PRESIDENT DELIVERS FINAL MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Three Thousand Marchers Stage Parade In Capital

MAKE DEMAND FOR FEDERAL RELIEF PLAN

Banners Demand Unemployment Insurance and Cash Federal Relief; First Time Demonstrators Permitted to Move Out of the Closely Guarded Area Since Arrival.

Washington, Dec. 6—(AP)—Flanked by police, three thousand demonstrators marched through the city today with their route taking them within two blocks of the Capitol.

The marchers were led by a band in uniforms similar to those worn by Soviet police. It intermittently played the "Internationale."

Policies permitted banners in the line of march. Most of the banners claimed demands for unemployment insurance and cash Federal relief.

It was the first time the demonstrators had been permitted to move out of the closely guarded and roped areas since they arrived.

Robert Newton Dies at Farmville

Farmville, Dec. 6—J. Robert Newton, aged 68, died at his home here Saturday evening at 8:45 as the result of a heart attack suffered on the previous Saturday morning.

Mr. Newton was apparently as well as usual when he retired Friday evening, having returned from a fishing trip but was taken ill in the early hours of the morning and had been in a critical condition since.

Funeral services were held from the residence Sunday afternoon at 3:00 by Rev. H. L. Hendricks, pastor of the Methodist Church and interment was made in Forest Hill cemetery.

Of a friendly, jovial nature, Mr. Newton had many friends in this community, where he was reared and spent practically the whole of his life. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

House, driving a mule and cart in the direction of Greenville, was killed almost instantly when the automobile occupied by Strickland crashed into the cart from the rear.

Strickland was immediately taken into custody and charged with operating an automobile in a reckless and careless manner while under the influence of whiskey.

He denied that he was driving the car at the time it struck the mule and cart, saying some other occupant of the machine was at the wheel at the time of the accident.

BIG SUM FOR LIBBY'S BABY

Negotiations Started for Settlement of the Smith Reynolds Estate.

Winston-Salem, Dec. 6—(AP)—Negotiations looking toward final settlement of the estate of the late Smith Reynolds, heir to the Reynolds tobacco millions, have been begun by attorneys for the Reynolds family and Libby Holman Reynolds, his widow.

Bennett Polkoff, Winston-Salem attorney, retained by Alfred Holman, Cincinnati lawyer, to represent Mrs. Reynolds when she was indicted for murder in connection with the death of her husband, announced today final settlement of the estate had been started.

Polkoff refused to disclose any figures or to say along what lines the settlement would be made. He said Holman came last week to confer with him. Final settlement is being arranged so that action may be taken as soon as "the baby comes."

Persons examining the will of the late R. J. Reynolds, founder of the $150,000,000 tobacco corporation that bears his name, and Mrs. R. J. Reynolds, parents of Smith Reynolds, have arrived at the conclusion that Libby's baby has a potential inheritance of $18,000,000.

Judge J. Paul Frizzelle Delivers Address and Administers Oath of Office as First Public Installation Ceremonies are Held Here.

County and township officers were formally inducted into office in impressive exercises at the court-house last night. The installation ceremonies were conducted under auspices of the local unit of the North Carolina Institute of Government which was organized prior to the induction of the public officials.

The oath of office was administered to the various officials, from constable to Clerk of Superior Court, by Judge J. Paul Frizzelle, of Snow Hill, resident judge of the Fifth Judicial District, who made a special trip to Greenville to take part in the exercises.

Similar induction ceremonies were held in virtually all other counties of the State, the first time in the history of the commonwealth that public officials have taken oath of office at the same time. The courtroom was well filled with people from various sections of the county interested in the plan of the Institute of Government to bring about greater efficiency in government through instruction of public officials to their duties of office.

M. K. Blount, former State Senator, explained the nature of the meeting, and was then elected temporary chairman. A committee composed of W. E. Hooks, chairman; F. C. Harding and E. G. Flanagan, was named to select an advisory committee for the Institute of Government here. At the suggestion of Mr. Harding, the committee deferred decision until a later date so that they might give more attention to the selection of the fourteen members.

Presented by Mr. Blount as one intensely interested in the administration of law, Judge Frizzelle summarized the objective of the Institute of Government, and declared the need for such an organization was very pronounced in every part of the State.

He said it was the aim of the organization not only to accomplish greater efficiency in the administration of government but to bring the citizenship and office-holders in closer personal contact with one another and give them a fuller understanding of the great problems at hand.

He asserted that plans of the Institute of Government were not only necessary for administration and preservation of the law, but that the machinery of government had become so complex until it completely challenges the thought of the most discriminatory citizen.

Speaking of the bringing of governmental experts to this State some time ago to make recommendations concerning administration Judge (Continued From Page One)

A staff of 35 doctors will assist Dr. Coffey and Dr. Humber in their work and included among them are pathologists, surgeons, radiologists, roentgenologists, bio-chemists, bacteriologists and experienced clinicians whose combined knowledge and skill will be applied to the problems of early and accurate diagnosis.

MAYOR ANNOUNCES FOR HIS THIRD TERM

Kinston, Dec. 6—James C. Dall, mayor here who has announced as a candidate for a third two-year term, will have less opposition in the spring balloting than politicians have anticipated, it appeared today. It was expected at least half a dozen men would seek the office, but Dall has the field to himself so far and only one or two possibilities are being mentioned. Democrats will nominate a candidate in April and formally elect him in May.

Dall has served the municipality as an alderman and mayor ten years. He has brought about several tax reductions during the past four years.

"We have opened in connection with our new research clinic a diagnostic clinic to learn more, to serve more and to relieve more people of suffering. The insidious nature of cancer makes it extremely difficult to detect its early stages. As one person out of every nine is afflicted with cancer in some form, there is great need for this diagnostic clinic to aid in the early discovery of the disease."

LEAF PRICES STILL STRONG

Market Holds High Average in Spite Of Large Offerings Of Scrap Tobacco.

Sales continued fairly heavy on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday and the report of K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales, indicated the market disposed of 280,532 pounds of leaf for $36,288.48 at an average of $12.94 per hundred pounds. It was estimated that there was around two hundred thousand pounds of leaf on the floors of the various warehouse today with indications that sales would be completed during the morning.

Owing to the fact the markets of the bright leaf belt are scheduled to close December 21, farmers have been called on to market the remainder of their crop as rapidly as possible. While the remainder of the crop consists mainly of common grades and scraps, a considerable amount of tobacco yet remains to be sold, and it will be necessary to speed up marketing if the crop is cleared up by the date set for the closing.

The program was in charge of Jasper Winslow, chairman of the rural-urban committee, and Rev. A. W. Fleishmann presided. John Clark and Johnnie Overton were in charge of the singing of club songs.

FRIZZELLE SPEAKS HERE

Judge of Fifth District Makes the Principal Talk at the Rotary Club.

Judge J. Paul Frizzelle, resident judge of the Fifth Judicial District, was the principal speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club here last night as the organization turned its attention to the observance of a rural-urban program.

Judge Frizzelle emphasized the need of closer co-operation between people of the rural districts and those of the towns and cities, and said this would play an important part in the future life of the nation as it has in the past.

He discussed citizenship and friendship showing that both are necessary to the well being and progress of both urban and rural life.

He called on his hearers to attempt to live closer to one another, to gain a better understanding of local state and national needs and act so that they might count more largely in individual life.

Rev. E. L. Hillman, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, spoke on the "Relationship of the County and Town," stressing the necessity of community effort in improvement of public life.

John Mitchell, cashier of State Bank, discussed "Finances of the Present and the Outlook for the Future." ## Measure Seeks Big Crop Loan For Next Year

Washington, Dec. 5.—Representative Lindsay Warren of North Carolina today introduced a bill in the House to authorize an appropriation of $50,000,000 for the purpose of crop production loans for the year 1933. It provides that the loans shall be made through the recently established agricultural credit corporations set up in the land bank districts and that a crop lien shall be deemed sufficient security for the loan.

Mr. Warren stated that Chairman Pomeroy of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had informed him that seed loans such as had been made during the last four years on crop liens would not be made by the credit corporations when the North Carolinian insisted that such was the intent of Congress.

Representative Warren stated he would vigorously push his measure as not within same a large section of the nation would be unable to even start a crop next year, and that such relief was more necessary now than ever.

Washington Daybook

Washington, Dec. 6.—(AP)—Pat Hurley, one of the principal campaigners in the presidential drive, who waged such a furious aerial campaign for the Hoover cause set down for us recently some amusing incidents that befell him during those weeks.

"Twice," says Secretary Pat—I got really scared. And both times it was while I was winging my way to St. Louis.

The first time a severe head wind made going impossible for the secretary's plane. He was forced to land in a cabbage patch until the weather conditions were better. The second time was another forced landing near Trenton, Ill., at night.

"Cous" (C. W. Cousland, his pilot) said he had to come down for gas." Hurley related his eyes twinkling and a broad grin on his face. "And down we came."

"We landed in a abandoned field just outside Trenton not knowing exactly where we were. It wasn't long before we aroused a native and asked directions.

"This native proved himself to be not only a laconic sort of chap, but also one of the shrewdest prophets I have ever known. We didn't tell him who we were, merely said that we were en route from Washington to St. Louis.

"The mention of Washington set him off. On our way into Trenton for gas he expressed himself on everything from President Hoover on down.

"President Hoover's got some good men in his cabinet," he said. He mentioned Secretary Adams, Secretary Stimson and a few others.

"But this man Hurley, secretary of war. It's not dignified for him to ride around the country in an airplane as he does. Then, too, something might happen."

"Why just suppose he had been in that plane of your's tonight."

Hurley said he let him talk on until they reached Trenton. He helped them get the gasoline and directed them to a hotel where they might spend the night. As they bade him good night, Hurley thanked him, gave him his card and disappeared.

"The next morning our friend was outside the hotel waiting for us. He looked a bit embarrassed, but I put him at his ease. I valued his criticism of me the night before, too, highly.

"Well, I hear from that old fellow all the time. He writes me letters giving his views on certain things. And they're good, too. He's one of the wisest old codgers I have met, and odd pieces. ## Scanning NEW BOOKS

By JOHN SELBY

New John, Dec. 6.—It is almost sufficient to say that John Erskine has been "at it a'm" to explain what his new "Tristan and Isolde" is like.

Erskine has been fortunate enough, after doing essays and other literary odd jobs, playing piano, lecturing and managing a music school, to find a formula for literary creation that seems infallible. Erskine takes a well-known legend, digs out all the odd slants he can touching it, and then retells it in a lightly sophisticated English that somehow makes it all seem quite fresh and bright.

In this case he puts a good deal of emphasis on there being two Isolde, and even more emphasis on the presence of Palamede in the story—Palamede having hitherto been rather slighted by historians, perhaps because, as Erskine suggests, he was too much of a gentleman, and a too keen Saracen as well.

Seven Stories

The seven pieces that make up Elizabeth Madox Roberts' "The Haunted Mirror" probably wouldn't sell to those magazines that pay high prices for tricky variations of the standard plots, highly glazed with young love. Mrs. Roberts' pieces have scarcely any plot at all. Mrs. Roberts, indeed, probably does not believe much in plots.

But she can bring people to life, even in a brief story of 25 pages. More, she can make her readers live with her characters—breathe with them, and she their fears and their brief joys. One feels the ivy about the feet of Newt in "On the Mountainside," and the mysterious tenderness of young novices taking their vows in "The Sacrifice of the Maidens."

Probably the editor of a mythical "Gentleman's Fireside Bazaar" would find the stories treas— but the literate will not.

General in Epaulets

Some 690 pages have been filled with the life and doings of William Tecumseh Sherman by Lloyd Williams in the interstices of his career as a Chicago dramatic critic. Lewis has not only gathered in every incident of significance in the career of the red-haired general, but he has painted firmly and in lasting pigment the general's times, his associates, his forebears, and his family.

In so ambitious a work factual exactness is for some reason always taken for granted—and dullness, too. This is the exception to the last part of the statement. "Sherman, Fighting Prophet," reads brightly, and easily.

Facts, too, have concerned Hudson Strode, who meets the Bermuda craze halfway with a handsome book on that favored colony. Mr. Strode tells the history of Bermuda, the habits of the natives, the possibilities for the visitor. He discusses architecture, sports, famous visitors flora and fauna and climate.

There is nothing he does not discuss, it seems, and what the text leaves out the seventy-five illustrations include. The book is the first to be bound in a curious new cloth that is made of fish scales and looks rather like the surface of a pearl.

By WILLIAM GAINES

New York, Dec. 6.—What would you want to do if you were a millionaire for a day in New York?

A movie company raises the question. Yes, in a publicity contest. The winner is offered a day in the big city with an entertainment schedule based on "a curious insight as to the popular conception of a millionaire's daily routine."

Paradoxically, the less one knows about New York, the easier it might be for him to make up his mind on how he would want to spend such a day here. The uninitiated one, from a distance, can count the lures of the city on the fingers of his hands and decide he'd prefer to do this, see that.

The more one knows of the city's infinite variety, the more of a problem for him to choose his fun under such condition. I'm sure that if some genii came along and dropped a bottomless purse in my lap, and told me I had the day off to go and do as I pleased, I would spend half of my day of days just sitting around trying to make up my mind.

Million Dollar Dream

Let's examine the movie company's schedule and see how it might suit us to follow it, since we're up in the air on a program of our own.

The day is started by "a breakfast in bed in a luxurious three-room suite of a popular hotel." So far so good. But, by the way, what time is breakfast? Don't you agree with me it's not a millionaire's day if we have to get up too early—even on a crowded day of days?

After being attended by a barber, manicurist and masseur, we are helped to dress "by the English valet or the French maid."

Next comes a ride in an extravagant motor car to a Westchester country club, then a short cruise on a private yacht, and "the temporary millionaire will motor to city hall to meet the mayor."

Now we certainly hold nothing personal against Mayor McKee, but don't you think we could be just as happy without going to city hall? Surely the mayor's feelings wouldn't be hurt.

Anyway, there follows a shopping tour along Fifth Avenue and lunch at a Park Avenue hostelry. Lunch Lunch at last! We were beginning to get mighty hungry. And, by the way, what time is it already?

The afternoon is filled with a matinee, climbing the Empire State tower, visiting back-stage folk and dressing for dinner "with the expert assistance of valet or maid."

Then there's a jaunt through Central Park "in a coach and four" (four what? Surely there are not four horses left?), dinner, the theater again, a visit to a radio broadcasting station, an after-theater supper in Central Park, a round of night clubs in the Village and Harlem and—at 3 a. m., to bed."

Prize For Prize Givers

For my part, I've decided I don't want to try such a day. But I will do this. To add to the impressiveness of the contest, I offer to turn over to the movie company one share of stock in another movie company (provided it is not above $2 1/2 cents on the exchange) if the visiting "millionaire" is steered through that schedule by 3 a. m.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED WHILE HANDLING PISTOL

Tarboro, Dec. 6.—Ben Price, Jr., whose father superintends the Penhurst farm near this city, was accidentally killed about 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when a pistol which he was handling was accidentally discharged.

The boy was at the Bourne farm, a few miles from his home, when the accident occurred. Immediately after he was shot he was brought here to a hospital, but died shortly after arriving here. The ball entered his left arm and went into his neck.

The funeral services was held this afternoon and burial was in the Price burial ground.

NO 'DIM-WIT' NEED APPLY FOR QUARTERBACK JOB

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Any "Sunday Morning Quarterback" who says to tell Bernie Masterson that a dim-wit can run a football team had better be an expert dueler.

"Big Bernie" had the quarterback of the Nebraska Cornhuskers thrust upon him this season, and he confesses he has had to burn plenty of midnight petroleum to keep abreast of studies and at the same time remember all the grid strategy a quarterback is supposed to keep at tongue's tip.

Just before the game with the University of Pittsburgh, in which the Huskers gained a surprising 9-0 tie, Coach Dana X. Bible handed Bernie four sheets on which were typed 56, "musts and don'ts," 14 exceptions, and 19 other suggestions—by actual count!

STATE BEGINS SECOND WEEK OF CAGE PLAY

Raleigh, Dec. 6.—State College opened its second week of basketball training yesterday afternoon.

Coach Ray R. Sermon stepped up on the work pointing the Red Terror to the opening game with Atlantic Christian in Frank Thompson gymnasium on December 15.

A number of regulation scrimmage drills are expected to be held this week. Coach Sermon has already put the players through several short action skirmishes but most of the work so far has consisted of fundamentals.

Included in the membership of this year's squad are a number of sophomores of last winter's yearling championship team and two stars of the 1931 yearling quint who were not in school last year. Coach Sermon expects these men to play a big part in this winter's hardwood campaign and for this reason has spent considerable time drilling the players in the important fundamentals of the Meanwell system used at State.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

Ernie Smith, Southern California giant tackle, who has the united backing of the coast contingent for All-America honors, "is a senior, taking an economic major and a product of Gardena High," according to our Mr. Paul Zimmerman, who adds:

"He plays in a dance orchestra to earn money for his college course, being a trombone player of considerable merit; just missed being a jazz singer, frequently gets down the field a tackle under his own kicks and is the biggest man on Trojans squad, standing 6 feet 3 inches and weighing 215."

Captain Johnny Vaught, Texas Christian Johnny Vaught, Texas Christian guard, and Harrison Stafford, University of Texas halfback, have captured the eye of the Southwest critics, who nominate both for the All-America scramble. On a team that was being whipped by two touchdowns against T. C. U. Stafford stood out as a blocker, runner and pass-smasher. Vaught and Madison Pruitt, at end, are key men in one of the most powerful lines in the entire country. At full strength the Texas Christian forwards did not yield a touchdown in nine games and the team had only 17 points scored against it altogether.

Many Great Linemen
Generally the ball-toters are first to be heard about, but our Rocky Mountain scouts nominate Guy Martin, 200-pound Colorado College guard, for first consideration, along with Captain Frank Christensen 195-pound University of Utah fullback.
Martin, besides his fine defensive work, was the principal offensive factor in three upset victories accounted for by the Tigers, due to his ability as a placement goal kicker. Christensen, a real triple threat, and Jack Johnson, steer-wrestler and tackle, are the key men in the championship Utah outfit.

"There is one boy that a great many writers are missing," writes Major Ralph Sasase, Army's head coach. "Next to King of the Army I believe he is the best end we have seen play in a long time, namely, Myers of North Dakota State. So often I feel that some of the outlying institutions are neglected and I know, or believe I know, an end when I see one."

Boost For Ely
The reports on Lawrence Ely, Nebraska's center, characterize him as "by far the best lineman at Nebraska since the days of Ed Wehr. He has two of the qualities that made Wehr great, the ability to size up the play and know where it was coming and the speed to shift to meet it and break it up. Weighing 195 pounds, and 6 feet 1 inch tall, he has all the power and speed for the ideal lineman."

This dispatch concerning Tulane's great Don Zimmerman is from Atlanta and not, as might have been suspected, from New Orleans; "Zimmerman has had his greatest season. Almost single-handed he tied Vanderbilt and beat Tech, Kentucky and South Carolina. His marvelous ball-carrying did it. He is the super-back of all times in Dixie."

McLAWHORN IS ELECTED HEAD COUNTY BOARD

S. I. Dudley of Greenville township, who was re-elected. Other members of the board are: R. H. McLawn, J. N. Williams, W. J. Smith and R. T. Cox.

As the old board completes its business, J. T. Clifton, who for the past two years has served as county auditor, tendered his resignation to Chairman H. V. Stator.

Members of the old board expressed regret over the action of Mr. Clifton. T. E. Joyner of Farmville, acted as the principal spokesman for the board and praised the retiring auditor for the high type of service which he had rendered the county. He was joined by Chairman Stator.

PITT OFFICERS TAKE OATH AS UNIT OF THE INSTITUTE OF GOVERNMENT IS FORMED

Frizzelle said this would not have been necessary had our public officers had a more complete grasp of the problems confronting them.

He declared the government depends on the efficiency, and thought the school of instruction conducted through the Institute of Government would do much toward giving to the State greater efficiency through better trained public officers.

D. M. Clark, Solicitor of the Fifth Judicial District, expressed his appreciation of the effort to the Institute of Government to produce higher type of officials. He warned his hearers against a band of safe-crackers operating in Jones County and told them to use every precaution against loss in this community from a similar cause.

Mrs. J. B. Spillman described the Institute of Government as a practical and far-reaching movement which should help officers live up to their obligations to the people.

Officers inducted were: S. A. Whitehurst, sheriff; J. C. Gaskins, register of deeds; A. T. Moore, treasurer.

BANKERS WILL FETE GROWERS

Pitt county, with more Grade A farmers than any other county in the state, will present 17 farmers for certificates, making the county's total thirty.

DEPOSITORS IN BANKS TO RECEIVE $140,000

Wilson, Dec. 6.—The National Bank of Wilson on December 15, 1932, instead of January 15, 1933, will pay $140,000 money due depositors in the old First National Bank and the Wilson Trust and Savings Bank.
The next payments on the accounts of depositors in force when the banks closed, will be next July. The banks have paid to its depositors on the opening date $200,000 of old deposits which represented secured and unsecured claims.
The officials of the Wilson National Bank are being congratulated on their enterprise and effort in making this money available to depositors and the community before the date previously announced, which was January 16, 1933.

ECONOMY PROGRAM LAUNCHED WITH BANG

Shelby, Dec. 6.—Cleveland County's new board inaugurated its economy program with a bang just after taking office here today.
All county salaries were cut to the extent of bringing about a saving of approximately $5,000. Two county offices, those of the farm agent, were abolished by the withdrawal of appropriations, the appropriation for clerical help for the Superior Court clerk was also withdrawn, and other salaries cut 10 per cent or more.

PIERCE MADE PITT AX HEAD

The board also deferred the advertising of 1931 delinquent taxes indefinitely. The old board had previously ordered the clerk to proceed with advertising.
The matter of electing a successor to J. Thomas Clifton, who resigned as auditor yesterday, was expected to be definitely disposed of this afternoon.

Stock Market

New York, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The stock market today quickly recovered the setback suffered in the previous session but buying interest waned at the highest level and the list eased somewhat.

After rushing up in the first hour the trend of the market flattened out and trading again slackened to a snail's pace.

Issues rising about two to three points included American Telephone, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco, Case and Johns Manville, while issues dropping two or more included U. S. Steel, United Aircraft.

General Electric, ordinarily firm, yesterday rose a fraction but seemed to turn into selling around 15. International Telephone dipped a point, reflecting difficulties.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

played relief insurance demands, were released.
Police guards around both houses. Scant attention was paid to the president's message. Conversation was general in the house and rose to a point that it drowned out the reading clerk's voice. A few members possessed ready printed copies which were distributed.
No applause was made until the end of the message, when some republicans clapped.
After the reading of the message Sen. Long made his first speech, observing that while Roosevelt was elected on the issue of calling for decentralization of wealth, there seemed to be in Mr. Hoover's message very little effort to roll along in a quiet way.

Leaving For New York

Warm Springs, Ga., Dec. 6.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt rounded out his last day at Warm Springs today by receiving two delegations of young Democrats including Tyre Taylor of Raleigh, N. C. and Mrs. Jaynor Scott of Greensboro.
The young Democrats came from a meeting of the national committee of that organization in Atlanta to pledge co-operation in carrying out the program of the President-elect.

Senator Bratton of New Mexico came to discuss legislative actions and expected to go to Washington with Roosevelt. Mr. Roosevelt will leave late today for New York.

Bulley Tobacco Market Opens

Greenville, Tenn., Dec. 6.—(AP)—With 6,000 growers attending from Tennessee, North Carolina and Virginia, the Southern Appalachian bulley tobacco market season opened here today with an average of between 13 and 14 cents a pound.
Prices ranged from 5 to 25 cents a pound, although a few baskets of trashy tobacco sold as low as 2 cents.

Ehringhaus Leads Vote

Raleigh, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The state board of canvassers today announced that J. C. B. Ehringhaus led the state vote in the general election on November 8th, receiving 61 more votes than Franklin D. Roosevelt, the president-elect.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBEIN COONS
Hollywood, Calif., Dec. 5.—"I'm not long for this world," announced Robert Montgomery smilingly, attacking a hearty slice of apple pie which had been preceded by two chicken sandwiches and a bottle of milk, his noontime snack.

The remark had application not only to any disastrous results that might be expected from his speedy surrounding of the repast, but to the world that is Hollywood and its studios—and a world, Montgomery said, that is flat if not unprofitable.

After four years in pictures, the last two as a star or co-star with M-G-M, Montgomery wants to get back to the stage, the scone the better.

"You may not believe it," he said, "but I'm actually hoping my contract won't be renewed next option time. In fact, I'm praying it won't."

SHU! Has His Grin

The well-known Montgomery grin was there as he talked about his objections to pictures, making it apparent he isn't losing his sense of humor.

"I can find what I want on the stage," he said, "and I don't think I ever shall in pictures."

Helen Hayes has a plan to offer Bob with herself in a New York production or two in the spring and Montgomery is banking his hopes on the fruition of the scheme. His part in it will depend on a vacation from the studio and its permission.

Only One Lon Chaney

Incidentally, Montgomery told me an anecdote he plans to relay to Frederic March, academy award winner, at the first opportunity.

A chatty manicurist on the home-ward boat from Honolulu, where Montgomery was on location for his current "Pieboats," was telling him her preferences in pictures as she trimmed his nails.

"I don't see many films," she said, "but I'm critical. I saw 'Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde' the last time I was in 'Frisco. This Frederic March is good, all right—but I don't think anybody'll ever take Lon Chaney's place!"
