BANKING HEADED TOWARD NORMAL IN THIS STATE

Reopening Of More Banks Improves The Financial Situation Throughout N. C.

HOOD STILL ADDING NEW INSTITUTIONS

One Hundred and Sixty Additional Banks Given Permission to Resume Business Today; Names of More Institutions to be Made Public by Banking Commission Tonight

Raleigh, N. C., March 16.—(AP)—Banking was headed toward normal today in North Carolina as at least 160 banking houses, including members of chain and branch banking systems, opened for the transaction of unrestricted business.

There were 124 banks classified as strictly State that opened for business, including 73 individual banks and 31 chain members licensed in 97 permits.

In addition, one bank and five members of a chain which are State banks and also Federal Reserve members opened. The Federal Reserve has also licensed thirty national banks. There were 372 banks operating in the State when the bank holiday was ordered early in March.

Early this morning Gurney Hood, State Bank Commissioner, announced 29 new names to add to the State institutions resuming business. Hood said conferences would continue without end with bankers and bank directors looking to the opening of more banks, and that no additional list would be made until after 10:30 tonight.

TALKS ON LIFE AFTER DEATH

Rev. Albea Godbold Discusses "Immortality" at Methodist Revival Here

Last night Rev. Albea Godbold spoke on "Immortality" at the Methodist revival. He said: "We have come upon a day when we do not like to think of death. The pioneers had to think of death. We do have to face death nevertheless. This fact oftentimes makes us melancholy. We live in a day when we try to forget. To everyone there comes a time to die. How many of us hang on to the hope of immortality? Everyone has the fact of death to challenge. Throughout all the ages men have had to think of death. The oldest book known is the old Egyptian Book of the Dead. Sooner or later everyone becomes serious about death, and the question of immortality. As one faces this more and more, there comes an assurance and hope that there is something more than matter and that God has created man for a purpose. When we think of the virtues of man when know that personality must live on and cannot die. Life is built to the steer of immortality. Life as we have it here is only the prelude, the first chapter to a book. Some look on the world as so vast, and what is man in so vast a universe? Man's mind is the thing that has made discoveries therefore the mind is greater than discoveries.

How shall we think of those who have gone before? The best way is to think that they are with God and that we have fellowship with them, and that we can talk to God about them. There is no such thing as death to one who believes in God. Thank God for hope!"

This morning Mr. Godbold spoke on "Happiness." His text was taken from the 17th verse of the 13th chapter of John: "If ye know these things happy are ye if ye do them." (Continued on Page Four)

NEW CHARGE IN JUDD CASE

Attorney Says Mrs. Judd Given Death Sentence to Make Her Talk

Florence, Arizona, March 16.—(AP)—A charge that the jury which imposed the death sentence of Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd did so in an effort to make her talk has been made before the Arizona Board of Pardons and Parole.

The allegation was made by O. V. Willison, one of Mrs. Judd's attorneys.

He said last night four members of the jury which convicted Mrs. Judd of murder were of the belief the pardon and parole board would commute the death penalty and that only with death facing her would she expose other jurors who believe might be involved in the slaying of Mrs. Agnes Ann Leroy and Miss Hedvig Samuelson.

TUCKER MAKES STRONG RACE

Local Man Gains Considerable Support For Marshall of Eastern District

L. W. Tucker, of Greenville, candidate for appointment as U. S. Marshall for the Eastern District of North Carolina, has strong backing by the Democratic leaders of the Eastern part of the State. Mr. Tucker, for several terms, was sheriff of Pitt County and is thoroughly familiar with the duties of this office. He has for many years been one of the outstanding Democratic leaders of Eastern Carolina. In the last November election Pitt County cast a Democratic vote of 7,606 to a Republican vote of 221. This makes Pitt County the banner Democratic County in the State. No recognition has been given to Pitt County in the past thirty years in the way of Federal appointments. The friends of Mr. Tucker in Pitt County and the adjoining counties feel that he should be recognized for his faithful work to the Democracy of this State, and that the county of Pitt and its citizens, who are behind Mr. Tucker in his candidacy for this office, should also be given recognition.

HOUSE PASSES ROOSEVELT'S ECONOMY BILL

Measure Will Now go To The White House For Signature of President

Washington, March 16.—(AP)—Final congressional approval was given today to the Roosevelt request for authority to trim government expenses $500,000,000 by slashing veterans' and federal pay.

The measure carrying authority was the second administration proposal to be passed by the extra session of Congress and now goes to the White House for the signature of the President, which will make it law.

On motion of Rep. McDuffie, chairman of the economy committee, the House concurred in the Senate amendments. President Roosevelt submitted the program to Congress last Friday in a special message, and was passed by the House Saturday.

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—A few words from President Roosevelt were to decide today whether the House would accept or reject Senate amendments to the executive's $500,000,000 economy program.

Acceptance without change would send the message to the White House early in the afternoon and rejection would necessitate conferences between the two branches of Congress and delay transmission until late today. As passed, 62 to 13 by the Senate last night, the measure included a host of amendments, although only a few were considered of great import.

It was estimated that these took $10,000,000 from the total annual saving, but the bill still would give the President authority to reduce veterans' expenditures and Federal salaries upward of $500,000,000.

Since enactment made no change in the power the President had asked Democratic leaders left to him the decision as to whether he would agree to them.

TO CONSIDER PITT SCHOOLS

Commissioners And Schools Head Talks Here Today

The extended school term in this county will be considered at a joint session of the Board of County Commissioners and the Board of Education at the court-house this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The meeting was set for yesterday but was postponed on account of the inability of all members of the Board of Education to be present. It previously had been postponed on account of the illness of Herman McLawhorn, chairman of the commissioners.

The meeting is one of the most important of the year in view of the fact that the eight months extended school term is at stake and the outcome of the action will be watched with more or less interest from all sections of the county.

The former Board of Commissioners at the beginning of the school term signified a desire to run the school over the extra two months period, but stressed the fact it would be necessary for the public to pay up their taxes promptly to make this possible.

The financial situation affecting the nation for the last several months, and especially the last two weeks, has caused a pronounced drop in tax collections and it is impossible to say what decision will result from the joint session of the two boards this afternoon.

Mrs. Roosevelt Flies to Capital From Newark

Newark, N. J., March 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt left for Washington today, the first time the wife of a President of the United States has ever flown in an airplane.

Mrs. Roosevelt came here Monday by train when unfavorable weather prevented her from traveling by air as intended.

R. F. C. FUNDS ARE USED FOR GYMNASIUMS

Four Community Center Buildings Being Built in This County At This Time

Reconstruction Corporation funds backed by contributions of citizens of the various communities of the county have resulted in pronounced improvement in the buildings of many of the schools and erection of four community center buildings and gymnasiums. The largest of these undertakings is nearing completion at Bethel and will take care of the needs of the city for many years.

The first of the gymnasiums to be completed was at Grimesland. Two weeks ago finishing touches were put to the 60 by 100 feet structure and already athletic teams of the school have been using it for play. The building cost in the neighborhood of $1,000, the materials being furnished by public contributions and the labor by Reconstruction Corporation funds.

At Grifton plans are under way for the erection of a community center. Lumber is being cut, other materials assembled and it was expected actual construction work would get under way within the next several days. The building will be same size of that at Grimesland and will cost about the same.

At Stokes practically the same type of building is being constructed, but it will be used as a vocational agriculture work shop. Agricultural development is receiving considerable thought in this section of the county and the new building was expected to provide new impetus to the vocational movement.

The community building at Bethel is the largest in the county and when completed probably will rank as one of the best in this part of the state. It will be used by the High school for athletic purposes and the city will use it for public gatherings and other such purposes.

Reconstruction Corporation funds also are being used in the installation of a water system in the Palk land teacherage, painting of teacherages at Belvoir and Arthur and improvement of the teacherage and school building at Winterville.

These projects are just one phase of the unemployment relief program made possible by Reconstruction funds in this community and thousands of people have been provided with employment from time to time as the committee turned its attention to making permanent improvements while providing for the relief situation.

Think Inflation Doomed in U. S.

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Financial analysts of Wall Street, notwithstanding the soaring stock market, are of the opinion that hopes of the currency inflationists are doomed to disappointment.

While economists of the Street admit some controlled inflation may be in prospect, they point out that so far as determined at this time, plans of the new Federal government has been for sound and adequate currency.

Pres. Puts Final Touches to Unemployment Relief Plans During Morning

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt worked today on his message to Congress dealing with unemployment and farm relief plans which he will send to Congress today. White House aides said the message was expected to be about six hundred words long and would not be sent up before 5 o'clock this afternoon.

The President decided to include both subjects in one message.

DUDLEY HELD IN NEW CASE

Young Man Facing Robbery Charge Jail For Attempt to Effect Jail Break

David Dudley, Greenville young man, who was released under bond about two weeks ago on a charge of aiding in the robbery of Watson's store, was jailed by county officers this week on a new charge—that of attempting to aid in the escape of prisoners from the county jail here.

Dudley was arrested by Sheriff Sam Whitehurst following the finding of a drill, crowbar and six hack saw blades in the white compartment of the jail. The sheriff said he was told that the instruments were carried to the jail by Dudley probably in the hope of effecting the escape of Luther Dunn who was also being held in the alleged robbery of Watson's store.

Dudley vigorously denied that he had anything to do with the jail break scheme, and said he did not carry the instruments to the jail.

Following their arrests Dudley and Dunn were bound over to the next term of Superior Court under bond. Dudley was able to provide bond of $500, but Dunn could not and was confined in jail to await trial.

This is the third time attempted jail breaks have been nipped in the bud by county officers during the last two years.

FOUR HELD IN ROBBERY CASE

Two Negro Men and Women Arrested For Robbing Negress of $94 Here

Four negroes—two men and two women—were held in the city jail here today charged with robbing another negro named Causy Moore, of $94 last Sunday night. Police, in making the robbery known today, said they had recovered $29 of the stolen fund and hoped to recover the remainder soon.

Those held on the robbery charge are McKinley Faircloth, Otis Watson, Jennie Johnson and Gertrude Carr. Causy Moore, described by police as eccentric, and an object of charity the last two years, had the idea her money was safer pinned in her clothes than anywhere else, so she went about from day to day with $94 in bank notes either pinned in her bosom or to other parts of her clothing.

Word got out that the negroes carried a considerable amount of money in her clothing and last Sunday night she was attacked on the street near her home, her clothing torn from her body and the money taken. The two women later arrested by police, were alleged to have staged the robbery with the assistance of the two men who spotted their victim and directed the women in their operations.

A daughter of the robbed woman said the money represented all of her savings which had been acquired over a period of several years. Police reported the recovery of some of the money when the four were arrested and expressed hope they would be able to find the remainder.

Late News Flashes

Today In The Legislature. Raleigh, March 16.—(AP)—Moving in high gear toward vote on two questions, appropriations and the eight months school term, the General Assembly today heard the House debate with questions of the sales tax, the underlying theme in almost every speech.

Two veterans of many legislative battles, Senators McLean and Clemmons, took opposite sides on the question as they calmly debated the bill for a uniform eight months

$300 GIVEN TO SCHOOLS

Anonymous "Old Friend" Presents $300 In Cash to Pitt Public Schools

While the commissioners were considering the financial situation confronting the schools of this county today, a benevolent hand reached out and literally donated $300 in cash to the general public school fund of the county.

The gift was presented to the Board of Commissioners today by F. C. Harding in behalf of an anonymous "Old Friend" who sent the money to Mr. Harding in the form of a $100 bill and four $50 bills.

Accompanying the letter, postmarked as ordinary mail at Hamlet, N. C., March 13, was an ordinary letter head with the bottom torn off, containing hand-printing to disguise the writing of the author.

The letter read as follows: "Mr. F. C. Harding,

"Greenville, North Carolina. "Dear Mr. Harding: The enclosed $300 I wish to donate to the general public school fund of Pitt County, North Carolina.

"I do not know who is the treasurer, so I am sending to you. Please deliver to the Treasurer of the General Public School Fund of Pitt County.

"AN OLD FRIEND." "The gift came at a time when the Commissioners and Board of Education were debating whether or not they would be able to run the extended eight months' school term this year, and to say it was gratefully received would be expressing the matter mildly.

Whenever the "Old Friend" is he may rest assured he has the deepest appreciation of the county school authorities and thousands of other people of the county.

Every reference to the feasibility of running an eight months school term on imposition of a sales tax. (Continued on Page Four)

OPPOSITION STARTS FIGHT ON MEASURE

Chairman Harrison Hopes For Vote Today But Believes It Will Be Delayed Until Tomorrow; Quick Enactment Will Make Beer Available By April 15, Supporters Say

Washington, D. C., March 16.—(AP)—Considerable talk, principally by opponents, promised today to delay until tomorrow the Senate passage of the 3.2 per cent beer and wine revenue bill.

Approved by the House, endorsed and amended by the Senate Finance Committee so as to include wine, the measure was at the top of the Senate Democratic program for the day. Chairman Harrison, of Mississippi, of the Finance Committee, hoped for a vote today, but intimated that was just a hope.

His intention and plans of Democratic leaders was to let the members talk themselves out today so the bill could be agreed upon and delivered to President Roosevelt on Saturday.

Such quick enactment in response to the President's 72-word message sent to Congress last Monday would make beer legal before April 15 in the States where the law does not prohibit.

EDUCATORS TO CONFER HERE

School Problems to be Considered at Conference Here April 7 and 8

An Educational Conference of importance to the schools of Eastern North Carolina will be held at East Carolina Teachers College on April 7 and 8. Superintendents, principals, supervisors and classroom teachers and the members of the faculty of the college will gather for the discussion of problems they have in common, with the purpose of rendering better service to the schools.

The program provides for general meetings with regular programs and for round-table conferences of two groups, one of city and county superintendents and one for principals and supervisors and classroom teachers. Every one on the program is either a practical school man or woman from within the State or a member of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College. The subjects for the talks and the topic for discussion have grown out of the definite needs of the schools.

M. K. Fort, in charge of the Training School of East Carolina Teachers College, is general chairman of the conference, and will preside over the opening and closing sessions. M. F. Jennings, superintendent of the Pasquotank County Schools, will preside over the general session on Friday evening, April 7. President R. H. Wright will deliver the address of welcome and the college cheer club will sing at this meeting. E. H. Hicks, superintendent of Plymouth schools, will talk on the subject of "Why Teachers Fail." G. S. Phillips, of the Greensboro schools, will talk on "What Do Schools Officials Wish to Know About Prospective Teachers?"

Summaries of round table conferences will be given at the general meeting on Saturday morning, April 8, and K. R. Curtis, superintendent of Wilson schools, will present the subject, "How May Undesirable Teaching Material Be Eliminated?" Ray Armstrong, superintendent of Goldsboro schools, and P. J. Long, superintendent of the schools of Northampton County, will preside over the two round table conferences of superintendents. The topics to be discussed are as follows:

The anonymous donation of $300 to the county school fund, while most unusual, is certainly a good example for some of those who have plenty to do so without depriving themselves. The source of this gift or the motive back of it is not known, but just the same every dollar is a great help during these times of financial stress and we presume the gift was most acceptable.

The House of Representatives is eternally right in standing by its action in abolishing the present law that gives tax exemption to holders of stocks in foreign corporations. Despite the fact that such an exemption has been in force for the past ten years such a law should never have been enacted and the people of our state who believe in justice can now thank the House of Representatives for its determination to remove this injustice from our tax books and should urge the members of the Senate to do likewise.

NEW REGISTRATION NEEDED

While the legislature is endeavoring to better the conditions of our elections by restricting the absentee ballot provisions of the primary law, we again take the opportunity to call attention of our county election officials to the necessity of a new registration in our county together with sufficient polling places. There are hundreds of names on our county registration books of persons who are dead or have moved from the community long ago. The absentee ballot provision of the law has come in, we believe, for more abuses than any other and one good way to prevent these abuses is to get rid of the dead names by calling for a new registration. It is our belief, and we have heard the politicians brag about it, that in most every election some of these names are voted and such a condition should not exist. We believe that our election officials as well as the great majority of our citizens, want clean and fair elections and primaries in our county and a new registration will help to bring this about by removing the names of those who are not entitled to vote or have anybody else vote for them.

We bring this matter up again at this time because next year is again the time for an election and we feel that the election officials should begin to give the matter some thought so that by Percival Christopher Wren, "BEAU GESTE" being sentenced for the slaughter neglected by her part-Moorish husband, Jules, is continually annoyed by Raisul, son of the powerful Kaid of Mekazzen. Commanded by Major Riccoli, who plots treason to France with the Kaid, a Foreign Legion detachment arrives at the impregnable Citadel of Mekazzen, Margaret does not know her girlhood sweetheart, Otho Belme, is a private in Riccoli's detachment. But Raisul and Jules know, and Raisul promises that something will happen to Otho, very soon.

Chapter 31 NAPOLEON BONES

"She's not likely to see him, herself," observed Jules. "Damn the swine." "Of course not," replied Raisul. "Private soldiers won't do much wandering about in our part of the Citadel, nor is she likely to go prowling in the outer court-yards. Of course she won't see him. And mind you don't say anything. In fact, make it certain you don't go and let it out—when you've been thirst-quenching—by keeping away from Margaret." "Don't be alone with her at all, d'you understand?" continued Raisul. "Your mother will give you a home from home for a few nights—and if you should get a fever, or anything, Sara will look after you. Have a drink? Yes? Right. And you leave the good Otho Belme to me. And Margaret. D'you understand?"

"Now we will open our eyes," said the Kaid. Raisul clapped his hands. "Ho, Achmet," he smiled, "bring brandy and cigarettes for the Sidi." Meanwhile the young gentleman's father, the Kaid Abdallah Karim, attended by his halib, his chamberlain, his confidential scribe Abu Talib Zerhoum, and his Strong Man bodyguard Ibrahim the Lion, gave audience to his distinguished visitor the Major Napoleon Riccoli.

Graciously the Great Kaid poured a libation of milk in sign of welcome, protection and hospitality. Gravely they drank ceremonial mint-tea and talked of—horses. "You must see my private stables, Sidi Officer," said the Kaid beaming graciously upon the man whom he was summing up with the shrewd cleverness, the deep and wide experience, that so seldom led him astray.

The eyes of the Secretary met those of the Chamberlain, and neither smiled. "Now what color are the horses of the troop of Arab Spahis who, later on, will join the Sidi here?" asked the Kaid suddenly. "Bay," replied Riccoli. "At least it was a bay horse when it left the regiment."

"Bay horses. Good. I am glad they are not roan, for roan horses are never swift. Nor yellow for yellow horses are fit only for outcasts. From my own stables, that he may match the troop. But it will not be the one that the Sultan sent to me, for it has not only a white face and white stockings, but actually a white patch on the withers. What could be more unlucky? Oh yes, His Sheerhan Holiness and Imperial Highness meant it to be unlucky. It will be when I conquer and capture him; when we capture him; when you capture him. Very unlucky—for him; for I will shave off the Sheerhan and Imperial Holiness's beard. I must give the Sidi a bay horse and nail his feet to the floor while I do it."

"But drink another glass of tea, Sidi; for a man should drink three times, and a horse four." "Now we will talk awhile—and open our hearts to each other." And at this signal the Kaid's attendants departed from the hall of audience, leaving Major Napoleon Riccoli alone with the Kaid Abdallah Karim.

In the quarters allotted to Riccoli's troops speculation was rife, mystification universal, and rumor busy. "I wonder what's in the wind, Bob," speculated Joe Mummy as they sat on a bench outside the long bar-room in which they were not uncomfortably housed. "What's the game, I wonder?"

Plans can be made for carrying it to completion. The matter should not be put off until the last minute.

Fosters Bank Plan

Winthrop W. Aldrich, head of the Chase National bank of New York, proposed the most drastic program of banking reform that has ever emanated from Wall Street. The plan would divorce deposit and investment banking completely.

dition has given it additional value. Gold Measures Money Gold is simply a measuring unit for money, just as a yard is a measuring unit for distance. A dollar—defined always as equal to 23.22 grains old pure gold—may buy more in one year than in another.

A dollar could be defined as a bushel of wheat—in fact, this has been seriously proposed—or a certain weight of silver or platinum or a group of commodities. But no matter what the definition of the money standard, if that definition is unchangeable, it does not determine the purchasing power of the money. A dollar is always a dollar in terms of its definition. The amounts of other things it will purchase vary with the times.

It is not absolutely necessary to have any commodity for a standard. England's pound, on no standard now, fluctuates according to the supply of and demand for the pound.

Not Always Exchangeable While gold may serve as a measuring stick, it may not be always exchangeable for money. In Germany, for instance, the currency may not be turned into gold, yet it is defined as equal to a specified weight of gold. Germany will ship gold to other countries only when it is decided to be absolutely necessary by the central bank. Many countries are now using gold on this basis.

Before the depression nearly all countries were on the gold standard without restrictions. But when the people at home and when other nations suddenly desired that the money owed should be turned into gold the governments were forced to declare restrictions to protect their gold supplies.

The United States has $4,000,000,000 in gold—but at the time the bank holiday was ordered there was some $6,000,000,000 or $7,000,000,000 in money in circulation and some $40,000,000,000 in bank deposits. It would be impossible to turn all of this into gold.

New York—(AP)—Expansion of the currency does not necessarily mean inflation of the nation's money supply. This is because bank deposits not currency, constitute the bulk of the money. Bank deposits at the calling of the bank holiday were about $40,000,000,000; money in circulation, including currency, about $6,700,000,000. This is a total of $46,700,000,000.

If this sum were increased beyond the nation's economic needs or increased artificially, there would be inflation. In the present situation currency expansion is planned only to the extent necessary to satisfy the demands of bank depositors. Thus, if, on the reopening of the banks, the people withdrew $2,000,000,000, the money in circulation would increase to $8,700,000,000, but this same $2,000,000,000 would be withdrawn from bank deposits and the total of all money—bank deposits and money in circulation—would be the same.

Currency expansion might be inflation if the government simply issued it and distributed it to the public. This would be net addition to the money supply.

The new money now planned gets into circulation just as money always does normally. The banks of the country go to the Federal Reserve banks and are given the money when they give the Federal Reserve the required government bonds. The banks give out this money to those of their depositors who demand it. In time the depositors may be expected to redeposit the money. Then the banks will take the money back to the Federal Reserve and get their securities again.

Inflation need not be artificially induced in the sense of printing currency. It is easier to inflate credit, which is inflating bank deposits.

In 1929 bank deposits were $55,200,000,000; money in circulation, $4,700,000,000, a total money supply of $59,900,000,000. A large part of the bank deposits had been invested and re-invested beyond a safe point; to a point that is where there was a credit inflation.

A bank's deposits are increased largely by loans. Thus if Mr. A deposits $10,000 in the bank, the bank may lend $5,000 of it to Mr. B. Mr. B redeposits it, and the bank's deposits are now $15,000. If the bank lends $2,000 to Mr. C, which is also redeposited, the deposits now are $17,000. This process on a nation-wide scale may go too far, with the result that money is diverted to speculation and bad loans are made. When the speculation gets out of hand and the bank attempts to collect the bad loans, deflation sets in and the reverse of the policy described in the foregoing begins. If the loans are held down, there is no inflation, or at least, the inflation is not harmful. Thus inflation of credit may be good or bad. In 1928 there was credit inflation, but it did not go beyond the nation's needs. Inflation or deflation of the credit supply is always going on according to the needs of business. Likewise money in circulation varies in time, but not so widely as credit—bank deposits.

91% of All Human Ills Originate In Stomach

Failure to Supply Body With Essential Minerals Allows Excessive Acids to Destroy Health and Vitality.

Medical science, constantly searching for ways to prolong life, frequently come forward with startling statements of their findings, but no more astounding announcement has been made in recent years than the statement of an eminent Chemist who now declares that "There is no natural death. All deaths from so-called natural causes are merely the end point of progressive acid saturation."

TIMELY WARNING

An amazing statement indeed but a warning that if heeded, should improve the health and well being, increase the joy of living, and prolong the lives of millions of men, women and children who might otherwise drag through a weary life to an untimely end.

ACIDITY KILLS MILLIONS

Health authorities now agree that 91% of all diseases originate in the stomach and are caused by poor cooking, improper diet, and the eating of highly refined foods. Your doctor knows that the 11 essential Minerals and all Vitamins are contained in foods in their natural state and could be live with you constantly, carefully select and prepare everything you eat, you would never need medicines of any kind. This being impossible, science has been searching for years, trying to compound a formula that would make up for the deficiencies of these vital elements—and at last their efforts have been rewarded.

AID TO NATURE

LEE'S MINERAL COMPOUND, a new and revolutionary formula, actually supplies the system with these vital elements so necessary to health and happiness. It contains the eleven essential Minerals in well balanced proportion, together with Vitamins, and is an invaluable aid to nature in the building of blood, bone, nerve and tissue.

ELIMINATES POISONS

It will rid your system of excess acid, sweep away the dangerous poisons, supply the body with the needed minerals, stimulate the organs of digestion and assimilation, build rich, red blood, clear the skin, give you a keen, hearty appetite, help you to get sound, refreshing sleep, restore health, strength and vitality and enable you to enjoy life to the fullest.

MAKE THIS 10 DAY TEST Convince Yourself!

Stop dosing yourself with "patent medicines," harsh purgatives, oils and cathartics for just 10 days. Go to your nearest Drugist and secure a bottle of LEE'S MINERAL COMPOUND. Take it regularly, and watch the results. You'll be amazed at the feeling of renewed strength and vigor that soon appears. No narcotics or alcohol to "hook you up" but a natural method of restoring health and energy.

For Sale by Warren Drug Store, Greenville, and other good dealers everywhere or, send $1.25 to Lee's Laboratories, 167 Forsyth St., S. W., Atlanta, Ga., for large bottle postage paid.

Luckies Please! In every corner of the world, both here and overseas, wherever you find joy in life, 'tis always "Luckies Please!" It's a pleasure to meet such friendly mildness... such delightful character! Like the smile of an old friend, the mellow Character of Lucky Strike's fine tobaccos is always welcome... because in those choice, flavorful tobaccos is a wealth of fragrant, friendly smoking enjoyment. And in every Lucky Strike you have the true pleasure of real mildness... For those choice tobaccos are "Toasted"—pure mellow-mildness is assured by that mellowing, purifying treatment only Lucky Strike gives. Yes, it's for those two reasons, Character and Mildness—"Luckies Please!" because "It's toasted"

WOMAN'S CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS FOR YEAR

The Greenville Woman's Club met on March ninth at the club home. Mrs. Key Brown, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers for 1933-34, which was accepted.

The slate reads as follows:

President, Mrs. E. L. Henderson; first vice-president, Mrs. W. H. Woodard; second vice-president, Mrs. R. C. Deal; recording secretary, Mrs. W. I. Wooten; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. L. Hillman; treasurer, Mrs. P. G. Dennis; reporter, Mrs. S. M. Crisp; auditor, Mrs. M. L. Wright; chairman of Literature department, Mrs. W. A. Darden; chairman of Music department, Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley; chairman Garden department, Mrs. Travis Hooker; chairman American Home department, Miss Lella Higgs; chairman Education committee, Mrs. E. W. Harvey; chairman Citizenship department, Mrs. J. B. Spilman.

Standing committees: Chairman membership, Mrs. K. T. Futrell; House, Mrs. O. G. Guley; Finance Mrs. J. H. B. Moore.

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore reported for the Garden department. The department in cooperation with the committee of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is going to plant in front of the dumping ground just across the bridge on the Bethel highway. As this has been a bad eye-sore for years, this planting will improve the approach to Greenville. Plans were also given for replanting this week trees in place of those that had died on the Sallee Southall Cotten Drive.

The program for the afternoon was in charge of the Citizenship department, of which Mrs. J. L. Fleming is chairman. The club women were delighted to hear Mrs. Ruth Feneburg again. She sang two numbers, one of which "Duna" an old favorite, was well received.

Miss Gorrell of the college faculty, gave a violin selection. She was accompanied by Miss Meade.

Mrs. Fleming then introduced Hon. F. C. Harding, who spoke on "Conditions in the World Today." He explained the prevailing bank holiday, and the law backing the President's proclamation. He spoke most optimistically and cheerfully of the future in face of the present situation. He said there was still enough genius in the Anglo-Saxon race to guarantee us that the sun will rise tomorrow, and that the revolution working among men was not so much a material revolution or a change in political administration as a revolution of public spirit.

The chastening has come to all of us, to rich and poor alike—to the big business man in the busy marts of the world—to the farmer on his small acres. Mr. Harding said that men will not again soon ask for riches tied up in great fortunes, for they have been swept away in the twinkling of an eye, and men's souls have been troubled, but riches of the spirit and of the mind which are of permanence. He thought like Wordsworth in his sonnet:

"The world is too much with us;
late and soon
Getting and spending we lay waste
our powers;
Little we see in nature that is ours,
We have given our heart away,
a sordid boon!"

But in the future let us "Build three more stately mansions, O my soul."

The club women appreciated Mr. Harding's addressing the club in his inspirational and optimistic speech.

Mrs. Fleming introduced Mrs. Kate Beckwith, the first lady principal of E. C. T. C. She made a short talk and told of her part in helping to organize the Woman's Club. The club women were delighted to welcome her back after many years of absence.—Reported.

Greenville people are proud of the continued success of this play which was adapted by Mrs. Anne Glenn Robeson of the Greenville city schools faculty from the stories "The Adventures of Betty and Scarlet Bunny," written by another Greenville citizen, the Rev. W. A. Lillycrop, and printed for the first time in the Greenville Daily Reflector some months ago. Music for play was written by E. T. Roberson, and the costumes were designed by Mrs. W. A. Lillycrop.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—(AP)—Discussions of the musical film, which is very definitely back on the screen now, are a great deal more sober in character than the ecstatic effusions of producers regarding their attempts in the music-mad season of 1929-1930.

Then the cry, adapted in that stage satire on Hollywood, was "the legitimate stage had better look to its laurels!" The camera could do anything, the movies could spend more money, the scene could dwarf the efforts of a Ziegfeld or an Earl Carroll.

Now the producers are not so much concerned with shaming the stage. They are looking to the laurels which in an entirely new field they can earn for the screen. They are interested in what the camera can do for its own sake, not in what it can do to belittle the footlights.

Virtually all the studios are agog with preparations for a musical offering Jimmie Durante in "I Married an Angel," Eddie Cantor in a version of "Androcles and the Lion" an all-star cast in "Gold-Diggers of 1933," Peggy Hopkins Joyce in "International House," Lilian Harvey in "My Lips Betray"—these are typical and there are others.

Some of them are just light stories with music incidental to the telling; a few are to be decorated with chorus girls; and at least one is to be a revue. But the significant difference between these and the former output is a promisingly imaginative approach.

Increasing attention to scoring, the frequent injection of musically embellished fantasy into films—Harry Lachman's "Face in the Sky" is illustrative—forecast a generally healthier era of screen music.

'MERRY MAD MANIACS' IN 'CRAZY PEOPLE' SHOW ON STATE AT STATE FRIDAY
Bob Robinson and his "Crazy People" company composed of twenty "Merry Mad Maniacs" will be on the stage at the State Friday, in connection with the regular screen feature, "Grand Slam," starring Paul Lukas and Loretta Young.

This stage attraction is a little out of the ordinary and is made up mostly of music, hilarious comedy bits and specialties. Jean Spence and her "Mad Maids of Music" known as Broadway's Hottest All Girl Band, will be featured, together with Roy Gordon and Ullah (you'll find out) Nelson and Pariza, (crazy they admit it), Irving Lazar, dancing feet, Mable Harding, sweet, sweet and others.

There will be three stage performances: matinee 3:30, evening 8:10 and 10:10. Screen features begin at 2:00, 7:00 and 9:00.

About NEW YORK

By WILLIAM GAINES
New York—To get the fullest snicker out of such things as this, one has to be on deck when they happen.

Grace Christie, who won a goody share of notice as a danger, now devotes her time to teaching rhythm.

The other day a woman came into Miss Christie's studio. She proved to be a grand opera diva of the old-fashioned 200-pound variety.

"Miss Christie," she pleaded, "can you teach me to fall down gracefully?"

"The manager says I simply must learn how to fall without jarring things on the stage?"

Jig Saw Mystery
There were a lot of worries in turning out the first mystery novel which leaves the solution of the crime to the jig saw puzzle, to be worked by the reader.

Walter Eberhardt, who is up to his ears in mystery story writing these nights, got a burry call to do the job. So Walter hopped right into head-to-head conference with his publishing firm's master minds.

To give you an idea of a few of their troubles: It was decided that a puzzle with only two persons in the picture—the killer and his victim—just wouldn't do. That would not sustain any mystery for the reader fumbling to fit together the pieces.

How could murder be done in a room where seven persons were gathered without all being aware of the happening? An easy answer was to have the lights out. But then—where would your poor puzzle worker be—with nothing to work with but little black jigs?

Well, the lights would have to go out—in the script—lights just must go out in such yarns. So the only thing to do was to have the murder committed an instant before the room was darkened, with the action of that fleeting second illustrated by the puzzle maker.

How? Somebody certainly would be witness to a knifing, and even the flourish of an ordinary gun with a silencer would be too obvious in a crowded room. So Walter's solution was to invent a new lethal weapon.

Eberhardt by the way, is one writer who has had his start and development in this period of poor publishing business. His days are occupied by his job as press representative for one of the big electrical equipment firms. Writing on his spare nights, he turned out his first novel last year and now has a market for all the work he can do.

Manhattan Memos
George Jean Nathan has had a prolonged struggle with the "fir" bugs. . . . A. E. Gillstrom, the Hollywood comedy producer who calls Gottenborg, Sweden, his home town, has been looking things over around New York. . . . I happened to notice a long, jagged scar on Gillstrom's wrist the other night. An old cleat mark from his baseball days, he explained. He was an infielder in the Three-Eye League, and hit 367 one season with Deatur.

The spiking laid him up for eighteen months. . . . Hattie Carnegie, the modiste who has a big trade from Hollywood and Parke Avenue, got her start in a little hat shop on the lower East Side.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—(AP)—A big, elderly gray-haired negro "on the hill," who sits just outside the door leading to the House ways and means committee room, has been getting things ship-shape for his new boss.

It's nothing new for Harry Parker. He's seen nine of them come and go since he first made his appearance more than 40 years ago during shoes in the Republican cloakroom. Harry is handed down from one chairman of the committee to the other, just like the gavel.

President McKinley, when he was chairman of ways and means, first hired Harry as a messenger. Since then Nelson Dingley, Seneca Payne Oscar W. Underwood, Claude Kitchin, Joseph Fordney, William Green, Willis Hawley and James Collier, the present and retiring chairman, have kept him at his post outside the door.

Harry has probably been present at the writing of more tariff bills than any other living person. The Dingley bill, the celebrated Payne-Aldrich bill, the Underwood bill, the Fordney-McCumber and lately the Hawley-Smoot measure were all framed while he sat on guard outside the committee room or served inside as confidential messenger.

Tariff bills are written in secrecy behind bolted doors. Harry's job was to see that no one got past those doors.

The value of his services is not overlooked by the chairman either. When the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill had completed its journey through Congress and was ready for the President's signature, Chairman Fordney set for him.

"Harry," he said, "tomorrow the tariff bill goes to the White House. Put on your best suit in the morning when you come to work. You're going to see the President sign it." He ranks that as the biggest moment in his life.

Chairman Kitchin thought so much of him that when he retired he presented Harry with a huge engraved silver platter. Payne gave him the entire furnishings of his Washington apartment when he went out as chairman. Oscar Underwood also remembered him, as did McKinley, after he became the President.

One of the things he guards most closely in the ways and means committee room is a Bible that McKinley and William Jennings Bryan were fond of discussing and debating over in their leisure moments from committee work.

Talks To Parents

FIDGETY CHILDREN
By Alice Judson Peale
A mother explains that she taught her children not to "fidget" by making them sit absolutely still without so much as moving a muscle for five minutes at a time. This, she said, cured the difficulty, and she adds, saved her own nerves.

If, in truth, her children did learn to sit quietly through being penalized for fidgeting one can only say that they were most unusual children, and that furthermore, they might have learned the same lesson far more pleasantly.

It is a part of child nature to be almost constantly in motion. Fidgety children especially need to be sent out-of-doors to play, where in running, jumping, climbing and swinging they can use this surplus energy in ways which contribute to their physical growth, and skill and self-assurance.

When they cannot be sent out-of-doors they need to be given something interesting to do in the house.

If mother's nerves will not stand for a doorway gym or a game of bean bag in the hall, or for the noise of saw and hammer at close quarters, employment with some other absorbing play materials provides the child with an outlet in constructive or at least unobjectionable and congenial channels.

The child whose nervous restlessness does not yield to such diversions is a child who needs to see the doctor. If he finds nothing wrong we may be pretty sure that the restlessness is the result of emotional difficulties.

What such a child needs, above all things is parents who are kindly, patient and even-tempered. He needs to be free from nagging and, as far as may be, from correction. He needs continuously to have opportunities for free play in the company of other children.

DUKE SEEKS NEW RECORD IN ATHLETICS

Durham, March 16.—Duke University athletic teams of the present scholastic year are apparently on their way toward setting a new all-time record for championships won in both state and southern conference circles.

With six of the ten state titles settled, Blue Devil outfits have been crowned champions five times since the beginning of the football race last fall. In conference campaigns they have won titles in two sports and second place honors in two others.

Only wrestling honors escaped Blue Devil teams after the gridgers started things off by taking the state title. Cross-country, basketball, boxing and swimming teams followed suit, the aquatic men getting their title in the meet held here last week.

In battling to their five championships, Duke teams lost only two contests in the state and were tied once. Those defeats and that one tie are credited to N. C. State but Duke still has the edge on the Raleigh school for the season, having won three and tied one against State's two wins and a tie.

The Blue Devil grid team was ranked with the best in the conference being defeated and scored on only three times in ten games and being praised especially for their great stands against Auburn and Tennessee, the two leading teams in the old conference. They annexed state title honors by defeating the University of North Carolina in their final game in Tar Heel circles.

The cross-country team had one of the strongest of all time teams in the conference. They won the state title and then placed three men in front of the field in the conference championship run.

The basketball team was the best in three years, winning the state title as they were victorious in 15 of their 19 regularly scheduled games. They reached the finals of the conference tournament for the third time in five years but lost to South Carolina's powerful five.

STRONG BALL TEAM LOOKED FOR AT U. N. C.

Chapel Hill, March 16.—Freshman baseball aspirants greeted Coach Bill Cerny's call en masse this week and prospects are for a strong first year team at Carolina.

Several of the pitchers appear in good shape, including McKeithan, Glasgow, Mill and Spier, who have working with the varsity hurlers in the early practice.

Among the freshman football and basketball stars who are out are Emmet Joyce, Harry Montgomery, Herman Snyder, Melvin Nelson, Bill Moore, Murray Kanner, Olin Yeager, Gene Barwick, Van Webb, Alfred Denit, Frank Orr, Ernest McKeithan and Ray Glasgow.

A combination of hard times, hard times, hard courses and other factors will cost Carolina teams heavily this spring.

The resultant losses include Captain Bryan Grant, runner-up in the National Intercollegiate last year and number one player on the tennis team; Co-Captain Smoky Ferebee and Paul Dunlap, regulars at short and first on last year's nine; and possibly Joe Adams, last year's golf captain, who is back in college but who may not have time for anything except his law studies.

If Ferebee and Dunlap had returned for their last season, Coach Bunn Field would have had his 1932 field intact. As it is, he and the other coaches must groom new men in a hurry if Carolina teams are to maintain the high standards of last spring.

Between 200 and 300 persons are expected to find employment in the plant.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

Most baseball fans remember that Eddie Collins first tried out with the Athletics under the alias of "Eddie Sullivan," while still an undergraduate at Columbia University, but few know this wasn't the reason the new general manager of the Red Sox was barred from collegiate competition in his senior year and asked, instead, to coach the team.

Our authority for this bit of ancient history is Jack Coffey, Fordham graduate manager, who was a collegiate contemporary of Collins and enjoyed a checkered professional baseball career for years before he took over his present post with the Maroon in 1924.

"Collins played under his own name in a little league in up-State New York before he caught the eye of big league scouts and was given a tryout with the A's," said Coffey. "He didn't think anything of it at the time but when the question of his eligibility arose, this was the reason they barred him. The fact he had played big league ball under another name was all O. K.

Wash's Zimm's Fault
"Heinie Zimmerman played on the same team with Collins in those days," recalled Coffey. "It was a coincidence that years later, in 1917, they were on opposite sides in the world series, in one game of which Heinie chased Eddie across the plate, trying to tag him.

"It was a foolish play, of course, and Zimmerman always was charged with one of the biggest bones in baseball, but it wasn't entirely his fault. Rlorden, catching for the Giants, had advanced up the third base line during the play, leaving the plate unprotected. Holke, the first baseman, also failed to cover and, when Collins broke away, pursued by Zimmerman, there was no one to whom Heinie could throw the ball.

John Francis Coffey served three big league teams as an infielder, playing with both Boston clubs as well as Detroit, but his light stick kept him in the minors most of the time. He claims to hold a record of having played on about fifty-five clubs in around eighteen different leagues during a period of sixteen years.

A's Cut Overhead
By one means or another, the Philadelphia Athletics probably have reduced their 1933 pay-roll to a bigger extent than any other major league ball club.

There is no doubt Connie Mack has experienced some pangs of regret, but it also is a fact that the overhead of the A's has been cut from $75,000 to $100,000 by the departure of players Simmons, Haas and Dykes as well as Captain Collins. These four all were among the highest paid, for their positions, in the league.

Mack publicly admitted Dykes was the biggest salaried third sacker in the majors, and it is known Simmons has a year to go on a three-year $100,000 contract.

TALKS ON LIFE AFTER DEATH

"Happiness is a spiritual value. It is part of our religion. Oftentimes it is very difficult to learn to be happy."

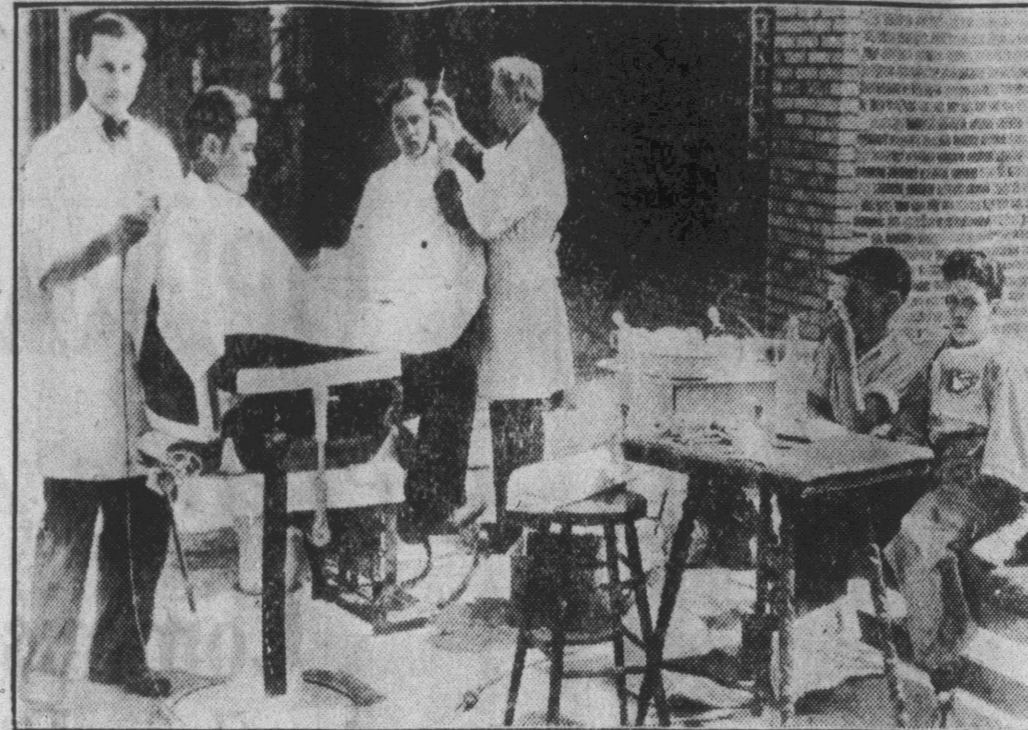

The following are the ways to unhappiness:
(1) Aim right straight at happiness and you will surely be unhappy.
(2) Insist that you have a right to happiness, that someone owes you happiness.
(3) To think that an abundance of things is necessary to happiness.
(4) To think that happiness belongs to childhood.
(5) To think that there is something illusive about it.

The following are the ways to happiness:
(1) Do without some of the things you would like to have.
(2) To get and maintaining good health.
(3) Have good normal home life.
(4) So order your life that it means more and more.
(5) Get real religion to life. When we acquire this, then everything else enters in to make us happy.

A Washington Day Book

Washington—(AP) Even the speed and intensity so marked in the opening of the special session of the Senate of the new Congress could not quite bring a gleam of cheer from rubbing their eyes a bit at the great change which has come over that body.
And in the House—there were just so many new faces and such confusion that it was next to impossible to figure out what it was all about. The turmoil in the House even confused the loquacious and irrepressible Blanton of Texas. It him went the honor of being the first member of the new Congress to address the chair. There was so much noise that Blanton got up and pleaded with the chair that he try to restore order among the members themselves and the galleries.
The serious soft-voiced South Trimble, clerk of the House and presiding officer until the speaker could be elected, tried but with little success. The "freshmen" Democrats refused to be silenced.

It was the lopsided appearance of the Senate rather than the confusion that made things there seem so strange. The large gaping space to the left on the Republican side from where desks had been taken from new Democrats gave the chamber an unbalanced appearance.
Democrats were so closely quartered on the right that their desks were touching one another's.
The two big guns of the Senate—Joe Robinson, the Democratic leader, and Charlie McNary the Republican boss—will do their sharp shooting in the days to come from their old positions. Robinson is in the first desk on the front row, directly in front of Vice-President Garner. McNary is about five desks over to Garner's left on the front row.

Perhaps the most striking thing in the seating arrangement, however, is that Dave Reed of Pennsylvania and George Norris of Nebraska are side by side. Reed only a few days ago tried to read Norris out of the party, but failed.

New York Cotton

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened firm, 52 to 86 higher on active trading, higher Liverpool cables and evidence of returning confidence in business.
May sold up to 6.97 and October to 7.50 during early trading, making advances of 70 to 94 points compared with the close of March 3.
Futures cause some irregularities and a setback of a few points was noted at the end of the first half hour.
Early advances carried May contracts to the highest since last October, then the market got a good deal of realizing. This in addition to Southern selling through houses with Liverpool connection caused reactions of 28 to 40 points.
Selling became less active after the close of Liverpool, and after easing off to 6.66, May sold to 6.78, with active month showing advances of 52 to 58 points at midday.

Stock Market

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Wheat upswings in cotton and violent on resumption of trading in those markets inspired further active buying of securities today. The list was quiet by midday and advances' to one to three points were not maintained.
A few issues dipped under yesterday's close, but ability of the market to maintain yesterday's gains and some instances to extend them was gratifying.
By early afternoon, many issues were still up one point or so, including American Telephone, Chrysler, Macy, Owens Illinois Glass, and U. S. Alcohol and Liggett and Myers.
U. S. Steel common and preferred were up small fractions and gains of a point was retained in General Electric, Harvester, Sears-Roebuck and United Aircraft.

Coca-Cola lost one and a half points while beer stocks went up and rails ran into profit taking, Union Pacific showing moderate recessions.

McLean and Rankin both asserted they believed the sales tax fair. Opponents brought in the sales tax with the assertion that the budget could be balanced without such levy if the paper cuts are made. The eight months plan vote will accomplish more for efficiency and economy than all other plans presented the assembly put together, Senator McLean asserted.

The House killed a bill to restore citizenship to former Judge John Harwood who served a prison term for mutilation of court records in a case involving his daughter who was charged with embezzlement of state funds.

TY COBB'S NICKEL GIVES YOUTH START IN BUSINESS
Spartanburg, S. C.—(AP)—A nickel Ty Cobb spent for a glass of lemonade in 1905 gave impetus to a boy's career in business.
R. Skalowski, Spartanburg jeweler and capitalist, recalls the incident, because he was then eleven years old and Cobb was just starting on the road that led to fame in baseball.
"It was actually the first money I earned," Skalowski said, "and the great Ty Cobb didn't give me more than the price, five cents, for the lemonade either."
Skalowski says the incident occurred at Augusta, Ga., when Cobb came in from the field to the grandstand and asked for a glass of lemonade—Skalowski's first sale.
"I cleared about 75 cents during the game," he added, "and decided to make it a permanent job during the season."

FRIGHTENS TWO GIRLS AWAY FROM HOME

Laurinburg, N. C., March 16.—Roy Patterson, 25-year-old negro, was jailed here yesterday on charges of frightening away from their home two daughters of J. M. McCall, prominent Scotland County farmer, and taking forcible possession of the premises.
The young women noticed the negro at a window within a few minutes after the departure of their father. They locked the front door and almost immediately the man was at the door trying to get it open. The women escaped by the rear and gave the alarm at the house of a neighbor.
The negro had entered the house and was still there when McCall and a friend captured him.

LEGIONNAIRES VOTE TO SUPPORT ROOSEVELT

New Bern, March 15.—Hearing John Burney of Wilmington, department vice-commander of the American Legion, declare that they must support President Roosevelt because he is the President of the United States. Legionnaires in district session here last night at the court house passed a vote of confidence in the new national administration.
"Care of our disabled comrades is first on our list of objectives, and we have succeeded along this line," Mr. Burney said. "Our nation will not let the disabled, or the widows and orphans suffer. There's no need of sulking because some veterans are going to have their compensation reduced. Let us stand up like men, and fight with the Legion for our country. We're still good soldiers when we fight on the side of a question that we think is right."
The Legionnaires unanimously endorsed the candidacy of Capt. Tom Daniels as department commander. A barbecue supper was served.
