Japanese Forces Begin New Drive On Chinese Bandits In Manchuria

HOPE TO NAB BANDIT CHIEF

Mrs. Kenneth Pawley and Charles Corkran, British Subjects, Reach Newchang; Husband greets Mrs. Pawley who is Turned over to Japanese Escort for Presentation to British Consul.

Newchang, Manchuria, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The Japanese army was reported to have begun a new drive against Chinese bandits in this area today.

The drive started following the release of Mrs. Kenneth Pawley and Charles Corkran, British subjects who reached here yesterday after having been held captives for a month and a half.

It was expected here that Chief Pi Taitain, head of the band which held Mrs. Pawley and Corkran, with his one hundred and sixty followers, would probably be captured by the Japanese.

A dramatic scene occurred when the armored train carrying the two captives back to safety reached Yingkow last night. Kenneth Pawley, husband of the rescued woman, leaped into the train and hugged his wife whom he married only a short time before she was captured by the bandits.

He lifted her from the coach and handed her to her Japanese escort, Captain Kawato, for formal presentation to the British consul.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 21.—(AP)—The population of North Carolina's State and county correctional and charitable institutions increased by sixty-five during September to a total of 17,529. R. Eugene Brown, institutional director for the Board of Welfare, reported today.

The total of mental patients decreased four during the month, from 6,343 to 6,339. Physical defectives being cared for increased from 512 to 515, a gain of three. Inmates of county homes and the State homes for Confederate veterans and widows increased from 1,311 to 1,338.

The total of juvenile delinquents remained stationary at 979 during the month, while the total of State's prisoners also remained constant at 7,467. There were 49 more persons confined in county jails and prisons the last day of the month than on the first, with a total of 901.

Late News Flashes

Extend Naval Holiday Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The United States has agreed to an extension until March 1, 1933, of the naval holiday agreement which was due to expire November 1. Formal notification of the agreement to the extension will be sent without delay to Geneva. The State Department will issue an explanation for the reason for the extension.

Disagreement to cessation in naval building did not apply to this feature which was already laid down when the holiday went into effect the first of last November, but forbade the construction of any ships which were already in progress.

It did not prevent replacement of existing ships. It was explained in official quarters that the extension is for the purpose of giving the disarmament conference which will resume session in Geneva in February an opportunity to reach a settlement of naval reduction.

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The condition of Representative Charles L. Abernethy, of North Carolina, who is ill here, was described today by Dr. J. B. Stout, as "satisfactory."

"I am entirely satisfied with his improvement and with his present condition," Dr. Stout said. "I feel there is no question of his being able to resume his official duties in the near future. I have advised him, however, to refrain from taking part in the fall election campaign and to conserve his energy and strength for the coming session of Congress."

'PETE' MURPHY HERE TONIGHT

Salisbury Man to Address Democratic Rally at Courthouse at 8 O'clock.

Greenville Democracy will make a pilgrimage to the courthouse tonight to hear Walter "Pete" Murphy, of Salisbury, former Speaker of the House of Representatives of the State Legislature, tell what the party is doing to gain control of the government in the November election.

The rally is being staged under the auspices of the Young Democratic organization of the county which was organized here sometime ago to interest young people in the work which the party is doing in the present campaign.

A parade will precede the speaking. It will be in the form of a prosperity pageant and members of the Young Democratic organization were lining up numbers of automobiles to take part. The parade will form at the courthouse at 7 o'clock and move over principal streets of the city before returning to the courthouse for the speaking.

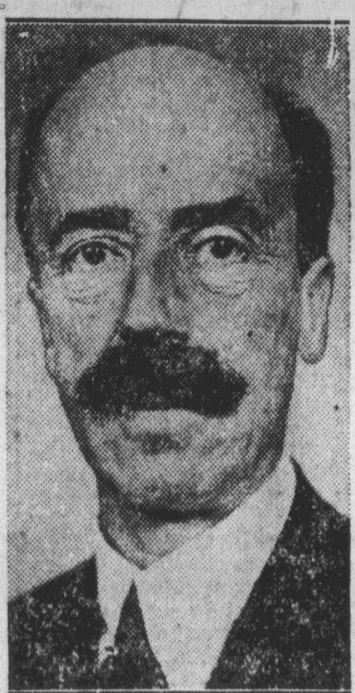

W. E. Hooks, chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, will open the meeting and then turn it over to Dink James, president of the Young Democrats who will introduce the speaker. At the same time the Greenville meeting is in progress, Mrs. W. B. Murphy, of Snow Hill, will address the Pictious Parent-Teachers' Association regarding the work which Democratic women are doing in behalf of the campaign.

Miss Sallie Joyner Davis, member of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers' College will speak to a similar gathering at Bell Arthur at the same time.

The out-of-town meetings were planned for those who will be unable to attend the rally in Greenville. Men have also been invited to attend.

RECTOR LOSES CHURCH FIGHT

Rev. J. F. Davidson Declared Degraded and Debased by English Church Court.

Norwich, England, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Rev. J. F. Davidson, rector, was declared today "removed, debased and degraded" from the offices of priest and deacon of the Church of England as a result of his conviction last July of charges of immoral conduct involving a number of young women.

The sentence was pronounced before the high court of the church by the Bishop of Norwich who brought the charges against the rector. It followed a previous declaration by the bishop in the Norwich consistory court depriving the rector of all his ecclesiastical promotion in the diocese.

Before the first sentence was pronounced, Rev. Mr. Davidson declared his innocence "in the sight of God." He said he intended to begin a campaign for reform of the procedure of the consistory court.

SWEDEN PLANS FULL CONTROL FOR FINANCES

Steps Taken by Government to Prevent Another Financial Nightmare.

Stockholm, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Steps to prevent another financial nightmare, such as Ivar Kreuger forced upon his country, are included in the program of Sweden's new cabinet.

There is no direct reference to Kreuger in the explanation of its aims by the Social Democrat party. The inference has been found, however, in this paragraph:

"The government is to take up in earnest the question of combining suitable state control of private dealings with regulation of the economic assets of the country."

Leaders of the Social Democrats are aware that their success at the last election was due, to a considerable extent, to the crumbling of the Kreuger idol. Thousands of middle class votes went to the party as a reaction from the Kreuger exploitations.

The new government expects to carry out its pledge by stricter over- (Continued on Page Six)

BRIGHT LEAF SELLS HIGHER

Greenville Sets New Price Record for the Season Yesterday with $14.41 Average

Prices climbed vigorously on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday and the highest price average of the season was established, it was revealed today in the weekly report of sales made public by K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales.

The price situation has been favorable throughout the week on account of additional orders for better grades of tobacco and all previous records for the season were shattered with an average of $14.41 per hundred. The average the previous day was $13.72.

The high figure was recorded on a sale of 1,034,520 pounds of tobacco which brought a total sum of $149,081.94.

For the week, covering activities from Thursday to Thursday, the report indicated, the market sold 3,719,778 pounds, of leaf for $556,041.11 at an average of $10.76 per hundred.

For the season the market has handled a total of 21,519,062 pounds and paid out $2,398,465.87. The general average was given as $11.15 per hundred pounds.

For the same period last season 26,395,310 pounds of tobacco was sold.

There was about 1,250,000 pounds of tobacco on the floors of the warehouses today with indications that sales would be completed during the late afternoon.

The price situation continued to hold the tone noted yesterday and another high average was expected to be registered.

Farmers from far-off communities were again in evidence when sales got under way today. Hundreds have attended sales throughout the week and their offerings have greatly augmented those of growers living in close proximity to the market.

With fair weather predicted for the week-end, sales were expected to be heavy the first of next week and as soon as sales are over today warehouse floors will be cleared as rapidly as possible in anticipation of heavy receipts.

Party Campaign Expense Is Higher Than Expected

By BYRON PRICE Despite all the talk about empty campaign treasuries, the political parties appear to be making out financially on a scale far exceeding expectations. Special trains carry the presidential nominees across many states. Hundreds of lesser spellbinders travel more simply, but far and wide. The biggest halls in the country are hired. Radio time is bought in quantity. Heavily-staffed headquarters are maintained, not only in one city, but in several.

These items run into real money. Just how much the public never will know. The laws requiring publicity of campaign expenditures are full of loopholes, as the legal and financial experts of all party organizations well know.

The manner in which campaigns are conducted likewise presents many natural obstacles to the most honest of political stewards. It is utterly impossible to get reports in- (Continued on Page Six)

Outlining of plans for the celebration of Armistice Day will be the purpose of a special meeting of Pitt County Post of the American Legion in the office of Commander J. C. Lanier next Monday night, October 24, at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced today.

Always one of the outstanding events of the year, the Legionnaires are planning a celebration this year fully in keeping with the importance of the occasion. Some speaker of note will be secured to deliver the principal address. There will be the usual parade and other features that go into making the affair complete for the boys who greeted with praise and thanksgiving the signing of the Armistice which brought the World War to a close.

A tobacco storage house on Myrtle Avenue, used by E. B. McIntyre and Ellis Rogers, was slightly damaged by fire last night along with a small quantity of tobacco.

The building, property of Higgs Brothers, was slightly damaged by smoke. Firemen estimated the loss at approximately $300.

SNAP BEAN GROWERS TASTE OF PROSPERITY

Elizabeth City, Oct. 21.—The long deferred prosperity has turned the corner for fall snap bean growers in the Albemarle if present prices on the New York markets continue. Dealers here report prices ranging from $1.25 to $2.25 a basket in New York.

Six carloads of beans were moved from Elizabeth City in refrigerator cars Wednesday and seven more were being loaded today. This is slightly above the average shipment for this time of the year, and the price is also above the average, although not so good as in some former years.

DERBY GETS A SHAVE IN CAR

Endurance Driver Continues 100-Hour Drive from Greenville-Kinston.

Daredevil Derby, who is riding the highway between Greenville and Kinston on his gruelling hundred-hour endurance drive, was in a cheerful frame of mind after getting a shave as he rode along the streets of Greenville this morning.

George Brown, of the Proctor Hotel Barbershop, got in the Chevrolet sedan with Derby this morning this morning and remove the driver's whiskers as he drove slowly about city streets, in plain view of everybody who wanted to see the tonsorial operation.

Derby said he looked better and actually felt better after the operation was over as he continued his monotonous grind toward next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock when the hundred hour limit expires.

Derby was handcuffed to the steering wheel of his machine by police at Kinston yesterday afternoon and came on to Greenville where a committee inspected the police handcuffs and the seal on the radiator hood.

He was greeted by a large crowd in both towns, and hundreds looked on today to see if he had shown any strain from the first day and night of his endurance contest.

Derby holds the world's record for endurance driving. His time is well above the hundred-hour mark, but he said he thought a hundred hours would be sufficient to establish his reputation among the people of the section.

The drive is being sponsored by Brown & White, local Chevrolet distributors, with co-operating merchants.

Chile Renews Attempt to Name New President

By HAROLD P. BRAMAN Santiago, Chile, Oct. 21.—(AP)—In the second general election since the Ibanez overthrow in Italy, 1931, Chile is slated to name another constitutional president October 30 from a group of four candidates.

The voters also will select a new congress which will sit first as a constitutional assembly to make changes in the 1925 charter.

The quartet seeking the uncertain presidential chair in La Moneda palace are Arturo Alessandri, former president and senator; Air Commodore Marmaduke Grove, revolutionist and hero of the extremists; Enrique Zanartu, former senator and minister of finance; and Dr. Jose Santos Salas, perennial independent who has little hope of winning.

Alessandri was defeated a year ago by Juan E. Montero, the law professor who took over the reins of government with the flight of Carlos Ibanez.

Grove engineered the revolt of June 4 against the Montero regime, aided by Carlos Davila, the "military dictator" who recently fled from the country, and who had exiled Grove to Easter Island. Grove and Alessandri are waging their campaign on a program which is anti-foreign and nationalist, will Grove the more extreme. Zanartu, champion of the big land owners and agriculturists and the chief exponent in Chile of inflation, is not unfriendly to foreign interests, but is out to install a semi-socialistic regime. Wholesale revolution has rocked Chile for three months, and civil and military circles alike express hopes that the coming election will initiate a period of peace. But the campaign has been vitriolic and so "die-hard" are partisans of the three main candidates that there is widespread fear that the winner may have to face trouble. After Davila had taken part in the overthrow of Montero and had exiled Grove, his dictatorial methods and failure of his socialistic experiment brought about his downfall. Revolts and sectional strife followed in quick succession. Th's devel- (Continued on Page Six)

Maxwell Raps Chief Executive

Bayboro, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Commissioner of Revenue Allen J. Maxwell, defeated for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in the recent primaries, brought his campaign tour in behalf of the party's nominees here today.

Maxwell assailed "the Republican appeal" that Hoover should be kept in office "because he has a program." "The trouble is that it took him nearly three years to get a program," Maxwell said, "and when he did get one, it is the wrong program."

The "one supreme indictment" against Hoover, Maxwell said, was his "stubborn refusal for two years of increasing disaster to recognize that anything was wrong. He was not fiddling, but piddling, while calamity accumulated."

"We need a new hand at the helm," Maxwell asserted, "and Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Democratic platform furnish the only sound program."

School News

On Debunking

Peculiar is the type of person who derives all his enjoyment from beating and adversely criticizing people. If one will believe him, all school teachers are cranks, all preachers are hopeless, and all national heroes were demagogues and fanatics. He continually indulges in this practice and yet goes through life never realizing that he is only debunking himself.

In the first place such a person is easily deciphered and it seems that the reason he slanders is because he is not of the intelligence to say or do something constructive. This is true on a larger scale, and the error seems more flagrant when we find writers who can only defame others, preachers who can only complain, and politicians who can only bombard the other party. Nearly all such cases give the impression of littleness.

Often we may unconsciously fall into the habit of making petty remarks about people. This is a very undesirable trait, and if not checked, may become a part of one's character.

Junior Party Tonight

Tonight in the high school auditorium the Juniors will sponsor their first party of the new year. The hard working Juniors have practically assured its success by planning a type of party in which everyone may participate and have an enjoyable evening. Specialties by such noted artists as James Dees will be presented on the stage at intervals. During the evening the faculty will be "taken off" by members of the Junior class.

Throughout the evening music will be furnished by a popular Greenville orchestra, "Don Blackman and His Dark Syncopators." Dancing will feature the evening's entertainment from eight to twelve.

An admission charge of fifteen cents will be charged, added to a fund to be used in giving the Junior Senior banquet in May.

Hold Pep Meeting

Thursday morning during the latter part of the assembly period a mass pep meeting was held in preparation for the Washington-Greenville football game which was played here this afternoon.

The chief feature of the meeting was a pep talk by Mrs. Bessie Picklesimer, instructor in science. Mrs. Pick emphasized courtesy and cooperation, and urged every Greenville high school student to boost his team and that in a real fashion.

Jim Slay, co-manager of this year's squad, spoke knowingly of what the team expects of the spectators. And Coach Porter in a brief talk, promised a real football game for the stands.

Cheers were led by George Willard, James Dees, Laurine Skinner and Isabel Whitehurst.

V. M. Muholland presided over the meeting.

Win Attendance Contest

Miss Clem Bridges' senior home-room won the attendance and punctuality contest for the first four weeks of school with a percentage of 99.52. The members of this group were rewarded by a free ticket to "Smiling Through" at the State Theatre.

Other classes which won during the first period of the contest were: Miss Green's seventh grade at the Third street school with a percentage of 99.84; Miss Jones' third grade of West Greenville with an average of 99.76; and Miss Wahl's seventh grade at the Training school with an average of 99.19. At the Training school Miss Savage's third grade ran a close second with an average of 99.18.

This is the second year of the contest which is sponsored by the State Theatre in co-operation with the school system; and the results in improved attendance have been noticed in all the schools.

Junior Rotarians

At the last meeting of the Rotary Club an announcement of interest to all seniors was made. Throughout the year, at the beginning of each month, some senior boy is to be chosen who will represent the senior class at every meeting of the club. This person will be known as the Junior Rotarian, and it will be quite an honor to those boys who during the year may be selected.

Rotary clubs throughout the state are showing their interest in building boys into worthy citizens thru programs of cooperation with the schools. And wherever the policy of having a Junior Rotarian as guest of the club for a month has been adopted excellent reports have been forthcoming from the Junior Rotarians and from the clubs.

The Greenville Rotary Club is expected to announce further details of this innovation, such as qualifications for selection, immediately.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—An unusual personality in diplomacy—M. Paul Claudel—likely will preside as dean of the foreign envoys in Washington this winter.

M. Claudel, France's poet-ambassador, is expected to succeed to the deanship of the diplomatic corps when Ambassador de Martino of Italy leaves the capital within a few weeks.

Strictly according to protocol, as the State Department phrases it, M. Claudel is not in line for the deanship. The position is determined by seniority and Cuba's Ambassador Ferrera outranks him. But Ferrera is ambassador to Washington in name only. At present he is serving in Havana as secretary of state.

M. Claudel is a different type of diplomat in these days when envoys are recruited seemingly for the most part from the ranks of successful business men.

Short and stocky, with a gray mustache and kindly expression, he impresses one as more of a philosopher and poet than a statesman.

His literary efforts have provoked critical analysis of some of the leading scholars and critics in the world. He has written numerous plays of the religious and mystic type.

He himself is a devout man. Any morning shortly before eight o'clock he makes his way from the French embassy atop the hill on fashionable 16th street to St. Paul's Church a few blocks away in time for mass.

Few who pass him on the street recognize him as the French ambassador, yet these early morning pilgrimages have been a definite part of his daily routine since he came to Washington back in 1927.

He usually arises around 6:30 a. m., spends an hour in spiritual meditation in his study, goes to mass, then returns to the embassy and either writes or reads on spiritual subjects before breakfast at 9 o'clock.

The ambassador is the father of five children. Twenty years of his diplomatic career has been spent in the Orient.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood, Oct. 21.—(AP)—If Earl Johnson had not been a Long Beach business man before he decided to raise and train dogs for pictures, he might now be placing all his hopes in the kennel that houses "Wonder Dog" of the screen.

Johnson knew business, however, and so he has 40-odd dogs on his talent list, all of them more or less busily engaged in picture work. "Wonder Dog" is the star in his canine household, but the rest are working, too.

Johnson gave up his business connections in Long Beach about seven years ago and "like all country folks," he says, "I came to Hollywood and wanted to see a studio. I brought my dog along."

The dog, not Boy, attracted the attention of William Craft, a director, and before long Johnson was drawing $150 a week for ten weeks, simply because the dog was trained. He has been in the dog business since.

Boy, a German shepherd with an unusually intelligent countenance and graceful lines, was acquired by Johnson for $10 when the dog was a year and a half old. Within three months he had Boy working in pictures, having trained him and found him "eager to learn."

The dog has worked with Warner Baxter, Garbo and Gable, and other stars, and is starred for the first time in "Cross Pull." Boy, the grandson of Strongheart, a lamented movie canine, is two and a half years old.

El Brendel, after three weeks of roughing it on location in the mountains, is sold on civilization forever.

"Nothing to do at night, ever. The radio I brought with me blew up the first night. From the natives we heard horses and saddles, saddles and horses. Newspapers four days late."

"And—" this in a final burst of agony, "name me any one in this location company and I can tell you all his family history, and all his troubles!"

The fact that there was a standing 4:30 a. m. call to work probably had much to do with El's delight at getting back to Hollywood.

McGOWAN & KEEL'S—MARKET REPORT

Our house was full today from wall to wall, and tonight we are two-thirds full. We have had better satisfaction with our customers than since we have been in the tobacco business. Of course you know tobacco is cheap, and the farmer needs all he can get out of his crop. That is why we stand over every pile of his product until he gets the high dollar for every pound he has on our floor. We sold tobacco today from 65c to 80c per pound. Good tobacco has advanced and we think this is the time to sell your good tobacco, as October is the best month in which to sell the best of your crop. Come around and watch our sales and see what we are doing. Below we give a few averages:

A. A. U. W. HEARS TALK ON AMERICAN MUSIC

The first meeting of the American Association of University Women during this school year was held Thursday afternoon in the Episcopal parish house. Miss Laura Rose, Miss Annie Newell and Miss Lucile Charlton, hostesses, served dainty refreshments before the formal opening of the business session.

Miss Annie Newell began the program outlined for the year by presenting some interesting material on "America's Contribution to Music in the Last Fifty Years." According to Miss Newell, this country did not contribute much before that time.

In discussing folk music the speaker pointed out that Indian music is hardly American; that negro music has other types as well as spirituals, its secular songs being more in number than its religious ones; and that the mountaineers, the cowboys, and the lumberjacks have each furnished their share of folk songs.

"John Tasker Howard," said Miss Newell, "declares that 'Turkey in the Straw' is the nearest approach to a truly national tune that we have."

She mentioned the great number of contemporary composers, the 73 permanent symphony orchestras in this country, and the strong interest in San Francisco in opera as evidenced by a municipal opera house, a war memorial, that cost approximately $6,000,000.

According to the schedule planned, the whole year will be given to a study of the contribution this country has made to fine arts in the last fifty years.

Two new members joined the branch at this meeting, Mrs. J. H. Rose and Miss Dora Coates.

Of the Porto Rican variety, the potatoes weighed six and six and a half pounds each.

BERLIN HOTEL CARES FOR YOUNGSTERS WHEN PARENTS ARE AWAY FROM HOME

Berlin, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The first "children's hotel" in Germany has been opened here.

The idea is to furnish parents, who must entrust their children temporarily to the care of others, a place where they may leave their offspring for one or more nights. Prices range from 75 cents to $1.25 a day.

Facing the Tiergarten Park the four-story building contains large play-rooms, reading rooms with fairy tale books, rest rooms and a nursery for baby guests. There are also a garden and a fancy little theater for amusement of the young patrons.

Trained nurses take the place of waiters in the children's hotel. Young ladies, recognizable by yellow armlets, are posted at the main railway stations to take charge of guests from out-of-town.

Kindergarten mistresses supervise the children's doings at the hotel, and regular sightseeing trips in big buses are arranged for the older youngsters.

About NEW YORK

By WILLIAM GAINES

New York, Oct. 21.—(AP)—For the most part, being George Washington through the bi-centennial observance was a pleasure for E. Ellsworth Woods, the actor, selected for the role by Sol Bloom's congressional committee.

But a home came mighty near spoiling everything. The nag upset E. Ellsworth Woods three times and nearly upset all the plans the committee had for Mr. Woods. The actor just couldn't stay on that horse and his right arm is incapacitated as a result of one of the falls.

Virginia Military Institute lent the horse for the motion picture of Washington's life and times, made in and near Mount Vernon. The first time Woods did a Prince of Wales, the horse proceeded to fall over on top of him. Twice after that, Woods was pitched off.

He's not just an amateur horseman, either. He used to ride plenty of horses down in Kentucky, but he told me, he never came across one like that critter frof V. M. I.

Woods is a direct descendant of Col. Jonathan Woods, who served under Washington in the revolution, and a Sargeant Woods, who taught Washington fencing. He has played Washington roles all over the country for the past 30 years. In weight, height and features he is an exact copy of the father of our country.

One of the new revues employs 82 stage hands with the men averaging $60 a week, with overtime, according to a trade paper. This figure is up to almost $6,000 a week and the show is expected to do $3,500 weekly business for the fat part of its run. Do you wonder why producers go sleepless?

An unusual number of socially prominent families are taking mountain lodges for the winter. They will spend much of their time in them too; away from the winter season in the city.

Probably the mountain Christmas will be a big thing this year. And a rather appealing idea, what? With Christmas trees growing wild in the yard.

Speaking of Christmas—that's a cheering note from the Toy Association: "The rush of September orders in the playthings industry has brought employment to 25,000 additional workers..." and so on.

Sociologists, considering the influence of work on the workers, have found that those who labor in toy factories are apt to be gentle, mellow souls'

Hanging Delayed Marriage

Walnut Ridge, Ark., Oct. 21.—(AP) J. P. Israel, 74, a peace officer for more than fifty years, vouches for the accuracy of a letter Bill Jones, negro, sent his sweetheart just before going to the scaffold at one of Arkansas' last public hangings.

"Dear sweetheart," Israel quotes the negro as saying in the letter dictated to the officer, "we will have to put off our wedding, as they are going to hang me today."

SUNDOWN STORIES

UNDER THE TOADSTOOL

By Mary Graham Bonner

Willy Nilly had stepped into Mrs. Quacko Duck's car and was now sitting there with his long legs hanging out the window.

"I'm nothing but a lot of milk teast to leave my work," he said.

"But I really do want to go to Old Toad's birthday celebration and see his new automobile."

"Of course you do," quackingly agreed Mrs. Quacko, as she stuck out her left wing to show that she was turning a corner.

The other Ducks were sitting on top of the car and Top Notch, the Rooster, was proudly standing on top of the hood while Rip the dog was running along beside the car.

Now she was quacking her horn for all she was worth for they were arriving in Toadstown. All the Toads were hopping around, waiting eagerly for everyone to come to the celebration.

In the center, under a toadstool, squatted Old Toad, blinking his eyes, and looking as pleased as pleased could be as he smiled at the guests with his best toad smile and greeted them with a grunting croak of greeting.

Young Toodles was going to make the speech in honor of Old Toad's birthday, and he was wearing a handsome tie made of green pond grass in honor of the occasion.

Mother Toad was so proud of her son that she looked as though she would burst with pride and swell into an enormous Mother Toad with delight.

"Many happy, quacking, croaking, how-wowing returns of the day!" they all shouted.

And then Toodles gave the signal that the celebration was to commence.

Warrant Sworn Out Against Whitaker

Williamston, Oct. 21.—Leslie Whitaker, young white man of the Cross Roads section in upper Martin County, is in jail here after failure to post bond on a charge of seduction under promise to marry. The young woman in the case is Miss Leslie Avers of the same community.

A warrant was sworn out against Whitaker some several days ago, the case having recently been called before Justice of the Peace, John L. Hassell. The testimony given in the case was that improper relations were had between the two parties, the young woman claiming that her

New Addition For Library At University

Chapel Hill, Oct. 21.—Through the aid of a grant of $30,000 made by the General Education Board of North Carolina last spring, the University Library has made important additions to its collection of bibliographical works.

The newly-acquired works include card indices and catalogues of the leading libraries in this country and in foreign countries. Works of this type are considered essential for scholarly research.

The library expects, through the benefit derived from the grant it received, to build up the fundamental tools for a graduate school in the field of bibliography which will be surpassed by few universities in the nation.

The library bibliographical material before this grant was the most

Black-Draught Clears Up Sluggish Feeling

"I have used Theford's Black-Draught for constipation for a long time," writes Mrs. Frank Champion, of Wynne, Ark.

"If I get up in the morning feeling dull and sluggish, a dose of Black-Draught taken three times a day will cause the feeling to pass away, and in a day or two I feel like a new person. After many years of use we would not exchange Black-Draught for any medicine."

P. S.—If you have CHILDREN, give them the new, pleasant-tasting SYRUP of Theford's Black-Draught.

extensive in the South, and it furnishes an excellent foundation for a collection of the kind which has been added. Despite this fact, however, the research work in the South has been greatly handicapped by the lack of bibliographical resources.

Among the materials which have already been purchased are included monumental sets of catalogues which will be useful in locating rare books in other principal libraries and in arranging for loans with other libraries.

New purchases this year will be divided into five classes: Printed cards of libraries in America, catalogues of the national libraries of other nations, such as the British Museum, period indices, and subject bibliographies.

ABOUT TOWN

Pitt county Democrats will have the opportunity of hearing more about the present political campaign when Walter Murphy speaks at the courthouse here tonight.

Mr. Murphy is one of the foremost political leaders of the state and is sufficiently well informed concerning the political situation to give his hearers something to think about.

Women of the county are doing their bit toward election of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt. They have gone into the fight in a way that spells success for their efforts.

Greenville tobacco men have spent millions of dollars to provide the best facilities for handling the leaf, and they will be found far in advance of the trade in years to come as they continue to attempt to render the best of service to their patrons.

The best bargains of the year are being offered by Greenville business houses at this time and people who come here to do their shopping will find shelves loaded with merchandise as good as can be found on the counters of large city stores.

Greenville won the recognition as the leading shopping center of the eastern part of the state by offering only the best of materials all the year around, and people who come here from day to day would do well to compare their purchases with those obtained from other sections and note the difference.

This is the reason of the year when everybody begins to replenish wardrobes and those who buy at home will find themselves highly pleased.

A PATH TO PARADISE

by Coningsby

DAWSON

SYNOPSIS: Clive has just been told by Santa that she is engaged to Dicky—and he had driven madly from Cape Cod to New Jersey at her request, thinking she was ready for his own proposal!

Chapter 5 ALLY FROM THE SKY

"What you're really asking me to do is to hold your hand and leap with you over a precipice," Santa said.

Mr. Dawn shouted: "Not a bad landing." Clive went forward.

"You're a year out of college. You've your way to make. We would have to live on my parents. If you were too proud to do that, we would have to struggle on what you earned."

Facilities here enable the market to handle over a million pounds of tobacco daily. This in turn enables growers to dispose of their offerings the same day and return home before nightfall.

This is a great advantage over the small markets where block sales cause growers to remain over for two days sometime before their tobacco is finally reached.

"So love is old-fashioned. That's what you're telling me?" She glanced up at him and nodded. Her eyes were swimming.

"I'd marry you like a shot if you could afford me." "Then wait till I can." "When would that be? It might be never. Besides," she flushed, "I can't keep boys away. It isn't my fault. I get so tired of trying."

"But Santa, dear, how will you be any safer with a man whom you don't love? I can't see what you find in him."

"Any more than he can see what I find in you," she retorted tearfully. "Oh, yes—you're no secret. We've discussed you. But I've told you what I find in him—companionship. I tell him everything—I shall tell him about you presently. He won't scowl. He's lived life and he's understood."

"Boys of my own age are crude—so condemning. If they don't get their own way at once they turn cruel. Dicky never nags; he's different. He's cosmopolitan—that's what makes him tolerant. We both speak languages. He knows everybody worth knowing in Paris, Vienna and London. It ought to be amusing being his wife, ringing doorbells of European aristocracy."

"One of his cousins is married to an Italian title. He himself is engaged to an Austrian countess for a month. You should hear him describe it. She caught her breath in nervous laughter. "That the ex- fiance of a countess should be to become my husband completely bowled Mummy over. She'd be awfully disappointed if— You see I'm marrying at least partly to please Mummy. I own her so much."

"I'll say you do," Clive replied hotly. Santa's voice was deadly. "When it comes to my mother, who all her life has sacrificed for me, I refuse to allow—"

"I'm not asking you to allow," Clive broke in on her. "I'm insulting you with the truth. She's taught you to bait your hook with sex. What's this social racket taught you except that it's grand to cheat? What did you mean by gobbling me up as though you were famished?"

"If this dandy, who's been engaged to a countess, pretends to find your cheating delightful he's preparing to go you one better. Men don't marry to practice foreign languages. It takes more than a foreign language to keep two people married. But you're sleep-walking. No one could be as beautiful as you are and truly believe— One day you'll wake up! You'll want—"

She sprang to her feet. "Not you." As she ran past him, he tried to delay her. He was left gazing at everything that was to have come so sacred.

Choosing the direction that led from the house, he plunged deeper into the wood.

On the further edge he came to a meadow over which an aeroplane was sinking. Skimming along the ground, it taxied to a halt not more than fifty yards beyond him. A lean figure, still alert and youthful, climbed out and shouted: "Not a bad landing!" Clive went forward.

"Getting to be quite an expert. Guardie. But what has Mrs. Dawn to say?" Eric Dawn closed one eye. "That I'm too old for such nonsense."

Clive knew better than his guardian the gossip that this belated passion for flying had occasioned. The worm had turned and taken to the air from sheer boredom at being trodden on.

"Don't know whether flying's done it, but you're looking younger," Clive started into the distance. "Not much older than that fellow with whom I found Santa playing tennis."

"She's told you?" "You bet." "She's hit you hard. If it's any comfort, she's hit me harder." Clive faced about. "Why do you allow it?" "Can't stop it."

"You're responsible. You're her father." Dawn smiled. "My dear boy, in these progressive days fathers are obsolete survivors. Their wives and offspring make the decisions. I was dragged from my den by Santa, introduced to a stranger and informed of their engagement. Daughters are no longer their parents' property. Whom a girl marries is her own funeral."

"It's not, Guardie. Your duty is to protect her." "Agreed," Dawn removed his aviator's helmet. "But let's sprawl on the grass. You're in love with Santa. You consider that I'm slipshod because of that I owe you consideration. I'm saying this, Clive, because you're high-principled; I don't think you realize what you would have let yourself in for had you married Santa."

"The divorce court. I'm not knocking you, either. But you're romantic; she's practical. For instance to you a divorce would be a disgrace; to her it would be an honorable discharge."

"You're clenching on your job." "All the same," Dawn proceeded "I pity any idealist who becomes my daughter's husband. She respects neither God nor man. Her physical beauty inspires dreams which she's mentally incapable of appreciating."

"For the love of Mike!" Clive interrupted. "Marriage certainly isn't a shabby struggle to be boss." "Then correct me." "It's a competition in sharing." The elder man reached for the boy's hand. "That's torn it. She must have guessed that was what you thought."

An unexpected happening shook Clive out of his disappointed lethargy, tomorrow.

DEVILS WILL TACKLE VOLS COMING WEEK

Durham, N. C., Oct. 21 The Blue Devils of Duke, meeting Wake Forest this afternoon, will hit the road next week for perhaps their toughest game of the season, the clash in Knoxville with Tennessee's high-flying Vols, at present favored to win the 1932 Southern Conference championship.

Not the least interested spectator at the Blue Devils' game with the Deacons today was Major Robert R. Neyland, coach of the Tennessee team. He is present to personally scout the Blue Devils shows the respect in which he has always regarded teams coached by his old enemy, Wallace Wade.

He remembers last year's game when the Devils gave his team one of the hardest fights they had all season. The 25 to 2 score with which the Vols defeated Duke last year was no indication of the fierceness of the contest that raged on Shields-Watkins field that afternoon.

It was in that game that Nick Laney, Duke's triple threat back, stamped himself as one of the greatest backfield men in the Southern Conference. And he will go back to Knoxville this fall, something of a new Laney, older, wiser, and better.

Duke will be rated as very much the underdog next week, but the Blue Devils don't think that way themselves. Put out of the Southern Conference race by a powerful Auburn team that got the breaks, the Duke boys are planning to do something like that themselves.

Today's game started a series of tough ones for the Blue Devils. Before the contest the Blue Devils were faced with four straight foes who at present are undefeated, the Deacons, Tennessee, Kentucky, and N. C. State. Kentucky will come to Durham on November 5, and State will be met in Raleigh the following week.

yards to score after catching a Wisconsin punt.

Here Are the Best

For purposes of the present record, Davis offers the following interesting list of record scoring runs, for each of the past eleven seasons, giving the year, number of yards, player and play:

1920, 110, Benjamin Boynton, Williams vs. Hamilton; caught punt.

1921, 98, Charles West, W. and J. vs. Syracuse; kick-off.

1922, 100, Harvey F. Sweeney, Susquehanna vs. Colgate; kick-off.

1923, 97, John Hagerty, Georgetown vs. Georgia Tech; intercepted pass.

1924, 104, William Senn, Knox vs. Coe; intercepted pass.

1925, 102, A. L. Cronin, Loyola vs. St. Ambrose; intercepted pass.

1926, 99, Gerald R. Thompson, Georgetown vs. Lebanon Valley; kick-off.

1927, 105, Gilbert Welch, Pittsburgh vs. West Virginia; kick-off.

1928, 105, Harold Stubbs, Denison vs. Ohio; kick-off.

1929, 105, Loyis Weller, Haskell vs. Creighton; kick-off.

1930, 105, George Wilson, Idaho, vs. Whitman; scrimmage.

1931, 109, Edmund Jack Burke, Mississippi vs. Alabama; kick-off.

Can Carolina and Tech Break Two-Year Deadlock?

PAT BARRON—HALFBACK—GEORGIA TECH. JUNE UNDERWOOD—CAROLINA CENTER.

CAROLINA IS CONFIDENT OF LICKING TECH

Chapel Hill, Oct. 21.—The Carolina football squad was determined and confident as it approached this afternoon's last practice for Saturday's Homecoming game with Georgia Tech, which will get under way in Kenan Stadium at 2:30 o'clock.

The Tar Heels have been working afternoon at offense and night at defense, and aligned backfields and to give out the last pointers and set the defense lines for the heavy attack Tech's Tornado is expected to lay down.

Henry Burnett at quarter; Bill Croom at fullback and Norman McCaskill at halfback have been looking mighty good at their new posts this week. The old first strong backfield of Woolen, Phipps, Daniel and Chandler has been running harder and clicking better.

The several slightly injured men had rounded into shape today and Carolina is set and fully expects to show Georgia Tech a high powered offense on a dry field like the great defense they showed Georgia on a wet field last week.

Meanwhile, student and alumni interest is fast reaching a new peak—a great pep meeting is to be held in Memorial Hall tonight. Coaches and players will be out. President Graham, Judge W. J. Brogden of Durham, and Judge E. E. Rives and Norman Boren of Greensboro, will speak. The band will play and Head Cheerleader Ernest Hunt will lead the yells.

Carolina and Georgia Tech will clash at Chapel Hill tomorrow in a game that is expected to end the deadlock of the last two seasons. In 1930 the two old rivals were tied 6-6, and last year the score was 19-19. The prediction is that somebody will win that ball game Saturday. Pictured above are two of the outstanding players from each team. Captain Monk Neblett of Tech and June Underwood of Carolina, both centers and first contenders for all-southern honors, and Stuart Chandler, Carolina quarterback, and Pat Barron, Tech halfback, who is a brother of the famous Tech Barron of former days.

Corporation, with a frontage of fifty (50) feet on the North side of Third Street, and beginning at the corner of Lot No. 2 in Block 6 on the plat of said property on Third Street, and running with Third Street fifty (50) feet to a corner of Lot No. 6, parallel with the line of Lot No. 6, parallel with White Street, to a corner of Lots Nos. 3 and 5; thence with the line of Lot No. 3 fifty (50) feet to corner of Lots Nos. 1 and 2; thence parallel with White Street one hundred thirty-seven and five-tenths (137.5) feet to the beginning, it being the lot between the J. L. Windham lot and the Julius Brown lot, and being the identical lot conveyed to H. L. Williams by J. C. Tyson and wife by deed recorded in Book C-15 at page 211 of the Pitt County Registry, and by H. L. Williams and wife, conveyed to Archie Soroka by deed recorded in Book H-13, at page 305 of said registry, and by Archie Soroka conveyed to Agafia Goor by deed dated December 12, 1925 and duly recorded in Book W-13 at page 542 of said registry, and also being the identical parcel of real estate as is set out and described in the deed of trust above referred to.

A deposit of ten per cent (10) of the amount of the bid will be required of the successful bidder pending confirmation of the sale.

This the third day of Oct., 1932. Albion Durin, Trustee.

Bring Your Tobacco On

Government Report just published shows GREENVILLE continues to be the World's Largest Bright Tobacco Market.

Greenville is also leading in prices paid for every grade of tobacco. Never before have the other markets tried so hard to induce and persuade growers in our territory to sell with them. Some of them are so desperate as to offer any kind of inducements, even going so far as to offer to haul their tobacco free.

We believe the farmers of Pitt county will stand by their market, which has proven to be the best and largest bright tobacco market in the state.

Grade carefully, keep your tobacco dry and "drive in" early in order to avoid any rush.

The 105-yard gallop for a touchdown by Herbert McAndy, University of Florida fullback, in the game with Sewanee stirs the reminiscent mind of Parke H. Davis, national statistician.

When bigger and better football statistics are turned out, they will be produced by Davis, who notes that the Southern boy's run is one of the longest made from scrimmage in many years. McAndy dropped five yards behind his own goal line to punt, but was obliged to change his mind. He dashed for the open and completed his sensational dash through the whole Sewanee team.

"We will have to go backward many years, in fact, no less than twenty-three years," writes Davis "to find a longer scoring run from scrimmage. George S. McCaa of Lafayette in a game with Swarthmore, October 15, 1909, preparing to punt from behind his goal line, similarly was forced to run and raced the full length of the field, then measuring 110 yards, for a touchdown.

That Was a Run
The record run from scrimmage, 115 yards, was made by Wyllys Terry of Yale against Wesleyan in 1884. The field in that da also measured 110 yards.

Benny Boynton of Williams in 1920 caught a Hamilton punt ten yards behind his own goal line and ran 110 yards to score. G. C. Gray of Oberlin in 1908 received a Cornell punt nine yards back of his own goal line and also got away for a touchdown. The late Walter Eckersal, of Chicago, in 1904, raced 106
