MARTIN INSULL SURRENDERS TO CANADA OFFICERS

City Orders Advertising of Delinquent 1931 Taxes

WORK TO BEGIN IMMEDIATELY

Order Issued for Closing all Pool Rooms Not Settling Privilege License Taxes by November 15th; Donation of $25 per Month Continued to the Salvation Army; New Uniforms For Policemen.

The advertising of delinquent 1931 city taxes will begin immediately, it was decided at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Aldermen at the city hall last night.

The request of Wiley Norcott, colored, that he be granted an extension of time for settlement of special license on his pool room, precipitated a discussion that resulted in a declaration of the board that all pool rooms of the city not settling license taxes by June 15 would be closed.

After hearing an appeal for support of the Salvation Army from Ensign Joseph Willett, in charge of activities of the organization here, the board decided to continue its contribution of $25 a month to the cause.

The proposal drew considerable discussion from various members of the board, some favoring cutting out the appropriation and others favoring it. Several speeches were made but at the end the supporters of the organization won and the donation was ordered continued.

Ensign Willett expressed appreciation of what the board had done toward supporting activities of the Salvation Army. He stressed the many demands made upon the organization, the feeding of people unable to obtain aid from any other source, and appealed to the board to continue the monthly appropriation which had been cut off a short time previously.

The ensign said he expected the call for help would be pronounced during the winter, and it would be impossible for them to meet the situation without support of the city. The nickels and dimes collected on the streets by workers, he declared, were not sufficient to support the transient's home on Green Street and it was necessary to obtain funds from other sources if this phase of activity was to be continued.

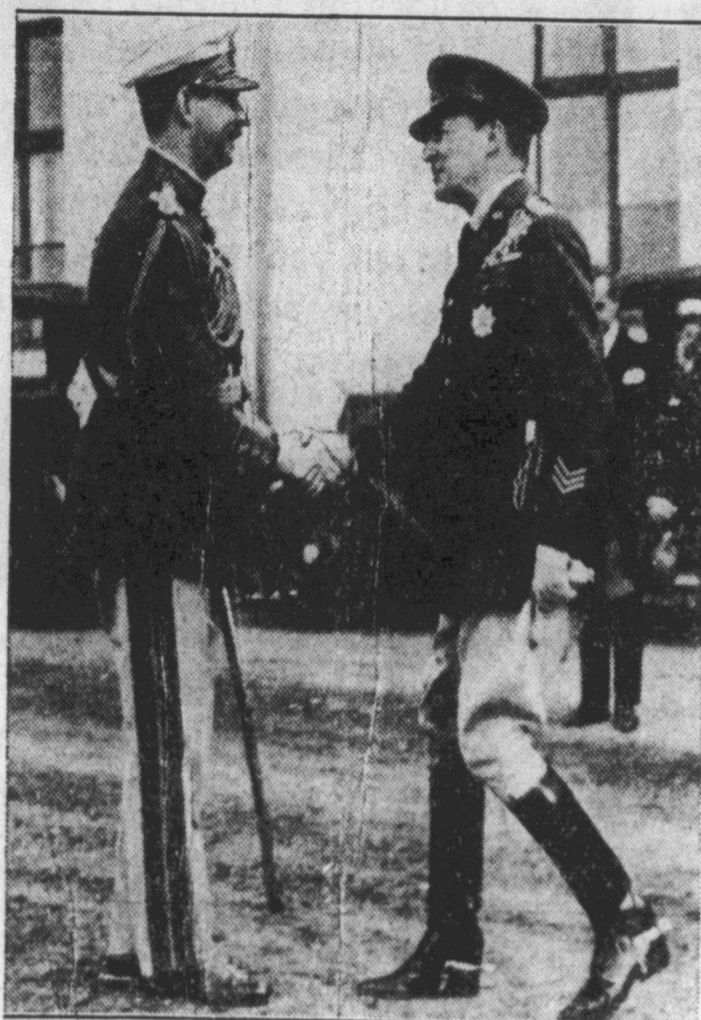

Mayor R. C. Flanagan read a letter from J. C. Lanier, who represented the city in the damage suit brought by Mrs. Lucy Moyer, stating that Supreme Court had granted a new trial in the case. The board instructed the mayor to inform the attorney to continue preparation for second hearing of the case.

Members of the police department will not be short of comfortable clothing this winter as result of action of the board instructing a committee to purchase eight uniforms and three overcoats for the department.

An ordinance prohibition poultry yards in residential districts was adopted following complaints of extensive handling of chickens for sale in residential districts.

Mr. Curry was permitted to operate a pool-room on Roosevelt Avenue providing he should conform with license tax restrictions. The report of Dr. Alex Viola regarding inspections of milk and cattle offered for sale in the various markets of the city was turned over to the health department for inspection. It was declared meat inspections should be made upon a more extensive scale to prevent marketing of unfit products.

REYNOLDS' WILL FILED

Libby Holman Not Mentioned in Document Filed for Probate in N. Y.

New York, Oct. 7.—(AP)—A will executed by Smith Reynolds a year before he was fatally shot at his paternal home at Winston-Salem was filed for probate at noon waiving his entire share to the Reynolds tobacco millions except for a few bequests to his brother and sister.

From a source close to the Reynolds family it was revealed that the will was drawn during the summer of 1931 while Reynolds was occupying an island home in New York with Libby Holman, who is now under indictment in connection with the fatal shooting of the young millionaire. She was not yet married to Reynolds at that time and is not mentioned in the will, it was stated.

It was learned there is a bequest of $50,000 to Ab Walker, chum of young Reynolds, who at the present time is at liberty under bail awaiting trial in North Carolina.

There was also said to be a bequest of $50,000 to Reynolds' first wife, Ann Cannon, and daughter, Ann Cannon Reynolds. Reynolds' first wife was divorced after the will was drawn, and he had made an annual settlement of approximately $1,000,000, it was stated.

FARM CRISIS FACES IRISH

Free State Tariff War with Great Britain Causes DeValera Uneasiness.

Dublin, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Signs that the Irish farmer, hard hit by the Free State's tariff war with Great Britain, is becoming uneasy, have been so numerous of late that President Eamon de Valera gave them special attention in a recent speech.

Several observers have predicted that October would be a critical month for the administration, basing this conclusion upon estimates that the farmer could not hold his cattle beyond then without meeting undue hardships.

De Valera's talk discussed increasing demands that the key controversy with England over land indemnities be submitted to negotiations. 'B' he added:

"The fight is on and we are going to stick it out."

Some of the elements most hostile to the administration have started a campaign with the slogan: "No taxes, if no settlement." This movement recalls that in the campaign preceding the last general election, De Valera's party promised the farmers relief from the land indemnities. But, the argument goes on, in addition to the controversy over that has led England to erect a tariff wall that shuts Irish cattle out of what had been its best market.

As an offset there is an administration program designed to increase wheat growing and thus cut down Ireland's dependence upon the sale of cattle in England. Also home industries are being encouraged, housing plans are being pushed and new markets for Irish producers are being sought.

Administration men say these and other measures will enable the administration to get through what all agree promises to be a hard winter. De Valera's foes think otherwise.

Utilities Magnate Spends Night In Jail While He Is Awaiting Extradition

Campaign About To See Revival Of Wet-Dry Tilt

By BYRON PRICE Early October has produced abundant signs that the prohibition issue is about to emerge from the partial eclipse it underwent during the mid-stretch of the Presidential campaign. Although it never disappeared entirely from the day by day story of politics, this subject had a September resurgence which appeared all the more strange because of what had gone before.

At the national conventions both parties had given their planks on the Eighteenth Amendment far and away the major share of attention, and had reached their respective decisions only after spectacular floor disputes.

In August, President Hoover's reference to prohibition in his acceptance speech, and Governor Roosevelt's reply at Sagrat, again challenged popular attention to an extent which kept the argument going strong.

Then for weeks developments veered off in other directions. While Mr. Hoover stayed at home and said

POLICE WATCH FOR BROTHER

Lisbon Police Keep Keen Lookout For Samuel Insull and Will Arrest Him If He Appears There; Swanson Studies the Evidence Against Brothers at Chicago and Prepares for the Prosecution.

Barrie, Ontario, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Martin J. Insull, who is under indictment for embezzlement, surrendered to provincial authorities last night and spent the night in jail, paving the way for extradition proceedings, which may take weeks to complete.

Lisbon—Police were on the watch for Samuel Insull today with orders to arrest him if he appears in the city. It was reported he was on his way from Paris.

Paris—Samuel Insull and son were missing from the hotel here today where the older Insull has maintained headquarters.

Chicago—State's Attorney John Swanson studied evidence today in the case of the Insull brothers charged with grand larceny and embezzlement in connection with the collapse of the fruit utilities interest, and the Cook County grand jury turned its attention to raising of funds for extradition proceedings. Mrs. Samuel Insull said she received news from her husband, but declined to divulge his whereabouts.

PRIESTS LOSE CITIZENSHIP

Several Church Heads Face Expulsion from Mexico Following Legislative Action.

Mexico, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Several priests in the state of Vera Cruz were deprived of citizenship and their property ordered confiscated here today.

The action was taken at a special session of the legislature last night. The decree declared the priests were no longer citizens, making them liable to expulsion under federal laws.

The legislature prepared to take similar action in other cases coming up for consideration at this time.

The procedure was the aftermath of the expulsion of Archbishop Luis Flores, aged Mexican prelate, following issuance of the encyclical of Pope Pius of Rome criticizing conditions existing in Mexico.

ORDER FLIERS TO LEAVE U.S.

Department of Labor Dismisses Deportation Papers Against Lancaster, Woman.

Washington, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The Labor Department today dismissed deportation warrants against Capt. W. N. Lancaster and Mrs. J. Keith-Miller, who were recently acquitted of a charge of slaying Hayden Clarke, young writer, with the understanding that they leave the country Friday.

Officials of the Labor Department said so far as they are concerned the action closes the case against the man and woman.

The Department warrants were sworn out after the two were acquitted of the slaying of Hayden Clarke in Florida.

Greenville Banking & Trust Co., Shows Increase of $417,573.79 in Deposits

That hoarded money which has been out of circulation probably for years is gradually finding its way back into the channels of trade was reflected in the September report of the condition of the Greenville Banking and Trust Company, one of the largest institutions of its kind in this part of the State.

The statement just made public shows that deposits of the bank have increased $417,573.79 from June 30, 1931 to September 30, 1932.

Poultry Raising Demands Lots of Time, Declares

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Successful poultry production today is a highly specialized business demanding time and diligent application, Roy S. Dearstine, head of the N. C. State College Poultry Department, says.

"Only those who will give it time and diligent application can be successful in poultry raising," Dearstine warned.

Reports of the promise of quick and easy profits and small initial capital required, attract a higher percentage of transient population to poultry production than in any other farm business, Dearstine said. He attributed large numbers of the failures in poultry production to inadequate knowledge, improper financing, poor marketing and technical mistakes resulting from misinformation or lack of proper information.

"Many failures in poultry are the result of starting on too large a scale making too heavy investment, and attempting to handle too large a number of birds," he said. "Such ventures invariably fail. The large successful poultrymen of today are the result of a small start."

Other factors he listed as contributing to the failure of large numbers of beginners at poultry raising are: Failure to house properly, failure to secure good stock to start, failure to feed properly during the developing season, failure to deworm young pullets, and failure to take advantage of educational work and information available through extension and research work of State College.

PURSER CASE IS DISMISSED

Federal Court throws out Shortage Charge Against Former Local Postal Clerk.

The case against Fred Purser, charged with a shortage of 42 cents in his accounts while an employee of the local postoffice, was dismissed by Judge Meekins in Federal Court at Washington yesterday afternoon.

After hearing evidence of the government, Judge Meekins told Purser's attorney that it would withdraw his plea of not guilty and enter a plea of nolo contendere the court would dismiss the action.

The charge grew out of the alleged shortage in Purser's accounts about eight months ago. He was immediately dismissed from service in spite of the fact that he was said to have made the shortage good. He contended if any shortage actually existed it came about through error in transaction of daily business.

Such shortages occur quite frequently, it was contended, and employees always make them good. Sometimes, it was stated, accounts show more than they are supposed to be.

The case, because of the small amount of money involved, attracted considerable interest in this community and action of the court was awaited expectantly by friends of the young postal employee who believed in his innocence.

Crisp Weather Visits Section

Crisp temperatures prevailed in Greenville today following rainfall yesterday and the night before. People who had been defying the season by wearing summer clothing ransacked closets today for warmer apparel and prepared for the coming of winter in earnest.

The mounting mercury caused people who had been neglecting coal bins to put in hurried calls for coal to drive the chill from homes and offices. With continued cold, coal dealers were expected to do a thriving business; in fact, the best since last winter.

People of the poorer class in Jamaica use table salt and twigs of a bush known as chew stick for cleaning their teeth.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET IN AYDEN

Giant Rally Featured By Addresses And Rodeo will be Held Tomorrow.

Ayden has its lamps trimmed and burning in readiness for a big welcome to the next Governor of North Carolina, Hon. J. C. B. Ehringhaus, and the thousands of other visitors who will assemble there for the rally day festivities Saturday.

The arrangement committees have taken special care to see that every one will have a chance to hear Mr. Ehringhaus and the other parts of the program. The high school auditorium where the speaking will take place at 2 p. m. has a seating capacity of 1,200, and amplifiers have been installed so that any one within a block of the building may have an opportunity to hear the future Governor speak.

Special care has also been taken to have plenty of barbecue and the accessories that go with it for all entrants in the Hoover cart parade and that their teams be cared for. The Ladies' Societies of the various churches have also provided booths in various parts of the city where lunches and other refreshments may be purchased and ample provisions have been made for the five or six thousand persons expected.

It will be Mr. Ehringhaus' first public speech in Pitt County during the campaign and the citizens of Ayden have made elaborate preparation for one of the biggest Democratic rallies ever held in Eastern North Carolina.

At 11 o'clock a big Hoover cart parade will be staged, and from present indications, several hundred persons will take part in the rodeo. Some novel features never before seen in a parade will be introduced. The committee in charge has information that carts will be there from Greene, Beaufort, Martin, Wilson, Lenoir, Edgecombe and Craven counties in addition to the large number from Pitt.

All entrants in the parade will, upon arrival in town, proceed immediately to a large vacant lot near the National Veneer Company's plant, where they will be greeted by Mayor J. D. Cannon and his welcoming committee. There they will be given consecutive numbers to be displayed in the parade so that the judges may intelligently select the winners by number and otherwise.

A reviewing stand has been constructed for the judges composed of Carl Goerch, Washington; E. G. Flanagan, Greenville; Mrs. Kate Flanagan, Greenville; Mrs. Kate Flanagan, Greenville; Mrs. Kate Flanagan, Greenville.

O'BRIEN SEEKS MAYOR'S SEAT

Tammany Irishman Nominated for New York Mayor at Session Last Night.

New York, Oct. 7.—(AP)—From the wigwag of Tammany emerged today another of her Irish sons. Surrogate John P. O'Brien, to be a Democratic candidate for Mayor of New York.

His nomination at Madison Square Garden last night threw dissonance in the ranks of supporters of former Mayor James J. Walker. Walker's resignation as mayor made necessary the election of a successor for the remainder of the term.

Free Attendance Holds Up. Houston, Tex., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Attendance of "knot-hole gang" members, admitted free by the club was good this year at the Houston ball park, but paid attendance for Texas League games here showed a 50 per cent reduction from 1931.

Late News Flashes

Price War in Georgia. Albany, Ga., Oct. 7.—(AP)—The Albany Herald today said several peanut threshing machines reported dynamited in several sections as result to hold peanut crop from the market for higher prices. A number of mechanical picking machines were also dynamited because operators failed to heed the warning. Many machines suspended after warning.

Blames Bootleggers. Washington, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Raymond Robbins, wife of Col. Robbins who disappeared in September, told prohibition officers here she was abducted by bootleggers. Mrs. Robbins, guest at the White House, conferred with Director Woodcock. Woodcock said the woman had given no additional information regarding her husband's disappearance.

State Gets Federal Aid. Washington, Oct. 7.—The Reconstruction Corporation today made available $815,000 for emergency relief in North Carolina.

The Corporation made $335,715 available to Florida at the same time. Both loans are to meet emergency relief needs from October 2 to January 15. "Responsibility rests upon all local communities of the state," the corporation said in announcing the loan. "To make every effort to develop their resources to provide for relief needs."

In support of his application for federal funds, Gov. Gardner stated the relief needs in the state will be much more acute this winter.

The Reynolds Will. Winston-Salem, Oct. 5.—Attorneys handling the will of the late R. J. Reynolds said today the will made by Smith Reynolds would have no effect on the disposition of his father's will.

The elder Reynolds' estate was left in trust to four children and provided that each should receive a one-fourth share. Smith Reynolds was 20 when he died of a bullet wound last July. R. J. Reynolds' will provided further that in the event of death of either of the heirs, the share of the estate left for that heir should go to the heir's children.

Announce Ag. Loans. Washington, Oct. 7.—Reconstruction Corporation loans for August, made public today by South Trimble, clerk of the House, showed that loans totaling $186,309,310 were

The Campaign Puzzle

Study Past State-by-State Votes in Making Your Forecast

Maine's Vote in 1928
Hoover 179,923; Smith 81,179

Maine long has been regarded as staunchly dry and Republican. It has given its vote to one Democratic presidential candidate since 1876, voting for Wilson in 1912. It has had but two Democratic governors since the Civil War days. Prohibition was a major issue in the 1928 campaign, and a bolt from her party by Mrs. William R. Pattingall, wife of the Democratic gubernatorial candidate of 1922, was credited with taking many dry Democratic votes from Alfred E. Smith.

In the state elections of 1930, William T. Gardner (R) defeated E. C. Moran Jr. (D) for the governorship by a vote of 82,310 to 67,172.

In this year's state elections September 12, Louis J. Brann, Democratic advocate of repeal, was elected governor with 120,353 votes as against 118,000 for Burleigh Martin dry Republican.

The result impelled President Hoover to ask a redoubling of efforts by Republican national leaders. Maine's Republican national committee asserted that the result was due primarily to a shift in Maine's sentiment regarding prohibition.

Maine this year has five electoral votes, instead of six, as formerly.

North Dakota's Vote in 1928
Hoover 131,441; Smith 106,648

North Dakota has voted for the Republican presidential candidate in seven of the last 10 elections. In 1892 it voted for the people's party candidate and in 1912 and 1916 for Wilson.

The political situation in the state is complicated by division of the Republican party into two factions, the Non-Partisan League and the Independent Voters' Association. Republican nomination for state office usually has been the equivalent to election.

In the state elections of 1930, George F. Shafer (R) was elected with 132,264 votes against 41,988 for Pierce Blewett (D).

The presidential preference primary of last March found the total of Democratic votes exceeding the Republicans' for the first time in the history of the preference primary. In the state primaries of June the larger vote was cast in the Republican balloting. Non-Partisan League candidates won all nominations from the "real" Republicans, who had made support of Hoover administration one of their issues.

North Dakota which formerly had five electoral votes, has four this year.

South Carolina's Vote in 1928
Smith 62,700; Hoover 5,858

South Carolina was one of the states of the "solid south" which remained quite unshaken by disunion in the 1928 election.

In that election Anti-Smith Democrats mustered but 2,670 votes for Hoover electors and Republicans cast but 3,188. Save for presidential electors, no Republican ticket was offered that year.

The Republican organization in the state this year is waging a more active campaign than in the past, under the leadership of J. C. Hambright, national committeeman, and D. A. Gardner, youthful state chairman who overturned the 50-year-old regime of "Tiess Joe" Tolbert.

A full ticket of Republican candidates for Congress has been offered, the first since 1876, with Miss Clara Hardigal, national committeewoman, seeking the Senate seat in opposition to Senator E. D. Smith, who defeated former Senator Cole Blaise for nomination.

Gardner, in an appeal for support of Republican candidates, emphasized prohibition as a major issue.

Votes cast in this year's Democratic primary totaled 271,000, an increase of 30,000 over 1930. Democratic leaders ascribed the increase to growing interest in public affairs.

South Carolina has 8 electoral votes this year. Before reappointment it had nine.

under Mr. Mulholland.

Mrs. Shindler has expressed much delight to see so many boys out for the glee club this year. For the last two or three days she has been trying out their voices.

The girls' glee club always has been large and following the usual custom this year, many girls came out for the glee club. Already several practices have been held.

Mr. Robeson is having to build the band up this year because of the loss of several seniors last year. He has had several meetings.

The newspaper club has had one meeting and a group of hard-working reporters were on hand determined to make the high school news an interesting section of the paper.

New Library Rules.

In an effort to increase the efficiency of the high school system a new set of library rules were put into operation on Monday of this week.

The rules require that boys only may go to the library during homeroom period on Tuesday and Thursday, except five subject students. Girls only may go to the library on Monday, Wednesday and Friday except five subject students. And perhaps one of the best of the new regulations is requiring each student who comes to the library to stay the entire period.

These rules prevent overcrowding of the library and yet give each student one period in the library each day. The third regulation will tend to decrease the wandering in the halls immensely, and should lend a greater quietness and atmosphere of working during the homeroom period.

WILBUR L. MAYO—11

Settle Down To Work.

The third week of school found practically every high school teacher and student adjusted to his work. The school program for the year, as well as individual schedule cards were planned during the summer, so that little time was lost in getting to work when school opened.

A number of changes were made in schedules during the first few days in order to arrange for a class in solid geometry and trigonometry. Since then class routine has gone on undisturbed.

Among the different organizations in the high school which are already functioning are the boys' and girls' glee club, under direction of Miss Shindler; band, under Mr. Robeson, and the newspaper club campaign job much to his liking. In the 1928 Presidential campaign and again in the 1930 Congressional campaign, Senator Tydings functioned as Chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Elections Committee.

It was his job to elect and re-elect Senators to sit on the right of the dividing aisle in the Senate. Although he was a first-termer and at the time barely forty years old, Tydings amazed some of the old-timers with his reputed ability to produce results. It wasn't long before they were referring to him as "Militant Millyard." After the 1930 campaign, his Democratic colleagues officially dubbed him "Glax Tydings."

Get Results

In 1928 the young Senator made at the time barely forty years old, selection time. In that year, despite failure of the national ticket in the States of Arizona, New York, Washington, Virginia, Utah, Tennessee, Nevada, Montana, and Wyoming, Democratic Senators were elected.

And in 1930, he and his committee planned the fight which resulted in a net gain of eight Democratic seats in the Senate, in addition to holding on successfully to two—for a total of ten, and bringing the party within shadow of control of that body.

This year, however, he had to relinquish his job to Senator Swanson of Virginia. Senate tradition bars a man who has a contest of his own from the chairmanship of the Elections Committee.

He Takes the Field

He was successful in getting the Democratic nomination for re-election in Maryland, but has a Republican opponent for the general election on November 8. And since Maryland already has one Republican Senator, Tydings had to take the field.

MARKET REPORT

Sharp Advance in Prices Thursday

Greenville is leading all Eastern Carolina markets in pounds sold and prices paid for every grade of tobacco. Competition has never been keener, and some of the markets are so desperate the warehouses are offering to haul your tobacco free with their trucks, if you will only take it to their warehouses. Every thinking farmer knows that this practice of hauling tobacco free is dangerous and that by doing so, they cannot get what rightfully belongs to them. There is bound to be trickery when one offers something for nothing. We are asking you not to be misled by these markets in this way. Look them all over and you will be convinced Greenville is higher on every grade, and the place to sell your tobacco for more money. If they haul your tobacco free, whether you know it or not, you yourself are paying the bill, and paying dearly.

It is very important that you keep your tobacco dry. Many farmers are tying their tips without grading. Let us urge that you separate your green, black and reddish-brown leaves from your bright tobacco, and market it in the best possible condition.

Now that most of the cotton is picked, attention will be turned to marketing the tobacco. A great deal of tobacco reaches the market after sale time. Let us suggest that you bring it in earlier in order to avoid any rush.

School News

In Principle

"The principal part of everything is the beginning." Therefore, let us us begin well.

It would be excellent for us, at this time, to forget our successes and failures of the past and think only of beginning a new school term in a becoming manner. Such a thought should be prominent in the minds of every student. Although it is vitally necessary that each student should begin the year well, it is even more important if that student be a freshman who is beginning his first year in high school; or a senior who is beginning his last year.

In order to assure ourselves of a good beginning, each much watch the seemingly minor things. For beginning right our less noticeable duties such as uniform studying, proportional reading, being on time, and practicing courtesy, we shall find not only that our beginning has been good but that correct habits are making our school year successful.

GEORGE WILLARD, Jr.—11

Growing Before Hatching

With the coming of pre-music contest day, one will notice that the band and orchestra groups are being held in particularly high esteem. Faculty members, no doubt will accord them right of way in their studies and would-be editorial writers will venture forth to finish the glorification of these "Gallant Warriors of G. H. S." But to have bands, there must be players and instruments, and it seems to us that there is not the interest that the opportunities offered merit.

First, there are those who can play but who have not been impressed with the advantages thereof. Then there are those who are earning nothing of the opportunities, are naturally slow to take advantage. If those in charge and the student body itself would get behind the movement, more students would benefit from the department and the organization would not be handicapped in Greensboro by a lack of instrumentation. It may be true that more students are participating this year than last, but even this number is far below that which it should be.

The advantages of playing an instrument are multifold and would require another article to be enumerated—but not enough people are acquainted with the fact that what our band really needs is less advertising in May and more in September. In other words—if the student body, the faculty and the town would "love our music department as much in September as it evidently does in May," G. H. S. would have a band and orchestra really worth chowing about.

Attendance Contest.

Continuing the practice of last year the local schools in conjunction with the State Theatre, will sponsor an attendance contest during the 1932-33 semester. The rules are the same as those of last year.

To the members of that assembly in each school which has the best attendance and tardy record passes to a specified attraction at the State Theatre will be awarded. Each contest period will last four weeks and awards will be made immediately.

This plan worked very successfully last year, and it is expected to create interest and accomplish even more good this year.

METROPOLITAN STAR FIRST ATTRACTION AT COLLEGE

The blonde loveliness of Grace Moore, Metropolitan opera star who is to appear at East Carolina Teachers College on the evening of October 24, has made someone call her the "Fairy Princess."

She has golden hair, cornflower blue eyes, and is slim and graceful. The rapid rise to fame from school girl trials in a southern town to a favorite singer in three fields of art sounds more like a fairy tale than fact.

After every stage there has been a glamor romance. A little more than a year ago she married a wealthy Spaniard, a motion picture star, after a short courtship. Her husband will be with her on part of her coast to coast tour this fall. The two are said to have much in common and may some day make a motion picture together.

Dance Revue The Junior Woman's Club will sponsor Mrs. Zelma Russ McEvoy's "Dance Revue" Friday evening at 8:30 in the Greenville high school auditorium. Admission, 10 and 20 cents.—(Adv.)

EIGHT STATES ARE REPRESENTED AT COLLEGE

Pitt county has 201 students enrolled in East Carolina Teachers College, approximately 22 per cent of the total enrollment. A majority of the boys who are registered are from Greenville and Pitt.

There are seven other states represented, with Virginia furnishing nine and South Carolina eight. Maryland sends two and Massachusetts, Connecticut and New York one each. There is one girl from Canada. There are 76 counties represented, with few except those from the extreme west not on the list. There are 27 with ten or more students enrolled.

Nash comes second to Pitt county, then then order is: Johnston, Wayne, Wilson and Edgecombe. After the first group, composed of neighboring counties, they begin to scatter. Union and Robeson are in the next group.

A few are still straggling in, as registration is allowed until the end of the second week.

RALLY DAY AT THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Next Sunday, October 9th, has been set as Rally Day at the Presbyterian Church, when there is special effort made to get every member of the church to attend the Sunday school and church services for that day.

The Sunday school has prepared a special program for the whole of the hour, 9:45 to 10:45 a. m., during which every department will have a part, and an effort is made to increase the enrollment in every class. A special offering will be taken up for aiding in the organization of new Sunday schools in the south.

A call is being made for fathers and mothers to be present with all of their children, including the babies. Any persons not connected with any Sunday school is invited to come and enroll in one of the classes. Be sure to come yourself, and bring someone with you.

F. W. BAPTIST CONCERT CLASS HERE TONIGHT

The Free Will Baptist Orphanage concert class from Middlesex will give their annual program in the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church this evening at eight o'clock. This program will consist of solos, duets, quartets, musical recitations, an operetta, etc. Admission is ten and twenty cents.

A special invitation is extended to everyone to attend this concert.

WOMAN'S CLUB OUTLINES WORK FOR YEAR 1932-1933

On Thursday afternoon the Woman's Club held the first meeting of the year with the president Mrs. E. L. Henderson, in the chair. The first meeting of the year is always full of interest for at this time the plans of the various departments and committee are given. The reports showed that the chairman of each and every department has been busy and is going to keep herself and others busy throughout the club year.

Mrs. J. L. Fleming, for American Citizenship, said her department would be especially from now until November, urging the women to vote in the national and state election. Since this is legislative year, club women will be interested in several bills that will come before the legislature and the local club women will be asked to study these special bills and use their influence in getting them passed. One regular club meeting will be given to some particular study of citizenship. This year the state president is asking every club woman to interest herself in the institute of popular government, literature pertaining to this was given to every woman present.

The American Home Department will give a special program in November. Miss Lella Higgs, chairman, has many interesting things planned for this meeting.

Mrs. Ed Harvey announced that the prize of ten dollars given each year in the local high school to be awarded to the high school pupil doing the best work, has again been offered. She said a program on the Sallie Southall Cotten Loan Fund will be given during the year at which time the Loan Fund girls at E. C. T. C. will be special guest speakers. Encouragement will be given all educational projects in the city. Magazines will be collected and distributed where they will do most good. As usual this department will assist other organizations in the city in observance of Book Week.

The Garden Club will sponsor plant exchanges, fall and spring flower shows, continue work on Sallie Southall Cotten Drive, encourage every movement for the beautification of Greenville and endeavor to complete funds for fountain on Fifth street. Program for the April club meeting will be furnished by this department.

Mrs. W. A. Darden said that the program committee for the Literature Department had worked out a unique program. That the department will meet each two weeks as heretofore. Several guest speakers will appear on the program during the year. Special effort will be made to interest women in the different literary contests sponsored by the Federation and it is hoped many entries will go in from Greenville.

The Music Department is going to teach every club woman to sing the club hymn. It is to be sung at each general meeting of the club. Special music will be furnished for the district meeting and other important meetings of the year. National Music Week will be observed. Our American Composers will be studied. Mrs. Katherine Thomas is chairman of this department and will have charge of one of the general programs during the year.

The Public Welfare Department is busy throughout the year. Cooperating as it does with the county boards of health and public welfare it always has more calls than it can answer. During the summer the department has paid the hospital bill for a very sick child and contributed towards the upkeep of two Pitt county citizens at State Sanatorium. Tuberculosis and child welfare are specialties of this department. The funds are largely raised through the Christmas Seal sale. Mrs. Ragsdale, chairman of this department, is already making plans for this sale. Mrs. Wiley Brown is treasurer of this department.

Mrs. Henderson announced that the 15th district of the N. C. F. W. C., will hold its annual meeting in Greenville on October 19. The Round Table, the Junior Woman's and the Woman's Club as hostesses. To this meeting 21 clubs will send delegates to hear the state officers give plans of the Federation for this year. Reports of the best work done by the clubs of the district will be given. The business sessions will be held in Memorial Baptist Church

Remodel Store Of Quinn-Miller Co.

The Quinn-Miller & Company store on Fifth Street, which was recently damaged by fire, was under-going remodeling today. A large force of carpenters and painters was busy obliterating all signs of the fire which did considerable damage on every floor of the building.

The fire sale started about two weeks ago was still in progress today, and has attracted attention of people from this and adjoining counties. The entire stock of furniture is being sold at greatly reduced prices and hundreds of people have obtained splendid values.

The store, one of the most handsome in this part of the State, will present even a more attractive appearance when the painters and carpenters complete their work.

At length there are ten or a dozen selected, and the casting forces are in a quandry because "King of the Jungle" needs more and "All these fellows," as one comments in disgust, "look like hotel porters, not African natives. Bring in some more!" At which another motley assortment of 30-odd less in, similarly to be examined.

"No wonder I had to interview 500 of 'em for the last African picture we made—500 to get 85 authentic types!" the casting assistant groans. "They're too civilized!"

By WILLIAM GAINES New York, Oct. 7.—There's an unusual angle to this story of the actress who married the rich man—Belle Blanche's story, I mean.

It's another one of those pretty romances of Broadway which bob up from time to time, and weigh against the familiar situation of the stage beauty who marries wealth for a brief and sensational splurge.

Belle is back on the stage after a seventeen-year absence; because her husband's fortune was swept away. Her life of luxury and ease a thing of the past, she came back to help her husband in his battle to provide for her and their two children.

She was at the height of her career at 22, appearing with George M. Cohan, the Dolly Sisters and Peggy Wood in the "all-star" cast of "Hello, Broadway!" It was then that she became engaged to Larry Cohn, the broker. She married him, returned to the stage briefly, to fill one previously booked vaudeville engagement, then went into retirement.

Prezel Has a Rival The roasted peanut is becoming a serious rival of the pretzel in a type of establishment where the pretzel long has reigned supreme.

I don't mean the salted nut from the nickel-in-the-slot machine, either. That's nothing new in such places, of course. But now we find, free for the taking, a row of great bowls of peanuts on the counters in many addresses.

The patrons shell and eat them as they linger over glasses of foaming amber fluid. Husks pile ankle deep upon the floor. Consumption of the nuts is enormous and promotes a correspondingly large drain from the spigots.

Belle began her career as a child of ten, making her first Broadway appearance at the old New York theater, operated by H. J. Sire. Her name was Blanche Minzesheimer, but Sire billed her as La Belle Blanche. Later she dropped the La, when she was headlining bills that included such performers as Marie Dressler and Al Johnson.

The late Alan Dale, a critic who could be severe for his day and time, called Belle Blanche "the greatest child in the world."

Rheumatics THRILLED When Torturing Pains Are Stopped

A doctor met with such phenomenal success in treating rheumatism that his office was always crowded with patients from far and near. He made his outstanding prescription available through drug stores so all sufferers could benefit. Thousands who never dreamed such a thing possible have won absolute freedom from the torturing pains of rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago and neuritis by using his prescription. Makes no difference how intense the pain or how long it has been suffered. If very first three doses bring relief, comforting relief, and your money is refunded. There are no opiates or narcotics in Ru-No-Ma. Swift and powerful, yet absolutely harmless. Why waste time with anything that doesn't stop your pain? If Ru-No-Ma does that you know you will get well. Delay only causes suffering. Try this fast working prescription that puts bedridden, pain-racked sufferers on their feet ready for work or play!

SARGON SOFT MASS PILLS ARE DIFFERENT FROM ANY LAXATIVE I'VE EVER TAKEN. THEY DON'T SHOCK OR UPSET THE SYSTEM IN THE LEAST.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills are not like any laxative you have ever taken. They are so gentle and thorough in action that there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all, their directions call for a gradual reduction of the dose until the point is reached where you no longer require a laxative of any kind. This remarkable medicine may be obtained from: For Sale by Hill Horne Drug Store

Use This Laxative made from plants

Theodor's BLACK-DRAUGHT is made from plants that grow in the ground, like the garden vegetables you eat at every meal. NATURE has put into these plants an active medicine that stimulates the bowels to act—just as Nature put the materials that sustain your body into the vegetable foods you eat.

In Black-Draught you have a natural laxative, free from synthetic drugs. Its use does not make you have to depend on cathartic chemical drugs to get the bowels to act daily. Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for CHILDREN.

Junior Woman's Club. Farmville, Oct. 6.—Miss Mae Joyner charmingly entertained the Junior Woman's Club on Saturday afternoon at her home on Church street. Miss Edna Foust Harris, the president, presided. This group of enthusiastic young club women will endeavor to attend the district meeting to be held in Greenville October 19, 1900 per cent strong.

Mrs. G. S. Vought, sponsor of the Juniors, read a report of the achievements of N. C. Juniors during the past year and appealed to the organization to bend its energies towards further advancement in the several departments of activity outlined by the State Federation. Misses Lucy Johnston, Sally Norwood, Elizabeth Dixon and Frances Joyner were extended a cordial welcome as new members by the president.

A program on the early life and the homes of George Washington was presented by Misses Edna Foust Harris and Elizabeth Fields.

After the program the hostess invited the guests into the dining room for refreshments. A lace cloth covered the table, which was centered by a mixed arrangement of flowers and lighted by candles. Miss Elizabeth Fields poured tea and Mrs. Francis Warren and Miss Sue Barrett assisted in serving.

Special guests were Mrs. Francis Warren, Misses Sue Barrett and Gabriel Bland of Greenville, Mrs. Plato Monk and house guests, Misses Louise High and Elizabeth Powell of Whiteville.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS Hollywood, Calif., Oct. 7.—When ever that stirring grapevine that carries the latest news on Hollywood's doings conveys tidings that a new jungle epic is on schedule, Central Avenue moves in dusky cavalcade to the casting office.

Central Avenue is the Broadway of Los Angeles' negro population, and its collective heart beats more quickly at the mention of movie jobs. Didn't Stepin Fetchit make a splash in pictures, and isn't Clarence Muse one of the recognized character artists of the films?

So they collect by the hundreds outside the studio casting office, men and women, young and old, daddified dudes and hubly clad laborers, eager—and not mutely eager—to prove their qualifications as authentic "South African natives" and to don war paint, feathers, or mere loin-cloths that will put them in character for extra roles.

Hunting For 'Types' As for all mob talent, the casting office seeks in their midst for "types." Possible choices are admitted to a large ante-room where several casting assistants aid the director in spotting desiderata.

The candidates are lined against a wall, where they stand, some rigid, others shuffling nervously. Casting is impersonal here as elsewhere. The director points to this one in the line, and to that stalwart three men removed, beckons them forward. "You'll do," he says. "You here (tapping one's shoulder) "will have to cut that hair off. Report Tuesday morning."

Created chicken en timbal with mushrooms, tomato aspic, pickled peaches, hot rois, iced tea and sweets were served at the conclusion of five progressesions.

ABOUT TOWN

The coming of "Pete" Murphy to Greenville as chief speaker in the rally of young Democrats has been received with general satisfaction throughout the community. He is considered one of the ablest speakers of the state and the things he will have to say regarding the campaign will probably have a tremendous influence on the vote in November.

The rally is being staged by the young Democrats for the purpose of stimulating interest in the fight which the party is waging for presidential honors in the forthcoming election and it was believed the campaign will result in the largest vote in history of the county.

Pitt county piled up the second largest Democratic majority in the state in the last general election, being exceeded only by the county of Halifax. With sentiment preponderantly in favor of the Democratic leader this time it is the consensus of opinion that more people than ever will go to the polls to express their sentiment.

The report that opposition to religion is developing in some sections of the world is not to be doubted. Opposing forces in this country with churches just a few blocks apart is very pronounced. The reason is plain. Religion cramps the style of the people of the world, those who like to sit up all night and drink liquor and engage in questionable forms of diversion.

While opposition may be developing in some sources, the growth of the church will continue because it is the foundation of civilization, the bulwark upon which all the hopes and aspirations of mankind are founded. Religion is nothing but the teachings of Christ, and any man or faction attempting to detract from its power is simply a fool.

Increased enrollment has marked the opening of the majority of colleges in this state, proving conclusively that people are more interested in education today than they have ever been before. Increased attendance of schools in the face of the most pronounced financial shortage in the history of the world goes to prove that people realize how necessary is education in the complex life of the present, and realizing it are going after it in a way that bespeaks great things for the future of the nation and world.

A mind illuminated by a liberal education is far more able to cope with conditions than the untrained brain, and as people realize the fact interest in education probably will be in greater demand than it is at this period.

Through the creation of student loan funds and endowments colleges have made it possible for students to obtain an education much cheaper than in the old days when only the wealthy and most select found their way to the higher seats of learning. Thanks to the beneficence of the wealthy men of the nation, the child of the poorest person in the land may go to college if he so desires, and this fact is having a powerful effect in improving the social life of the nation.

The worst storm damage suffered by this county in years occurred in the Farmville community Wednesday night when a cyclone destroyed several farm buildings, uprooted trees and destroyed considerable vegetation. While the loss was severe the people of the community were happy because there was no loss of life.

From other sections of the country where similar storms struck, loss of life was reported. This shows how grateful the people of this section should be for the excellence of their climate. We have high winds at times, but we are completely free from the other elemental disturbances which carry havoc to other parts of the world.

Pitt county, blessed by the most fertile land in the country, has been extremely fortunate and the people should be thankful for the blessings which have been bestowed upon them at each season of the year when millions of dollars roll into pockets of the growers.

HOME PARK ADVANTAGE NOT BIG, FIGURES SHOW

Davenport, Ia., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Mississippi Valley League fans have reason to doubt whether there is any such advantage in a "home park" as baseball tradition has built up.

In the big leagues it is theorized that even a championship team would no more than break even "on the road" in order to have a winning margin when its "at home" results are in.

Yet a survey of results of 497 games in the Valley loop this season shows that the home teams were victorious in only 273 contests as against 224 for the visitors, a difference of only forty-nine.

This in spite of the fact that this league plays night baseball, where peculiarities of certain fields may be more marked, due to differences in lighting brilliance and distribution, than a strictly daylight league.

Deplore Child Beggars

St. Louis, Oct. 7.—(AP)—An appeal to the public not to give money to children begging on the streets has been issued by St. Louis relief authorities. All legitimate needs will be met by regular agencies, the statement said, pointing out that investigation revealed many cases of exploiting children.

Refrigerated Liner Service

New Orleans, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Refrigerator cargo service between New Orleans and London and Liverpool, which inaugurators claim is the first service of this kind, will be launched in October. The vessels which will sail monthly from this port will carry live provisions and other perishables.

Chapter 41
MRS. MELLISH AGAIN

Mrs. Mellish came into the library. Nobody would have known that she had been cooking. She wore her afternoon dress, with a medallion brooch depicting a pink church leaning a little sideways against a background of bright blue sky. She had an air of dignity and leisurely calm as she came to a standstill at a respectful distance and waited for Nan to speak.

"Please sit down," said Nan.

"I'd rather stand, ma'am."

"Did she do it on purpose? Did she know how difficult it was to talk to someone who stands literally as well as morally, on her dignity?"

Nan braced herself.

"I'd like you to sit, Mrs. Mellish."

She indicated a chair near her own.

After a momentary hesitation Mrs. Mellish advanced another chair—one without arms and straight in the back. Upon the extreme edge of this chair she seated herself, her body stiffly erect, and her hands neatly folded. After a suitable pause she said:

"Yes, ma'am?"

Nan leaned forward.

"I want you to help me."

Mrs. Mellish registered a blank inability to understand how she could possibly be of any assistance to Mrs. Weare. After a further pause, she again said:

"Yes, ma'am?"

Mrs. Mellish said, "Yes, ma'am?" for the third time.

Nan got up abruptly. If she were to sit still and listen to Mrs. Mellish saying "Yes, ma'am?" anything might happen. She felt a passing desire to pick up the nearest book and send it crashing through the window, or better still, straight at Mrs. Mellish's head.

She let the curtain fall and turned round again.

"You've known Jervis a long time."

"Yes, ma'am."

"You knew him when he was a little boy?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"You've known him all those years. We're in dreadful trouble about him—we think—that something—must have happened."

"Yes, ma'am," said Mrs. Mellish. There was a little heavy brass box on the telephone table; it was used to hold stamps. Nan wrenched her eyes away from it. She wanted to pick it up and throw it at Mrs. Mellish—hard. With an effort, she stood where she was.

"Do you know of anything that might have taken him away suddenly?"

Mrs. Mellish considered this in silence. She had been brought up to tell the truth, and classed lying with dirt, unpunctuality, gossip, and communism. There were worse sins, such as stealing, atheism, and immorality; but they hardly came within the purview of the respectable. After a suitable pause she compromised by saying:

"I can't say that I do."

"You'd tell me if you did—wouldn't you? Mr. Francis has gone to New York to make inquiries there, but—I don't feel as if Jervis had gone to New York."

Nan turned away and walked to the end of the room and back again. Mrs. Mellish never moved at all. She was sitting there because she had been ordered to sit; otherwise, she would have risen when Mrs. Weare had risen; but, having been ordered to sit, sit she would until she was ordered to rise. A stubborn sense of her own superiority upheld her. She knew her place, if Mrs. Weare didn't know hers. She looked up and saw Nan standing over her.

"Mrs. Mellish—you know something, what is it?"

Mrs. Mellish reinforced her dignity. This wasn't any way for a mistress to behave, and she didn't hold with it.

"You know something—"

"Indeed, ma'am—"

"Yes, you do!" The urgency of the tone melted into appeal. "Oh, won't you tell me?"

Mrs. Mellish sat up a little more stiffly.

"If I may put the question, ma'am—what makes you think as I have anything to tell?"

"You have—have you seen? I mean you to tell me what it is. It mayn't seem an important thing to you, but you've seen a young man, haven't you?—and you may have some reason for not wanting to tell me. I want you please put all that on one side and just tell me what it is? We've got nothing to go on, and it's like being shut up in a pitch dark room—even the least glimmer of light might show us where the door is. Don't you see that?"

There was another pause, and Mrs. Mellish said:

"No, ma'am."

The tears rushed into Nan's eyes. They were so hot with anger that they burned there. She stepped back because the impulse to take Mrs. Mellish by these plump cushioned shoulders and shake her until her eyes bulged and her teeth rattle was simply overpowering. After a moment, she said:

"You do know something—I know that you do! Why don't you tell me what you know?"

The subtle air of offense which had accompanied Mrs. Mellish to this interview became more noticeable. It wasn't for anyone that knew her manners to color up and behave hysterical like Mrs. Weare was doing. Mrs. Mellish thanked Providence she was not as other women were. She thanked Providence that she'd been brought up respectable. At her husband's funeral she had shed a widow's decorous tears, but she had been careful not to let them spoil her crepe. She despised Nan a good deal for her changing color and the quiver in her voice. She did not speak.

Nan went back to her chair and sat down. It was no good appealing to Mrs. Mellish. She knew very well that she was being despised, and the Forsyth pride stiffened her back. She allowed the silence to lengthen. Then she said, in a voice which Mrs. Mellish had not heard before, "I'm waiting."

"I beg your pardon, ma'am?"

"I'm waiting for you to tell me what you saw or heard on Tuesday night."

Nan's voice had no quiver in it now.

It was hard with authority. Mrs. Mellish looked up, a little surprised, and met steady eyes with something behind them that demanded an answer. The change flurried her a little. Uncovered words sprang to her lips.

"Nothing that was to say anything, ma'am."

"Then you did see something?"

Mrs. Mellish recovered herself. "I couldn't say, ma'am."

"I think you must say."

Mrs. Mellish bridled.

"I'm sure I'm the last to keep back anything as would be any help," she said. With the fingers of one hand she plecta a fold of the white linen handkerchief on her knee.

"Yes. What did you see?"

"I'm a poor sleeper," said Mrs. Mellish, "and when I don't sleep, it's my habit to make myself a cup of tea."

"Yes?" said Nan.

"I'd run out of tea," said Mrs. Mellish. "I make so bold as to keep some handy—I've a caddy that was given me by Mrs. Weare for the purpose. Tuesday night, my caddy was empty, and I went down to fill it. It might have been 3 o'clock or thereabouts."

"Yes?" said Nan. "Go on, please."

Mrs. Mellish meant to take her own time.

"I went down the back stairs, and so I come up. I had my candle in my hand, and when I come up to the second floor, the door through to the landing was half open. I put my hand on it to bring it to, and I heard a door open along the corridor."

"Yes?" said Nan. "What door was it?"

"It was Mr. Jervis' door—Mr. Weare, I should say—so I blew out my candle, it being an awkward time of night to meet a gentleman, and me in my dressing gown."

"Yes?" said Nan rather breathlessly.

Mrs. Mellish, tomorrow, at last tells whom she saw in Jervis' room.

U. N. C. SQUAD AT KNOXVILLE FOR VOL GAME

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 7.—The University of North Carolina football squad, which is to play Tennessee's Vols on Shields-Watkins Field in one of the South's leading games on Saturday, arrived this morning and was to take its last workout here this afternoon.

Head Coach Chuck Collins brought twenty-six players, including two men for every post, an extra end and halfback, and a couple of extra quarterbacks, just in case the experiment of Notre Dame football wants to rush in some new orders from the bench.

The squad looked to be well built, medium-weight, hard and eager. Coach Collins said all the boys were in good shape, but the Tar Heels would miss Tom White, regular halfback, who was left at home with a broken ankle sustained in the Vanderbilt game.

The Carolina would not give out a probable starting line-up, saying he had been doing much experimenting with his ball carriers this week, and wanted to look them over once more.

These Tar Heels have always been particular tartars for Tennessee. One of a dozen undefeated clubs in the nation last year, the Vols rode up good margins on teams like Alabama, Vanderbilt and New York University, but the best Neyland's men could do with Collins' portages was 7 to 0, and a fumble led to the Tennessee score then. And this year before it was 9 to 7.

The dopsters figure anything may happen tomorrow, but Neyland and the Vols expect the worst. Tennessee looked impressive beating Mississippi 33 to 0 last week, a feat that made Coach Dan McGuin of Vanderbilt say they showed more improvement than any team in the South that week, but the Tar Heels are due to hit their scoring stride after the huge yardage and arduous under count they wasted against Vanderbilt last week.

Tomorrow's game will match many stars, including Center Maples, Tackle Alken, Halfback Feathers and Fullback Wynne, of Tennessee, and Center Underwood, Guard Barclay, Tackles Hodges and Walker, Quarterback Chandler and Halfbacks Phlips and Daniel of Carolina.

The other Tar Heels whom Coach Collins is counting on in Carolina's fight for a comeback and an upset

BLUE DEVILS PREPARE FOR ALABAMA TILT

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 7.—The Blue Devils of Duke, led by that well-known local guru, Wallace Wade tarried here this morning and were taking a light workout this afternoon on Legion Field, the scene of their featured clash tomorrow with the Auburn Plainsmen.

While it was the first appearance of a Duke football team in this city, the presence of Coach Wade, who came here annually a few years ago with his great Alabama teams, made the Blue Devils look almost familiar.

The Duke squad was in good condition. Early this week they were struck a hard blow when it was announced that Joe Sink, veteran center, could play no more football due to a leakage of the heart, and that Corky Cornelius, promising sophomore halfback, would probably be out for the season with a slightly chipped bone in his ankle.

The Blue Devils have worked all week on a plan to stop the high-scoring Plainsmen and will depend tomorrow on their defense for the victory they are anxious to take back home. They have won this season over Davidson College, 13 to 0, and over V. M. I. 44 to 0.

The game will be the first conference test for Auburn after 61 to 0 and 77 to 0 over Birmingham-Southern and Erskine respectively. In those two contests they presented what is said to be the fastest backfield and one of the most powerful offensive teams in the South.

Why Rival Coaches Pale—31 'Irish' Veterans Back

Filling Schwartz's Shoes Only Tough Problem as Notre Dame Readies for Its Campaign

By JOHN W. STAHR

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 5.—(AP)—On a campus where there were enough deserving football players to earn thirty-one sweaters last year, it doesn't figure as a hard task to replace eight of those sweater-winners out of one year's normal increment of talent.

Such a situation prevails this fall at Notre Dame, and Coach Hearty Anderson is frank to admit he has as much material as he knows what to do with, including aspirants to Marchmont Schwartz' ball-carrying job at left halfback.

All-America Schwartz' departure was the only really important break in the multitudinous ranks of Notre Dame 1931 backfielders, and while no one hereabouts has yet espied a "second Schwartz," the feeling is that the football will be carried, passed and punted this fall with just about as devastating effect as when the Mississippi Marauder personally attended to those details.

Graduation hit the line considerably harder, taking All-America Tom Yarr, center; near-regular tackles Culver and Kozac; Guard Nordie Hoffman, and End Mahoney. Despite this seeming sweep no one seems inclined to feel downhearted.

Pleanty of Line Talent

And why should they, with first-string tackles Joe Kurth and Ed Krause, two of the best in the country, back on the job? Five of the six lettermen guards return—Pierce, Harris, Greeney, Wunsch and Pivarnik.

Captain Paul Host can switch over from left to right end to fill Mahoney's place, and Ed Kosky thus can have full title to the berth he has divided with Host for two seasons. Hugh DeVore is another strong flanker.

Tom Gorman is slated to inherit Yarr's pivot job, and Yarr will be there to coach him along. Ben Alexander, another letterman, liens up as next choice for snapper-back.

After Schwartz' Post

Nick Lukats, of Gary, Indiana, cut last season with a broken leg, and Mike Koken, a small but compact streak from Youngstown, O., likely will battle it out for Schwartz' old post. Both can kick and pass as well as take the ball places.

Frank LaBorne, of Brooklyn, while not so talented as a kicker or thrower, is another candidate for left-half. He can transport the ball with great dispatch.

Other Changes Unlikely

At right half, denominated the star blockader's post, last year's first-string incumbent, Joe Sheeketski, of Bellaire, O., may be hard pressed by Ray Brancheau, a heftier fellow, and Duke Milheam, a left-handed passer.

The quarterbacking and fullbacking staffs will remain essentially the same as last year, barring the onrush of some as yet unpublicized sophomores. Chuck Jaskwich, Ed Murphy, Laurie Bejar, Al McGuff and Mill Foley are the signal callers.

George Melinkovich and Steve Banas will be at the punting post. Banas was out much of last campaign because of injury, but is highly regarded by the coaching staff and has shown great class when he had the opportunity.

Two Caridoes—Angelo, a cousin, and Fred, brother of the famous Frank—are among the sophomores. They play quarter and full respectively.

Two new opponents are on the Irish schedule—Haskell Indians and Kansas, replacing Indiana and Pennsylvania. The card, however, is as diverse and far-flung as ever, involving games with Pitt, Carnegie Tech, a year ago after a long career in baseball, John "Red" Corriden is sitting pretty comfortably as a coach for the National League champion Cubs.

Corriden "resigned" as manager of the Indianapolis entry in the American Association in August, 1931, as he was nearing the end of his second unsuccessful season there. He caught on with the Cubs at the end of last season and this far participates in a generous slice of World Series money.

A minor scandal which embroiled Corriden in his freshman year in the big leagues—with the St. Louis Browns in 1910—was thought by some baseball experts to have cut down his playing time in the big show, although he was absolved from any complicity in the affair.

Lajoie's Cousin

It was in the season finale of 1910, when Ty Cobb and Larry Lajoie were in a neck and neck fight for the league batting championship, that Corriden a raw rookie, was sent to third base for the Browns against Cleveland in a double-header.

That day Lajoie made eight base hits, seven of them on bunts down the third base line, while Rookie Corriden, it developed, was playing "deep" for Lajoie under orders.

The late Ben Johnson, as president of the league, ordered an "investigation" and gave Corriden a clean bill of health. As it happened, Cobb won the batting championship that year by a fraction of a point.

George Boigt

It was only the afternoon before that outburst that, to my inquiry regarding his health, Francis replied: "I only wish my golf was as good right now as my physical condition."

For an 'umblin' game it's hard to beat golf, as Miss Helen (Billie) Hicks, national women's champion in 1931, will admit following her failure to qualify in defense of the title this year.

It is difficult to figure a golfer of her experience and calibre taking an 89 for the one-round test leading up to the match play activities, but that's just what the popular Long Island girl did.

She can now sympathize with Harrison (Jimmy) Johnston, the Minnesota veteran who has failed to qualify in three successive tournaments since he beat Dr. Oscar Willing for the championship at Pebble Beach in 1929.

The link pursued Johnston at Merion in 1930, Beverly in 1931 and Five Farms this year, despite a previous tournament record that marked him as one of the best medal players among the amateurs.

For that matter Francis Ouimet had a real struggle to qualify himself at Five Farms. Ouimet had only a stroke to spare in gaining the qualifying fold and needed a great finish to save himself from elimination. Whereupon he went out in the first round of match play the following morning and shot the first nine holes at Five Farms in 30, five under par, to annihilate

SUNDOWN STORIES

By Mary Graham Bonner

"Now for mending the roof," said Willy Nilly, after he and Rip had got up and had their breakfast. "It's a fine sunny day and we ought to finish the job. I think I'll fill in the cracks and then get some heavy paint which will keep the roof from leaking."

"Have we any around here?" Rip asked.

"Not enough for the roof," said Willy Nilly. "I just have enough left over from painting. I'll get some right away down at Puddle Muddle's store."

"I'll wait for you," said Rip. "A little nap after breakfast is very pleasant."

"What! Don't you want to romp?" Willy Nilly asked. "You shouldn't need a nap when you've just had a night's rest."

"Sleeping makes me sleep," said Rip, as he yawned.

"You should really put your yawning in front of your mouth when you yawn," Willy Nilly said. "That's what they call manners. Not that it matters to me."

"Well, I suppose it would impress such grand creatures as the Quakers of Quackerville if I tried," Rip said.

So Rip yawned again and put his paw in front of his mouth. He did not do it very well at first, and by the time he was doing it better he was very tired.

"I certainly won't be able to go down to the store in Puddle Muddle now," he said, as he barked gently. "I'm too tired from trying to have manners."

So Willy Nilly went away by himself.

DEPOSITS OF BANK MOUNT

1932, to September 30, 1932. The report placed deposits for June at $92,992.34, while those of September increased to $1,342,566.13.

While the opening of tobacco market has helped the financial condition of the locality, it was said this was not the sole cause of the rapid jump in deposits. Opinion was expressed that people were bringing their money out of hiding and putting it back into the channels of trade.

The recent depression which swept from one end of the world to the other was attributed largely to the hoarding of funds, and now the condition is being relieved, it is believed the financial situation would reflect improvement in all parts of the country.

Quinley, Mrs. Joe Whitaker and P. B. Pollock, of Ayden. Twenty-five valuable prizes will be given to the winners in the parade. Hon. Lindsey C. Warren of the First Congressional District will introduce Mr. Ehringhaus. At 3:30 p. m. a football game will be played by the Beaufort "Sea Dogs" and the Ayden "Tornadoes."

A brass band composed of Greenville High School boys will be here to furnish music for the occasion.

CAMPAIGN ABOUT TO SEE REVIVAL OF WET-DRY TILT

Little about politics, Mr. Roosevelt launched into a speaking campaign devoted to the economic situation, power, railroads, farm relief and a host of separate issues, with only a few mentions of the dry laws.

In local politics the discussion was kept up by the clashing views of candidates for State office and for Congress, but in a national sense it

Stock Market

New York, Oct. 7.—The stock market broke through its resistance today as active selling resumed today. The market rallied but turned downward during midday losses of two to more than 5 points.

Selling appeared in farm implements and foods but quick spread. Union Pacific lost 5 points and other issues down two to four included American Telephone, American Tobacco, Southern Pacific, Corn Products and International Harvester.

A 134 issues recovered a point or more in the late hours as profit-taking subsided. The market recovered moderately in late trading. The first showed little vitality on the rally.

The turnover was around 2,400,000 shares.

The interim gave State and local conventions and candidates an opportunity to figure out for themselves how far they wanted to go and their national leaders with more comprehensive index to the collective sentiment of the two-party organizations.

A contributing factor was hesitation and disagreement among the party organizations, which have been going through a long period of pondering since Chicago.

Four years ago, party leaders sprang no action immediately after the conventions and no one was permitted to forget the subject of prohibition. This time a lingering succession of conferences, many of them ending in disrepute, put a brake on the ordinary processes of developing definite lines.

Thus it is only in October that the organized forces in the equation of party and non-party, may be said to have "haken down their respective positions, and to be ready to proceed."

The current report is that the Democrats will take the lead in the East, a revival of the issue, while the Republicans will concentrate on the West.

But in one form or another, as things are shaping up, both parties will be prepared to meet the opposition in both East and West, and to hit it out all along the line in the closing days of the campaign.

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 7.—Cotton futures closed steady 9 to 11 points higher. Bidding was not active and selling was up to 7.09 for December at the start. December reacted to 7.03 but there was enough covering and trade demand to hold the market steady at the end of first half hour. Moderate volume of business developed later in the morning and fluctuation was ordinary. Offerings were not large.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL PROPERTY

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in that certain Mortgage Deed dated September 2, 1929, executed by J. M. Dixon to Lena Earle Andrews, which appears of record in Book D.18 at page 17 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, default having been made in the payment of the notes therein secured, the undersigned mortgagee will, on Monday, the 17th day of October, 1932 at 12:00 o'clock Noon before the court house door in Greenville, N. C., offer for sale and sell to the highest bidder for cash, the following described real property, to-wit:

The one-half (1-2) undivided interest of J. M. Dixon in and to that certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in Pactolus Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and known as a part of the Blakey Farm, lying on the East side of the road leading from Boyd's Ferry to Pactolus, and bounded by the lands of Mrs. Norman Edwards, A. Tucker, John Proctor, Grindie Creek, and Tar River, and containing 857.6 acres of land, more or less as will appear by reference to map made by William P. Freeman, Jr., April, 1929.

This is the 16th day of Sept., 1932. Lena Earle Andrews, Mortgagee.

Greenville is the World's largest bright leaf tobacco market. The growing, marketing, and processing of tobacco is Greenville's leading industry. State Bank & Trust Company is Greenville's youngest financial institution. Up to and including September 30th, the date of this statement, Greenville had sold 10,634,438 pounds of tobacco. Of this amount sales aggregating 6,123,722 pounds were paid through State Bank & Trust Company—or 57.58 per cent of the total sales of the world's largest bright leaf market. These figures accurately illustrate the prominent part Pitt County's Youngest Bank is taking in financing this section's leading industry. And, contrary to the general trend of bank deposits, ours have shown a substantial increase over those of a year ago. On September 29, 1931, they stood at $694,143.02. Today they are $809,818.71—and increase of $115,675.69. We invite a careful analysis of the above statement, for it is upon its strength and the facts that it contains that we solicit your business.
