Three Minutes

Raiford, Fla., March 20.—(AP)—Giuseppe Zangara, the little Italian immigrant who hated all governments, was electrocuted at 9:15 a. m. today for murdering Mayor Anton J. Cermak, of Chicago, in an attempt to assassinate President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

He went to the chair with as much defiant calm as he had displayed since the night he fired wildly into the crowd assembled in Miami February 15 to extend greetings to the then President-elect.

It was 9:11 o'clock when he entered the death chamber barefooted and dressed in stripes with a white shirt opened at the neck. Two guards accompanied him as he neared the chair, but he said: "Don't hold me; I'm no afraid of chair."
The guards released him and he took his seat as though he were sitting down to lunch, first striding over to Superintendent J. F. Chapman and handing him a sheet of paper on which he had inscribed: "Here is that book I have been writing."

"I'm no afraid of the chair—see," he repeated as he surveyed the 30 witnesses and attendants. "The book is And as straps were fastened about his hands and legs, he asked: "No camera men here? No one here to take picture?"

Superintendent Chapman replied, "No," just before attendants placed the metal cap on Zangara's head. "Lousy capitalists," Zangara shouted bitterly. Then he repeated: "No picture. Capitalists. All capitalists are lousy bunch of crooks!"
As attendants started to complete preparations for the electrocution, he said: "Good-bye—adios to all the world—good-bye."
With his feet quite touching the floor and his head covered, he leaned back in the chair and relaxed to receive the shock. One of the guards who fixed the electrode stepped back and said in a quiet voice: "All right, Joe."

With the signal, Sheriff Dan Hardie, of Dade county, Miami, walked behind the chair and threw the switch that sent 2,300 volts through his body.
The little assassin's body stiffened at the first shot, his head gave a jerk upward and his hands clenched the chair. The current was turned off after three minutes and his body relaxed and slumped forward.
Guards hastily released the straps about Zangara's arms and doctors stepped forward to make an examination. He was officially pronounced dead at 9:27 o'clock.

A heavy rain beat a tattoo on the top of the prison building at the hour of the execution. National guards with machine guns occupied strategic locations and kept close watch on all who approached. An autopsy was performed after the electrocution. There was no announcement as to what would be done with Zangara's body.

GUN BATTLE CLAIMS TWO

Second of Ormond Brothers Succumbs To Injuries Received In Fight

Snow Hill, N. C., March 20.—(AP)—Jesse Ormond died in a Kingston hospital today of bullet wounds in both lungs following a gun fight with his brother Ed who was almost instantly killed.
The shooting took place near here Saturday night and Ed fell mortally wounded with bullets in his head, breast and abdomen.
Eye-witnesses, including John Harrell, brother-in-law, says that after sunset, Jesse went to Ed's home, 300 yards from his own where he started the disturbance by cursing and abusing his brother. Ed, vainly urging his brother to go away, went into his house for a pistol. When he came out Ed advanced upon him, opening fire with his own weapon. The brother-in-law, Harrell, struck the barrel of the pistol and the first shot went wild. Thereafter Ed fired two shots and Jesse three, and all of them found their mark.
"Ain't this a mess," said Jesse as he lay on a cot in the hospital. "Please bury us side by side."
Ed was dead then and Sunday afternoon was buried in the family burying ground.
Developments since the tragedy indicate that the trouble grew out of a dispute over a still located on a fish pond and from which Jesse had sought to keep Ed's children. The still was located this morning by sheriff's deputies with one hundred yards of the home of Charlie Cherry, tenant on the Ormond farm, who was jailed on the charge of operating it.

CIVIL COURT BEGINS WORK

Judge Henry A. Grady Presiding Over Two Week Term in This City

A one week term of civil court opened here this morning with Judge Henry A. Grady, of Clinton, presiding.
This is the second time Judge Grady has held court here during the past months and he was given a hearty welcome by members of the bar and court attaches.
The calendar for the session contains between 70 and 100 cases of more or less interest to the people of the locality and while attendance was not expected to be large any single day, hundreds of people were expected to be present while the two weeks court is in progress.
Judge Grady was expected to speed up work to such extent that the bulk of actions would be disposed of when adjournment is ordered two weeks hence.

U. S. INCLUDED IN MUSSOLINI'S PLAN OF PEACE

Ramsay MacDonald Tells of Plan Following Conference With Italian Leader

Rome, March 20.—(AP)—The new Mussolini peace plan will not be limited to Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy, but will embrace the whole continent and even the United States to a certain extent, Premier Ramsay MacDonald, said in an interview here today.

The British statesman made the statement before leaving for Paris to urge Premier Edouard Daladier of France to approve the project. He had farewell to Signor Mussolini and the French Ambassador, D. Jouvenal. Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, remained in Rome for further sight-seeing.

MacDonald refused to divulge details of the plan, but said the whole idea was the open up the possibility of complete agreement not between two, three, four, five or six powers, but all nations concerned.

An official Italian announcement yesterday said collaboration of the four powers was sought in Premier Mussolini's plan, but did not make the details public.

"We are not proceeding with the idea of two or three agreeing and imposing this upon the others," MacDonald said.

RUSH FOR FARM LOANS ABATES

Farm Department Working at Top Speed to Meet Recent Rush of Farmers

While the rush for agricultural seed loans has abated considerably during the last several days, the office force of the farm department continue to work at top speed today to meet the demands of financially embarrassed farmers of this territory.

E. P. Arnold, director of the department, said this morning that seven hundred applications had been filed through his office since the opening of the filing period two weeks ago. This is more than were filed for the entire period last year. The farm director said they had already arranged to handle seventy applications daily the remainder of this week.

While the crowd was much smaller today than previously, numbers of persons sat around the tables making applications while stenographers raced to keep up with their work. Applications this year were expected to be far in excess of any year since the agricultural seed loans were made possible through action of the Federal government. Only five hundred and fifty-eight applications were handled through this office last year.

The average amount of money applied for an individual to obtain as high as $300 and the form $1,200. The loans were expected to play an important part in the life of the farm this year in view of the financial shortage experienced by growers the last two years and their inability to borrow from other sources.

Each applicant for loan this year is required to reduce his tobacco cotton and peanut crops thirty percent, and this alone was expected to play a conspicuous part in relieving the gloomy condition of the world market, said to be one of the causes of low prices for agricultural products.

MISSING MAN FOUND, DEAD

Decomposed Body of Will Cox Found in Glades of Chicod Township Saturday

After being the object of extensive search for a week, the decomposed body of Will Cox, 48, negro farmer of the Suttontown community of Chicod township was found in the "Glades" area of that township last Saturday night.

A coroner's jury under the direction of Coroner A. A. Ellwanger investigated the death yesterday but returned a verdict that the man came to his death through exhaustion and not foul play as first believed. Cox disappeared from his home Sunday night of last week and nothing was heard of him until Saturday night when his body was found by a group of negroes who had joined in the extensive search for the missing man.

Although the body was partly decomposed, identification was easily established, especially through the overalls and boots which Cox was said to have worn at the time of his disappearance.

Sheriff Whitehurst, who investigated the case along with the Coroner, first expressed belief foul play was the cause of death but after more extensive probing, the coroner's jury laid the cause to exhaustion. The Coroner visited the scene of the finding of the body twice in order to satisfy himself that the jury had been correct in its findings.

Cox, who spent the major part of his life in that section of the county, was married and the father of eight children. Funeral services were to be conducted from his late home this afternoon after which burial was made near his home.

TWO SERMONS END REVIVAL

Rev Albea Godbold Concludes Series of Services at Methodist Church

Mr. Godbold took for his text Sunday morning the ninth verse of the thirteenth chapter of Genesis. He said: "There is a spiritual giant that Abraham was ahead of his time in spiritual insight and understanding. He walked by faith. He began to see that there was justice and love in God rather than wrath. Abraham gave up his rights many times. He and his nephew, Lot, were engaged in sheep raising and lived together. Their herdsmen began quarreling as to whom should have the best part of grazing land. Abraham was the older and by right he should have it, but on the contrary he had caught the spirit of this Christian religion. Instead of going to Lot in a quarrelsome attitude he went to him in a peaceful one and settled the whole matter peacefully. This throws light on what we should do today in dealing with our rights and the rights of others. Jesus says don't complain about our 'social' rights, Abraham's words sound much like those of Jesus. The true Christian has no rights, or at least he must not insist on his rights, but should think of the other person."

At the evening service Mr. Godbold took his text from Jeremiah. "The words of Jeremiah are heart-breaking words. The people of his day were letting an opportunity to bearken to God's Word slip. They had forgotten God and were living anything but a Godly life. They were looking for the Egyptians to save them and not God. Jeremiah was sure that God was going to punish them. At first Jeremiah pretends that he doesn't care, but he does care and his soul cries out for someone to help. He says that he would weep if it would do any good. Jesus was in so many walks like Jeremiah. The Scribes and Pharisees had such little understanding of Jesus and his teachings and it tore at his heart. Jesus said that they would have to account for what they were doing. They were letting opportunities slip by them. So many of us let our opportunities slip through our hands and then bemoan the fact. We have (Continued on Page Four)

AMMUNITION FOUND NEAR HITLER HOME

Three Men Escape in Automobile After Planting Ammunition and Hand Grenades; Police Commissioner Said Firing of Single Shot Would Have Caused Chaos

Munich, March 20.—(AP)—The federal commissioner for the Munich police chief announced to the press today that an attempt on the life of Chancellor Adolph Hitler, planned by one German and two Russian Communists, was prevented by the watchfulness of the populace and police.

Early this morning three men were observed arriving at Wetzer Mountain, near the Hitler home here, where they had posted three hand grenades and some ammunition.
While a passerby notified police, they escaped in a car. The police commissioner said if a single shot had been fired against members of the new government, even if it missed its mark, there would have been unparalleled chaos on hand and the greatest program which no authority in the world could stop.

Cotton Crop Shows Drop

C., March 20.—(AP)—Cotton production for 1933 as shown today by the Census Bureau's ginning report was 12,703,263 running bales, counting round bales as half bales, or 12,994,430 equivalent to 900 pound bales compared with 16,528,274 and 17,095,594 for 1931, and 13,750,818 and 13,931,597 for 1930.

Included in the 1933 figures was 30,500 bales which ginners estimated would be turned in after the March census.
The average gross weight of bales for the crop was 511 compared with 514 for 1931.
North Carolina reported running bales equal to 500 pound bales as 679,684 and 662,785.

HIRINGHAUS TO SPEAK AT GOLDEN-FLEECE TAPPING

Chapel Hill, March 20.—Governor John C. B. Ehringhaus has accepted an invitation to be the guest of honor and principal speaker at the twenty-first annual tapping of the Order of Golden Fleece, the University senior honorary society, in Memorial Hall April 27.

Last year Henry L. Stevens, then National Commander of the American Legion, delivered the address.
Governor Ehringhaus, who was graduated "cum laude" from the University in 1901 and received his law degree in 1903, was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and active in many phases of campus activities during his student days.
The Order of Golden Fleece was established here in 1903 and, next to Skull and Bones at Yale, is the oldest college-honorary society in the country. Its tapping ceremony is always an impressive ceremony. To be chosen for membership is considered by many the highest honor that can come to a Carolina man.

COMMENDABLE ACTION

Last Friday at the Greenville
 Negro High School a pleasant circumstance occurred. Other senior classes had left behind them some tokens of their good-will, or school spirit by presenting a class tree or a group of shrubbery to the high school, thus rendering the campus
 more attractive.

This year the senior class gave as their farewell expression of appreciation, a Bible, a rostrum and a chair—three things that were badly needed in the conduct of opening exercises.

The class endeavored to keep their purpose a secret from the officials of the school, at the same time securing their presence at the occasion. So last Friday, Principal Eppes and some of the teachers, during a little pause, saw one of the senior class rise and come forward with evident interest. It was Joe Laugh-inhouse, who had been chosen by his mates to make the presentation of their gift to the school. In a few chosen words, he voiced the feelings
 and sentiment of the class of 1933, to the high school. Prof. Eppes to some extent taken by surprise, expressed his gratification at the wisdom and generosity of the class, in a few words of appreciation.

As the class had also prepared for this occasion, a program of songs and recitation, it was allowed to proceed as they desired—and the best wishes of the principal were cordially given to Joe, as he expects to enter next September the A. and T. College in Greensboro. Such interest and thoughtfulness by the graduating class was very pleasing and the class of 1933 is heartily commended, with the hope that their example may, in other years,
 be imitated by other classes, as they leave their respective high schools.

—A WELL-WISHER.

NORTH CAROLINA
 NEEDS SEVEN SISTERS

(News and Observer)

When Woodrow Wilson was at the height of his power in New Jersey, he secured the passage by the Legislature of seven reform measures which were dubbed "the seven sisters." North Carolina should follow the Wilson example in this crisis and see that these seven sisters of legislation, some of which have already been enacted,
 are on the statute books before it adjourns.

1. Guarantee an eight months school for every child in every district in the State. This can be accomplished with a saving of $7,000,- 000 annually now voted by the people in the various taxing districts of the State. This will enable every legislator to carry home a reduction of an average of 35 cents ad valorem tax on every species of property in the State. No other measure has been suggested to bring any large tax reduction to the people back home.

2. Levy taxes on new sources,
 some of which have too long escaped their just share. For example:
 (a) Pass the Everett measure to tax stock in foreign corporations in the same way that other property is taxed.
 (b) Levy the same production tax on power companies which is imposed and collected in South Carolina.
 (c) Levy a specific commodity tax on every article that comes under the definition of "luxury"
 or "non-essential." A general sales tax, with the same per cent on brogans as on $10
 shoes, or on silks as on calico,
 would be indefensible and would
 "suck the poor" and favor those more able to pay.

3. Provide for proper study and adjustments of the debt situation in all divisions of government. It is well known that all divisions
 cannot meet the heavy debt obligations.
 In the interest both of creditors
 and debtors adjustments must be made.
 The acute situation, for example,
 in Buncombe and Cartaret, to have only two counties, cries aloud for officials and bondholders to seek a method that will prevent a debacle injurious to both.

4. Appropriate adequate funds, drastically reduced, to carry on the necessary functions of the State
 and its educational and eleemosary institutions. The State cannot abdicate its duty, thought it cannot carry on except in the most economical way. "Cut to blood but not to the heart" should be the watchword.

5. Provide for the regulation and proper reduction of rates and taxation of all public service corporations, and give the Utility Commission or Commissioner power to prevent the issue of any stock or bonds in excess of the money actually invested, or to collect any rates in excess of a fair return of the actual money investment.

6. Effect such reorganization of State government as to end overlapping or duplication. To mention only two essential reforms, let us
 note that there are several Departments of Justice in North Carolina,
 at least two Agricultural centers,
 and more than one central educational clearing house. It is not only costly to have such multiplication, but it prevents the highest efficiency.

7. Submit the proposed new Constitution, but as to Article 5 give the voters the opportunity to vote to retain the old section requiring "uniformity," or the new section permitting "classification."

If the voters are not permitted some choice in that section, the whole Constitution will be endangered. Better still: The House should draw a new Article 5, which would carry the new provisions as to income tax and keep in the "uniformity." Such an amended article would meet the twice expressed desires of the people and probably insure the approval of the Constitution. If legislation embodying these seven sisters is enacted, together with other needed statutes already enacted or to be enacted, this Legislature will measure up to the expectations of the people who want economy in government and demand a reduction of the tax rate on property.

is the French secret service? He knows you are not Herr Schlacht?"

"He knows I am a French agent," replied Colonel Le Sage. "He knows that Herr Schlacht is dead and buried. It was he who was able to procure for me a mounted German photograph—from the mount of which I was able to remove the photograph and substitute my own above
 the name and address of the German photographer."

"What happened to the real Herr Schlacht, I mean?" asked Margaret.

"I killed him."

Margaret involuntarily drew away.
 "Oh, I didn't murder him in cold blood, my dear. Curiously enough, I killed him in self-defense. As my little caravan approached his camp
 one evening beside a water-hole in the Qued el Draa, he simply turned his men out and opened fire on us.
 I don't know whether he took us
 for Touraeg from the Tanezruft, or whether he had his suspicions of the Senor Pedro Maligni. I know I had my suspicions of Maligni as an von Mittegen opened fire
 on us at sight, and wondered whether he were double-double-double-crossing, and had warned von Mit-tegen to look out for me.

"Anyhow, it was, as I say, a case of self-defense—for we'd got to get to the water—though I don't say I wasn't glad of the excuse to go for him. So 'Herr Schlacht' died that day—and rose again that night, in the person of myself.

"And when I reached Mekazzen, the Malignis were there all ready to vouch for me—password, photograph
 and all."

"Filthy treachery," exclaimed Margaret in deep disgust and indignation.

"Yes, pretty bad. It might be argued, of course," continued Colonel Le Sage, "that I'm as bad as they are;
 the receiver as bad as the thief."

"Go on," expostulated Margaret.
 "You are working for France, working for good—not for your own personal profit, not making money by betraying the person who employs you, and trusts you."

Colonel Le Sage raised his huge hand and patted Margaret's shoulder.

"Thank you, my dear. And now
 let's consider the 'Emperor Riccoli'
 for just a moment."

(Copyright, 1932, F. A. Stokes Co.)

And to Morrow the mystic password "Yelverbury" again comes to Le Sage's ears.

B. Y. P. U. Officers Installed. At the evening service of the Memorial Baptist Church there was a candle-light installation service of the incoming officers of the B. Y. P. U's.

Misses Helen Phelps and Carolyn Hamric sang "Living for Jesus."

After this the lights were turned off and there was one lighted candle resting upon a large Bible which represented the light of the word.

Hugh Bradley, general leader of the B. Y. P. U's, lighted his candle and told of the millions of souls now lost in the darkness of sin. He in turn lighted the candles of Mrs. A. W. Fleischmann, senior sponsor; Billy Morton, senior president; Mrs. Hugh Bradley, intermediate leader; William Brooks, intermediate president; Miss Sidney Davenport, junior leader; Mattie Lawrence Holliday, junior president.

Each president told of what his union stood. Then every officer placed his hand on the Bible, while Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, the pastor, prayed for help and for guidance of the new officers.

This service was indeed an inspiration for all.

GRIMESLAND HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Three students of the Grimesland High School have submitted essays in the contest now going on at High Point College, which have been judged among the twenty-odd best of those received from over the state at large. These essays were written under the supervision of the English teacher, Miss Nancy Willford. On the 23rd of March, Lucille Clark, Annie Mae Moore and Alvis Proctor will go to High Point to orally deliver their compositions in a further elimination contest, the winner of which will be awarded a scholarship for one year at the above named college. The subject was: "What I expect college to do for me."

The first of the essays, that by Miss Annie Mae Moore, is printed below. The others will follow under Grimesland news on successive days:

What I Expect College To Do For Me.

A college education is, as a matter of fact, of inestimable value to a persons in this era, especially during these depressing times. For the benefit of posterity it is necessary that people should know their environment and know how to better it by extending their influence throughout a community by means of cooperation and good works in order that results obtained will prove to be increasing progress and rapid development. What the world needs today is good citizens and there is no better place to train them than in the colleges.

I expect college to prepare me for a successful life by affording me really high and noble ideals, and courage, ambition and determination enough to face all objects, trials and difficulties that may come before me, which seem insurmountable and unbearable. If I am to strive for and attain a goal well worth while in this developing and ever changing world, I must be furnished with sufficient sound knowledge and information so that I can approach every issue and problem that may appear before me, not confirming my opinions, but always discovering that which is truest and best. It is equally important that I should be able to respond actively and effectively to my surroundings or any situation. In other words, a person should know what to do with his information after he has achieved it. Great books contain lots of information, but yet they are not educated because they are not sensitive to living and moving conditions and cannot respond in any way whatsoever.

The type of knowledge that is so important and so difficult to obtain is knowing human nature, especially ourselves, and if an individual is going to invest his or her life in an intelligent and effective way there must be understanding of both self and the world in which we live. If I am to make a success of this life and accomplish anything, I must know the difficulties which are in the way and be able to overcome them. It is very important that a person should know self-reliance. When Robinson Crusoe was cast upon the island, he had to be self-reliant. His very existence depended upon it, for he could not depend upon anyone to help him. This goes to prove that people should not be wholly dependent upon one another, but they should by cooperation take advantage of the many opportunities offered them for progress' sake. The college trained person who will be most effective will be that person who has a prophetic insight into the various changes that are going on in this world, who has enough wisdom to hold to the true values of life, who has a charity of vision which points out his own place in the world, and who has a fixed purpose so dynamic that it carries him forward to the fulfillment of that purpose. The world has need of such persons of this type who will go out and work and be a shining example to others, thus helping himself and the college be attended by his accomplishments in life.

A very good test of education is the way in which one uses his leisure time. He who is truly educated is afforded an opportunity to enjoy the higher and finer things of life by the increased amount of leisure time, while the uneducated finds very often that time is heavy upon his hands; hence he resorts to futile pastimes and makes life unendurable. Apparently it is true, that idle time has been traced to be the source of some of the crimes committed in this country. The educated person has no time for dangerous pastimes, because he knows a way in which to use his knowledge and information, and in a large measure practically these are the people who enjoy and get the most pleasure out of life.

In regards to religion everyone is aware of the fact that a person is never truly educated until he recognizes Christ as the Supreme Being and as the One who makes all things possible. Therefore, it is necessary that a person's life should be christian-influenced so that he will always seek the higher and better things to make his life a beautiful one.

If college does this much for me I am quite sure that I shall be satisfied and never regret one valuable moment spent there.

ANNIE MAE MOORE.

Collegiate Gigolo Scorned. Charleston, S. C.—(AP)—Collegiate gigolos may be a hot idea at some institutions of higher learning but it leaves College of Charleston students cold. Hearing the idea had been put into practice elsewhere, students expressed opinions among which was this, from a woman senior: "Me hire a date? Why, I'd just as soon send a man candy or flowers."

Left-Over Pickle Juice. Left-over spiced pickle juice or the juices left from bottled pickles is excellent to use poured over whole or sliced ham when baking. It may also be used to thin salad dressings.

BETHEL WINS CELEBRATING HER NEW GYM

The Bethel High School basketball team fittingly celebrated the opening of their new gymnasium Friday night by defeating Robersonville by a score of twelve to ten. This game created unusual interest by reason of the fact that each team had won a game prior to this contest, and Friday's battle was looked upon to settle the supremacy of the two teams. Many supporters yelled lustily as their favorite gained an edge, and great sportsmanship was displayed by all of the great crowd present.

In view of the importance of this game in settling the series, Coach Archie Reel and Coach Brake put their wards forward after stressing the necessity of tight defensive playing, and the game was one of the best examples of defense tactics seen here in many a day, and as a result the score at the half was Bethel 6 and Robersonville 4.

Robersonville opened strong, taking the lead, which was soon overcome by the local lads; thereonward the score was nip and tuck throughout the game, with neither team having but few opportunities at crisp shots.

For the visitors Page and Roberson featured and presented fine basketball; for the home team, Warren and Dunn were the shining lights and played a great game.

SHABBY CLOTHES DECLARED NO BAR TO CHURCH GOING

St. Paul, Minn.—(AP)—Lack of go-to-meeting clothes or of money for the collection box should keep no one from attending church.

So says the Rev. Paul Lindenmann, pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church and editor of the "American Lutheran," in appealing to his parish to "permit no unjustified feeling of pride and personal dignity to bring about a cleavage between you and God."

"We cannot construe the tendency to remain away from church because of financial stress," he says, "as anything else but an insinuation of Satan."

"After all," he says, "a Christian church is not a business institution in which a church member is entitled to just so many of the benefits as he or she can pay for, but a church is a depository of the means of grace to which all the needy souls of men are invited and to which all have unlimited access, irrespective of their financial conditions."

GIRL AT SIX SETS NEW STYLE OF WRITING MUSIC

Memphis, Tenn.—(AP)—Joy Ann Beatty is only six years old, but already has given her music teacher an idea for writing music that is being adopted for the rest of the teacher's pupils.

When she began taking music lessons, Joy Ann told her teacher she did not like the way the notes were written for practice lessons. She submitted a plan of her own, with the practice lessons written in Chinese fashion, up and down, instead of across the bar.

With a natural musical talent of absolute pitch, the girl began picking out tunes on the piano when she was three years old. When she started to school her first impression, told to her mother, was that the "school bell rings in g."

Jugoslavia Boons Honeymoons. Belgrade—(AP)—Newlyweds are given a fifty per cent reduction by Jugoslavian railroads provided they spend their honeymoons within the country. Foreigners get the same cut if they apply for it within 30 days of marriage.

Chile's Days Too Bright. Santiago, Chile—(AP)—Wearing of colored glasses has been taken up wholesale by Chileans after foreigners had set the fashion, to overcome the glare of the Chilean sun. Opticians report that Chileans now lead the demand for tinted "specs."

WOMAN ON A DASH TO SOUTH POLE REGION

London—(AP)—A woman's dash to be the first of her sex to land on territory near the South Pole was mentioned by Sir Douglas Mawson the explorer, in an address before members of the Royal Institution. She is Mrs. Lars Christiansen, wife of the noted Norwegian whaling expert.

"She is expected to scramble ashore any day now," Sir Douglas said. "But if she does not manage soon she will be too late for this season."

He explained that she had accompanied her husband south and her intention was just to land and then return.

Kansas City, Mo.—(AP)—The aging right arm of Charley (Kid) Nichols, erstwhile pitcher for the Boston Nationals and manager of major and minor league baseball clubs has not lost its cunning.

Nichols, now 63, won the Kansas City bowling championship with a score of 650, taking the crown away from seventeen-year-old Bud Tierney, who got his start in bowling under Nichols as a member of a boys' league organized several years ago by the former big league star.

SPORT SLANTS

Two of the things we still are convinced of, after reading an analysis of professional performances with the six-inch golf cups in the Miami $5,000 Florida-Year-Rounds Club Open tournament: (1) That the bigger hole takes the tension of the short putts, those of six feet or less, and (2) that it is no easier to get down the long ones, those of fifteen feet or more.

It seems to us that both pieces of evidence strengthen the case for a nary player's viewpoint. So far as the pros were concerned in the 72-hole test, of the larger time only Paul Runyan, the light-weight winner and 1933 Ryder Cup choice, indulged in a real scoring spree. Runyan's rival, Charley Guest, was so exactly to eight birdies and an eagle.

In other words Runyan, on the greens in par on 55 of the 72 holes, capitalized 23 of his chances to break par by his fine approaching. Guest, with 47 opportunities to crack par, took advantage of only 14.

Deadly Inside Six Feet The striking feature of the putting analysis with these six-inch cups is that among the first ten professionals and the leading amateur, Johnny Goodman, only six putts out of 74, measuring six feet from the hole or less, failed to drop. The percentage of failure certainly would be much higher with the present 4 1/4 inch cups, even in such all-star company. I doubt if the average player gets down 25 per cent of his putts from six feet.

From six feet on, there's a big difference. Among the same 11 players, 50 putts out of 137 were "canned" from distances ranging between six and fifteen feet. From 15 to 25 feet, only 39 out of 97 were dropped from distances of 25 feet or more. Yet we heard it claimed distinctly that the big shots would be dropping their putts from all over the greens into the bigger cups; that they "couldn't miss" from 15 or 25 feet unless blindfolded.

The Poor, Old Hag It's a surprise to note that poor old Walter Hagen, reputed to be considering retirement after this because of the age limit or something, seems to be the longest driver among the top flight of American professionals. At Miami, Hagen's average length with the wood off the tee, on 56 holes, was 274 1/2 yards, considerably beyond any of the so-called "sieve guns" who generally are supposed to be much longer than Sir Walter.

Gene Sarazen's average was 240 yards, just a fraction better than the figure for Tommonny Armour and John Golden. Craig Wood, who likes to belt 'em, averaged 236.1 and Olin Dutra 235. Just to show this didn't mean anything, Paul Runyan's tee shots averaged the shortest of any of the leaders—a mere 224 1/2 yards.

TWO SERMONS END REVIVAL (Continued From Page One) our chance to be leaders in the church and community, and so many of us let it slip.

Then in later years we bemoan the fact that we have been selfish. The rich young let his opportunity slip, and so many today let their spiritual opportunities slip. Opportunities may come again to us, but they are not so easy to take advantage of them. The compulsion grows less and less. Life punishes us in this way—makes us regret. No man is fully satisfied with his life unless he knows that he has done the best he can with his life. We cannot blame God if we slip. So often this rings in our life: "Now it's too late." Now is the time to take advantage of our opportunities.

These two services concluded the series of services that have been held in this church for the past eight days. They have been of great help and inspiration to all those who attended.

Beer Bill Near Enactment. Washington, D. C., March 20.—(AP)—Final enactment of the beer bill became a matter of hours today as Congressional conferees agreed to legalize a 32 per cent brew. The conferees also agreed to retain the Senate amendment permitting wine and fruit juices of the same alcoholic content and rejected the Borah amendment to prohibit sales of beverages to children under sixteen years old.

Opponents of the Borah amendment have insisted the matter of such regulation should be left to the States. The conference agreement was reached in less than two hours after representatives of various interests had been consulted about the possibility of making wine of such alcoholic content.

Chairman Harrison said the report would be submitted to the Senate this afternoon. He predicted its approval by nightfall. Meanwhile the House adjourned after 2 o'clock reverting a chance of final action before tomorrow.

In adopting the 3.2 percentage, the conferees threw out the Senate amendment limiting alcoholic content to 3.05, which was found by a British commission to be non-intoxicating.

About NEW YORK

By WILLIAM GAINES New York—(AP)—The rapid transformations of Madison Square Garden, home of all manner of indoor diversions from ice hockey to the circus, completely baffles most of the thousands of persons who flock to it.

The Garden's interior is altered with the magic of the lightning change artist of the stage, who is Napoleon in a trick hat for one second, only to duck behind a screen and emerge with the whiskers of a Rip Van Winkle in another second. From October through April, the Garden scarcely ever has a dark night. It accommodates boxing, wrestling, track events, basketball, six day bicycle races in December and March, the rodeo in the fall, many conventions, pageants, tournaments, concerts and exhibitions. All must have their special equipment, with the scenery shifting from night to night.

All the while the ice for the hockey games is popping in and out of sight—and this seems to be the most baffling transformation for the Garden fans. Nine out of ten believe their is a permanent ice coating under a removable floor. There isn't; and there really isn't any necromancy involved, either. James McNally, the 6-foot, 226-pound Irish superintendent of the Garden who is responsible for all the changes tells me that producing ice is one of the least of his worries.

On a night while the thousands are still boozing two grunting behemoths in the ring, those in the temporary floor seats may feel their feet growing colder and colder. That's because the chilling brine already is coursing its way through pipes under the cement.

In a couple of hours—by then the crowd has left—the cement floor is at the freezing point. Then McNally sends out four men to spray it with hose, and an ice layer an inch or two deep is ready seven or eight hours later.

To get rid of the ice, a hot solution is run through the pipes, the loosened layer is broken up and

The Chesterfield FORMULA—what is it?

The formulas and processes which make Chesterfield a milder and better-tasting cigarette are secret—to prevent others from copying them

If every person knew the method and processes of tanning leather, it would be of interest; but what people want to know is: Is it a good shoe? Is it comfortable? Will it wear longer? Is the price right? So it is with Chesterfield Cigarettes. If smokers, men and women, knew all of the formulas and processes of manufacture, it would be of interest to them; but what smokers really want is the result.

Everything that goes into Chesterfield Cigarettes is as good as money can buy. Every process has in it all that science knows about cigarette manufacture.

The formulas are secret to prevent others from copying them. The mildness and the better taste you may prove for yourself. May we ask you to try Chesterfield?

Wherever you buy Chesterfields, you get them just as fresh as if you came by our factory door

They Satisfy—people know it
