ROOSEVELT TO CONFER WITH HOOVER NEXT WEEK

BOOST LANIER FOR HEAD OF STATE LEGION

Pitt Post Commander Placed Definitely In Race at Meeting Last Night.

J. C. Lanier, commander of the Pitt County Post of the American Legion, has been placed definitely in the race for commander of the North Carolina Department of the Legion.

This action was taken at the regular monthly meeting of the post in the high school cafeteria last night at which time several other matters of interest to the organization were taken under consideration.

The name of Commander Lanier was placed in nomination by S. L. Bridgers and received the unanimous endorsement of the post. Mr. Bridgers, who has long been connected with the work of the organization, said he believed the Pitt county commander was eminently qualified for the state post, and urged that campaign plans looking to his election at the next state convention be gotten under way immediately.

Commander Lanier, in acknowledging his official entry into the race, said if it was the will of the North Carolina post that he be its commander, he would accept with pleasure.

Publicity in connection with informing other posts of the state of the candidacy of the local commander will be placed in the mails as soon as possible and an unrelenting vigil looking to election will be kept up until the state convention next year.

Commander Lanier in addition to serving in the world war has taken an active part in the work of the Legion. He is a former mayor of Greenville and is a lawyer of considerable ability.

At the suggestion of State Senator A. B. Corey, the post voted to ask the tobacco market to close for the observance of Armistice Day in future years and enable the Post to make the celebration here of more importance to the entire country-side.

Although a general closing marked observance of the occasion several years ago, people have gotten away from the importance of the event in recent years and only a few places were closed for the observance last week. It was the opinion of Senator Corey that business should cease for the day as the community turns its attention to paying tribute to the men who sacrificed their lives in the great conflict overseas and those who have returned to carry on in the world of business.

Members of the committee on Armistice Day reported on the financial aspects of the day, and indicated that the post had a very small sum left in the treasury.

Commander Lanier stated that an oyster roast would be tendered Legionnaires and former service men at the army at the regular meeting next month. Every member was urged to bring a new member and to urge ex-service men to come.

The commander said the acquisition of new members had been quite favorable since the last meeting, and hope was expressed that many new ones would be rounded up before the next meeting.

The post decided to hold regular meetings in the high school cafeteria in the future.

Noted Sportsman Dies in Canada

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 16.—(AP)—John Wright Sifton, 46, secretary and treasurer of the Manitoba Free Press, veteran of the World War and well-known sportsman, died at his home here last night.

Bolivian Army Repulses Attack

Las Pas, Bolivia, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The army's general staff announced here today that three Paraguayan attacks on Fort Sadera in the strategic Minzo sector of the disputed area had been repulsed.

Four Killed In Glasgow Blast

Glasgow, Scotland, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Four persons were killed and eleven burned seriously in an explosion in the Yardway colliery pit at Stepps today.

HOOVER AND ROOSEVELT TO CONFER ON EUROPE'S DEBT PLEA

With European nations presenting a plea for extension of the present moratorium and revision of war debt settlements, President-elect Roosevelt accepted President Hoover's invitation to confer with him on the problem. Whatever the outcome of the conference, signs point to plenty of controversy in congress. Senator Fess (upper left) said he would favor a conference on adjustment of debts but would oppose negotiations designed to lead to "ultimate cancellation." Representative Byrns of Tennessee (upper right) expressed opposition to extension of the moratorium such as sought by European powers. Senator Walsh (lower right) favors a special session of congress to pass on the debt question if the matter is "urgent enough." A committee headed by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., (lower left) advocated moratorium extension and readjustment of debts. (Associated Press Photos)

LIBBY WILL SEE COUNSEL

Winston-Salem, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Freed from the cloud of a murder indictment, Libby Holman Reynolds, was to confer with her attorney at her home near here today.

In conclusion, Mrs. Reynolds received news yesterday that the State of North Carolina had dropped the murder charge against her growing out of the death of her young millionaire husband, Smith Reynolds, who was shot to death at their fashionable home last July 6. The young widow is expecting a child whom she said she would name Smith whether it is a boy or girl.

ROLL CALL IS STILL MOVING

The annual Red Cross Roll Call swung into being here yesterday and committees representing various organizations of the city canvass districts to which they had been assigned in an effort to sign up as many members as possible.

Although all committees were not able to function, it was stated that they would probably complete their work the latter part of the week. While definite figures were not available as to the outcome of yesterday's canvass, it was believed that the sign-up was fairly successful in many parts of the county.

W. J. Bundy, chairman of the Pitt County Red Cross chapter urged the committees to keep eternally at it until the quota arranged for this county had been raised.

It was hoped to complete the canvass for members in a whirlwind campaign over two or three days, but this plan was given a knockout blow by the inability of some of the committees to function on yesterday as scheduled. However, the uncompleted work will be finished probably today and tomorrow when it is hoped reports from over the county will show the quota has been realized.

The Red Cross, Mr. Bundy said, depends entirely on subscription funds to carry on its extensive program throughout the world, and the more members it has the more effectively it can take care of the sections suffering from disaster or conditions growing out of unemployment.

The total fund loaned included $64,204,503 disbursed by the Secretary of Agriculture to 607,612 farmers for crop production purposes. Up to October 31 the farmers had repaid $11,952,521.

DARK TOBACCO MARTS OPEN

Richmond, Va., Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Virginia dark flue tobacco market swung wide open today with every instrumentality being used to handle the flow of weed efficiently and expeditiously.

The independent markets which opened yesterday were gorged today by members of the Dark Buyers' Association which opened five completely manned warehouses to handle the production of its 7,876 members comprising 75 per cent of the total crop of this belt.

Opening of the Dark Weed Association today places the newly-organized Virginia Co-operative Association in operation. Its sister body, the Bright Tobacco Association, is operating further south and has been underway for practically a month.

GOVERNMENT LOANS DROP

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Loan demands of agriculture, commerce and industry on the Reconstruction Corporation dropped to new low levels in October, the ninth month of the organization's existence, but brought the total for the period to $1,843,672,253.

In its monthly review of operation the corporation had only 601 applications for business loans filed in October. This, compared with 1,523 during the month of April, the high month, continued the steady decline since that time.

Corporation funds still outstanding in business loans at the close showed $1,144,052,980 after payment had been made of $253,537,052 chiefly by banks and railroads. All such loans authorized in the nine months' period were $1,843,672,253.

The corporation has loaned more money than the combined total of $500,000,000 for loans and $675,000,000 for note issues.

Money repaid to the corporation by borrowers is released if there is a demand for it.

The review also showed that banks have repaid $211,328,013, or nearly 27 per cent of the money loaned them.

Graham Stresses Need of United Economic Action

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 16.—The co-operation of all economic and social groups is a way of economic and social salvation. The experiments of agricultural colleges and stations and the practices of scientific farmers will work a quiet economic and social revolution when the bankers, manufacturers, merchants, and carriers co-operate to help influence the farmer to use the best seeds, stock, methods and markets, Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, declared here today in a keynote address of a one-day meeting of the North Carolina section of the Southeastern Council.

Upon request of the Council, Dr. Graham acted as temporary chairman of the North Carolina section as the meeting got under way.

Dr. Graham said the Council, which has had meetings in Atlanta, Savannah and Louisville, and is soon to meet at the University of North Carolina, declared here today in a keynote address of a one-day meeting of the North Carolina section of the Southeastern Council.

PUSH BUNDLE DAY PLANS

As plans were being pushed forward today for Boy Scout Bundle Day next Saturday, people of the community were called on to give liberally to the cause.

Bundle Day this year will be conducted under direction of Ensign Joseph Willett, of the Salvation Army, and will be one of the most thoroughly prosecuted probably ever conducted.

Bundle Day is an annual affair with the Scouts as they go about their business of trying to do their bit toward relieving the poor during the cold winter months. Considerable clothing was collected last year and hope was expressed that offerings would be much larger this year.

Contributions to this cause will be included in the general relief program of the community and will be given value in the final summary of the relief program. In other words if the people give two thousand dollars worth of clothes to this cause the community will be given $2,000.

Foreign Debt Situation Expected To Be Taken Up Tuesday Or Wednesday

PRES. HOOVER IS WELCOMED TO CAPITAL

Crowd of Officials Meet Chief Executive on Return from California.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16.—(AP)—President Hoover returned to the national capital at 8:30 o'clock today to be given a rousing reception at the station by members of his official family and other groups.

It was the first time the President had been in Washington since the national election in which he was defeated by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee.

The President planned to renew immediately an intensive study of the debt situation which is causing the nation so much concern at this time.

With Mrs. Hoover, the Chief Executive left the train by the rear platform to find himself surrounded by most of the cabinet Vice-President Curtis, Mrs. Dolly Gann as well as officials, and a delegation of well-wishers. Hand-clapping broke out at the sight of the President.

An impromptu receiving line was made by a burly policeman who opened a lane through which Mr. and Mrs. Hoover passed.

THUGS MAKE $9,000 HAUL

Philadelphia Couple Bound and Gagged as Intruders Plunder Their Home.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. J. Harrison Frazier, socially prominent Philadelphia couple, were found bound and gagged after being threatened with torture in their Chestnut Hill home early today by two burglars who escaped with $9,000 in jewelry and cash.

For two and a half hours Mr. and Mrs. Harrison lay helpless on the floor of the living-room of their home struggling with cloth and rope which had been bound around their hands and feet.

Finally Mrs. Harrison managed to strike a match and burn her bonds and then released her husband and a maid.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 16.—(AP)—A claim of self-defense was sustained as to M. G. Ellis, Stowesdale's man in Magistrate W. S. Lyons' court yesterday and M. G. Ellis was acquitted of a deadly assault charge filed against him at his own request after he had shot C. R. Pruitt, his brother-in-law, in the leg twice with a rifle. Pruitt had fired into the Ellis home where Mrs. Pruitt was taking refuge.

LEONID SHOW SEEN TODAY

Astronomers Observe Meteor Display from Harvard Observatory.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 16.—(AP)—One minute was the recording time early today by astronomers observing the Leonid shower from the Harvard University observatory.

Dr. Willard Fisher said the observation was sufficient to establish conditions, but were less favorable toward dawn as an early morning haze spread over the crest.

Most noteworthy of the observation, he said, was the usually large meteor which shot through the bowl of the big dipper, burned out and left a trail of light visible one minute and ten seconds.

WINSTON TO SPEAK HERE

Windsor Man To Deliver Address at the Washington Celebration Tomorrow.

Judge Francis D. Winston, of Windsor, one of the best known orators in North Carolina, will deliver the principal address at the Washington Bicentennial Celebration to be held in the campus building of the East Carolina Teachers College tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Judge Winston is one of the best informed men in this part of the country on the history of the American people, and is expected to bring an interesting message in connection with achievements of Washington, the first President of the United States and termed by historians as "Father of His Country."

If plans of the Bicentennial Committee carry the city will be gaily bedecked with flags in honor of the occasion. Merchants and business men will be asked to display flags in the business districts, and flags will be used in profusion in other decorations.

The Bicentennial Committee, headed by Ralph Deal, members of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College, has been doing everything possible in recent weeks to interest the people in the observance, and a large crowd was expected to attend.

NEW YORKER HAS THE FLU

No Attention Being Given to The Debt Question as President-Elect is Hastening to Put Official Business in Order Before Departing for White House Conference; Both Foreign and National Issues will be Talked.

Albany, Nov. 16.—(AP)—With the time drawing near for his meeting with President Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President-elect, is recovering from a light case of influenza and hastening to put his official business in order before departing for his visit to the White House.

Planning to devote most of his working time between now and Saturday to the State budget, the President-elect avowedly is giving no further consideration at the moment to what will take place at the conference with President Hoover.

There were indications that Mr. Roosevelt might suggest next Tuesday or Wednesday as the date for the meeting, at which he has agreed to talk over informally and personally with President Hoover the entire debt situation and other national affairs.

Tyson's To Hold Joint Reunion With The Mays

Farmville, Nov. 16.—The Tyson and May families will hold a joint reunion this year on November 25, the day after Thanksgiving, in celebration of the wedding anniversary of Mary Tyson and Major Benjamin May in the late 70's, from which union the majority of native Pitt countians are descendants.

The above date was selected for the reason that the fact of its being a holiday will enable the children to be present, and a portion of the member's Thanksgiving dinner can be taken along, thus saving expense and trouble of preparing another big dinner, and this date will give many members of the family who wish to eat their Thanksgiving meal at home to be present, some objection being raised as to Thanksgiving Day, formerly the reunion day, being the proper time on account of this custom.

At a recent meeting held by the program committee, plans were completed and a splendid program will be presented, the music, folk dances and other features of which will be in keeping with the wedding anniversary idea. A colonial play will be given for the benefit of the young folk in the afternoon, and members of the family are requested to bring their children, especially those above ten years of age.

Late News Flashes

Foil Train Wreckers
Belfast, Ireland, Nov. 16.—(AP)—An almost successful effort to wreck a train of sightseers from Keshel to Belfast to welcome the Prince of Wales was thwarted today. Long links of the rail between two cities were torn up and other sections were undermined.

All telegraph wires had been cut and a sign was found reading: "Ireland belongs to the Irish, both north and south."

Rail officials scented trouble and discovered the damage before the crowded train was due.

Meet THE NEW PRESIDENT!

Determination, one of Franklin D. Roosevelt's traits of character, stands out in this interesting camera study of the President-elect.

By WALTER T. BROWN
Albany, N. Y., Nov. 16—(AP)—There is a streak of determination in President-Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt that might be called stubbornness.

Early in the presidential campaign virtually all of his advisers tried to persuade him to make few trips and none of them long. He listened and went ahead studying time tables. In the face of circulated stories that candidates who made long trips seldom won the governor continued to arrange his schedules.

He eventually went on one of the longest trips any candidate ever took.

Discussing the efforts to dissuade him from making extended journeys he said:

"They forget I am Dutch and stubborn and besides I like to travel."

The same was true of the airplane journey to Chicago to accept the nomination. Mr. Roosevelt had had such a trip in mind for months. He saw that such a journey would get the campaign away to a running start; would give his candidacy a dramatic aspect; at once and would counteract any comment regarding his physical condition.

The Roosevelt leaders at Chicago made the wires hum trying to discourage the trip. Curtis Dall, his son-in-law, advised him the sentiment was against it.

When all efforts to halt him failed, Henry Morgenthau Jr., one of his closest friends, succeeded in effecting a compromise. Mr. Roosevelt agreed to go to Chicago by train if he were nominated early enough in the afternoon to enable him to reach Chicago the next morning.

But as his nomination came after the dinner hour and after the last fast train had left Albany, he had to fly to the convention city.

form appearance saw him enter into the spirit of the occasion with increased zest and enthusiasm. Day by day he seemed to become less the novice at the game and more the seasoned campaigner.

He wound up in Palo Alto in that fashion—still full of fight and showing little of the terrific mental and physical strain to which he had been subjected.

American Girl Braves Hardships To Photograph Russian Oil Fields

Moscow, Nov. 15—(AP)—Leaving her gold-fish and alligators behind in her New York studio, Margaret Bourke-White has shouldered her camera and come again to Soviet Russia in the pursuit of her art.

The slim, vivacious young brunette who worked her way through college by cashing in on her camera hobby, then developed that hobby until she became one of America's leading industrial photographers is on her third visit to Russia.

"I'm going to do the oil fields this time," she said, "and then if I have time when I come back to Moscow I'll shoot some stuff on what is being done here for children and motherhood—hospitals, clinics and schools, and that sort of thing."

Mrs. Bourke-White's enthusiasm for all forms of life and activity here an enthusiasm which moved her to write a book about her first trip—has not waned with the repetition of her visits.

Eschewing all things political she believes that the human drama enacted here, as mirrored in the faces and figures of people and in the machines and smokestacks of factories is the best possible subject for her camera.

One regret marred the anticipation of the new adventures ahead of her, not the least of which is the hardship of a journey of several days on a Russian train. She had to leave her newly acquired pet gold-fish and alligators in New York. There they remain in her studio on the 61st floor of one of Manhattan's skyscrapers.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington, D. C., Nov. 16—Perhaps nothing was more interesting to observe in the hectic presidential campaign now history than the development of President Hoover as a campaigner.

It was no secret to those in the capital, who know and were closely associated with him, that at the start of those last few weeks of active campaigning the President was shy to crowds.

Waving a greeting at railroad stations or replying aptly to enthusiastic well-wishers didn't seem to come natural with him. And when he addressed such crowds it was in a conversational tone, often of heard farther than a few feet from the train platform.

That was on his first campaign trip—to Des Moines.

A Change
The succeeding weeks, however were to see a remarkable change. Gradually he learned how to smile happily at the crowds, to laugh with them, to shake their hands cordially, to reply to their sallies.

The last trip of the campaign which took him to the Pacific Coast is a good example of how he developed on the stump. At a little place in Illinois, called Gresham Junction, some man in the crowd yelled at him:

"How's things going, Herbie?"

The President grinned broadly and replied:

Someone else called him the "fighting Quaker," and was rewarded with another Presidential smile.

Those who were with the President throughout the campaign say that while he never got completely over his shyness, he did to such an extent that it no longer suggested indifference or coldness.

He enjoyed it
These observers also say that Mr. Hoover really came to enjoy it all. It pleased him to see so many people turn out to see and hear him.

As a result, each succeeding plat-

Scanning NEW BOOKS

By JOHN SELBY
New York, Nov. 16—After ten years' separation Dimmy C. Charrel and that Desert boy run smack into each other near Victoria station. And there begins another Galsworthy novel called for some (doubtless) complex reason "Flowering Wilderness."

One sees again Dimmy's family, Fleur is back and so is the long-suffering Michael. The background is Galsworthy's own special compound of upper-class English life and it is so artfully done that it gains rather than loses from repetition, and engenders a warmth as of a renewed and cherished acquaintance the moment it is encountered.

In short, "Flowering Wilderness" is a typical Galsworthy novel full of richly tolerant observation, warm feeling and first rate writing.

Spinoza Again
After a long rest, Baruch Spinoza has been taken from the philosopher's closet and dusted off twice lately. The first was in Lewips Browne's biography; now comes the vehement Denjamin de Casseres with "Spinoza Liberator of God and Man." Incidentally de Casseres claims descent from Spinoza.

Mr. de Casseres' vehemence is of course too familiar to require elaboration. It does two things for Spinoza, however. It suddenly pitches him into the middle of living things as someone to be fought for. And it steps up the Spinoza pronouncements to a buzzing and spluttering 30,000 volts when in the original they range quite well enough at about 110.

Probably the good Baruch would be more astonished than anybody else to find the air filled with his nephew's (nine removed) purplish epithets.

Joffre, and Others
Marshal Joffre, in two volumes of "Personal Memoirs," expounds his private thesis on the war and his conduct thereof; the book is informative, hardly thrilling. Nor is the unusually honest biography of David Hume, the philosopher (philosophers are popular lately), thrilling. Yet certainly in "David Hume" J. V. T. Greig has done English letters a great service in evaluating the man against his true background.

Vivacious travelers are in for a happy evening or two, now that Richard Halliburton has taken to the air. He calls the fourth of his travel adventures "The Flying Carpet," after the plane on which he visited such nooks as Timbuctoo, the Sea of Galilee, Petra, Borneo, and Manila.

Halliburton has been heckled a bit of late, which probably has amused him, and which certainly does not affect the good-humored gaiety of his writing. No have, for that matter, Konrad Bercovici's Balkan interpretations missed the lifted eyebrow entirely, for he is a left wing Roumanian and often writes as one. His "The Incredible Balkans" is at the very least the impressions of a cultivated man upon a complicated subject.

Lastly, the effort to keep books from past years before us has resulted in two important reprints: one of Axel Munthe's "The Story of San Michele"; the other a selection of Karl Marx's writing called "Capital and Other Writings."

Chesterfields Taste Better

You know how it is. If a cigarette is mild—that is, not harsh or bitter, but smokes cool and smooth—then you like it and don't worry about how many or how often you smoke. And if it tastes right—that is, not oversweet, not flat—then you enjoy it all the more.

The right kind of ripe, sweet Domestic and Turkish tobacco... the right ageing and blending... make Chesterfields milder, better-tasting... They Satisfy!

PROPOSES MEMORIAL FOR FIRST RESOLVES WRITTEN

Farmville, Nov. 15.—At a meeting of the Major Benjamin May Chapter, held here Saturday, recommendations were proposed to seek the cooperation of the patriotic organizations in Pitt county, to see that the Pitt County Resolves, signed by 52 patriots, which is declared to be the first resolves drawn up in America for independence from the Mother Country, are suitably memorialized.

Judge Francis Winston brought this to the attention of the chapter at a recent meeting and appealed to the Daughters to take immediate action in the matter, as part of his ambitious program for historic Albemarle, the Cradle of American History.

Talks to Parents

BLOODTHIRSTY GAMES

By Alice Judson Peale

Children often invent games which to their elders seem appallingly cruel.

Dolls and toy animals are beaten. Battles are carried on with wholesale slaughter. "Operations" are performed with evident delight in the process of cutting and dismemberment.

Robbers are thrown into dark dungeons "for life" and so on.

When such play is all too vividly carried out the adult is tempted to interfere. This cannot be a good sort of game he tells himself. Is it not merely serving to rouse cruel impulses and is it not in itself morbid and ugly?

We may grant that such play is not pleasant, but we must realize that far from rousing the child's cruel impulses it is rather serving as an outlet for those cruel impulses which already exist.

Of course the child who plays bloodthirsty games does not see them with the realistic background on the basis of which the adult finds them so extremely objectionable.

To the child who actually has known little or no real cruelty his play is but a satisfying dramatization. For every child has impulses of cruelty and aggression. These are roused through being frustrated and checked in the satisfaction of his wishes.

To a greater or less degree, depending on the family situation in which he happens to find himself, the child has feelings of jealousy and inferiority. These give rise to hate toward the persons who occasion them. Since he cannot in actuality express his hate and aggression as fully as he would like, he expresses them in bloodthirsty games instead.

towns of 50,000 population. Thirty thousand persons are expected to be employed in the center—expected to be employed in the center.

About NEW YORK

By WILLIAMS GAINES

New York, Nov. 16.—A few random facts about Rockefeller Center.

When the twelve structures of the center are completed, 299 old buildings will have been removed to make way for them (don't you hate statistics?).

The largest structure will have more than 2,000,000 square feet of commercial floor space. Hundreds of towns are accommodated in less room.

That "nickname," Radio City, came from the fact that 20 per cent of the rentable area in center will be occupied by a radio corporation—the biggest tenant. Which probably means there'll be just that many more crooners wandering around loose.

The air that patrons breathe in the two theaters of the center will be "made to order at all seasons of the year, with each consumer allotted 40 cubic feet of conditioned air per minute. Too bad apartment denizens won't be able to buy some of it and take it home in cans.

Ventilating space in the offices will be sound-proofed by a device created by Hiram Percy Maxim, inventor of the silencer for firearms. Quieting guns, one might suppose, was a cinch to the problem Percy faced in keeping out the elevated railway rumble.

The main 70-story skyscraper will have the greatest concentration of shop space of any structure in the world, on three levels. The lower level is 17 feet below the street, and six huge escalators link the three floors. What fun for the women shoppers, escalating up and down!

Enough water to float five steamers as large as the Leviathan will be used to produce 360,000,000 pounds of steam for the center each year. And more than 500 car-loads of coal will be required.

An electric power contract calls for 32,000,000 kilowatt a year—an annual supply sufficient for some

SYNOPSIS: Snatched from a belated honeymoon in France by the news that his employer has failed, Clive and his giddy young wife hurry back to New York. Clive's mind is haunted by the image of Santa's first husband Dicky and the "reformation" Santa believes she has wrought in him.

THE CATASTROPHE

She'd been right. It had been fun to return to the old apartment and make a bed late at night, laughing like a pair of children. It was even more fun to wake in the morning and quarrel over who should cook the breakfast—then to discover that there was nothing in the ice-box.

Next morning, being Monday, in a mood of forced cheerfulness he set off to report to Mr. Cleasby. Santa was his mascot. She had persuaded him, contrary to reason, that because she was his wife no evil could befall him.

In the bedroom he found further proofs of her devotion. Her efficiency astounded him. His clothes had been spread out with the expertise of a valet; shoes in the right place; socks beside them; shirt folded; tub filled and scented with bath salts. Everything orderly; nothing forgotten.

"I Never Cough More Than Once

"At the first cough I take a swallow of Thoxine and in 15 minutes my cough is gone—I wouldn't be without Thoxine. It's wonderful for the children too." Thoxine—that's a name to remember. # DEVILS SET FOR SCRAP WITH U.N.C.

Durham, Nov. 16.—As the Duke-Devils of Duke are completing a strenuous period of practice and are in readiness for the big contest with the set-back last Saturday by N. C. State out of the Devils' minds and only the game at Chapel Hill which if won means a state championship, before them makes the Duke boys even more anxious for the victory Saturday.

The Devils have worked hard this week perfecting their defensive tactics for use against the Tar Heels and it has been a determined band of gridders which have been going through their daily practices.

The Tar Heels are in the proverbial pink of condition and Coach Collins will be able to muster full strength of his squad against the invading Devils. He is expected to use a number of new combinations in the Saturday contest. Duke has not defeated Carolina in modern football and the Heels are determined to keep their records clean of Duke victories.

The silver goal posts, donated by the Duke and Carolina senior classes of 1931 are on display and will be awarded to the captain of the winning team. Duke has won the possession of the friendship trophy in the past two years on tosses of a coin after scoreless ties in the two contests.

An optimistic student body will move on Chapel Hill en masse Saturday. Friday night the Duke students are planning an extra large "Pep" meeting with talks by members of the faculty and leaders on the campus plenty of yells and a bonfire.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

It may be just a coincidence and, then again, it may be just a winter's festive turn of the well-known semi-defiance tossed at Madison Square Garden by the manager of Max Schmeling is followed by the abrupt assertion of the manager of Jack Sharkey that Sharkey will pick his own 1932 heavyweight title opponent and fight him only in Boston.

For no other good reason than that he suspects the Garden of harboring intentions of bringing Max Baer east to fight Sharkey for the crown that has been kicking around under three years, Schmeling's manager declared he was all through, finished, done and absolutely disembodied from any further association with the New York outfit, which sponsored the German in this country.

Of course, there is also the reason that Jacobs does not want his fighter to remain out of the argument, or any argument, if he happens to be out of the country.

And So-o-o-o
So-o-o, my friends, when Schmeling returns for his bi-annual quota of what it takes to stave off depression in Germany, he will fight, as always, for Madison Square Garden. He has made almost $1,000,000 since coming to the United States a ragged youngster without even an overcoat against the wintry blast, nursing high hopes and a broken right hand.

He has fought perhaps ten times in the United States in four years, and only once outside the confines of the Garden and its affiliated properties. He took a ferry over to Jersey one evening to pop over one Petro Corri when things were so dull between seasons he had to have some small source of income.

Besides, Madison Square Garden holds the contract under which Jack Sharkey must defend his title next summer, even though that contract does give Sharkey the right to name his own opponent, and there is some evidence up Boston way that the Square of Newton would just as soon be other than Schmeling.

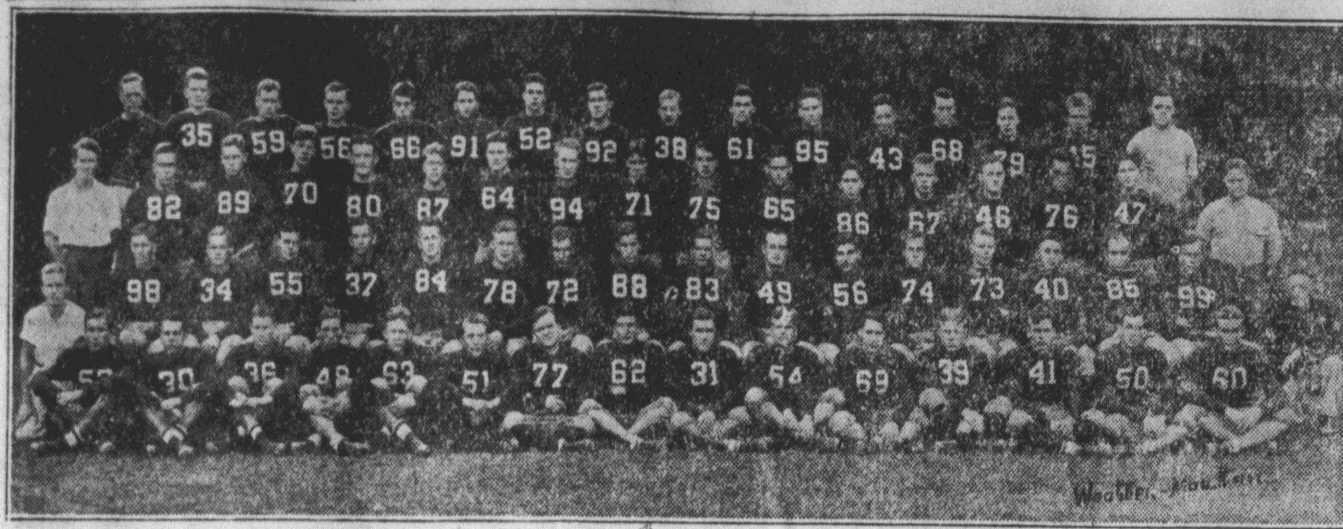

But it just so happens that there are only two heavyweights at the moment who can be taken seriously by that part of the public still affluent enough to buy fight tickets. One is Sharkey, the it'er Schmeling.

Baer in Offing
Baer or some one else may pop up to get the big shot, just as Tom Heeney took it away from Sharkey himself in 1928 in one of the late Tex Rickard's "elimination carnivals," but it behooves Sharkey, if his title defense is to get him any comparatively large currency this year, to fight Schmeling.

Similarly, it is just as important for the Teuton to find himself in there with the Sailorman if Max prefers his next engagement to be both a financial and an artistic success.

LEADING BIG FIVE GRID RACE

Staging one of the most remarkable comebacks in recent football history in the state, the University of North Carolina squad (pictured above) has now taken over the lead in the Big Five race, and will engage Duke's Blue Devils in Chapel Hill at 2 o'clock Saturday for the state championship.

The Tar Heels started their season slowly, but showed great power when they came back with a 13-0 upset of State. They have since beaten Florida and Davidson, and now they're out for Duke, although the Blue Devils are still slight favorites by virtue of their showing against Auburn, Tennessee and Kentucky.

The two teams have tied at 0-0 the last two years, and Carolina has won the last nine games in a row. So that Duke will be fighting for its first victory over Carolina since 1931.

KINSTON TO PLAY LOCAL HIGH FRIDAY

Greenville High School will play what will probably be one of the best football games seen here this season when they meet the strong Kinston team on Friday afternoon. The game will be played at the Third Street stadium and will start promptly at 3:15.

Kinston started the season with a new coach and some of the best material in the conference. They lost several early encounters, among them one to Greenville by a 13-0 score, but have come along fast since that time. On last Friday they defeated the strong Beaufort team by a score of 40-7. It was one of the big upsets of the conference season.

SAYS COLLEGE MEN OUGHT TO PLAY FOR FUND

Raleigh, Nov. 16.—Charles "Chick" Doak, head coach of baseball at N. C. State College, believes college baseball players should be permitted to play money baseball during the summer months for experience and funds to attend college.

Coach Doak, in an article dealing with baseball published in a recent edition of the State College football program, states that if an engineering student is permitted to work at his trade during the summer months for experience and money there is no reason why a college student interested in baseball as a profession should not be permitted to play money baseball during the summer.

Doak is one of the best known college baseball coaches in the south. Quite a number of the men he trained as college baseball players have gone to the major leagues. Doak has been head baseball coach at State College since 1924 and has also coached at Guilford, Carolina, and Trinity (now Duke).

The text of Doak's argument is as follows: "Baseball is our national pastime and sport. College baseball in my opinion, should be just as popular today as it ever was. Stringent rules laid down by rules committees have done much to take away the attraction college ball once had for boys desiring this sport as their vocation. Just a few years ago a boy could make college expenses by playing baseball during the summer months. Rules prohibit him from such practice today. "If a boy wishes to choose baseball as his vocation, why shouldn't he go to college during the winter and play money baseball during the summer for experience? We do not have any rules governing what a boy can do in any other vocation. If he is an engineering student, if he may get a job during the summer with a construction company and get paid for his labors, but if he is an athlete interested in baseball as a vocation he cannot play baseball during the summer for money because the men who framed the rules for college baseball have not stopped to think that baseball is one of the biggest and best organized professions in this country. "We should have strict rules in college baseball, however. Scholastic standing should be high so that only those students interested in a college education as well as baseball should be able to play. The one year rule, the transfer rule and the attendance rule are good. There are others of importance, but there are many which should be junked."

due credit for it in the final compilation of figures on local relief activities. The more the community does to relieve the suffering existing among its poor the more it will be able to obtain from the Federal relief fund being distributed among various communities throughout the nation. Wherever genuine effort is being made to care for local relief the Federal relief agency sees to it that the community receives aid in keeping with its needs.

Persons desiring to give to the Bundle Day movement have been asked to arrange their bundles and place them on their porches Saturday morning so that the Scouts will lose no time in their rounds of the city. Considerable time is required to cover the entire city and unless every effort is made to expedite collection of bundles it will be impossible for the boys to complete their work in a single day.

LEAF PRICES STILL STRONG

Christmas holidays would not be necessary. The early closing this year is caused by probably the shortest leaf crop this part of the country has experienced in history. Those in close touch with the situation say production is about half of that last year, and the quality in many sections is slightly inferior.

By drawing from a greater territory than any other period in history, Greenville has enjoyed many million-pound days during the season with the result that it has forged into the lead for the honor of the largest bright leaf market in the world. This honor was captured last season by actual government figures, and with the market running nearly two million pounds ahead of the nearest rival at this time, there is every indication the season will further in the lead.

As result of the early closing farmers have been asked to market the remainder of the crop as early as possible. With the price situation stronger than any other time of the year in the face of common offerings always accompanying the end of the season, it was expected the pilgrimage to the market would show an increase next week.

GRAHAM STRESSES NEED OF UNITED ECONOMIC ACTION

to have a meeting for the whole Southeast in Birmingham, "this morning has its North Carolina meeting in the city of Charlotte, the merchandising, distributing, banking and communicating center of two States, the financial capital of a textile dominion, and the administrative metropolis of an electrical empire.

The representatives of all sections and interests have on rather short notice gathered here in this post-election week to consider together the necessity of economic planning. Pointing out instances of the value of economic planning and co-operation, Dr. Graham cited Moultrie County, in Georgia, which, he said, had "revealed the economic and social values of co-operation on the part of the Chamber of Commerce, the bankers, the farmers, the laborers, the manufacturers and the carriers. "The bankers, the farmers, the packing house, the press, churches, schools, public health and welfare, are all tied together in the coordinated and integrated life of that cooperative community," Dr. Graham said. "In our own Carolinas, David Coker and Hugh McRae know enough about scientific and community farming to save and restore the South, but they wait upon the intelligent joint efforts of farmers, bankers, manufacturers, merchants, workers, governments, colleges, newspapers, and all other economic groups and social agencies in a section-wide co-operation as part of the social progress of an interdependent world."

New York Cotton

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 5 to 9 points higher in response to firmer Liverpool cables and cold weather in the northwest.

Stock interests seemed to be both buying and selling in earlier trading. December contracts after selling to 6.36 were ruling around 6.32 at the end of the first half hour when active months were 4 to 6 points net higher. Trading was quiet later in the morning.

December went off to 6.60 and May to 6.58 and the market showed steady undertones 1-7/8. (Courtesy Sleight & Co.)

Stock Market

New York, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Stocks were a bit unsettled today but the trading most of the session was too dull to afford much idea to what the market's intentions were. Although a few issues were affected by special developments of dividends, leaders of the market remained in the trading area that they had occupied earlier in the week. The market appeared to be retaining a firm aspect.

Macy dropped more than 4 points when directors announced discontinuance of the five percent stock dividend, although the regular stock payments of 50 cents were maintained. American Telephone was off a couple of points prior to the dividend meeting, but steadied when the directors, as expected, voted another regular of $2.25 a share.

Stocks were heavy in the late trading after a slow downward drift. The market was again very dull and operations appeared mostly professional.

Sales approximated 500,000 shares.
