FILLIBUSTER STILL RIDES ASTRIDE THE U.S. SENATE

House Bill Seeks To Change Date Of Auto Registrations

WOULD HAVE TAGS EXPIRE IN OCTOBER

Under terms of Measure Introduced By Rep. Deans of Chowan, Licenses Would Expire October 31st Instead of December 31st; Thompson For Lower Liquor Still Fees in County Of Beaufort.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Thirty-nine members attended a five-minute session of the lower House of the General Assembly today. The House had 120 members.

A bill to change the date of registration of motor vehicles from December 31 to October 31, was offered by Representative Deans of Chowan. It would be effective in 1934.

Jugoslavs Fear Italy Aims to Annex Dalmatia

Split Jugoslavia, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Six young Yugoslav patriots who defaced some Italian lions of St. Mark which for 500 years had been standing on the city walls of picturesque Trau, near here, have been sentenced to five days in jail. Thus another Jugoslav-Italian "incident" officially ends.

The lads who smote the winged Venetian lions were giving expression to the feeling, widespread in Jugoslavia, that Italy is determined to use any and all means to separate Dalmatia from King Alexander's realm.

There has been no confirmation of reports published in London that Italy, Germany and Hungary have agreed on a change in the political status of Dalmatia. On the contrary, a vigorous denial has long since been issued in Rome.

But a survey of Jugoslavia's news papers shows that the reports rather than the denial are believed here.

Then there was the morning a few weeks back when Jugoslavian railway police found a man in the uniform of a Bulgarian irregular placing a bomb on the rails in southern Serbia. The man was killed in the explosion he set off.

That same day telegrams from London said 17 prominent Britishers had published an open letter urging intervention in Jugoslavia in order to safeguard the peace of Europe.

It would be difficult to say which incident irritated the Belgrade government more: the railway bomb of alleged Bulgarian origin, or the unofficial British attack on King Alexander's regime as a "standing danger to the peace of Europe."

RAIN HELPS CLEAR SNOW

Street Forces Continue Digging City from Under 8-Inch Blanket.

Greenville and community continued today to dig from under the eight-inch snowfall which visited the city yesterday.

Scores of workmen were busy clearing the snow from sidewalks as trucks and scrapers of the street cleaning department continued to open up principal streets.

The work of actually making traffic safer got under way shortly after the noon hour when around fifty unemployed people clamoring for food and fuel were pressed into service by the street department. All of the operations were conducted under direction of Chief of Police George Clark whose office was swamped during the morning hours by people seeking employment. Many of those able to work were assigned to work on the streets and in much shorter time than anticipated the sidewalks and streets in the main business district had virtually been cleared of snow.

Road machinery of the State Highway Commission kept the highways open between here and other points, and there was little disruption of bus service in and out of the city. The State scrapers operated over highways through the city and this aided local forces considerably in their effort to improve traffic conditions.

PITT DOCTORS HOLD MEETING

Dr. Joe Nobles Is Installed as President of Medical Society Here.

The installation of Dr. Joe Nobles, prominent Greenville physician, as president, marked the regular monthly meeting of the Pitt County Medical Society at the Woman's Club Thursday night.

The induction of the new official was accompanied by scant ceremony. Dr. Nobles, in taking the post formerly held by Dr. Cecil Garretton, of Bethel, pledged his best efforts to carry on the work of the organization in a commendable way and to make it of still greater value to the community.

Dr. S. M. Crisp and J. M. Winstead were hosts, and a delightful supper was served by the ladies of the club.

An interesting paper dealing with "Diabetes" was read by Dr. Winstead, member of the staff of Pitt Community Hospital. Dr. Tom Watson gave an illuminating description of a case of pneumonia, which recently came under his observation.

A considerable part of the session was confined exclusively to discussion of business of the organization and plans for the new year.

Attendance was described as the best in sometime, virtually all sections of the county being well represented.

HOUSE WORKS ON WAR DEPT. SUPPLY BILL

Senator Glass Considers Resorting to Suspension of Cloture Rule to Cut Down Debate on Banking Bill; Philippine Bill to be Considered by the Senate on Next Monday; House Decides to Reject Regrouping Plan Suggested by President.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Fillibuster, the Senate's dread old man of the sea, still rode astride that legislative body today, but the House after whooping down President Hoover's objections to Philippine independence, went ahead with work on the War Department supply bill.

Senator Long, Democrat, of Louisiana, was ready today to continue his drive against the Glass banking bill as the Senate came together to resume consideration of other measures.

Senator Glass, of Virginia, author of the banking measure, was considering resorting to suspension of the cloture rule to cut down the flow of debate that has swept over the Senate the last four days.

The Philippine veto administered by President Hoover yesterday was in the Senate, but leaders did not expect to call it up until Monday. The House overrode his objections yesterday.

There were varying claims as to what the Senate would do with it. The five-day week and extension of further Federal aid to the unemployed was considered by a committee, while both Senate and House committees were busy with mortgage relief and bankruptcy legislation.

House Democrats had decided to reject the President's plan for regrouping governmental departments.

Late News Flashes

Short Session Today Raleigh, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Nineteen members of the state senate attended a 24-minute session of the upper house of the General Assembly today. There are 50 members of the body.

The body adopted a resolution directing the local government commission to furnish it with information of default of indebtedness payments by county units of the state.

Senator House told the chamber that such action was needed to stop rumors floating around among creditors in New York and other places. The resolution demands detailed information concerning all defaults.

Sen. McNeill, of Ashe, introduced a bill calling for the state to turn back a third of all gas taxes collected in the state's various counties to be used for the payment of debts.

The funds would be allocated to counties on a three-point basis—road mileage, county population and area.

Other principal or interest on the debts.

Teachers in the public schools would not be required to attend summer school to retain their professional standing during the years of 1934 and 1935 under a measure introduced by Senators Francis and Patton.

World Limit Governor's Powers Raleigh, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Senator Kirkpatrick today told the Senate he intended to introduce a bill in the General Assembly which would prohibit the governor from diverting State funds from the sources to which they were appropriated.

The bill would abolish much of the governor's authority as director of the budget.

Wrecked Trucks Scatter Edibles

Fayetteville, N. C., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Vegetables, fruits and edibles of all kinds literally rained on this section during the night.

ABOUT TOWN

Friday, January 13th certainly handed the people of this section a raw deal.
Eight inches of snow was what Mother Nature had to offer for the occasion and was that enough?—well, ask the man who had to replenish his coal bin to keep his family from freezing.

If the Philippines want their independence let them have it.
That's the sentiment of Congress but not of the president who yesterday vetoed the measure assuring the island independence in ten years.

The president is apprehensive concerning the ability of the Philippines to handle their affairs when they gain freedom. He believes that some other powers, casting greedy eyes on the vast resources of the tropics, might step in and try to claim the territory.

The emergency farm bill providing for minimum prices for important farm products has gone to the Senate for consideration and it is expected that body will pass it just like the House did.

Members of Congress realize as do others that something must be done to improve the condition of the farmer and if they can do it through such a bill, then all well and good.

Low prices have resulted in thousands of growers losing their homes to various parts of the nation, and until this condition improves and farming is put on a profitable basis there is little chance of improvement. The problem is one of the most important affecting the nation at this time and the sooner something is done the quicker the economic condition of the nation will hit the upward trend.

The automobile driver's license law proposed in the General Assembly by Senator Corey of Pitt county is due for favorable consideration this time in view of the extensive efforts which the legislature will make to produce additional revenue to decrease the state deficit.

In addition to raising more revenue, the law would make driving safer on the public highways of the state. For many people sit behind wheels of automobiles. Many of them are physically unqualified for such service, and others are mentally incapacitated in time of emergency.

The death toll has appalled the public in recent months in spite of complete enforcement of traffic laws and there is little hope of improvement of the situation until incompetent drivers are taken from behind the wheel.

The bill is deserving of serious thought and if passed should mean much to public life and property.

While the coming of the snowman will result in an improvement of the influenza situation, people should be careful of exposing themselves to lowered temperatures.

It would be the height of folly for persons with the slightest indication of the disease to expose themselves to the inclement weather yet the cold should increase the immunity of those who have no symptoms of illness.

The health officials are doing everything possible to aid the public in the fight against an epidemic but their efforts will be futile unless they receive hearty co-operation of the citizenship in all parts of the county.

Buying Barbara

SYNOPSIS: With her usual effrontery, Mrs. Lodely writes Barbara Quentin at Kings Mallard asking that she pack and store the Lodely belongings. Mark Lodely and his mother are in London, where Farrell Armitage is spending much money to launch Mark as an artist. Farrell hopes that when he has had Mark secure, perhaps even cured his lameness, Barbara will break her engagement to Mark and marry Mark's benefactor. Barbara finishes packing, steps out a moment, and returns to find someone in the Lodely's former home.

Chapter 30

LEILA SPEAKS HER MIND

Before Barbara had time to become frightened a cool voice said—

"Hello! There you are!"—and Leida came out into the hall.

"I've been to your rooms. Your landlady said you'd moved into your Tuxedo house, but you just might be here. So I thought I'd chance finding you. I've come straight from London."

"Why?" asked Barbara bluntly.

"The uncertain light of the swinging oil lamp showed no flush on Leida's cheek, but Barbara sensed that she felt repulsed."

"I didn't mean to sound snubby," she amended, though without haste.

"Only I wondered what you could have to say to me that was so important." She caught her breath sharply. "There's nothing wrong with Mark?"

"Mark's in clover. . . . Have you dealt with all this junk by yourself?"

"Yes."

"Just like Mrs. Lodely to swing it all on to you."

"That's not for you to say, Leida."

"Leida was unabashed. She turned back into the sitting-room and eyed the fountain pen and the papers. She was dressed in the golden tan leather coat and hat in which she looked so supple and invulnerable and aloof. She picked up a large sealed envelope torn at the edges and weighed it absently in her hand."

"You forgot these, Barbara."

"No. There was no room. I must take them in a separate parcel. . . . Oh, that big envelope has split! I suppose there was too much in it."

"Leida turned it over carelessly and it split further. It had been ridiculously crammed."

"Barbara. I came down to urge you to do Patsy Raoul's house."

"I don't think you bothered to find me just to ask me that."

"Barbara was scornful and because she was also tired to the point of collapse she let her scorn show. She began to put Mrs. Lodely's papers together, placing one ill-tied bundle upon the other. Leida's hand went out and stopped her."

"Barbara— She sounded almost moved, for Barbara—"We used to be friends as children. Why do you hate me so?"

"I don't hate you," she protested—"exactly."

"I think you do—exactly. And you've no reason. What is it you've got against me?"

"I suppose that I resent—whatever there is—between you and Mark."

"There's nothing between us now. And for what there once may have been, blame Mark as well as me."

"Blame Mark?" Barbara said, her scorn intensifying. "How futile of you to push responsibility on to my poor Mark!"

"Then she stepped back, back and back until a chair impeded her retreat. And step by step Leida, ablaze, pursued her."

"Your poor Mark! Why yours—why yours? He could have been mine! He would have been happier with me. You're lovely, in a picture book way, but you've never attracted him as I have. He isn't your type of lover. Ah, you're offended by that! You think I've no right to say it!"

"You have less than no right. You're impertinent."

"And you're selfish!"

"Selfish—? . . . Leida, hadn't you better go?"

"You are selfish—selfish and proud. You made a promise when you were too much of a child to understand the nature of it and now it has become a matter of pride with you to keep your word. You never ask yourself if Mark is really happy in your care."

"Barbara flung back her head. 'I don't need to ask myself. I ask Mark instead—and he tells me that he is happy and that he loves me and that he wants to marry!'"

"Of course he tells you that, because you've made him believe it. Mark's lazy, Mark's cruel, and there is a side of Mark that makes him hold to you because with you he can be as lazy and cruel as he chooses. How do you know that with me he might not learn to be less crazy and less cruel?"

"Because," said Barbara, icy, unrelenting, "I saw a portrait he painted of you. He has never been so cruel to me as that."

"Oh, Mark! Oh, Mark!"

Leida's hands were flung out, as though she sought for help. Then she went stiffly back to the table, sat down and held her head.

Barbara's anger had vanished utterly. She, too, returned to the table.

"I'm terribly sorry I said that, Leida! Terribly ashamed!"

After a moment the muffled voice answered from under shielding fingers.

"You needn't be. I provoked you to it. Has anyone besides yourself seen it?"

"No," said Barbara without a quail. She added, coming closer—"It's destroyed now, absolutely obliterated. You can forget it—and everything to do with it."

"I'd like to tell you about—the

NOTICE OF LAND SALE

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in that certain deed of trust executed and delivered to R. H. Woolard, Trustee, by E. R. Dudley, unmarried, on the 27th day of March, 1930, which said deed of trust is duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County in Book M.18, page 450, default having been made in the payment of the indebtedness secured thereby, the undersigned will offer for sale for cash at public auction before the Court House door in Greenville, Pitt County, N. Situate lying and being in that portion of the city of Greenville known as East Greenville, at the southwest corner of Third and Summit Streets and beginning at a stake the southwest intersection of said Third and Summit Streets and running thence in a southwardly course with the western boundary of Summit Street 50 feet to a stake; thence in a northwesterly course and parallel with Third Street, 135 feet to a stake; thence in a north-easterly course parallel to Summit Street 50 feet to the southern boundary of Third Street; thence easterly with the southern boundary of Third Street 135 feet to the beginning, and being the identical parcel of land which was

TODAY Two New Style Leaders THE 1933 OLDSMOBILES

THE NEW SIX THE NEW STRAIGHT EIGHT

PRICES REDUCED '130 TO '145 A Roomier more Powerful Six $745 * A Larger more Luxurious Eight $845

NEW! . . . Two motor cars entirely different from anything you ever saw. New radiators—lamps—hoods—windshields. New fenders and wheels. New rear contours. Symmetrical new design from end to end. And with style leadership, these 1933 Oldsmobiles also bring you every other desirable quality—at the lowest prices in ten years.
Larger—Roomier—More Powerful The new Six is a roomier, more comfortable car. . . . The Eight is larger and finer in every respect. Both are extremely brilliant performers. And progressive engineering has still further increased the dependability for which Oldsmobile is famous.
The Six engine is larger and develops 80 h.p.—while the Eight has been increased to 90 h.p. As a result, the new Six will do from 75 to 80, the Eight from 80 to 85—actual stop-watch miles per hour.
Engines Cradled in Rubber The new Oldsmobile engines are cushioned on a three-point rubber mounting of new scientific design. This mounting is the most successful yet perfected, and overcomes all sensation of effort or vibration from the source of power.
Lower, Sturdier Chassis In both the new Six and Straight Eight, Oldsmobile has employed a special double-drop X-type frame which greatly strengthens the chassis and provides unusual driving stability. By permitting a substantial reduction in the car's height, the new frame contributes also to the pleasing new body lines.
Fisher No Draft Ventilation Outwardly and inwardly, Oldsmobile's new Fisher bodies offer many important refinements. For instance, the revolutionary new Fisher No Draft Ventilation, Individually-Controlled, is built into all closed models.
Demand Balanced Excellence! Don't compromise, this year! Demand style, performance, and durability, at prices which represent top value. The new Oldsmobile Six and Eight—two outstanding General Motors values—offer you balanced excellence in everything essential to motoring pleasure, comfort and satisfaction.
The 1933 Oldsmobile Sixes range in price from $745—the Eights from $845—f. o. b. Lansing. Bumpers and spare tires are extra. Convenient G.M.A.C. time payment plan.

A SEAT in the CABINET?

Editor's Note: This is the sixth of a series of articles picturing briefly men and women mentioned for posts in the Roosevelt cabinet.

Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia, mentioned for at least half the cabinet posts, is known to the public for a variety of activities.

HARRY FLOOD BYRD

A successful newspaper publisher in his teens, he branched out into apple growing, general farming, banking and the storage business, mixing these with politics since he was 28 years old.

Politics brought him prominently into the public eye. After eight years at Richmond as senator he became governor at 38 and immediately launched a sweeping reform of the state government. He is only 45 years old now.

Since he left the governors office in 1930 he has devoted his time to his businesses and the Democratic party. He is the party's national committee man from Virginia.

After defeat for the presidential nomination at Chicago he offered his services to President-elect Roosevelt and became the campaign treasurer.

A member of a family prominently identified with the history of Virginia since it was a colony, Byrd nevertheless has insisted always that he is just a small-town newspaperman and farmer.

Carolina Playmakers at College
January 26th

The Carolina Playmakers will present three one-act plays at East Carolina Teachers College on the evening of January 26. This is their 15th season and the thirty-first bill of plays by them.

The Playmakers will come in their special bus bringing with them their equipment for stage and lighting as they formerly did. Last year they did not make a tour, but this did not mean that their work did not go steadily forward.

The Playmakers have appeared here time and again in the past, both at the college and in the local theatre and are always given a warm reception. The Playmakers themselves, with the exception of Dr. Frederick Koch, change, but as a group of players they always seem to have the same fine spirit and high standards. There will probably be no more than two or three people who were in the cast here about three years ago.

The plays are all new plays, written by new players and are natives of other states. The first of the plays is "Davy Crockett," by John Phillip Milhous of Tennessee, and is a colorful drama of the Tennessee frontier. The second is "Four on a Heath," a grotesque by Foster Pittsimmmons of Georgia; the third, "Stumbling in Dreams," is a folk comedy of Tin Pan Alley, by George Brown, of New York City.

Jan. 14.—James Lester Godette, negro, charged with the killing of David Sparrow, another negro, in the Harlowe section on September 18, was sentenced this week to thirty years in the State penitentiary. New Year Brings Young Film Stars Chances to Shine

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood, Calif., Jan. 14.—Although the popularity of old and middle-aged character stars continues as expected with the successes of Marie Dressler, George Arliss, and Lionel Barrymore among others, the new year seems likely to see greater opportunities extended to youth.

No halt in the parade of more experienced character players to the movies can be noted. Henrietta Crosman is yet to be seen in her first film under her new contract; Alison Skipworth continues to draw leading assignments; Edna May Oliver

KINSTON TO PLAY CAGERS HERE MONDAY

The girls' basketball team of the Kinston High School will play their first conference game of the season with Kinston at the high school auditorium next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The game was scheduled for Friday night, but was postponed on account of unfavorable weather.

The game is being anticipated with much interest by members of the student body and the largest attendance of the season was expected.

CAROLINA TO PLAY DEACON CAGERS TODAY

Chapel Hill Jan. 14.—The Carolina basketball team will swing back into its Big Five campaign tonight, meeting Wake Forest here at 8:30 in a game which is expected to be the hardest the Tar Heels have played to date.

A preliminary attraction scheduled for 7:15 o'clock will see the Carolina Freshman quint open its season against the Wake Forest Yearlings, who already had a decision over the Duke Blue Imps.

In the matter of comparative scores Carolina beat Guilford 66-9 and Davidson 56-18 and continued to look good against V. P. I. last night.

Wake Forest trounced Catawba 41-15 and locked good holding Duke to 33-24. Many fans thought the Deacons might have won had Mulhern and Barnes been in shape at forward to give them full strength.

Duke had previously beaten Davidson 56-14. So the stage seems to be set for one of the best contests of the early season and for one that may bear importantly in the Big Five championship race.

Coach Bob Shepard said today he would stick to the same Carolina lineup but indicated he might have to shift the Carolina defenses somewhat since Wake Forest uses an offense considerably different from that of the other teams Carolina has been playing.

Stock Market

New York, N. Y., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The stock market absorbed week-end profit-taking in today's short session and closed with a steady tone.

Leaders yielded from a fraction to a point for a time but the list stiffened in the late dealings, influenced by buying of tobaccos.

Few issues were up or down as much as a point.

The turnover was 350,000 shares. Procter & Gamble reduced their quarterly dividend to 47 from 50 and that issue lost a point. Dividend action had been anticipated earlier in the week.

Continental Can, which recently appeared to show considerable bullish activity, lost about a point.

Eastman was a firm spot, up a point along with tobaccos, notably American Liggett Myers and Reynolds.

American Telephone and United States Steel were off substantially a fraction but went off only a quarter on final dealings.

Rails were steady at the close.

File Suit Against Woman
Winston-Salem, Jan. 14.—(AP)—An alleged shortage of $750,000 in a trust fund left by the late P. M. Bohannon, rich tobacco manufacturer, led to legal action today against Mrs. Maude B. Trotman, Bohannon's daughter, and a bonding company.

Mrs. Trotman was guardian for her four children to whom the trust fund was sent by the grandfather.

The suit was filed by the State of North Carolina in relation to J. C. Trotman, the present guardian, and seeks to recover an entire amount of $962,284 less a credit of $43,964, the amount Mrs. Trotman said she actually spent on her children under her guardianship.

In Atlantic City it was comparatively warm and there was no trace of rain.

snowman, and this morning several inches of the down white blanket had been done away with, although a good coating continued to remain in places where traffic was not seriously affected.

No accidents of any consequence were reported in this immediate section as result of the snow. Automobiles during the morning hours made their way cautiously about the city, and while some were stuck for a short time, the majority got through safely and without serious impairment of service.

Telephone and telegraph companies were able to maintain unbroken service with other sections of the country, and while connections may not have been as good as under normal conditions, no actual disruption of communications was reported.

County schools did not open yesterday morning because trucks were unable to reach schools in many of the rural districts. City schools closed at the noon hour. All educational institutions, however, were scheduled to resume work Monday morning unless an unexpected assault of the weather causes a change in decision of the heads of public instruction.

Although the snow was reported to have reached a depth of eleven inches in some sections of the State, it was not believed it went over eight or nine inches here. Starting shortly before dawn yesterday morning, the Weather Bureau reported five inches by 8 o'clock. Flakes stopped falling shortly after the noon hour, and these were followed by light rain which continued intermittently throughout the night, diminishing the fluffy flakes piled up by the snowman earlier in the day.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

Sir Malcolm Campbell, the wiry little British racing driver, is coming back to roar up and down Daytona Beach again, his telescope sights trained on a little row of flags marking the edge of the beach and his foot-accelerator level with the floor or "full ball," as he describes it himself.

It still gives me something of a chill to recall the utter disgust with which Sir Malcolm stepped from his Blue Bird at Daytona last February, lit a cigarette and commented on a blanket-blank machine that could do not better than 245 miles an hour.
