McCoin Seen in Ohio
Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The theory that R. S. McCain, 60-year-old missing lawyer of Henderson, was slain by robbers, was exploded here today when police announced the former State Senator was in Columbus the night of December 24.

Thomas Scully, assistant chief of Columbus detectives, said a police picture of McCain had been identified positively as that of a man who placed a car in a garage here Christmas Eve.

Scully said the identification was made by a man who talked with McCain at the garage.

He said that the man who identified the photograph also gave a description of the clothing he wore, which tallied with that of North Carolina authorities.

BERRY TO FACE HEARING HERE LATE TODAY

Another Man Believed Connected With Fountain Robbery To Be Questioned

Joe Berry of Raleigh, arrested by Goldsboro officers at Princeton several days ago for the robbery of a Texas Oil plant at Kingston and the theft of an automobile from New Bern, was brought to Greenville late yesterday afternoon to face preliminary hearing in connection with the attempted robbery of the Bank of Fountain on the night of Dec. 15 in which J. O. Bryant, chief of police of Fountain, was shot through the leg.

Berry will be tried before Mayor Abner Eason of Fountain, here at 3 o'clock, and citizens of Fountain, who were said to have identified the car in which Berry was riding at the time of his capture as the one used in the unsuccessful Fountain robbery, will appear as witnesses.

Red Avery of Raleigh, known as "Scandalous Red," was being brought from Raleigh today to be questioned in connection with the robbery. He was picked up by officers in Raleigh last night at the suggestion of Sheriff Sam White, jurst, and citizens of the Princeton community will appear here sometime during the day to attempt to establish his identification as the man who escaped from the car in which Berry was captured.

Although officers said they had no direct evidence against Avery, he was thought to resemble in some respects the man who evaded capture at Princeton, and a grueling examination faced him upon his arrival here.

Berry has been held in the Wayne county jail at Goldsboro since his capture shortly before the Christmas holidays. The car in which he was riding when he was taken in a running gun fight with Goldsboro police, has been identified, officers stated, as that stolen from the home of Mrs. Florence Sutton at Kingston December 7. He is also believed to have been connected with the robbery of the Texas Oil plant at Kingston shortly afterward.

Authorities stated the car contained a considerable number of tools similar to those used by bank robbers, in addition to firearms. Bullet and shotgun holes found in the machine caused officers to believe it was operated by the same crowd taking part in the attempted robbery of the Fountain bank.

Five men shot it out with Policeman Bryant and three citizens when they were surprised at the Bank of Fountain on the night of December 15. Two members of the gang who were burning into the safe with acetylene torches were warned of the approach of the officers by two outposts, and after exchanging several shots with the officers jumped into a car parked near the bank in which a man was sitting at the wheel, and fled. Bryant was painfully but not seriously injured. It was believed at least two of the bandits were injured as the officers fired on the bar.

Berry and Avery, officers said, are from the same section of the country. Cove City, and for some time have been making their homes in Raleigh. They were said to have been seen in company with one another sometime before the robbery and Berry admitted knowing Avery.

It was hoped to bring out something definite at the hearing, although Berry has refused to divulge any information concerning the connection of other men with his alleged perations.

Canada And Russia to Swap Stock, Hides Oil And Anthracite Coal
The swapping of Canadian stock, hides and railway equipment for Russian oil petroleum products and anthracite coal was proposed. The Soviet government already has agreed, Canadian reports said, to exchange 7,000,000 worth of cattle about 100,000 head on hoof and 10,000 hides for gasoline and petroleum products.

The representative of an interested Canadian syndicate just returned from Moscow, was in Ottawa today to talk matters over with government officials.

CITY PREPARES FOR NEW YEAR GET NEW BOSS

Indications Point To Noisy Welcome Of Swaddling Infant Saturday Night
Following complete observances of the Christmas season, Greenville citizens today turned their attention to the coming of the new year next Sunday.

From all indications the infant year will be given a noisy welcome, probably more so than in years, by reason of the promise it holds for improvement in the economic realm.

Business houses have been busy all the week with inventories, and these were expected to be fully completed by Saturday, the last day of the old year, one of the most severe from an economic standpoint, in the history of the nation.

The old year, weak and suffering from a bad attack of ague as result of the imprecations heaped upon it by disappointed business men, will be blown out as usual by various whistles throughout the city, and it was believed this part of the celebration would be more extensive than ever before because of the "hard times" experienced by most of the people during the long and laborious three hundred and sixty-five days.

The city will turn its face hopeful to the incoming year. It will be celebrated by watch-night services in various churches of the city. In addition, there will be ringing of bells and tooting of horns as the citizenship goes about its business of extending a joyous welcome to the swaddling infant.

Although the new year always brings about many changes in the lives of individuals and industries, only a few were expected here this year. Indications were that changes in the business field would be as small probably as last year when only a few changes were recorded.

While nobody is anticipating any remarkable change in conditions the first of the year, leaders in the business and industrial fields are looking forward optimistically to a pronounced improvement during the middle and latter part of the year. This hope is based on resumption of operation of industries in various sections of the country and the general psychological upturn noted both in cities and rural districts.

There she saw her son's feet sticking from the top of the barrel of rain water. The child revived a short while after being pulled out.

PITT SCHOOLS OPEN MONDAY

Flu Epidemic Not Severe Enough Here To Disrupt School Work
The influenza epidemic is not severe enough in this county to cause prolongation of the holiday closing, Donald H. Conley, director of public instruction, said today, and all schools of the county system will resume work next Monday morning.

Mr. Conley stated that virtually all teachers who spent the holidays away from home had returned and would be present when schools resume work.

While there is some evidence of flu in various parts of the county, Mr. Conley said he did not think it serious enough to prevent the opening of the schools. Roads which were reported in bad condition in some of the rural districts preceding the holidays, were said to be much improved and no trouble was expected from this source.

Several schools in other sections of the state have been forced to suspend operation or to prolong their Christmas holiday season because of the flu epidemic, and while state health officials have warned against resumption of school work in sections seriously affected, the matter of closing in other territories was left to the discretion of public school officials.

STATE RIVERS ARE RECEDING

Streams That Went On Rampage Yesterday Reported Falling Today
Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 30.—North Carolina streams today were receding into their banks in the middle and upper sectors as a day and night of four rains was resisted, but lower reaches of the eastern rivers were still in flood. Turbulent waters of yesterday in Western Carolina had moved down into South Carolina.

Lee Denson, in charge of the U. S. Weather Bureau here, said more rain was the prediction for the State, but that no further flood conditions were expected unless the precipitation was heavy. The slight overflows have done little damage.

The upper stretches of the Cape Fear, Neuse and Tar Rivers were seen the water drop today, Denson said.

POLAND EXPANDS SEAWARD AS COAST GUARD MEASURE
Warsaw, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The limit of the Polish territorial waters in the Baltic has been pushed from the usual three mile line to six miles out.

This is expected to aid the war against smugglers who have been infesting the coast. At the same time it may keep some foreign eyes from casting too inquisitive a glance at the shore.

Maneuvers of the soviet fleet a few weeks ago on the three mile line, aroused some indignation in Poland.

Manteo, Dec. 30.—Surfman Ingalls Scarborough of Bodie Island Coast Guard station, met with an accident Saturday night that came near being serious when the brakes of his car failed to hold and he backed into the canal south of the causeway near the Nags Head bridge.

It's Up To Roosevelt
Mr. Roosevelt will have to take the initiative. The determining vote will be his, and what the opposition does will depend on what he does. He, more than any other man or group of men, will shape the outlines of the 1933 program of politics.

He must establish himself and his regime in Washington, commit his party to certain paths of policy, grapple with the gargantuan problem of patronage, decide what recognition he will give to the insurgent Republicans who supported him.

These first steps of his administration will be watched eagerly by the whole world. They will be highly important in the sense that all first impressions are important, but it is unlikely that they will be determining in the long run.

Whatever mistakes he may make, he will have time to mend, even before the Congressional elections of 1934. Whatever his initial triumphs, they easily can fade from the short memory of the voters before the polls open again.

BIG DECREASE AS COMPARED WITH '31 CROP

Agricultural Department Says Crop Production Is 3,500,000 Under Last Year; Foreign Production Shows Drop of 900,000 Bales Compared with Previous Year

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—(AP)—World cotton production for the 1932-933 season was estimated today by the Department of Agriculture at $24,000,000 bales, the smallest in five years. This is 200,000 below the December 8 estimate and 3,500,000 under last year.

Foreign production was estimated at 11,300,000 bales, which is 9,000,000 bales above last season and 600,000 below 1931.

Cotton textile mill activity in the United States and most of the important foreign countries was said to have been apparently maintained during November at improved levels reached a few months earlier.

Many companies have had some difficulty in disposing of their output and maintaining unfilled orders.

Cotton textile mills in the United States, the department said, continued to operate at high levels during November with the total cotton consumption the largest of any month since April, 1931-1932, although sales manufactured products were less than the output.

Holloran appeared at the courthouse and posted $3,000 bond. He was released pending preliminary hearing next Tuesday.

The charge against the lumberman was based on alleged attempt at concealment of the crime. He was not charged with implication in the slaying.

The penalty upon conviction would be five years in jail.

ABOUT TOWN

With the old year coming to a close, general business houses were busy today making inventories in preparation for the arrival of the infant new year.

The business on inventoring should not be confined alone to business houses, however, and it works very profitably in the case of individuals.

By looking back over what has been done the past year, men and women can tell what they have to carry over into the new year. If the past has not been what they would have it they can resort to resolutions. New Year resolutions usually hardly last until the dawn of the following day, but in cases where they are carried out they prove of great value to the individual.

The past year has been a hard one but this should not discourage those who have seen other years just as severe. The future for mental and physical development is just as bright today as it ever has been. The laborer who set themselves to the task of improvement will certainly be rewarded for their effort in character building if nothing else.

President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt is preparing to look over the financial situation of the government before tackling the monumental task of running the country.

In delving into the financial status of the nation, the New Yorker will find plenty of food for thought and the things he does to balance the budget will be viewed with interest by the public generally.

It is hoped through the continuation of gasoline tax to balance the budget. Of course, the beer tax is included in the estimate and if this can be done, as some of the leaders of government think, the country will be relieved of a tremendous burden—one that has taxed the best brains of the nation.

Roosevelt has no easy job before him and when he has decided upon his course of action it is hoped he will move unflinchingly toward the goal he has chosen, undaunted by any obstacle which may be thrown into his path or by criticism of the opposition.

Automobile accidents in many cases are unavoidable, but in numbers of instances they could be avoided by careful driving. wrecks accompanied by death and injury, have increased in scope the last several days in spite of the best that could be done by traffic police-men.

The public should consider the actual toll which automobiles are taking on the highways of the nation and try to give more attention to driving carefully at all times.

Human life is far too precious to be sacrificed by careless and reckless driving and those who permit themselves to fall into the habit of driving laxly would find it to their advantage to place a check on themselves before it is too late.

Fair tax values are being sought in Pitt county at this time as well as in other sections of the country where taxation has proven a burden for many years.

With decreasing revenue in every field of endeavor, county government heads have been asked to do their bit toward placing a fair value on homes and farms so that they will not be confiscated.

That the matter will receive the attention which it is surely deserves is not to be doubted because those in charge of government must realize as do others that expenses must be cut in proportion to what the people are able to pay.

The problem is one of the most pressing before the public at this time and must be dealt with decisively if the country is to hold up under the pressure of constantly dwindling revenues.

Pitt county officers cannot be commended too highly for the part they have taken in holding down the criminal element during the holiday season.

Buying Barbara

by Julia Cleft-Adams • Author of "YOU CAN'T MARRY"

SYNOPSIS: Barbara Quentin has promised the rich Farrell Armitage that he may have a year to make her crippled fiancé Mark Lodely into a well man and an established artist. Farrell hopes in that time to make Barbara love him by eliminating the pity that ties her to the clever and cruel Mark. Mark has just given Barbara a large emerald, but she and Farrell have discovered the same emerald in a portrait of Lella Cane painted by Mark. Now Lella waylays Farrell in the Vicar's garden.

Chapter 17

"CURSE ALL EMERALDS"

As Farrell drove up to the vicarage gate he saw first the gleaming smoothness of Lella Cane, then, behind her, the vicar's bent, black figure.

"Hullo, Vicar!" he said sheepishly. Just like this, with this same tranquility, had the old man waited for him in childhood's days; and never hours of the long drive, she kept them out of her bright, sure glance as she looked up at the big house in which both Armitage and his father had been born.

The vicar turned to lift a dressing-case from the low stone wall, the old man and the young looked intently at each other.

"Everything's all right, sir, honestly."

"I'm very glad to know it, my dear boy."

Lella hoisted herself and her luggage aboard and waved a hand eastward.

"Speed thither," she entreated. "By now father may have managed to spell out the note I left pinned to the dining-room clock."

Lella's remark was lost in the growing hum of the engine. The vicar touched Armitage's shoulder and then, as Armitage bared his head leaned forward and lightly kissed his forehead.

It jarred Farrell when Lella laughed.

"He's still looking after us. I really rather adore him."

"I didn't know you ever went to see him."

"I used not to but he was decent, once, and ever since I've sort of hung about."

Armitage welcomed the necessity for keeping his conscious attention on the road. At the back of his brain shimmered a picture; a por-for violation of the prohibition law during the holidays, crime of other forms were strangely conspicuous for their absence and the city and community passed through the season with only a minimum of violations.

One major crime, criminal assault, was reported from one section of the county, and a few drunks were possibly picked up, but in addition to that the holidays so far have passed off quietly and pleasantly for the law enforcement agencies and the public generally.

see. Malavie can do the whole thing, right down to the easel; but he'll have to be out of the place by noon on Thursday. That's why I was in a bit of a hurry."

"But"—began Lella. He was still tolerant though perhaps not quite so amused.

"No," she contradicted. "No, that's the devil of it. He'd do it far better."

She jerked away from him and walked into the nearest reception-room, where the fire, just lit, was spurting into flame, then went on his way upstairs.

He was still stouter though perhaps proved very dangerous. At the end, he had wrapped a rug round his left arm and let the brute take his bite at it while the right hand felt for a revolver.

"The billiard-room is for Mark," explained Armitage. He had taken up a pile of letters and was tearing open the envelopes. "It's to be his studio—there'll be a north light, you know."

When he brought her out her lunch, he was sure she sensed an unusual constraint in him. It was with a touch of nervousness that she informed him.

"The vicar says that Barbara and Mark are going to be married at 9 o'clock on Thursday morning instead of 12. What shall you do about it?"

"I shan't do anything about it, Barbara isn't marrying anyone on Thursday, at any time. I thought I'd told you so."

"You're fed up with me about something, Farrell Armitage. Rather lend me the money to go by train?"

He was silent. He took her empty glass and went back with it, paid the bill, returned to the wheel and drove away, still without answering her. She made no further comment upon him or herself, and as the miles swung steadily under them, he believed that she slept.

They turned into Brandish Place at half-past ten exactly. With whatever dreams Lella had beguiled the

Traveling Salesman Was Almost Ruined

Greenville, Miss.—W. A. Huber, recently said: "Traveling day and night and eating in cafes and hotels had a lot to do with my case I know, but I was in mighty bad shape. Constipation had practically ruined me. I took every kind of laxative I ever heard of, but they only aggravated my trouble. When I started taking Sargol Soft Mass Pills I just had to drag myself out of bed and through the day. The treatment not only relieved me but I have actually gained 35 pounds in weight."

Year Old Child Dies In Falkland

Little James Thomas, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Cayton of the Remson community, who died at 9:00 p. m., December 24, 1932, with pneumonia extending over a week's illness, was buried Christmas day at 3:30 in Bethany churchyard. He died at the home of his grandparents, Mrs. and Mrs. Arvin Rice, where they had gone to spend the Christmas holidays.

Bronchial Troubles Need Creomulsion

Bronchial troubles may lead to something serious. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood, Calif., Dec. 29—Scarcely more than a glance over the ranks of those new men who found favor on the screen in 1932 is required to concede that the collar-ad type of masculine pulchritude has all but disappeared from the screen.

Nature gave rugged good looks to a few of them, but wasted little attention on the profiles and facial contours of any. Even in the best-looking of the lot, say Cary Grant or Herbert Marshall, there's enough of that requisite touch of menace to let the ropes down in their favor.

There are dynamic Lee Tracy, who swings and socks as freely as he talks, and stolid, staunch Paul Muni; sinister sleek George Raft; forceful if handsome George Brent, and menacing Lyle Talbot and Preston Foster.

They Need Force

Whether they are handsome or homely, fairly good-looking or downright ugly, they all have in common that one attribute that seems to spell success for modern-day screen heroes—force, power, and a threat that may be hidden by slow smile, romantic humor, or glib talk.

They are all, incidentally, actors—whether "natural" like George Raft or polished like Herbert Marshall, and that is a consideration that sometimes counts for more than any amount of visible or implied brute force. As witness the unparalleled success of Leslie Howard, built-on acting and scarcely at all

Stock Market

New York, Dec. 30.—(AP)—The stock market managed to extend its recovery today in the fact of isolated weakness in the tobacco shares.

The advance lacked the vigor of the previous session and was halted for a time by the action of tobaccos, but the list pointed upward again in the afternoon.

Considerable short covering in advance of the holiday was reported.

Liggett-Myers broke more than four points before getting support.

American Tobacco lost half as much and Reynolds eased moderately.

Coopers firmed with Kennecott rising more than a point and Anaconda nearly as much.

Other issues rising about a point include U. S. Steel, Case, Allied Chemical, Baltimore & Ohio, Auburn, Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse and others.

General Motors, Dupont and Standard were firm.

Stocks, except the tobacco shares, continued to push forward into day's late dealings with many leaders showing gains of one to around two points.

Transfers were 1,000,000 shares.

New York Cotton

New York, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady unchanged to four points advance on high Liverpool cables and general rains in the South.

Increased selling for Southern accounts resulted in reaction from early advance and prices eased four to five points net lower.

Later March position advanced to 6.14 and around 10:30 the general market was two to four points net lower.

A reaction in the stock market resulted in moderate local selling and values were about the lowest of the day around midday at net losses of seven to eight points.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

For three hours the jurist listened to testimony in the case and arguments by Solicitor J. B. Little of Wake county and R. O. Everett, counsel for Roberson.

The Durham practitioner with Mrs. E. E. Forsythe is held in connection with the death Monday night of Miss Myrtle Gardner, Four Oaks school teacher, for alleged ill legal operation. A brother-in-law of Miss Gardner, Geo. D. Clifton, is being held under $10,000 bond as an accessory.

Caldwell And Wife Together. Lenoir, Dec. 30.—(AP)—Dr. W. C. Caldwell, prominent veterinary surgeon, who was bound over to Superior court several days ago under $1,250 bond on a charge of beating his wife, was reported to have left town with his wife today in his car.

It was reported they were headed for Concord, the veterinary surgeon's former home and speculation was rife as to whether they had been reunited after the night several weeks ago when Mrs. Caldwell fled from her home in a nightgown following a beating her husband had given her.

HELD UNDER BOND IN FATAL ACCIDENT. Goldsboro, N. C., Dec. 30.—Joel Hines, young white man of the southern part of Wayne County, was held under a $200 bond on charge of reckless driving, following a coroner's inquest held at 10 o'clock on Thursday morning, for the investigation of the death of Walter Foss on Wednesday. It is believed that bond will be arranged.

The coroner's jury entirely exonerated Willie Jennette, driver of the log truck that ran over Mr. Foss.

Foss jumped out of Hines' car when he saw the danger of a collision between the car, the truck and a car driven by Joe A. Smith.

STATE BOXERS FACING BUSY YEAR IN RING

Raleigh, Dec. 30.—A boxing team with most of its punch packed in the heavier weights will represent N. C. State College this winter.

Beginning with the 145-pound division, Coach Bill Beatty has excellent material for all of the other heavier weights.

Capt. Charlie Garner, Southern Conference welterweight champion, will handle the 145-pound class. Garner is a junior and has lost but one fight.

The new 155 pound class created by the Southern Conference will more than likely be handled by Bill Dunaway, a sophomore. As a freshman boxer Dunaway was a sensation. Only one man to face him was able to last more than half a round.

Beatty's troubles begin with the 165-pound class. There he has two excellent scrappers. One is Josiah Hull, a senior with two years experience and a hefty, chopping wallop. The other is Jack Fabri, undefeated as a freshman last winter.

Further trouble awaits Beatty in the 175-pound division. He has the choice there of Kenneth Stephens, promising sophomore with a good freshman record; J. O. Hall, senior with two years experience; and Raymond Redding, another sophomore who has shown ability in this his first year.

DR. MILLER TO REPORT ON SURVEY OF CRIME

Durham, Dec. 30.—Dean Justin Miller, of Duke University, and seven members of the law school faculty will attend the Chicago meeting of the Association of American Law Schools. The Duke dean is chairman of the committee on survey of crime, criminal law and criminal procedure, and will make a report to the association on the survey made by the committee. He is chairman of the round table on wrongs and will preside at its session, the subject of which is "The Probable Scope of the Course and the Most Effective Method of Teaching Criminal Law."

Dean Miller is also on the committee on co-operation with the American Bar Institute.

Those who begin to predict in 1933 whether he will be re-elected will be speaking more from desire than from knowledge, more from impulse than in the light of political experience.

G. O. P. Busy Reorganizing

The Republicans, meantime, will be reorganizing on a tentative basis their crippled party machinery. They will be talking among themselves of 1934 and 1936, but mostly in undertones.

It is not now expected that President Hoover will abdicate soon the titular leadership he retains after March 4. Whether or not he expects to run in 1936—as some believe he may—he probably will keep his intentions to himself for many months, retaining such control as he can until events have shaped themselves to his liking.

That, in turn, will delay all other candidates. What the country will see in 1933 is a cautious building up of probably a half-dozen of those who aspire to the Republican nomination in 1936; but all without undue haste. The decisive years will be 1935 and 1936 itself.

Year of Beginnings

All in all, 1933 promises to be more than anything else, a year of interesting beginnings.

It will contain the seeds of vastly important issues, but no prophet is likely to be able to foresee with certainty, even when the year comes to its end, what the harvest will be.

MOORCYCLE CABS THREAT TO MANILA'S PONY CARTS

Manila, P. I., Dec. 30.—(AP)—Motor vehicles are beginning to threaten Manila's traditional cabs, the pony-drawn, two-wheeled carts called "carromatas" or "calesas."

Fleets of small taxis of both American and English make have gone into service, carrying two passengers for ten cents a mile.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of calomel, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just dumps in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel drowsy and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Request a substitute. See it at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

FLU HALTS CAGE CONTEST AT COLLEGE

The basketball game scheduled here tonight between East Carolina Teachers College and Roanoke Rapids "Red Devils" has been postponed indefinitely, it was stated yesterday afternoon.

The postponement was caused by the prevalence of the flu in the Roanoke Rapids community. Several members of the Roanoke Rapids team were reported suffering from the malady, and this resulted in calling off the contest scheduled here tonight.

The "Red Devils," it was stated, are in a "heluva" fix as a result of the unexpected attack of influenza, but hope to be back in the game in a few days.

The collegians here hope to be able to resume their regular schedule next week, and people who attend the remainder of the games are assured of something out of the ordinary in this field of sports.

CAPITAL CITY PREPARES FOR EHRINGHAUSES

not yet reached two figures in age. He is only nine.

The Ehringhouses have three children—Matilda and Houghton, who are twins and John Christopher, Jr.—but they have passed their childhood days.

John Christopher, Jr., who is just under his majority, is a student at the University of North Carolina, where his father and grandfather graduated. During last summer's campaign he helped dad get elected.

Miss Matilda—that's what old "Uncle" David, the venerable negro servant at the mansion will no doubt call the winsome miss—is a student at St. Mary's School for girls here. Living in Raleigh will not be new to her.

Houghton, Matilda's twin brother is a student at Woodberry Forest School at Orange, Va.

All the children, however, are expected to spend their holidays in the capital. They already have become acquainted with the social life of the city. The twins will lead the figure at the inaugural ball here next Thursday night.

North Carolina, which has had a charming first lady during Governor Gardner's administration, will continue to be fortunate along this line.

Mrs. Ehringhaus is considered one of Eastern North Carolina's most charming women.

This remarkable medicine may be obtained from
