Eager Lips to Tell the World of What Great Things It Has Done for Them—Proves Powerful Aid to Nature.

NORTH CAROLINA people are learning first hand why the fame of IROGEN, now sweeping this state, has spread with such remarkable rapidity. The promptness with which IROGEN acts in relieving weak, run down men and women, in correcting stomach disorders, in rebuilding lost weight and restoring health and strength is astonishing thousands.

"ANY medicine that can take a woman of my age, 72, and build her up as IROGEN did me is certainly wonderful," writes Mrs. Etta V. Wood, Birmingham.

Medical science has learned that IROGEN supplies exactly what Nature requires to restore normal functioning of the digestive and blood making organs when they become deranged, and thus has classed it as a blood food. Many amazing results achieved by IROGEN in this state among those who learned about its great powers and obtained here amply justify the splendid endorsements that are being made for this wonderful prescription. One of the amazing facts about IROGEN, as repeatedly told by its grateful users, is the promptness with which painful symptoms resulting from indigestion and weakened bodies disappear. Sour stomach and gas after eating, dizziness, fainting spells, shortness of breath, touches of rheumatism, neuralgia and general physical weakness, usually are relieved after the first few doses and shortly disappear altogether.

"I BELIEVE IROGEN is the grandest medicine on earth," writes Jennings Hawkins, of Leicester, N. C.

Under and by virtue of a certain Deed of Trust from Samuel Johnson and wife, Dora Johnson, dated January 27th, 1932, duly recorded in the Register's office of Pitt County in Book C-19, page 545, the undersigned A. L. Barrett as trustee therein, will, on October 28th, 1932 at 12 o'clock noon sell at the courthouse door of Pitt County at public auction for cash, to the highest bidder the following described real estate:

A certain tract of land beginning at a stake at corner of Henry Dupree's line and intersection of J. H. Smith line with said Smith line about W. 375 ft. to S. M. Crisp corner; running with said Crisp line 844 ft. to Mose Gorcham's corner; thence with Mose Gorcham's corner line direct to the N. corner of Pete Gorcham's house to Pete Gorcham's line 214 ft.; thence 422 ft. with Pete Gorcham's and Henry Dupree's line to the beginning, this being owned by the said J. L. Fountain in that piece between the above line, estimated to be about 5 acres, more or less, and being the same tract of land deeded by J. L. Fountain and wife Mary A. Fountain, to Sam Johnson, as will appear in Book 10, page 169 of the Pitt County Registry and known as a part of the Jordan farm.

This 27th day of Sept., 1932. A. L. Barrett, Trustee- Sept. 27-11w-4wk.

$100.00 REWARD The manufacturers of IROGEN and Virogen Tonic Tablets offer to pay $100 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any anemic, run-down man or woman having no organic trouble who lacks iron and increase their strength 100 per cent or more in four weeks' time. They also offer to refund your money if it does not double your strength and endurance and increase your weight.

Some Are Workers and Some Are Not

About eight of the candidates listed below in The Reflector's subscription campaign have gone to work and turned in subscriptions and the rest are still thinking about it. New workers are welcome.

Your Chances Are As Good As Theirs

You have the same opportunity to win one of the five cash awards that The Reflector will distribute on Nov. 12th as any one of the above entrants. The votes given on paid in advance renewals and new subscriptions are as high as they were on the opening day, and the large territory served by The Reflector has hardly been scratched. Not all those listed above are active workers. Some have merely suggested they were anxious to try for a prize or a cash commission that goes to the non-winners. However, they have receipt books and it may be that some who have not as yet made a subscription return have gone to work. The enterprise is open and free to all COMMISSION -- Ten per cent to non-winners on all subscription money turned in. Special feature provides for a cash advance on each report. PLENTY GAME IN LAKE AREA

Mattamuskeet Converted into Hunters' Paradise by Conservation Dept.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Approximately 35,000 acres of the Lake Mattamuskeet bottoms in Hyde County have been transformed into a virtual hunters' paradise through the co-operation of the State Department of Conservation and Development.

Charles J. Moore, of Washington, Assistant State Game Warden, notified the department today the land had been posted, involving the placing of hundreds of signs over a circumference of 65 miles which covers an area of about 50,000 acres.

Fifteen thousand acres of the land once the bottom of the now vanished Lake Mattamuskeet—a famous Indian watering hole—were described by Moore as being in a high state of cultivation and about 35,000 acres as forming "some of the best shooting grounds in Eastern North Carolina."

Game to be found with the area, Moore said, either during the winter or the year-around, include ducks, geese, deer, quail, doves, mink muskrat, raccoons, opossums and bears. Ring-necked pheasants, bred by the Department of Conservation and Development, were also reported by Moore to have gained a foothold.

Ten working days, employing an average of eight men each day, were required for posting the area. Moore said problems "approaching those of cutting a way through a tropical jungle" were encountered in following the limits of the property within the signs.

"In making our way around the borders of the property," he said, "we encountered virtually every kind of poisonous snake known to the State, yellow flies and mosquitoes. Our problems were complicated by the necessity of traversing numerous large canals, crossing the lake bottom from north, south, east and west."

"One day, in traveling a distance of not more than 25 yards, we killed two tremendous cotton-mouth and five coppershead moccasins, none of which showed any disposition to retreat. Mosquitoes were so quick around us that they sounded like bees around a hive, and to add to all the misery and odds that were against us, it began to pour down rain."

LONG LIST OF PROBABLE WORKERS PRINTED TODAY

(Continued from Page One) that many who are now down on the rolls and eligible, if they go to work, for one of the five cash prizes of $600—$300—$150—$100 and $50 will make some kind of a subscription report before the week is out.

The majority of those listed today as contestants for one of the prizes offered or a cash commission on all work turned in are persons who the campaign manager has interviewed during the past two weeks and who have expressed a willingness to do this sort of work and add to their present income. If they fail to earn one of the prizes offered they will have lost nothing for the paper pays each and every worker a ten per cent commission on each report so made.

As time goes on those not proving active workers will be taken from the list and others who from time to time send in their name or who have been interviewed by the campaign manager and wish to work will be added on. After October 15th, which is one week from this coming Saturday, it is expected that only those who are working and interested in the outcome Nov. 12th will be left on. On the date mentioned the first decrease in the voting schedule goes into force and it won't be likely that any new face will care to enroll when less votes are given on subscriptions.

In the meantime, those wishing to enter this newspaper's subscription drive and compete for one of the prizes mentioned are invited to send in their name. Prizes will be awarded on the number of credits issued on paid in advance renewals and new subscriptions. Receipt books to sign up readers to The Daily Reflector may be had free by applying at the newspaper office or calling Greenville 43.

PLENTY GAME IN LAKE AREA

(Continued from Page One) simultaneously all over the world. Magnetic storms are disturbance of the earth's magnetism and electricity caused by the streams of particles and have no connection with thunder storms or other storms due to "weather." They sometimes interfere with telephone and telegraph communication so much that it is impossible to send messages, and also disrupt radio transmission.

The tremas take about a day and a half to reach the earth from the sun. They originate at certain definite points on the sun's surface, but of necessity in sun-spots, as formerly believed, says Dr. Bartels.

Atmosphere Stops Particles The streams may be electrons, ions (mutilated atoms) or molecules. They do not actually reach the earth, but are stopped by the atmosphere before they approach within fifty miles of the surface. Effect of the particles on the magnetic field that surrounds the earth is the actual cause of the magnetic storms.

The Campaign Puzzle Study Past State-by-State Votes in Making Your Forecasts

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles showing how the states voted in the 1928 presidential election and pointing out developments since that time.

California's Vote for President in 1928 Hoover—1,162,323. Smith—614,365.

California's weight in this year's national election is considerably greater than it was in 1928, the state's representation in the electoral college being increased from 13 to 22.

The state is regarded as "normally" Republican, altho it cast its votes for Cleveland, (D.) in 1892, for Theodore Roosevelt as a Progressive (D.) in 1912 and for Wilson (D.) in 1912 and 1920.

Herbert Hoover's California citizenship, his party's advocacy of a protective tariff for agricultural products and his wartime relief work were credited with responsibility for his heavy majority over Alfred E. Smith in 1928.

In the gubernatorial election of 1930, James Rolph, Jr. (R.) defeated Milton K. Young (D.) by a vote of 599,593 to 333,973.

Political observers have disagreed as to the significance of registration figures, which in August of this year showed a loss of 38,308 for the Republicans, as compared with 1928, and a gain for the Democrats of 435,496.

Republican leaders have replied to these figures by pointing to the presidential primaries last spring in which President Hoover, undefeated the sun, but scientists have detected their existence indirectly.

No one ever has seen or measured these streams from the sun, but scientists have detected their existence indirectly.

A method of detection is observation of the aurora borealis or northern lights, which is a glow resulting from collision of the streams with gases in the upper atmosphere. Another is noting of changes in the earth's magnetism resulting from currents generated by the collision.

Warn Against Parrot Fever The United States Public Health Service advises all persons to avoid contact with recently shipped or acquired birds of the parrot family.

Several cases of psittacosis, or parrot fever, are being reported in various parts of the United States. Reports of 5 cases and one fatality have recently been received from Minneapolis, Minn. Another case has been reported from Boise, Idaho. There have been 12 cases of parrot fever, with 6 deaths, reported in California between December 1, 1932 and February 10, 1932.

Upon the recommendation of the Public Health Service the secretary of the treasury has recently issued an order amending the interstate quarantine regulations so as to limit the interstate transportation of birds of the parrot family by common carriers to those certified by the proper health authority of the state as coming from aviaries free from infection.

A medical officer of the Public Health Service at the invitation of the California State Department of Public Health, within the recent past made a careful study of the situation in California with reference to parrot fever infection and the breeding of birds of the parrot family in that state. Conclusive evidence was thus obtained which indicates that psittacosis, or parrot fever infection is present in some of the breeding aviaries of Southern California. Parrots and parakeets from this source have probably been one of the important means of spreading the disease to other states.

FOUR INDIANA COACHES BUCKING FORMER TEAMS Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Football business runs thicker than sentiment at Indiana University.

Of the staff of five football coaches, four will urge the scrapping Hoosiers to beat teams with which they formerly were connected.

Coach Hayes will try to beat Mississippi State, where he made his reputation as coach before coming to Indiana. W. H. Thom will after a victory over his old alma mater, Iowa, where he played in the backfield.

Wally Marks, freshman mentor, would like to see Indiana beat Chicago and his old master, A. A. Staggs. A. J. Nowack will be watching for trick plays of his former mentor, Zuppke, when Indiana plays Illinois.

Plans for organizing cooperative markets in all northwest Arkansas towns for handling farm produce have been made.

Automobile license tag A-1 of the 1933 series in Alabama has been reserved for Gov. B. M. Miller.

After 52 years continuous use the playing of taps by a bugler at the end of the day has been discontinued.

No one ever has seen or measured use by Mississippi State College.

Iowa's Vote for President in 1928 Hoover—623,570. Smith—379,311.

Iowa has cast its vote for a Democratic presidential candidate but once in the last 60 years, and that was in 1912, when the Progressive party divided the Republican vote.

The state this year has 11 electoral votes instead of the 13 it possessed in 1928.

Farm relief and prohibition received major attention in the Hoover-Smith campaign of 1928. Iowa usually has been counted among the strongly dry states.

The state election of 1930 found Iowa again choosing a Republican state administration, as it had done for many years. Dan W. Turner (R.) received 414,536 votes against $1,721 for Fred P. Hagemann (D.) Turner's campaign was based on an income tax revision program.

He is a candidate for re-election this fall, his opponent being Clyde Wright, Democratic nominee.

IOWA ELECTORAL VOTES—11 IN 1928: HOOVER—623,570 SMITH—379,311

The farmers' strike, the upset of Senator Smith W. Brookhart, industrial Republican, by Henry Field in the primaries last spring, and his recent decision to run as an independent, are recent developments in the Iowa situation the effects of which political observers are attempting to weigh.

An annual relief and economic program has provided the outstanding reasons for the outburst of the farmers' strike.

decided she would do nothing of the kind.

Mrs. Bondi has been on the stage nearly a dozen years, her professional career growing out of interest in amateur theatricals in Chicago.

"No! having the beauty of a leading woman, naturally I was more interested in characters," she explains, "and I've been very fortunate in playing a variety of roles. But I'm having the same trouble here I had at the theatre—convincing people that I can do a variety of things."

She Sells Her Ability She has had to "sell" her ability to characterize away from type to many producers on the stage, but work in some other character. It was Maxwell Anderson, whom she had convinced before his "Saturday's Children," who persuaded Director Lewis Milestone that she was ideal for "Rain."

In that film she achieves a rather remarkable feat, evading caricature of a personality that would readily lend itself to caricature and even gaining sympathy for it.

Studies People Mrs. Bondi is a youngish looking woman with a bright personality and charm. Talking to her, you see nothing of old Mrs. Jones or prim Mrs. Davidson about her.

How does she do it? "My hobby," she says, "is studying people—their faces, their natures, their individualities. When I have a part to play, I try to delve into the inner nature of the character, and be that person for the time."

He's Imperturbed But Byrnes seems imperturbed. Twenty-one years on the appropriations committee—13 of them as his party's ranking member—have armed him with a pretty thick skin and a ready "No."

Not that the Tennessee is the type of person you would classify as harboiled. He is almost the opposite from that. He is humorous and kindly. His keenly twinkling brown eyes look through shaggy brows. And he admits that he tries all the time to conduct his committee in an informal, "folksy" way.

Welcome To His Office Everybody has access to his office. When he became chairman of the committee last December, he said that he wouldn't have someone at the door to stop people from coming in.

But when he goes about the business of cutting the cost of government, he works without gloves. "We don't play politics in the appropriations committee," he says. "Curs is not a partisan outfit. We are all interested in reducing expenses."

On the floor of the house Byrnes is particularly effective. He is one of the few old-time orators left in the house. They don't walk out very often on "Uncle Joe" when he is going good.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS Hollywood, Oct. 4.—If Beulah Bondi realizes her desires regarding a movie career, fans will recognize her name long before they know her face.

Her face, the real Beulah Bondi face, hasn't been caught by the camera yet. It saw her first as the old, gossiping tenement mother, Mrs. Jones, in "Street Scene," and more recently it caught her as the straight-laced, repressed Mrs. Davidson in "Rain."

There is no faint similarity between the two characters, and that is as Beulah Bondi herself would have her career.

Rather remarkably, after her "Mrs. Jones," she was not contented to recreate that character for future films. She deliberately Rhode Island's Vote for President in 1928 Smith—118,973. Hoover—117,522.

Rhode Island gave its electoral votes to Alfred E. Smith by a narrow margin in 1928, but elected at the same time a Republican Congressional delegation, a Republican U. S. Senator and a Republican General Assembly.

Only once before since 1870 had Rhode Island cast its vote for a Democratic presidential candidate.

This year Rhode Island has four electoral votes instead of its former five.

Smith's personal popularity and his stand on prohibition were credited with playing a large part in this 1928 victory.

In the state election of 1930, Jesse H. Metcalf (R.) was re-elected to the United States Senate by a plurality of 2,515 over former Senator Peter G. Gerry (D.) and Gov. Norman S. Case (R.) was elected governor by a plurality of 3,682.

In the current campaign, political observers are attempting to analyze the significance of an increase of 23,000 in the number of "registry" voters. Voters in this classification (as distinguished from voters in the personal property and real estate classifications) had reached a new high record of 185,830 when the books closed in June, and some observers believe that the new voters may hold the balance of power.

Relieves Women's Pains Here is an example of how Cardui has helped thousands of women: "I was very thin and pale," writes Mrs. F. H. Scott, of Roanoke, Va. "I suffered from weakness and a severe pain in my back. This pain never left me, and I did not feel like doing my work. I did not care to go places, and felt worn, tired, day after day. My mother had taken Cardui, and on seeing my condition she advised me to try it. I have never regretted doing so. I took three bottles and it built me up. I gained in weight, my color was better and the pain left my back. I am stronger than I had been in some time." Cardui is sold by local druggists.
