Two fliers hope to break record set by British flier from England to South America; Mollison made crossing from Senegal to Natal in three days and ten hours

Natal, Brazil, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Captain James Mollison, Irish speed pilot, who completed another South Atlantic flight yesterday, hopped off today at 7:30 o'clock for Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Captain Mollison flew here yesterday from Thies, Senegal, after completing a flight from England in three days and ten hours. He made the first flight eastward across the North Atlantic last fall.

Istres, France, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Lucien Boussoutrot and Maurice Rossi, French fliers, hopped off at 7:48 today for Buenos Aires. They hoped to break the world long distance flight record of 5,300 set Wednesday by the British officers O. R. Gifford and G. C. Nicholls, on a flight from England to South America.

GERMAN NAVY PROGRAM RETIRES DECRETIF CRAFT

Wilhelmshaven, Germany.—(AP)—Germany's naval program for 1933 starts with replacement of four 30-year-old battleships with new 10,000-ton "vest pocket" battle cruisers. On April 1, the Deutschland will be put into commission and about the same date the substitute for the old Lothringen will be launched.

Contracts for the Braunschweig substitute were signed last October and the replacement for the Eisass will be laid down next year, all this as part of the 1931-1936 building scheme.

Chilean Policy Seen As Threat to Big U.S. Stake

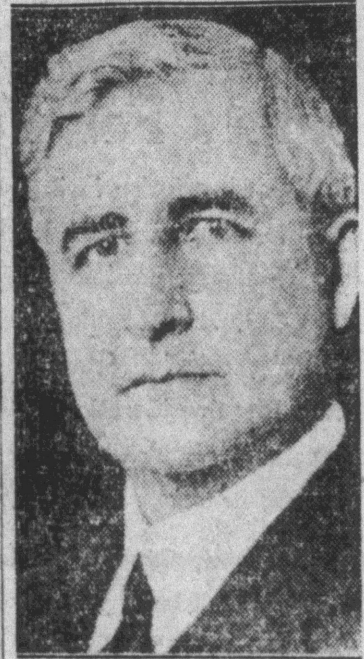

By HAROLD P. BRAMAM Santiago, Chile, Feb. 10.—(AP)—With the American stake in Chile approximately $850,000,000, United States officials and heads of companies operating here, warned by the government's attitude toward foreign interests are working for recognition of rights based on concessions and contracts approved by previous administrations.

About $300,000,000 of the American investment is tied up in a group of defaulted bond issues. The bonds are obligations of the Chilean government and the state mortgage credit bank and are held by thousands of persons in the United States.

The two chief mining enterprises of Chile, nitrate and copper, are controlled by American capital. Despite the recent dissolution of "Cochise," the cooperative producer-consumer nitrate combine, the American firm of Guggenheim Bros. continues to dominate the production field. The government has promised to send a satisfactory formula for reorganization of this industry.

The chief Guggenheim properties are at Maria Elena and Pedro de Valdivia, part of the northern nitrate port of Tocopilla. The firm also owns some smaller nitrate properties.

FOUR BODIES ARE LOCATED

One Body Remains to Be Recovered From Quarry Near Fletcher N. C.

Fletcher, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Four more bodies were unearthed from the gigantic rock and dirt slide that buried seven men alive at the B. & C. Lime and Stone Company quarry here Wednesday, bringing the total to six.

Since a few hours after thousands of tons of debris folded over the men as they worked at the bottom of the 200 foot shaft Wednesday afternoon, crews of volunteers and convicts have dug and blasted in an effort to extricate the dead.

Two bodies were taken from beneath the cave-in in the wall last night and today only one was missing. Diggers expected to reach that in a few hours.

TWO CONFESS SLAYING OF AGED WOMAN

Detective Brings Confession From Suspect Held in Los Angeles Murder

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 10.—(AP)—A detective's soft voice persistently lecturing a suspect about treating an old lady so roughly provoked a confession early today, police said, which cleared up the mysterious kidnapping of sixty-five-year-old Mrs. Mary B. Skeele.

Police said the confessions were made by Miss Louella Hammer, 35, and W. T. Howard, 39, her hired man, and identified by officers as an ex-convict from San Quentin Prison.

Detective Chief Joe Taylor said that while grilling Howard he criticized the rough treatment of Mrs. Skeele, wife of Dean Walter Skeele, of the University of Southern California College of Music.

Taylor reported Howard suddenly said: "We didn't treat her rough at all."

The detective said Howard then told the story conforming to facts already unasked by police, and Miss Hammer, confronted with the statement, also confessed.

The pair also confessed to an attempt to abduct Miss Isabel Smith, Pasadena school teacher.

HOOVER IN CELEBRATION

President and Mrs. Hoover Observe Their 34 Wedding Anniversary

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—(AP)—President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover today observed their thirty-fourth wedding anniversary in a quiet way.

A few friends had been invited for dinner tonight.

It was February, 1899, when Herbert Hoover married Miss Lou Henry at Monterey, Calif. He took his bride to China and together they traveled the road that led to the White House.

URGE GARDENS FOR JOBLESS

Seed to be Distributed Among Poor Here; Seek to Provide Farm Jobs

A new plan to help relieve the unemployment situation in this community has been inaugurated by the local relief committee through distribution of seed for the planting of gardens and the finding of employment on the various farms of the section.

With the coming of spring, the business of clearing land in preparation for planting will get under way on a large scale in the county, and the relief committee was hopeful of being able to provide jobs for numbers of people who have been cared for with government funds during the winter.

The garden seed will be distributed through the office of K. T. Futrell, director of the Welfare Department, and head of the government relief fund in this county. Every person with planting space on his premises has been asked to obtain some of these seed and in that way provide that much toward support of his family until jobs can be obtained.

A similar plan will be followed by relief committees in all parts of the State. Some are more drastic than that inaugurated here in that people who refuse to plant gardens will be denied relief. However, every person able to care for a garden has been urged to begin planting as early as possible.

Hundreds of jobless men and women have received aid through the fund allotted to the county. Virtually all of them have been required to work, however, and this has resulted in the making of hundreds of improvements in various parts of the county. These improvements have affected schools, churches, streets, roads, utility lots, and other things of a public nature and in many instances have provided a long felt need.

Plenty of gardens will do much to alleviate want in the homes of the poor and those who show a disposition to co-operate in the movement no doubt will receive greater consideration from the body charged with the responsibility of distributing funds throughout the State.

DOCTORS HEAR RELIEF PLANS

Welfare Director Tells Medical Society of Unemployment Relief

The monumental attempt of the relief committee to provide for the unemployed during the winter was explained to members of the Pitt County Medical Society at the Episcopal parish house here last night.

The speaker was K. T. Futrell, director of the Pitt County Department of Welfare, and distributor of the government relief fund in this community.

The speaker said hundreds of people had found employment through the public works program and that this had contributed largely toward relieving human suffering during the cold season. He also touched on the movement to provide seed for the jobless with which to plant gardens during the early spring, and the placement of as many men as possible on the various farms of the county.

Dr. K. B. Pace of Greenville and Bruce Beasley of Fountain, were hosts to the society last night and a delightful supper was served by ladies of the church.

Dr. W. I. Wooten of Pitt Community Hospital, presented two interesting reports of cases coming under his observation recently.

Rev. W. S. Harden, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, was a guest of the society, and responded briefly to recognition from the chair.

Dr. Paul Fitzgerald presided in the absence of the president, Dr. J. E. Nobles, who was prevented from attending by illness.

TWO HANGED IN MISSOURI

Men Pay Penalty For Murder and Criminal Attack on The Gallows

St. Charles, Mo., Feb. 10.—(AP)—David A. Miller, 48, itinerant wood-cutter, was hanged today for the murder of Miss Pauline Deibert, 48-year-old spinster, in an attempt robbery August 22, 1929. Miller believed the woman had hoarded $85,000 near Seem Osage.

Carthage, Mo., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Harry Worden was hanged in Jasper County jail today for criminal assault on a Carthage high school girl. His execution came 49 weeks to the day after that of his brother, Lew Worden, for a similar offense.

DR. SHORE IS CLAIMED BY DEATH TODAY

Prominent North Carolina Health Worker Dies at Raleigh During Morning

Raleigh, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Dr. Clarence Shore, director of the North Carolina Laboratory of Hygiene for twenty-five years, and an internationally known expert on the treatment of hydrophobia, died at a hospital here today.

Dr. Shore was also president of the Tri-State Medical Association of the Carolinas and Virginia.

Funeral services will be conducted from Christ Episcopal Church at 3 o'clock tomorrow and interment will follow here.

The associates of Dr. Shore in the Laboratory of Hygiene will be active pallbearers. There will be no honorary pallbearers.

Dr. Shore was 59 years of age and a native of Winston-Salem. He became head of the Laboratory when it was founded and led it to a place of outstanding prominence in the United States.

TOBACCO MEN ATTEND ROAST

Buyers of Greenville Market Guests at Oyster Feast at Sneed's Ferry

Buyers of the Greenville tobacco market were entertained at an oyster feast on New River at Sneed's Ferry yesterday by Fred Hargett, of Jacksonville, former member of the Legislature, and one of the prominent business men and growers in the eastern part of the State.

Several friends of Mr. Hargett from other sections were also present to participate in the feast.

After boats had dug the oysters from the bottom of the expansive river, the delicious cargoes were brought ashore and roasted over a large fire.

After disposing of enormous quantities of oysters and everything that goes along with a roast, the guests were invited into the club house where they were treated to a brief spell of oratorical fireworks.

K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales of the Greenville tobacco market, expressed appreciation to Mr. Hargett for the splendid layout. He also thanked the prominent grower for the support he and his friends have given to the development of the Greenville market.

B. B. Sugg, Greenville warehouseman and banker, and John Mitchell, cashier of State Bank and Trust Company, Greenville, made brief talks dealing with development of the tobacco industry, and expressed their thanks for the co-operation coming from the people of Onslow County, the home of Mr. Hargett.

The former legislator has long been in the limelight as a host of unsurpassed ability, and the roast rendered tobaccoists yesterday was only one of scores he has given from year to year in an effort to renew old associations and keep in close personal touch with other parts of the State.

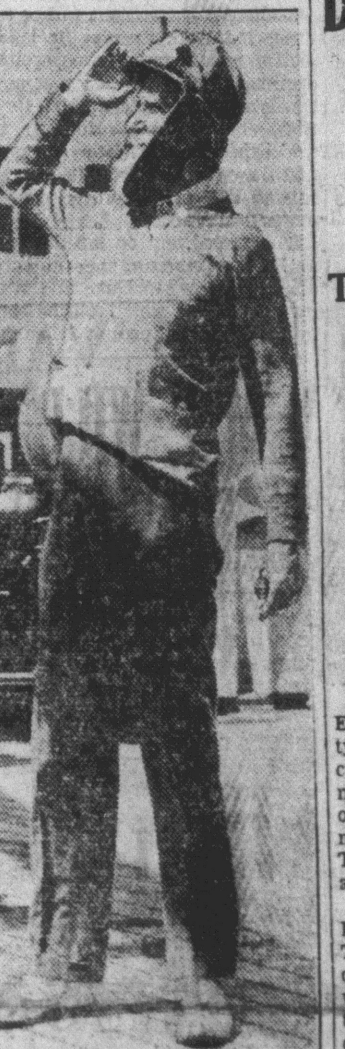

IMAGINARY BEHEADINGS SATISFY BELGIUM'S LAW

Brussels.—(AP)—Two criminal fugitives, an Italian and a Greek were beheaded symbolically here "in absentia."

Belgium abolished the death penalty many years ago, but the old legal forms for public execution persist and must be satisfied.

So two mounted gendarmes rode into a public square where the death sentences of the two men had been posted, drew their swords, remained at attention for an hour, then rode away.

Twenty-Five Also Injured as Dutch Naval And Air Forces Concentrate on Rebel Cruiser De Zeven Provincen on The Sumatra Coast; Mutineers Defiant Until The Last, Refuse to Show White Flag

Batavia, Java, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Eighteen men were killed and twenty-five injured aboard the rebellious cruiser, De Zeven Provincen, when a naval fighting plane dropped a bomb on the ship's deck today, forcing the mutineer native crew to surrender. The dead comprised three Europeans and fifteen Japanese natives.

One deck officer and one young Frenchman were slightly wounded. The dramatic end to the mutineer's career came at dawn off the south-west Sumatra coast when a concentration of naval and air forces bore down on the fleeing quarry and ordered her to surrender within ten minutes.

The rebels defiant until the last, flashed a reply: "Don't hinder us."

They failed to show a white cloth on the deck awning to indicate unconditional capitulation.

As soon as the brief period of grace expired a warning bomb was dropped alongside the ship.

As there was no further sign from the mutineers, down went a 100-pound bomb from one of the half dozen planes in the attacking air fleet. It exploded with a roar on the deck of the rebel craft, bringing death to eighteen of the crew and wounding twenty-five others.

Finns Defy Crisis; Cost Cutting Aids Growth In Trade

Helsinki.—(AP)—Finland, with its 1932 export surplus the largest on record, holds fast to its reputation of being one of the few countries to show an increasingly favorable trade balance in the face of the economic crisis.

The excess in value of exports over imports in the year was 1,190,000,000 finmarks, equivalent to $17,850,000 at current exchange.

In the first ten months of 1932, exports were worth 200,000,000 finmarks more than in the same period of 1931 while imports decreased by 94,000,000.

The Finnish Trade Review says this has come about because "it has been possible to reduce production costs in nearly the same degree as prices have fallen."

Brazil State Licenses Gaming Sao Paulo, Brazil.—(AP)—Gambling at beaches and spas in this state has been legalized by a decree of General Waldomiro Lima, military governor. Gambling houses must pay at least $7,000 for a license besides taxes. The revenue goes to poor relief and health work.

MOVE TO CUT SALARIES HERE

County Elective Officers Reported to Have Accepted New Reduction

A committee of the Board of County Commissioners met here yesterday to consider voluntary reductions of salaries of elective officers of the county, and while work was not completed, it was stated that officers conferred with the committee had agreed to accept cuts ranging from ten to twelve and a half per cent. It is the third time within the last two and a half years that county elective officers have been asked to take cuts.

Owing to the absence of one or two officers the committee was unable to complete its work but it was stated this would be done probably during the week.

The committee is to make a detailed report of its conferences at a special meeting of the commissioners set for the third Monday this month. The committee was named at the regular meeting of the board here Monday.

The committee empowered to interview the officers is composed of Herman McLawhorn, chairman of the board; J. N. Williams and W. J. Smith.

The move is a part of the economy program inaugurated by the new board when it began work here last December.

Late News Flashes

Today In The Legislature

Raleigh, Feb. 10.—(AP)—The much-buffed bill to abolish the corporation commission went back to the Senate committee today as the upper division of the General Assembly reversed action yesterday in passing the measure on second reading.

The House worked slow in routine session, spending most of the time on local bills but enacted into law a bill to allow its school teachers not to attend summer schools for the next biennium.

In the Senate the measure to prohibit the State Highway Commission from building new roads with state funds for two years, passed on second reading to exempt the Great Smoky Mountain Park.

Reversal of the vote of the commission bill came on motion of Senator Dunning of Rutherford, who with people who violate such laws. The criminally inclined, the commission believes, should be handled drastically by the courts in an effort to convince people of this type that the life of the people must be protected on the highways as well as in their homes and that those who violate the law must pay for the crime.

Information of this kind is valuable service in bringing people to a realization of the seriousness of traffic violations. The courts should give special attention to violations of this kind and mete out punishment sufficient to act as a deterrent and thereby improve conditions.

The sales tax is meeting much opposition from merchants of the state and it is well that it should. Business is crippled to such a state now that it can hardly keep its head above the water, and this additional tax would prove the straw that broke the proverbial camel's back.

What the legislature should do is to go after those sources which have gone tax free for so long, and which at this time are using their influence to keep the burden off their shoulders.

There are lots of outside stocks held in this state and if properly taxed would help swell the coffers of the treasury considerably in the course of a year.

Surely it isn't right to continue taxing people who have contributed so liberally to the cause in past years, and the sons, if they are wise, will forget the plea of the untaxed sources, and do what they believe to be their duty.

Flights are under way at this time to lower speed records for ocean flying and with the coming of the spring a pronounced increase is to be expected. Depression may stop some folks men of the air, who while in the clouds, at least are free of combat; but no; these daring men and women plaining about hard times and can give their attention to the blazing of new trails for others to follow.

Three hundred years or more ago intrepid men and women were blazing a different trail from that today, the trail of building the greatest continent on earth. They succeeded splendidly, and certainly the pioneer spirit which they handed down to the present generation will stand the daring fliers in good stead as they glide perilously across uncharted air lines to give civilization greater advantages than ever before. It was what their forefathers did and surely they will not do less.

It is to be regretted that mill strikes are again making their appearance in the western section of the state. With the settlement of former strikes it was hoped workmen would return to their jobs and maintain peace until conditions become such that they will be perfectly satisfied in making requests for improved wage conditions.

When it is realized that the employer in most cases is losing money every day he operates, as numbers have done in recent years, it may be easily seen that wage scales cannot be maintained normally and the reduction must necessarily be accepted until prosperity returns.

It is a test—an acid test of endurance—but one the nation must pass through before readjustment has been obtained and the more noise we make about it the more serious it is going to appear.

Continued aggravation of an issue of this kind has a psychological effect that is disastrous sometimes, and leaders of all branches of business should sit steady, remembering that rocking the boat will not improve condition, but will retard recovery.

gier. And all the way I keeps repeating the message to myself, not knowing but what my life depended on it, yer see. The message from this girl to the bloke in Tangier, Seenyor Peteroh Mulleeny."

"Yes," murmured Otho. "Senior Pedro Maligni."

"What was the message?" asked Joe Mummy.

"Save the little Jewels," replied Sailor Harris, "Gibraltar, England. Don't trust my brother any more. His wife has won. Give this man two hundred and fifty francs and send him over the sea. Peteroh's gazelle Elizabeth Ellen speaks. Save the little Jewels."

"Yes, that was the message an' I'll remember it as long as I live. Elizabeth Ellen was the girl's name—the Kite's sister. Only she pronounced it like El Isa Beth El Ain. Like that. . . A lovely piece, she was, too. Cor lumme! . . . An' spoke some English with 'er French and Arabic."

"Her mother was an Englishwoman—Elizabeth Elaine Torson," said Otho, "caught with her husband, Captain Torson, a gunner from Gibraltar. The tribesmen who captured them killed him, and sold her in the market-place of Mekazzen as a slave. This Kaid's father bought her—and the woman of whom Harris is talking was their daughter. So she is the half-sister of the present Kaid. Also half-English . . ."

"How d'you know, Bob?" asked Joe Mummy as Otho fell silent.

"Because the 'black piccaninny' who went with Harris and the dumb man and the old hag was her son, disguised. He was the little Jewels (as Harris thought she said)—his name is Jules—and it was to escort, and to save, the little Jules that she sent Harris to Tangier. . . . And the little Jules Maligni, being sally handed over to his father, Pedro Maligni, by the dumb guide, was sent to England in charge of a Dr. Maykings and his wife, friends of Senior Pedro Maligni whom they were visiting in Tangier. Dr. Maykings, as you know, Joe, was my father's friend and doctor. . . . And 'the little Jules' married his daughter, Margaret Maykings who, as you also know, was my—er—friend."

Otho Belleme fell silent.

"Rum world," soliloquized Sailor Harris. "Rum go. Fair ole pantermine. . . . Fancy the piccaninny bein' that girl's kid!"

"Yes," continued Otho. "It was Jules Maligni. And I have known VALIANT DUST—AL 2 him for nearly as long as I can remember. . . . I met his cousin, too—chap named Raisul—son of the Kaid Haroun Abdallah Karim. He was educated in Paris and Madrid, and he used to come to see Jules Maligni at Oxford, when he visited England. The Senior Pedro Maligni was the Kaid's agent—financial and political in general, and gun-running in particular, I believe. I expect Jules looked after the English end of it for Pedro—and Raisul looked after Jules. . . ."

"I used to hear a good deal about Mekazzen, but I never thought I'd see the beasty country."

Ru-No-Ma for RHEUMATISM DON'T SUFFER Positive Relief in RU-NO-MA ONE TRIAL CONVINCES WANT ADS PAY

NOW CONGRATULATIONS Last week we took occasion to criticize Senator Arthur Corey for his vote in the Senate against the abolishment of the corporation commission. We now take occasion to congratulate Senator Corey for his wisdom in reversing his stand on this measure when it came before the Senate again yesterday, and helping to put it through. The commission should be abolished and we feel that those Senators who yesterday helped to pass the measure have rendered the people of the state a service.

Sales Tax, sales tax. That seems to be the chief topic of discussion as a means of balancing the budget. Again we urge the Legislature to see to it that the inequalities in our present tax system that provide special benefits for a privileged class be removed before any effort is made to further tax the masses of people in our state.

The local relief commission has made provision for fertilizer and seed in order that the unemployed might cultivate gardens to help support themselves. Helping the needy to provide for themselves instead of remaining objects of charity is certainly a step in the right direction and if there are any who do not have garden space idle land close enough to the city to be cultivated by these people should also be provided. The best relief that can be given is by helping to place the unemployed in a position to be self-sustaining.

ABOUT TOWN All nations are interested in the world economic conference to be held in Britain next summer, but the thing uppermost in the minds of the American people is the debt conference to be held in Washington in March. Others may want to straighten out the world economic situation, but the United States wants to know exactly what she is going to be able to get out of the nations in the way of debt payment before she gives any considerable attention to the other problems. In fact, it is hoped to thresh out some of the economic issues at the Washington conference and this should make it easier for the nations to reach quick understanding at the British confab. A six point program looking to world recovery has already been outlined by the preparatory commission to the London conference and if accepted it is hoped by the farmers to do much toward bringing a return of prosperity. The Highway Commission in an effort to reduce the heavy toll of life on the highways of the state has sent out information dealing

CHAPTER 5 "THE LITTLE JEWELS" Said Sailor Harris, "Ole friend o' mine, the Sultan is."

"Bloke, I told you about, Bob," he added, turning to Otho, "that day at the fair."

"I'm not likely to forget it," agreed Otho, "nor about your message about 'Save the Little Jewels,' as I thought you said."

"Save the little Jewels," murmured Otho again, with a short and bitter laugh.

"What was that, 'Arris?" asked William Bossum. "You bin here before, d'you say? If you bin 'ere before, why couldn't you say so before?"

"Ho, jus, before and behind. I didn't stay before that I'd bin 'ere before, but we come home some subjects by carefully reading

"The Love-life of Aloysius McGinnis," by Agamemnon Schmidt, and "American Methods of Love Making," by Itzky Oswolitz's magnum opus. An intensive study of these works will enable one not only to select the most senseless topics, but will also greatly improve that elusive quality of rapidity which is so characteristic of the best (or worst—according to one's point of view). "High school poetry." The best preparation, however, is a blighted affair "du coeur" or unrequited love. This method, introduced by one of our foremost "poets" is rather difficult, but it is possible to work up a temperature over a girl if one has it sufficient imagination to employ. The best way to illustrate the composition of high school poetry is to construct a "poem" step by step. Very well. Let us take "pining" for our topic. Write it out, skip a couple of spaces and begin the "poem." And let us have "when you are away, I pine for you" as the first line. What comes next? We can't think of anything more to say, so we will "jumble up" this line (the more jumbled the better!) like this:

Pining
When far Away are you—how
I for you do
pine.

Eureka! Aren't we clever? This is a perfect "high school poem." But for the crowning touch—sign the "verse." "Orchid," "Zacchariah," "Horse-radish," or some other such graceful non de plume; never sign your name.

The "Worldly" Man.

To be "worldly" is an envious characteristic. It is the "worldly" man about whom the poets write, praising his contentedness of mind, his good-heartedness, and the joys of his career life. It is the "worldly" man to whom the public directs its applause because he can play a guitar, entertain successfully, or has a new model roadster. People gaze and stare at him in admiration. Are they wrong? No! His clear untroubled mind, his easy going manner of delightful conversation, and the fact that he says "good morning" with a smile—all win for him every one's heart.

Everyone likes this type of person, but what is there in life for him? Business men take vacations for freedom from their troubles. They like to throw cares to the wind and enjoy themselves. The life of the "worldly" man is a continual vacation, for the worries of business are unknown to him. His is a life of contentment. It is one of the present, not the future. He dreams not of some great invention, social reform or anything. He revels in present glory—the glory of an applauding crowd, the glory of popularity.

The smiling good natured person is the one who is selected for a companion, the one who is selected for positions. His success is not due to the fact that he works hard to achieve it. It is not the result of continual striving but due to the fact that everybody is his friend.

WILBUR L. MAYO.

The Scientific Man.

To be scientific does not mean you have to be a scientist. You may be a lawyer, doctor or almost anything. However, we find few heart-killing shrieks or blustering football heroes who are very scientific. Instead it usually runs in the more common sense type of person such as cranky lawyers and grouchy newspaper reporters. Yes, they are "cranky and grouchy"—no one is more so than the modern sociable groups like this kind of man.

The scientific man regards life as one big opportunity which is knocking at his door. He realizes that once it is gone it will never return. Therefore he resolves to make his brief stay on earth as brilliant as possible, however perverted be his conception of the word "brilliant." He sets for his ideals such men as Sir Francis Bacon rather than Rudy Vallee or Barry Wood.

Thus far, perhaps, we see nothing to take offense against. Their lofty ideals and purposes are entirely commendable. But it is the little characteristics of every day life which are so odious to modern society. Because he "dwells apart" he is branded as conceited. He is always buried in thought wherever he goes and the spirit of contemplation prevails. To all appearances he is detested but if you can read and understand him—all is fine.

But why is he so choleric? This is due to some eccentricity of the mind by which he overlooks virtues and sees only faults. These faults are magnified in his eyes ten fold. When he comes upon someone or something in which he sees no fault which to him is perfect, he will, of a certainty, fall for it. So we may see, his affections although unthought are not easily obtained due to this detestable trait. Yes, it is detestable to us but it is his greatest characteristic. His finding fault with everything, his discontent of mind is indeed the backbone of our civilization; he is never satisfied with a thing as if it can be bettered.

Thus we see that the scientific man, however opposed modern society may be to him, is the one who is bearing the world on his shoulders, the one who is pushing ever onward into accomplishment—the Path of Progress.

High Football Awards Made

This morning in a special chapel program eighteen Greenville football men received their awards for the 1932 season.

Greenville's record in football for 1932 was unusually good: ten games were played with six victories, three losses and one tie. The game with Wilson was lost 2-0, and the game with Morehead 14-14.

Mr. Porter presided over this meeting and made fitting remarks about each player as he made the award. The following men received stars: Tom Wilson, Tom Rivers, Moyer Dail, Jack Kittrell, Joe Gaston, Bancroft Moseley, David Hardee and Rex Hodges. Letters were given to Pete Brewer, J. T. Windham, Roger Taylor, Graham McAdams, Willie Warren, Cliff Madrin, Matthew Gibbs, Allan Moore and the managers, Harold Sugg and Jim Slay.

During the season a captain was chosen for each game, and this morning the lettermen chose honorary co-captains for the year. Joe Gaston and Roger Taylor received this honor and acknowledged it by brief speeches.

At the close of the season Tom Wilson had been selected as all-conference center. Roger Taylor was made halfback on the second team, and Joe Gaston end. Moyer Dail, linesman, received his second star in football this morning, having three years of excellent playing back of him.

The program was concluded with two yells and the school pep song.

AYDEN QUINT CLINCHES TITLE IN HIGHS' GROUP

Ayden, N. C., Feb. 10.—Ayden High School boys have clinched honors in their group of district conference play. The locals' 29-15 win over Roanoke Rapids Tuesday night and Roanoke Rapids' victory over Elizabeth City the next evening sewed up things for the locals, even should the two remaining conference games be lost. The locals play at Herford tonight and at Elizabeth City Saturday in final games of the group schedule.

The Ayden quint has won all its ten games this season and has scored 342 points to 146 for opponents.

In Tuesday's win over Roanoke Rapids, Roanoke made 16 points and Johnson tallied 11. W. Dickens and Allbrook featured for Roanoke Rapids.

Double Header Here Tonight

Two games will be played tonight in the Campus building. The Teachers will meet the Wake Forest Freshmen, and as a preliminary to the collegiate event the Greenville High School and the Roanoke Rapids High School will hook up. The first game between the High Schools will begin at 7:30 o'clock.

Both local teams have a very good chance of winning, although neither the Wake Forest or Roanoke Rapids teams could by any means be considered set-ups.

The usual popular prices—10 and 25 cents—will prevail and will afford local fans the biggest dish of basketball ever offered in Greenville.

The improved V-8 engine is fitted with all-aluminum cylinder heads one of the most noteworthy forward steps in motor design in many years. Because aluminum dissipates heat more rapidly, the use of the aluminum cylinder heads permits higher compression pressure and results in increased speed, power and smoothness, faster acceleration and added fuel economy.

Smooth engine performance results also from the basic 8-cylinder design and the 3-point rubber mounting. Cylinder blocks are set at a 90-degree angle. The crankshaft is fully counterbalanced and the crank throws are at 90 degrees. Opposing pistons and connecting rods are even in weight. All of these features combine to place all moving parts in a natural balance, resulting in exceptional smoothness of operation. The engine is fitted with down-draft carburetor, air-intake silencer and a diaphragm-type fuel pump.

Features of the 112-inch wheelbase chassis include an extremely rigid double-channel, double drop X-type frame, torque tube drive, a straddle-mounted rear axle pinion, transverse cant-lever springs, internal expanding mechanical four-wheel brakes, 17-inch welded steel spoke wheels and tires of 5 1/2-inches section.

In the new three-quarter floating rear axle, the driving pinion is mounted on a double taper roller thrust bearing at the front and a straight radial roller bearing at the rear. This maintains permanent alignment of the pinion with the ring gear under all driving conditions and results in extremely quiet operation.

The frame is cushioned by four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers which are both automatically and thermostatically adjusted for every variation in weather or road surface conditions. The shock absorber links are insulated in rubber. The rear fuel tank has a capacity of fourteen gallons.

The transmission is of the synchronized type, with helical constant mesh gears, and functions unusually quietly both in second speed and during speed changing. The clutch is of the double-disc type and is spring-cushioned for soft engagement.

The House suspended rules and passed a resolution by Womble of Wake demanding heads of all state departments furnish legislators with data concerning federal veterans' benefits which state employees draw.

The House debated a motion by Rep. Taylor of Mecklenburg to take his bill to prohibit institution of action for delinquency judgment and prohibit recovery of judgment.

Raleigh Man Suicides Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 10.—(AP)—A. M. Maupin, well-known insurance man, committed suicide today by shooting himself through the right temple in the bathroom of his home.

Coroner L. M. Waring, of Wake County, said members of the family attributed the act to complete nervous breakdown and general poor health for which he had suffered. Maupin was about 50 years old. He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Mary Jones before her marriage, and three children. Funeral plans were not made today.

Arrest Joseph Ewing Detroit, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Police today arrested Joseph E. Ewing, alleged to have been a participant in the bank holdup at Aberdeen on Feb. 3. Police said that bill presented by Ewing in a blind pig were among those taken from the bank. Ewing's home address was not given. He was arrested by detective Edward Graff and detective Richard Downey of Detroit police, who said they had been on the lookout for the man who passed the bills, identified as having been part of the bank loot.
