BANK HOLIDAY DECLARED IN MORE STATES

Kentucky and Tennessee Join in Bank Holiday. Legislature Act in Several States

(By The Associated Press)
Governor of Tennessee and Kentucky acting in quick succession today declared bank holidays in their States. Governor McAlister, of Tennessee, said that bank holidays in other States with which the people of Tennessee daily have business transactions, led to his action. The holiday is effective immediately and extends through Monday.

In Kentucky Governor Laffoon acted under a law empowering him to annul certain "days of thanksgiving." His proclamation named March 1, 2, 3, 4 as "days of thanksgiving" in the State of Kentucky. Under the order no deposited funds are to be paid out today and more than 5 per cent is to be paid out Thursday, Friday or Saturday.

The bank holiday in Maryland was extended another day to enable the Legislature to provide effective laws to meet the situation and a bill permitting the call of banking holidays was passed by the West Virginia Legislature. A similar measure is before the Nevada Legislature.

Banks in seven cities in Indiana followed the example set by some of the Indianapolis banks and restricted withdrawals, and in Ohio the number of banks limiting withdrawals had increased to over two hundred. Some banks in Pennsylvania have taken advantage of the new legislation empowering them to limit withdrawals out the number is not large.

Knoxville, Tenn., March 1.—(AP)—Despite the bank holiday proclamation of Governor Hill McAlister, many Tennessee banks, principally in cities in the eastern part of the State, opened for business today, or planned to open.

Memphis, Tenn., March 1.—(AP)—Memphis banks decided upon a one-day holiday today. The action followed a meeting of bankers at which Charles Crain, president of the clearing house, said the decision did not reflect any serious banking situation here.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—(AP)—The International Finance Bureau announced today that bank holidays in several States would not be accepted as an excuse for failure to pay income tax payments that are due March 15, but indicated that the payment of the taxes might be deferred in such instances by the arrangement.

Asheville, N. C., March 1.—(AP)—Petition for appointment of three new commissioners against 32,709 acres of land in the Great Smoky Mountain National Park belonging to the Ravenscroft Lumber Company was filed in Superior Court Monday by the North Carolina Commission. Raleigh, N. McLean, Beaufort, co-author of the bill. The House refused to direct its Finance Committee to include the present 15 cents ad valorem school

In December Morrison was granted an absolute divorce. The plaintiff's bill said that in 1924 Morrison married Marian E. Rodgers and operated a filling station which kept him at work for long hours. The bill charged that Joyce took advantage of the plaintiff's absence to "ingratiate himself" with Mrs. Morrison, that her love "began to grow cold" for her husband and that she neglected their daughter who was born in 1925. The bill charged Joyce took Mrs. Morrison away on various trips and introduced her as a "Miss Black." Morrison asked $15,000 actual and $10,000 punitive damages.

NAME LAST OF CABINET

President-Elect Now Turning Attention to Big Job Ahead of Him

Hyde Park, New York, March 1.—(AP)—President-Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt completed the selection of his official family today, and a serious mind and light heart turned toward the White House. He picked Louis, Mac and Steve for his secretariat. He chose Louis H. Howe as his secretary and Marvin McIntyre, of Kentucky, and Stephen P. Early, of Virginia as other chief aids at the White House.

The Cabinet was completed officially last night by the announcement of Miss Frances Perkins, New York, as Secretary of Labor, and Daniel C. Roper, of South Carolina, as Secretary of Commerce. So far as immediate appointments are concerned, Mrs. Roosevelt has finished his task and has surrounded himself with trusted friends. He will carry on the present White House staff that has continued through the past Democratic and Republican administrations.

In reading the history of man, we wonder if it is true that this creature is made to the image and likeness of His Creator, and we ask ourselves why is he determined to defend and to erase that image. To bring the future salvation of man on a firm foundation, God chose one man. In his family his descendants all nations were to be blessed. The story of their segregation, their education, and even their chastisement were a preparation for this central point of all human history. The divine intervention in the history of the Jews forms one of the most interesting chapters of all history. In the passing centuries, the rise and the fall of the Gentile nations was not without contributing something towards the universal preparation of humanity. Finally the Roman Empire embracing all the nations of the world under one ruler, one language, one form of government, unwittingly aided in its spread. Even the corruption of morals and the destruction of the spiritual values of Paganism in Rome, was but a means of effecting a yearning in the hearts of men for the coming of a Redeemer.

The case was the outgrowth of Flemming's car striking a negro as several of them were walking on the highway near Grimesland. The negro was comparatively uninjured, but nevertheless his snow out a warrant against Flemming.

CONDITIONS OF THE WORLD BEFORE CHRIST

In the opening lecture on "The First Century of Christianity," given last evening at the Catholic Church, the Rev. Charles J. Gable briefly but vividly reviewed the preparation of the world for the reception of the gospel.

His sermon was in part as follows: No intelligent perspective of the era is possible without being placed on the background of the act of disobedience of the first man and woman. The disrupting consequences are seen in the wickedness that soon followed and forced heaven to pour out its wrath in the deluge. The entire human race was wiped out except one family. And shortly after, two cities were destroyed with fire and brimstone.

LOSERS HIS SUIT; ROAD HELD NOT RESPONSIBLE

Smithfield, N. C., March 1.—A case which has created considerable interest has just been terminated in Johnston Superior Court, in which V. A. Goodrich, a farmer, who resides near Benson, was suing the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company for substantial damages. The plaintiff's cause of action was based upon a fall which he received on June 24, 1931, while he was riding, as a passenger, upon one of the defendant's train from Fayetteville to Benson, when he stepped upon a banana peeling in the aisle of the car. The plaintiff claims that as a result of stepping upon this peeling he fell upon an arm of a seat, struck his stomach and this immediately produced hernia, from which he has suffered great pain and largely lost the ability to farm. The defendant's motion for judgment as of non-suit was sustained because the plaintiff failed to show negligence on the part of the railway employees in not promptly removing the peeling after it had been carelessly thrown upon the floor by some passenger.

AIR BLAST BLOWS GEMS FROM DIAMOND GROUND

Cape Town, South Africa.—Thousands of pounds' worth of hidden diamonds are being blown out of earth crevices in Namaqualand.

This is done by a new device something like a reversed vacuum-cleaner. It blows out air at a pressure of forty pounds to the square inch and loosens decomposed ground in which the gems occur.

It had been found that stones often remained in crevices and were overlooked by the ordinary routine recovery.

Kangaroo Soup For Export

Sydney.—(AP)—Kangaroo tail soup, a favorite Australian dish, may rival turtle and ox-tail soups as an international delicacy if plans to market the tails overseas prove profitable. A small trade in the tails already is being conducted with Holland and Great Britain.

Spain's Insane a Problem

Madrid.—(AP)—The sanitary department is figuring on how to care for 30,000 insane persons now lacking asylum or medical supervision. The department's budget precludes building new sanatoria.

Health Bubbles in Germany

Berlin.—(AP)—Germany has 216 health-giving springs says a survey by German travel bureaus. The spas were used by a million health-seekers in 1932, the income being estimated at $30,000,000.

Palestine Oranges Lack Outlet

Jerusalem.—(AP)—At the annual conference of the Palestine Jewish Farmers' Association, it was decided to approach the League of Nations and the British government concerning tariff walls which have been erected against Palestine oranges.

HUSBANDS TOO CAUTIOUS TO FLY WAR PLANES

Canberra.—(AP)—The federal ministry has issued an order barring married men from being recruited in the Royal Australian Air Force.

It is felt that family men have less nerve than bachelors and are apt to be too cautious for the development of a young air force.

Another consideration is that the relatives of married men who are killed or injured in airplanes have claims for compensation and pensions.

Vilna Protests Art Sale

Vilna, Poland.—(AP)—To prevent sale of a valuable tapestry collection owned by the basilica of this city, townspeople promised to raise funds needed for repairs to the church by other means. The archbishop had proposed the sale and the government approved it.

My Beauty Hint

By MARGARET LE MARR (Screen Actress)

Tired of the way you are wearing your hair? In rearranging it, then, don't forget that your coiffure must suit you, not Garbo or Kay Francis.

Coiffures of the stars, of the moment's craze, should not be copied unless they're really suited to you. Be individuals!

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood, Calif.—Consistency has never been among the jewels that shine in Hollywood's crown.

Movie producers spend goodly amounts yearly in technical research to be sure that their films contain no false notes in background or costuming, no inaccuracies or anachronisms, but when realism threatens to interfere with romance they're apt to be deliberately inconsistent.

Any movie primer will reveal, for instance, that beards are not romantic. It is in the very A-B-C's of Hollywood that only villains, old character actors, or gangsters may wear foliage-disguised countenances. Grandfather wasn't really a gay blade until he had managed at least side-burns, but styles change and beards are not romantic.

When Realism's Out No longer do you see lovely heroines emerge from a scousing in the ocean as neatly marvelled and dry as when they went in. But in "White Sister" you may see Clark Gable leave six months' solitary confinement without the trace of a whisker on his chin.

One naturally assumes that a prisoner of war isn't accorded daily barber service, but that doesn't matter—not when producers believe the girls who write Clark's fan mail might not care for a bewhiskered Gable.

They did make an honest effort. Clark did put on a heavy beard before he came forth to do the scene. But several co-workers lapsed into hysterics at the sight, and dubbed him "Skipper," and the director needed only one look to decide that realism wasn't worth the price.

The beard was removed, and it'll be up to the fans, if they care, to puzzle out how Gable stayed clean-shaven for six months.

This theory that beards may risk feminine patronage has affected even the hardy "Westerns," usually the paradise of beards.

Thedford's Black-Draught

"Good for Constipation"

"We have used Thedford's Black-Draught in our home for about 20 years and have found it to be a reliable medicine," writes Mrs. Joe G. Roberts, of Porterville, Ala.

"A friend recommended it to me a long time ago and it has proved its worth to me. Black-Draught is good for constipation and to rid the system of bodily poison. I find that taking Black-Draught prevents the bilious headache which I used to have. I take a dose of Black-Draught, dry, as I need it!"

Thousands of men and women have found how well Black-Draught works in the relief of many little common disorders due to constipation. Costs only 1 cent or less a dose.

SUNDOWN STORIES

PAINTING THE PORCH

By Mary Graham Bonner

Willy Nilly was going to put the adhesive tape on his ears at once to make them stay back, but then decided that he would paint his porch first.

"Now, don't go out the front door," said Willy Nilly to Rip, the Dog, "as I'm going to be busy painting and you don't want to get paint on your paws or track marks over the porch."

"I'll go out the back door," said Rip.

"Oh, this is wonderful," exclaimed Willy Nilly, as he worked. He finished painting the porch and the steps leading up to it, and did a very fine job. While he was working he sang:

"I'm painting my porch, I'm painting my porch, I'm painting my porch today. There's nothing to stop me, I'm getting it done, and it looks so bright and gay."

Now that it was all finished he wondered if he should put a "Fresh Paint" sign before it.

"I don't believe that's necessary," he told himself. "No one can miss seeing that this porch is freshly painted, and that the plain boards now look so bright and splendid. Besides, I think I need a bowl of soup after my work."

He went inside, and just then Rip came running around to the back of the house and in the back door and had a dish of soup too. They had finished when they heard a loud:

"Quack, quack, quack, quack!" "Oh, oh," shouted Willy Nilly, as he rushed to the front door, "don't come on my freshly painted porch!"

But he spoke too late. All the Ducks had waddled right over the porch and webbed foot marks were everywhere on the fresh paint.

It Takes More Than Salts, Calomel, Mineral Waters, Oils, or Laxative Pills to Arouse a Sluggish Liver

They Give Only Temporary Relief From Constipation and Biliousness, Because They Have No Effect Whatever on the Liver or Its Production of Bile

Bile is nature's own laxative and your stomach and bowels require at least one quart of fresh bile every day to keep them clean, pure, free from fermentation, putrefaction, gas and disease germs.

When your liver becomes torpid or sluggish the bile stagnates and stops flowing freely. The contents of your bowels become the breeding place for germs and poisons; your food does not digest—it just ferments and decays in the bowels. The blood absorbs these poisons and you suffer from constipation, gas, sick headaches, biliousness, nervousness and sour stomach.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills will remove the cause of this condition and purify your entire system in nature's way. They are not like any other medicine you have ever taken. They are so gentle, thorough and natural in their action that there is nothing about them to remind you that you have ever taken a medicine, and most remarkable of all you gradually reduce the dose until you no longer require a laxative at all.

Five years ago it was generally believed that calomel and laxative drugs stimulated the liver, but modern science has proved that calomel, salts, mineral waters, oils and other laxatives have no effect whatever on the liver.

Sargon Soft Mass Pills act directly on the liver because they contain two amazing substances which highest medical authorities agree are the only effective stimulants to the bile-producing activity of the liver known to modern science. These substances stimulate and invigorate the liver to cleanse and purify itself through increasing its production of bile. This fresh bile immediately starts to work neutralizing acids and poisons, stopping fermentation and decay, cleansing and purifying the bowels and sweeping out accumulated poisons.

Unless you have tried Sargon Soft Mass Pills you can have no idea of the effects produced by this natural cleansing of your liver and bowels. It makes you feel years younger, stronger, healthier and happier. It brings back life and color to faded eyes and cheeks, restores the appetite and sound digestion—gives you a new outlook on life itself.

Insist on genuine Sargon Soft Mass Pills. Don't be misled. There are only two known substances which will actually stimulate a torpid or sluggish liver to cleanse and purify itself by increasing its production of bile. Sargon Soft Mass Pills contain both of these substances and no other advertised medicine on the American market today does contain them.

VALIANT DUST by Percival Christopher Wren

Up here, in my husband's bedroom. "Where's that?" "Through there," replied El Isa Beth el Ain, pointing to a small door in a Moorish horse-shoe setting...

MARGARET PERPLEXED

As Margaret approached the heavy iron-studded garden-door at the foot of the staircase that led up to the apartments of the Lady El Isa Beth el Ain, who was also the Senora Margalit, an old man, clad in a dirty hooded cloak, rose from the great squared stone that was at once a mounting-block and a door-step.

"Je desire..." and again the man shook his head, and with uplifted outspread hand, signed to her to stay where she was, while with the other he pointed first to himself and then to the stairs.

"Yes, my son Jules is here," Margaret understood her to say in her curious English and still more faulty French. "He is ill—very ill. It is your fault. If he could have stayed with me, he would never have learnt these nasty foreign habits."

"In English where she could, and in French where she must, Margaret endeavored to point out that it was only when he had returned to his own country that Jules had developed bad habits, and that in England he had been as abstemious as the average English gentleman and had never, on any occasion, so far as she knew, drunk more than was good for him."

"Why? Because this is his home, or, at any rate, Morocco is his home. He has got to come into his father's business and that is here in Mekazzen and Tangier, and sometimes in Gibraltar where my mother came from, and in Marseilles."

"I am certainly not going to live in Morocco," said Margaret. "Then it's a pity you married a man who is."

"Where is Jules?" asked Margaret, fighting back a slowly rising tide of fear, cold and horrible.

About NEW YORK

By WILLIAM GAINES
 New York, March 1.—Wait Hoyt, the Brooklynite who has signed to pitch for the Pittsburgh Pirates, tells of what he believed to be a unique discovery in radio circles.
 Hoyt and Will Osborne, crooning orchestra leader, were at the home of Harry Romm, the artist's manager, when Osborne produced some recordings by "Bing" Crosby—you know, one of the other crooners.
 Osborne played the records on Romm's machine and sat enraptured, now and then commenting on "how wonderful" he thought the Crosby technique.
 "I've heard baseball players speak complimentary words of other baseball players," says Hoyt, "but never before have I heard—or even heard of—one radio crooner going into raves over another."
 Maybe you'd be just as happy not knowing about such things.

It's "Leontovich"
 Eugenie Leontovich, the dancer of "Grand Hotel" on the stage, now is showing Broadway that she can be every bit as effective in comedy as she was in that tragic role. There wasn't any humor in that part.
 Now she gives us an acidulous burlesque of a faking stage and cinema siren, very aptly and temperamental, in the play evolved by Ben Hecht, Charles MacArthur and Charles Bruce Millholland.

Probably a good many people have wondered what sort of person Leontovich is off-stage. Well, all those who have come in contact with her here in New York have found her to be, extraordinarily modest and retiring in temperamental fireworks.
 The other night she extended an invitation to visit her back-stage. Something came up about her name, which is often spelled "Leontovitch."
 "Really, it doesn't make the slightest difference," she said. "I never bother about that at all."
 But, when she spells it, she spells it without the final "t."
 So let it be—Leontovich.
 Incidentally, her return to Hollywood to make a picture is indefinitely postponed. She was just about ready to buy her ticket before the chance came to play in "Twentieth Century."

What's $15?
 Borrah Minevitch, called "the Monarch of the Mouth-Organ," took his "Harmonica Rascals" on to the stage of Roxy's new picture house—the "little theater" in Radio City—for a week's pay said to run over a couple of thousand.

Whatever the figure, Minevitch and his Rascals have dragged down thousands and thousands of dollars on different stages. And I like to recall the frank admission of Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld that some years ago, when he was musical director at the Rialto, he fired Borrah, then an obscure harmonica player, because he asked for a raise of from $35 to $50 a week!
 It's funny how things happen. The Rialto was a Roxy theater in those days.
 Amusing, too, is the way some of these tough, usually irreverent taxi drivers can go softie over a pretty actress whom they recognize in their cabs.
 We caught a cab on Sixth Avenue the other afternoon and the driver was so ga-ga he just had to get it off his chest:
 "I just hauled Lupe Velez to her hotel. Yeah, shame to take money from a dame like dat."

Talks To Parents

A MINIATURE WASHSTAND
 (By Alice Judson Peal)
 Only in the most elaborately equipped nursery schools and kindergartens does one find low wash basins with hot and cold water faucets which the child can manipulate easily.

In the average home the child whose chin scarcely reaches the level of the lavatory basin must either stand passive while his mother washes him, or mounted on a box, do the best he can, to reach faucets and manage the complexities of stopper, hot and cold, soap and washcloth all at once.

Since it is good for the child to learn to take pleasure in doing things for himself as soon as possible, it is a good idea to place in the bath room for his use, as a washstand, a little table reaching a little above his waist.

Upon this can be placed a small enamel basin and his soap dish. Here then he can learn to wash his hands comfortably. The problem of soaping his hands and face, of rinsing and drying them is really a sufficiently complex and engrossing process for a 2 or 3 year old.

A little later he can learn to pour out the used water into a little pail provided for him, and to pour clean water from a pitcher, not too big for him to handle and given him only about three-quarters full.

Later when he is about 4 or 5 he can graduate to the use of the regular lavatory basin. He can then easily stand on the wooden box mounted on castors which enable him to move it easily but not so easily that it will slip out from under him.

He is ready then to learn to use the faucets, to turn them on and off, regulate the flow and use the basin drain.

SPORT SLANTS

We have not gone into the situation extensively enough to discover what the composite or average major ball player would look like, if anything, but our research department comes up with some rare exhibits, to show the extremes in the physical make-up of the talent now being assembled for spring training.

There is some question whether the rosters tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth, so far as the vital statistics are concerned. If they do, the only real rivals for honors of the "dreadnought" class are Bob Fothergill, 230-pound outfielder of the Boston Red Sox, and Babe Ruth, listed for a mere 220 pounds. The suspicion is that the Bambino will be closer to 230 than 220 when the 1933 season opens, but this may be doing him an injustice. We will accept the official figures, with a notation for later check-up.

Red Sox Have Variety
Fothergill deserves the heavyweight title so much poundage into a frame measuring 5 feet 10 inches. Ruth is four inches taller and five years older.

The current Red Sox are a strange collection, all told, gathered from the highways and byways of baseball. They boast the lightest player in the American League in "Rabbit" Warbler, the infielder, who scales only 150 pounds and have a contender for the distinction of being the tallest in the circuit, Bob Weiland, pitcher, who stands 6 feet 4 inches. Smead Jolley, now listed as a catcher, and Dale Alexander, heavy hitting first baseman, could make a good pair of tackles. Both stand 6 feet 3 inches in height. Jolley weighs 218 and Alexander 210.

Weights and Measures
The tallest player in either big league is Eppa Jephtha Rixey, Cincinnati's veteran southpaw, who soars 6 feet 5 inches. Babe Herman of the Cubs and George Earnshaw of the A's, each 6 feet 4, are among the nearest rivals.
The distinction of being the shortest goes to Earl (Sparky) Adams, third baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals. By measuring only 5 feet 4 1/2 inches Adams squeezes under 40-year-old Rabbit Maranville of the Braves, who nevertheless represents the loudest 5 feet 5 inches in the game. The American League's mid-gest is Frank Pytlak, Cleveland catcher, 5 feet 6 inches.

Except in the "dreadnought" division, the National League has a margin in most of these departments. Paul Derringer, Cardinal pitcher, is the heaviest, at 215.
Hughley Critz, diminutive Giant infielder, scales only 145 pounds for the lowest ringside weight in either league. The distinction of being the oldest belongs, of course, to John Pious Quinn of the Brooklyn. Many say Old Jack is 50 or more, but even the 47 years marked up for him on the roster are enough to surpass his leading American League rival, 44-year-old Urban Faber of the White Sox pitching staff.

The babes in arms are two rookie pitchers, Clarence Fieber of the White Sox and Keith Frazier of the Cincinnati Reds, each 19, and ambitious.

BOXING FANS BARTER WAY TO RINGSIDE IN GEORGIA

Easton, Ga.—(AP)—A jug of syrup or a basket of eggs may be exchanged for a ticket to a boxing bout in this section.

Cleve Roby boxing promoter, has spread the word around that he is willing to barter tickets for eggs, corn, potatoes, chickens, syrup or what have you.

Roby operates a store in the Kennerhook district a few miles from Easton and promotes boxing matches on the side.

'Dizzy The Great' To Show Batting Powers He Says

St. Louis, Mo.—(AP)—Dizzy Dean, who you had been wondering, is still that way about his talents as a baseball player.

"I intend to do both the hitting and pitching in 'my games this year," he wrote Bill DeWitt, Cardinals' treasurer, in a letter from Gulfport, Miss., signed, "Jerome Herman Dizzy Dean, the Great."

"Honestly I don't see how any club in the league can beat me. I think I'll be able to call in the outfielders and win."
The only chastened note in the letter was a reference to the present employment situation:
"After driving down here and seeing so many people tramping the highways, I am beginning to take my baseball seriously."

British Giving Larger Golf Cups a Fair Trial

London, Eng.—(AP)—Gene Sarazen's idea for a bigger golf hole is bearing some fruit down in Surrey.

The Chertsey Club has tested a eight-inch hole, and expressed its disfavor, but will now experiment with a six-inch cup.

Next month the new cup will have a real trial in a tournament in which several amateurs and professionals, including George Duncan, Abe Mitchell and Ted Ray, will participate.

College Circuit Puts Penalty On Light Schedules

Los Angeles, Calif.—(AP)—Instituting a new system of compiling standings, the Southern California College Conference will take care of instances where members do not meet all opponents in a given athletic season.

If one institution refuses to meet another member of the conference, although that school is willing, the one refusing will be charged with a defeat before the season opens and will be so enlisted in the standings.
Should two schools not meet by unanimous choice, each will be charged with a one-half defeat and credited with a one-half victory. The team with the highest percentage total wins the title. Ties will be played off.

Teachers Beat Roanoke Rapids

Playing the Roanoke Rapids Red Devils in the last game of the season the E. C. T. C. Teachers gained a 54-24 win.

The first half of the game was fairly close for although the Teachers led during the entire period they were never more than four points ahead, the half score being 22-18.

The second half was an entirely different story, the locals running their score to 40 before Roanoke Rapids could increase their 18 points to 20.

Debus, former all Southern Conference flash, led for the visitors with 20 of their 34. Lutz and Lomnas, local guards, led for the collectors with 10 each.

The line-up:
E. C. T. C.—Forwards: Bostic (6), Tucker (7) Barrett (8), Deal (2), P. King; Center: Burnette (9); Guards: King (10), Lominae (10), Eason (2), Jolly, Carr.

Roanoke Rapids—Forwards: Dickens (20), Taylor (8); Center: Check (3); Guards: Speight, millie (3), Brown.

New York Cotton

New York, March 1.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady four to eleven points higher upon strength of the passage of the Smith bill by the House. Traders and commission houses were buying. Initial advances carried March 5 97 and July to 6.29, nine to twelve points net higher. It met realizing, but there was little Southern selling and the market was steady at the end of the first half hour.

Stock Market

New York, March 1.—(AP)—The stock market dipped a little lower in an extremely quiet session today after firming a little on earlier trading. Despite the setback much of the gains of the previous session were retained. The dollar again acted well in foreign exchanges and advanced a little against some of the European gold standard currency.

Stocks losing major fractions or more than a point included American Can, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey, Corn Products, Westinghouse, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific. Those maintaining fractional gains included General Motors, International Harvester, General Foods and National Biscuit. General Electric sagged half a point as did Standard Oil of New Jersey.
The turnover was approximately 800,000.

Randelman Bank Robbed.
Randelman, March 1.—(AP)—The Bank of Randelman was held up and robbed of dollars today by four men who escaped in an automobile. A. B. Beasley, cashier, was one of several in the bank at the time and as the bandits fled toward Greensboro, he shot one time at the fast disappearing machine with a shot gun but said he doubted that he scored a hit.

The robbery occurred shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon and officials said they could not tell exactly how much had been stolen until a complete check-up was made. The robbers entered the place lined up all the men present against the wall and proceeded to take all the money in sight into a bag held by one of the yegmen.

Sues Huey Long For Half a Million.
Washington, March 1.—(AP)—Samuel T. Ansel, recent counsel for the Senate Committee that investigated the election of John H. Overton, Louisiana, today sued Senator Huey Long for $500,000 damages on slander charges.

In District of Columbia Supreme Court the former judge-advocate-general of the army contended that he was actually damaged to the extent of $250,000 by the speech Long made in the Senate on February 21 which brought him into public laughter, infamy and discredit. He asked another $250,000 as punitive damages.
