DRASTIC REDUCTION MADE IN NATION'S BUDGET

President Hoover Seeks Rigid Economies In His Annual Budget Message

SALARY CUTS RECOMMENDED TO CONGRESS

Manufacturers Excise Tax of 2 1-4, Retention of Gasoline Tax, Additional 11 Per Cent Cut in Government Salaries, and big Slash of Veterans Benefits Proposed to Congress Today; No Mention Made to Legalization of Beer.

(By The Associated Press) Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—(AP)—President Hoover presented to Congress today a drastically reduced budget, recommending a 2 1-4 manufacturers' excise tax, retention of the gasoline tax, rigid economies including an additional 11 per cent cut in government salaries, and a big slash in veterans' benefits.

He asked for total appropriations of $4,218,808,344, saying net expenditures would total $3,256,900 against receipts of $2,948,162,713—leaving a deficit of $307,192,187. It was to offset this that the new taxation was proposed.

No mention of war debts was made in the entire Presidential message, but the report of the Secretary of the Treasury, sent to Congress simultaneously, disclosed that payments due from foreign nations had been included in striking the government's balance.

Neither did Mr. Hoover make any mention of legalization of beer. Estimated internal revenue collections included no figure from this source.

The President estimated the present fiscal year would end next June with a deficit of $1,146,478,307, expenditures being $13,770,735,000 and estimated receipts $2,624,256,693. Of this deficit, he said:

"Such a situation can not be continued without disaster to the Federal finances. . . . I can not too strongly urge that every effort be made to limit expenditures and avoid additional obligations not only in the interest of the already heavily burdened taxpayer but in the interest of the very integrity of the finances of the Federal Government."

In his veterans' economy proposal the President defied those clamoring for bonus payments and maintenance of present benefits, by recommending to Congress legislation which would strip $127,000,000 worth of pensions, compensation and allowances off the rolls. This would be done by limiting all benefits, except to ex-soldiers with claims based on active service at over 65, to persons with a net income, if single, of less than $1,500, and if married, of less than $3,500. Wholesale re-examination of those now on the rolls would be followed by removal at the end of six months or ninety days, depending on category, of all not qualifying under the new terms.

Many specific forms of benefit would be reduced, including compensation to veterans receiving hospitalization, and stringent administrative regulation would limit further additions to the rolls:

To cover his proposals for new tax and economy legislation the President in his message departed from custom, gave a list of appropriations as recommended in the budget himself, and flanked it with his own further reduced figures. Without his veterans and pay cut savings, estimated reductions in expenditures totalled $397,553,900. With these included, $581,923,000 was trimmed below the actual appropriations for the current fiscal year.

The new tax proposed by the President—especially the same manufacturers sale tax advocated in Congress last year but extended to include everything except food at a flat 2 1-4 rate—was estimated to yield $355,000,000. Continuance of the one-cent tax on gasoline—which unless re-enacted would end next June—was estimated to produce $137,000,000. The total of $492,000,000 would cover the estimated deficit

BOARD DEFERS ELECTION OF PITT AUDITOR

Other Departments of Government Come in Reach of Economy Paring Knife

The election of an auditor to succeed J. Thomas Clifton who resigned last Monday was deferred until January by the new Board of County Commissioners here yesterday. Clifton, who resigned before the old board of commissioners retired Monday afternoon, asked that his resignation become effective January 1, so that he would be able to return to his duties as public accountant which he gave up about two years ago to become the county's auditor.

After slashing the expenses of several departments, the board deferred action on the farm department, health office, home demonstration department and auditor's office. It was understood that the economy paring knife would reach into every county office before the reduction program has been completed.

MILLS MAKES HIS REPORT

Secretary Tells How the National Income Faded Away in 1930 and 1931.

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—How the income of the nation's taxpayers faded away in 1930 and 1931 swiftly wiping out the government's chief source of revenue and making new taxes mandatory was explained to Congress today in the annual report of Secretary Mills.

The Secretary gave statistics showing that the class of taxpayers who produced ninety-seven per cent of the income tax had sharply diminished. The class is that with incomes of ten thousand dollars or above. In 1928 there were 15,780 taxpayers who had incomes of a hundred thousand dollars or more, while in 1930 there were 6,152 and in 1931 this had dropped to 3,142.

The number of taxpayers in 1931 having in comes of $5,000 or more, decreased 27.1 per cent from 1930. The taxes dropped 49.4 per cent from $56,120 persons paying $233,933,000. The greatest drop was in the $100,000 or more class, which yielded $197,896,000 as compared with $137,716,000 the year previous.

The Secretary said the net income of persons reporting $5,000 or more had dropped from $16,299,000,000 in 1928 to $10,999,000,000 in 1930 and to $9,489,000,000 in 1931.

Income from the sales of real estate stock, etc., dropped from $1,843,000,000 in 1928 to $350,000,000 in 1930 and to $166,000,000 in 1931, while losses deducted increased from $170,000,000 in 1928 to $978,000,000 in 1930 and to $989,000,000 in 1931.

Waiter Huston, stage and screen actor, formerly was superintendent of the municipal pumping station at St. Louis.

Late News Flashes

Advocate Beer For Taxation. Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Witnesses for brewers depicted beer as a bringer of good tidings for business and the federal treasury in the opening of testimony before the House ways and means committee today on the Collier bill.

Advocating a brew of four per cent alcohol by volume, Levy Cooke of Washington and R. A. Huber of St. Louis on behalf of the U. S. Brewers Association estimated a $5 per barrel tax would enrich the treasury $330,945,000 a year.

Addressing the power committee but turning now and again to the audience, Huber said the beer he supported could be sold for nine cents a bottle and legislation would cause $360,000,000 to be spent to rehabilitate brewers and 300,000 would be given work.

With the present brewing capacity at 15,000,000 barrels annually, he said forty million barrels capacity would be needed before long.

CONGRESS IS ASKED TO ACT ON PROPOSAL

Multi-Pronged Program Assigned to the Congress in Special Report Today; Effective System of Regulating Commodity Prices Sold By Farm Board And Public Suggested; New Power is Requested.

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Congressional action to increase the income of the American farmer by elevating the general level of agricultural prices to par with those of other commodities, was advocated today by the Farm Board.

The multi-pronged program is assigned to Congress in a special report on legislative recommendations which said the board stabilization operations were powerless to achieve this end.

No hint as to the board's ideas on the form of such legislation was given except that "the process should pay the cost on a continuous self-sustaining basis and provide an effective system of regulating products sold both by the board and the public."

The board also urged that it be authorized through a compromise debt now owed by farm co-operative associations be provided, either with additional money for use of the co-operative movement or empower it to borrow its own bond or debentures for the purpose.

Net assets of the board's $50,000, revolving fund were placed at $140,000,000 when all outstanding loans were appraised on a conservative basis.

"Except for the necessity of setting aside $43,000,000 to cover the board's equity in wheat and cotton returned over to the Red Cross," the report said, "the present value of the revolving fund would be $183,000,000. These amounts are left after deducting all losses on account of stabilization operations and the setting aside of a liberal reserve against the possibility of losses on loans now outstanding to co-operative associations.

ABOUT TOWN

President Hoover is for further reduction of the salaries of federal employees.

The suggestion comes at a time when the administration is about to change hands and will affect members of the Democratic party who will go into power within the next year.

It is hardly understandable why the President did not see the necessity for these slashes two years ago. Had he adopted such a program of economy earlier such of the deficit which the nation is now carrying would be removed.

However, it is gratifying to note that something definite has at last been done to reduce expenses. It is late but nevertheless effective if Congress sees fit to go by the suggestions of the President.

The organization of the Pitt county unit of the North Carolina Institute of Government shows this county is in line with anything looking to improving conditions of government.

Through instruction of the Institute, public officials will be acquainted with the responsibilities resting upon them and will be better to administer the offices to which they have been elected.

The training of people in the conduct of government is necessary in these days of complex administration. The work of the Institute of Government should be far-reaching and effective.

The sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals has started here and from now until the holiday season the people will be called upon to buy freely of the little seals.

Money derived from this source will be devoted to tuberculosis sufferers in this state, and it should be the purpose of the public to buy as many as possible and in that way help provide for suffering humanity.

Cases will be conducted by the Women's Club and everybody will be given an opportunity of buying. The club in past years has been able to raise considerable money for this cause and this year will be no exception. We have to have seals for our Christmas packages and letters and why not buy the kind that count for the relief of suffering mankind?

Days are elated over their victory in the House on the prohibition question and probably will continue to push their plans to prevent actions looking to repeal of the 18th amendment.

Both the Democrats and many Republicans committed to repeal the battle at the next session of Congress promises to be one of the most colorful ever seen in Washington and the outcome is problematical in view of the close shave which the measure had in the House the opening day.

Some thing an amendment to the prohibition question would improve the social and financial life of the nation while others are committed to another school of thought and there are arguments on both sides. The members of Congress might as well make up their minds to face the issue squarely and vote according to what they think is right.

A PATH TO PARADISE

SYNOPSIS: Dicky's willingness to be "reformed" by Santa, his former wife, becomes obnoxious and Clive, his successor, flings him into the hall. Dicky's friend Lou-Lou telephones thanks to Clive for the beating, and when Santa learns that Clive and Lou-Lou have conspired to rid her of Dicky she realizes that back of Clive's great love for her, there is a strong will.

Chapter 45 SANTA TAKES A RIDE

Next morning, when Clive had departed for business, Santa lay in bed pondering. He'd been sweet, but she knew now that the velvet scabbard concealed a sword of cutting keenness. She would never again dare to take chances with him. It had been scenes like the quarrel of last night that had broken up her first marriage.

Lazily she began to dress, flitting with her reflection. Of her physical self she approved heartily—haunting eyes, snowy limbs, daring slowness. If it were not for her gimcrack mind, she could pass for a saint or the Venus de Milo. Speech betrayed her. Clothes misrepresented her.

The vision of her beauty restored her confidence till she felt to analyze its elements. One third of her appearance was the money she spent on it; the second third was youth and health; only the remaining third was due to features.

She might lose her money. So natural an indictment as the birth of a child could snatch her youth and health from her. If she relied on her physical exquisiteness to retain her hold on Clive, she would become like her mother, a dyed-headed clothes prop, hanging on to a husband whom she had educated to despise her.

"I'll never do that to Clive." Then a proud thought struck her. "Could not. He wouldn't let me. Clive's not Daddy."

He certainly wasn't. To have Dicky off his chest, he'd had the nerve to conspire with Lou-Lou.

"I'll have to watch my p's and q's."

Purged by her fright, sanctified and demure, she sallied forth. The elevator boy smirked at her.

"That gentleman your husband tossed out has been here inquiring for you."

"What gentleman?" she bridled. "The plump one who carries a cane and wears spats. Your husband gave orders that he wasn't to be admitted."

"O, that gentleman who used to visit my husband!" She feigned indifference.

"I was only putting you wise," the boy apologized.

She frowned out and left him gaping. How many observers had regarded Dicky as her lover? As she hovered on the steps above the avenue she shivered in the chill February air.

A taxi stationed against the pavement caught her eye. She dived for it and was on the point of entering when a hand seized her wrist and jerked her inside.

"Don't make a fuss," a voice warned her.

She struggled to retreat, but the taxi started.

"You beast! When Clive hears about this—"

"He won't. You'll never dare tell him."

"It's the trick of a gangster," her breath came sobbingly.

"An act of Providence. I was lying in ambush, hoping that I might catch sight of you. Your walking bang in on me was pure luck. He still kept tight hold of her wrist. "Sit back and relax. If you don't behave naturally, the driver will become suspicious."

She thought quickly. Virtue demanded that she should scream and produce a scandal. Dicky would be arrested. Headlines in the papers. Police court proceedings. The prisoner's defence would be that she had led him on. The elevator boy, who believed that he was her lover, would probably testify against her.

Public sympathy would swing to Dicky. Whatever his punishment, her reputation would be blackened. All Clive's protests would be justified. She'd have made a boob of him and advertised it. The best way to master Dicky was to show no fear of him.

"What's the idea of this comic interview?" She spoke contemptuously.

"That I refuse to give you up."

"Are you sane? How can you give up anyone who doesn't belong to you?"

That Gift Problem Solved

Presents With A Personal Touch Are Easy To Make This Year For Material Are Ready—Novelties Fill Shops

By SIGRID ARNE
Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—The Christmas gift problem is simpler than ever this year.

For the woman who buys all her presents the stores are filled with new and novel things suitable to give any member of the family or friend. Or for the woman who wants to make a few remembrances for close friends there are plenty of materials that may be purchased and made into presents easily. The gift-makers apparently have given extra thought this year to the home-made present.

Petit-point embroidery is engaging, many Washington women this year. Most of the embroideries are giving their friends seat and foot-stool covers for chairs which they have stolen in to measure at odd times. These gifts are easy to make since the stores have hundreds of patterns some of them with the central figure—the hardest work—done. The background could be finished even in the short time left.

One Washington woman is covering forty-eight ordinary match boxes with bright paper. All it takes is the paper, match boxes, a glue-pot and some patience. Measure the box and with a pencil and ruler lay out the pieces of paper that will be needed. Then cut them and paste them on. The boxes add an attractive touch to the bridge table of the lucky person who receives such a gift.

The young woman who does a good deal of entertaining may be happy to receive a mailie bag to hang on her dressing table, filled with tiny powder puffs made of cotton tied with bright ribbons. And her guests will like using them.

The fortunate woman who can turn delicious fruit cakes out of her oven should be busy right now, particularly if she has any hurried apartment house dwellers on her list. It's a simple matter to buy the ingredients and make the cakes which last for months.

Then there are always hooked rugs. Dozens of Washington women are busily "punching" away at burlap these last few weeks in order to give away these bright, soft rugs. And this year they are not content with just making a hooked rug. They are making raised flower and leaf patterns. Burlap stamped with patterns and yarn can be purchased readily for the rugs.

Of course, there will always be mothers who help out Santa Claus by making the favorite doll a new wardrobe of clothes. Fortunately this year there are sets of patterns for several garments in one envelope.

The old trick of pulling colored threads through handkerchief squares is being borrowed this year by a group that is making woolen scarfs. A rough, plain-colored woolen is bought, cut into scarf lengths and then the ends are frayed. Colored woolen threads are pulled through for bright stripe or plaid patterns.

SARGON SOFT MASS PILLS ARE THE IDEAL LAXATIVE FOR OLD FOLKS. THEY ARE MILD AND GENTLE, YET THOROUGH IN ACTION.
Unlike ordinary cathartics Sargon Soft Mass Pills do not shock or upset the system. They do their work by gently stimulating the liver to cleanse itself by increasing its production of bile—a, more natural and thorough laxative than can ever be devised by man.
Sargon Soft Mass Pills are not like any laxative you have ever taken. WOMAN'S COUNCIL CHRISTIAN CHURCH MEETS

On Tuesday night Circle No. 3 of the Woman's Council of the Christian Church held its last meeting of the year in the basement of the church.

The business session, presided over by the chairman, Mrs. L. B. Fleming, showed fine reports from the various departments, visits made to the sick reaching into the hundreds, a generous amount of money contributed to charitable and other needy purposes.

The program opened with songs and readings by the members of the group followed by a talk by Mr. W. A. Lillycrop, rector of the Episcopal Church, taking for his theme, "What I Would Wish For You." He pictured the life of a Christian. His message so simple, so earnest, in its appeal went straight to the hearts of everyone present.

During the singing of the last hymn, a table was piled high with packages in cheery Christmas wrappings to be sent to the Children's Home in Atlanta, Ga., showing the spirit of love and good fellowship of Circle No. 3 which prevails not only at the Christmas season but throughout the whole year.

RESOLUTIONS
Whereas on October 15, 1932, it pleased Almighty God in His infinite wisdom to transfer to her heavenly home our fellow member and co-worker, Mrs. J. H. Boyd, a woman whose gentleness and sweet spirit will keep her memory alive in the hearts of all, therefore be it resolved:

That the Patient Circle of the King's Daughters has suffered a vital loss in being deprived of her unfailing interest and loyalty which was at all times helpful and inspiring.

That we record our gratitude to God for permitting us to enjoy her companionship;

That we remember and try to emulate her Christ-like graces, especially her submissive acceptance of God's will for her throughout the years of her life.

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to each member of her family, that a copy be sent to The Daily Reflector, and that a copy be filed with the minutes of the King's Daughters.

SANTA and the MAGIC DOLL

by SIGRID ARNE
SYNOPSIS: A lazy Gnome sentenced to make Toyland's most beautiful doll obtains the aid of the Snow Princess and fashions a doll named Inga. Santa imposed the sentence because the Gnome had made Pinochio an ugly clown.

Chapter 3
INGA MEETS SANTA
The Gnome was a little afraid that Santa wouldn't think his doll so beautiful. So he hid her outside and went into the Toyshop to announce that he was ready to show what he had made.

"Bring her in, bring her in," Santa said. "I'll collect all the dolls and fairies. We'll let them decide."

When all the people of Toyland had gathered under the huge Christmas tree in the center of the workshop the Gnome led in the beautiful Inga. She didn't know why they were all there, but it was such a gay looking company that she burst into the prettiest smile and made a low curtsy to them.

"Hoorah!" shouted the Tin Soldiers "the Gnome wins."
"Hoorah!" shouted the other dolls. "Toot-toot!" blared the horns and Santa had to cover up his ears. There was so much noise.

And all the while, poor little Pinochio was standing in a corner, saying to himself: "Just look what a beautiful doll that Gnome can make, and to think he made me as ugly as I am."

He looked so solemn that Inga noticed him and she wanted to make him happy. She walked over to him and took his hand, saying "I know who you are. You can make people happy when all the rest of us fail!"

Pinochio was so embarrassed at being noticed that he turned quite red and traced a pattern on the floor with the point of one of his shoes.

"Hoorah for Pinochio," shouted the soldiers.
"Do a dance," cried the dolls. So the little clown swung into one of those loose-jointed dances of his until it looked as though he'd lose an arm or a leg, and the whole toy shop rocked with laughter.

Inga smiled but she didn't laugh. Maybe it was because the Snow Princess had helped make her. She seemed to see a little farther into the hearts of the toys around her. Dolls have hearts, you know.

Inga knew that Pinochio was dancing because the dolls liked to see him, but she also knew that underneath his funny red and yellow suit he felt like crying.

So while he danced she wove a little tiny wreath of mistletoe leaves and when he finished she put them around his head, and said "This is for the King of Good Hearts." And Pinochio, like the true gentleman, fell on his hands and kissed her head, just like a Knight.

All the dolls thought it was very pretty, but Santa's face softened and became very kind because he understood what Inga was thinking. "The Gnome has done very well," he said. "Inga will be our queen."

So everyone was happy, and the Gnome was happiest of all because it meant that he was not to be banished to the Ice Kingdom.

Inga was given a little white throne at one end of the long Toyshop and there she smiled down on all the rest, with Pinochio sitting at her feet telling her funny stories. (Tomorrow: The Witch)

In the absence of the committee, Mrs. McArthur reported some improvements made on the campus—some trees had been pulled up, others planted; also some of the tall shrubs near the windows had been removed.
A motion was made and carried that only parents be allowed to vote in the attendance contest.
After a few announcements the program committee took charge, presenting the following: Solo—"Home on the Ranch," by Yvonne James, and a play, "How to Train Children," showing the contrast of methods between old fashioned and modern mothers, given by two groups of mothers. The closing number was a solo "No Place Like Home" by Mr. Fred Broadwell.
The eleventh grade won the attendance prize. The large number of parents showed the hearty cooperation given the school.

Beware the Cough or Cold that Hangs On
Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified crocote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
Of all known drugs, crocote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to crocote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the crocote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.
Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

MILLARD HOWELL NEW STAR IN ALABAMA FOOTBALL SKY

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Just as "Hurry" Cain first attracted notice at Alabama as a sophomore, so Millard Howell, playing his first year on the varsity for the Crimson Tide, has begun to see his name in the headlines.

Howell promises to become a great back for the Tide. Already he is good at punting, passing, tackling, blocking and carrying the ball. He has a partner on one of the ends, Donald Hutson, who is adept at catching passes, and the "Howell to Hutson" pass was frequently heard this year.

If the youngsters continue to develop, the next two years will see Alabama with a fine passing attack.
