Administration Is Silent Over French Effort For Cancellation of War Debt

PRES. HOOVER AGAINST PLAN

Officials Point to Attitude of President as Expressed in Recent Addresses For Declaration that this Nation is Opposed to Debt Reduction or Cancellation; Door Not Closed to Discussion for Readjustment of Question, However. High to Play

Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Administration officials today refused to discuss Premier Herriot's statement quoted by the Paris press that he will continue effort to secure cancellation or reduction of that part of war debts to this country which is not a commercial obligation.

President Hoover's speech accepting the nomination and in his Des Moines address were pointed out by State Department officials as the administration position.

These statements were said to be flatly against the cancellation of war debts, but did not close the door to negotiations for readjustment.

SAYS TROOPS NOT NEEDED

Resignation of Pelham Glassford Reverts from Fort to Make Change in His Department Personnel; Meets Opposition from Officials; Declares Bonus Army Could have Been Handled Without the Aid of Troops.

Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Pelham G. Glassford, superintendent of Washington police, who was at odds with administration officials over the calling of troops for the eviction of the bonus army from Washington sometime ago, tendered his resignation to District of Columbia commissioners today.

Glassford in submitting his resignation disputed that he had said the calling of troops was necessary to restore order following clashes between bonus marchers and the police department. His resignation however, grew out of the official opposition in the change of personnel which he wished to make in the police department.

Criticized because of the manner in which he handled the bonus army eviction, Glassford replied that the situation was never out of control of the police. He reiterated that calling of the troops from government property was unnecessary.

In his letter of resignation as head of the police department, he said he had accepted the office on condition that he have free hand in selection and assignment of his principal assistant.

"I find myself," he said, "in the equivocal position, of so many other police chiefs in the United States, namely holding a position of great responsibility, but deprived of essential authority to discharge my duties.

The speaker was presented by Congressman Lindsay Warren, who paid tribute to Mr. Reynolds and described him as one of the ablest political leaders of the State.

The speaker started off by expressing his appreciation of the fine parade, the hospitality and the large crowd gathered to hear him. He said he had come to this part of the State for the purpose of talking to the rank and file of people, not alone to the Democrats, but to the Republicans as well.

He said the Republicans were not responsible for the sins committed by their leaders and that thousands of them were deserting their party and were going to vote the Democratic ticket this year.

"And I," he said, "am going to be one who will extend them a most cordial welcome. I don't believe in cursing them, for I number among them in Western North Carolina some of my warmest personal friends."

Mr. Reynolds spoke of the birth of the Democratic party, telling how Thomas Jefferson realized that prosperity must first start with the tillers of the soil and then work upward. Alexander Hamilton, on the other hand, he said, believed that prosperity must start with those in the upper strata of life. He explained why Hamilton's idea could never work out successfully, although the Republicans had tried it ever since the party was organized.

In discussing present-day conditions, the speaker said that the most nauseating thing in the country today was the Republican party bowing to the wishes of Wall Street.

He said that prosperity—a lasting prosperity—could never return to the nation until a definite change of policy went into effect. He spoke of the tariff, he mentioned the farm loan board and he paid his respect to various other Republican policies and doctrines. The audience applauded frequently and enthusiastically. Those attending the gathering proclaimed it as one of the greatest and most successful political rallies ever held in this section of the State.

Complete Plans For Staging Fair Here Next Week

Pitt County will have a Fair this year. It was announced today by a representative of Roland Exposition Shows, who was in the city making preparations for throwing open the fair grounds to the public here next week.

The Fair it was stated will consist of twenty-five high class shows in addition to many midway attractions, fair exhibits, school exhibits and contests.

One of the highlights of the exposition will be a Hoover cart rodeo Wednesday. Numbers of this late medium of transportation were expected to take part.

Admission to the grounds will be free of charge.

Two bands will furnish music for the fair, and sensational free acts will be put on from time to time in front of the grandstand.

Six riding devices will contribute to the fun on the midway, and offer opportunity for both children and grown-ups to get a real kick out of their midway ramblings.

District Women's Clubs Meet Here

Marked by a program of interesting addresses, reports and awarding of attendance prizes, the annual meeting of the Fifteenth District of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs was held at Memorial Baptist Church yesterday.

Mrs. W. S. Carawan, district president, presided, and about two hundred members from Bertie, Beaufort, Hyde, Martin, Pitt, Tyrrell and Martin counties were in attendance.

The principal address was delivered by Mrs. J. M. Hobgood, of Farmville, State president, and former president of the district. She discussed the ideas of the club and attempted to show what was being achieved by the State organizations.

A representative of the director of relief work in the State spoke of the welfare situation and what is being done to take care of the indigent during the winter. He referred especially to the government's attempt to aid in this work and the tremendous sum of money to be spent in this cause in all sections of the country.

Two-minute reports regarding activities of the twenty-two clubs of the districts were read by the presidents, and these indicated that each has been able to accomplish much good during the past year.

Prizes for the best attendance were won by the Woman's Club of Aurora and Junior Woman's Club of Farmville. The prizes were awarded at a luncheon served at the Woman's Club by members of the Junior Woman's Club of Greenville.

The basket lunch was served by Miss Sonora Moore, Miss Mary Wright, Mrs. Jesse Moye, Miss Margaret Fleming, Mrs. Norman Winslow, and Miss Clara Louise Moye.

Pages for the occasion were furnished by the Junior Woman's Club of Greenville. They were Miss Sonora Moore and Mrs. Frances Bowen.

Hostesses were: The Woman's Club, Mrs. E. L. Henderson, president; Round Table Club, Mrs. R. L. Smith, president; Junior Woman's Club, Mrs. W. F. Young, president.

The session opened at 10 o'clock and was concluded with the luncheon at 1 o'clock.

Popularity Contest Closes.
Ayden, Oct. 20.—The baby popularity contest which has been in progress here for a week, came to a successful close on Saturday night. Much hard work has been done by the chairman of the ways and means committee, Prof. W. M. Jenkins and his helpers, Mrs. William Quinley, Mrs. W. D. Johnson and Mrs. S. M. Edwards.

The contest began with a baby parade and prizes were given for the most attractive entry. The contestants were divided into two groups, from infancy to two years, and from two to five. The winner in the younger group was Lois Ann Kilpatrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kilpatrick; prize, sleeping garments, given by the Denton Company. Raymond Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Pierce, won the prize in the older group, a lumber jacket and cap.

Keen interest was manifested in the voting in the popularity contest which was also divided into two groups with age limits as in the parade. Helen Joyce Whitehurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Whitehurst, was winner in the younger group with 3700 votes, with Goodwin Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Church Moore, a runner-up. Alice Jean Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Johnson, won in the second group with 1200 votes. Raymond Pierce was runner-up.

The prizes in this contest are hand-tinted photographs to be given by the Baker Studios in Greenville.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Karin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. One bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, Oct. 20.—There'll be a job open for some new member of the House in the next Congress—one that will project him into the limelight immediately and keep him there as long as he desires.

Underhill, of Massachusetts, is retiring from the House at the close of the present Congress, thus leaving the job open. Anyone who wants it and has enough nerve can have it.

It requires only about fifteen minutes after the Speaker has banged his gavel at noon opening the session. All that is necessary is to be able to yell a lusty "I object!"

"Debunking" Thee Record Underhill constantly battled to hold the appendix down. He called the Record a "catch all" for members of Congress, pleaded with members that it be "debunked" and did a lot of "debunking" himself with his "I object."

He made wide studies of the Record of several Congresses. He found, among other things, that in one case alone it cost the government $13,706.85 for a member to extend his remarks.

He asserted also that Congressmen like to tickle the vanity of their constituents by printing articles and speeches that the constituents themselves make; that others clutter the pages with statistics only of interest to their own districts, and that newspaper editorials are inserted which favor publishers.

Some of the members, Underhill says, insert long reports on what they have done in Congress, have it printed and broadcast over their districts just before election time.

Harsh Words and Glares
At times he was razed unmercifully by his colleagues for his ideas on Record reform. His "I objects" often brought harsh words and glares from his colleagues. Many times a member would wait until he had gone from the chamber, then hastily insert his speech or article.

But when Underhill was on the spot few got by him.

A PATH TO PARADISE
 by Coningsby  DAWSON

SYNOPSIS: Clive, driving wildly through the night to Santa, reviews his situation. He loves Santa, daughter of his guardian, Eric Dawn, whom his mother jilted in favor of the handsome man who became his father. Partly through jealousy of Clive, Santa's mother has kept Santa in Europe, where she has become an irresponsible expert at leading men on to make fools of themselves. Now she has telegraphed Clive, on vacation at Cape Cod, to go to her at once. At last she is ready to settle down to marriage with him, Clive feels sure.

Chapter 4

ENTER DICKY DAK

Spick and span after a bath at his club and a telephone call to Santa, Clive set out on the last lap of his long drive from Cape Cod to the Dawn country place in New Jersey.

The Dawn butler had told him Santa was out, and he had suspected a white lie. This time, however, he thought he divined her motive. Preliminary speech would spoil the high bor, she smiled angelically. "Nice old thing." She shot him a melting glance. This time he described his symptoms more eloquently, rising to poetic heights. This sacred, day; The arbor sacred. The swimming-pool sacred. The wood a shrine. And to meet thus after all their wanderings. (See being eighteen; he four years her senior!) The solemnity of the moment.

"And I can't live without you." "But darling," she protested, stroking his hand. "Except for our last parting you've always been most comfortable."

Their fingers intertwined. Hers twitched and fluttered. Unsurprised and smiling, she came to him without a struggle. He stooped, drinking in her eyes. The white lids fell like shutters. Her lips pouted.

"Noses do get in the way." Her bubbling laugh recalled him. "Feel better now, don't you?" He felt exultant.

"I saw at once what was the matter with you," she continued. "You have not kissed a girl for ages. Now let's be sensible. Why do you think I sent for you?"

"Because you've been hungry for me the way I've been hungry for you." She shook her head, not exactly in denial.

"I always miss you, Clive. But that wasn't why. It was because I've done something. I was afraid you might hear it second-hand. Clive, dear, I'm engaged."

They sat so silent that they could almost hear the tinkle of the sunshine. "You're disappointed in me."

"Don't be absurd." There was rough tenderness in his voice. "I'm thinking what's best to be done. Is this engagement official? What I mean is, have your parents consented."

"Mummy has. In a way she made it. Daddy's been told, if that's what you call consenting."

"Who is the poor sucker?" She shrugged her delicate shoulders. "Sucker's not complimentary. He's my late partner at tennis."

"Good grief, Santa! What kind of a mother have you?" "What's the matter with Mummy?" she asked on the defensive.

"Nearly everything," he blurted. "A PATH TO PARADISE—Gal 2. 'Put yourself in her place and suppose you had a daughter. Wouldn't you rather see her single forever than a man nearly old enough to be her father?'"

"Don't exaggerate, Clive. He's only fourteen years older than I am."

"Only! Then he's only six years younger than your mother. She must be crazy."

"You've got it wrong, Clive. I'm following my instinct—doing what I consider wise."

"Consider again," he snapped. "Let me ask one question. Do you love him?"

"No girl's so dumb as to marry for love nowadays."

"Then for what?"

"Companionship."

He withdrew his arm.

ABOUT TOWN

Friday night is being looked forward to with interest by Young Democrats of the community in view of the coming of "Pete" Murphy of Salisbury, who will be the principal speaker at a rally in the courthouse.

The address will be the opening gun of the campaign fired in Greenville, although the first shot of the county drive was fired in Ayden Saturday two weeks ago.

Young Democrats believe they will be able to send additional hundreds to the polls this time to cast their vote for Governor Roosevelt through intensive organization in various parts of the county.

They are of the opinion that the speech by Murphy will add exceedingly to their effort to poll the greatest vote ever registered in the county and help elect both state and national candidates.

The campaign is the greatest in which the young people have ever before taken part and when the ballots have been counted it will certainly be found that their efforts got results.

The fire loss in North Carolina showed a pronounced upward trend the past September, bringing forcefully to the forefront the fact that there is need for greater caution on the part of the citizenship generally.

The loss in Greenville last year was the greatest in a number of years because of warehouse fires that boosted the total to no little extent, and will be increased considerably this year by the disastrous fire that destroyed a warehouse here this week.

It is impossible for the fire department to cope with the situation without the help of the public. Elimination of fire hazards is the first step of the campaign to reduce the loss, and this is up to the individual citizen.

Hazards afford an excellent opportunity for fires to get out of control, and the sooner they are reduced the quicker the staggering loss suffered by the state will be reduced.

The highest price average of the season was hung up on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday, and it was doubly gratifying in face of the fact that it was established on nearly a million pounds of tobacco.

When the general average is as high on the large markets as they are on the smaller ones it may be readily assumed that the large market is getting better prices for tobacco.

Greenville, because of heavy demand for good tobacco, experienced a pronounced upward trend on the better grades Wednesday and this situation was expected to continue.

When the tobacco companies want certain grades of tobacco they pay for it, and this is usually the cause of advancing prices noted on the market from time to time.

When prices are good farmers may rest assured of getting the top of the market in Greenville, the largest briar leaf market in the world, and for years one of the leaders in the greatest industry in this part of the country.

"Clive, dear, I'm engaged," said Santa.

ecstasy of their impending drama. Like all lovers, Clive was hastening to an ambush.

After an hour's drive through lovely summer country defaced by advertisements and hot-dog stands, he came to a village that was truly rural. At its far end in a green oasis of shaven lawns grew up a cool white house immaculate as a yacht at another, partly screened from public gaze by flowering shrubs and rose-covered pergolas. Turning in at the neat drive, he came to a halt with a flourish beneath the smiling windows. Springing out, he tooted his horn accidentally.

Before he could knock a uniformed maid had opened. She appeared to take his arrival casually. During her service with the Dawns she had seen so many of these gay young Giant-Killers. The ogre's treasure was still intact—and the spry young Jacks, where were they?

Miss Santa was on the courts playing tennis. With a grateful grin he signified that he would go to her.

At this point his romantic imaginings received a box on the ears; her voice floated to him through the brooding stillness, addressing someone as "Dicky, darling." The box on the ears was quickly followed by a blow between the eyes; the vision of her insolently cool young figure as she kept a perspiring op-

THE STRIPED TIGER
 "Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the great animal artist, Paul Branson... inspired by the savage ferocity of the striped tiger, known throughout the world as the terror of the jungle. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

"Nature in the Raw is seldom MILD"

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

Campaign CHEERLEADERS

(Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles picturing briefly Republican and Democratic leaders engaged in the final drive of the Presidential campaign.)

(By The Associated Press) Except for the standard-bearers themselves one of the "biggest guns" in the Republican Presidential campaign is Ogden L. Mills 48-year-old Secretary of the Treasury.

The wealthy New Yorker who stepped out of a silk-stocking environment at 25 to enter precinct politics did much of the heavy artillery work for President Hoover in the industrial East after he launched the G. O. P. campaign at Boston in mid-summer. Later he took up the trail of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt in the West speaking at strategic industrial points.

Keystone of Republican campaign strategy is the drive for the support of business men. Mills right-hand man of President Hoover in helping to set up the emergency reconstruction program and seasoned in governmental contact with finance and industry was a logical choice of the Republican high command to preach the Hoover cause to business.

Mills is no spellbinder but he is rated a very capable speaker. His platform manner and appearance, earnest, straightforward and self-assured, is of the kind deemed by Republican leaders as effective with business men. Democratic campaign directors count on Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland as a mighty musketeer in the final drive to put Franklin D. Roosevelt in the White House next March.

The man who three times has been an aspirant for the Presidential nomination has a role in Democratic vote-getting strategy in appealing for Roosevelt-Garner support among business men and ardent wets, particularly in the conservative East.

Pioneer in the movement to abolish national prohibition, an advocate of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment for years when national sentiment seemed largely dry, U. S. Maryland executive is credited with a large following in those States which have been wet for a long time.

Rated one of the big figures in the conservative wing of the party and long an outspoken opponent of "government meddling in business," he is reputed to stand high in the favor of many financiers and industrial leaders.

Tall and aristocratic looking, Ritchie makes an impressive platform appearance. He delivers a speech in forthright vigorous manner, setting forth his position candidly, and earnestly driving home his arguments.

About NEW YORK

By WILLIAM GAINES

New York, Oct. 20.—The "Scotch" joke, for some months missing from the local gag sessions, is given a new lease on life by Mr. Will Fyffe, imported from England for a leading part in a new revue.

Somebody or other said there never was but one Scotch joke, but there were a good many ways of telling it. Probably all the ways you can think of merely elaborate on the one point—that your Scotsman, as the gasters picture him, is anything but a spendthrift.

Fyffe, Scottish himself—son of a Scottish actor—is about the best when it comes to telling you how tight Sandy can be. But though most of the arrangements of his gags are new, they still retain that old familiar ring. Here's one:

Sandy took his wife to the doctor to have her tonsils removed. The doctor looked them over and remarked that the tonsils should have been taken out when she was a child. So Sandy sent the bill to his father-in-law.

Found: A Trolley Car

A rather strange thing is the way some people suddenly "discover" the surface cars, after years of residence in New York.

All of one's friends are concerned about speeding from one place to another by subway or taxi. The elevated lines and buses come in for their share of consideration, as well. But it seems that the poor old trolley is a last resort—often completely overlooked.

I know people who have lived in this town for a long stretch, who never have been anywhere on a surface car. It just never occurred to them that it might be more convenient than walking for blocks to a subway station and much cheaper than riding a taxi, if not so fast. Once one is "broken in" to trolley riding here, he finds the business of getting about the city is greatly simplified. Surface lines run up and down and across Manhattan in such a way as to bring most any point on the island within easy access.

The cars manage to penetrate traffic at a surprisingly good pace, too. Maybe the fact that New York trolleys are so decrepit looking has something to do with so many shunning them. Offhand, I can't recall having seen a new, spick and span surface coach in the past couple of years. Or is that just because I myself have the habit of trying to avoid them?

Personality Puffs

It's Yale versus Harvard in the silk stocking first Congressional district, where Cornelius Whitney, Democrat and son of Representative Robert L. Bacon, former oarsmen for John Harvard. Probably there aren't any true Yale men or Harvard men either. But there is a general notion of what they ought to be, at this wealthy, prominent pair seem to fill the bill.

Yasha Bunchuk, orchestra leader, gets about town quite a bit at night. When jazzy masters of ceremony introduce him on the floor as a visiting celebrity, he responds by borrowing the club cellist's instrument and injecting a bit of high hat music into the proceedings.

Bernard M. Baruch is an authority on mineral waters.

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, one to five points decline on lower Liverpool cables than expected and generally favorable weather.

There was some Southern and Wall Street selling which carried the market off to 6.34 for December and 6.48 for March during the early trading, making net losses of about three to six months on the four active positions.

The market held a fairly steady tone at the end of the first half hour.

The early decline extended to 6.29 for December and 6.44 for March or about seven to twelve points below yesterday's closing quotation, but offerings were light as prices steadied late in the morning or covering promoted by report in the stock market.

December rallied to 6.38 at midday.

Stock Market

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Rail provided with fresh steam by encouraging railroad reports were unable to pull the stock market out of its lethargy today.

The leaders slid off one to more than two points during first hours, regained much of the loss during temporary upturn in rails and receded again in the early afternoon with tobaccos under considerable pressure.

Advances of one to one and three-quarters of a point in Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and New Haven were reduced. American Telephone, after recovering a loss of two points, registered in the first hour, again slid back to show a loss of a point. General Motors encountered pressure and lost a point and Case slid back a couple of points. U. S. Steel was off more than a point.

American Tobacco "B" and Liggett & Myers each went down three points. The list was irregularly lower in late trading. Action was 1, 100,000 shares.

He'd Up Lea Decision.

Raleigh, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Chief Justice W. P. Stack of the Supreme Court, said this afternoon that the court rule docketing and dismissing appeals of Col. Luke Lea, Tennessee publisher, and Wallace B. Davis, former Asheville banker, will not be certified to Buncombe Superior Court until after next Tuesday.

Chief Justice Stacy said he had been notified that General Albert L. Cox, of counsel for Lea, and R. Williams, of counsel for Davis, would lodge a motion for a stay of execution Tuesday, pending a decision by the U. S. Supreme Court on a petition for a writ of certiorari in the case.

If granted, this petition would take the case before the U. S. Supreme Court for decision.

The state ruling handed down yesterday will not be sent to Asheville until attorneys' motion is heard and decided.

two weeks ago and attracted thousands of people. The next rally after that in Greenville will be in Grimesland Thursday, October 27, when Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt will address the voters of that district.

The coming of Mr. Murphy was greeted with interest by people of the community in view of his splendid services to the party in past years. He is one of the ablest political speakers in the State, and has participated in many campaigns which enabled the Democrats to roll up tremendous majorities for their party.

The public was urged to turn out in large numbers to hear this distinguished citizen discuss the principles for which the party is fighting in the next election.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

Hollywood, Oct. 20.—Give Victory Jory credit for a really smart idea, that of profiting from a gold rush by staying out of it.

Jory was born in a gold rush, up in Dawson City, Alaska. His mother and father were in it and he lived there until he was two years old, so he may have learned about gold rushes from them.

He was a leading man in stock, a well-known leading man, when the gold rush of actors to the talkies began.

"I didn't join it," he says, "partly because I probably was afraid I wouldn't make good, and I didn't want the black eye of failure. I had a sure thing, and I wanted to keep on making money. I wanted to be the highest-paid leading man in stock, and I figured that the way pictures were taking stock players I wouldn't have much trouble making the goal if I stayed while the others left. Big frog in a little pond idea, you know."

He Was Right

The idea worked. Ralph Bellamy, Jany, Frederic March, Lyle Talbot, George Brent, one by one deserted the repertories and came to Hollywood. Victory Jory stayed on the stage—and I had more stock engagements than I could accept," he says.

Two years ago he played a bit in Fox's "Renegades," and was ignored. In the course of his stock engagements he had an offer from Paramount which he refused because the salary was less than he was making in stock, and he was tested by M-G-M in New York without results.

In Films Now

This year he returned to appear again in the annual Ransom, in which for several years he has had a leading role.

He is in Hollywood when the Pasadena Community playhouse staged "Louder, Please," and inspired the leading role of the Hollywood press agent.

All his attention is to Pasadena to see the movies ribbed, and all Hollywood, seeing Jory, rushed to sign him. He now has signed with Fox, where he went unnoticed two years ago.

RIGHT NOW IS OPPORTUNE TIME TO GAIN IN CONTEST

early stages of the campaign.

The work accomplished in the past in the way of renewals and new subscriptions shows that business may be had by those who make a decided effort. The results obtained by the workers competing for the $600-$300-$150-$100 and $50, up to this writing, are just as good as the campaign department had hoped for when the details of the drive were first gone over with.

But candidates who hope to be successful in a big way on November 12th can't lay back on their oars from now on. This seems to be the opportune time for any one of the hard working contestants to take on a new lease of life and push their campaign to a successful finish.

Right now the general tendency of the various entrants is to take it easy and depend too much on the good work already done. There is no particular vote closing period this week and records at the campaign office indicate that the contestants for all the grand awards on Nov. 12th are resting up for the big drive before the big decrease in votes that comes with the close of next week.

The thing for a candidate to do who wants to come out on top three weeks from this Saturday, is to keep up their search for renewals and new subscriptions this week and every other week that the contest has to run, and in that way pass some of the others who work exceptionally hard one week only to lay back the following one.

Winners in all undertakings are those who keep their shoulder to the wheel continually and these workers at various times have done it: Mrs. R. C. Abee, Miss Gena Gaston, Miss Lill Wilson, Mrs. W. W. Phelps, Mrs. Richard Williams, Miss Mary James Lipscomb, all of Greenville, and Miss Charlotte Tyson of Route 6, Miss Virginia Turnage of Ayden, and Mrs. C. B. Williams of Winterville. The others not mentioned have been coming along slowly but may still be considered in the running if they improve on their work during these last stages.

Candidates mentioned are working for one of the five prizes listed above or in the absence of a prize will be paid a cash commission of ten per cent on all subscription money turned in. Awards will be made on Nov. 12th. Votes given on paid renewals and new subscriptions to The Daily Reflector determine the winners.
