American Missionaries Flee From Communist Bandit Hordes In China

WOMAN AMONG THE NUMBER

Miss Lenora Burr, A Missionary of Congregational Church,
Boards Motorboat
with Dr. Edwin Bliss
and Arrives Safely
at Yenting After A Narrowing Experience Through Bandit
Infested Territory.

Fuchow, China, Oct. 28.—(AP)—
Miss Lenora Burr, Congregationalist
missionary from South Dakota, arrived here today in a motorboat with two other missionaries after a harrowing 200-mile motorboat trip to escape Communist bandit hordes.

Miss Burr was stationed at Shawu mission beyond the headquarters on the Min River two hundred miles from here.

For forty miles Miss Burr traveled through the bandit-infested region until she encountered Dr. Edwin Bliss, another American Congregationalist. Dr. Bliss had obtained a motorboat and was making for Fuchow with two Australian missionaries.

They took Miss Burr aboard.
Eventually they reached Yenting after which the trip was uneventful, although the Min River country was swarming with bandits.

New Kind Of Potato Used In This State

Raleigh, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A new variety of Irish potato, seemingly well adapted to North Carolina conditions, has been developed by the United States Department of Agriculture and tested in this state by research horticulturists of the North Carolina experiment station.

The potato, named katahdin,
"promises to be a valuable addition to the state's trucking and home-garden industry." M. E. Gardner, head of the department of horticulture at N. C. State College, said today.

Apparently better adapted to the western part of the state than the east, katahdin potatoes have been tested in Ashe and Watauga counties and the growers reported them
"as outstanding," Gardner said.

The katahdin variety matures some 18 to 21 days later than the Irish cobbler and is therefore not adapted to the early market sections of Eastern Carolina, he continued. However, if the new potato is allowed to mature its yield compares favorably with the cobbler and it gives a higher yield of potatoes.

Katahdin potatoes have an excellent shape, shadow eyes and a small percentage of culls, Gardner explained. The plant also is resistant to many common potato troubles, especially mosaic.

RUBBERIZED CREPE AMONG NEW FABRICS

Paris, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A rubberized crepe which bounces back into shape no matter how much it is stretched is one of the novel fabrics in a season replete with unusual materials.

The fabric, which looks like a deeply pebbled crepe, was used by a Parisian designer in fashioning little jackets for her winter collection.

New State Equips Rails
Changchun, Manchuria, Oct. 28.— (AP)—Japan unbind other foreign interests on contracts for supplying the new Manchukuo government with twenty locomotives, one hundred passenger coaches and four hundred freight cars. Additional orders will be placed early next year.

Austria Deport Red

monwealth Attorney General Lam-ton announced that seventy Com-

Australia under an act expelling alien undesirable who have been in the country less than five years.

Dutch Seek Tea Limits
Surabaya, Java, Oct. 28.—(AP)— Tea producers and experts of the Dutch East Indies have gone to Ceylon to present a plan which would reduce by 15 per cent the tea exports from Ceylon, British India and the Dutch East Indies for the next five years.

BIG UNTAXED FAMILIES SHOW INCREASE IN ITALY

Rome, Italy, Oct. 28.—(AP)— Some 29,000 families in Italy are exempt from all taxation because each contains eight children or more.

The amount thus remitted in the government effort to encourage a growing population is annually $285,000.

Four years ago only 17,690 families had this tax exemption.

SEEK SPEAKER AT FARMVILLE

Man of National Prominence Sought
to Take Place Of Daniels at Rally.

Because National Democratic headquarters had assigned him to some other part of the country, Josephus Daniels, Raleigh newspaper editor and Secretary of the Navy during the administration of Woodrow Wilson, will not be able to speak at the giant political rally at Farmville tomorrow night, it was stated today.

After receiving notice of cancellation of the engagement from State Democratic headquarters early today, W. E. Hooks, chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, conferred with John Holmes, former member of the Legislature from his county, regarding somebody to pinch-hit in Daniels' place.

Although no definite decision had been reached at the noon hour today, it was understood efforts were under way to obtain a man of national prominence to fill the engagement.

The rally, which will be featured by a Hoover car parade, will be the greatest of its kind in the history of Farmville, and the people of the community want some man to do the speaking in keeping with the importance of the occasion.

The Farmville rally will be the fourth held in this county during the present campaign, and was expected to attract attention of men and women from all surrounding communities.

MANY KILLED DURING STORM

Three hundred perish

ance in French Indo-China.

Paris, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Three hundred persons were killed October 15 in a terrific storm which swept a portion of French-Indo-China, messages from Faron said today.

On October 25 another storm interrupted railway service and caused some damage along the Mandarin line.

Late News Flashes

Davis To Serve 5 To 7 Years
Raleigh, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Wallace
B. Davis, former Asheville banker, who entered prison here yesterday to serve a sentence for bank law violation, will not serve but five to seven years for publishing false reports of his bank, the Associated Press learned today.

When Davis was entered at the prison yesterday, Warden Honeycutt said his sentence totaled 9 to 13 years as shown on the commitment papers and the same view was held by Albert Cox, Raleigh attorney for Luke Lea of Nashville, convicted in a conspiracy charges with Davis.

The Associated Press learned that Davis' two sentences in two convictions aggregating four to six years for conspiracy and five to seven years for publishing a false report will under special procedure as recognized by the court, run concu-rently.

RELIEF HEAD AT CLINTON

Julian Miller Speaks Gathering of Welfare Workers of 11
Counties.

Clinton, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Economic recovery in America "will not be consummated apart from social reform," Julian S. Miller, of the state relief organization, asserted here today in an address to welfare workers and citizens of eleven counties of the southeastern district.

Miller was making his third successive address at a regional welfare conference, discussing the relief program in the state. Other speakers included Mrs. T. W. Bick-ett of Raleigh, president of the State Association of County Superintendents of Public Welfare; Maj.
George Butler of Clinton; Mrs. W.
T. Bost, state commissioner of public welfare; and Dr. W. C. Jackson of the University of North Carolina.

Explaining the basis upon which federal relief was obtainable in North Carolina, Miller said "One recalls instinctively at the thought of utilizing federal funds for setting a table for the downtrodden and desperate people of America."

"And, when we honestly analyze this governmental effort under the white light of pure Democratic principles of government, it goes all to pieces. In moments of great national distress, however, we can not afford to be too meticulous about processes invoked to take us safely over some dreadful crisis."

"When the house is on fire, we are not fussy whether the flame is put out with water or chemicals and some such emergency is upon us in North Carolina today. It is better to be socialistic than to be sullenly uncaroused over conditions of destitution that have stalked into the doors of our people."

Soviet Ties On Stamps

oyeds, Bashkirs, Kazaks and Tartars.

Blizzard in Wyoming
Sheridan, Wyo., Oct. 28.—(AP)—
The worst blizzard of recent years was sweeping the wooded country and the Big Horn Mountain where three men were believed to have percompanied by a wind of hurricane velocity.

THIEVES ROB POST OFFICE

Sixty-Five Dollars Is Obtained from Safe in Store-Office At Norman.

Norman, N. C., Oct. 28.—(AP)— Thieves broke into the general store and postoffice operated by Postmaster D. Loudermilk here early today and escaped with a safe containing $65 in money and stamps and disappeared.

Nothing but the safe was discovered missing when officers appeared to investigate. Early today a traveling salesman reported to officers he had seen four or five men a short distance from town near a roadside breaking open a safe.

When the officers arrived the safe had been opened and the men were gone.

MORE TOBACCO IN CITY TODAY

Market Has Paid Out
Nearly Three Million Dollars for The Season's Offerings.

The total amount of money paid out on the Greenville tobacco market during the present season today nearly the three million dollar mark, it was revealed in the weekly report of K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales.

To be specific, the market has paid out exactly $2,983,573.75. The sum was given in exchange for 25-843,384 pounds of tobacco with a general price average of $11.54 per hundred pounds.

Sales for the week were given at 4,324,322 pounds for which the market paid out $585,107.88 at an average of $13.52 per hundred.

For the same week last season the market handled 5,085,986 pounds for $396,657.59 at an average of $11.73 per hundred pounds. Total sales for the corresponding period last season were given as $1,461,296 pounds.

The highest prices of the season were recorded on the market during the first of the week and this condition continued on better grades of tobacco.

Farmers from far-off territories
continued to sell their tobacco here.
The market had the distinction of selling tobacco from Canada during the middle of the week, setting something of a record from the standpoint of distance.

There was around a million pounds of tobacco on the floors of the various warehouses today with indications that sales would be completed probably during the late afternoon.

Fair weather and chilly temperatures following the rain early yesterday morning injected new life into the marketing of bright leaf and hundreds of farmers were on the market today offering their product for sale.

MOTHER HELD IN KIDNAPING IN CALIFORNIA

Woman Jailed in Los Angeles for Abducting Her Own Child
from Guardian.

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 28.—(AP)—
Three-year-old Nancy Irene Buchanan was properly back in her nursery today unaware that she had been the central figure in a storybook tale which combined kidnap-ing, extortion, mother love and the wealth of an old English estate.

The circumstances which brought her into the midst of this strange picture began a few hours after birth as the daughter of Ruth Borman unmarried mother, and a former Iowa girl, who sat brokenly in a jail cell today awaiting prosecution for kidnaping.

Nancy does not call Miss Borman mother. That is the name which she uses for Miss Violet Buchanan, her guardian, wealthy divorcee and daughter of an aristocratic family of England and California, from whose home she was abducted.

ITALY HONORS 'STRONG MAN'

Whole Country Turns Out to Observe Anniversary of Benito
Mussolini.

Rome, Italy, Oct. 28.—(AP)—All Italy turned out today to celebrate the anniversary of the reign of Premier Benito Mussolini.

The event was marked by a nation-wide holiday and was climaxed by a series of activities denoting Fascist progress.

Perhaps the most important event on the program was the review of 15,000 disabled war veterans by the Premier and one hundred dignitaries, including four Americans.

Invitation was extended to the foreign group to ride with the Il
Duce when he reviews the parade.

STOKES WILL HOLD REVIVAL

mann to Deliver Ser-

ginning Sunday.

Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, will begin a series of revival services at the Baptist Church at Stokes next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The services will continue each evening throughout the week and the public has been given a cordial invitation to attend.

A special series of sermons have been prepared for the occasion and delightful congregational singing of old gospel hymns will feature each service.

In addition to his pastorate here,
Mr. Fleischmann is also in charge of the Stokes congregation, considered one of the most progressive of any small town in this part of the State.

Members of the church said today they were anticipating a great religious awakening during the revival and expected the community would derive great benefit from the inspirational ages.

The sermon subjects to be used during the revival follow:
Sunday: "The Dynamic of Christian Witnessing";
Monday: "Our Three-Fold Ministry";
Tuesday: "A Man Who Faced Faith"; Wednesday: "First Steps in the Path of Faith";
Thursday: "Three Crosses";

Roosevelt To Leave Soon For Campaign Speeches In The New England States

Heads Study Geography In Campaign Wind-Up

By BYRON PRICE
Political map reading becomes a major concern of party managers during the final weeks of a Presidential campaign, for under the American electoral system geography has much to do in determining last minute strategy.

These geographical aspects of the case are a little complicated. They involve the peculiarities of the electoral college. They run into statistics. But an examination of them is necessary to any clear understanding of what now is taking place in Presidential politics.

Stated as simply as possible, the Case.

Washington, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Luke Lea, his son, Luke Lea, Jr., and Wallace Davis, Asheville banker, convicted in a North Carolina court for conspiracy to misapply funds of the Central Bank of Asheville, have retained Newton D. Baker as counsel.

Baker today obtained from Chief Justice Hughes an extension to November 10 for the filing of a petition asking the court to review the recent refusal of the North Carolina Court to grant a re-hearing on the ground of newly discovered evidence and misconduct of the jury.

The Supreme Court recently refused to review the original conviction. Baker will urge upon the court to review the motion for a new trial recently denied by the North Caro-

President in the November election,
Dennis G. Brummitt, of Raleigh, Attorney General of North Caro-

last night.

The address, the third major cam-the last two weeks, was heard by a fairly large crowd which has assembled at the high school building for the rally.

W. E. Hooks, chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, presided over the meeting, and called upon the people to regis-

TALKS RELIEF IN NEW YORK

Democratic Nominee
at Present Confronted with Problem Of Caring for Jobless with Dwindling Total of Funds; to Begin Swing Through
New England With
Speech at Boston
Monday.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 28.—(AP)—
With the national election ten days away, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for the Presidency, again turned his back on campaign plans today to consider unemployment relief problems in his own State.

Another conference with State officials and legislators on the best way to continue relief activities the rest of the year in spite of dwindling funds occupied his attention.

The conference finished, he will confer with his personal advisers regarding his Eastern campaign with which he will wind up his drive for the Presidency.

The last campaign will take him away from home Saturday for a swing through the New England States with a speech scheduled for Boston Monday.

Reduce Pay for Forest Wardens

Raleigh, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A general reduction of compensation for part time forest wardens used in the control of forest fires was announced today by State Forester J. S.
Holmes.

Under the new scale of pay district wardens will be reduced from 30 to 25 cents per hour; deputy wardens will be cut from 25 to 15 cents an hour, and emergency fire fighters will continue to receive 10 cents an hour, the rate having been cut from 20 cents sometime ago.

The order will apply to 931 district wardens and 3,348 deputy wardens and to summoned firefighters.
All of the wardens affected are used only part-time, usually when actually combating burning forests.

Holmes said the pay reductions were necessitated due to reduced county, state and federal appropriations.

This year there are 34 counties out of the 100 in the state organized for forest fire control with the counties matching state funds.

EDENTON DAILY NEWS

Edenton Oct. 28.—After suspending on October 21, the Edenton Daily News resumed publication today with ager.

with the Pittsburgh Press having

POLITICS at random

By BEYON PRICE

There is so much straddling this year on prohibition that neither the Anti-Saloon League nor the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, which have been canvassing sentiment among candidates for Congress, has been able to compile anything like a complete list of who's wet and who's dry. . . . Thirty-six Democrats and four Republicans running for the House won't worry about the election returns; they are unopposed.

Whatever it may mean as to New Jersey's electoral vote, Frank Hague is prominently reported to have been the principal intermediary during the peace negotiations between Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith. . . . With Gene Tunney, Tad Jones and Albie Booth mixed up in the Connecticut political scrimmage, the State might be suspected of over-emphasis on athletics were it not for the classical presence also of Professors Hiram Bingham, Wilbur Cross, et al.

Pinchot Looking Ahead

Washington observers who recall President Wilson's determination to resign at once if he was defeated for re-election in 1916 are speculating whether any similar plan will pass through the mind of President Hoover in case the 1932 election goes against him; but no one pretends to have any information. . . . The undercurrent from Pennsylvania forecasts that Gifford Pinchot will preserve silence as to Hoover and Roosevelt, remaining sufficiently Republican to qualify to run against David A. Reed for the Senate two years hence.

Of all the candidates for office this year two have no party organization behind them, the politicians are watching most closely the fortunes of Dr. Brinkley of Kansas, and Dr. Shuler, of California, running for governor and senator respectively on their own tickets. . . . The Massie-Fortescue case in Honolulu has become a real issue in the campaign for the right to represent Hawaii (without a vote) in Congress.

Registration Up

Estimates of the total registration of the United States, based on partially complete figures, indicate the number of eligible voters this year will be somewhat between 45,000,000 and 50,000,000; four years ago it was 43,000,000. . . . The first Republican who has been brave enough to run for Congress from South Carolina in fifty years is a woman, Miss Clara Herrigal, candidate for the Senate.

In case of a Democratic sweep in November, Congressman Rainey, of Illinois, will have to hold a caucus with himself to decide whether he prefers to remain Democratic floor leader, take the Mays and Means Committee chairmanship which belongs to him by seniority or run for speaker. . . . Political speculators who like to look ahead are widely discussing how far Ogden L. Mills will go as a Republican presidential possibility in 1936.

With the Dopesters

Add election forecasts: The off-men's prohibition organizations recently predicted that the prohibition party ticket, headed by William D. Upshaw, would carry New York State. . . . The champion independent of them all appears to be Homer T. Bone, Democratic nominee for the Senate in Oregon, who is listed by the Portland Oregonian as having run for office or been otherwise active since 1912 in the Social ist, Farm-Labor, Republican, Liberty, Progressive, Republican and Democratic parties and as a non-partisan.

Proof that this is the open season for independent and minor party candidates is provided by the ballots of New York State, which carry the names of 143 persons entered for forty-five seats in Congress. . . . With ninety-eight women running for Congress or State office, the Albuquerque Journal predicts: "The day is not far distant when there will be a woman at the head of the government."

The cost of education per student has dropped in some cases as much as $150 a year at the University of Michigan.

Indiana has 1,016 townships with a total of 9,096 township officials.

Beauty Hints

By FLORINE MCKINNEY

Beautiful teeth, even, white and glistening, should be the rule, not the exception.

Discolored, irregular teeth can be corrected. Yet many women and men go through life with unsightly teeth because they wish to avoid the pain or the bills inevitable for such correction.

The daily vigorous use of the toothbrush and dental floss will do wonders in keeping and guarding your mouth beauty.

Cooked cereal and cream once a day is my beauty hint. If you fear added weight from eating this food, I suggest fifteen minutes of calisthenics a day. This will prevent plumpness.

Another beauty aid that I use is almond meal and water for weekly facials. The mixture is made into paste and applied to the face, neck, arms and hands. When it is thoroughly dry, it should be washed off. The skin is left smooth, soft and whitened.

Brother Dead As Henderson Reaches Atlanta

Speeding by airplane to the bedside of his ill brother, Mack Henderson, Greenville business man, arrived in Atlanta, Ga., five minutes after the brother had died.

This information was brought to the city today by the pilot of the Hoffman-Pridden Air Service who drove the plane which last Monday carried Mr. Henderson on his hurried trip to the Georgia capital.

The pilot returned with his plane last night and said Henderson, accompanied by his brother's wife, would probably reach home Saturday.

Informed by two messages last Sunday night that his brother, Jennings Henderson, was at the point of death following complications from an operation at an Atlanta hospital, the brother here chartered a plane of the local flying service and hopped off at 8:10 o'clock Monday morning for Atlanta.

For the first hour and a half, the pilot said today, they were forced to fly through an almost impenetrable fog. After landing at Fort Bragg for a few minutes they landed in Atlanta at 1:30 o'clock.

Arriving at the hospital, Henderson was told that his brother had been dead about five minutes.

Talks To Parents

TOO GOOD CHILDREN By Alice Judson Peale

Nelly Wolffheim speaking from her own kindergarten experience says that one of the frequent tasks in her work is to help certain children to become less "good."

These are the children who have been over-trained at home to a degree of quietness, docility, and general submissiveness which can only be regarded as unwholesome from the mental hygiene point of view, however convenient it may be for grown-ups.

Such children already have been made far too conscious of what they ought to do and think and feel, so that they can hardly be said to know what their own impulses really are. They are out of touch with their wishes, which after all provide the mainspring of energy for all real learning of any sort.

The youngsters are much encouraged in kindergarten by the fact that they see here many children who are as wild and naughty as they ever dreamed of being, and upon whom nevertheless no punishment descends.

Indeed the naughty children seem to be quite as well liked by the teacher as anyone. Encouraged by this heartening spectacle the too good child plucks up courage and very soon begins to play and shout and assert himself in a way he never had dared to do before.

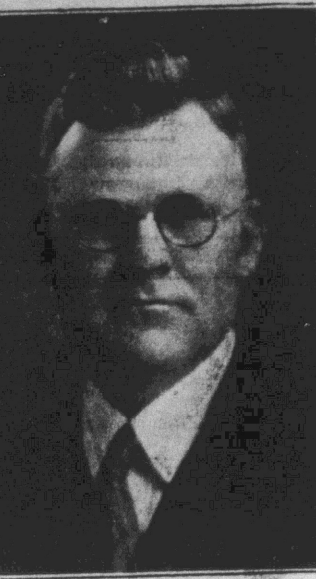

Such children often go through a period when they become unusually difficult to manage. The aggressive demands its innings and it takes some time before the child "finds himself" and is able to play constructively and with as much absorption as other children who did not have to get over being too good.

SUNDOWN STORIES

THE MISSING ROOF

By Mary Graham Bonner

Everyone crushed in the direction of the terrific crashing noise which came from the part of Puddle Muddle where Willy Nilly lived and had his repair shop. He led the way.

"Oh!" he suddenly exclaimed, "my roof has blown off."

"Oh, quack, quack, bow-wow, cock-a-doodle-do, croak, grunt, oh, Willy Nilly's roof has blown off." So went up the shout.

The boards were flying around on the ground and only the sides of the house were standing.

All the creatures hung their heads, for they knew that they had kept Willy Nilly from his own work. Mr. and Mrs. Juacko and the other Ducks hid their heads in their wings. Rip's tail was between his legs. The Toads blinked miserably.

Now everything started blowing inside the house, but quickly every creature set to work.

They picked up the boards as best they could. Top Notch, the Rooster, rushed down to his shop with a number of the others following him and they brought back putty and paint, and all started to work.

"Many wings made light work," said Mrs. Quacko, and with Nilly Nilly's strength and leadership they nailed the boards over the shop once more, filled in the cracks with putty and then all got brushes and painted it with heavy red paint.

"My roof is all finished!" cried Willy Nilly delightedly, and now the wind had died down and everyone was tired from the hard and hurried work. Suddenly they realized that it was Willy Nilly's birthday!

What a way for him to have celebrated it!

Tomorrow—"Willy Nilly's Presents."

About NEW YORK

By WILLIAM GAINES

New York, Oct. 28—Some persons have a way of getting into strange businesses. One fellow on Fifth Avenue deals in butterflies—dead ones, either for ornamentation or the collections of bugology students.

His shop is attractive—that is, to one who doesn't find a bit and rare butterflies crucified to make wall panels and vanity case covers. There is a funeral hush about the place, and one seldom sees a customer in there.

The proprietor himself has something of the aspect of an old-fashioned funeral parlor director. He is a slim, black haired, bespectacled fellow. But he is washish toward anyone who comes into his store for any purpose other than to pay his prices for his wares.

He doesn't enjoy being questioned about his business at all. People who are doubtful purchasers are always writing in to ask him something about his butterflies. He says nothing anonyms him much more than to have to answer these "foolish" letters.

There are a limited number of customers who pay good prices for unusual specimens. Whatever the times may be, he doesn't want to bother with strangers in the hope that new trade may develop.

In the rear of the shop is a dark space where you may see him, through the door, bent over his absorbing work of mounting butterflies. A single desk lamp lights his sharp, pale features. You stand there, waiting, until at last he is aware of your presence. The pale, bohemian face turns toward you with the challenge: "Why do you intrude? You mean business? You know, I'm strictly a dealer in dead butterflies."

Alias Fred Allen

Fred Allen, a comedian who is making his debut on the air, really is Fred Sullivan from Cambridge, Massachusetts.

He did his first acting in a church pageant, at the age of ten, cast as one of the three Wise Men. Some years later, working in a hardware store in Boston he got a chance to go in an act for a single appearance. The wage was $3.

He tackled the profession as a juggler, and had himself billed as "Fred St. James, World's Worst Juggler." Sullivan was St. James until he returned from an Australian invasion, which lasted three years. He had been getting $85 a week over there, and was afraid the old Keith office might check up and refuse him more money for vaudeville bookings in this country.

The best thing to do was to bury his old identity and rely on the skill he could demonstrate as a juggler, he decided, and a new name was in order. He happened to have an agent named Allen. The agent told him if he couldn't think up a better name, he might use his. That's the way Fred Allen, now a Revue star, emerged from obscurity.

Despite the fact that the law requires that all animal drawn vehicles should carry a light while traveling the highways at night, five such vehicles without lights, one of them a log cart loaded with three large protruding logs, were seen on one of the highways within a distance of five miles of the city last night between six and seven o'clock. Had the writer traveled other highways no doubt the experience would have been similar. The law requiring the lighting of vehicles was enacted for the protection of life and property on the highways and those persons who persist in venturing on the highways with unlighted vehicles are not only endangering their own lives but the lives of others as well. Law or no law, it seems to us that persons with sense enough to get out on the highways at night would have enough common sense not to take this chance with their own lives even if they have no regard for the other fellow.

With the Literary Digest poll and straw votes conducted by various other publications showing an ever increasing trend toward Roosevelt, it doesn't seem to be a question now of who's going to win, but of how much is Roosevelt going to beat Hoover.

ABOUT TOWN

Two bankers convicted of conspiracy in connection with the failure of banks in Western North Carolina, have been admitted to prison to serve long terms. Others will follow in the near future as soon as they are convicted through which they may escape. These men were the principals in one of the greatest financial debacles known in the history of the country, and it is nothing but fair that they should pay for the crimes behind prison bars. It is impossible to say how many people were victimized as result of the failure of the banks in which they were interested. Some will recover and some never will. This is the pity of losses of this kind. They strike at the door of those who actually need every cent they can get.

A PATH TO PARADISE

By Coningsby DAWSON

SYNOPSIS: Santa has run away from Dicky, her often insulting husband, to her parents—and there she learns that Clive, whom she jilted in outrageous fashion, is coming for dinner! Behind the scenes is a drama of long ago—her father, Eric Dawn, had been thrown over by Clive's mother, who on her deathbed asked that Santa's father act as her son's guardian. Dawn's wife had objected, had fled to Europe, and there had let Santa grow up into a heart-breaker. Now Santa rehearses the part she must play before Clive.

Chapter II SANTA ATTACKS FIRST

During the journey from New York to the Dawn home in Newark the mood of cynicism which Clive had cultivated softened. He had worshipped this girl as nobler than himself. There had been no sacrifice he would not have made for her. And now to hint to her parents that he had ever harbored such tenderness would produce a scandal.

He was aware of the pain he was causing long before he averted his eyes. What had brought him? Curiosity and an instinct more magnanimous: he had to learn that all was well with her. The same pleasant room in which he had made his breach with Santa ("Till you've finished sampling, count me out.") Eric Dawn, his guardian, to whom he'd been almost a son, killing the fatted calf for and leave them stranded with nothing but increased effort with which to build back their fortunes. To let men responsible for these crimes slip through some loophole of the law would be a stroke at the rights of the millions of people for whom laws were made and for whose safety they must be fully enforced regardless of personages.

The Greenville high school football team is considered one of the best in the history of the school and the public should go out and support the boys in a way to inspire them to greater achievement. Playing against one of their oldest rivals of the section, high emerged victorious.

It was the first time they had beaten this team in four years and consequently the game was of great significance to the entire student body as well as the public.

Clubs of the city have done well by the boys but people in the everyday walk of life are not rallying to their support as they should. Nothing adds inspiration to a game of this kind more than large attendance and it is to be hoped the people of the community will turn out in large numbers and show the boys they are behind them in future games.

Josephus Daniels of Raleigh, former secretary of the navy, will address Democratic voters of Farmville Saturday. The speech will be one of many held in this county during the presidential campaign and is expected to attract large crowds.

Mr. Daniels probably knows as much about Franklin D. Roosevelt as any other man in the country. Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy during Daniels' administration and won the admiration of the North Carolinian through his faithfulness to the great cause in which he was engaged.

Mr. Daniels, because of his association with Roosevelt, has watched his advancement in the political field with undiminished interest and now that he has the chance of becoming the head of government he is doing everything to help him get elected.

Speakers sent into the various communities of the country at this time are doing much to boost the Roosevelt cause, and when the day of the election rolls around it may be expected to see a tremendous vote piled up for the New Yorker.

Veterans of foreign wars have presented President Hoover with a petition asking for immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus, and the creation of legislation providing pensions for widows and orphans. The petition was presented by a former admiral of the American navy, a man who has spent long years in the interest of the nation and who is sympathetic to the effort to pay the soldiers the remainder of the World War compensation.

Mr. Hoover didn't make any reply to the petition and he probably never will. He is not in sympathy with the bonus and never will be. He realizes that payment of this enormous sum of money would put the treasury in such shape it would not be able to again pour into the lap of big business millions of dollars as was done at the last session of Congress.

The President has never failed to see the interests of the men of wealth and influence, but when the little man is involved, he conveniently plays blind man's bluff, a great game among children, and one at which the President is very proficient.

Do your shopping in Greenville and help home town merchants to be in position to lay in new stocks for your inspection next season. Money spent at home remains to be used for the upbuilding of home businesses. It puts the merchant in position to enlarge his stocks each season of the year and offer to his patrons the best to be had in the world of fashion. Greenville has an enviable reputation as a trade center and will continue to hold it if the people will rally to their cause as they should.

They adjourned to the library for coffee. Mrs. Dawn patted Clive's arm. "What Santa said was true—we have all felt more than a little hurt by your neglect."

"Being given my chance," he feigned contrition, "made me careless—a little high-hat. As contact money for my firm in Europe where everyone has something to sell, I was treated as important. And then there were distractions."

"For instance?" Mrs. Dawn encouraged. "You might call them temptations. In Vienna not to be romantic is to be dead from the heels up. They're not ashamed over there, as we are, of so many things that are natural. It was an eat, drink and be merry sort of life. Everybody infatuated. Looking back," he lied cutragously, "it seems that 'last year is the only one in which I was ever young."

"That's no news to me," Mrs. Dawn smiled reminiscently. "Till Santa was thirteen I educated her broad as you know. Often I close my eyes and dream myself back to Rome, Venice, the Riviera. Sunshine, flowers, beauty and tenors with guitars, howling like tom-cats. It was pleasant. Europeans do what we only dare to think."

"So what I claim is that Europeanized Americans shouldn't be judged by our standards, whereas we demand that they shall be energetic. By the way, talking of Europeanized Americans, did you ever hear Santa's husband mentioned? He lived for some time in Vienna."

Had he? Dickey Dak was still a purple patch in the American colony's memory. Never without a girl and always a good looker. A free-spender—a lavish spender. Handsome Debonair. Gifted beyond the ordinary; but cursed with an aversion for industry. He'd defeated himself on several occasions by making his intention to marry the fortune rather than the heiress a trifle too obvious.

Mr. Dawn relieved him. "My dear Judy, you don't expect Clive to peddle gossip."

His wife squeaked like a mouse whose tail had been trodden on. "You're ridiculous, Eric. If we don't inquire, how are we to learn?"

"The time for inquiry," Mr. Dawn spoke sternly, "was before Santa's engagement. Then, according to you, my desire to question Dak was freewill interference. She married blindly, poor child. Whatever may be the consequences, this belated snooping doesn't mend matters."

All eyes were turned on the poor child. She met their scrutiny radiantly, as though amused by their concern for her.

"What's poor about me, Daddy?" "Nothing, perhaps. I don't know I only suspect."

She continued with her embroidery. It was exactly as though she had rebuked him for spying.

Concealing his loss of dignity, he replied with gravity.

Rheumatics THRILLED

When Torturing Pains Are Stopped

relieved by Black-Draught
"I decided to take Theford's Black-Draught, as I had been having bilious spells," writes Mr. Chas. E. Stevens, of Columbus, Ind. "When I get bilious, I feel sleepy and tired and do not feel like doing my work. I get awfully dizzy. I know then that I had better take something. After I found how good Black-Draught is, that is what I have used. I guess it rids me of the dizziness. I feel better—don't feel like I am dropping off to sleep every time I sit down. That, to me, is a very bad feeling. Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for CHILDREN."

TWO-PIECE COATS WORN TWO WAYS

MARKET REPORT

Sales Lighter Prices At The Top Many Loads Averaging From 35c To 50c Bring Your Tobacco On Government Report just published shows GREENVILLE continues to be the World's Largest Bright Tobacco Market.

Greenville is also leading in prices paid for every grade of tobacco. Never before have the other markets tried so hard to induce and persuade growers in our territory to sell with them. Some of them are so desperate as to offer any kind of inducements, even going so far as to offer to haul their tobacco free.

We believe the farmers of Pitt county will stand by their market, which has proven to be the best and largest bright tobacco market in the state.

Grade carefully, keep your tobacco dry and "drive in" early in order to avoid any rush.

TAR HEELS IN GOOD SHAPE FOR BATTLE

Chapel Hill, Oct. 28.—With its offense clicking in good style and with considerable new backfield strength available as the result of this week's hard and thorough work, the Carolina gridgers approached this afternoon's last practice before Saturday's home game with State in good shape and fine spirits.

The Tar Heels have it in their hearts that they can upset the undefeated Wolfpack, but that it will take their best and hardest fighting game to do it, and that is exactly what they plan to give when State comes here tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock to revive its classic 38-year rivalry with Carolina.

Both teams were tied 0-0 by Wake Forest, but State looms the favorite by virtue of its much better season record, and Carolina will be the fighting underdog in what should be a fast and fiercely contested game after the traditional Carolina-State manner, as evidenced by State's great 19-15 victory of last year.

Carolina supporters are much encouraged at the fine showing in practice this week of Norman McCaskill and Johnny Peacock, newly converted halfbacks, and of Henry Burnett and Pepper Martin, new quarterbacks. These youngsters have been showing dash and fire, and McCaskill is also a good passer, while Burnett and Martin are both good punters and punter returners.

Carolina's veteran backs have also been showing new life and drive this week, with Johnny Phipps, Johnny Daniel and the old reliable, Stuart Chandler, setting the pace. The Tar Heels have paid considerable attention to laying a defense for State's powerful line backs and its speedy passing attack, but they have concentrated on acquiring drive and polish for their running attack, and every indication is that Carolina will present a much stronger and better clicking offense.

The Tar Heel line will also be ready for anything State can throw at it. Harry Hodges is back in top shape, and the first line is intact, and lacking as it did when it made its great stands against Wake Forest and Georgia. Erwin Walker at end, Frank Smith at tackle, June Underwood at center and the other stars vow that State shall not pass, but it looks like the Wolfpack backs will argue considerably about that.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

You may hear more about Johnny Grady, weight 158 pounds, from Somerville, Mass., an delft halfback on Tem "C" of the Harvard varsity football squad.

Harvard's head coach, Eddie Casey, says Grady is one of the finest natural ball-carriers he has ever seen, although the fact is that Johnny, a senior, never played football of any kind before this year.

Grady got on the squad by reason of playing tennis with one of Casey's assistants last summer. The coach sensed an unusual gift for football in the way Grady covered a tennis court. He asked Johnny, just for fun, to come out for practice and see how he liked the gridiron sport.

That's how it started and the usually conservative Casey will tell you no what things happen when Grady carries the ball as an understudy for the powerful Jack Crickard. Crickard helps soften up the opposition under the Harvard system, then Pescosolido, Locke and Grady gallop in. Grady has a natural change of pace, plus rare speed. He directs his own interference beside manifesting a gift for timing

GRINS from the GRID

(This is the sixteen of a series of articles in which O. W. "Red" Severance, noted official, relates the humorous and "inside" stories he has run across in a long association with leading football coaches.)

By O. W. "RED" SEVERANCE
(Written for The Associated Press)

To put it mildly, Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern was disgusted. Instead of a "breather" he had counted upon to break the strain of a terrific schedule, the University of California at Los Angeles had played the Northwestern second team off its feet in the first quarter and forced him to rush his varsity into the game.

After breaking up a U. C. L. A. drive on the seven-yard line the varsity had swept down the field for a touchdown and immediately had started playing half-hearted, "saving ourselves" football.

his movements to avoid enemy tacklers.

another Frank Merriwell story, it will be sufficient at least for today's chapter.

Four "Key" Men

"Most every football team," Head Coach Casey told a gathering of football folks at the Harvard Club of New York, "depends on three or four key men to sustain any kind of successful play. An injury to any of these often will explain why a team suddenly slumps or fails to recover its usual stride."

At Harvard we rely on four men to keep the balance. They are Hardy, 226-pound left tackle; Esterly, running guard; Captain Hageman, right end, and Jack Crickard, left halfback. They hold the key to our attack and defense.

Ira Hardy, of Minneapolis, very likely is the best football guard in the East, if not as good as any in the country, including the renowned Bill Corbus of Stanford. The Crimson lineman handles his weight easily.

Can't Replace Football
Harvard and Yale, incidentally, have no idea of pursuing the idea of curtailing their intercollegiate gridiron schedules. The new athletic administration at New Haven shares with Bill Bingham, Harvard's athletic director, the conviction that it takes big-game gate receipts to sustain the widely developed university sports programs.

"It's useless to talk of commercialism in football unless some way is found to replace the money derived from our gate receipts," says Bingham.

ORIENTAL NAVIES IGNORE CLASHING ARMS AFLOAT

Tokyo, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Chinese and Japanese armies may clash, but all is sweetness and light between the navies.

Four Chinese have just graduated from the Japanese torpedo school at Yokosuka and taken important posts in China's fledgling sea force.

The Harima dockyard near Kobe recently delivered the 3,000-ton cruiser Ninghai to China and at the ensuing banquet Admiral Chen Shao-Kuan, Nanking's Minister of the Marine, said the new ship strengthened the ties between the two navies.

Coal production in Kentucky declined more than 20 per cent in 1931 as compared with 1930.

Negro "House of David"

Kansas City, Oct. 28.—(AP)—There's a "Negro House of David" baseball nine, too. With every bit as many whiskers as some of their white brethren, the colored lads have been barnstorming through the mid-West.

On Woodward Avenue, less than a hundred paces from Cadillac Square, Detroit, is an old hitching post of the nineties.

Apparently convinced a 7 to 0 lead could never be overtaken, the team was growing more careless with every play. Ball-carriers were being stopped by their own interference.

And, like a sore thumb, "Pug" Rentner, brilliant Northwestern backfield ace, was standing out as the chief offender. Starting out on end runs like a truck horse, he was being tackled behind the line repeatedly.

Finally Coach Hanley's patience reached the limit of endurance. Jumping to his feet as Rentner made another blunder, he pointed an angry finger at Luke Fossler, backfield substitute, sitting on the bench.

"Get in there," he cried, "and take that fathead's place."

Headgear in hand, Fossler took a step toward the gridiron, then turned back. "Say, coach," he asked in a puzzled tone, "which fathead?"

DUKE DEVILS ARE READY FOR VOL TILT

Durham, N. C., Oct. 28.—Rated as underdogs but hoping to upset some well-laid Tennessee plans, the Blue Devils of Duke left here last night carrying their banner into Knoxville, the stronghold of the championship Vols.

Gong through their last practice on the home gridiron yesterday afternoon, the Blue Devils look back over a week of hard work which has included a great amount of time on-tackling as the best way to stop the Vol's supply backs and the infiltration of several new plays exclusively for use Saturday.

Tennessee's plays, as run this week by the strong Duke freshman team, failed to make much of a print on the varsity. The passing attack that the Vols so make much of a print on the varsity. The passing attack that the Vols have used to good advantage in their games this season was also cut loose on the Devils by the freshmen and it, too, was demolished.

Duke is expected to give Tennessee a bitter struggle. Offering a defense that has scored on in only one game this fall—then by the high-flying Auburn Plainsmen—and an offensive attack that has yet to be stopped, the Blue Devils are considered able to give any team trouble, and lots of it.

Southern football fans will watch with interest the running, passing and punting duel between Beattie Feathers of the Vols and Nick Laney of the Devils, two of the outstanding halfbacks in the conference this season. The two lines, Duke's lead by the brilliant play of mighty Freddie Crawford, tackle, and the other by Captain Malcom Aitkens, who will play opposite the Duke star, should offer plenty of fireworks.

The Blue Devils left last night at 7:20 o'clock over the Southern. They will take a short workout Friday afternoon on Shield-Watkins field, the scene of Saturday's conflict.
