

SENATE COMMITTEE APPROVE SMITH COTTON BILL

Measure Designed To Cut Japan Plans To Reply To League

1933 Cotton Crop Given Unanimous Support Today

PLAN TO PUSH BILL THROUGH THIS SESSION

Senators Hope to Make The Bill Apply to This Season's Crop and Short Time Makes Action Problematical; Favorable Vote May Result in Cotton Being Taken From Allotment Plan

Washington, D. C. Feb. 11.—(AP)—An unanimous favorable report on the Smith bill designed to cut the 1933 cotton production by 3,500,000 bales was voted today in less than twenty minutes. After the committee meeting Senator Smith, of South Carolina, merited smilingly to announce that the emergency measure had been approved without a dissenting voice. Smith and other senators hoped to push through enactment at the present short session in time to apply to this year's crop, although realizing the time was short and the chance problematical. Smith said as result of the favorable vote it was expected action would be taken out of the domestic allotment measure recently passed by the House. This bill is still in the hands of the Agricultural Committee, and after disposing of Smith's bill members turned their attention to the allotment legislation. Cotton producers agreeing to participate will be allotted an amount equal to the quantity by which they would cut production below last year's cotton. This cut must be at least 30 per cent.

METHODISTS PLAN REVIVAL

Rev. Albea Godbold Of Chapel Hill Will Preach at Series of Services

Revival services at the Methodist Church will be held March 8 to 19. Rev. Albea Godbold, pastor of Chapel Hill, will do the preaching. Mr. Godbold is a young man of scholarly ability, Christian experience and an effective speaker. We are fortunate to have this minister from a university town conduct a revival meeting for us.

Mr. Godbold visited the church about a year ago and was present at the mid-week service where he delivered a most helpful message. Many of the people who heard him on that occasion were delighted with his message and will be glad to know that he is to come and hold this meeting.

Preparatory to these services it is expected to hold several cottage prayer meetings and enlist the interest of many to attend the services.

TONSIL CLINIC FOR TERRITORY

Adenoids to Also Be Removed in Series of Clinics For Pitt County

Tonsil and adenoid clinics will be conducted in various schools of the county through the Pitt County Department of Health assisted by the Welfare Department it was announced today by Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of the Department of Health. Plans for the clinics were nearing completion today and the health official said he hoped to launch the movement within the next ten days or two weeks.

A classroom will be set aside in each school of the county for clinic purposes and here scores of children are expected to be fully examined and in many instances relieved of diseased tonsils or troublesome adenoids. Dr. McGeachy said the tonsil and adenoid situation was serious in some parts of the county, and in the Grimesland area especially. He expressed belief that one out of every three school children in that section had affected tonsils or adenoids. The same situation probably exists in some other sections, and it is the hope of clinicians to relieve as many of the children as possible in this new campaign.

The clinics, the first of the kind held in this county in years, will be conducted under direction of the public health officials assisted by local physicians and throat specialists. It will require months to make a round of all of the schools, but when that has been done it is believed the healthy condition of the children would be greatly improved.

DOLLAR DAY ON THURSDAY

Twenty Merchants of City to Offer Splendid Values to Shoppers. Next Thursday has been designated as "Dollar Day" in Greenville and twenty prominent merchants will offer some of the finest values in years to the hundreds of people expected to visit the city during the day. "Dollar Day," a semi-annual affair here, is being sponsored through the merchants' department of the Chamber of Commerce and will be the greatest occasion of the kind ever held here, members of the committee said today. Merchants always try to outdo one another in providing leading bargains on this day, and this year will be no exception. In recent years articles valued as high as $10 have gone for the sum of $1.00, as business men attempted to convince the trading public that Greenville in reality is the leading shopping center of this part of the State.

Buyers recently visited Northern markets to lay in new goods to offer their customers on "Dollar Day" and those who take advantage of the shopping period will be able to obtain some of the latest creations in the field of styles. Virtually every field of merchandising will be represented this year in an effort to meet the demands of every purchaser, and it was expected folks from a greater territory than ever before would visit the city to take advantage of the harvest of bargains.

VIEWERS HEALTH ACTIVITY HERE

Representative of U. S. Public Health Service Confers With Workers Here

Mr. Riley of the United States Public Health Service, was in the city yesterday conferring with members of the Pitt County Health Department on the control of venereal diseases in this territory. Pitt County is an experimental ground of the United States Public Health service in the treatment of diseased tonsils or troublesome adenoids. Representatives of the organization come here to check over and confer with health workers concerning the progress of the work.

Mr. Riley, considered one of the best posted men in the country in the treatment of venereal troubles, talked over the situation with Dr. R. S. McGeachy, director of the Department of Health, and expressed appreciation of the progress of activities here. The conference centered mainly on obtaining doctors to assist in administering treatments on regular clinic days and other matters relative to general clinic work.

Pitt County was one of the first areas to get a clinic of this kind and the result of the work here has been of inestimable value to clinics being conducted in other parts of the country at this time. Money to finance the project was provided through the Rosenwald fund. Thousands of colored people have been completely cured of venereal diseases since the clinic was established three or four years ago. Scores are receiving treatment each week now, and with the numbers of new cases coming to the attention of the workers new fields of experimentation are being opened to them.

PUSH MOVE ON MEASLES IN WHISKEY HERE

Churches Inaugurate County-Wide Drive For Sunday, February 19

A county-wide campaign against the whiskey traffic will be launched in this county Sunday, February 19, under auspices of the Greenville Ministerial Association, assisted by other ecclesiastical bodies of the county, it was announced today. The occasion has been designated as "Field Day," and at both evening and morning services at the various churches speakers will deliver sermons on temperance. In Greenville proper ministers of five of the churches will preach strictly temperance sermons at the morning services. In the evening a mass meeting will be held at Eighth Street Christian Church. Dr. Poter, of Wake Forest, or Dr. Henry Louis Smith, prominent prohibitionist, will be the speaker. It was stated that other speakers representing the North Carolina Anti-Saloon League, will appear in other parts of the county. Among these will be George Burnett, superintendent of the State dry organization, and C. H. Cashwell, another leading member of the organization. Although plans had not been completely worked out it was said by members of the Ministerial Association that speakers would stress the evil of strong drink in the various schools of the city. The temperance movement is being conducted in observance of field day of the State Anti-Saloon League and it was hoped helpful messages would be carried to thousands of people interested in the fight against the liquor question, one of the most prominent facing members of Congress and the nation at this time.

LUKE LEA CASE NOW IN MAZE

Anomalous Situation Develops In Effort To Bring Tennessee Man To N. C. Jamestown, Tenn., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The condition of Luke Lea and Luke Lea Jr., ordered to be extradited to answer banking law penalties, was somewhat anomalous from two standpoints today. They were under technical arrest and denied bond, but were not in jail and had a writ of habeas corpus charging they were illegally held by officers when they surrendered but no judge to try it. Last night a delegation of five men from the mountain town of Livingston, 25 miles west of here, called on the Leas and invited them to move the habeas corpus hearing to their city but the invitation was declined. Colonel Lea notified Sheriff Peavy-house and went into consultation with E. V. Snipes, who headed the delegation and announced his adverse decision an hour later.

Dr. William Walker, physician of the New York State Athletic Commission, said last night Schaff was suffering from concussion of the brain. Schaff went down from what appeared to be a light blow to the face in the thirteenth round of a sixteen-round bout with the giant Italian and was carried from the ring unconscious.

BLAST DEATH TOLL MOUNTS

Searchers Continue To Dig In Debris In Saar Gas Tank Explosion. Neunkirchen, Saar, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Blind to the danger of tottering walls, rescue workers today dug in debris of a wide area in this industrial city and were still finding bodies of persons slain and maimed in yesterday's gas tank explosion. At dawn authorities computed the casualty list was as follows: Dead, known 29; estimated 150 to 200. Seriously hurt, 300. Slightly injured, 1,200. Police, doctors and nurses joined by grief-stricken relatives of workmen were relieved during the night and fresh crews of workers took the places of those too weary to continue today. The disaster was caused by the explosion of a gas tank of the Neunkirchen Iron Works, one of the prizes of this iron and ore region now governed under the League of Nations and which will go to Germany or France after the plebiscite two years hence.

ABOUT TOWN

People who refuse to take advantage of the free seed given out by relief fund headquarters here and plant gardens are out of luck, according to K. T. Futrell, director of the Department of Welfare, and distributor of the local relief fund.

The idea is a good one. Any deserving person will be only too glad to get free seed for their gardens, and if they plant as they should there ought to be all kinds of vegetables during the early summer.

Deliver funds are running short at this time and such action has been necessary to make the money go over as far as possible.

It is hoped the jobless will cooperate with the movement designed for their own benefit, and help give the community more gardens than it has had in many a day.

Mr. Hargett, one of the best known farmers in this part of the state, thinks a whole lot of the Greenville tobacco market and that is the reason he entertained buyers at an oyster roast the past Thursday.

Mr. Hargett is one of the thousands of growers that sell their tobacco on this market from year to year, and who really appreciate what the tobaccoists are doing to give them the best of service along with highest prices.

It is this spirit of service that enabled Greenville to obtain the distinction of the largest bright leaf tobacco market in the world and nobody knows it more than those who sell here from time to time and reap the benefits from it.

Situated in the largest bright leaf tobacco market producing county in the world, it was nothing but fitting and proper that this city should forge to the front as the center of the largest sales and that this reputation will be retained for many years will not be questioned.

The market appreciates the recognition of men like Mr. Hargett, leaders of the industry who realize a good thing when they see it, and it is hoped they will continue to take advantage of the tremendous facilities at their command here.

The New York Stock Exchange made an unusual demand on the Senate in its request that the body investigate its own stock exchange investigation committee.

Something is wrong somewhere and the Senate will not go amiss in doing as the members of the exchange request.

If there is anything wrong with the original committee it should be discharged and another appointed. Keeping tabs on the stock market is of the utmost importance to the investors of this country, and if it is possible to prevent short selling and other irregularities, it should be done.

If the committee has not been doing its duty it should be reprimanded and shown that the government will not tolerate laxity of duty in such an important matter.

Dr. Shore headed the State Department of Hygiene since its inception and his work was of such a nature as to command the admiration of medical men in all parts of the country.

His work in the field of preventing hydrophobia has attracted the attention of the best minds and his work has added lustre to the department of health of North Carolina.

VALLANT DUST by Percival Christopher Wren

CHAPTER I. A detachment of Major Napoleon Riccoli's Foreign Legion command is building a Post in the desert near Mekazen while awaiting his return with the main body. Years before Riccoli had been tested and found wanting by Le Sage of the French Secret Service, and had been forced to leave the army. He had joined the Legion, and had risen to the rank of Major. Otho Belleme and his English companions have been listening to Sailor Harris describe his part in saving the life of Jules Maligni, son of El Isa Beth el Ain, a half-sister of the Kaid of Mekazen, years before. Otho has known Maligni in England, also the Kaid's son, Rasidul.

Chapter 6 THE STRANGE BOMBELLI

The Section has endured life at Post One for but a brief space, when the personality of a hitherto unnoticed comrade began to impinge upon Otho's consciousness—a man whom the four Englishmen and their friends had noticed only as one of the party whom they generally termed "Vittorelli's pets." He had arrived, one day, with a mule conveyance, and had remained at the post. Undeniably, Sergeant-Major Vittorelli was guilty of gross favoritism, and undoubtedly in Vittorelli's esteem, and, with them, basking in the warmth of his approval—an approval that had numerous significant and practical manifestations.

Bombelli had arrived with a mule conveyance.

"Very probably 'the fact that the fellow had lived in Corsica, knew Ajaccio and spoke Italian, had a great deal to do with his success with Sergeant-Major Vittorelli. And not only with Sergeant-Major Vittorelli, for that invaluable and powerful patron had introduced him to the favorable notice of Major Riccoli himself. In this exalted quarter also, the fellow had found favor, and had so far ingratiated himself that Major Riccoli had appointed him his orderly for duty whenever Major Riccoli sojourned at Post One.

Here again, doubtless, the man's knowledge of Corsica, Ajaccio, and the Italian tongue, was of immense service to him in the attainment of his ambitions.

But why he, rather than the genuine Corsicans themselves, Corsicans bred and born?

And then, with a smile at his growing tendency to cynicism, Otho remembered that the man had money—for a legionnaire, quite a lot of money.

And if, in the Kingdom of the Blind, the one-eyed is King, in the Legion's Purgatory of Poverty, the man with a private income is Croesus.

Otho yawned cavernously, stretched himself mightily, and sat up on his cot.

"Tend us that rag, mate. Yes, yes, all right, I'll give it to you back. What's your name, by the way?" "Bombelli."

Joe Mummery and that queer chap the "creeper," Major Riccoli's orderly, who had lately been cultivating the four Englishmen and their friends.

"What did you say?" "Bombelli."

"Love us! Bit explosive, ain't it? You should take something for that."

the proportions there is no longer any dispute.

Visitors to Warm Springs found the President-elect with a copy of that ponderous volume known as "the budget" open across his knees and saw the light of indignation flaming in his eyes as he reviewed the multitudinous expenditures of boards and bureaus.

His first reorganization proposals, such as the consolidation of numerous regulatory functions under one highly centralized agency, figuratively took away the breath of some of his own supporters in congress.

His plan for development of the Tennessee valley was so far flung in its ramifications that there can be no question it was designed to remake the whole pattern of daily life throughout a large section.

The Roosevelt proposals on war debts—likely to be the key to the American foreign policy for some years to come—remain to be developed in detail, but it can be said with reasonable certainty that they are far removed from anything that has been considered in Washington heretofore.

All of the advance indications are that even the mode of presidential living at the White House will take on a design it has not known in this generation.

Much gold braid that has seen successive days and nights of splendor under the massive crystal chandeliers now is ticketed for the moth balls. The retinue of aids, physicians and miscellaneous functionaries is to be curtailed most drastically. Long-tailed coats will be fewer and the front door will swing on an easier hinge.

Mrs. Roosevelt has her own car, and her friends expect her to come and go like any other busy housewife, without ceremony or benefit of secret service.

In the executive offices themselves, an all-inclusive rearrangement.

On such a heroic scale are drawn the specifications for the new Washington—at this writing.

How the plan will survive in actual execution remains to be seen. Imposing legislative barriers lie in the pathway. Some of them already are under attack from a rallying opposition party which although it is down, can by no means be counted out.

The certain thing is that the new administration, convinced that the American people genuinely want a change, will undertake to see that they get it.

Beauty Hints

By MERLE TOTTENHAM (Screen Actress)

Everyone is interested in having attractive, youthful eyes, but few women realize what a large part the eyebrows play in achieving them.

While exaggerated "plucked" brows no longer are chic, this does not mean that one should allow wild hairs to remain on the underside of the brow, spoiling the line. Get a good stiff brush and train your eyebrows into a shape becoming to your face. This is usually the brow line that nature gave you.

If plucking your eyebrows is painful, apply a hot towel for five minutes. After plucking apply cotton pads soaked in witch hazel.

POLITICS

By BYRON PRICE

Little doubt can remain that Franklin D. Roosevelt fully intends at this writing, to make good in sweeping fashion his campaign promise of "a change at Washington."

He has not been over-communicative since the election, yet enough has come out to make it reasonably certain that most politicians, of both parties, have greatly underestimated the scope of Mr. Roosevelt's intended overhauling of the policies and methods of the federal government.

Of course, the wisdom and the workability of the "change" will be debated at length. But of its giant

SCIENCE CLUB PRESENTS CHAPEL PROGRAM

The feature of the student chapel program this morning was a program given by the Science Club. The program was in the form of the impersonation of great scientists of bygone years and the present time.

The program was planned by Clyde Brown of Greenville, and directed by Miss Mildred Harrison of Wilson.

As the pages of the book turned, Alva Van Nortwick of Greenville, accompanied by Miss Melba Watson, sang "Auld Lang Syne" as a tribute to these great men and women, who did so much for the world.

The scientists who were impersonated were Franklin, Pasteur, Burbank, Leuenhock, Hooke, Edison, Lister, Einstein and Madame Curie.

The president of the Science Club is Nelson Hunsucker of Winterville. This is one of the most outstanding organizations on the campus.

BARRERE LITTLE SYMPHONY AT COLLEGE MARCH THIRD

The Barrere Little Symphony will give a concert at East Carolina Teachers College on the evening of March 3rd.

Barrere, himself, the greatest living flutist, has a three-fold part on the program. He is as noted for the introductory remarks and explanations he gives along with the program as he is for his conducting and flute-playing. He is the "father of the little symphony" movement, as his was the first organization of this kind. This symphony is composed of 13 men and 11 different instruments and each member is a virtuoso. It possesses all the qualities of a full symphony orchestra, but because of its size can keep a charming informality in its program and has a much wider range of music to draw upon.

Since Barrere organized the Little Symphony Orchestra in 1914, the whole nation has become educated in orchestra music through the radio and other agencies. At first only the larger cities could furnish audiences who appreciated them, but now Barrere's audiences are from coast to coast, in large cities, smaller towns, and college communities. Wherever he and his musicians go they play to large and appreciative audiences and return to some places season after season until some audiences have acquired the "Barrere habit."

This is one of the musical attractions the entertainment committee has had in mind for several years, and marks the climax of a series of musical entertainments. They consider it one of the greatest ever offered the public by the college.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood, Calif.—Any way you look at it, Sir Guy Standing waited rather a long time to become active in pictures.

It was nineteen years ago that he signed his first movie contract, and it was only the other day that he stepped before the camera for the first time.

He is not, of course, working under the agreement made in an earlier day of pictures, in the little New York office of Adolph Zukor, head of Famous Players. But it is at Paramount, corporate descendant of Zukor's early concern, that he makes his debut in "The Story of Temple Drake."

When he signed with Zukor he had no idea that war was soon to break. A month later, war seemed imminent. A reserve officer in the British navy, he lost no time in conferring with Zukor, who agreed to forget the contract for a few months—"until the war is over."

Wins Honors in War

Standing sailed the next day, August 4, 1914, the day England and Germany went to war. He came out of the conflict Sir Guy Standing, a knight commander of the British Empire—the only actor awarded the knighthood for war service.

And he forgot about pictures, required to private life in business, and thought his long acting career was over. But five years ago he returned, to star and co-star with such actresses as Ethel Barrymore and Jane Cowl.

Sir Guy today is the embodiment of what every man would like to be in his fifties—a striking, polished figure of a man's man. Tall, lean, athletic, he is bronzed and ruddy from outdoor life. Silver hair and a trim line of mustache enhance a distinguished appearance. Democratic dignity, geniality, warm good humor and brilliant conversation round out the picture.

Won Fame in U. S.

Beginning in London as a boy, Sir Guy really built his theatrical fame in America. He starved and went cold in New York, worked at railroad building in Idaho, and toured the nation's small towns.

Now that he is in the movies at last, he seems destined to stay. In his case a three-year contract probably will mean something.

"Greensboro music;" the new-born boxing team opened its season with a meet with Wilson Feb. 7; both basketball teams are again practicing intensively; and the newspaper club is renewing its activities.

Form Advanced Math Class. A request was made at the beginning of the school year for a class in advanced math; and though many seniors were overcome by the names of Solid Geometry and Trigonometry, seven enrolled and have pursued their course in higher mathematics.

During the first semester the class studied Solid Geometry; since the exams Trigonometry has been started. Miss Mary Ellen Powell of the math department has charge of this class and under her direction much progress has been made.

This year's class is small enough to assure splendid results. The members include Tom Rivers, George Willard, Naomi Gaskins, Maggie Ricks, Carl Joyner, C. D. House and Moye Dail.

New Junior Rotarian. Last Monday evening, the place vacated by Harold Sugg, who was extended the honor of being Junior Rotarian because of his scholastic abilities, was led by Roger Taylor all-around athlete.

Since entering high school, Taylor has been prominent in all athletics, and for the past two years he has excelled in each sport. Roger will meet regularly with the Rotarians for four weeks, and then the honor will be passed to a student with high scholastic rating.

Music Clubs Begin Work. With the opera behind them, the music clubs, vocal and instrumental, are beginning their work on the contest numbers. The majority of the selections have been chosen and in two weeks concentrated work will begin.

In Mr. Robert's department, the band, smaller and younger, than ever, has been at work on its numbers for the past two weeks. The status of the orchestra has not yet been determined, due to the inexperience of its string members, and whether Greenville High will enter an orchestra or not is uncertain at present. The trombone solo has recently arrived and the clarinet solo number is expected soon.

Miss Shindler has chosen most of her chorus, quartet and trio numbers, although the solos are as yet undecided. This year, the outlook for the boys' chorus is particularly bright and prospective members have begun tryouts already.

Boys' Sweat Suits. Last Friday night just before the basketball game with Tarboro the squad received a surprise when Mr. Porter turned magician and produced a number of sweat suits from some boxes.

The suits are pea green and fleece lined with black tape around the bottom of the leg to tie them with. The boys to show their appreciation, rushed onto the floor and took Tarboro into camp with the score of 33-17.

ERNEST LEE CLARK, Jr.

Boxers Lose First Meet. Since Bob Forbes has undertaken to coach the high school boxing team, the squad and local interest in it have both increased immensely. Mr. Forbes, who has had considerable experience as a boxer, began instruction the boys in the "manly art of self defense" about a week before exams, and his practice of giving every boy all the individual instruction he needs is beginning to bear fruit. Greenville lost only three bouts with the fight with Wilson.

In its first meet, Greenville was outboxed, in general, by the undefeated Wilson team. Hatem lost to Shaw, runner-up as state 115-pound champion, by a technical knockout; Blanchard lost a fast bout by a decision of two to one; Dees put up a game fight losing by a decision of two to one, to Bun Hearn. Preston Smith provided the thrill of the evening by battering his opponent so badly that he was given the bout by a technical knockout.

We are informed that Wilson will return the meet on the 23rd and, as the boxing squad has been almost tripled since the fight in Wilson, eight or nine bouts will be fought on that date.

Cagers Successful. Coach Porter's quintet has had, thus far, a very successful season, taking eight wins out of a possible ten. These basketeers have proved themselves far superior to five different teams, and have won at least one game from every team yet played. They were able to run up large scores in some of the games and win easily; yet when the scoring ran close they displayed the nerve which is characteristic of Coach Porter's teams.

The girl cagers have been practically as successful, winning three of the four conference games played. In every game, except the one with Washington, they have given a splendid performance, the work of the guards and forwards being equally outstanding.

DEACON FROSH FALL BEFORE E. C. T. C. HERE

East Carolina Teachers College basketball team staved off a late rally by Wake Forest's freshmen cagers last night and gained a 33 to 31 victory here.

In a preliminary game the Greenville High quint, led by Madrin, defeated Roanoke Rapids Highs, 31 to 16. Newton topped the visiting High team.

In the main event the Teachers gained an early lead and held a 19 to 9 margin at the turn. The Baby Deacon's closest threat came near the close when they pulled within a point a 20 to 29, but the Teachers added steam to finish strong.

Line-up: E. C. T. C.: Forwards, Bostic (9), Barrett (15), Centers, Burnette (4), Tucker (3), Guards, Eason, King (3), Lomnac (1).

DUKE MEETS U. N. C. QUINT TEAM TONIGHT

Chapel Hill, Feb. 11.—Ancient an intense rivalry in every sport and leading contenders for both Big Five and Conference titles, Carolina and Duke will clash on the Tin Can floor here tonight in what is expected to be the hottest feature of the state's basketball season.

The big show will start at 8:30, preceded by a first encounter between the Carolina and Duke freshman teams which is scheduled for 7:15.

The Blue Devils won a previous thriller from Carolina 36-32, but that was on the Duke floor. This time Carolina will have the advantage of the home court, which proved enough last year to make the teams split their brace of games and the Tar Heels, who looked great in their last victory at Washington and Lee on Tuesday night, will certainly be intent on revenge.

Both teams are doped to be at their peak, for in addition to the intensity of their own rivalry, both Big Five and Conference leads will be at stake.

Duke is undefeated in the Big Five and Carolina's one loss was to Duke, so that the Tar Heels are the only team with a chance to tie or beat the flying Blue Devils.

Knee-Long Scarfs Offered By Paris For Evening Wear

By RITA FERRIS (Associated Press Fashion Editor) Paris—(AP)—Long wide scarfs—reminiscent of the old-fashioned stole—are a new note in evening fashions.

They are designed of several thicknesses of silk or any other material enough to hang over the shoulders and fall almost to the knees. Made of the frock they furnished a note of coquetry which is new to the modern mode.

Flowers sound a springtime note on many of the newest party frocks. Roses, poppies and sweet peas trail over shoulder-lines, absent waist-lines or are thrust into the décolletage of a number of smart gowns. Most of the flowers contrast in color with the frock they ornament, although a number of models blend two shades of the same color.

Crepes are the favorite evening fabric of the moment, while many satins and laces are also seen. Splashing the palette of black, red, brown, and white, which has been seen all winter, are new and vivid tones such as cyclamen mauve, cyclamen pink, canary yellow and water green.

A cyclamen pink crepe frock designed with a natural waistline and simple bodice is trimmed by three big red roses thrust into the bodice. A black taffeta evening gown has one short sleeve banded with orange velvet blossoms and a pale green crepe frock has a garland of flowers of the same fabric trailing from left shoulder to right waist.

NEW CREAMERY PLANT PLANNED AT HIGH POINT

C. H. Willard, manager of the Guilford County Farmers' Cooperative Dairying Association since its organization two years ago, will be director of the business.

Inter-City Rotary Meeting Farmville, N. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Rotarians of the Wilson, Zebulon, Rocky Mount, Mount Olive and Goldsboro clubs will be the guests of the Farmville Rotary Club for an inter-city meeting February 14.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

"My feeling on the proposed eight-inch cup, after reading what all the leading professionals have had to say about Gene Sarzen's suggestion, is that it will be a good idea to get the views of the man who supports the golf clubs and is responsible for the game's existence—in other words the average golfer," writes George Jacobus, president of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

George's summer stamping grounds are in Ridgewood, New Jersey, but he sends his views from his winter location with the Kenilworth Lodge course, at Sebring, Florida.

"So far I haven't been where the average players have had the opportunity to voice their opinion," writes Jacobus. "After all, being in the majority, they should be given a chance to try it out and give some means of expressing themselves where we could get the true feeling of what the average golfer wants, to make the game more thrilling and interesting to play."

"They, to me, are the ones to be considered. I believe you will find that they will be in favor of a compromise, which will be a six-inch cup. After all, why not value their opinion and give the man a chance to try it out."

"I believe the people in power will give this their consideration. We have no right to dictate or suggest what ought to be brought out to be. This question came up at an opportune time. I believe, and it will bring out the feeling of all golfers."

Why Not Compromise? It is a certainty the ruling powers of the United States Golf Association will not approve an eight-inch cup, but the agitation and discussion now going on may influence them to look more than casually into the subject and determine whether a compromise enlargement, say to 5 1/2 or 6 inches, would be for the best interests of the game and its average players.

It is an excellent idea in these times for the U. S. G. A., as well as any other ruling organization, to keep an early fairly close to the ground and an eye to windward.

He's An Obstinate Cuss The U. S. G. A. found out quickly it couldn't jam the original "balloon" ball down the throat of John Duffer. It will be worth hearing what he has to say about the bigger cup proposition. If he wants it, eventually he will get it, whether the U. S. G. A. likes it or not.

While the movement is now on to give college sports back to the boys, it looks like an opportune time also to consider giving golf back to the golfers.

Arrest Man On Extortion Plot Chicago, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Federal postal inspectors today arrested two elderly men in the mail postoffice on charges of extorting $50,000 from Mrs. Catherine Thilo of Baltimore, widow of a Chicago doctor.

Assistant U. S. District Attorney Edward Fisher said the men were indicted on charges of writing a letter demanding $50,000 from the woman who moved to Baltimore after her husband was killed by four robbers in 1928.

Cuts Prices. Winston-Salem, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The R. J. Reynolds Company today followed the lead of the American Tobacco Company and cut the price of leading brands of cigarettes from $5.00 to $5.00 per thousand, less the usual trade discount.

P. Lorillard also met the reduction in New York.

Hull Bill Favored Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—The Hull farm mortgage moratorium bill was reported favorably today by the Senate Banking Committee with an amendment extending revision to cover small suburban homes as well as farm property.

Protest Appropriation Cut Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—A swarm of protest against the Senate demand for 5 per cent cut in expenditures today tore down upon the Senate Appropriations Committee from government departments.

Frank Hines, veterans' administrator, informed the committee unless given authority to refuse payment of veterans the cut would bring curtailment in hospital activities.

Ideas Unset All of which if true has upset some of the ideas on the Roosevelt Cabinet that many supposed qualified dopsters entertained at the start.

Even though Glass' name has figured in gossip on the Roosevelt Cabinet ever since the election, those around the capital who profess to know something about what's going on rather grinned at the idea.

And it wasn't solely because the fiery little Senator is 75 years old, or because his health admittedly is not so good, or because of his known dislike of being an executive.

Carter Glass, they reasoned, would be more valuable to the Roosevelt administration on Capitol Hill than he would be sitting around the Cabinet table as Secretary of the Treasury.

is certain to be one of the main cards in Roosevelt's "new deal," they couldn't see him being absent from his seat in the Senate.

Little To Gain As for Walsh, many observers reasoned that he would gain nothing by surrendering his Senate seat for a place in the Cabinet unless it be, say, Secretary of State.

The Montanan's record as a Senator shines as brightly as any in the Senate, and he enjoys prestige comparable with any.

But one can never tell. Perhaps the Senator who recently said: "Of course any man would feel highly honored to be considered as a Cabinet possibility" expressed the innermost feelings of them all.

Stock Market

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Short covering in the recently depressed tobacco issues gave an upward twist to the stock market in an apathetic week-end session today. Numbers of issues closed fractions to a point higher.

The transfers were 350,000 shares. The stock market as measured by averages has closed a little higher every day of the week save yesterday when Thursday's upturn caused profit-taking.

Short covering came into tobacco as bears who had sold in anticipation of today's announcement that American Tobacco had cut cigarette prices.

Both American Tobacco and Liggett Myers rose well over a point and Lorillard and Reynolds advanced fractionally.

Falls, a leader in recent issues, settled back as traders learned that the national transportation committee planned to make a report public next week. American Telephone was firm.

SEEK CLARIFYING OF INSURANCE STATUTE

Winston-Salem, Feb. 11.—(AP)—group of Winston-Salem lawyers announced Thursday a test case would be taken to the State Supreme Court in an effort to clarify the statute on collection of automobile accident insurance.

The case is based on the claim of the Basketweaver Stores against the Public Indemnity Company, which issued liability insurance on the store's trucks.

One of the trucks struck a pedestrian, C. F. Lewis Jr., who sued the store and was awarded $400, which the insurance company refused to pay because the truck was not being operated by its authorized driver, but by a boy under 16 years of age who took the machine in the driver's absence.

Now the store is suing the insurance company, which has agreed to carry the case to the Supreme Court in case a verdict is awarded against it.

REALTY BOARD STARTS DRIVE FOR REVALUATION

Asheville, Feb. 11.—The Asheville Real Estate Board has launched an intensive drive to obtain a revaluation of realty properties throughout the state, if possible, and if not at least a local revaluation for Buncombe county.

A legislative committee appointed by Theodore Sumner, president of the board, and authorized by its members, started work yesterday. This committee's chief objective will be a state-wide bill authorizing revaluation and in the event the state assembly now in session at Raleigh will not grant a general revaluation they will ask for a local bill permitting revaluation in Buncombe county only.
