LOWER AUTO LICENSE FEES SOUGHT IN LEGISLATURE

AMENDMENT TO TAX SALE LAW ASKED

Bill Relating to Foreclosure Action on Tax Sales Thrown Into the Legislative Hopper; Another Measure Would Allow the Government Commission to Arrange Settlement for Defaulting Cities and Counties.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The lower House of the General Assembly held another very short session this morning to receive fourteen bills. Measures to reduce automobile license fees, to allow home owners a tax exemption of $1,000, to allow the Local Government Commission to try to arrange a settlement for defaulting municipalities and counties and to amend the laws relating to foreclosure action on tax sales were thrown into the hopper.

Small Fire Last Night

The fire department was called out last night when clothes hanging near a stove at the home of Dick Hopkins of Washington street caught fire. The blaze was extinguished by the fire department. The damage was negligible.

Few Tenants Have Places to Move To

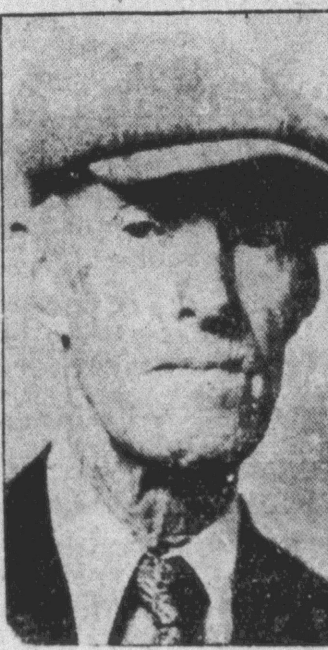

Williamston, Jan. 12.—Because they have no place to go, very few tenant families have vacated, the homes occupied by them during the past year, and the moving rush ordinarily witnessed on the highways by ways in this section has not been in evidence this year. Landlords who have carried their tenants during the past year at a loss, and some for two or more years, are still lenient in that they are not forcing the tenants from their homes even though no crops will be cultivated by tenants on many farms this year.

It is believed, basing the estimate on reports received from farmers all over the country, that more tenants will be without crops and homes in this county during 1933 than ever before. The landless farmers are hardly more than squatters on their landlord's land, where they are awaiting a return of prosperity or something to turn up. Some, it is certain, will be forced to seek shelter in other places, but thanks to a majority of the landlords the number facing several months of winter weather in the wide-open spaces is not great.

Orthopedic Clinic Proves Great Help

Goldboro, Jan. 12.—Since the beginning of the extension clinic of the State Orthopedic Hospital at Goldboro, in Goldboro, four years ago, 3,000 visits to the clinic have been made by patients of Eastern North Carolina, the biennial report of the Goldboro Hospital received in Goldboro Tuesday states. Included in the report is the following: "This clinic has rendered great service during the economic crisis to the crippled children and families of Eastern North Carolina. It allows a satisfactory observation of many cases which have been treated at the hospital in Goldboro and dismissed. It would be financially impossible for many of these to make the long trip to Goldboro."

Flu Situation Better Here

Illness Shows Slight Improvement In Spite of Unfavorable Weather

In spite of unfavorable weather conditions, the influenza situation in this county was reported today to be less severe than the early part of last week.

This belief was expressed today by Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of the Pitt County Department of Health, who stated that fewer cases were being reported from various sections of the county in spite of unfavorable weather conditions.

Two weeks ago 800 cases were reported throughout the county, with the major part being distributed throughout the Greenville area. Today, however, the majority of cases were being reported from the rural communities with a distinct clearing up of the illness in Greenville, although quite a number of new cases have been reported the last several days.

Dr. McGeachy said he was gratified over the precaution taken by the citizens of all communities and declared this largely responsible for the disease not reaching an epidemic stage, especially in isolated communities.

With warm, rainy weather still in evidence, the health officer urged the public to continue to be on their guard against the flu by observing proper precautions, he said, the situation should continue to improve, and especially with colder weather in view for the next several days.

Seven men in the plane included Gene Harmon, and the only passenger was M. Souznet, who built the plane. They were stop first at Casa Blanch, Morocco.

FACES TRIAL FOR RUNNING OVER CHILD

Beaufort County Man Charged With Killing Robert Cayton of Chicod Section

A warrant was issued today for James Davenport of Beaufort county, charged with manslaughter and killing William Robert Cayton, ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Cayton of the Grimesland community, Tuesday afternoon.

The warrant specifically charges Davenport with manslaughter and failure to stop while a school bus was unloading its passengers.

The accident was said to have occurred near the Chicod Creek bridge as a Pitt county school bus was unloading passengers. The child was said to have darted from behind the truck directly in front of Davenport's car, which was reported to have been traveling at about forty miles an hour.

Davenport stopped, picked up the child and rushed him to a Washington hospital, where he died at 2:30 o'clock that night of a fractured skull and other injuries.

Davenport, who was accompanied by his father-in-law, C. P. Aycock, chairman of the Beaufort County Board of Commissioners, declared the accident was unavoidable in that the child dashed in front of his car so suddenly that it was impossible to stop.

The warrant was issued today following an investigation conducted under direction of Sheriff Sam Whitehurst yesterday. Officers said Davenport probably would be brought here within the next few days to face preliminary hearing.

It is a direct violation of the law to pass a school bus while unloading passengers.

TWO NEGROES HELD IN DEATH

Kill White Man And Ship His Body To Richmond in Trunk is Charge.

New York, Jan. 12.—(AP)—District Attorney Charles McLaughlin of the Bronx today sought a first-degree murder indictment against two negroes on a charge of slaying Mason Reigod, white, jamming his body in a trunk and shipping it to Richmond, Va.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The body of a murdered New York apartment house owner was being held here today awaiting action of New York authorities.

It was identified as Mason Reigod, whose slaying was said by police to have been admitted by two negroes.

Oldest U. N. C. Alumnus Dead

Chapel Hill, Jan. 12.—The Rev. John Huske Tillighast, 97, who died at his home in Eastover, S. C., yesterday, was at the time of his death the oldest living matriculate of the University of North Carolina.

The Reverend Tillighast was a student in Chapel Hill in 1853-54 but was forced to withdraw at the beginning of his sophomore year because of ill health. Later he entered Hampden-Sidney College in Virginia from which he was graduated in 1857 with the A. B. degree.

In addition to being the oldest living matriculate of the University the Reverend Tillighast was also the oldest living ex-chaplain of the Confederate army, and the oldest living minister of the Episcopal Church in the United States.

At the last University commencement a letter of greeting was received at the University from the Reverend Tillighast, it being the 75th anniversary of the graduation of his class.

William Gaston Candler, retired lawyer of Candler, is now the oldest living University alumnus, having attended law school in Chapel Hill in 1854-55. Mr. Candler is a year older than the Reverend Tillighast, although he matriculated at Chapel Hill a year later.

Bladen County Man Asks $20,000 Damages

Elizabethtown, Jan. 12.—Arousing considerable interest in this county is the $20,000 suit of T. F. Johnson, of Abbottsburg, against the Tide Water Power Company now being tried here. Johnson claims his home in Abbottsburg, this county, was wired by the Tide Water Power Company on January 5, 1931, and that on the night of February 17, 1931, it was destroyed by fire as a result of defective wiring. He claims that valuable antiques, old coins, pictures and jewelry to the approximate amount of $15,000 were lost in the fire. Expert evidence in the testimony of Ellis Canady, State electrical inspector of Raleigh, will be offered during the trial as also that of E. McNeill, superintendent of the power and light company at Lumberton. The home was not insured.

Judge W. A. Devin is presiding. Counsel for the defense are Varsler, Lawrence & McIntyre, of Lumberton, and H. H. Clark, of Elizabethtown. Counsel for the plaintiff are McLean & Stacy and E. P. Carlyle, of Lumberton.

BEGIN SURVEY TO SAVE GAME

Government Attempts to Find the Cause of Diminishing Food on Atlantic Seaboard.

Ocracoke, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The United States Biological Survey is in the midst of one of its newest and most unique "battles" to preserve American wild life.

Some mysterious disease which for the past two years has been making inroads into the eel grass crop along the Atlantic seaboard has threatened the feeding ground of the grand and the Canada goose.

Finding the birds falling to migrate and often getting lost through the necessity of avoiding regular feeding ground, Clarence Catton of the division of natural field for wild fowl, has begun an investigation.

He found a diminishing crop of eel grass as the bottom of the trouble on the seaboard along the French-Atlantic coast.

So far the battle has been in the dark, for the disease which attacked the grass has baffled detection.

COL. FLANAGAN IN LIMELIGHT

Pitt Representative in Legislature Receives Comment in Raleigh Paper

Colonel E. G. Flanagan, member of the Legislature from this county, and who heads an important committee in the body this session, came in for comment in today's edition of the Raleigh News and Observer.

The story also contained the picture of the Pitt County man, gave a graphic description of how he obtained the distinction of "colonel," and then told of some of the prison reform measures which will come before his committee this session.

Colonel Flanagan heads the Committee on Penal Institutions, and in view of the bills calling for reform in the State prisons, he is more in the limelight than ever in happenings on Capitol Hill this year. He has been connected with many other prominent committees during the several years he has represented the county in the General Assembly.

The comment in appearing in today's paper follows: "Representative Ed. Flanagan, of Pitt, who heads a committee destined to handle some important legislation this session, bears a distinction which so far as could be ascertained by casual inquiry in this General Assembly.

"He is a genuine Kentucky colonel, so breveted by the Lieutenant-Governor of Kentucky who made a personal visitation to Eastern North Carolina to confer the honor.

"The commission was issued several years ago and may have expired but that makes no difference. Once a Kentucky colonel, always a Kentucky colonel." (Continued on Page Four)

HEALTH FIGHT SUCCESS HERE

Diphtheria and Typhoid Fever Show Big Drop Here During Past Year

Diphtheria and typhoid fever showed a pronounced drop in Pitt county in 1932. Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of the Pitt County Department of Health stated today.

In fact, the record eclipses anything in the last four years and is the outcome of education and vaccinations, the health official stated.

Only 39 cases were reported from all parts of the county the past year compared with 77 for 1931; 52 for 1930 and 95 for 1929. The report of the health department indicated "Thirty-three cases of typhoid fever were reported in 1932 as against 40 for 1931 and 47 for 1930."

Discussing the scarlet fever situation, Dr. McGeachy said only a few cases were reported in widely scattered areas during the year, and the total was lower than any preceding year.

Dr. McGeachy attributed the decrease in education and extensive vaccination. The fight against typhoid and diphtheria was more pronounced this year than any other in history, and this was declared to have been the result of education of the people to the importance of prevention.

The county eclipsed all records in vaccinations for typhoid the past year, and although it has not been fully determined belief was expressed that all other counties were beaten in the total number of people vaccinated.

People responded to the call of the health department to avoid epidemics. (Continued on page four)

GULF FORD TO OBSERVE NINETY-NINTH ANNIVERSARY

Speakers from the student and faculty as well as from outside the institution are expected to be included on the program for the occasion, which will be given during the chapel period Friday morning.

This date is to mark the beginning of a three-year program of building and extension, to be completed in time for observance of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of Guilford College in 1937.

NATION CROWDS INTO ITS OLD AUTOMOBILES

New York, Jan. 12.—If in 1920 all the people in the United States had sat in their automobiles there would have been in the average car 4.59 persons, including, as the foreign commentator pointed out, women and children. This year, however, the average number per car would be 3.64, according to calculations based on registrations and population in the current weekly of the Alexander Hamilton Institute. Whereas in 1920 only 307,000 cars in use were more than seven years old, today there are about 2,666,000.

Late News Flashes

Today In The Legislature. Raleigh, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The proposal for a state-wide driver's license law, for reduced auto license fees to prohibit hitch-hiking and to ease the burden on taxpayers now in arrears were introduced in the General Assembly today.

The two houses of the legislature met less than half an hour each but members almost immediately began attending committee meetings, many swinging into action for the first time.

Regulation of lobbyists was given favorable committee report in the House when the Ewing bill was approved by committee on proposition and grievance. It would bar lobbyists from the floor of each house and would require them to register.

Senator Corey of Pitt introduced the bill to prohibit hitch-hiking and that calling for a driver's license law with a fee of 75 cents for individual licenses.

Representative Johnson sent in a bill to make the minimum automobile license fee $5 instead of $12 and to reduce all fees.

The taxpayers would be aided by House measure of Morebeau of Graham, Sprull of Bertie, and Douglas of Wake, and by Senator Boggan of Anson Postponement of foreclosure action, a five year period in which to pay back taxes, $1.00 tax exemption for home owners and provision that delinquents may buy property at tax sales at 10 per cent over the proposals offered.

Buying Barbara

by Julia Child-Addams Author of "YOU CAN'T MARRY"

SYNOPSIS: Mrs. Lodely demands to know why Farrell Armitage is turning heaven and earth to help her cruel, crippled son, Mark. Farrell declares it is because he loves Barbara Quentin, Mark's fiancee, and hopes to persuade her to marry him at the expiration of the year's stay she has granted him.

Chapter 28 POOLE TO THE RESCUE

A curious expression grew in Mrs. Lodely's eyes. An old tag floated into Armitage's mind, about all the world loving a lover. Mrs. Lodely was crookedly smiling.

"Well, I'm dashed!" She lit another cigarette. "I must say I like a man who speaks up for himself. Men used to, what's more, when I was a girl."

"Oh, yes," she told me as much and more. "Bery well, then, that's settled." Armitage took her nod as a dismissal and escaped, though what it was that was settled he did not know.

"Lodely's awake and asking for you," said that innocent. "I went up but I'm afraid I was rather a misfit. He turned the misleading candor of his gaze upon Mrs. Lodely, who at that moment issued forth from the inner room."

Armitage left him at it. Loyal lad—Poole! Armitage went up to the bedroom that had been his own. It should be his again, too, by gad! That was one thing he would stand out for.

It was a big apartment but Mark had managed to clutter it with his belongings. A trunk gaped, half-unpacked; the paraphernalia of pencil, paint and easel overflowed upon the bed and there were torn fragments of paper all over the floor.

"I tried to do another impression of Miss Raoul before I went to bed," explained Mark, as Armitage glanced at the litter, "but I couldn't. I don't suppose I could have improved on the first sketches, though, any-been conducted upon an extensive scale with the resultant loss to other debtors and the owners alike. The condition must change before business can recover from the staggering blow of the financial upheaval of recent years and the sooner it is consummated the sooner conditions will undergo a profound improvement in all parts of the nation.

City banking institutions were able to make encouraging reports in annual meetings this year, and this is most gratifying in the face of unusual business conditions experienced during the past year, universally declared one of the worst in history.

Greenville banks are among the soundest in the state and the fact that they keep their assets in liquid condition assures the public that they are trying to render the highest type of service at all times.

By constant patronage of the banks, local people will enable them to reach new heights of achievement during the new year. When banks flourish the rest of the community does likewise, hence the necessity for uninterrupted support of institutions generally accepted as a barometer to business conditions.

thrown away an enormous sum of money. You see, Malavie's is the super-scene painter in a limelight world. Of course," added Mark kindly, "a Malavie studio might be useful as a stunt. To give parties in your house; and it would do no harm to get known while I'm finding out whether I've a chance to get good. I know well enough how much I have to learn."

It was the first note of sincerity he had struck since he had spoken of his work on that night in Kings Mallard. It eased the tension a little. "Oh, yes," went on Mark, "I sold some sketches last night to a fat woman named Constantia J. Jacobson. I think you should take this check, Armitage."

"Because whatever motive you may have behind your generosity to me, I must be quite clear about my motive in accepting it. I am not personal indulgence, Armitage. All my needs are centered in the one great need to be free to work."

"But if, during my probation, I get ever now and then the chance of making a hundred and twenty pounds that is not through my craftsmanship but your kindness. Therefore I don't feel I have a right to this money."

A SEAT in the CABINET

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of a series of articles picturing briefly men and women mentioned for posts in the Roosevelt Cabinet.)

Woodrow Wilson called Carter Glass, of Virginia, from his seat in Congress to accept a Cabinet post as Secretary of the Treasury.

CARTER GLASS of Virginia

cause of Senate duties and impaired health. Author of the act which created the Federal Reserve Bank system and high ranking Democrat on the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, the 74-year-old, wiry Senator is one of the country's recognized authority on finance.

It was 1899 before Glass entered politics, and that was largely by accident. He was an editor and publisher when an unsolicited nomination to the Virginia Senate was thrust upon him.

And again, a little more than a year later, the governor of Virginia appointed him to the U. S. Senate to fill a vacancy caused by death. He has been re-elected three times since.

Small of stature, wary and aggressive, he couples with his extensive knowledge of finance a vigorous mode of expression that makes him both admired, and feared.

New Books. By JOHN SELBY. New York, Jan. 12.—Urged on by press, public, and his own inner compulsions, Emil Ludwig journeyed to Rome, there to look up his friend Benito Mussolini.

He arranged to talk with Il Duce an hour a day, and to publish whatever came out of the talks. He faced the dictator across a bare table (bare excepting for a lamp of strange design), under a high ceiling, in a large room. The ideal setting.

"Talks With Mussolini" was published in Italy, 20,000 copies were sold, and Il Duce ordered their sale stopped. But he has nothing to say about American sales, which continue with the text Mussolini objected to. One only hopes Herr Ludwig's subject objected because he found his remarks mostly platitudes.

Indeed, the problem of saying something brilliant enough to interest the world without committing himself and Italy too far may have no solution. There is a fine picture of Mussolini in the new book, and a good deal of Herr Ludwig. But side from a direct avowal that when the time is ripe Mussolini plans to organize a European state, most of the content has been published before.

Novelists Work Apace. No fewer than four good novels have turned up this week. "The Last Adam" by James Gould Cozzens; "Never Ask the End" by Isabel Paterson; "Going Somewhere" by Max Ewing, and "Public Faces" by Harold Nicholson.

Cozzens and Ewing are just under thirty. The similarity ends there with considerable abruptness. For Cozzens prefers to paint them a picture and allow them to draw their own inferences; Ewing prefers to swing along, floating often savage criticism of the social order on what may be called 1933 model Oscar Wilde prose. Often amusing prose in its own right.

Up Connecticut Way. Cozzens introduces his public to an entire Connecticut village, although the locale does not much matter. The feature of the novel is the faithfulness of the wholesale portraiture, and the surprising and complementary discovery that there isn't a line out of drawing in the entire set.

Having thus conjured up a dramatis personae, Cozzens turns them loose. His people simply continue to live between the covers of his book as they lived before he put them there. It all seems simple and refreshing, as indeed it is. But one gathers that making it seems so is quite another matter.

The Cozzens style, utilitarian but not unimaginative, has much to do with the effect, as does his use of short and vivid scenes that look detached on the page, but combine readily in the reader's mind. And it is obvious that this young writer has, to a degree, the priceless boon of being able to see things that are right under his nose.

Hints on Contract Bridge Up-to-Date

LEAD-PREVENTING BIDS. By Tom O'Neil. Some psychic bidders are prone to offer a suit with the sole purpose of scaring the opponents from leading that suit. They do this on fair hands which apparently will be short of game or slam possibilities if the suit in question is opened by the adversaries.

Once against the same opponent ought to be enough for success with such a bid, but the psychic addict likes to repeat. Sometimes an advantage in points he has attained by his deception is more than offset when an attempt is made to hoodwink the enemy in a subsequent hand.

DISCUSS INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER. Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—Veteran observers around the Supreme Court are talking these days about how hard Chief Justice Hughes is working and the amount of energy he is displaying in the preparation of opinions that have struck at the very heart of important legal questions.

Glance back over the decisions handed down since the beginning of the present term. It wouldn't be far wrong to say that the most important opinions, those settling vital constitutional issues, were written by the Chief Justice himself.

Two of the most outstanding come to mind. And there are others. It was Hughes who wrote the recent opinion pronouncing the "severest condemnation" upon prohibition agents who entice their victims into commission of a crime.

And it was the Mr. Chief Justice who penned the decision scoring the governor of Texas for ordering out State troops to enforce the restriction of oil production.

He Pareils Out Work. The Chief Justice himself decides for the court which of the justices shall write a particular opinion.

Seated around the conference table at the Capitol on Saturday morning, the various cases before the court which have been argued orally by counsel before are brought up.

The junior member of the court always is the first to be called on to give his views. Then each justice, according to seniority.

At the conclusion, usually it has developed that one of the justices has given more thought and study to the case than the others, or has shown a greater knowledge of the principles involved. To that justice goes the duty of writing the opinion unless the Chief Justice refers the case to another justice.

WOMAN LOST 20 POUNDS IN 4 WEEKS. Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: "I'm only 28 yrs old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and further more I've never had a hungry moment."

Fat folks should take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it's the SAFE, harmless way to reduce as tens of thousands of men and women know.

For your health's sake ask for and get Kruschen at Pitt Drug Co. or any drug store—the cost for a bottle is but a trifle and if after the first bottle you are not joyfully satisfied with results—money back—(Adv.)

THE WORLD OF STAMPS. By QUINTON JAMES. King Carol of Rumania an enthusiastic collector has his portrait on another stamp issued in honor of the philatelic exhibition in Bucharest, held under his patronage.

At the exhibition, which just closed its doors, the public had an opportunity to admire "the king's own collection, begun when he was a boy. Outstanding in it are two letters containing the first Moldavian stamps issued about 75 years ago.

Fifty thousand of the jubilee stamps were issued. They are olive colored and sell for six plus five lei—the five to be donated to welfare organizations.

Italian stamp collectors made a rush for the postmarks of a new city, Littoria, inaugurated in December by Mussolini.

The city is on the main line between Rome and Naples, built by the Fascist government in the middle of the former Pontine marshes which have been reclaimed and converted to agriculture.

A London collector's difficulties have brought to defeat an ambitious life work.

Thirty-five years ago F. R. Parker, stamp expert, set out to make 1,000 collections, each of 5,000. He met with difficulties on the last stage of his "journey," and 2,000,000 British and Colonial stamps were put up for sale. They brought a total of 6,700 pounds (approximately $33,500 at par.)

It was said that never again would any man be able to accumulate the Victorian and Edwardian stamps of the British empire in such quantities as he had.

The Commemorative Stamp Club of Washington, D. C., will issue a special cover cachet for Inauguration Day. It will bear a picture of the capitol dome and the legend "37th Inauguration, Washington, D. C., March 4, 1933. Commemorative Stamp Club."

Collectors may send self-addressed stamp covers to the club's headquarters, 1021 Tenth St., N. W.—there will be a handling charge of one cent.

The design for the new issue of Brazilian stamps in denominations of 150, 400 and 700 reis, may be changed because of newspaper protests.

The Indian head design of Henrique Cavalleire, one of Rio de Janeiro's artists, was victorious in a competition conducted by the department of posts and telegraphs. A group of notables composed the jury.

The newspaper O Globo led the protests contending that a design commemorating Brazil's progress, rather than its aborigines, should be used.

It is estimated 55,000 Nimrod's invaded the Michigan woods in search of deer during the two-week season this year.

V. P. I. QUINT TO STAGE TILT AT UNIVERSITY

Chapel Hill, Jan. 12.—Carolina will open its Southern Conference basketball schedule with V. P. I. here Friday night in a game which may tell whether the Tar Heels can keep the fast pace set against Guilford and Davidson or whether they are just another of several strong teams in the Big Five.

Carolina will meet two Wake Forest quints here Saturday night, the freshman game to start at 7 o'clock and the varsity game at 8:30.

The Tar Heels swapped Guilford 65-9 and Davidson 56-18, but the Gobblers pour a much stronger foe, Monk Younger is coaching at V. P. I. this year and is reported to have a strong team built around five star lettermen.

Coach Shepard said today that he would stick to the same lineup for V. P. I. but indicated he might shift Stuart Chandler back to first reserve forward, due to the good work in practice this week of Gene Zaiser sophomore guard, Charlie Jones, another letterman, and reserve at guard has had to drop out due to the press of self-help work, and Bucky Harris, a leading reserve at the same post, is ill with flu.

The Carolina lineup which clicked so well in the first two games lists Captain Wilmer Hines and Vergil Weathers forwards; George Brandt center; and Dave McCahren and Stuart Altken forwards.

STATE WILL TAKE ON V. P. I.

Raleigh, Jan. 12.—Following their game Friday with Carolina, the basketball cagers of V. P. I. will meet N. C. State here Saturday night in the Frank Thompson Gymnasium.

The Polys were defeated 35-15 by the Red Terrors when they played here last winter and in a return engagement at Blacksburg were defeated 21-16. State is favored to take Saturday's game also as a result of the Terrors' 34-14 victory over Furman's fast quint last Saturday night. Coach Monk Younger has a good club this winter, but one which suffered an avalanche of misfortune the first of the year that hurt his team considerably.

Coach Ray Sermon of State will start Ralph Johnson and LeRoy Jay forwards; George Beaslie center; and Gilbert Clark and Allen Nelms guards. Saturday night.

Clark's foot injured in the Furman tilt, has healed sufficiently for him to get the starting call.

In a practice game held Wednesday afternoon this quint clicked better than any of the other combinations. Coach Sermon used passing was accurate and the shots laid the basket frequently when this team was on the offensive.

The game with V. P. I. is the first of ten Southern Conference tilts the Red Terrors will play this winter.

Washington, Jan. 12.—(AP)—Republican house leaders have been informed that a message vetoing the Philippine independence bill will be sent to Congress today by President Hoover.

Start Senate Filibuster
Washington, Jan. 12.—(AP)—An open threat to block all senate business in order to force currency inflation was made in the senate today by Sen. Wheeler, democrat, Montana, while a drastic closure resolution was being prepared to break the filibuster against the Glass bank bill.

Senators Long and Thomas endorsed Wheeler's sentiment.

Meanwhile Senator Fletcher, the ranking democrat on the banking committee, was preparing a closure resolution to break the long filibuster against the bank bill, sponsored by Senator Glass, of Virginia.

Wheeler said that unless legislation to inflate currency is enacted he would be perfectly willing to stop legislation until Congress awoke to the necessity of doing something.

Prepare for Beer Bote
Washington, Jan. 12.—(AP)—The Senate judiciary sub-committee considering changes in the 3.2 per cent beer bill reported it would be ready to vote on its revised measure tomorrow.

The committee, Senator Blair said, ordered another redraft of some tentative provisions to remove all doubt as to the bill's constitutionality and all that remained to be acted upon was one alternative proposition.

"It is merely a matter of being selective as to language and not any controversy in the committee," the Wisconsin senator added.

Introduce Sales Tax
Columbia, S. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—A general sales tax to replace Senate property tax was suggested to the General Assembly of South Carolina by Governor Ibra C. Bickwood in his annual message today.

Addressing a joint session of the House and Senate in what he called a most critical time in the state history, the governor said when the sales tax was properly analyzed it will be exacting revenue from those able to pay.

Struggle With Farm Bill
Washington, Jan. 12.—(AP)—A slow plodding through the complex revision of the emergency farm plan occupied the House today as Demo-

By ALAN GOULD

Far be it from an amateur observer to say if rascalin's a racket or a good, clean sport, but it certainly has qualities to keep its participants young.

Take Ed (Strangler) Lewis. On second thought, perhaps you had better not take him without some preliminary preparation.

Recently the old Strangler was said to be a washed up finished, ready for the wrestling discard. It was a matter of record that he was 41 years old and had been moving with more or less speed across assorted mats in every section of the United States for twenty-one years.

Now the famous Kentuckian seems to boast the physical condition of a young fellow in his early 30's, trying to get along and in a fair way to do just that. He says with pride that his mental condition is just as good as the physical.

It was not so long ago that some of the experts on rascalin' ruled that the giant Lewis was null and void in a mat way, bad legs, bad eyes and no hope of regaining his former condition.

He tells the story: "I began to believe it myself," he said, "or at least I wondered if these fellows were right and that and that about twenty-one years I was washed up. I went to New York to find out. Went to Gus Wilson's camp, worked five hours a day, chopped wood, took to the road, wrestled, did everything and soon I was in shape. I then tried the wrestling end, taking on seven of the best wrestlers in the world, in a series of testing matches and in two hours and twenty minutes disposed of all of them."

Amazed At Own Strength
"Then I knew the boys were wrong, that I was not finished by a long shot, and I knew then just as certain as shooting that Ray Steele would have no chance against me. The night I met him, I was perfect. Never felt better, either physically or mentally, and I was amazed at my own strength."

"No, 41 years is not old in the wrestling game. I am good for many years yet."

"London He's the acrobatic champion. I'll concede him that distinction, but I'm the wrestling champion. There's a difference."

Regardless of the championship, he holds, or does not hold Lewis has put on a remarkable physical comeback. He is in shape.

McGugin Stands Firm
Dan McGugin has shown that he is a brave man as well as a great football coach by assuming the presidency of the Football Coaches' Association. Five previous incumbents have lost their jobs while in office.

However, the Tennessee lawyer is safe enough at Vanderbilt. He is an institution at the Nashville University, and as long as he cares to hold the job he will be the head coach of the Commodores. He is one of several coaches in the South who stand like a rock and all the onslaughts of an infuriated alumni cannot force them out.

It's rather refreshing in these days of victory mad football supporters to see the old guard, dying perhaps but never surrendering, on the football battlefields.

Jobs for Iowa Students

Fish Get Vitamins When Lights Lure Fruit Fly To Bowl

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The goldfish gets its vitamins these days from the fly that never flew.

It all started in Detroit, where the Local Tropical Fish Society reported that goldfish need certain vitamins to develop their full color potentialities and that such vitamins come from live food, especially flies and worms.

The fanciers of goldfish discovered that insect life buzzing about the drawing-room, or worms, met with housewifely disfavor. So they cast about for something less lively.

The unlucky victim was the little Drosophila—the yeast or fruit fly. Dr. A. Franklin Shull, University of Michigan geneticist, told the society about a freakish form of the Drosophila that, due to a peculiar wing deformity, is unable to soar.

The fanciers saw in the freak insect the vitamins for their supplies. Dr. Skull obtained eleven parent flies and society members nursed them along until today millions of Drosophila flies are being raised as fish feed.

By energetic hopping the freak Drosophila achieves a jump like a flea. That jump leads it from the breeding bottle to the goldfish bowl. The flies are nursed along on banana jelly until they are the proper size, then are attracted by a bright light to the goldfish bowl.

Discuss Technocracy

Goldsboro, Jan. 12.—Rev. George S. Gresham, rector of St. Stephens Episcopal Church, spoke on "Technocracy" at both the Kiwanis and Rotary club meetings in Goldsboro this week. He told of the founder of the theory, its history, and principles, and the problems presented by the theory.

Robbed Twice—Lose 3 Cents

Wilmington, N. C., Jan. 12.—(AP)—The Wooten brothers, Albert and Kenneth, were the victims of robbers twice in two days, but were only three cents losers. First a negro held up their gasoline station but Kenneth flashed a gun and the bandit ran, dropping the cash and 55 cents of his own. The next night two youths robbed the station of 58 cents.

demics through vaccinations, and the spirit of co-operation was declared more pronounced than any year in history.

Dr. McGeachy urged the public to observe strict quarantine regulations for scarlet fever and in that way continue to preserve the splendid record which the county has been able to establish.
