SEN. HARRISON SEES TARIFF FIGHT FOR CONGRESS

Both President Hoover And Roosevelt Opposed To Cancellation of Debts

SEE SOLUTION IN MORE TRADE

Both Apparently In General Agreement That Expansion Of Foreign Trade Will Help Solve Vexing Problem; Al Smith's Plan for Twenty- Year Holiday May Be Given Consideration.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—(AP)—The schedule meeting between President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt to consider war debts finds both in general agreement that expansion of foreign trade would help solve the problem and that the debts should not be cancelled.

As to the handling of the united demand of America's debtors that the payments due December 15 be postponed, neither party leader has publicly voiced an opinion.

The total due December 15 is $1,565,000,000, including interest and principal. Great Britain, owing $550,000,000 on that date, is the biggest debtor. France's payment amounts to $492,610,000. The balance is owed by Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Estonia, Finland, Hungary, Italy, Lithuania and Poland. Most of these countries have the right to postpone payment on principal for two years, and Poland, Estonia and Latvia have served notice of such postponement.

The total principal sum owed is $1,565,000,000. The average interest rate is 2.135 per cent, and the total sum which the United States was to have received by 1937, the maturity of the debts, is $2,188,000,000. (Continued on Page Six)

L. AMES BROWN ON VISIT HERE

Former N. Y. News- paperman Visits His Parents After Trip Around the World

Ames Brown, former metropolitan newspaperman, magazine writer, and advertising agency president, arrived here this morning to visit his parents Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Brown, following his return from a trip around the world.

Mr. Brown, a native of this city, began his career in journalistic work when a student at the University of North Carolina, later completing a course in Journalism at Columbia University, after which he became associated with the New York Sun in its Washington, D. C. bureau. In addition to his newspaper work, Mr. Brown was a contributor to some of the nation's leading magazines and gained for himself a reputation as one of the country's foremost writers. While serving as White House correspondent during the hectic days immediately following America's entry into the World War, Mr. Brown was signally honored by President Wilson who remarked that he would prefer to give an interview to Brown than any newspaperman in Washington because he could always rest assured that his remarks made to Brown were never misinterpreted or misconstrued. During the war Mr. Brown was connected with the Intelligence Department of the service and after the close of the war he retired from the newspaper field to enter the advertising agency business in New York. In his chosen field he made rapid progress and became the head of one of the country's largest advertising agencies.

About a year ago Mr. Brown resigned his post and gave up his work in the advertising field and began a trip around the world that ended last week with his arrival at New York aboard the Mauretania. Few countries were missed by Mr. Brown on his tour and his presence in China during the Sino-Japanese controversy and in India during the (Continued on Page Six)

After teaching school the first three days of the week, she had gone by to spend the rest of the week with the governor.

The baby's mother is the former Betty Donner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Donner, of Villa Nova, Elliott Roosevelt is engaged in the advertising business in New York.

N. C. WOMAN BOOSTS SOUTH

Mrs. John Anderson, Raleigh Tells U.D.C. South is Coming In to Its Own.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 17.—(AP)—"Hysterical prosperity" has come to the South, Mrs. John Anderson, of Raleigh, N. C., historian general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, told the organization in annual convention here today.

COLD BLAST HITS NATION

Many Parts of Coun- try Suffering From First Severe Cold Siege of Winter.

(By The Associated Press)
The nation's weather may today be as spotted as a polka dot dress.

The wintry blasts that moved across the country from the west yesterday appeared to be spending itself in a final burst of fury at scattered points along the eastern seaboard and in the South. While the Pacific northwest was welcoming a surcease from the stormy spell, New York was visited by a chilly onslaught.

Snow was melting on the prairies of Kansas today, while Washington was faced by a prediction of colder temperatures tonight.

LEAF SALES PICK UP HERE

GOVERNMENT IS AGAINST MORATORIUM

Sentiment for Another Debt Holiday Veers Sharply At Capital City.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Exactly when President-Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt will visit the White House was a prominent factor today in development of the nation's attitude toward foreign debts as the membership's decision veered firmly from another moratorium.

A conference, called into speedy session by President Hoover while on his return from his campaign tour of the southwest, resulted in an invitation to Roosevelt to confer on the request of European nations for re-examination of the vast debt owed this government.

Out of the President's talk with his advisers, Secretaries Stimson, Mills and Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, there has come the conviction in official circles that President Hoover is not in favor of another moratorium, but is inclined toward his policy of debt payment.

Nor is he represented as being convinced that the $123,000,000 due December 15 will not be paid.

AMY JOHNSON FORCED DOWN

ARREST SIX FOR ROBBERY

Three Men and three Women Charged With Robbing Por- ter Store, Simpson.

Three men and three women, believed to have been connected with the robbery of Heber Porter's store at Simpson night before last, were being held in the county jail at Washington today awaiting trial on a similar charge said to have been committed in Beaufort County.

The names of the prisoners had not been recorded by officers here, but their arrest was said to have followed diligent search by officers of both counties.

Merchandise valued at around $50 was taken from the Porter store, officers said. This consisted mainly of foodstuffs.

The defendants are being held for trial by Beaufort County authorities, and will be returned to Pitt County for trial as soon as the hearing at Washington has been completed.

MOHLER'S AVERAGE OVER SIX YARDS A TRY

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Now that Orville Mohler, great University of Southern California quarterback, has been forced by injury to abandon football, a statistician, has discovered just how good he really was.

Getting it down still finer, Mohler averaged 6.1 yards each and every time he carried the ball.

Allocations announced today to individual counties include: Beaufort $2,350; Pitt 2,750; Wayne 2,500; Wilson 2,500.

PLAN TO CUT U. S. EXPENSE

Mississippians Say A Balanced Budget Through Cut In Ex- penditures and Cur- tailment of Federal Activities Will Be Among Headliners for New Democratic Congress: Declares Farm and Rail Re- lief Also Necessary.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 17.—(AP)—A balanced budget through expenditures cut and curtailment of Federal activities rather than increased taxation, negotiations for international reciprocal agreement on revision of the tariff were suggested today as headlines for the new Democratic congressional program by Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi.

The Mississippian, slated for chairman of the Senate Finance Committee which handles all revenue legislation, told a convention of the Voters' Association that the new administration also must sponsor a measure for farm, railroad and food relief.

Expressing the conviction that President-Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt would select the strongest Cabinet ever named, Senator Harrison said he hoped Roosevelt would silence some of the frolic-horns who are constantly blustering forth trouble and fear and would find it prudent to announce as early as possible his Secretary of State, Treasurer and Attorney General.

Talks to Parents

IN MOTHER'S IMAGE
By Alice Judson Peale

Although Gerda obviously was a bright child it was impossible to teach her to perform any useful tasks.

She refused to dress herself, to help her mother in such ways as would have been natural, and what caused real alarm at the beginning of her eighth year, she refused to learn to read.

Instead she flitted about in costumes of her own improvising in which she imagined herself a fairy princess and calmly announced when admonished with, "I'm not supposed to learn anything. I don't have to."

To her teacher she said: "I don't have to do anything you tell me."

"One's natural inference would be that Gerda was the spoilt child of millionaire parents. Nothing of the sort. Her mother and father were intelligent hard-working professional people who were appalled at their small daughter's attitude.

The answer to the riddle lay not in the influence to which Gerda consciously was subjected, but in the unconscious one. In her own childhood her mother had desired passionately to be an exotic creature loved and admired by everyone because of her beauty.

Consciously she wanted her child to be a wholesome, normal little girl, with all the capabilities of her age. Unconsciously she had wanted her to embody that part of herself which she had in her own life never been able to realize.

By what process had this unconscious wish of the mother made itself actual in the child? One can only say that there is in children a subtlety of intuition which causes them to know instantly without knowing that they know, just how and when they are doing what pleases their parents.

THE INVISIBLE BOND
If mental telepathy exists anywhere it is between mother and child.

There is something uncanny about the way the child at once senses its mother's mood the way it knows what things she does merely from a sense of duty and what things give her joy.

The young child responds to its mother not in the language of the lips but in an unspoken, unconscious language which never lies and cannot be mistaken.

A mother may believe that she has tried earnestly to teach her child independence.

Yet if in her innermost soul she really found this training a bore, if she preferred to have her child remain a baby, whom she might dress and play with to her heart's delight, her child will not learn to put on its shoes button its clothes or wash its face until long after it normally would have been able to do these things.

The reason for this is that the child will have read the look in mother's eyes, will have interpreted mother's voice and manner truly. He will have known what mother really wanted of him and he will have responded accordingly.

This invisible bond which makes the child understand his mother almost before he understands anything else may prove profoundly harmful if the mother is not really mature and still entertains a large number of childish wishes and childish ideals.

In such instances it is quite possible for the child to pattern himself, not after the example and the training which the mother consciously offers him, but after her unconscious wishes which he, with his super-sensitive intuition perfectly appreciates.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington, Nov. 17. — (AP) — Many men prominent in the official ranks of Washington have found that their favorite musical instrument can give them more enjoyment and recreation than a golf stick or a fishing pole.

There are musicians of real ability scattered throughout the official life of the capital who daily turn to their piano, their violin or their flute to forget the irritations of the day and office cares.

There's Senator Hebert of Rhode Island, for example, eastern campaign manager for the Republicans in the presidential drive. He's a violinist of high rank.

Senator Walcott of Connecticut is an accomplished cellist. Former Vice-President Dawes composed melodies on his piano which Fritz Kreisler considered good enough to include in his concerts. The love of the late Nick Longworth had for his piano is well known.

But perhaps one of the most accomplished musicians of the capital is to be found at the Interstate Commerce Commission.

He's a commissioner, too—Clyde B. Aitchison. And his silver flute has won for him a wide reputation for ability.

He is a composer as well. He converted the invocation of Eurycle in Pindar's opera "Orpheus" into a choral harmonized in the old style that has been sung in some of the largest cities of the east.

His version of the Schwanenlied score, "I Have An Old Sweetheart" is especially adapted for male choruses.

In addition to being a flutist and a composer, Aitchison is a conductor of a male chorus. His chorus, composed of some 40 or more voices is made up of employees of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

the man who is in will necessarily be hard to beat because of the favors he has done and the organization he has builded during four years of power?

Or the old conviction that the respective interests of the States have grown so diverse that never again will all sections unite in finding any one candidate preferable?

The answer is that all these assumptions are as dead as last summer's flower-garden. Every one of them was nurtured hopefully by the supporters of Mr. Hoover, yet he was the worst defeated candidate of any major party in history.

An About Face
The election returns are much more decisive on that point when they are compared, detail for detail, with the figures for 1928.

It is in itself an astounding contradiction of the bold political theories that the two greatest land-slides of all time could have taken place at two succeeding elections and operated in exactly opposite directions.

Mr. Roosevelt's popular plurality approximates that by which Mr. Hoover won four years ago—something above six millions. In other words, more than six million voters not simply a minor group of independents, changed tickets between one election and the next.

And that figure, it should be remembered, is net. It takes no account of the undeterminable number who changed the other way—that is, those who voted against Mr. Hoover last time, and supported him this time.

To put it in terms of state majorities thirty-four states or more than two-thirds the whole number, went Republican in 1928 and switched to Democratic in 1932.

Considered along with the breaking up of the solid South in the last election, the statistics mean that the bloc of independent voters has been increasing by leaps and bounds in recent times, and that a almost negligible number of States can be set down at the start of future campaigns as "safe" for either party.

Loitering Habits Changing
Of course it would be a mistake to draw too broad conclusions from two such extraordinary years as those of 1928 and 1932.

Each of these campaigns involved certain elements not usually present, and allowances should be made accordingly.

But certainly political axioms can be regarded no longer as axioms when they have been overturned twice in so short a time. The evidece is ample that voting habits are changing, and that the politicians hereafter must stop, look, and listen, instead of taking too much for granted.

POLITICS

By BYRON PRICE
Not the least notable feature of the great Democratic hurricane of November 8th was the manner in which it wrecked finally and completely some of the pet theories on which political planning has been based for many years.

What becomes of the long-accepted notion that in this country there are two parties, fairly evenly matched, with a comparatively small group of independents holding the balance of power?

Or the tradition, established in Lincoln's time and reaffirmed in Wilson's, that the country will hesitate to change Presidents in a time of great national stress?

Or the idea that in a two-candidate contest for the highest office,

West Greenville P. T. A. Meets.

The November meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of West Greenville School was held Wednesday afternoon in the school auditorium. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. H. H. Duncan, who presided over the business session. Reports from the different committee chairmen were encouraging and sufficient evidence that our association is enjoying a progressive working year.

We were happy to have with us Supt. J. H. Ross, who talked on "The Red Cross and Its Work." This came at a very appropriate time as the Red Cross drive is now in full swing and an effort has been made within our school vicinity to raise a generous amount toward its contribution.

Mrs. S. J. Everett read an interesting paper on "Child Welfare," and was followed by Mrs. Bixton, instructor of home economics of E. C. T. C. on the same subject. Mrs. Bixton gave a very interesting and instructive talk on the proper foods for children and after following her through every detail on this subject were convinced that a healthy, happy child was the result of a properly fed child. In appreciation, the association extended Mrs. Bixton a rising vote of thanks.

We were happy to have present at this meeting mothers who have not attended before, and we hope the mothers of West Greenville P. T. A. will co-operate in making our monthly meetings an event to look forward to.—Reported.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood, Calif., Nov. 16.—When George Arliss sets about the business of rehearsing for a new picture, a serious, quiet and workman-like job of rehearsing is in prospect not only for Mr. Arliss, but for all the players who will take part.

Arliss begins usually about ten days before a camera is turned, and while players draw pay for rehearsals in the films, those not initiated in the star's methods soon realize that they are working for that pay.

The rehearsal hall isn't elaborate, just a large conference room where quiet is assured and privacy. The only "props" are chairs and a table, a pencil and a book.

It's All Business

The ceremonies begin promptly each morning at ten, and the director doesn't sit in until the last few days. Arliss and Miss Maud Howell, his "dramatic adviser" and former stage manager, take the reins until then, working out the details of all the business which later is to be brightened on the screen presentation.

The simple props serve as substitutes for any or all of the elaborate furnishings which when the cameras start will decorate the Arliss sets. The chair may be a throne, a bus seat, a divan. The table is for rehearsal purposes, a banquet board, a royal feast, or a business desk. The book? That's any of a larger hand-props—such as a seashell or a head of cabbage or a baseball—and the pencil serves for any smaller prop, such as a letter or even a pencil.

Mr. Arliss, by the way, is supposed to be a difficult type to cast; that is, stories for him are said to be usually difficult to find. Yet the vehicles for his seasonal output of three pictures, to be made before his annual vacation, are chosen already—before the first is under way.

Wants To Come Back

Lola Lane, who gave up pictures when she became Mrs. Lew Ayres, wants to come back and do things again—but finds she was taken seriously when she said she was through. Being a housewife doesn't begin to take the time she thought it would, she says.

FIREMEN CALLED TO BURNING BUILDING

The fire department was called out last night to extinguish rubbish burning at the home of Rosetta Williams, colored, on Short Street. Firemen said the damage was very slight.

LEGION CONVENTION DATES ARE REBEALED

Indianapolis, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The national convention of the American Legion in Chicago next year will be held October 2 to 5, it was decided by the national executive committee here today at the closing meeting of a two-day session at Legion national headquarters.

An invitation for the Legion to hold their 1937 convention in Paris, France, was read to the executive committee without official action being taken.

Watson B. Miller, chairman of the national rehabilitation committee, in his report asserted that in the last few months there has been a tendency on the part of the United States veterans' administration to make the settlement of veterans' claims more difficult. Cases that have the same kind of evidence as in the past are harder to get adjudicated satisfactorily, he said.

Compensation claims averaged $64,000 a month for twenty-two months, but for the last five months have averaged only $37,000 a month, Miller said. Death claims that averaged $33,500 for twenty-two months veraged only $28,000 in the last five months, he added.

Following the arrest of the three men, a preliminary hearing was held for James Griffin and his son Paul,

Colored Woman In Recital Here

The music lovers of Greenville enjoyed a rare treat yesterday evening when Mrs. W. C. Patislo, colored, of Tarboro, N. C., formerly of Atlanta, Ga., presented a violin recital in the Industrial High School auditorium.

Mrs. Patislo, an artist in her own right, presented to an appreciative audience the compositions of famous composers with fine technique and skill. The artist was accompanied by one of Greenville's own pianists.

The program was presented under the auspices of the Athletic Association, following which Paul was released, but the father, James Griffin, was held without bond. Lawrence Griffin has not yet been given a hearing.

NEBRASKA STUDENTS BUY POOL BUT DON'T USE IT

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Students are paying for the new University of Nebraska swimming pool—but they aren't using it.

Students and faculty disagree on why the pool, completed last year, isn't more popular.

There are only 125 women and 54 men students registered for class periods in the pool.

Last year the students voted for construction of the pool under an agreement that they would pay a $1 per semester fee.

Dr. R. G. Clapp, director of men's physical education, says the natatorium could accommodate two or three times as many students as now use it without increasing the expense.

ABOUT TOWN

The Pitt County Post of the American Legion is boosting its commander, J. C. Lanier for the post of commander of the North Carolina Department of the Legion.

Clive has done much to promote the work of the Legion in this community, and is capable of conducting the high office of the state organization with credit to himself and the thousands of members served.

It is that the Legion has put him out in the field every effort should be forwarded to see that he is elected.

Such prices being paid on the Greenville market for the common tobacco accompanying the end of the crop are being received with gratification by the hundreds of growers who patronize the market from time to time.

The price improvement will be instrumental in attracting thousands of pounds of tobacco here between now and December 21 when the market closes for the season.

Greenville people were turning their attention today to the observance of the Bicentennial celebration of George Washington and the first President was signally honored with appropriate exercises at the college.

This was the first time a celebration has been held in the section in connection with observance of the birth of the "Father of his country, and it was fitting that a speaker such as Judge Winston should have been obtained for the main address.

Judge Winston knows the history of this country as probably no other man in the state, and the information he brought his hearers on the life of Washington was highly informative and instructive.

High principles enunciated by Washington should always be kept alive in the hearts of American people because they will do their bit toward reaching the high goals dreamed of by those men who first guided the destiny of government.

Cooperation of the people in the economic recovery of the country is very necessary if this is to be achieved any time in the near future, is the belief of Frank Graham, head of the Greater University of North Carolina.

The ability of people to work in concert has been necessary in the development of every phase of human endeavor in the splendid record of the nation and this is far more essential at this time when the world faces one of the most severe crises in history.

The ability of communities to pull together with the purpose of improving their condition has been stressed by some of the greatest leaders of the day, and has been strengthened by the utterance of the Chapel Hill educator.

Boy Scouts will make their annual Bundle Day drive Saturday morning and people who have old clothes they desire to give to the poor should see that they are bundled up and placed on front porches in readiness for the visit of the Boy Scouts.

The clothes provided in this manner will be included in the final summing up of relief work done in this community. They will tend to show the government that Pitt

A PATH TO PARADISE

by Coningsby DAWSON

A PATH TO PARADISE SYNOPSIS: Bearing the news that he has no job, Clive returns to the luxurious apartment his wife Santa insists on paying for, and a meal of delicacies served on a table decorated with orchids. The anomaly enrages him, yet when Santa says she will move the moment he is in a position to provide a more suitable apartment, Clive realizes he is helpless.

Chapter 28

A BOX FROM DICKY

She'd out-generated him. He would gain nothing by reminding Santa that the money he'd spent in keeping up with her would have gone a long way toward purchasing such a home.

"What next?" Clive asked. "To clear out of here and act as if we were broke would be bad business. If you're to get on your feet, you must have a prosperous background."

"There's something in that," he acknowledged. "But a prosperous background, especially when it's bluff, doesn't cut as much ice as you fancy. We simply must cut down."

"Not so that people will notice. I can't face up to it. Besides, it isn't necessary. I have plenty for both of us. I'm not thinking of myself."

He composed convincing speeches. "Why can't we do things together?"

She smothered them with the glib assurance. "You have me, darling. He held his end up by parting with his few investments, for he insisted on contributing to the housekeeping."

Her twenty-first birthday was approaching. He couldn't give her a present that was inadequate; it must make up in taste for what it lacked in cost. After much ransacking of antique shops he acquired a Sevres vase, which he had fitted as a reading lamp for her bedside.

He was smuggling it home, when he surprised her in the hall attempting to open a large packing-case. Having hidden her gift, he returned and took the tools from her.

"Let me." As planks were ripped, an inland chequer bureau of the Regency period came to sight.

"That was dear of him," Santa grew excited. "Of your father?" "There must be a card somewhere. In one of the drawers probably."

Santa found and read it. Her face was a study—mischievous, comic. "Everything's grist that comes to the mill," she giggled. "You'll split your sides when you learn who sent it."

She handed him the card. It was inscribed: "For wedding and birthday combined, for old remembrance and in gratitude—from Dicky"

Clive began to conceal his troubles.

Suddenly flinging herself at him, she burst into weeping. "Don't let's squabble," she sobbed. "You mean so much to me. I'm so proud of you."

Recognizing that the cause of her tears was still obscure, "Tell me," he coaxed. "After my first failure, I couldn't bear that anyone should think less of you."

He felt tender and helpless. "But they will think less of me, if I live on the fat of the land and let you pay the big end."

She hopped upright on his knee. A bright solution had struck her. "We won't tell them—not even Daddy and Mummy. No one shall know but our two selves."

"But I'll know, Santa." "Stop treating me as a stranger. She dug her face into his shoulder. "I'm yours, everything that I am—my love, my body. What does matrimony matter?"

"A whole lot, when you haven't any." She turned. Her lips pressed his. Lazily her arms enfolded him.

"Such a little body! Feel safe?" Her necromancy triumphed. Santa's secret fear, having suffered one divorce, was that she might be incapable of retaining any man's affections. To her Clive's misfortune was a heaven-sent chance to bind him to her by lavish kindness.

She planned to hide him in the fortress of her tenderness. Day after day when he returned from a fruitless search, she would make light of his frustration.

"You have me, darling." "That's fine. But I feel as though I'd cheated."

"Don't say that, Clive. It's not true." "I know it isn't. But a fellow can't help being anxious."

Little by little he began to conceal his troubles. He was unwilling to diminish himself in her eyes. Instead of recounting the many doors that had been closed against him, he spoke vaguely of offers he was considering. He found her belief that she compensated him for every failure mildly irritating.

It was when he was absent from her, suffering rebuffs, that he saw their relationship in proper perspective. They were inhabiting separate worlds. She was content to have no conception of his. He was permitted to visit hers as a pampered guest.

It was all wrong that they should be so divided. Their alienation, of which she seemed unaware, was her doing. Perhaps having been twice a wife had rendered her unadaptable. It was too late to consider that angle.

The country is doing her best to meet the demands of her poor and is deserving of any help which the government sees fit to render.

The Scouts have done much toward relieving the poor in recent years through the Bundle Day movement and the people should encourage the by giving freely to the success of the canvass.

This Woman Lost 45 Pounds of Fat

"Dear Sirs: For 3 months I've been using your salts and am very much pleased with results. I've lost 45 lbs. 6 inches in hips and bust measure. I've taken 3 bottles—one lasting 5 weeks. I had often tried to reduce by dieting but never could keep it up, but by cutting down and taking Kruschen I've had splendid results. I highly recommend it to my friends."—Mrs. Carl Wilson, Manton, Mich.

To lose fat SAFELY and HARMLESSLY take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—don't miss a morning. To hasten results go light on fatty meats, potatoes, cream and pastries—a bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle—but don't take chances—be sure it's Kruschen—your health comes first—get it at Pitt Drug Co. or any drugstore in America. If not joyfully satisfied after the first bottle—money back—(Adv.)

RAGE UNBRIDLED "Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the famous animal painter, Paul Bransom... inspired by the fierce battle between wild mustang stallions on the western ranges... fighting to the death with flashing teeth and slashing hoofs. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies—that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted" That package of mild Luckies

STATE CAGE TEAMS BEGIN ANNUAL GRIND

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 17.—Freshman basketball started at State College this week when twenty-seven men reported to Coach Bob Warren.

A number of boys representing former high school championship teams of the State are listed among those who have already reported. Coach Warren said quit a few others would report Monday of next week following the close of the freshman football season on Friday. Several members of the yearling football team are said to be excellent basketball players.

The men who have already begun work are: Forwards, W. Shin, New Haven, Conn.; W. D. Tinsley, Spencer; C. G. Riley, Pleasant Garden; J. C. Stanton, Ansonville; W. J. Thomas, Morven; Russell Sherrill, Raleigh; Clayborn Johnson, Cary; R. M. London, Rock Hill, S. C.; T. D. Wilkins, Atlanta, Ga.; J. H. Volkman, Wehewken, N. J.; W. L. Senter, Kipling; H. C. Smith, Kipling; E. G. Atkins, Durham; D. B. Baldwin, Tarboro; and I. Person, Guttenburg, N. J.

Centers: J. W. Lukens, Norfolk Va.; R. O. Pratt, Winston-Salem; S. M. Flythe, Conway; E. F. Coats, Clayton; and J. L. Eiland, Elfsand.

Guards: T. C. Sawyer, Elizabeth City; J. S. Allen, North Wilkesboro; C. S. Layton, Pleasant Garden; J. M. O'Brien, Oxford; P. M. Cox, Newport News, Va.; J. K. Brock, Trenton; and R. E. Vick, Sanford.

A schedule for the freshman team has not been completed, but Dr. R. R. Sermon, athletic director, said it would be completed within the next few days.

achievement, along with the team's winning record?

It seems that Harvard's athletic administration due to economies in the reduction of spring trips, etc., was "only one or two thousand dollars in the red" at the outset of the current gridiron season.

Moreover "in regard to the salaries of the various coaches," Bingham explained that only four of them get over $5,000 a year. The H. A. A. News goes on to say:

"No coach gets the same pay as a full professor in these days, a misunderstanding which seems to have arisen, but only at the most an amount equal to that which a professor received by in 1922. A total of $111,800 is used for the salaries of 62 coaches, allowing for duplication in sports, so that the average would come to about $1,803 per coach.

"Football is the only sport in which a net profit is made and therefore has to pay for all the other sports. Baseball earns $17,700 and pays out $26,192; crew takes in $3,000 and expends $34,300; hockey tickets net $9,600 but $21,200 is used in expenditures; track takes in $13,700 and pays out $39,400; swimming a minor sport, earns $2,300 but spends $7,000."

For those who may wonder where the big money goes in football, Bingham thus apportions the anticipated $775,000 to be collected by Harvard this football season as follows:

"Only $330,991 will be spent altogether on football and $217,450 of that sum will go as guarantees to visiting teams. This leaves only about $113,000 to cover all the University football costs, some of the major items of which are as follows: expense of games $27,000; outfitting $8,300; equipment $5,500; doctors $4,000; rubbing $3,000; services and wages $8,500; coaching $25,000; travel $7,000; and a host of other smaller expenses.

"The total planned expenditures for all sports in the coming year are $886,193, as compared with the anticipated total receipts from all sports of around $925,000."

game and settle the question of who gets the all-star berth this year.

The fireworks should start popping at the beginning and keep it up throughout the game for brilliant duels are scheduled all along the line.

One of the most interesting will be that between the fullback, Ersler of Duke and Stuart Chandler of Carolina. Both are great blocking and defensive backs, who have frequently played larger parts in their teams' victories than the ball carriers took.

Erwin Walker of Carolina and Duke's great punting Rossier will square off in a duel at one flank that will match perhaps the two leading contenders for all-state end.

And over at the other side there will be Fred Crawford, Duke tackle, against George Brandt, Carolina end. Crawford has played some great ball this year, but State proved he could be blocked out and run over. Brandt blocked brilliantly and played the finest game of his career at Davidson last week. They should have a hot time of it.

Down in the center of the fray June Underwood, Carolina's powerful and brilliant center, and a leading contender for all-southern will strive against everybody Duke can put in his path, including the sophomore center and guard, Dunlap and Andrews and the veteran Warner, who was all-state last year.

The backfield duels will match such brilliant ball carriers as Laney and Mason of Duke and Phipps and Daniel of Carolina.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 17.—The Carolina-Duke classic here Saturday at 2 o'clock will do more than settle the state title and the question of Carolina-Duke football supremacy. The two Big Five leaders will parade out half a score of the state's brightest gridiron luminaries and each one will be fighting to play his best.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

Attendance at Harvard's home football games has dropped so sharply this season that Athletic Director Bill Bingham's estimates of a revenue of $775,000 may be optimistic, yet the Harvard A. A. News appears to point with some pride to the fact that "no cut has been made in the salaries of any of the coaches."

If not, the casual observer may inquire, why not? Is this to be considered a measure of athletic
