HEAVY HIGHWAY PROGRAM PLANNED BY MISSISSIPPI

Jackson, Miss., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Mississippi's State highway department faces 1933 with a schedule of work that includes completion of a heavy construction program—$4,320,000 obtained from Federal sources—and the knowledge that a $10,000,000 program can be launched if the State sells $5,000,000 in bonds already authorized.

The bulk of the work now under way will be completed the first six months of this year. Department plans are so advanced that sale of the bond issue, which would be matched by $5,000,000 of Federal aid, would see another program launched without delay.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—A vote on the reauthorization of silver faced the Senate today as it met an hour early in a determined effort to reach a decision on the Glass Banking Bill.

Currency inflation has been advanced in many Congressional quarters as one means of restoring a lull to the economically pale cheeks of the country and wide interest was attached to the debate on the issue.

TWO HUNDRED-YEAR-OLD COIN OWNED IN DURHAM

Durham, N. C., Jan. 24.—(AP)—A two-hundred-year-old coin, weighing one and three-quarter pounds, is the possession of Mrs. Henry L. Nesson, Durham woman.

It is a copper minted in Sweden in 1730. It is approximately six inches square and three-eighths of an inch thick.

Each of the four corners on one side bears a die stamp of the seal of Sweden while the center is marked with a seal bearing the denomination—one "daler"—on the awkward coin. The reverse bears no markings.

A European tourist thirty-five years ago gave the coin to Mrs. Nesson's father, M. D. Stecher, as a souvenir of his travels.

Mrs. Nesson's wages George Washington could not have thrown this "daler" across the Potomac.

Funeral Services to be Conducted From Home Near City Tomorrow Afternoon

Mrs. Della Tucker, 77, wife of the late J. A. K. Tucker, died this morning at 5 o'clock at her home nine miles east of Greenville. Death followed serious illness of a week, although she had been in declining health for the past three years.

Funeral services will be conducted from her late home Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Elder S. B. Her husband, one of the most prominent farmers and landowners in the section in which they resided, preceded her to the grave twenty-nine years ago.

T. E. BEAMAN JAILED IN NEW COURT ACTION

Former U. S. Commissioner Indicted by Grand Jury For Alleged Embezzlement Of Insurance Premiums; Already Faces Federal Charge of Bribery and Attempt To Violate National Prohibition Law.

Thomas E. Beaman, former U. S. Commissioner and minister of the gospel, was indicted by the grand jury in criminal court here yesterday on a charge of embezzlement. His bond was fixed at $500 but he was unable to provide it and was confined in jail to await trial.

Beaman is already under a federal charge of bribery and conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, and was released from the Martin county jail several weeks ago under bond of $1,000. Since that time he has been in Greenville awaiting action of federal court.

The new bill charging collection of insurance premiums without turning them over to the proper source, was drawn by D. M. Clark, solicitor of the Fifth Judicial District, following complaint of the National Guaranty and Finance Corporation, which Beaman was said to have represented.

The state has nearly thirty witnesses composed of both white and colored people who were said to have paid him on their insurance policies.

Immediately after the bill had been returned by the grand jury a capias was issued for the former pastor of the Free Will Baptist Church here and he remained at the sheriff's office while effort was made to arrange bond. This he was unable to do late in the evening and officers carried him over to the county jail to spend the night.

Beaman who first appeared in the limelight through his relentless fight against whiskey interests of the community about two years ago, was arrested by police about two months ago, charged with bribery and conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

The charge grew out of the former minister's acceptance of bribes from alleged members of the whiskey traffic for information regarding the operations of members of the law enforcement organization. The police laid a trap for him and he fell into it.

He was carried before U. S. Commissioner Manning at Williamson for a preliminary hearing and was bound over to the next session of federal court under bond of $5,000. He was unable to provide bail and was remanded to jail at Williamson after expressing a desire to spend his jail term there. He was later released under bond of $1,000 following habeas corpus hearing before Judge Meekins of the federal court.

Two other true bills were returned by the grand jury yesterday. (Continued on Page Six)

Congress Carrying On But Punch Is All Gone

By BYRON PRICE (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

To all intents and purposes, the seventy-second Congress may be regarded as through. Grogginess from its own fantastic gyrations, it appears to have no punch left in its system. It awaits only the final bell on March 4 to retire it from the political arena.

Speaking of it in the past tense—which even may of its own members are very glad to do—Washington is moving ahead to thoughts of the Congress that is to come. The question now is: What next?

The first thing to be remembered about the new Senate and House is that they were swept into power in the great 1932 upheaval of discontent. And two implications attach to that circumstance.

One is that the unwieldy Democratic majorities in both branches were established through election of a ticket headed by Franklin D. Roosevelt and therefore might be expected, normally, to look to him for legislative leadership.

The other is that this will not be a normal Congress at all, for it will have in it an extraordinary assortment of newcomers, many of them belonging to far-scattered independent wings of the party.

Leadership a Question

The new Senate will meet immediately after inauguration to confirm the Cabinet appointments. Present plans are to prolong the session to try for ratification of the long-pending World Court protocol.

Both Houses will assemble in special session a few weeks later, probably in mid-April. Then the doors will be open, and all sorts of legislation can be considered.

No one knows now whether the short Senate session will see the unusual spectacle of a genuine contest over the Cabinet confirmations, but it is possible. What does seem certain is that a bitter debate will center around the World Court. That may develop Mr. Roosevelt's first actual test.

But if the admiration does fall to get the court ratified, it need not be decisive as to administration prestige. It will be remembered that Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover all sought ratification and failed to get it.

Big Problems Loom

The more significant developments will follow the beginning of the general April session.

It is taken for granted Mr. Roosevelt will begin by asking for budget (Continued on Page Six)

"Swede" Anderson Shot by Officers After Leaping From Window of Train

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Stanley "Swede" Anderson, St. Louis underworld character who escaped from the United States marshals north of New Orleans yesterday by leaping through a window of a swiftly moving train, was shot and killed early today as he sought to flee northward on a fast freight train.

He was shot down by a deputy sheriff in an open field near Louisiana State University after jumping from the train. He was quickly identified by half a dozen letters in his pocket and by injuries about the face suffered in yesterday's leap through the window of a Pullman drawing-room while marshals were bringing him to New Orleans to face charges in connection with the alleged murder of a dry informer two years ago.

Search of swamps near Keener where he escaped proved fruitless and police officers throughout the section were asked to aid in the general search of railroads and highways.

With this she got six pairs of shoes and twelve pairs of hose.

Vote To Regulate Lobbyists

Raleigh, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Regulation of lobbyists for the first time in North Carolina was voted on by the General Assembly today.

The Senate passed by almost two to one the Ewing bill already approved in the House, which will require persons lobbying to register on public documents.

Reports of money received and spent will also be required and this is designed to bar lobbyists from the assembly hall.

The House held a short session and got two bills seeking reorganization of state policy on public school administration in the counties. No bills were passed.

In the Senate, the reorganization proposals to transfer the offices of legislative reference librarian to the attorney general's office passed without objection and the bill was sent to the House.

Late News Flashes

Two other reorganization proposals were referred back to committee for hearing tomorrow. One would abolish the corporation commission and create a public utility commission and another would consolidate the library commission.

The joint General Assembly committee on roads this morning heard representatives of farmers, stock owners, newspapermen, truck owners, bus companies, textile manufacturers, oil companies and others opposed to the Moore measure to levy a tax of half a mill on gross tonnage on all vehicles operated for hire on the highways. Opponents of the bill will be heard tomorrow.

A bill to consolidate the office of director of personnel with that of director of the budget got a favorable report from the House committee without objection and the bill was

Roosevelt-Norris Muscle Shoals Trip Revives Talk of Federal Operation

A new effort to put to use the long idle $450,000,000 Muscle Shoals project will get under way January 21 when President-Elect Roosevelt makes an inspection trip to the plant. He has invited George W. Norris (lower right), an advocate of government operation, to go with him. An airview of the project is shown.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—Muscle Shoals, for fourteen years this nation's monumental effort in preparation for war, seeks again purpose of peace.

January 21 President-Elect Roosevelt and members of the Alabama and Tennessee delegations in Congress are to visit the government's $150,000,000 munitions plant near Florence, Ala., whose possibilities of fertilizer and electric power production have been dormant for a decade.

Views Differ On Usage
Senator George W. Norris, Nebraska progressive Republican, also has been invited by the President-Elect to make the inspection trip. Norris long has advocated government operation of the project, but his proposals have been defeated. The invitation to Norris is seen in some quarters as indicating that Mr. Roosevelt may favor Federal operation of the power plant.

Mr. Roosevelt in his campaign, while stating that in general he favored private operation of utilities, left himself free to support government ownership and operation of certain utilities.

Through three Republican administrations all attempts to make use of Wilson dam and its power and nitrate plants have been frustrated by divergent views on whether the chief product should be cheap electric energy or low-cost fertilizer and whether it should be at the hands of private or public industry. Fertilizer-Making Opposed

The last unsuccessful bill for disposition of the property would have made it a giant fertilizer plant to be operated by heavily subsidized private interests if a lease could be obtained by the President within a year or by the Muscle Shoals corporation of the United States as an alternative.

Mr. Roosevelt's inspection tour has re-awakened opposition of the National Fertilizer Association to what it terms additional over-production plant food, and its officers have informed the President-elect that operation of Muscle Shoals for that purpose would be "uneconomical and unnecessary."

They assert that only Wilson dam and its power-plant are modern. The Sheffield steam plant, built fourteen years ago, was described as now No. 1, which never made a pound of nitrogen as absolutely useless and nitrate plant No. 2, as thoroughly obsolete in that it requires 16,000 k.w.h. of electric energy per ton of nitrogen fixed, whereas modern plants using the same process require only 9,000.

As to the need of fertilizer, the President-elect has been told that domestic nitrogen production capacity exceeds the present rate of consumption.

At the time the Muscle Shoals nitrates plants were built they were the only ones in the United States. There now are nine plants in operation.

CARDS BOUND FOR COMEBACK WITH NEW INFIELD -- STREET

With Jim Bottomley off to Cincinnati and Charley Gelbert's recovery from a hunting wound doubtful, Manager Gabby Street is preparing to spring a brand new infield combination on the Cardinals, National League rivals. The above quartet doesn't look half bad, eh?

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 13.—(AP)—It's quite a while from January to April, especially with player changes being made at the rate recently popular in the National League, but Sergeant Gabby Street has a pretty fair idea how his 1933 Cardinals will take the field.

Undimmed by the indignant 1932 showing of his charges, the doughy ex-battery mate of Walter Johnson thinks he can get the Redbird machine back into its 1931 stride with the following line-up:

And as good a guess as any to start the new season on the mound is Dizzy Dean, eccentric twirler who hung up an enviable strikeout record last season, his first in the major

The Japanese, as defensive allies of the regime of Henry Pu-Yi, are reorganizing the northwestern section of the country following the flight of the insurgent Chinese general Su Ping-Wen.

In this reorganization the Mongol princes have been given a large share. The districts on both sides of the Great Khingan mountains have been formed into a new province called Khinggan, which is further subdivided into three districts: northern, southern and eastern.

The northern district, corresponding to the Baga region west of the mountains with its capital at Hallar, is the most important. Prince Ling Sheng, most influential of the Mongol leaders, has been made chief executive of this northern district and Mongol military patrols are policing the area. The Japanese military authorities announce they will keep small garrisons for a time at Hallar and Manchukuo, but eventually the entire police duty will be given to Mongol troops.

CAROLINA PLAYMAKERS AT COLLEGE THURSDAY

The trustees of the University of North Carolina last winter unanimously and enthusiastically elected Frederick B. Koch, Keanan Professor of Dramatic Literature in the University of North Carolina. It is needless to remind the Greenville public that Professor Koch founded, and is the director of the Carolina Playmakers, the famous dramatic group from Chapel Hill, who will present an evening of their original plays at East Carolina Teachers College, Thursday evening of this week, Jan. 26, at 8:30 o'clock in the Campus building.

The Keanan professorships in the University of North Carolina are special professorships supported by an endowment given to the university by the will of Mrs. Mary Lily Keanan Flieger (Mrs. R. W. Bingham). They carry a stipend at a higher rate than the regular professorships in the university and are awarded for special distinction in research, creative work and teaching. While distinction in any one of these fields is considered as meriting the award, Prof. Koch holds the unusual position of having achieved honor in all three fields—as a student of the drama, as one of the leading creators of the Little Theatre movement in America, and as the stimulating genius of the founder and director of the Carolina Playmakers.

The appointment of Professor Koch for this special honor was met with universal commendation, not only from his own university and state, but from others all over the country.

Need for More Play Facilities Seen As Nation Puts Leisure Hours to Use

By HERBERT YAHAREL J.

New York, Jan. 24.—(AP)—America likes to play games—as well as watch them—finds the report of the president's research committee on social trends, and there's no danger of its becoming a nation of spectators.

In fact "interest in sports at public spectacles" it says "has already been equalled, if not surpassed, by the demand for more adequate playing facilities and their extensive use by the public."

The finding of those facilities, it declares, is one of the problems facing the country.

The report estimates that by the 1920's more than $10,000,000,000 annually was being spent by the American public for recreation nearly two-thirds of it for vacation travel and the use of automobiles and motor boats for pleasure.

While this figure probably has been lowered sharply by the depression, it says there is reason to believe that expenditures will increase again as soon as business conditions improve.

In spite of this huge sum, "there are still large sections of our population not adequately provided with wholesome leisure time facilities," the report asserts.

"On the whole, the field of recreation as it has developed in recent years represents a distinct advance over traditional ways of spending leisure time," declared Dr. J. P. Steiner, professor of sociology at the University of Washington, a contributor to the report.

"The growing participation in athletic sports and games and the popularity of outdoor life," he writes "are assets from the point of view of health and social being."

"The modern passive amusements while by no means always of high quality are an improvement over those prevailing a generation ago."

Chile Faces Higher Rail Rates

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Higher passenger and freight rates will be levied to combat the huge deficit facing the state railways unless some method of temporary relief can be found. The roads used to pay big dividends to the federal treasury.

By the late 1920's America's bill for recreation, conservatively estimated, was more than $10,000,000,000 annually, says the report of the president's research committee. While the depression was lowered the figure, expenditures are expected to increase again as soon as business conditions improve.

"The recreational devices now existent in so many forms play an important part in giving relief from the monotony of daily toil and adding to the enjoyment of life."

Some of Dr. Steiner's findings regarding sports and other leisure time activities follow: College Football—"Can hardly be regarded as a passing fad which will soon give way to something else. The huge investments in stadia which must be paid for in future years make almost inevitable the continued approval of the game by college administrative authorities."

Professional Baseball—"Already showing the effect of growing competition with other sports and amusements." Major league attendance still rising, but has made no spectacular gains recently and has not kept pace with the population growth in the league cities. Minor leagues are facing a much more serious situation as far as public support is concerned."

Professional Boxing—"Apparently reached its peak in 1926 and 1927; a sharp decline followed the passing of Dempsey and Tunney."

Bright, Fresher After Taking Black-Draught

"Seven years ago, I was troubled with constipation," writes Mrs. L. E. Williams, of Jackson, Miss. "My mother told me she thought it would help me to take Black-Draught. She had used herself and it had helped her. I found it relieved me of this troublesome complaint. I suffered from sick headache and biliousness which made me feel dull and lifeless. I had no ambition to do anything. I felt bright and fresh after I took Theodor's Black-Draught. It is a splendid medicine for constipation. I take it daily, at night. I got a package of Theodor's Black-Draught today. Refuse substitutes."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed the Morning After, to Go. If you feel sore and sick and the water punks, don't swallow a lot of mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you comfortable and buoyant and full of sunshine. They may make it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get the cause. The reason for your discomfort is your liver. It should pour out thousands of liquid bile into your blood stream. If this bile is not flowing freely, you're down's digit. It just decays in the bowels. It makes you stomach. You have thick, bad taste and your breath is so thick often breaks out in blisters. Your system and you feel down and out. Your system is poisoned. It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those thousands of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain vegetable laxation, gentle vegetable extract, answer when it comes to making the bile flow free. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware of substitutes. 50c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Carter.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
 Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Will Bankhead, the bespectacled and serious gentleman from Alabama—"Jaspah, Alabama"—as he puts it, apparently is having difficulty in persuading political dopesters "on the hill" that he is not a candidate for one of the big leadership jobs of the House in the next Congress.

They persist in linking his name with those who aspire to be Democratic leader in the incoming Congress when a general shake-up comes after Speaker Garner moves over to the other side of the Capitol.

Such gossip doesn't please Bankhead at least as far as all outward appearances are concerned. He is out in the open for his good friend and fellow-Alabamian, John McDuffie, for Speaker. He announced early for him, and is doing everything he can to bring about his election.

Alabama can't get both Speaker and floor leader, so Bankhead is quick to cry that reports he seeks the latter job not only "do me an injustice, but embarrass me as well."

In the Spotlight
 It's not so difficult to guess how Bankhead's name gets into such discussions. Ever since the Democrats assumed control of the House more than a year ago, he has risen steadily to prominence in that body.

He is Garner's favorite choice to preside over the House when he finds it necessary to relinquish the chair. He is rated a strict wielder of the gavel, and the sometimes unruly membership has come to recognize in him a presiding officer who means what he says.

Always On Hand
 Observers of the House, too, know that Bankhead somehow manages to be on hand when an emergency arises. They have come to regard him as a sort of one-man shock troops for the Democratic majority. He could hardly escape being considered for the job of floor leader—especially at present when anybody's guess about who will ultimately fill the job is as good as any other's.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—President Hoover's gift of his Rapidan camp to the State of Virginia, with the request that it be held for the use of his successors if they desire, is another expression of how much he feels that mountain retreat has lightened his four years in the White House.

"I have discovered," he once said about the Rapidan, "that even the work of government can be improved by leisurely discussions under the trees where no bells ring or callers jar one's thoughts from the channels of urbanity."

Roosevelt Prefers Sea
 The chances, however, of his immediate successor using the camp would seem remote. President-Elect Roosevelt never has demonstrated a fondness for that sort of recreation.

He has found his escape in other surroundings—aboard a ship cruising lastly out to sea, or in warmish water swimming for hours. Like Mr. Hoover he will find it necessary to chuck it and get away from the cares of the White House. But it is safe to say that he will choose the deck of a yacht or the warm, health-restoring springs of Georgia to mountain woods and streams.

All of which gives rise to another thought. In donating the camp, the President stated that if future occupants of the White House do not wish to avail themselves of it, he desires that it be made a part of the Shenandoah National Park.

In that event it will be thrown open to the public.

To Withdraw Guard
 The marine guard that has so successfully barred the entrance to outsiders to the Rapidan will be withdrawn. Even the newspapermen, who have been "covering" the Presidential excursions to the Rapidan for the past four years from a distance of some ten miles away, will be able to get up to the camp.

The log upon which Premier MacDonald of Great Britain and the President sat and formulated plans for the London Naval Arms Conference, the miniature dams built by cabinet members and other distinguished guests, "Town Hall"—in fact, the scenes around which center some of the most important events of the four years of Herbert Hoover's administration, may then be seen for the first time.

The lowly tourist with the rattle and bang old auto may be "guest at the Rapidan" if he can only climb the mountain.

Stage Robbery
 Charlotte, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Thieves worked the combination on a safe in the store here owned by A. F. Parker Sunday night and secured $128 in cash, police reported. Other valuables were not taken. The proprietor said several persons knew the combination but finger print experts said the thief either wore gloves or had his finger tips taped.

Sues Auto Magnate

Mrs. Violet A. Wall (above) of San Francisco, administratrix of the estate of Mrs. Carolyn Armstrong, has filed suit against John N. Willys, auto manufacturer, and his secretary, Charles B. Merz, for $1,000,000, charging they converted a brokerage account of Mrs. Armstrong to their own use. (Associated Press Photo.)

Sees Improved Times Ahead

J. A. Collins, manager of the Home Furniture Store, has returned from High Point where he attended the annual furniture show put on by manufacturers of that section.

Mr. Collins said he was greatly impressed with the spirit of optimism prevailing among the hundreds of people in attendance regarding the outlook for improved business conditions.

Mr. Collins said he purchased a large stock of latest creations of the furniture world and invites his many patrons to visit the store and inspect them.

DISCIPLE MINISTERS PLAN WINTER RETREAT

Kinston, Jan. 24.—Ministers of the Disciples of Christ in North Carolina will hold their midwinter retreat at Seven Springs, Feb. 7-9.

The retreats, held for several years, are novel. The ministers discuss church problems, "disagreeing like Christian gentlemen," according to one of them, hold services and engage in recreational pursuits. A large hotel will be at their disposal, as will the mineral springs in the community.

The Disciples have nearly 100 preachers in the state.

The court heard only one case following the charge by Judge Grady yesterday, it being that of Charlie Harris, Prizelle Jenkins and James Nelson, three negro youths, charged with stealing peanuts from the old Co-operative warehouse which was destroyed by fire about a year ago. They were adjudged not guilty and given their freedom.

 The address was heard by a majority of the memberships of both clubs, and the jurist was heartily applauded as he took his seat.

A. W. Fleischmann, president of the Rotary Club, president, and extended a cordial welcome to the visiting Kiwanians. Seated at his side was Rev. E. L. Hillman, president of the Kiwanians, who made the response.

The program was in charge of Dink James, chairman of the intercity committee of the Kiwanis Club, who presented Mr. and Mrs. John Holmes, Jr., Mrs. Arthur Joyner and Elbert Holmes, of Farmville, who put on a delightful program, consisting of duets and solos.

Judge Grady was presented by Mr. James as one of the leaders of thought in this part of the country, a man striving to improve conditions in all phases of life.

STEEL TOWER ERECTED AT DUKE AIDS MAPPING

Durham, N. C., Jan. 24.—A eleven-foot Billy steel tower has been erected on the Duke University campus by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey as a part of the triangulation system used in mapping the country. This particular station will go into the records as "Duke."

A light, an automobile headlight with special bulb, has been placed on top of the tower and for several nights will be directed toward another station about three miles south of Chapel Hill, and probably another light will be directed towards a station just west of Hillsboro.

Observers located at Chapel Hill and Hillsboro will measure the angles between Duke and the other stations. They will proceed to other stations in the same manner, measuring angles so that a series of triangles are formed whose angles are measured to a fraction of a second. After serving the purpose here, which will require a week or ten days, the tower will be moved to other points and the process continued.

Bethune and others, and a resolution was adopted expressing endorsement of the work of the Legislature, particularly the report of the Joint Consolidation Committee of the Senate and House to reduce the operating expense of the State government two million dollars or more.

The recommendations of the State organization of county commissioners were endorsed.

F. P. McPhaul, chairman of the board of county commissioners, was elected chairman of the meeting, and Editor Paul Dickson was elected secretary. The meeting was pleasant and harmonious for the most part.
