Scores of people were on hand as the doors opened and the crowds increased during the day.

STILL TAKEN IN PACTOLUS

Part of Plant Removed by Distillers After Completing Their Run

A whiskey distilling plant was captured by county officers in the Pactolus community during the early part of the week, it was reported at the sheriff's office today.

Approximately fifty gallons of beer were destroyed along with the outfit.

Parts of the still had been removed before arrival of the officers, who had been informed that the still was in operation previous to the raid.

The still was of the usual type used in the manufacture of the illicit beverage in this part of the State, and was one of the hundreds preparing the booze for the holiday trade which will reach its height about a week before Christmas.

JAPS MOVE TO SLAY REBELS

Army Sets Out Over Frozen Plains to Carry Out Threat of Annihilation.

Changchun, Manchuria, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Japanese army set out on the frozen snow-covered plains of northwest Manchuria today to make good the threat to wipe out the rebel forces under General Su Ting-Wen even though the lives of 150 Japanese hostages may be jeopardized.

The objective of the Japanese commanders will be the capture of at least a fourth of Manchuria and vie against the Soviet quarter and that of forces allied with Su numbering 30,000.

General Su last fall renounced allegiance to the new Manchurian state of Manchukuo and defied the Japanese army to come and get him. He entrenched himself west of the great Khingan Mountains and took over the city of Machami, the Chinese Eastern Railway quarter city leading into Soviet Russia.

STRIKES ARE DISCOURAGED

Federation Will Resort to Strike as Last Means in Unemployment Insurance.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Strike will be only a last resort in the American Federation's effort to establish unemployment insurance and a thirty-hour week for the American workman, leaders of the organization said today.

The insurance plan which would be paid for by employers and administered by the State, was adopted unanimously yesterday at the convention here.

The six-hour day and five-day week was ratified Tuesday under a similar plan.

BUDGET DRIVE MOVES SLOWLY

Only Few Members of Committee Have Canvassed For $2,000 Needed

The Salvation Army budget drive was moving slowly today, but indications pointed to increased impetus as soon as members of the various committees are able to cover the territory to which they have been assigned.

While some of the committees have completed their work and filed their reports, it was indicated that only a small part of the principal business district had been covered. It was hoped this territory would be reached during the next two days and that the small subscription so far reported will be swelled considerably.

G. V. Smith, chairman of the budget campaigners, was hopeful the public would respond liberally. (Continued on Page Four)

BIG MONEY TO BE PAID SOON

Over $700,000,000 to be Paid Out in Interest and Dividends This Month.

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Christmas stocking of American investors will not be altogether empty this year, for beginning today there will be paid out during December more than $700,000,000 in interest, dividends and bond maturities.

If operation of the United States Treasury is included such maturities as represented in new finances and income taxes, the December settlement will total more than $2,000,000,000.

It goes without saying that all disbursements will be smaller than last year owing to restricted economic conditions.

Interest payments for the month will be $400,000,000; dividends, $225,000,000, and corporate securities, $55,000,000.

Some $49,000,000 of public utility bonds come due, while industrials will be $22,000,000 and those of maturities around $22,000,000. Foreign bonds and notes will be $5,463,000.

NEGRO HELD IN ROBBERY CASE

Joe Ebron Admits Aiding and Abetting In Sale of Goods Taken in Robbery

Joe Ebron, colored, of Pactolus, charged with aiding and abetting in the robbery of the Saled and Smith stores on Dickinson avenue last week, waived examination when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Ray Tyson Jr. yesterday afternoon and was bound over to the next term of criminal court under bond of $1,000. He was unable to furnish bail and was remanded to jail.

Police said Ebron virtually admitted completely in the public sales of $600 worth of men and women's wearing apparel taken in the robbery of the two stores. The sale was conducted from his home, he said, by eight members of a band of colored people, including one woman, who are held in jail charged with the robbery.

It was the indiscriminate sale of the clothing at ridiculously low prices that attracted attention of the people of the Pactolus community. When police heard of the wholesale disposition of the clothing they investigated and rounded up the entire band last Sunday.

The two stores were robbed the night before Thanksgiving when the thieves battered the locks off of back doors, obtained the loot and escaped.

Sheriff's officers assisted in the roundup of the criminals, many of whom had been prominently connected with their charges here over a period of many years.

FIREMEN TO RUN TOY SHOP

State Theatre to Also Help Raise Toys For Poor at Special Matinee

Greenville firemen will again do their bit toward carrying joy to the hearts of poor children of the community during the Christmas holidays. It was announced today by George Gardner, chief of the fire department.

Gardner said the toy repair shop conducted by the firemen for the last two years would be operated again this year, and hope was expressed the public would contribute liberally of broken toys so they may be overhauled and placed in condition for distribution among those who would know little of the joy of Yuletide without the aid of the fire laddies.

All toys passing through this agency will be turned over to the Salvation Army for distribution.

Working in conjunction with the firemen, T. Y. Walker, manager of State Theatre, announced today that a special matinee would be given by the theatre Friday afternoon and that children bringing toys, whether new or old, would be admitted free.

The toys collected through this medium will be turned over to the firemen, who will make necessary repairs. (Continued on Page Four)

Although police failed to comment early today, it was indicated that an investigation was under way and that arrests probably would be made in the near future.

This is the second robbery committed in the city the last week. Robbers entered two stores on the same street the night before Thanksgiving and escaped with goods valued at $800. All members of the band were rounded up a few days later and now await hearing in the next term of Superior Court.

Late News Flashes

Glass May Get Treasury Job

Warm Springs, Ga., Dec. 1.—(AP)—The opinion given in Roosevelt circles today that Senator Carter Glass of Virginia was certain to be offered the post of Secretary of the Treasury in which he served during the Wilson administration.

In the minds of some of those close to the President-elect two cabinet posts were being allocated, the treasury post to Glass and the post-master generalship to James Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Whether Glass would be able to accept the treasury job was uncertain, however, because he "has been in ill health for some time."

The cabinet talk arose at about the same time Mr. Roosevelt was going into a conference with Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the inauguration committee, over plans for ceremonies that will usher him into office.

EXTRA POLICE PUT ON GUARD

Two Thousand Marchers Seeking Federal Relief Expected to Invade Capital City Sunday; Strong Guards Provided for the White House and Regular Police Forces Augmented.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—Capital authorities had before them today fresh reports of groups of demonstrators marching toward Washington and weighed them with a view to possible trouble.

Officials in cities through which the groups passed, notified local police, and on the basis of such information, Major Ernest W. Brown, superintendent, informed District of Columbia commissioners he expected about 2,000 to arrive Sunday.

It will be five hundred more than involved in the so-called "hunger march" of last year, but smaller by several thousand than the bonus army, which Federal troops evicted from the capital last July.

To avoid trouble, city and Federal authorities have decided to provide strong guards for the White House and Capitol, and to augment regular police forces.

Livestock Entries In Chicago Show Set New Record

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 1.—(AP)—An array of premiums reduced neither in number nor value will be the goal of exhibitors of some 12,000 head of cattle, horses, sheep and swine at the thirty-third annual International Live Stock Exposition here November 25 to December 3.

With the depression having brought a curtailment of prize lists of a number of State and county fairs, and with local sales at comparatively low ebb, a record-breaking entry in all departments was reported with the closing of lists November 1.

Grain Show in Connection

In conjunction with the live stock exposition will be the international hay and grain show and the eleventh National Int'l Congress, at which 1,000 boy and girl delegates will represent nearly 1,000,000 members of 4-H clubs in forty-three States.

Entries in this year's show indicate that a wider range of the North American continent will be represented in the thirty-five different breeds of live stock than ever before. British Columbia, Oregon, Connecticut, Texas and California products will vie with prize animals of the Mid-West, which has setaken the majority of prizes in past years.

Breeders of Hereford cattle especially are determined to make a good showing this year, as they will be celebrating their jubilee year, the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the first Hereford cattle club in the United States.

A PATH TO PARADISE
 by Coningsby DAWSON

A PATH TO PARADISE
 SYNOPSIS: Knowing that Clive would disapprove, Santa telephoned her first husband, Dicky, intending to tell him he must not see her again. They spend the afternoon discussing the reasons for her first marital failure, and how to avoid them with Clive. But Clive believes she has put in the day nursing a headache, and when he returns from work tucks her tenderly into bed, surrounded with hot water bottles!

Chapter 40
INTO DANGER AGAIN

A week had passed—in some respects their happiest. Recent events had given them a fright. If the surrender of personal preferences were the only way to avoid cleavages, each was prepared to become the other's beloved door-mat. Santa, being the woman, was the more extravagant in her abnegation.

Hand in hand, arms crossed, they skimmed the ice.

As though she had originated the idea, she insisted that they should sub-let the apartment and seek a home in the country. As though he had always adored the apartment, Olive marshaled arguments to prove the unwisdom of her plan.

"It would mean two hours extra a day without you. It would mean leaving you surrounded by soggy fields. Friends would forget you. To engage a maid would be next door impossible."

"But we would live within your income, darling," she urged.

"My income's more than doubled," he countered. "We can live within it here if we practice economy."

Unconsciously they were manoeuvring for position—each striving to outdo the other in generosity. There had been times when Santa's sense of her indebtedness to Clive had become well-nigh crushing. Gratitude for his chivalry in having married her after her first mishap had been the motive for most of her awkwardness.

To repay him she had circumvented him in the matter of the apartment and assessed him moderately when she ought to have rendered him accounts. Clive, on his side, had resented her shouldering the responsibilities and had felt that he was being compelled to swallow the food of charity. Had they loved each other less, their search for paradise would have been more level treading. And now the competition as to which should give more lavishly had changed to self-effacement. By a master-stroke Clive won the combat.

Since his secret visit to Santa, which was to have been their final parting, Dicky had removed himself from the map. His name was no longer mentioned. For Clive to introduce it seemed too much like forcing Santa's reticence. Yet he had the uncomfortable sensation that Dicky's name was always on the tip of her tongue.

Gradually he came to the conclusion that by their silence they were attaching to much importance to Dicky. The fault was his. He had expected that a woman's interest in a former husband would cease abruptly when she divorced him.

How could it? To Santa her divorce must figure as the most dramatic episode in her young life. The more she was forbidden to ventilate it the more she was bound to think about it. He had contorted her into a false attitude by his refusal to acknowledge that she had been twice married. But how to re-open the sore subject?

The day was a Saturday. Her mother had sent the car to New York to bring them back to spend the week-end. A flutter of snow was falling. On the drive across the New Jersey meadows the chauffeur informed them that Joe was holding on some of the ponds above Mount-clair.

"I've not skated for ages," Santa became all eagerness. Don't you remember how we used to, when you were at Princeton, long before—"

He could have supplied the unspoken words "Long before Dicky appeared on the horizon."

"Long before," she refashioned her sentence, "either of us dreamed of marrying."

He squeezed her hand beneath the rug.

"There was never a time when I didn't dream that we might marry." Perhaps the magic of snow accomplished the miracle. Something of its transforming whiteness seemed to drift into their hearts. Old scars were blotted out. They became tender, gay, romantic. As with lovers, every moment together became seriously precious. Avoiding

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
 Washington, Dec. 1.—(AP)—That colorful Minnesotan—Magnus Johnson—is coming back to Washington next March, but reports drifting in to the capital have it that he'll be a vastly different person from what he was eight years ago.

It's a thoughtful, serious-minded Magnus Johnson now, they say. He has all of his old-time humor, but there is little of the comedy in his make-up that characterized him when he was here before in the Senate.

Reception of the largest total of votes among some 30 or more men running for Congress at large in Minnesota on November 2 has had its effect. Soberly he considers the responsibility the people of his state have placed on his shoulders.

First of all, he has made it plain that there will be no milking contests in the future as far as he is concerned.

When he was "on the hill" before in the Senate this feat caused much merriment in the capital. He challenged Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture to such a contest. It was held at the Soldiers' Home here.

For five minutes the two went at the job with no sounds except the steady streams of milk pouring into the buckets. When it was measured, Secretary Wallace had won by a half-pint. Just how much milk either got in the five minutes of effort was never known.

One herdsman bolder than the rest, said he thought it was about a quart.

And there is to be no more displays of temper like the time he invaded the press gallery of the Senate in quest of a reporter who had written something that displeased him.

POLITICS

By BYRON PRICE
 (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

An old Senate custom, target of many a political shaft and bugbear of every President who has aspired to real leadership, appears today the one solid barrier in the pathway of President-elect Roosevelt's first effort to take charge of affairs at Washington.

It is the familiar rule of unlimited senatorial debate. Without that rule, there would be no question about the success of Mr. Roosevelt's plan to complete his emergency legislative program before March 4, and avoid an extra session thereafter. With that rule, the prospect of success is most dubious.

What the Democratic leaders will try to do, at Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion, is to put through the short session a batch of appropriation bills greatly reducing expenditures, pass a beer bill, and write into law a new plan for farm relief.

The House, with its strict rules limiting debate and speeding general procedure, can do it. To think that the Senate will even approach such an accomplishment is to deny the evidence of a long record of senatorial delay and blockade.

More Chances For Debate
 The appropriation bills alone, even in ordinary times, have proved about as big a gnat of major legislation as the Senate could handle between December and March. This year, complications attending the attempt to reduce the budget will make for extra controversy, debate and inaction.

The beer bill will provide, in addition, enough oratorical ammunition to keep the Senate battleries going for months. The ninety-six Senators are not unlikely to have at least 96 different ideas about rescuing the farmer, and the rules are that no senatorial idea shall pass without expression at whatever length its proud parent may choose.

A "Cooling-Off" Period
 The argument presented in defense of unlimited debate is that it provides a cooling-off period, and is a safeguard against hasty and ill-considered legislation. However valid that argument may be, the fact remains that Senate talk-fests have long been a major obstacle to the carrying-out of decisive administration programs.

Woodrow Wilson was so exasperated over the filibuster which killed one of his war measures that he pleaded with the Senate to amend its rules so that "a little group of willful men" could not defeat the will of the majority. The Senate did make a change, but it was not very effective.

Theodore Roosevelt once found a way of getting around the difficulty. Describing the incident later, he said in effect:

"I knew if I negotiated a treaty for the Panama Canal strip, and sent it to the Senate, it would be debated without end. So I took Panama, and let the Senate debate me."

May Get Action
 Of course it may be that the present Senate, smarting under the lesson of the election, will be willing to substitute action for words, and live up to the high profession of intended accomplishment now voiced by its leaders. It may be. But the wise will not count on it.

Australia has finally emerged as a film-producing country, with several companies producing both sound features and short subjects.

RECOGNIZES WORK OF UNIVERSITY DEPARTMENTS
 Durham, Dec. 1.—Recognition of the progress made by the engineering departments at Duke University is made in the admittance of Duke University as an institutional member of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, according to notification received from Dean F. L. Bishop of University of Pittsburgh, secretary of the society.

Formal application for this recognition was requested some time ago through Prof. Harold C. Bird, chairman of the department of civil and mechanical engineering. In addition to evidence in regard to the history of engineering at Duke, the high standard of the engineering equipment, the quality of instruction and the curricula, it was necessary to submit a detailed record of the professional and technical attainments of each member of the engineering department faculty as well as of members of the general university faculty who give instruction to engineering students.

WANT REMOVAL OF CHOWAN BRIDGE TOLLS
 Edenton, Dec. 1.—At a meeting of the Chowan County Chamber of Commerce a movement was launched for the removal of the toll charges on the Chowan River bridge between Edenton and Windsor.

Lindsay C. Warren, of this district, Senators Josiah Baily and Robert R. Reynolds, County Legislator W. J. Berryman and State Senators Lloyd E. Griffin, of Edenton, will be asked to favor such legislation as would completely remove the toll for crossing the bridge.

The Stawte aid law-making bodies have been sent resolutions adopted by the Atlantic Coast Highway Association and by the local commerce body. Two hundred thousand dollars will be asked of the Federal Government to appropriate toward retiring Chowan bridge bonds in the next session of Congress. Four hundred thousand dollars is required to retire the bonds of the bridge and the Chamber of Commerce is expecting the remaining $200,000 to be provided by the State Legislature.

Failure to Supply Body With Essential Minerals Allows Excessive Acids to Destroy Health and Vitality.

Medical science, constantly searching for ways to prolong life, frequently comes forward with startling statements of their findings, but no more astounding announcement has been made in recent years than the statement of an eminent Chemist who now declares that "There is no natural death. All deaths from so-called natural causes are merely the end point of progressive acid saturation."

TIMELY WARNING
 An amazing statement indeed but a warning, that if heeded, should improve the health and well being, increase the joy of living, and prolong the lives of millions of men, women and children who might otherwise drag through a weary life to an untimely end.

ACIDITY KILLS MILLIONS
 Health authorities now agree that 91% of all diseases originate in the stomach and are caused by poor cooking, improper diet, and the eating of highly refined foods. Your doctor knows that the 11 essential Minerals and all Vitamins are contained in foods in their natural state and could be live with you constantly, carefully select and prepare everything you eat, you would never need medicines of any kind. This being impossible, science has been searching for years, trying to compound a formula that would make up for the deficiencies of these vital elements—and at last their efforts have been rewarded.

AID TO NATURE
 LEE'S MINERAL COMPOUND, a new and revolutionary formula, actually supplies the system with these vital elements so necessary to health and happiness. It contains the eleven essential Minerals in well balanced proportion, together with Vitamins, and is an invaluable aid to nature in the building of blood, bone, nerve and tissue.

ELIMINATES POISONS
 It will rid your system of excess acid, sweep away the dangerous poisons, supply the body with the needed minerals, stimulate the organs of digestion and assimilation, build rich, red blood, clear the skin, give you a keen, hearty appetite, help you to get sound, refreshing sleep, restore health, strength and vitality and enable you to enjoy life to the fullest.

MAKE THIS 10 DAY TEST Convince Yourself!
 Stop dosing yourself with "patent medicines," harsh purgatives, oils and cathartics for just 10 days. Go to your nearest Drug-ist and secure a bottle of LEE'S MINERAL COMPOUND. Take it regularly, and watch the results. You'll be amazed at the feeling of renewed strength and vigor that soon appears. No narcotics or alcohol to "boost you up" but a natural method of restoring health and energy.

For Sale by Warren Drug Store, Greenville, and other good dealers everywhere or, send $1.25 to Lee's Laboratories, 167 Forsyth St., S. W., Atlanta, Ga., for large bottle postage paid.

GREEN WROTE SCENARIO FOR "CABIN IN THE COTTON". NOVEMBER MEETING OF ARTHUR 4-H CLUBS. The Senior Club met in the school auditorium for their regular meeting November 28. After the business meeting was presided over by the president, Rubelle Vandiford, the program was then conducted by the vice-president, Virginia Massey. The remainder of the time was used by Miss Nice. She gave us an interesting talk on how the Arthur club has progressed since she has been in the county. Among the most recent happenings of the club members are: A play "The Marriage Shoppe" presented at the meeting of the Beaufort County Demonstration Clubs in Washington, and also at the achievement program in Pitt county; Doris Nichols, president 4-H Council of Pitt county, has received a medal signifying that she is one of the four most outstanding club girls in the state; and the club socials, which are held monthly with two girls acting as hostesses each time. The last social was given at the home of Blois Crawford, with Mildred Taylor assisting her as hostess.

Miss Nice also discussed the planting which is our chief project for this month.

In the work for the past month, sewing boxes have been completed by several of the girls and some have finished one or two garments of the sewing contract.

Talks to Parents

Violent Affection. By Alice Judson Peale. Olive, sending over the baby brother's cradle says: "I just love brother. He's so sweet I just could love him to death!"

And truly, when she is allowed to hold him in her arms she does nearly squeeze the breath out of him. In the kindergarten, which Olive attends, the teacher must often protect the small children from her violent affection. Not infrequently she has embraced a small play-fellow until he cried for rescue.

The meaning of such violent affection is clear. Olive loves her little brother, and after him all little children, but she is jealous of him and of others like him.

She spoke from her heart when she said: "I could just love him to death." Her speech expressed literally the double nature of her feelings, a thing of which she herself is not aware.

It is well, though, for mothers to be aware of this double current of emotion which nearly always exists when an older child has to accept a new baby in the family circle.

Understanding of the complicated nature of the older child's feelings should point the way to lessening his conflict.

On the one hand, one can refrain from constantly requiring him either "Love" for the baby. On the other hand, one can take pains to reassure him that he is loved as much as ever, so that the jealousy itself will tend to diminish.

But most of all, one will be patient of the symptoms of jealousy, and allow time for the older child to make an adjustment instead of demanding, then an other, that he play the model big brother or sister while his heart is still torn with conflict and rebellion.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS. Hollywood, Dec. 1.—(AP)—One hears often, especially among movie casting directors, the lament about the terrific shortage of leading men and women.

In view of the thousands of would-be stars the countless actors and actresses looking for jobs the wall would seem to be without much foundation, and yet the problem grows.

"The why of it? I talked to a casting director recently who was in a peculiarly appropriate position to talk about the 'shortage.' He had four or five pictures set to start the following month and confessed he didn't know where he was going to get the players.

"Sure, there are plenty of actors out of work," he admitted, "but they're all actors we don't want and nobody else wants. Why don't we want 'em? Because they're hard to sell to directors, even when they're good."

"A director wants a good 'name' in his cast—a player with experience and ability, well known to the public—and he remembers some player he's seen recently. That's how it happens that those who work steadily keep on getting jobs and while those who haven't worked much don't get the breaks. The vicious circle idea again. The closed corporation."

Directors sometimes argue that they will use an unknown if the proper name can't be found, but it was this casting director's observation that directors who actually start shooting with such an obscure player are very rare. They hold out for "name."

All of which is very true. Constance Cummings is a leading lady in demand now, yet a couple of years ago she was just another actress a beginner whom directors probably were turning down more often than they accepted. Some of them took her, and the unknown became the Constance Cummings who seemingly is wanted by all the studios.

BLOOM'S

MANY STARS TO PLAY IN TITLE TILT

Chapel Hill, N. C., Dec. 1.—The cream of one of the finest crops of high school championship here Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Heading the parade, Quarterback Gadd, of Charlotte, is being rated as one of the South's best high school backs. He does everything—punts, passes, and runs, and the dope is that he is as good at one as at the other.

Dallas Morris, a flashy halfback, and Newman, hard-driving fullback, team with him in a powerful and versatile backfield which rolled up 111 points in four Conference games leading to the Western title; and which also rolled over strong high school teams from Atlanta and Washington.

Charlotte will also present a strong line with many stars of its own. The Queen City line didn't yield a single touchdown in the Conference. Mozer, a 170-pounder at center, and Strong and Nelms, who average 188 at the tackles, lend the weight and power, and are flanked by two fine ends, Brady and Shoup.

Durham has an all-star and all-veteran backfield of Hackney, Ferris, Spain and Andrews which piled up 161 points to all opponents' seven in its four Conference games. Bryan and Johnson at the tackles and Germino at center are the line stars, and Cribbs and Cheek form a good pair of ends although a light pair.

Both teams have been training intensely, and a great scrap is predicted. Charlotte rules a slight favorite, but Durham, upset the Queen City team in a brilliant game last year, after Charlotte had won the title the two preceding years.

SPORT SLANTS

Yale, which some time ago advocated reduction of its football schedules to a four or five game basis, will play eight contests next year, one more than this season.

Georgia's Bulldogs, the best early season attraction they have ever had at New Haven, will be back on the lot in a favored spot, November 11, two weeks before the Harvard-Yale game.

The Yale-Princeton game, scheduled as late as December 2, probably will conflict with the Army-Navy game, but this won't create a problem for Eastern fans if the service classic is shifted on that date to Chicago as a feature of the world's fair sports program.

The Football Lassiters
The Lassiter brothers of North Carolina cannot rival the Poes of Princeton because only two of the four boys decided to go to Yale. The new Eli captain, Robert Lassiter, Jr., is the third of four brothers to develop outstanding gridiron ability. Two older brothers matriculated at the University of North Carolina, one of them making the varsity team. A younger brother, Fred, will be a candidate for the Yale varsity next season. He was a substitute halfback this year on the freshmen squad.

Speaking of brothers, George "Whitley" Randour, Villanova's triple threat halfback, is the most famous of five. This is the first year in over a decade that Randour has not been on the McDonald, Pa., high school squad. One of George's brothers made the Pittsburgh team two years ago and another is now on the Pitt freshman squad.

Brown Provides Thrills
Win, lose or draw against Colgate, Brown's football season seems to have stirred the appreciative endorsement of old-timers who like straight football, well done.

"Two years ago," writes an observer, "St. Mary's gave the customers the thrill of the year when they came back to trample an undefeated Fordham team in the last frame. Last year, classic example probably of all time. Southern California took Notre Dame, with a field goal for victory in the closing moments."

"But this year Brown has been giving the customers that kind of a thrill game after game. . . . They don't specialize in broken field runs of 50 or 60 yards or heaves from pole to pole. They have played football, versatile, dazzling, irresistible, the kind that makes an old-timer tingle, brings the stands to its feet and sends the fans home talking to themselves."

"They don't run up an early lead and protect it with clever punting. As a matter of fact, their punting has been only average, but their kicks for point are deadly."

"Honor to the men of Brown, therefore, and their spark plug, Mr. Chase."

GRID OUTLOOK BRIGHTER FOR CHAPEL HILL

Chapel Hill, N. C., Dec. 1.—The University of North Carolina will expect better things in a football way next year.

The Tar Heels will graduate several of their brightest stars, but will still have a goodly number of veterans returning. Indications are that they will also have a much better crop of sophomores than this year. The 1932 Tar Heels made a good record and displayed several players with varsity promise.

The biggest problem facing Coach Collins, Orney and Petzer will be to rebuild the left side of the Carolina line. Erwin Walker, end; Harry Hodges, tackle; and June Underwood, center, were makinstays this year and will be sorely missed.

Stuart Chandler is another whose shoes will be hard to fill. He played every most in the backfield and was the spark-plug on both offense and defense. Other losses which will be keenly felt include Philpott and Newcombe, guards; Cozard, end; and McCaskill, halfback.

George Barclay and Edwin Kahn, this year's first string guards, will both be back, and the right side of the line should give little worry with Frank Smith and George Brandt due back at tackle and end.

Jim Tatum and Bill Collins, tackles; Julian Frankel, end, and Gordon McIver and Ralph Gardner will figure in Coach Collins' plans. These five saw considerable service this year and will be counted on for even better work.

This year's reserve squad will send up other hopefuls, including Beale and Manley, ends; Barrett and Manley, ends; Barrett and Moser, tackles; Caldwell, Ogburn, Folger and Blithe, guards.

The Tar Heels should be fairly well fixed in a backfield way. Charlie Woolen, Henry Burnett and Ed. Martin, the three punting quarterbacks, are all due back.

Stuart Chandler at full and Norman McCaskill at half will be the only losses, and Coach Collins should be able to count on ten backs with considerable seasoning. Johnny Daniel, Kay Thompson and Charlite Shaffer are also due back at right half. Johnny Phipps and Tom White at left half, and Hanes Lassiter and Bill Croom at full. Phipps and White should round into fine passers for their last year, and with experience the Tar Heels should develop the consistent blocking they lacked this season.

The freshman team is ending up a number of good sized line prospects, although they still need much seasoning, and several light but speedy backs who also have promise.

The best line prospects are Mortimer Ellisberg, Eugene Barwick, George Arthur, Jack Brown, Red Brothers, and Alfred Dent, ends; Sam Hobgood, Tom Evans, John Watkins, Beverly Millaway, and Jas. Bryan, tackles; Bill Moore and Emmett Joyce, guards; and Murray Kanter, center.

Harry Montgomery, brother of Columbia's captain for next year, is the outstanding backfield prospect. Earle Cox and James Womble are good quarterback prospects. Jim McCachron is a hard running fullback and a good punter. Red Phelps, Herman Snyder, and Cecil Pendleton are other halfbacks with good chances, while Charles Sutton and Joe Nelson are other fullback prospects.

The firemen have many spare hours to confine to this work while waiting for alarms, and if offerings are as large as expected, belief was expressed more toys would be provided for the poor this year than ever before.

New York Cotton

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, one higher to three lower on steady cables from Liverpool offset by Southern selling. Increased Southern selling and local operators carried cotton values down after the opening, March declining to 5.94 to 5.85. Volume, however, was small, and there was sufficient trade price fixing and commission house buying to hold the market within comparatively narrow limits.

The market rallied about ten to fourteen points from early lows on steady trade.

March sold up from 5.85 to 5.98 with the general market showing net gains of about three to six points on advance.
