FRANCE PRESENTS AMERICA NOTE ON WAR DEBTS

Armistice Day Well Observed Here

Legion Stages Colorful Parade In Honor Of Close Of The Great World War

JUDGE PATTON MAKES SPEECH

Durham Jurist Paints Picture of Horror of War and Holds Out Hope of Peace thru Greater Spirituality; Former Service Men Entertained at Dinner; Ayden Defeats Rich Square in Football Game.

With streets in the principal business district bedecked with flags and a program fully in keeping with the importance of the occasion, Greenville and Pitt County celebrated Armistice Day yesterday in a very appropriate way.

The program consisted of a colorful parade, speaking at exercises in the campus building of East Carolina Teachers College, barbecue dinner for former service men, and a football game in the afternoon.

Judge James R. Patton, of Durham, delivered the principal address and brought to his hearers a graphic picture of the awfulness of armed conflict and the hope that some day war would be banished forever.

Armistice Day opened with the parade which formed at the Atlantic Coast Life depot at 10 o'clock and passed through the principal business district before going to the college where the principal exercises were held.

In the line of the parade were the high school band, former service men, National Guards, Boys' Scouts and hundreds of high school children. From the rear came the artillery trucks of the National Guards which save the pageant an atmosphere of that day fourteen years ago when the nations of the world led their arms and returned to their homes and peace.

J. C. Lanier, commander of Pitt County Post of the American Legion, presided over the exercises at the college, and called for two minutes of silent prayer at the opening with the sounding of taps. Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of Eighth Street Christian Church, made a prayer in behalf of those who lie on Flanders Field and those who returned home to take up the responsibilities of civilian life.

Dr. R. H. Wright, president of East Carolina Teachers College, extended a cordial welcome to the Legion, and the people of the community taking part in the celebration. He said it was fitting that National Education Week and Armistice Day fell on the same date in that the educators of the nation might do their part toward informing the people of the scourge of war. The great war, he said, is against ignorance, and he urged the Legion to fight against future conflict as its members did to vanquish their foes in the great conflict of 1914-1918.

Mrs. May Bell Wilson, member of the college faculty, sang, "Keep the Home Fires Burning," and several hundred students joined the chorus. A quartet composed of Perry King, Ben Herring, Drewry Settle, and Don Wright, high school and college boys, rendered several instrumental numbers reminiscent of the war period.

Misses Eugenia Thomas and Gusie Kuykendall were accompanists in presentation of the various musical numbers.

Senator A. J. Corey presented the speaker of the day, declaring that in addition to serving as a naval officer in the World War he had taken his place as an important jurist of the Durham section.

Judge Patton, described the events leading up to the beginning of the war and read the declaration of President Wilson giving reasons for America's entrance into the great conflict. He described the great activities following the war program and of the way the people rallied to the cause to which the country had dedicated itself.

He referred to the peace conference following the war, and the part which America played in preventing

WHITE COLLAR MEN ARE FIRED

Russia Discharges between 25,000 and 30,000 Government Employees.

Moscow, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Soviet Russia began a campaign to purge the government of excessive employees today with an order to discharge between 25,000 and 30,000 "white collar" workers in government departments.

The order was issued by the Moscow Labor Department for the purpose of eliminating the great number of minor employees and virtually every government employee who has been held responsible for the enormous inefficiency and to great bureaucracy in most of the central government and other departments.

The program consisted of a colorful parade, speaking at exercises in the campus building of East Carolina Teachers College, barbecue dinner for former service men, and a football game in the afternoon.

J. A. FARLEY THANKS PITT

National Democratic Chairman Grateful of Record Vote Cast in This County.

W. E. Hooks, of Ayden, Chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, is in receipt of a telegram from James A. Farley, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, expressing his gratitude for the splendid support given by the county in the Presidential election last Tuesday.

The message follows:

"We were very happy at headquarters election night when the returns came in from your county and every other county in the United States. We realize the effort put forth by you and members of your organization and desire to express my most sincere and grateful thanks. Please say to the members of your organization that I appreciate every effort they put forth, and that I shall ever be grateful."

Mr. Hooks said he had also received word from J. Wallace Winborne, Chairman of the State Democratic Committee, saying that returns so far received indicated that Pitt County had captured first place from the standpoint of the vote cast in the Presidential election. The honor was formerly held by Halifax County.

Mr. Hooks said the tremendous vote recorded in this county would increase the county's representation in the next State Democratic Convention from 35 to 53 delegates. This is a record which the Democratic chairman is very proud, and he said he wished to thank everybody for their part in the success of the campaign.

Mr. Hooks expressed grateful appreciation for the publicity given through the columns of The Daily Reflector, declaring it would have been impossible to achieve such a splendid record without the wholehearted support of every member of the staff.

Lancashire, Eng., Nov. 12.—(AP)—Twenty-four miners were killed today in an explosion at Edgegreen colliery at Ashton-in-Makerfield. The accident occurred while one hundred men were working in the colliery on a night shift.

Paris, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Notes dealing with payment of the war debts have been presented the American government by France, and it is reported that similar communications may be expected from Italy and Belgium, but officials stated today that France had joined in no collective action concerning the debt issue.

It was reported in London yesterday that the French government and those of Italy and Belgium had been informed of the general major points of the British note to Washington at the time it was sent, but the spokesman said today that the government here is not aware of the contents of the note.

Yesterday Ambassador Paul Claudet presented the French note to Secretary Stimson. The spokesman declined to divulge the contents but said M. Claudet's action was entirely isolated from those of the other governments.

E. L. HILLMAN KIWANIS HEAD

Methodist Minister is Chosen President of Local Club at Meeting Last Night.

Rev. E. L. Hillman, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, was elected president at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Woman's Club last night. He succeeds G. V. Smith, who served for the usual term of one year.

The club also elected Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of the Pitt County Department of Health, as vice-president in addition to choosing the following members to the board of directors: Dink James, B. S. Sugg, Rev. W. A. Ryan, H. H. Duncan, Grady Bell, and Ed. Bachelor.

The program last night was confined to observance of Armistice Day and the principal address was delivered by Rev. W. A. Lillycrop, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

In considering the glory attached to the celebration of Armistice Day Mr. Lillycrop said, we naturally ask ourselves, What is the glory of war? He painted a graphic picture of the awful consequences of armed conflict, the very flowers of young manhood, in a time of passion. He described it as through the trickery of modern science.

In addition to the death and suffering, the speaker said, war heaps up mountains of debt for the combatants. He mentioned the 26,000,000 dead of the World War and the cost of $32,000,000,000, or $20,000 an hour, to show what the nations had to pay for the World War in addition to the loss of human life.

He said the nations should forever offer up the prayer: "Let there be no more war for there is a better way."

He said it was fitting that National Education Week and Armistice Day should come at the same time so that those who are giving their time and talent to improving the human

LEBRUN SETS NEW FASHION IN OFFICIAL PARIS DRESS

Paris, Nov. 10.—(AP)—President Lebrun has wrought a sartorial revolution in this center of fashion. He firmly declined to appear at morning and afternoon functions in full evening dress with the red ribbon of the Legion of Honor across his hard-billed shirt front.

Previous presidents have always deemed that costume essential on official occasions and foreign envoys and cabinet ministers have had to put on "tails" also.

Lebrun has gone back to the "Price Albert" of the Victorian times. He wanted to adopt the cut-away but Beq de Fougieres, his "director of the protocol" or arbiter of manners deemed that just a shade too dapper and modern.

ABOUT

Greenville and Pitt county people honored their soldiers who fought in the World War in appropriate exercises at the college yesterday. The occasion was reminiscent of that period fourteen years ago when the actions involved in the titanic struggle across seas laid down their arms to return to paths of peace. It was fitting that the men who gave back should be honored along with those who paid the supreme sacrifice and who now lie among the poppies on Flanders field. We should forever perpetuate the high ideals for which they fought and keep fresh in the hearts of mankind the spirit of their unflinching devotion to the cause of humanity. In a few years now—how the years fly—the men who marched so proudly in the parade yesterday will live in memory alone. Their physical existence will be no more but the thing they represented—service above self—will stand out forever as a beacon light for their children to follow. Although the thing they fought for has not yet been achieved, the years will bring us nearer materialization of their dreams and who knows but that those who now rest in Flanders field may not sleep more peacefully because their task has been completed. The cooking school conducted by the Daily Reflector four days this week came to a close yesterday with hundreds of women from different parts of the county and adjacent counties in attendance. The school was conducted for the purpose of bringing our people in closer contact with progress that has been made in the field of home economics and the lectures and practical demonstrations conducted by Miss Louise Dixon furnished a vast store of information in this connection. This school was made possible through the cooperation of local merchants who deserve much credit for the splendid way they supported the effort of the Reflector to bring to the city one of the greatest schools of the kind ever held in this part of the state. The paper is forever striving to give its readers the best to be had in various fields of endeavor, and it is hoped the school accomplished the purpose of giving the women more complete knowledge of developments in this field of endeavor. Hundreds of people from various parts of this great territory came to Greenville during the week to take advantage of the many bargains which the merchants had to offer from day to day. This is always the season of the year when shoppers turn their attention to the buying of things for the winter, and the way they have crowded stores here this week indicates that the rush for winter goods is on in earnest. Business should continue good from now on until the Christmas holidays for there is more money in the land because of the tremendous sum turned loose on the tobacco market each day. Of course, times are not what they were before the depression came along but they are improving and should continue to get better now that the people are satisfied that they have elected the man they desire at the head of their government and stand ready to co-operate with him in making conditions what they should be. Greenville merchants will offer the best values to be found anywhere in the country all during the winter and those who shop here from day to day may rest assured of getting the best to be had in any section of the nation. The Reflector's subscription campaign comes to a close tonight and many people will be made happy by the awards to be made to those who took part in the campaign. It has been an exciting contest—one holding the interest of people in all parts of the county—and has resulted in the paper putting on many new subscribers.

A PATH TO PARADISE
 by Coningsby DAWSON

SYNOPSIS: Clive suspects that his employer's firm is hearing the rocks, yet the man sends Clive to England to make a survey and tells him to take a belated honeymoon afterward. Clive and Santa were married a few days after Santa was divorced from Dicky; since marriage Clive has tried, not too successfully, to live up to a wife with an independent income who spends money right and left.

Chapter 24
ALONE AT LAST

The hour was shortly after ten. The boat sailed at midnight. Clive felt like a prisoner who had served his sentence. He hadn't realized how bitterly till their hand-baggage had been carried down to the waiting taxi.

"Good-bye, little nest, where we've been so happy," Santa kissed slim fingers to bare floors and sheeted furniture.

Clive's heart whispered: "And may you burn while we're gone." In the taxi his spirits rose. "What's the matter with you?" Santa rested her hand on his knee. "You're bouncing."

He barged into her, all but bumping her nose. "Our honeymoon's commencing." She pushed him aside. "Goose! You're crazy." Nevertheless, his excitement infected her. Having made sure that their trunks were aboard, they went on deck. As they stood by the gang-plank she jogged him. "Remember the last time?" "When you didn't follow me? What a chase you've led me!" "How I've been worth while." "So-so," he shrugged his shoulders. "As an example of impassioned love-making that's not so hot," she grinned impudently. "If I stayed at boiling point, I'd evaporate," he retorted. The hand had ceased playing. Tugs fussed about the liner, nosing her into the dark tank of river. The screw started churning. "How about bed?" he suggested. "I've only you to protect me," she whispered irrelevantly. She'd uttered his thought. Having been married three months, at last they were alone. Light of New York faded like baleful stars. The little white cabin instantly became home to him. The reason was not far to seek. He had paid for it. He'd stipulated that she was to be his guest. Even her letter of credit he had provided. "Jinks! It's comfy." "Remains to be seen," she responded, "whether I can lift my head from the pillow tomorrow. On my last voyage, which was to Havana—"

"I've heard about it." He cut her short. It was a blue, summer crossing. Next morning the ocean was still as a mill-pond. Having breakfasted in their berths and dressed lazily, they strolled and were enticed to join in a game of shuffle-board. By evening they were known as the bridal couple. Then London. In a setting to which they were both strange, his errand gave them their only importance. He was up early. All day he was absent. He returned to the hotel to find her eager. Business concluded, conversation turned on which of all the wonder spots they should select to spend their holiday. Because quite a number of their fellow-passengers had been bound for St. Jean de Luz they thought to take Spain across the border: the Golfe de Gascogne at their front door. Basques; bull-fights; cork-forests; the Pyrenees rising fantastically. "The day before they left England they paid a hurried visit to Stratford-on-Avon. When they arrived, it seemed too silly to waste the sunshine prying. Instead they hired a canoe. In the green remoteness of tinkling waters and lush meadows, the concrete of cities seemed a hideousness imagined. From pillows among which she nestled, Santa gazed fondly at Clive. The merry stillness was moulding the minto a common oneness. This time six months ago she had been living separated in Chicago, her future a blank. As though a bandage had been torn from her eyes, she was seeing all she owed him. Without warning, she asked: "Were you happy in the apartment?"

The Reflector has catered to the people of this territory for a half-century and its record of service becomes more conspicuous with the passing of each year. The paper has provided its readers with the same news protection received by people in the largest cities of the country and this gives positive assurance of the latest and most authentic news in every edition. As the town grows so will the paper grow, and the coming years will see both forging even further to the front in national life. The greatest bright leaf tobacco market in the world, a reputation enjoyed by the city at this time, has gained recognition throughout the nation and many sections of the world for that matter and growth should be conspicuous in the next ten years as in the past. The same indomitable spirit, which produced such rapid development in recent years still burns within the hearts of the people and that is going to be an important factor in achieving ambitions of the citizenship in the future as in the past.

The discussion will not attempt to deal with partisan politics but with what should be the attitude of the church toward the actions and principles of the governmental group holding the balance of power in either the executive or the legislative branches of government. To content that the church and the clergy have no concern with such a wide-spread influence in the life of our people is, of course, the sheerest sort of nonsense. Where should that interest center and how far should it extend? These are some of the phases of the question which will be discussed at the morning service.

Recipes Given by Miss Louise Dixon at Daily Reflector Cooking School

- TOMATO AND CHEESE TOAST
 Cut six slices of bread, trim off the crusts. Dip each in a mixture of one beaten egg and 3-4 cup milk, let stand till well-soaked. Lift with skimmer on a thickly greased baking sheet, dot little bits of butter over each slice, and bake till brown and pretty dry. Now cover each slice with a thick layer of sifted canned tomatoes, or with slices of fresh tomatoes, heap over this enough grated cheese to cover and return to oven till cheese is melted sizzling and beginning to brown. A good supper dish.
- ASPARAGUS LOAF
 1 egg
 1 cup (heated) cream
 3-4 cup whole wheat cracker crumbs
 Salt and pepper to taste
 1 tablespoon melted butter
 1 teaspoon minced onion
 2 cups cooked fresh asparagus cut in one-inch pieces (or canned green asparagus).
 Beat the egg slightly, add the heated cream gradually and mix. Add the cracker crumbs, melted butter, and onion, and let stand a few minutes until the crumbs absorb some of the liquid. Fold in asparagus. Pour into a greased loaf pan or baking dish and bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serve from the dish or unmold on a platter and may be served with a cream sauce and garnished with crisp strips bacon.
- PLATELET OF SANDWICHES
 Demonstrated on Platform
- FRIED CELERY STICKS
 2 dozen stalks celery, 3 to 4 inches long
 3 tablespoons flour
 1 cup milk
 1 egg beaten
 Cayenne pepper, lemon juice, bread crumbs
 Let celery stand in cold water with a dash of lemon juice or vinegar. Parboil 10 minutes. Drain, chill and dip into a thick cold white sauce made of the flour, milk, beaten egg, pepper and dash of lemon juice. When celery had been well covered with the sauce, dip in fine bread crumbs and fry in deep fat 375 degrees F.
- HOLLAND SPRITES
 1-3 cup light brown sugar
 1-3 cup shortening
 1-2 teaspoon vanilla
 1 small egg
 3-4 cup flour
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 Cream the sugar and butter together, add vanilla and stir in the egg. Add flour sifted with the baking powder. Force through a rose pastry tube or a jumble tube onto a greased cookie sheet and bake in a moderate oven 375 degrees F. from 10 to 15 minutes. Makes 18 to 24.
- FROZEN COFFEE
 4 cups strong coffee
 White of one egg
 1 cup sugar
 2 teaspoons powdered sugar
 Whipped cream
 Dissolve sugar in the hot coffee. Parly freeze. Then stir in the stiffly beaten egg
- white mixed with the powdered sugar. Finish freezing. Serve with whipped cream. This is very delicious and refreshing.
- HAMBURGER LOAF
 1 loaf of bread
 1 pound hamburger steak
 1 tablespoon butter
 1-2 cup milk
 2 eggs, beaten
 1-4 teaspoon salt
 1-4 teaspoon pepper
 1 tablespoon chopped onion
 Cut crust from top of loaf and hollow out, reserving four cups of crumbs. Saute meat in butter 2 minutes, and stir in crumbs, milk, eggs and seasoning. Pack mixture in hollowed loaf, butter the outside, and bake in moderate oven 375 degrees F. about 15 minutes, or until slightly brown. Sausage meat may replace the steak and seasoning.
- BUTTERSCOTCH ROLLS
 2 cups flour
 2 tablespoons shortening
 1-2 teaspoon salt
 3 teaspoons baking powder
 2-3 cup milk
 1 tablespoon sugar
 1-3 cup butter and 3-4 cup brown sugar (or spread)
 Sift together the dry ingredients. Work in shortening, add milk gradually. Place dough on floured board. Roll out. Fold and set in refrigerator for 20 minutes. Cream together the 1-3 cup butter and 3-4 cup brown sugar. Take the dough on the board and roll out into an oblong 3-4 inch thick. Spread with butter and sugar. Cut into 1-2 inch slices. Bake in greased tin in oven-340 degrees F. for 20 minutes.

 1 teaspoon sugar
 1-2 teaspoon salt
 1-2 teaspoon dry mustard
 Few grains cayenne pepper
 1-2 teaspoon paprika
 4 tablespoons either lemon juice or vinegar (or sweet pickle juice good)
 1-2 cup oil
 Beat the dry ingredients with the vinegar and lemon juice in small bowl. Add the oil, beating vigorously till the consistency of thick cream. Use immediately as the emulsion breaks quickly. Ballard's X Road

Today when we read the election returns in the Daily Reflector how we rejoice in the fact that Beaver Dam precinct cast not one vote for President Hoover nor a single vote for any Republican. Is there another precinct anywhere with a like record?

Recently there have been several unpleasant happenings incorrectly credited by reporters to Beaver Dam and Ballard's; at the time it was not convenient to correct these errors of location but now Beaver Dam is vindicated. She is fixed and forward.

BIG CIRCUS HERE THURSDAY NOV. 17; WILL SHOW ON WINSLOW SHOW LOT

The Mighty Haag Shows is an old-fashioned circus with two rings and a stage with all the old-time features in abundance and many new ones added. This season is the 47th for the shows on the road. They are offering as one of the many features, a number of dancing horses that do the Charleston and Black Bottom with all the ease of a finished human dancer. The beautiful horses carried by this circus, it is said, are the talk of every community it stops at.

The program opens with a spectacular pageant titled "A Night In Asia." Over 100 people take part in this unusual and magnificent spectacle, which brings to view many gorgeous gown creations and costumes from all four corners of the globe. The band is under the direction of Frank Meister, the world's youngest band director. It is composed of 25 men, offering everything from opera to hitting jazz.

Particularly are the equestrian acts varied and enjoyable this season. In one act fifteen horses do all sorts of difficult maneuvers and steps guided by as many pretty and daring equestriennes. The act of Sy Kitching, internationally famous star is one of the most brilliant and thrilling head balancing acts ever offered in America. There are in all 32 displays in endless variety including acrobatic stunts, jugglers, acrobatic marvels, trick bicycling, dashing cowgirls and cowboys, loads of colorful and charming and beautiful Bridget McGuyre, America's own White Top prima donna, singing her own songs. A parade will be given at noon and there will be two performances one in the afternoon and one at night. This season the Mighty Haag Shows have cut prices to 25 cents to everybody so the entire family can enjoy two and one-half hours of clean amusement.

The Mighty Haag Shows will be in Greenville Thursday, Nov. 17, giving an afternoon and evening performance on the Winslow lot. This is the largest circus to appear here this year.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12.—Predictions were made rather freely some two years ago that Wallace White, of Maine, would lose no time in getting started when he moved over to the Senate from the House.

He succeeded a man who was plainly disgusted with the Senate and most everything about it. Senator Gould, who was a railroad man before entering politics, was glad when his term came to an end—told his colleagues so before departing.

They filibustered too much to suit him and wasted too much time, he said.

But so far White has elected to play a silent role in the Senate. He's still busy learning his job.

Fourteen years in the House and more than thirty years "on the Hill" evidently have taught him to wisdom of being sure of himself before striking out.

Expert on Shipping Laws

He knew a great deal more about the Senate perhaps when his colleagues took his seat than some of his colleagues who had been sitting for years.

He began his political career on that side of the Capitol when just a young man. After graduating from Bowdoin College in 1899, he came to Washington to take the job as Assistant Clerk to the Committee on Commerce. Later he served as private secretary to the potent Senator Frye, of Maine.

It was this association with Frye whose legislative hobby was maritime affairs, that is responsible for White being today one of the real experts in Congress on shipping legislation. However, he has so schooled himself on the subject of radio that in that field he is a recognized expert. The radio act passed by Congress in 1927 bears his name as a co-author.

Alert, informed and courteous, he is considered a rather difficult person to know intimately. He is naturally reticent and modest.

A Worker
He seems to do nothing much but work. If he does anything else for recreation no one professes to know anything about it.

During the years he has been interested in shipping legislation he has paid particular attention to safety of life at sea. He headed the American delegation of prominent shipping men which attended the International Safety Congress held in London several years ago where preliminary steps were taken to formulate a maritime safety code.

Since he represents one of the chief maritime states, he never is at a loss for opportunities to pursue his hobby in all its phases.

They do alal their studying together, she reading aloud from the textbooks while he takes notes in Braille. He is earning his way through college by selling insurance.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood, Calif. Nov. 12.—(AP)—Charles "Buddy" Rogers has dropped into town after more than 11 months spent in seeing the world—the world as represented by New York—and he admittedly has an eye open to picture offers.

But to the type of films he did before his departure nearly a year ago to find success on the stage and radio and in hotel ballrooms with his own orchestra, he is prepared to say "phooey" or whatever it is he says when disgusted. There's a personal appearance contract with more money than he could make in pictures, awaiting him in the east providing he doesn't find the proper film offer.

School News

To me, Armistice Day suggests the greatest of all human crimes—war, a science of destruction. It suggests the operation through which thousands of intrepid men and women meet violent, horrible deaths; it also suggests the roar of guns; and the whine of bullets, which pierce the heart, shatter the jaw, tear out the eye, rend the cheek, distort the arm and disperse the brain in the mud of the earth.

It is possible that people of a civilized nation can enjoy discharging messengers of destruction at human life? Hardly, and yet from the beginning of the World War until April of 1917, "came 15,000 Americans voluntarily enlisted for the cause of the Entente under the Maple Leaf of Canada, and joined the colors of King George." That men should kill one another for want of something else to do as is the case of most of such volunteers seems quite horrible and inhuman.

Several men have said that war cannot be prevented, but peace only prolonged, because the warriors that experience the horrors of war die; and the next ignorant generation must taste the blood of war before they realize the value of peace. Perhaps that was true in the past; but today, with talking pictures, magazines and books crying to all how terrible is war, peace may be prolonged forever.
