Talks to Parents

AN UNPOPULAR CHILD
By Alice Judson Peale

A mother writes asking for help with her child who at six still had not learned to play happily with other children.

As often as he is sent out to join a group he comes home in tears. The other children hate him, they are mean to him, they won't let him play.

What, this mother asks, can she do to teach her child to get on with others?

Perhaps the first thing to do is to watch this child, if possible, without his being aware of the fact. If this is not practical, mother might take some hand work with which the child would appear to be completely occupied, and seat herself somewhere in the background where she could see and hear what went on between the children without their feeling her presence.

Does this little boy make himself unpopular by refusing to recognize the rights of others? Is he so timid, and does he whine so easily, that the others regard him with superiority and contempt?

Perhaps he is so much less skillful than others of his age that he cannot keep up with them and so feels left out and unhappy.

Perhaps his chief trouble is that he is so dependent upon adult help and interest that he feels at a loss when there is no adult near upon whom he may depend for comfort and help and suggestion.

All these possibilities would have to be investigated and the child's treatment at home modified to help him meet his problem. But perhaps the greatest help would be his enrollment in a supervised play group under a trained teacher whose long practice in dealing with such difficulties, and the fact that she is not the child's mother, will make it easier for him to make a proper adjustment.

About NEW YORK

By WILLIAM GAINES

New York, Nov. 9.—Vernon (Goofy) Gomez was winding up to make his first appearance on a Broadway stage. His charming fiancée, of the musical shows, had been coaching him, but the Goof was nervous.

"Say," he told me, "I didn't feel this way, even when I had to face the Cubs." Cou may remember what he did to the Cubs in the world's series. His performance then largely accounted for him getting a job in vaudeville.

In case you're interested, Gomez is not called "Goofy" because he is goofy in the sense that slang word is generally understood. He isn't the Ring Lardner type of left-hander, who doesn't know enough to come in out of the rain. He's just a young fellow with a sense of humor and a great fondness for kidding, and the ball players tagged him "Goofy" because of his kidding.

The Rodeo, California, boy is double-jointed, by the way. He can do the most remarkable things with his bones, and might have been a contortionist if the circus had taken him in his youth. I asked him if this talent for bone twisting had anything to do with his pitching success. He said he didn't know, unless, perhaps, it enabled him to get more of a snap on his curve ball.

Peek At Personalities

Edna Best and her husband, Herbert Marshall, have gone back to London to be unhappy again, if you take them at their word. I talked to the pair a short time before their departure. They were anxious, then, to get back to London, which they rarely missed. But once over there, they said, they begin to think there's no place so earth like New York and begin to yearn to get back.

Just a season or so ago, I knew a promising young thespian. He seemed headed for big things, but along came the slump in shows and he finally quit Broadway in disgust. I've just met him again, a visitor to the big city.

"I won't extend my hand," he said, "because they're alal calloused from working on the farm."

He's been working on his brother's farm up in Connecticut—plowing the plot, and such things. Nobody would mind that; anybody would be glad to shake his hand. But he just had to prove he's still an actor.

"I'd rather have callouses on my hands," he orated, "than a calloused soul. And that's what I would have got, if I'd stayed around Broadway."

Oopsy doopsy!

Peo: Housekeeper

Two Greenwich Village couples among my acquaintances completely reverse the old domestic order of things.

The wives are working for a living; the husbands are staying home, keeping house. Not so long ago the husbands were hired out, too, but they let their jobs.

One of the husbands is—I should say, was—a commercial artist. During the long day he finds it impossible to keep away from his drawing-board, and his spouse frequently returns home in the evening and finds the breakfast dishes unwashed.

"The most terrible housekeeper I ever saw," she snap in mock anger.

A good, old-fashioned comic strip situation come to life!

How One Woman Lost 10 lbs. in Week

Mrs. Betty Luedeke of Dayton, writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."

To take off fat easily, SAFELY and HARMLESSLY—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast, butter cream and pastries—potatoes, butter cream and pastries—it is the safe way to lose unsightly fat and one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Get it at Pitt Drug Co., or any drugstore in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lose fat—money back.

But be sure and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health.—(Adv.)

ROUND TABLE CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. ROSE

The Round Table Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. H. Rose. As the members hurried in from the inclement weather, they were at once ushered into an atmosphere of friendly fellowship.

The soft glow of shaded lights, the artistic arrangement of handsome roses, dahlias and other colorful fall flowers added charm to the occasion.

The president, Mrs. R. L. Smith, presided. The usual order of business was followed and matters of interest were discussed.

Mrs. Guiley was chosen by Mrs. Brown as her guest and Miss Powell is the guest of Mrs. Griffin.

The club decided to purchase books for distribution among its members. Three books will be donated to the library.

The pronunciation referee gave the correct pronunciation of romance and Campbell.

Mrs. S. J. Everett, chairman of the program committee, announced the subject for the afternoon's program—"The Rockefeller Foundation," by Mrs. E. L. Hillman.

Mrs. Hillman's treatment of the subject was interesting, instructive and inspirational. She showed thorough familiarity with the varied activities of this great foundation, and her carefully prepared paper reflected her choice of subject matter.

An added note of interest was a world map on which Mrs. Hillman demonstrated, by the use of stars, the location of the activities of the foundation, which encircle the globe.

The Rockefeller Foundation was chartered in 1913, "to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world." Mr. Rockefeller placed in the hands of trustees the sum of one hundred million dollars. This has increased from time to time. The policy of the foundation can be summed up in Mr. Rockefeller's own words: "Efficiency in giving."

Activities of the foundation are carried on through five main divisions. The extent of the work carried on by these divisions is "unto the uttermost parts of the earth."

The magnitude of the work is staggering. We must pay our respects to the man who conceived the idea of putting wealth to such intelligent use and to the staff of men who direct the giving of such vast sums. In 1930 more than $18,000,000 was spent in the fields of international health, medical science, natural science, social science and humanities. These projects extend literally around the earth, are not limited to race or color but deal with all phases and spheres of life.

At the conclusion of the discussion of this subject by Mrs. Hillman members added items of interest on Foundations.

Mrs. Rose had as her guests Mesdames McDonald, Harris, Swartz, Julian White, Frank Brown, John Wyatt and Morgan.

Delicious refreshments were served. This brought to a close an afternoon well spent and thoroughly enjoyed by each one present.—Reported

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY MEETS

The American Legion Auxiliary met in regular monthly session on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. M. Moseley. Mrs. B. S. Warren, Mrs. E. S. Williams and Mrs. J. S. Flocken were assisting hostesses. Mrs. R. S. McGeachy presided. In the absence of the chaplain, Mrs. J. L. Evans read the Auxiliary prayer and Mrs. McGeachy led in the flag salute. Several matters of business were dispatched among which were gratifying reports from the treasurer and welfare committee.

W. A. Darden brought greetings from the local American Legion Post and spoke a few significant words on "Armistice Day," after which he extended a cordial invitation to the Auxiliary to attend the Armistice Day exercises and dinner.

W. J. Bundy, local chairman of the Red Cross, appeared before the Auxiliary and explained the coming Red Cross drive and asked assistance from the Auxiliary in making the drive a success.

The Auxiliary was glad to welcome Mrs. C. F. Bland as a new member.

PORTRAIT OF JOYNER PRESENTED TO COLLEGE

The acceptance of the portrait of Dr. J. Y. Joyner, which has been presented to East Carolina Teachers College, was the feature of the assembly exercises this morning. President Wright paid high tribute to this leader in education. He said he had more to do with shaping the professional policies of this school than any other one person. He has always been one of the best friends of the school, serving as chairman of the Board of Trustees for the first ten years and later as a member.

President Wright reviewed the career of Dr. Joyner, by presenting in calendar form the events of his life, bringing out the two periods when he rendered service of supreme importance to the state. The first of these was when he was of the trio, Alderman, McIver, and Joyner, who went about North Carolina stirring up the people educationally and presenting the cause of the education of women. The results of this campaign were the establishment of the State Woman's College at Greensboro.

The other period covered the 17 years when, as superintendent of Public Instruction, was a leader in the advancement of educational affairs of every kind.

"To me he has always been as a father," was the personal touch added by the speaker.

The portrait of Dr. Joyner will hang in the library which has his name, the "James Yadin Joyner Memorial Library."

Sans Souci Club Meets

One of the most delightful fall meetings of the Sans Souci Book Club was held with Mrs. Judson Blount on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 8th. While the response to the roll call was not quite as large as usual the hospitality of the hostess in her lovely home, bright with bowls of chrysanthemums and inviting open fires, gave great enjoyment and a most interesting afternoon was the result.

The president, Mrs. Blount, presided and after the business and passing of books Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, chairman of the program committee, took charge.

Mrs. W. L. Hall presented three "Picturesque Personalities" to the club, choosing for the first, "Ann Hutchinson" of Lincolnshire, Eng., who lived at the time of the Puritan revolt. She came to America in 1634 and settled in Massachusetts, was greatly beloved by both men and women for her goodness of heart, skill in nursing and especially by women for starting meetings enlightening them on their rights for independent thought and action.

She was banished from Massachusetts and went to Rhode Island where she experienced many hardships and trials on account of her doctrines.

What Gov. Winthrop described as her "nimble wit and volubility" never deserted her. "A possibly indiscreet in her opinions of ministers," Ann Hutchinson was a strange mixture of confidence, a consecration with a tragic end. She was fighting the first of a long series to be fought in America for religious toleration and for freedom of thought and speech, for true democracy in religion.

A glimpse into the life and works of Emily Dickenson:

Born in Amherst, Mass., and a physical and spiritual hermit, she wrote almost five hundred poems, none of which were published until after her death.

But in 1924 the enthusiasm attending the publishing of three volumes of her poetry was unbounded.

Few dreamed she would outlive the obituary in the Springfield Republican.

"Today her place is secure, her work definitely of the colossal substance of immortality."

Mrs. Hall read four of her loveliest poems.

Lastly, Lady Elizabeth Bowes Lyons, now the Duchess of York.

Her childhood and girlhood were spent in beautiful country homes of her father, Glomis Castle in Scotland, and St. Paul's, Waldenbury.

The following description is given of her at a dance in Paris

"The most charming sight there was Lady Elizabeth Lyon, a bewitching little figure in rose color, which set off her lovely eyes and dark eyebrows to perfection. She seemed to be the incarnation of fresh, happy girlhood, so bright, so natural, with an absolutely enchanting smile and look of indescribable goodness and sweetness—shot thru with a delicious sense of humor.

"Looking at her, I felt that she was just what ought to result from her sort of home atmosphere of family affection and from laughter and music, and yet with a sense of the deep, eternal realities of life as foundation to it all."

She was attending the theatre in London on her 14th birthday and from her box watched with her mother and brothers a crowd gone wild with excitement at the declaration of war.

It will be remembered that her four brothers entered the war at the first and Glomis Castle was converted into a hospital from the first war Christmas until 1918.

Toward the end of 1922 Lady Elizabeth Lyon became the subject of widespread interest. It was known that the Duke of York had fallen in love with her.

As a beautiful culmination to her program, Mrs. Hall closed by reading the exquisite description of Lady Elizabeth Lyon's marriage to the Duke of York.

After current events, Mrs. Blount, assisted by Miss Jean Blount, served a delicious salad course with hot coffee.

Mrs. H. L. Rivers, Mrs. Purcell of Washington, and Miss Purvis were visitors of the club for the afternoon.—Reported

Red Cross Begins Enrollment Here

The school superintendent, Prof. J. H. Rose, and the teachers of the city schools have set aside this week to enroll the schools in the Junior Red Cross.

The chapter will be composed of membership from the fourth through the seventh grades in the grammar schools and the high school. The co-operation of the parents will be appreciated in organizing the Junior Chapter. The necessary money for enrollment is to be raised by the pupils, which will range from one cent to twenty-five cents. Any money raised in excess of the enrollment appropriation will be placed in the Service Fund of the chapter. This fund is used to finance national or foreign projects or such local projects as the school may desire with the approval of the chapter school committee.

The Junior Red Cross is a joint enterprise of the Red Cross and the school. The motto, "I serve," will urge Juniors to want to be of service in their community, thereby helping the chapter in upholding the Red Cross standard. The Juniors will have many opportunities for service in helping ease the burden of depression, such as canning fruits and vegetables, making garments for the children in need, serving of school hot lunches, filling Christmas boxes, sending picture albums and gifts to children hospitals or old people's homes, etc.

The Junior Red Cross program, which is sent out from National Headquarters need not be extra duty for the teacher; on the contrary, it brings supplementary material of world-wide interest, summarized and outlined ready for correlated use in the regular classroom program of activities, i. e., papers, calendars, magazines, pageants, plays, etc. The international and inter-sectional correspondence, which is very interesting to the children, may be used in connection with art, manual training, domestic science, geography and English classes.

(Signed) MRS. SELMA CARSON MOORE, Chairman Junior Red Cross.

ABOUT TOWN

Speaking of voting the "straight" Democratic ticket, consider Beaver Dam township of Pitt county. The voters of that progressive community went to the polls in Tuesday's national election and voted solidly for Roosevelt and other members of the Democratic party. Not a single vote was cast for President Hoover. Beaver Dam was not afraid of the President's prediction that "failure to elect him would cause the grass to grow in the streets of thousands of American cities." They knew that the nation did not depend upon the ability of any one man and voted in favor of the "new deal" promised by Roosevelt.

The people of Beaver Dam are to be congratulated upon the splendid way they rallied to the cause of their party. They lived up to the expectations of leaders and did their bit toward securing the greatest victory the party probably ever had.

There are millions of happy people throughout the nation as result of the sweeping Democratic victory in Tuesday's general election. Probably one of the happiest is W. E. Hooks, chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee.

The chairman is suffering from a protracted attack of election over the outcome of the success of the party, not only in the county where he labored so hard for success but in other sections of the country where the vote put the Democrats in power by one of the greatest votes probably on record.

Pitt county, running true to form piled up an overwhelming victory for Democratic nominees and the chairman is supremely happy over the splendid work done by members of the party.

Mr. Hooks expressed appreciation of the splendid service rendered by co-workers in all sections of the county and said without their loyal support it would have been impossible to have recorded such a pronounced victory.

Tomorrow is Armistice Day and millions of people throughout the nation will pay tribute to the heroism of the men who sacrificed so much that civilization might be saved from the heels of ruthless German autocracy.

Greenville and Pitt county will do their bit in a celebration put on by the Pitt County Post of the American Legion. The program will be fully in keeping with the significance of the occasion. The honor of paying tribute in speech to the former soldiers will be left to Judge James Patton, of Durham, who has taken an important part in the life of the nation since the ending of the great World War.

The community should do its bit by the celebration and join in its effort to celebrate that momentous occasion, fourteen years ago when an armistice checked millions of guns on foreign battlefields and brought to an end the bloodiest carnage the world has ever known.

Through celebrations of this kind the noble deeds of the men who sacrificed so much in the winning of that war will forever be perpetuated and our children and our children's children will be proud of the fine heritage left by their forefathers.

The Bicentennial celebration to be conducted at the college November 17 is of special significance to the community and the people should co-operate as far as possible in making it the great occasion it should be. All sections of the nation are doing their bit toward perpetuating the wonderful achievements of the First President. His services to the nation at one of the most crucial periods in American history should inspire everybody to help honor him. It is the constant bringing before the attention of the people the true greatness of men of this kind that the high principles for which the forefathers labored may be imbibed in their minds. This is the first celebration of the

by Coningsby DAWSON

SYNOPSIS: For two weeks Santa has seemed a useless butter-fly to Clive, anxious to settle down to normal life after their hasty marriage following Santa's divorce from Dicky. But meanwhile she has rented an expensive apartment and furnished it with the things she and Dicky had used. When her mother gives her secret away Santa wonders, almost in terror, what Clive will say.

Chapter 22 THE FIRST QUARREL

Having escorted his in-law as far as their automobile, Clive loitered at the pavement. He was thinking unusual thoughts for a bridegroom. There was one person who could have understood them—Dicky Dak. Dicky could have put him wise. Dicky had told him a lot. It takes a man who's been divorced from a woman to know the truth about her. If Santa had employed these high-handed methods with Dicky, he would have required to be a worm to endure them. She seemed to think that a wedding ring was something you slipped through a husband's nose. And yet here he was, married to her, and in the trick of including her parent in her impromptu home-worm.

As he stepped from the elevator, he saw the door down the passage fully opened. There she stood in the robe of beneficence. She leaned against him, exercising all her charms. "I did it for you, Clive. To save you trouble. Tell me that you adore me."

He held his peace till they had reached the drawing-room; then he gently disentangled himself from her embrace. "Apart from having made me a laughing-stock and a probable bankrupt, I find your choice of apartment delightful. There isn't a thing wrong with the apartment; the trouble is how to pay for it."

"But my love," she replied with angelic forbearance, "this is my present to you."

"Unfortunately," he smiled, imitating her suavely, "it isn't. It's the present as far as the furnishings are concerned, of friends who wished you well at your first wedding."

"Come to earth, Clive." She was prepared to reason with him as a mother with a wayward child. "Why are you so concerned about the furnishings? I've divided everything scrupulously; I've divided on from Chicago only the things that were mine. And as regards the apartment, I don't expect you to support it; I leave you free to contribute whatever you feel you kind held in this immediate section and it should be one of the greatest of the east, if the people will only rally behind members of the Bicentennial committee and help them make it a success.

Lots of people seem to be under the impression that the Democratic victory means that the nation will have open saloons as soon as the party takes over the central of government.

Many persons have attempted to impress this fact upon the minds of people who did not take time to acquaint themselves with the Democratic platform. Such an assumption is a mistake. The Democrats were in favor of repeal of the 18th amendment, but this does not mean they are in favor of open saloons.

People who voted for Hoover because of the Democratic position on the prohibition question should remember that the party represented by the President was in favor of a "change" in the 18th amendment. How far that change would have carried them if they had remained in control of government is pre-ferential to the difference in the opinion of the two parties on this important question was hardly sufficient to cause a disinterested person to vote the Republican national ticket.

In view of the fact that hundreds of prominent members of the nation's early throughout the nation have failed to differentiate between the exhibition stand of the two parties and thought the campaign was overclouded all others as it pertains to the happiness and welfare of the nation.

"I loved you even when you were angry, Clive—more and more." He pledged himself in an agony to persuade her. "On my honor, our first quarrel shall be our last."

She rubbed his cheek, tickling him with her hair. "Vanish," because your lips couched them. (Copyright, 1931-1932, Coningsby Dawson) Cmc problem past, Santa and Clive run into another complication, tomorrow.

"Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". POLITICS at random

BY PYRO-ICE
 Those who feel inclined to heave a sigh of relief because the campaign is over should remember that election day does not mean a cessation of politics.

Instead it merely marks a temporary lull along the bank of a rushing stream which flows on forever. Whatever pulse ensues is of the briefest. After every election for a period of readjustment almost as feverish in its activities as the campaign itself. Certain political debris needs to be cleared away and party leaders must acclimate themselves quickly to new surroundings and new prospects.

To this rule 1932 is no exception. Problems of high policy challenge both parties. For the victorious party, campaign promises begin to press for redemption, and long-term planning must be resumed.

For the defeated party, there remains the critical question of how and where to make a fresh start. The urgency of these matters arises largely from the constitutional provision which allows no real breathing space between the election and the reconvening of Congress. Within less than a month after the ballots are counted, politics resumes its gambols on Capitol Hill. In this year, particularly, the drafting of legislative programs is a matter of the greatest political concern.

Problems Must Be Met
 Vastly important problems, both domestic and foreign, have been shouldered aside for campaign purposes. Now they must be met.

A new deficit is gobbling its way deeper and deeper every day into the fiscal policy of the national government. There is a growing sentiment of conviction that new taxes must be provided with a minimum of delay. It would be hard to find any subject more heavily loaded with political dynamite.

New appropriations bills must be passed between now and July. Practically every member of House and Senate, of whatever party, has told his constituents to expect reductions in government spending. How and when to prune must be fought out all over again.

Both the great parties are newly pledged to do something about prohibition. Democrats and Republicans alike, but with varying purposes, are examining whether something should not be done about the tariff. A few Congressional investigations, growing directly out of the incidents of the campaign, already appear probable.

Debt's Question
 Another debt payment from Europe is due on December 15, and there is much doubt whether the money will be forthcoming. Not only have both parties shared this question aside in their campaign arguments, but the European politicians also have put their utterances under a restraint pending the outcome of the American election.

The general problem of European rehabilitation, including the question of armaments; the puzzle of the Far East, about to be raised anew as the League of Nations takes up the Lytton report; the inquiry soon to begin before a Senate committee considering the St. Lawrence waterway treaty with Canada—all these contain the fuses of highly explosive political controversy.

What About Relief?
 An overshadowing it all is the approach of another winter's cold with cries for help raised toward Washington from almost every community in the land. Perhaps some genius will arise to separate relief from politics, but past experience reflects no such prospect.

ONCE A BALL HAWK, SPEAKER NOW EYES THEATRE TICKETS

ONCE A BALL HAWK, SPEAKER St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 10.—(AP)—From the big league outfield to a musical comedy road show by way of a radio announcer's booth has run the varied career of Tris Speaker, one of baseball's truly greats.

A year ago Speaker, once famous slugger and fly-chaser for the Boston Red Sox, broadcast major league games for a Chicago radio station.

This season finds him touring the country with an operetta revival. But Tris doesn't appear on the stage. He is the more prosaic at the theater door before each performance, checking tickets in the interest of the show producers.

Still the diamond sport is his first love, and he talks of base hits and strikeouts instead of song hits and blackouts.

Readily the "Gray Eagle," who came up to the majors in 1908, expressed his opinion of the signing of Rogers Hornsby a fellow-Texan, by the Cardinals. Hornsby "isn't through as a player," Speaker asserted, whatever the status of his managerial career.

"Hornsby has slowed up, of course," Tris admitted, "but he isn't old and he'll always be able to hit.

His punch should add a lot to the Cardinals."

Speaker said he believed the major leagues would be making a mistake in reducing the player limit below the present 25, as advocated in some quarters, contending that 25 men are not too many for a strenuous campaign.

Mineral Compound Proves Sensation

Scores of Local People Report Amazing Results from New Scientific Food Vitalizer; Druggists Astounded at Tremendous Sales.

Probably never before in all the history of this county has any product been given such whole-hearted praise as the new scientific formula known as LEE'S MINERAL COMPOUND. Men and women in all walks of life have put this remarkable Food Vitalizer to the test and proven its amazing powers. Literally thousands of people have made the now famous 10 day test and have proven that Nature's way is the right way to health.

So swift and sweeping has been the success of this new compound that in a few short weeks, it has become the talk of the country. Those who have used it tell astounding stories of what it has done for them, and, were the facts not known and verified, it would be hard to believe that any single treatment could prove so effective in so many different cases.

It merely goes to prove the assertion of famous Scientists that the one sure way to maintain health is to supply the body with a balanced proportion of the essential Mineral elements and necessary Vitamins.

The one and only product of its kind, LEE'S MINERAL COMPOUND, contains eleven essential Minerals, splendidly combined with Vitamins and valuable tonic aids. It acts as a Food vitalizer, feeding the system those vital elements that we fail to get in modern refined foods. It stimulates the organs of digestion and assimilation, creates a keen, hearty appetite, clears the system of dangerous impurities and waste material, soothes "ragged" nerves, enables one to sleep soundly, awake refreshed and filled with new vigor for the daily battles of life.

No wonder that those who have tried so many other treatments, with little or no benefit, have been quick to turn to this natural method of restoring health. No wonder the sales of "patent" medicines, harsh laxatives and dangerous "pain-killers" have fallen to the lowest mark in years. People today are more intelligent than they used to be and are quick to take advantage of the new and proven scientific discoveries. That accounts for the tremendous demand for this amazing compound that builds new health, strength and vigor in Nature's own way.

If you have tried many medicines and treatments that gave you little or no relief, do not be discouraged. The chances are 10 to 1 you'll find LEE'S MINERAL COMPOUND is just what your system needs to restore your health.

Water & Light Commission

New York Cotton

New York, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady one to two cents lower on disappointing Liverpool cables. The market soon steadied on covering and scattered demand which came partly from trade sources. December went up from 6.02 to 6.10 and May from 6.30 to 6.34, making the general list about three to four points net higher. After holding quiet and steady during part of the morning prices drifted toward midday on local and commission buying. Offerings were light and this required little demand to send December to 6.10 and March to 6.45, or about 10 to 15 points net higher.

Table with columns for month (Dec, Jan, Feb, Mar, Apr, May, June, July, Aug, Sept, Oct) and price (Open, Close, Prev. Cl.).

Stock Market

New York, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The stock market recovered today just as quickly as it declined yesterday. During the morning leading issues pushed up one to four points capturing losses which occurred at the same time yesterday. The list continued dull in the middle of the day and eased off a little toward the close. American Telephone rose nearly four points and issues getting up three included American Can, Allied Chemical and Santa Fe. U. S. Steel common and preferred advanced more than two points but did not fully retain the advance. Reports of a plan to attempt to modify the dry act at the next session of Congress again promoted what had the earmarks of activity in a few issues. Owen Glass went up more than four and others three. Sales were 1,200,000 shares.

Palo Alto, Calif., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Desiring to get back to his official duties in Washington, President Hoover today arranged to leave for home tomorrow night rather than Saturday as he originally planned. One of the secretaries said today that Mr. Hoover had insisted upon reaching the White House not later than next Wednesday, and in order to meet the demand both schedules were revised to allow for departure tomorrow night. The same Presidential secretary, commenting on reports that the President would call Franklin D. Roosevelt into conference, said definitely the President had made no such statement.

Ten Killed By Storm

(By The Associated Press) As a tropical hurricane swept out of the Bahamas and Cuba today leaving at least ten dead and scores injured. High winds struck the Atlantic seaboard today in New York and New England. Rain fell hard and steady over most of the coast during the night and the wind left much damage. In New York and New Jersey railroad and railway service were crippled and homes near the coast line were unroofed. In New England Connecticut and Massachusetts the residents were especially hard hit. The wind kicked up the greatest tide in 16 years and forced hundreds of cottages along Long Island to flee their homes.

Harley To Killy Hawk

Baltimore, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Secretary of War Patrick Hurley will be the speaker at Killy Hawk November 19 when the Wright memorial will be dedicated. Governor Gardner was notified today. The chief executive who was himself in New York on business was told that President Hoover would not be able to attend the ceremonies as the chief executive will probably not be in Washington at the time. Secretary Hurley, Congressman Warren and Gov. Gardner are on the program arranged by the committee.

Like every other race or project where competition is keen it is going to take every ounce of effort on the part of the leading winner to push across the line victorious. The last final push or sprint is generally needed to come out on top and indications point out that it will be needed by the winner of the leading award of $600 on Saturday. More progress toward the lead can be made this week through the medium of the three-year opportunity cards. The cards provide 30,000 extra votes for a three-year subscription in addition to the 9,600 given on the schedule. Any subscription added to one previously given in order to make three years counts for a card. The only other votes given this week include 600 votes for a six-months' subscription at $2.50; 1,600 for a year at $5.00, and 4,800 for a two-year at $9.00. LARGER CROWD ATTENDS COOKING SCHOOL HERE

(Continued from Page One) With a complete kitchen on the stage Miss Dixon demonstrated the latest and most improved recipes for making pies, puddings, casseroles, salads. Her lecture in connection with the demonstrations was highly illuminating and provided her hearers with many fine points on the subject. The school will continue this afternoon and will be brought to a close Friday afternoon with awarding of handsome gifts to be presented by various merchants of the city co-operating with The Reflector in the cooking school. Valuable and useful gifts are presented to housewives each afternoon, and these have been a source of much interest to the several hundred in attendance each day. With the school's fame spreading to every nook and corner of the community, it was expected the crowd would be greatly increased this afternoon and on the closing day. Those receiving gifts yesterday were: Misses Veneta Herms, Fannie Daniel, Mrs. J. L. Perkins, Mrs. W. E. McGowan, Mrs. W. Z. Morton, Miss Em. The victory was not a hundred per cent one, however, as the Republicans gained a seat in the State House of Representatives, bringing their total representation to six and held onto two Senate seats. Voter Plays a Joke on Gaskins

Claude Gaskins, Register of Deeds of this county, probably the equal of Eddie Cantor as an entertainer, but he is one of the best politicians in the county and knows how to take a joke with a perennial smile. A voter in the national election here Tuesday cast his ballot for Mr. Gaskins, but put the name of Eddie Cantor in the Republican column opposite the name of the Register of Deeds. When Mr. Gaskins didn't know the name in the column, he covered up the name with a slip of paper and said it was the name of the joker voted for him.

BEAVER DAM GIVES BANK TO PRESIDENT

(Continued from Page One) items from other parts of the country for the way they rallied to the Democratic cause. The precinct, always one of the most loyal, registered a total of 215 votes for Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic President-elect, and provided goose eggs for President Hoover and Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate. While many precincts furnished light votes for Hoover, Beaver Dam eclipsed them all and forced to the front as one of the most Simon-pure Democratic strongholds in this section of the county. While Beaver Dam was furnishing blanks for the President, Greenville Township, the greatest voting center of the county, provided him with the largest vote of all. While Roosevelt won by a landslide vote of 2-283, Hoover received 83 votes. Avden took second place by voting 30 for Hoover and an overwhelming number for Roosevelt. W. F. Hooks, chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, was hearty in his praise of the loyal way in which the people of the county rallied to the Democratic cause. He said he appreciated the hearty co-operation of his co-workers, and declared their splendid spirit had been largely responsible for the record vote recorded in various parts of the county. The Board of Elections met at the courthouse this morning for the purpose of canvassing the returns and it was indicated the official vote would be available tomorrow. This is expected to vary very little from the returns as presented in the election returns of The Daily Reflector and given out over a special amplifying system election night. The victory was not only causing elation among Democratic leaders, but the thousands of voters of the county who made it possible were jubilant over the outcome of the battle of ballots that placed the Democratic in possession of power by the largest vote in history of the county.

FICKE PAYS ELECTION BET

(Continued from Page One) the traffic signs five times and they rested from his long and arduous trip. Several days ago Ficke bet Hoover would win out in voting for President. Jones bet Roosevelt would win. They agreed that the loser would push the winner to Greenville in a wheelbarrow. Yesterday morning they left Greenville at 8:20 o'clock and arrived in Greenville at 1:10. Ficke said he stopped five times for a period of five minutes each to "take on a little air" and get up sufficient steam to carry him the remainder of the way. On Ficke's back was a placard bearing the inscription: "Hoover lost so did I." The wheelbarrow was decorated with flags and in front of the jubilant Jones was another placard reading: "I voted for Roosevelt and won." Jones complimented Ficke on his speed and endurance when they arrived in Greenville. He said they made about four miles and here over the twenty-mile route, something for a record in this field of transportation, it was believed. The two were the victims of considerable joshing when they arrived here, but they took it gallantly. In fact, Ficke was too tired to take it otherwise, although he said he would have been able to extend the trip if necessary. They were taken to the Greenville Cafe where they were treated to a bountiful meal free of charge.
