Apparently the rescue ship arrived in the nick of time, for an hour and five minutes before the American Merchant arrived the captain of the Exter City sent from his ship the message: "American Merchant not yet arrived."

TWO ARE ARRESTED ON DOUBLE CHARGE

Henderson, N. C., Jan. 20.—George Badger Read, white man, and Charles Watkins, negro, were in custody here today on the double charge of arson and theft in connection with the burning of the home of H. E. Brewer, Nibush Township constable, at Drewry last November 30. The men were taken into custody by Sheriff J. E. Hamlett, who went to Halifax to get them.

Brewer's home was destroyed by fire the night of November 30. The family was away at the time. The constable's $33 pistol was recovered from Eugene Watkins, of Middleburg, white man, who said he got it from the negro under arrest, Sheriff Hamlett stated today.

The sheriff said the negro told him he and Reid were responsible for the burning of the Brewer home.

PLAN TO MOVE INFANT SOON

Libby Holman Reynolds' Baby To Be Taken From Incubator Shortly

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 20.—(AP)—The possibility that Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds' baby can be moved from his hot bed in an incubator in less than a month was expressed today by Dr. Horace Vaux.

Recently it had been estimated the underweight infant would have to remain in a heated crib for a month. The baby is gaining weight every day, the doctor said, and has a remarkable chance of growing into a normal and healthy boy.

The doctor said Mrs. Reynolds, widow of Smith Reynolds, tobacco millionaire, found fatally shot at his Winston-Salem, N. C., home last July, is also progressing nicely.

Hinsdale Introduces His 'Luxury Tax' Measure In State General Assembly

BILL SIMILAR TO ONE BEATEN TWO YEARS AGO

Measure Expected To Aid Materially in Balancing Budget if Passed by the Two Houses; Wake Solon Confident of Victory

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Senator John Hinsdale of Wake County today introduced his "Luxury Tax" bill.

The measure is similar to the Hinsdale bill of 1931 around which the last General Assembly fought for months.

Two years ago the bill missed a single vote of becoming law. Senator Hinsdale proposes a combination of stamp and retail sales and as a safeguard to the State and for those who say the bill will not rise sufficient revenue, Senator Hinsdale planned to offer a flexible clause which will levy additional revenue if the original plans fall below expectation.

This provisional tax will be either a general sales tax or an additional to the license tax schedule.

The 1933 edition of the Hinsdale measure will provide for the following tax on retail sales:

Cigarettes, cosmetics, soft drinks and malted liquors, at a rate of two cents; theater and amusements admission cards selling for over 50 cents a pound and playing cards, at 10 cents.

Sugar, one cent a pound; automobiles from $5 to $30, based on sales value.

Shells $4 a thousand and cartridges $2 per thousand.

A documentary tax would include 10 cents on the $100 of stock transfers.

"This is better than the last one," Senator Hinsdale said. "This has one advantage of criticism the last one received."

Asked what chance he believed his bill had of passage, Senator Hinsdale said:

"This or some other form of sales tax must be adopted if we are to balance the budget. I think this form is best. The production tax would ruin industry out of the State, for today industry cannot stand much more. I am wedded to the idea that the tax on nine essentials is fairer than a tax on necessities."

MRS. TAYLOR PASSES AWAY

Aged Woman Dies at Her Home About a Mile West of the City Early Today

Mrs. Martha Taylor, 82, died this morning at 7 o'clock at her home of the Joe Moye farm, one mile west of Greenville. She had been in declining health since the death of her husband two months ago.

She is survived by three sons: L. F. Taylor and Cleo Taylor, Pitt County, and Major Smith, of Beaufort County, son of her first husband who died several years ago.

Mrs. Taylor was of a genial disposition and was loved by people of the community in which she spent a great part of her life.

PITT LEADS TYPHOID WORK

Health Officer Warns Concerning Tubercular Situation Among Negroes

Pitt County was believed to have led the State in typhoid fever vaccinations during the past year on the basis of reports so far received by the Pitt County Department of Health. It was revealed today.

Records of the Department of Health showed that a total of 11,921 persons were immunized against the fever during the period as compared with 5,031 for the previous year.

The typhoid campaign was carried into every part of the county. Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of the Department of Health stated, and there was less deaths reported than any period in the last five years.

The rapid increase in vaccinations was attributed to the movement inaugurated here several years ago for educating the people to the importance of the immunization campaign. People who never before showed any interest in the vaccinations applied at the various clinics for treatment.

Pitt County vaccinated more people than some of the other counties with more population and greater public health facilities, and this led to the belief that more people were vaccinated than in any other county in the State, although records so far are not complete.

In one of his weekly health talks with the press this morning, the health director emphasized more attention to the tubercular situation prevailing among colored people in various parts of the county. He urged:

FIRM WINS NOTE ACTION

Farmville Fertilizer Company Awarded Judgment For $1,900 In Civil Court

The Farmville Oil and Fertilizer Company obtained judgment for $1,900 against J. R. Worthington in yesterday's session of the civil term of Superior Court, the suit growing out of a note which the defendant gave the plaintiff for fertilizer.

Mr. Worthington contended he did not sign the notes and the fertilizer company declared he did. After considerable evidence had been produced on both sides, and admission from the defendant that he received the fertilizer, the jury ruled in favor of the plaintiff.

One other case was disposed of during the day's session, it being that of Charlie Hines against the Farmville Oil and Fertilizer Company in which the plaintiff sought to recover $10,000 for injuries which he sustained when he fell from a box-car into a culvert while unloading wood at the company's plant in Farmville.

After all evidence had been submitted, Judge Henry A. Grady, of Clinton, ordered non-suit. He based his action on the fact that the railroad spur on which the negro was unloading the car belonged to the railroad company and not to the fertilizer company, thereby relieving the latter concern of responsibility.

A score or more cases have been disposed of since court began work last Monday and several others were expected to be completed with the final day's work today.

Next week court will turn its attention to the cases of the day. (Continued on page four)

Late News Flashes

Today In The Legislature

Raleigh, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Drastic changes in the state governmental set up of North Carolina which it was estimated by the General Assembly joint committee on reorganization would save $2,000,000 annually were recommended today.

Senator Moore of Craven, author of the resolution creating the committee which he headed explained the report to the House by Rep. Cherry of Gaston. Under the proposal the power of the budget bureau would be materially strengthened and it would have power to control all public school appropriations.

Recommendations included: Consolidation of the highway and prison departments; virtual abolition of the department of public welfare with its duties to be taken over by the board of health; suspension of the annual state fair; abolition of the present corporation commission and creation of the position of public utility commissioner; enlargement of the powers of the board of equalization; transfer of the highway patrol to the revenue department and giving it new and numerous duties and consolidation of the state librarian and head of the library commission.

SNOW STORM SWEEPS OVER CALIFORNIA

Heaviest Rain In 20 Years Also Reported In Citrus Raising Section

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 20.—(AP)—A snowstorm early today swept over southern California's rich citrus area in the wake of the heaviest rain in twenty years.

The snow melted as quickly as it hit the ground and damage to crops were negligible.

Many families were driven from their homes by overflow water in the ordinary dry washes of the Canoga farm district.

High winds accompanied the rain yesterday, and last night reached a velocity of sixty miles an hour at San Pedro and forced ships of the United States fleet to take to sea under forced draught. Other ships of the fleet go up steam in case of emergency.

POLICE GO FOR NEGRO KILLER

Virginia Officers go to Boston to Return Geo. Crawford For Trial

Boston, Mass., Jan. 20.—(AP)—Virginia officers were en route here today to get George Crawford, 26-year-old negro who made a partial confession of being a party to the slaying of Mrs. Ann Isley, Virginia sportswoman, and her maid, Mrs. Nima Buckner. The actual slaying was laid to another negro who Crawford said was named Charlie Jackson.

John Gallager, commonwealth attorney of Loudan County, Virginia, questioned the negro three hours yesterday before obtaining a partial confession.

Application Made For Establishing 100 Watt Broadcasting System in City

Efforts were under way today to obtain a radio broadcasting station for Greenville, it was announced from the offices of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Application to install a 100-watt station here has already been filed with the Federal Radio Commission and should it go through the studio and transmitter would be located in the Proctor Hotel building on Evans Street.

Decision to file application for the station was the culmination of a meeting here the middle of the week between K. W. Cobb, Julius White and J. O. Clark, representing the Chamber of Commerce, and Will Wynne of Raleigh, who installed the radio station at the Capitol City and who has seen considerable experience in this field of endeavor having been connected with the Westinghouse Electric Company at one time.

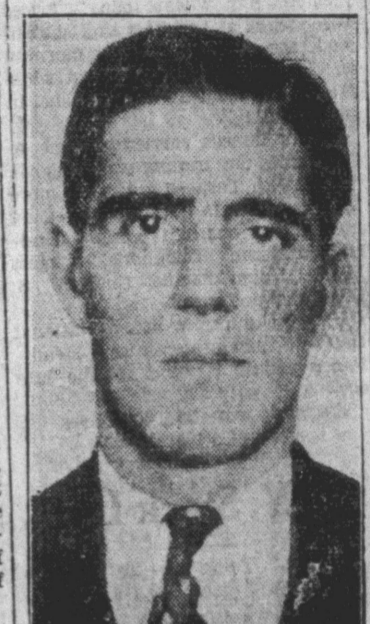

Although full plans concerning operation of the station will not be worked out until it has been determined if permission will be granted, it was stated there would be no service at night. Complete programs, however, would be presented during the day.

Members of the committee were highly gratified over their conference with Mr. Wynne and declared that a radio station here would mean much to this part of the country desiring closer contact with the outside world.

O. L. Tucker, of Greensboro, N. C., presented half a ham to a man charged with stealing the entire Tucker meat supply.

TWO ROBBERS TO GO ON TRIAL

Joe Berry and T. C. Poole to Face Grand Jury Here in Bank Robberies

Joe Berry and T. C. Poole, of Raleigh, are scheduled to go on trial here next week in connection with the attempted robbery of the Bank of Winterville the latter part of last year. Berry is also to face trial for alleged participation in the effort to rob the Bank of Fountain shortly before the Christmas holidays.

Both prisoners will face the grand jury here during the first of the week.

Officers said today the two men had confessed to the unsuccessful attempt to rob the Winterville bank, but disclaimed any connection with the Fountain affair in which Chief of Police Bryan, of Fountain, was shot through the leg in a brush with the bandits who escaped.

Berry was arrested shortly afterward by Goldsboro police. The car in which he was riding was identified as that used in the attempted Fountain robbery. The machine was said to have contained several kinds of instruments used in bank robberies.

Poole was arrested at Raleigh a short time ago and was brought here and held in jail to await trial along with Berry.

Although the two men were reluctant to talk about the case at first, officers said they later admitted they were trying to enter the vault of the Bank of Winterville when daylight overtook them and they were unable to complete the job.

The bank vault was badly damaged, and in making a hasty exit the robbers left behind them an acetylene torch and other equipment which was being used in the effort to enter the safe.

Some equipment was left at Fountain also when bandits, surprised by Chief Bryan and three citizens, shot it out with the officers and escaped.

Auto License Bureau Open All The Year

The automobile License Bureau located in the Blades Motor Company will be open all the year round, it was stated today, in an attempt to counteract an erroneous impression that the office would be closed as soon as the bulk of sales has been completed.

Mrs. N. C. Brooks in charge of the local bureau, said today the office would be open every day except Sunday, and that she would be glad to serve automobile owners in any capacity coming under the jurisdiction of her department.

DETAILS OF CONFAB HELD IN SECRET

At Forefront of the Discussion However, Is the War Debt Question; International Relations with Britain to Also Come In for Consideration; Both Attended By Advisors

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—(AP)—President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt in today's White House conferences agreed upon a discussion of war debts with representatives of Great Britain to take place early in March after the change of administrations.

A statement issued at the White House following the official talk with Great Britain would include also the economic problems of the world and means for improving the world situation. Secretary Stimson was instructed to initiate negotiations with Britain arranging for the projected conference.

Mr. Roosevelt made no statement when the White House session was over, but it is known he planned to do so after leaving the city for a trip to Muscle Shoals.

In diplomatic quarters note was taken that the statement referred to Britain alone. At the very time it was issued, blasts against the French default on payments of the December 15 debt installment to this country were being sounded in the Senate.

Senator Robinson, Indiana, had sent it off with scathing speech in which he termed that a "thorough ingrate." He was joined by Senators from both parties.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—(AP)—America's interest in the affairs of the world engaged President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt in conference at the White House today.

They sat down to ponder the situation facing the nations of the world and especially the economic problems in the Red Room of the mansion.

Each was attended, Secretary Stimson and Secretary Mills at hand to advise President Hoover and Professor Raymond I. Moley accompanied the next President.

To the very last a screen of secrecy shrouded the details of the interview.

At the forefront the discussion was the war debt dispute and especially international relations with Great Britain.

WAYNE MURDER CASE TO COME UP MONDAY

Goldboro, Jan. 20.—J. T. Tyndall, middle-aged farmer living near Miller's Crossing, this county, will be tried for the murder of Elijah Helms, early in December, at the term of Superior Court which convenes here Monday.

Tyndall was denied bail and has remained in the Wayne jail since the slaying. Victor Worrell, the only eye-witness, was placed under $1,500 bond as a material witness.

After the slaying Worrell told the officers that he and Helms, who was nineteen years old, were passing Tyndall's house, and that the latter invited them in and gave them a drink of whiskey. Tyndall offered his wife a drink also, which she refused. The three men went into the dining-room and sat down at the table. Tyndall left the room and shortly returned with a double-barrel shot-gun and shot Helms in the face, and turning the gun on Worrell, pulled the other trigger, but there was no shell in that barrel.

ABOUT TOWN

The League of Nations is endeavoring to settle the dispute between Japan and China but so far little has been accomplished. Japan is insisting on her demands for her rights in Manchuria and in spite of several things that can be done to dissuade her from warfare, plans continue to be pushed forward for pressing the situation.

The situation is far from bright and with continued aggressions it is not to be doubted that the Far East will be visited by another conflict, even more pronounced than that last year when thousands of defenseless Chinese were slain by Japanese who invaded the Shanghai district.

The obstinacy of the Japanese government if continued must inevitably result in one thing—employment with China and other nations which may be affected by destruction of foreign properties.

There are those who are pessimistic and see anything successful in the aspects of the situation as it now stands and the majority of us will breathe easier when we have heard that Japan has agreed to conciliatory proposals advanced by the League of Nations.

Judge Grady will speak on the "Civil Form of Government" in his charge to the grand jury next Monday and public officers of the country have been urged to attend.

It is highly imperative that officers be more fully informed concerning the structure and operation of their government in the performance of their duty and it is probably with the idea of imparting this information that Judge Grady has decided to deal with the subject.

Charges of this kind should have a very constructive influence, and certainly after hearing the distinguished jurist the officers will be able to return to their respective communities and work along more intelligent lines than heretofore. Intelligent application of the law depends upon one's knowledge of the government under which he lives and with more information along this line it is to be expected that enforcement will be conducted upon a higher and more satisfactory plane.

A recent contributor to one of our state papers expressed opinion that salaries of school teachers should be cut in proportion to prices received for farm products basing his estimate on the fact that farm produce is selling at prices as low as in the days when operation of schools was not as expensive as it is now.

The contributor evidently didn't bear in mind the fact that teachers today are required to have higher scholastic training than they did in the old days and that it takes just as much money to obtain the training as it does for lawyers, doctors and other professional men and women to reach proficiency in their fields of endeavor.

It was proposed that salaries of school teachers be cut to $20 per month when teachers in many other states are receiving twice as much as is being paid in this state at the present.

If it were possible to get boarding house keepers to reduce board and lodging to $10 a month instead of $20 or $40 it is possible teachers might be able to go for a while on such a salary but until that is done such a drastic reduction is clean out of the question.

Instead of taking from those who find it difficult to make ends meet and who have been subject to repeated cuts in recent years, why not reach out and get the officials higher up who receive from three to four times as much as school instructors, yet are not required to have nearly as high scholastic training.

The situation is one that demands attention of the analytical-minded men and women of the country, and when that is given we should not longer be in doubt where to cut.

Rotarians will go to Ayden tonight.

Buying Barbara

by Julia Clift-Addams, Author of "YOU CAN'T MARRY"

SYNOPSIS: Mark Ledy, cruel, bitter but gifted as an artist, sends a curt telegram to his fiancée, Barbara Quentin, demanding that she come to him. The telegram is intended to humiliate Farrell Armistage, the millionaire, who is financing Mark's London career. Farrell hopes that when he has made the arrogant artist successful, Barbara will no longer pity him and will jilt Mark for Mark's benefactor. Barbara telegraphs Mark's mother, who replies that Mark does not need her.

Chapter 35

MARK'S ULTIMATUM. Barbara told herself that she would write to Mark and explain that she suspected only a mood in him. Then if it were more than a mood, he could send his call again.

She made her way to her own room and lit her lamp. There was an old Venetian mirror here which she had delicately re-glided. She lit the candles that flanked it and looked at her reflection.

Candle-light was certainly flattering. It made her hair the pale, delicate gold of the gliding and under each wave it placed a shadow. It gave darkness to her eyes, the texture of white velvet to her skin, mystery to the line of her throat.

She felt as though someone stood at her shoulder, whose gaze lingered upon her. Not Mark—not Mark—She blew out the candles and scurried downstairs.

The next few days left her without word or sign from either of the Ledeys. Their silence stretched her nerves and she threw herself into her work to forget the whole affair.

Then, gradually, she lost the sense of being a naughty disobedient child and began to paper the kitchen. She was on the top of a step-ladder, her shears thrust into the pocket of her smock, her thoughts straying towards tea and hot buttered toast, when the telegraph boy came up the path again.

She called him in and read the message, sealed on the top of the ladder. Mark made himself perfectly clear. "Come to me here or consider our engagement at an end."

"No answer," she said. She had to choose between her self-respect and her marriage to Mark. There was no mistake about it—Mark was not ill or in trouble, he was just determined that she should step out of the stream of her own life and come to him when he beckoned her.

She thought, sitting there in the gathering dusk, that she had no choice but to go; and she thought that this love she had for him was very close to fear and very close to hate.

But she made no preparation to go. She sat there, thinking and wishing she could have finished the kitchen.

Half an hour elapsed and then another telegraph boy lumbered up to the little house. She read: "Please, Barbara. There was no more."

Oh, but it was enough! She dismissed the boy and flew about her preparations. No mooning, now. In fifteen minutes she was closing up the house and running into the road.

She thought she might catch the London train if she could get a car from a garage she knew. She was there sooner than she had thought possible but there was no available car.

She hurried out without explanation. She swung down a side-road and emerged into a decorous street of offices. Before one of these stood a big, dark car which she recognized. As she hesitated, its owner came across the pavement and she dashed up and spoke to him.

"Sir James, could you possibly run me to the station? I might just be able to catch the London express if you would?"

He started violently and peered at her over his everlasting smirk. "Get in! Get in! By all means! Jones slip along to the station as fast as you can. Pull up this rug, my dear Miss Barbara; the evenings are far from warm lately. Though, bless me, you youngsters don't seem to feel the cold!"

Barbara was puzzled by his manner. He appeared to force himself to meet her eyes—and yet he was more syrupy than usual as he fussed over her. He had turned off the light in the roof just as the car moved away but almost immediately he turned it on again.

"You've had a wire from Mark, have you? I suppose he's not so well again. Natural he should send you—quite natural. Lella tells me he's making a splash up there, all the same. Wonderful, I think, considering everything. Yes, Lella stayed a night with you last week, I hear?"

"I'm afraid she wasn't very comfortable." "Most kind of you to put yourself out. My girl's spoiled, I fear and it's a bit late to do anything about it. Cool—and hard."

Barbara was barely listening. A part of her mind was recording that to meet with the club of that place. It is the first joint meeting of banquet clubs in several months and good results are expected to be obtained.

So Fagged Out, Drowsy She Could Hardly Work. "I seemed to be so weak. I would feel so fagged out and drowsy I could hardly do my work," writes Mrs. Lela Adams, of Goreville, Ill. "I was in this condition for some time, till I felt nervous and out of sorts. A friend told me to take Cardui. I did, and began to improve. I felt much stronger and gained in weight. Cardui seemed to help me in every way. I have nothing but praise for Cardui."

If you are run-down, nervous, or suffer every month, take Cardui, a women's medicine, used by women for over 50 years. As your health improves, you will share the enthusiasm of thousands of women who have praised Cardui for the benefits they have felt after taking it. Cardui is sold at drug stores here.

WANT ADS PAY. Can't Find Words to Express Their Unstinted Praise and Thanks. For the Wonderful Results This Happy Family Received By Using Sargon and the Sargon Soft Mass Pills. All Five Generations Didn't Believe Any Medicine on Earth Could Do So Much For Them Says Mrs. J. F. Posey.

"Just think of any one medicine that is so strengthening and invigorating that even my dear old mother, who will be 93 years old next August, owes her present good state of health to Sargon and Sargon Pills, and says that she hopes by their continued use to see her 100th birthday," said Mrs. J. F. Posey of No. 110 5th Avenue, Phenix City, Ala., in a recent statement.

"In fact," continued Mrs. Posey, "our whole family are great boosters for this wonderful treatment, and I can't find words to express my deepest praise and sincere gratitude. Sargon has transferred me from suffering and despair, to health and happiness, and I have now more strength, energy and enthusiasm than I've known in years, as I at times suffered terribly with indigestion, and I would have those dizzy blind spells, and my heart would palpitate so wildly I thought I had serious heart trouble. I took all kinds of medicines and treatments without getting any benefit or results and lost all hope of ever being well again, but thanks to Sargon and Sargon Pills I now feel and look like a different person, and my bowels have been regulated perfectly by Sargon Pills, and I said before we are all great believers and boosters for this great remedy and will never miss an opportunity to praise it wherever we go."

Folk Play at College.

The second of the new one-act plays to be presented by the Carolina Playmakers when they visit East Carolina Teachers College on Thursday evening, January 26, will be "Four on a Heath," a grotesque by Foster Pitt-Simons of Atlanta, Ga.

The author would remind us that some of his most real experiences have been in the company of such glamorous heroes as John Silver, Otto of the Silver Hand, and Robin Hood. They were so terribly and fascinatingly real to him that he can conjure up the bright images now, undimmed in these days when realism is sought with such frantic energy. He finds it refreshing to recall his companionship with the brave heroes of his earlier years. They were his partners in making this play, he avers. "My little play is just what it is," he says. "If you get anything from it—good! If not, forget it as you would a dream."

This is only one of the three plays to be presented at the college by the dramatic organization of the University of North Carolina. The other two are new plays written by young playwrights at the university. "Davy Crockett" and "Stumbling in Dreams" are the others to be given.

Goldsboro is reported to have the strongest teams this year that they have had for several seasons. Tonight's encounter will be the first meeting between the two teams since 1929 when the locals won over Goldsboro by a 55 to 13 score.

Greenville Patriots Meet.

The Greenville Patriots chapter Daughters of American Revolution met at the home of the regent, Mrs. Travis Hooker, Wednesday afternoon, January 18.

After the Salute to the Flag, American's Creed and Rituals, we were led in prayer by Miss Eunice McGee. A short business session was held after which Mrs. R. L. Smith, vice-regent, gave an interesting reading of the life of Francis Scott Key. Miss Bessie Brown, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Guy Smith, sang "Fiddle and L" by Goodbye, and "Still as the Night" by Bohm.

The February meeting of the chapter will be held at the home of Mrs. E. L. Baker on Eighth and James streets.

The chapter presented Sheppard Memorial Library with two books, "Roster of Soldiers from North Carolina in the American Revolution," "Chapter Histories of the North Carolina Daughters of the American Revolution," and a Bicentennial plate.

After the meeting, a number of the guests of the afternoon, including Mrs. Frances Johnson of Statesville, department president of the Auxiliary of the American Legion, were invited into the beautifully decorated dining room where delicious refreshments were served. Mrs. R. L. Smith poured tea and was assisted in serving by Mrs. Bill Bradsher, Mrs. C. H. Dodson, Misses Fay Barnes and Louise Galphin.
