Defeat Of 'Expansion' Proposal Predicted By Leaders Of The Senate

VOTE MAY BE TAKEN DURING AFTERNOON

Senators Long and Wheeler Move to add Silver to The Currency Plan by Amending Farm Relief Bill; Indications that Roosevelt Will Approve Inflation as it Pertains to Credit; Robinson Sees Defeat of Long-Wheeler Plan

Washington, D. C., April 15.—(AP)—The currency inflation schedule was definitely before the Senate for determination today with Democratic leaders predicting defeat on the expansion proposal, when a vote is taken which probably will be late today.

Hopping off the increasing wave of congressional talk of inflation as a means of recovery, Senators Huey Long, of Louisiana, and Wheeler, of Montana, moved to add silver to the currency plan by amending the farm relief program.

The Senate was driving ahead with its price-lifting section of the farm relief bill today and a vote on the Long-Wheeler amendment was due before the section is disposed of. Long proposed a purchase of $100,000,000 in silver against which currency would be issued.

Wheeler advanced as a substitute to the Long plan renitomatization of silver at 1 to 16 with gold. Indications were that the inflationary schemes that President Roosevelt might approve would be toward credit inflation rather than currency.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, predicted defeat of the Long and Wheeler plans. He added that such a vote would not mean the Senate is against inflation, but that the inflation should be considered separately and reported first by a committee.

Inflation was recommended to the Senate by the Agricultural Committee in reporting the Roosevelt farm program. The committee argued that currency expansion was the only hope of substantial and permanent relief for agriculture.

Mr. Roosevelt himself is moving to counteract deflation by creating more jobs and holding up wage schedules. His aides are rounding up huge work programs and Federal wage boards may be set up to prevent wage slashing.

RELIEF NEED IN VANCE INCREASED IN MARCH

Henderson, N. C., April 15.—Relief needs in Vance county increased in March over the total for February, it was stated today by Mrs. W. B. Waddill, Welfare Superintendent, who is in charge of the work.

The increased demands were due to a slackening in the pace of industry, throwing more people out of work and depriving them of their income and the full means of a livelihood. Conditions brought about by the slowing down of business during the banking holiday in the nation are thought to have been a direct or indirect cause of the conditions that resulted in this increased demand for relief.

N. C. MAYO GOES ON COTTON CO-OP DIRECTOR

Tarboro, N. C., April 15.—At the district meeting of the North Carolina Cotton Co-operatives held in Rocky Mount Wednesday afternoon the delegates nominated Ben C. Mayo of this county as director to serve for the fourth district. Mr. Mayo has rendered faithful and efficient service as his re-election indicates.

MRS. JAMES DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

Funeral Services Will Be Conducted From Home Here Monday Morning

Mrs. Mangie Cherry James, seventy, widow of the late Colonel F. G. James, died at her home on Fifth Street about 5 o'clock this morning. Funeral services will be conducted from Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Monday morning at eleven o'clock followed by interment in Cherry Hill Cemetery.

The services will be in charge of Rev. E. L. Hillman, pastor of the church, Rev. Walter Patten, of Fayetteville, and Rev. W. P. Watkins, former pastor of the local church.

Mrs. James was born in the city March 28, 1863, the daughter of James Burton and Pattie (Sherrill) Cherry.

On March 8, 1882, she married Colonel J. G. James, who died July 25 last year.

From early childhood she was a member of the Methodist Church here and, as usual, attended church services last Sunday morning prior to becoming ill later that evening with pneumonia.

She was a devout Christian, a loving wife and mother, and was greatly loved by a host of friends.

She was a member of one of the oldest and most socially prominent families of the community, and news of her death came as a distinct shock to her hundreds of friends in this part of the State.

She is survived by three sons, James Burton Larry M. and Charles James; two daughters, Mrs. W. T. Lipscomb and Miss Ada James, and several grandchildren. Among the grandchildren are Charles, Louis and James Skinner, who have made their home with their grandmother since the death of their mother in 1918.

ALA. FAILS TO GET BEER

Senate Kills Beer Rider Before Adjournment of Special Legislative Session

Montgomery, Ala., April 15.—(AP)—Alabama's last chance for early legalization of 3.2 per cent beer was shattered last night when the Senate killed the beer rider to the tax measure at the final meeting of the present special session of the legislature.

TO HOLD CONFERENCE ON WORLD RELATIONS

New York, April 15.—A Southeastern Conference on International Relations, which will have as leading speakers Sir Herbert Ames, former financial director of the League of Nations and Dr. Ernest Linor Patterson, president of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, will be held in Atlanta from April 20 through April 22, the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, announced yesterday.

PHYSICIAN BOUND OVER IN CRIMINAL OPERATION

Gastonia, N. C., April 15.—Dr. J. D. Hemingway, prominent Gastonia physician, was bound over to Superior Court under $500 bond here today by the municipal court on a charge of performing a criminal operation on Miss Elizabeth Smith, who was formerly employed in his office.

Easter Services In Garden Of Gods Draw Thousands To Annual Worship

The Cathedral Spires in Colorado's Garden of the Gods look down annually on an outdoor Easter service that this year was expected to attract 10,000 worshippers. A tableau depicting the removal of the stone from the door of the tomb of Christ was prepared for this year's observance.

Colorado Springs, Colo.—(AP)—A vast amphitheater at the base of the majestic Cathedral Spires in the Garden of the Gods, for the twelfth successive time was prepared this year for one of the largest outdoor Easter services in the United States.

Impressive ceremonies this year is a tableau depicting the angels falling away the stone from the tomb of Christ.

The services are of about 30 minutes duration, usually followed by a tableau of an appropriate character. Because of the marked increase in attendance since the first services in 1922, many worshippers spend the night in the garden awaiting the sunrise, sleeping in automobiles or on blankets to be assured of a place near the pastor conducting the devotions.

COURT WILL MEET MONDAY

Two Week Session of Criminal Court Will Face Heavy Docket Here Next Week

A two-week criminal term of Superior Court will convene in this city next Monday morning with Judge Henry Grady, of Clinton, presiding.

The docket of over a hundred cases was completed the first of the week by Solicitor D. M. Clark and contains several important cases, including three or four charges of murder, and numbers of actions involving larceny and violation of the prohibition law.

The most important of the murder cases was that of T. H. Barnhill, aged farmer of the Bethel community, charged with the slaying of his ward, Jesse Barnhill, near Flat Swamp Church, over a year ago.

The case has been set for hearing two or three times, but was postponed each time on account of a request by the State that it be allowed more time to complete evidence.

The body of Jesse Barnhill was found on the road with pistol wounds in the head and body. The death formed something of a mystery at first but later the elder Barnhill was arrested and jailed. He was reported to have been seen in an automobile with his ward a short time prior to the hour the ward was believed to have been slain. He vigorously denied any knowledge of the affair.

Barnhill is also charged with manufacturing whiskey, the last case growing out of the investigation of the murder charge.

Thomas E. Beaman former U. S. Commissioner here, was scheduled to face the court on charges of embezzlement and arson. The first charge grew out of his alleged misappropriation of funds of an insurance company and the second resulted from the burning of his home here several months ago.

Late News Flashes

Biggs Named Solicitor-General Washington, D. C., April 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today nominated James Crawford Biggs of North Carolina to be solicitor-general of the United States.

He also sent to the Senate the nomination of John Collier, of California, to be Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

He nominated James Donohue to be Federal Judge from Nebraska and Clifton Matthews to be District Attorney of Arizona.

Christian J. Peoples, who holds the permanent rank of Rear Admiral and who is head of the naval supply depot at Brooklyn, N. Y., was nominated to be paymaster-general of the Navy with the same rank.

The nomination of Biggs came as a surprise to some in the capital who understood that Felix Frankfurter, dean of the Harvard Law School, was to be solicitor, but others said they had been informed that Frankfurter could not be persuaded to take.

CLUB HONORS PITT HOSPITAL

Doctors and Nurses Guests of Kiwanians At Woman's Club Last Night.

The Kiwanis Club honored Pitt Community Hospital and its staff of doctors and nurses at the regular meeting of the club at the Woman's Club last night.

The program was in charge of Dr. S. M. Crisp and J. M. Barrett, and President E. L. Hillman presided. Berry Bostic was in charge of the singing of club songs, assisted by Mrs. R. A. Tyson, Jr. at the piano.

Dr. W. T. Wooten read a paper dealing with development of the hospital since its organization in 1923, and said the institution at this time was in position to render greater service to the community than any time in its history.

He said 5421 patients had been handled by the hospital since its founding, and while its capacity was 500 patients annually during the first few years of its existence, they had been able to handle around 700 a year the last three years.

Speaking of the eleemosynary features of the hospital, Dr. Wooten told his hearers they were doing everything in their power to take care of the charity situation, and that professional services were rendered free of charge in such cases. Because of the lack of public support, however, he said the actual hospitalization of such patients was limited. Two beds provided by the county have done much toward improving the condition, he stated, and similar support could be obtained.

PUSH RELIEF GARDEN PLAN

Surplus Products From Community Gardens to be Canned This Summer

Surplus production of community gardens started in various sections of the county as a feature of the general relief program will be canned during the late summer and held in readiness for use next winter.

This information was given out at the Welfare Department this morning by Director K. T. Futrell, who is in charge of general relief activities as well as the handling of Reconstruction funds appropriated to this county.

A central canning plant will be established under direction of Miss Ethel Nee, director of the Home Demonstration Department. Mr. Futrell said, and garden products will be put up in cans and jars and held in reserve by the department until next winter when they will be used to help relieve the situation among the poor.

Seven or eight community gardens in as many communities have been planted by the unemployed, and when the 150 acres of vegetable reach maturity, it was expected enough food would be available to take of the needs of the poor during the summer, not considering the enormous amount of stuff expected to be canned for winter.

In addition to the community effort, the director said approximately 3000 individual gardens had been planted in various parts of the county by people who were told if they

Fire Destroys Atlantic Hotel Morehead City

Morehead City, April 15.—(AP)—The Atlantic Hotel, 300-room three-story wooden building covering a block on the water front, with its large annex and "cottage row," a building containing a number of small apartments, was destroyed by fire today. No one was in the hotel, a summer resort, and the few families in "cottage row" escaped without injury.

An accurate estimate of the damage was not available but persons familiar with the property said it would be several hundred thousand dollars.

In addition to the hotel property several small buildings nearby were damaged. The origin of the fire was not determined.

The flames were sighted in an office. The building was owned by the State of North Carolina which leased it to the Norfolk Southern Railroad.

Dan Bell of Morehead City, caretaker of the property, lived in "cottage row." The fire departments of New Bern and Beaufort assisted the local crew in saving nearby buildings.

The Atlantic, a landmark here, was built 54 years ago. When the Norfolk Southern came into Morehead City it leased the hotel as an attraction for excursionists and summer business.

LEGISLATURE STOPS WORK FOR EASTER

Both Branches Adjourn Until Tuesday Following Brief Session Today

Raleigh, N. C., April 15.—(AP)—Members of the North Carolina Legislature today took an Easter holiday.

Out of the 170 members of the Assembly, only nine attended the perfunctory formal session.

Four Senators met for seventeen minutes to pass four bills and receive a new measure.

Five Representatives did nothing in the three-minute session presided over by Representative Sullivan of Buncombe.

Neither division will resume business until Tuesday.

The new measure sent up to the Senate by Borgan of Anson would amend the Constitution to allow taxing of individual incomes up to 12 per cent instead of the present limit of 6 per cent. The question would be submitted to the voters in 1934.

Allen Monkhouse Tells Judge Terrorized Prisoners Forced to Present Evidence in Sensational Case Against Six Britics Engineers; Bases Statement on His Own Experience After Arrest; Catches Court and Prosecution off Guard

Moscow, April 15.—(AP)—Allen Monkhouse, chief of the six British engineers on trial here on charges of espionage, sabotage and bribery, dramatically protested to the Soviet court that the "whole trial was a frame-up against the Metropolitan-Vickers Electrical Company and its engineers and was based on evidence of terrorized prisoners."

After listening to the statement of a Soviet prisoner yesterday, and the day before, he asserted at the opening of today's session: "It is perfectly clear to me that this case is a frame-up against the Metropolitan Company engineers based on evidence of terrorized prisoners."

"I know from my own experience when I was arrested and subjected to eighteen hours' continuous examination," he continued.

But at that point he was interrupted by the presiding judge. The judge ruled Monkhouse, who spoke in English, had no right to make the declaration at this time.

Catching the prosecution and the court entirely off guard, Monkhouse arose in the prisoner's stock and in Russian requested permission for a statement. The judge shouted assent.

Monkhouse, gray-haired, middle-aged and a six-footer, stepped before the judge's table. He declared he wished to speak in English. The judge at first objected on the ground the defendant spoke Russian but finally consented.

WADDILL TO CONFER ON SELECTION OF MEN

Charlotte, N. C., April 15.—Colonel Edmund Waddill, who had head the State's army of unemployed who will be given jobs in reforestation work, is to confer here tomorrow with Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, of Atlanta, Ga., regarding plans for the selection of men to be given jobs.

Waddill said today that the men would not be given any military training, but would get $1 a day from the time they join the reforestation army.

FOIL PLOT TO WRECK TRAIN OF DANIELS

Section of Rail Taken From Mexican Railway Town of Morales

Mexico City, April 16.—(AP)—Police disclosed today that an attempt had been made yesterday to wreck the train on which Joseph Daniels, the new American Ambassador, was on his way to the capital.

The plot was discovered in time and the train, although delayed two hours, was not damaged.

A section of the rail was taken out of the track near the town of Morales, fifty miles north of Monterey. Rural police discovered the break and started an investigation.

They announced at first that the rail had been broken by a change in temperature, but after the break had been repaired the train proceeding slowly with men ahead scrutinizing every inch of the roadway.

The place where the rail was removed is in an entirely peaceful district removed from the section where there had been antagonism to Mr. Daniels' appointment.

This morning police armed with rifles guarded the American embassy, and two hundred plain clothesmen were placed on duty at the railway station.

A special train carrying a number of police left the station to meet the Ambassador's train thirty miles outside the city.

MR. FLANAGAN'S STATEMENT

We are today in receipt of a statement from Representative E. G. Flanagan replying to our telegram of Tuesday night to him, published in this column Thursday, in which we set forth our views on the tax issues before the legislature and urged support of these views in order that the masses of the state might not be discriminated against by being forced to bear increased tax burdens while the privileged classes continued to escape their just share of the taxes.

Mr. Flanagan's letter in full is as follows:

April 15th, 1933. Mr. D. J. Whichard, Owner, Daily Reflector, Greenville, N. C. Dear Sir:

Your night telegram of Tuesday, April 11 received on Wednesday afternoon about 3 o'clock, in which you say among other things that if I vote for a General Sales Tax, without these other sources (Power Companies, Foreign Stocks, Tobacco Companies, etc.) having first been taxed to the limit, we are compelled to consider you in the class of those legislators who are bowing to the rich interest and the privileged classes of the state at the expense of the masses, many of whom are now without the necessities of life, and you will welcome a statement as to how I stand on these measures.

It so happened I had cast my vote on every issue to which you refer before I received your telegram. I consider your telegram as unfair, unjust and unwarranted as any message I have ever received in my life. You sent your telegram late as a night message and it was not delivered to me until late Wednesday afternoon. On Thursday you printed this telegram in your paper with comments as to how I had voted and state you had not received a reply to your message. The inference was to cast an insinuation that your telegram had something to do with how I had cast my vote. Your telegram demonstrated that you are hopelessly biased in your opinion, otherwise, you are ignorant of what has been going on in this legislature. You surely have not kept up with how I have voted on previous questions. I must confess very frankly the first reaction I received after reading your telegram was one of surprise that anyone holding the position you do could be so manifestly ignorant on every position I have taken and the work I have done in this legislature for the protection of the poor man and the poor taxpayer.

My record speaks for itself and if you have any criticism to make of any vote I have cast in this legislature or go back further to the legislatures of 1927-29-31, the records are in Raleigh at your disposal and you are welcome to examine these records and see how I voted on every bill that has come before any of these legislatures mentioned and then see if you have any criticism to make, if so, I want you to call it to the attention of the citizenship of Pitt County through the columns of your paper.

In the first hours of this legislature, before the Governor or any of the constitutional officers took oath of office, I introduced a bill which provided that all constitutional officers' salaries should be cut 15 per cent. This was necessary to be done before the officers were sworn in as the constitution provides the salaries of these officers could not be changed after they had taken the oath of office. This bill was passed and the salary of the Governor and all constitutional officers was reduced. I then introduced a resolution which provided the Speaker of the House and the Lt. Governor should appoint a committee to examine into all the departments of government with a view to eliminate all surplus help and reduce salaries in keeping with conditions and to cut to the bone but not to the marrow, giving a living wage but not destroying any institution. This committee did their work well and as a result the legislature accepted their report and the cost of government was reduced and many thousands of dollars saved for the taxpayers of North Carolina. This was a part of the economy programme that I thought was necessary at this time. I then introduced a bill to do away with tax penalties which is obnoxious to the tax paying public. I have labored with the Finance Committee for three months trying to write a Revenue Bill and raise revenue for the support of our schools and state government without a sales tax of any kind.

I served on the sub-committee of the finance committee and although I was in the minority, my vote and voice was always to raise money from sources able to pay and not from those who were being destroyed by taxes. I voted to do away with all ad valorem tax for the support of school and government. I worked for and supported bill for revaluation of property and Pitt County was one of the counties that gave its commissioners the right to revalue all property according to its true value in money. I voted for an eight months school to be paid for entirely by the state from taxes raised from sources other than farms and land. When the Revenue Bill was reported out from the Finance Committee, and as a member of this committee, not being able to place the tax on corporations, both foreign and domestic, I thought they should bear, I alone prepared a series of amendments to the bill and when these sections came up in the House, I would introduce these amendments and by this means, my amendments increased the tax on these corporations (Railways, Telephone & Telegraph Companies, franchise tax on foreign and domestic corporations) around $800,000 which passed the House and these amendments were included in the Revenue Bill. I voted to tax stocks in foreign corporations, which was defeated in the Senate. I voted for the Ewing kilowatt tax on Power Companies which was carried in the House and is now in the Revenue Bill. This tax will raise around $750,000 tax on Power Companies. I voted for the Everett-White amendment to tax foreign corporations on the market value of the stock which was carried. I voted against a general sales tax. I voted for a commodity tax, for the reason I believe this will be a better tax than a general sales tax and also I know that some form of sales tax will undoubtedly be passed in order to balance the budget. A general sales tax, taxes everything the poor man uses. I worked with Mr. Wilson of Caswell, on a committee to write a tax relief bill which has passed and been ratified. This bill provides that all taxes back of and including 1926 is abolished and 1927-28-29-30-31 tax, all penalty cost is eliminated and the party owing these taxes is allowed five years in which to pay same, giving his note payable 1-5 every year bearing 6 per cent interest.

There are many other laws enacted by this legislature that I have sponsored and voted for the benefit of the taxpayers. I have steadfastly maintained a position sponsoring legislation which would directly benefit overburdened taxpayers in my county and other counties of the state. My first intention was to ignore your telegram but you asked for a statement and after seeing you had printed your telegram in your editorial section before I could possibly give you a statement, I thought you were entitled to a statement and now you have it and let me say again, the insinuations you cast are deeply resented because you cannot possibly justify them. I have noticed your editorial comments in your Friday paper and I thank you for the credit you have given me but I do hope in the future before you wire me any such message as you did on Tuesday night impugning my motives, you will please ask for a statement as to how I stand on proposed legislation. I think after you reflect you will consider you have done me an injustice by insinuating if in my judgment I would vote for any proposition I thought was right I would be bowing to the will of the rich or poor. I have always tried in every legislature to weigh the situation from every point of view and cast an honest vote and at all times having the poor man and the man burdened with tax in view.

Yours very truly, E. G. FLANAGAN.

We regret that Mr. Flanagan should consider our telegram an insult to him or an effort to impugn his motives. Mr. Flanagan likewise appears to feel that we published a copy of our telegram on Thursday in connection with congratulatory remarks to him and Representative Edwards for their vote on the power company tax, with the view of having it appear that we had forced them to vote that way, while as a matter of fact, he had cast his vote long before he received our telegram. News dispatches Tuesday afternoon had indicated that the questions to which we had referred would come for hearing on Wednesday morning and our telegram was filed shortly before supper Tuesday night as a night letter with the belief that same would reach our Representatives early the next morning before the matters came up for discussion. So far as the publication of this telegram with the view of creating the impression that we had forced our representatives to vote our opinions, nothing was more foreign to us, for we do not possess any such false pride that would cause us to think that we could force our legislators to vote or do other than like they pleased. Our telegram contained in brief nothing more than had been said repeatedly in these columns since the legislature began and the favorable comments we have received from over the county is indication that we have been expressing the majority sentiment.

The White Cockatoo by Mignon G. Eberhart

THE WHITE COCKATOO SYNOPSIS: Sue Tally's frightened cry at the door of his French hotel room started it all. Jim Sundean learned she just had escaped an abductor. When he went to the lobby for her key she disappeared and, returning, he stumbled over a murdered man in his corridor. Then he goes into the court to search for the murderer, whom he suspects to be Lovschiem, manager of the hotel, and is shot at five times. The murdered man seems to have been stabbed with the sword from the figure on a huge clock in Sundean's room; the French police demand that he hold himself ready for investigation. Just then there is a commotion down the hall. Furious, Sundean protests this final affront.

Chapter 12 THE APPARITION

"Stagnate them." Voices and the commotion covered her whisper. "They are inclined to look favorably upon you because you told of the clock sword, although one of them thinks it may have been a very clever ruse on your part to induce that very effect. But they are still doubtful. You must be careful. I know France better than you."

torn from my bed and dragged along icy corridors. I want an explanation of this remarkable conduct. Madame, what does this mean?" The bundle of shawls was Mrs. Byng, and the cabbage proved to be a large lace cap, pulled over her hair, which had grown curiously knobby, and down to her thick black eyebrows. Her nose looked more than ordinarily bell-shaped, her voice dominated and drowned all other speech, and she was clearly in a frame of mind that brooked no liberties.

The dark little maid strangled on a sob, Father Robart was a tall, tall, non-committal black clothespin with a flaming red beard, and Mrs. Byng shouted: "In my night clothes. Torn from my bed in my night clothes. What are these men doing here?" I wondered fleetingly whether she made it a habit to sleep in five or six brown woolen shawls and thought it possible, and Madame Lovschiem said sharply: "It is the police, madame."

The young officer who spoke English was at her side, taking her by the arm. He turned her around facing the corridor. Inexplicably she had failed to see the huddle that still lay there—perhaps her becaped escort had shielded it from her eyes. Now, however, the light fell strongly upon it. Well, it was bad enough. I felt a little stick when I looked at it myself, and wondered why they didn't remove it. But it had a startling effect upon Mrs. Byng.

Suddenly she gave a choking shriek, turned, two long white flannel arms shot out from the shawls and clasped the commissaire tightly around the neck, and she collapsed on his reluctant chest. I rather liked it. I had an idiotic desire to look at him sternly and say: "Ha! There will be inquiry. Investigation."

"You'd better get her to lie down," said Sue. "Not on my bed!" I interjected, and Sue walked over to the shawls. Somehow they got Mrs. Byng into the corridor with Marcel and the young officer assisting her progress, and Madame Lovschiem and Sue bringing up the rear, and the little maid running for hot water, and Mrs. Byng herself emitting faint shrieks. The commissaire touched his forehead with his handkerchief, looked decidedly less pompous, and to me, at least, Mrs. Byng justified her existence, for he seemed in a sudden mood to cut the present inquiry short. He asked the priest a number of short questions, to which Father Robart replied imperturbably and with apparent satisfaction to everyone, and a small man in civilian clothes (a doctor evidently) appeared from somewhere and made a brief examination of the body. It was then removed, and before I could quite credit my good luck they were all leaving. No, not quite all, for as I turned into my room with a sigh Marcel, and that with no attempt at concealment, which could only mean the police. I ate alone in the chilly dining-room with Marcel serving me a really excellent lunch. Father Robart had apparently eaten early, for his table had been cleared. Mrs. Byng and Sue Tally did not appear. I lingered for some time in a not unnatural wish to see her again. She played so large and important a part in the train of surmise and supposition that had set itself going in my mind that I wanted very much to see her, and that in the cool and logical and unemotional light of day. It was not, however, until toward evening that I saw her again, and then she was with David Lorn, and they were talking.

However, we have no apologies to make for the stand we have taken in this matter. We have never missed an opportunity to praise action in causes that we believe to be just and we will just as freely criticize any action we believe to be otherwise. To pursue any other course would not be true to our policy of a free press laboring at all times for the ultimate good of the great majority.

Monday, David Lorn takes up his role in this sinister drama. Belgian Hitches Two Balloons For New Stratosphere Flight By EDOUARD TRAUSS. Brussels.—(AP)—Max Cosyns, the young Belgian physicist, who accompanied Prof. Auguste Piccard on the latter's second ascent into the stratosphere last summer, is in training for a June attempt of his own on the world's altitude record. An assistant balloon, acting as a sort of a brake, will be attached to the "F. R. N. S.," the bag which Piccard used, in this third expedition into the higher strata. This sister balloon, probably the "Belgica" of Gordon-Bennett cup race frame, is expected to hold the stratospheric craft at certain altitudes, thus enabling Cosyns and his companion, Jacques de Bruyn, another young physicist, to study cosmic ray effects at varying heights over longer periods. There will be telephonic communication between Cosyns and de Bruyn in the gondola of the "F. R. N. S." and Ernest Demuyter who is to pilot the "brake" craft. By valving gas or throwing out ballast according to directions from the scientists, Demuyter will be able, it is thought, to decrease or add to the lifting power of the aerial laboratory above him. At 30,000 feet the brake balloon will cut loose and Cosyns' craft will rise to its "ceiling." It is hoped that this will be above the 57,776 feet recorded by Piccard when Cosyns was along merely as an assistant. While there will be much scientific observation on the flight, the main object of the attempt will be to bring to Belgium the world's altitude record. It now is held officially by Switzerland since Professor Piccard, although a teacher at the University of Brussels, is a Swiss. Like the other two super-ascents, this June attempt will be financed by the Belgian national fund for scientific research. Cosyns' training for the trip has been laid out with the object of qualifying him as a licensed balloon pilot. Demuyter has been coaching him and the two have made several ascents in the "Belgica." On one of these training trips they drifted from Brussels to a point near Chemnitz in Saxony. The big double ascent will start from southern Belgium. Piccard's second flight began at Zurich, Switzerland, and ended when he brought his balloon down on a large shore in Italy. In his first trip into the stratosphere in 1931 he reached 51,793 feet and bumped to a landing on an Alpine glacier where rescuers reached him only with great difficulty.

Frank Froeschauer, brilliant University of Illinois football and basketball player, has been to the university hospital seven times from athletic injuries in his first two school years. A business transaction revealed the real name of Charley Engle, Fort Worth shortstop, as Charley Kuzschenkel.

"Did you have a good sleep?" he asked too pleasantly and with an oily effect of rubbing his hands together which in actuality he was not doing at all, one hand being engaged in stroking the white neck of the cockatoo. Pucci was watching my hand with his head on one side and appeared to be meditating as to the taste and biteable qualities of cigarettes. I drew my hand away and replied shortly and honestly that I had slept very well, upon which Lovschiem looked inconsistently disappointed. "Americans," he said, forgetting for the moment his own claims, "are like the British. You are phlegmatic. You would not believe how nervous I become. I did not sleep at all. I could not."

I thought but did not say that bad consciences had been known to have that effect and walked out. The little town was strange to me, but I did not feel like exploring it. Instead, I followed the road to the bridge, walked half across it, found a spot sheltered from the wind and stood there, leaning against the railing and watching the water flowing below, or looking at the white clean-swept old palace, with its stretch of white wall that the Romans had built; and its close-huddled peaks and red roofs, and I smoked and tried to think out the grisly puzzle of the night. After a while I walked some, but thoughtfully and without noting anything in particular, and it was not until about lunch time when I turned again into the hotel that I happened to look around and discover a blue-caped figure at a discreet distance. I did not know or care how long he had been following me, but I must say it gave me a rather chilly sensation up my spine. And the edge of my appetite was a little dulled when I discovered that during my absence my room and my bags had been thoroughly searched,

Bulgarian Youths In 'Labor Army'

Sofia.—Labor camps, akin to those which President Roosevelt is instituting in the United States are an old story in Bulgaria. Most of the young men who might be wearing out their shoe-leather in "hunger marches" to the capital are marching instead in the nation's labor army. The army is organized into companies of from 100 to 250 men uniformed in dark gray and armed with picks, shovels, hammers, saws or whatever other tools are needed in their patriotic tasks. That pick and shovel work can be patriotic is a Bulgarian doctrine. Young men reaching the age of 20 owe the state a serious service, according to this theory. If they are not in the military forces they can fulfill their obligation in the labor army. "Buck privates in the labor forces are called 'trudovaks.'"

The period of service is eight months and in that time the labor army man may be sent to any part of Bulgaria where roads need to be built, swamps drained, railways extended or telephone lines strung. After he has finished his service and joined the reserve he still may be called on for a brief period of service each year, but only in his home community. The object of the labor army is training for young men, inculcation of a feeling of responsibility toward the state, healthy physical exercise and accumulation of capacity for honest work. Yet this training is not a financial burden on the state. It was at the beginning, in 1920, but after four years of organization the service began to show a profit. It now nets $800,000 a year from its 20,000 men. To keep the trudovaks out of competition with regular workmen the government uses them on projects which would remain unrealized if money had to be raised in the usual way. Reclamation of waste lands is a typical trudovak job. The trudovak gets no pay. Food shelter and uniform are provided him, but he is supposed to be paying his debt to the state in work. If he prefers to pay it in money and escape the work he has the legal right to buy exemption.

THREE SERVICES AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH SUNDAY

The Eighth Street Christian Church will celebrate Easter with three services tomorrow: The Sunrise service at 6:30, under the leadership of the youth of the church; the regular morning worship period at eleven o'clock and the evening service at eight o'clock. Since Easter is the Triumphant day for Christians, the day on which we celebrate resurrection of our Lord and His triumph over death, it should find all sincere men and women in the church paying their homage to Him who brought immortality to the sons of men. Our Holy Week services have prepared us for this day. Out of the experiences of the past week let us reverently worship God in His Holy Temple, rededicating ourselves to His service. Let no trivial thing keep you from the House of God tomorrow.

FREE WILL BAPTIST CHURCH TO RENDER EASTER CANTATA

The choir of the Greenville Free Will Baptist Church will render a most inspiring Easter cantata "The Thorn-Crowned King," Sunday evening, April 16, at eight o'clock. The text of this cantata was written by H. Von Berge and the music was composed by Fred B. Holton. The choir has been under the direction of Rev. R. F. Pittman as director and Mrs. R. F. Pittman as pianist. This cantata, in a most skillful manner, sets forth the story of the betrayal, death, burial, and resurrection of Christ. Those taking part in the cantata are as follows: Sopranos: Misses Elizabeth Warren, Bertha Mae Harrington, Ruth Boyd, Jessie Roland and Alma Brewer. Altos: Misses Minnie Mae Craft, Beulah Lee Harrington and Marie Baker; Tenors: J. H. Gaylor, James Ray Pittman, Jim Forrester, S. M. Walters and Woodrow Worthington; Bass: W. F. Owens and E. G. Griffin.

Visiting in Alabama

Mrs. J. H. Rose left yesterday for Georgiana, Ala., to visit her mother, Mrs. Allan Arant, who has been ill for the past few weeks.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO CONDUCT SUNRISE SERVICE AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

A most impressive Sunrise Prayer Service will be held at the Christian Church Easter morning at 6:30. At the beginning of this service Drury Settle will sing a most appropriate anthem "Open the Gates of the Temple." The service has three main divisions, namely, a Period of Praise, Period of Meditation, and a Period of Consecration. Robert Moyer, assisted by other of the young people, is presiding at this service. All are invited to worship with us at the beginning of this Easter Day.

GARDEN CLUB THANKS PUBLIC FOR FINE SUPPORT

Thursday the Garden Club held its first meeting since starting the recent tree planting and clean-up campaign. The chairman of this campaign reported results as follows: Ten newspaper articles were written or solicited from others in order to inform and interest the public. Talks were made at various club meetings, outlining the plans and soliciting the support of the different organizations. The organized women of the county were invited to enter our campaign and did so heartily. Through the co-operation of Miss Nice a plant exchange was held at the Woman's Club for all women of the county. It was well attended. Hundreds of plants and shrubs were exchanged. Miss Pauline Smith of the Extension Department at Raleigh, made a most practical and suggestive talk on lawns and lawn improvement. Miss Smith had blueprints to show interested women just how to plan the most attractive gardens. Literature about lawns, gardens and plants generally was distributed.

Ten hundred and forty-two trees have been set in Greenville and on highways leading out of town. Two hundred twenty-five rambling roses have been placed on embankments near the city and a short hedge of myrtle set on one highway. One member of the Garden Club contributed water lilies and assisted women of Red Oak community in making, beside the highway, a beautiful pool of what had been a mudhole full of tin cans and other trash.

A most effective work has been the removing of "auto cemeteries" on the highway approaches to town. Through the co-operation of the Greenville Tobacco Co., a large tobacco truck was secured and more than 125 huge truckloads of old automobiles and other trash has been removed from the highways at the town entrances. In spite of valiant efforts the "dump pile" across the river has not been hidden from view. However much improvement has been made and the committee is still at work on that and several other projects.

Many lots that were unsightly because of collections of old machinery, autos and other castaways have been cleaned. The citizens of the town as a whole entered wholeheartedly into the plan of the club for planting and cleaning which has resulted in making Greenville much more attractive. Many comments have reached us as to the beauty and cleanliness of our city. As our trees grow and as we add more trees and shrubbery from year to year we shall soon have truly—A CITY BEAUTIFUL.

The Garden Club wishes to publicly thank everyone who has in any way contributed to the success of the campaign. Especially does it thank the Mayor, the Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, the Daily Reflector, the Greenville News-Leader, the Greenville Tobacco Co., and the members of the local relief committee for their loyal support.

LOCAL FIRM ANNOUNCES NEW PONTIAC TODAY

It was announced today by the Buick-Olds-Pontiac Sales Company of Detroit, Mich., that the Sugg Motor Company of this city has been appointed agent for the new Pontiac for Greenville and vicinity. With the addition of the Pontiac line, this local concern is now offering sales and service on all three lines—Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac. The appointment is of added significance since it is not the usual policy for one concern to handle all three lines.

According to H. C. Sugg, the new Pontiac should prove very popular in Greenville. He explained: "The new Pontiac offers everything that the most careful buyer may demand. It is a big straight eight with eight cylinder smoothness and performance. However, it is priced very low, right in the low price field, and extensive tests prove the car to be very economical to operate. Our organization is very enthusiastic over the new car."

HOST OF GOOD SHOWS AT STATE NEXT WEEK

A line-up of clever screen programs will greet movie fans at the State next week, beginning Monday with Joan Crawford in "Rain." It is said that Miss Crawford fits perfectly in the role of Sadie Thompson with her is Walter Huston who has won new laurels in the recent production "Gabriel over the White House." Rain will be a two-day attraction. A new novelty and Sound News complete this bill.

Clothing Leaders Meet

The second school for clothing leaders was held in the home demonstration office Friday. Miss Willie Hunter, state clothing specialist, gave helpful advice on the making over of garments, making use of collars and cuffs, and other accessories for freshening up both new and old garments. Seam finishing was reviewed.

4-H Health Checks

Grimesland, Fountal, Fountain and Bethel 4-H girls have had their annual health check-up. Several improvements are being noted this year. Practically all the girls are giving more attention to their teeth and posture. In a number of instances the scores have dropped because of bunions and nail-biting. Carefully selected shoes and a little more determination would correct these two shortcomings. The highest scores have been made by Nell W. Bullock, Annie E. Whitehurst, Dorothy Bowers and Helena Matthews of Bethel; Rebba Clark and Mildred Taylor of Fountal; Mabel R. Eiks and LaRue Edwards of Grimesland; Ruth Summerlin, Arlene Harris and Odelle Killbrew of Fountain. These girls together with other winners will come to Greenville Saturday afternoon, April 29, for the final county elimination.

Community Fair

Women and girls are planning to bring exhibits of their work to the Community Fair which will be held in the Star Warehouse May 1-6. All exhibits must be in place by noon Monday, May 1. Entries will be accepted on Friday.

Song Contest

The public is invited to the 4-H Song Contest to be held Thursday night, April 20 at 7:30 in the Greenville high school auditorium.

By QUINTON JAMES

A suggestion was made not long ago that New York City increase its revenue by leasing the exteriors of its refuse cans as advertising space.

Quite as fantastic a place for advertising—to the average American, anyway—is revealed by the latest issue from Belgium. To each of the four values is attached an advertisement of the same size and color as the stamp.

The same design, a symbolic figure of a woman holding a sheaf of grain, is used of the 10-centime, grayish green, and the 25-centime, red, designs. Those who want to include the advertisements will have to acquire four of each value, the ads embracing a ship line, mineral water, shoes and medicine.

Only two advertisements for shoes and the ship line, are issued with the 50 cent blue, showing the Belgian coat of arms. But the 75 cents brown, bearing a portrait of King Albert, include those already mentioned,—another one for shoes and one for moving picture apparatus.

Belgium is believed to be the only country selling advertising space with its stamps, although Italy once raised revenue this way and ballyhoo for a certain brand of soap once appeared on the back of Australian stamps.

MOREHEAD TO PLAY LOCALS HERE MONDAY

Greenville High School's baseball team will play Morehead City here Monday afternoon at the Third Street stadium.

Morehead City has met with unusual success on the diamond this year, and have won the majority of their games.

The game Monday will pit two of the best high school teams in this section and Morehead's won yesterday boosted their stock considerably.

The game Monday will pit two of the best high school pitchers in the State against each other.

The locals will be handicapped by the loss of Cliff Madrin who suffered a dislocated thumb in the Kingston game.

TEACHERS WIN TIGHT GAME AT MAXTON

Maxton, N. C., April 15.—East Carolina Teachers College defeated Presbyterian, 10 to 9, here yesterday afternoon in the opener of a two-game series between the junior college teams.

The Greenville boys put over two runs in the ninth to come from behind and get the winning edge.

The visitors out-hit the locals, 16 to 12. Palmer and Russell pitched and Davis caught for Presbyterian Junior College.

Today's Games

NATIONAL LEAGUE: Pittsburgh at Chicago, St. Louis at Cincinnati, New York at Boston, Brooklyn at Philadelphia.

AMERICAN LEAGUE: Philadelphia at New York, Boston at Washington, Chicago at Detroit, Cleveland at St. Louis.

DUKE FACES DOUBLE BILL NEXT MONDAY

Durham, April 15.—Meeting of the Durham Bulls of the Piedmont League in two games here today, the Duke University nine was looking forward to its annual Easter Monday double-header, the biggest collegiate baseball attraction of the early season in this state.

It will be the second conference test for the Blue Devils and probably their hardest early season games, for Maryland will offer a strong and experienced team in the games in the Blue Devil park, bolstered by a fine pitching staff composed of three veterans and a sophomore.

The Old Liner hurlers are Bill McIlwain and Ray Davidson, veteran southpaws and Ralph Rubie, vet and Robert Love, sophomore, Hightshanders, Love and Davidson, when not pitching, alternate at the right field job.

The outfield has two veterans, Buckley Buscher of both basketball and football fame, and Robert Maxwell, senior. Buscher plays in center and is second in the batting order, while Maxwell, the leftfielder, bats fifth.

The masculine element, always in the rear of the parade, probably will get time tonight to take up the important matter of proper Easter apparel to keep pace with the ladies, and stores were expected to do the best business of the season.

Although weather conditions were not so favorable today, those who had already purchased their Easter apparel were holding out hope for sunshine and mild temperatures tomorrow so the parade will be the success hoped for it.

The Easter season was ushered in by the High School last Tuesday night with presentation of a cantata by the grammar school pupils under direction of Miss Oma Shindler, director of public school music.

Last night cantatas were presented by the choir of Eighth Street Christian Church and St. Paul's Episcopal. Good attendance was in evidence at each church and the singing was inspirational, forming a splendid prelude for the advent of the Easter season.

The Christian Church will celebrate Easter with three services tomorrow. The first will be a sunrise service at 6:30 o'clock under the leadership of the youth of the church.

Regular services at the Catholic Church will be featured by a special program. A sunrise service will be held at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church Sunday morning.

PUSH RELIEF GARDEN PLAN (Continued From Page One) did not take advantage of the garden program and attempt to help themselves they could not expect special music has been arranged by the choirs at the remainder of the churches in addition to sermons dealing with the significance of the occasion.

Holy Week has been observed by some of the churches, and the preparation leads up to fulfillment with the inspiration services planned for tomorrow.

This was a powerful stimulus to the garden movement and the enormous amount of free seed provided by the Welfare Department were in the ground much sooner than expected.

This phase of the relief program was expected to sharply relieve the constant drain on the resources of the general relief headquarters, which sometime ago said the fund for public work had been expended and that the remainder of the fund would be confined to clinics and beautification now under way.

Speaking of the possibilities of the Duke Foundation, he said this organization was ready to go fifty-fifty with any community willing to do its part toward hospital services.

The visitors were given a cordial welcome by President Hillman following the induction of Charles Wilkerson into club membership by J. F. Harrington.

Mrs. Blanche Cherry, director of nurses at Pitt Community Hospital, presented the dozen or more nurses attached to the hospital staff and asked each to give the name of her home town and her field of service.

Dr. J. L. Winstead, hospital surgeon, told of his coming to Greenville about four years ago, and the impression the city and its people had made upon him.

Northwestern, Big Ten basketball co-champion, will lose by graduation both Joe Reiff and Elmer Johnson, all conference selections and each scorers of more than one hundred points.

Stock Market

New York, April 15.—(AP)—The stock market tried to advance for a time under leadership of commodity issues coinciding with inflation talk an into selling in the late trading and closed lower.

The list gave way to sharp weakness of American Telephone in late trading, but that issue dropped four points and narrow gains were elsewhere converted into declines.

Continued quickening of activity was reported from the steel industry and it appeared that the Ingot output might get above 20 per cent capacity next week to a near high for the year.

Mrs. Judd Condemns Jurors. Florence, Ariz., April 15.—(AP)—Winnie Ruth Judd confronted today by a jury of 12 men who have it in their power to save her life or allow her to go to the gallows next Friday, snapped at them and called them "gangsters."

Clad in a blue and white dress which accentuated her plensness and the blondness of her hair, she sat quietly staring straight before her as the names of the selected jurors were called.

chair, her eyes fixed on the men who are to decide whether she is insane and as such exempt her from the death penalty in the trunk murder case.

"They are gangsters, all of them" she explained.

A matron pulled her back into her chair. Her husband, Dr. William Judd, seated himself on the other side of the condemned woman and held her hand.

Charlotte Cafe Bombed. Charlotte, N. C., April 15.—(AP)—D. S. Perry's cafe in the southeastern section of the city was bombed today.

The interior was torn and twisted and Henry Shaw an employee sleeping in the rear of the building, narrowly escaped death.

Police were informed Perry had been unharmed. Shaw was cut by flying glass, but not seriously hurt.

The bomb was thrown through a glass front door. Shattering of the glass awakened Shaw. He grabbed a pistol and started to the front. At the bedroom door he halted when he saw an object on the floor. It was smoking and sputtering. Then came the crash with shattering interior of the building.

Crooner's Fans Easily Fooled In This Film

Hollywood—Radio listeners are tricked neatly in "The Phantom Broadcast." The deception is Ralph Forbes' device of putting himself over with the fans despite a physical handicap.

The younger generation again is George Arliss' concern in "The Adopted Father." As in "The Millionaire," an earlier success, Arliss portrays kindly age stepping in to help out muddled youth.

In this instance the star is a shoe manufacturer who loves his business like a game which he plays hard and seriously. Business rivalry adds to the zest of the sport, and he is crushed by the death of his oldest rival, Hartland, who long ago had won the girl he loved.

By chance Reeves (Arliss) meets the son and daughter of his old business enemy, who are now wasting the fortune he left while his shoe plant is in the hands of an unscrupulous manager (Gordon Westcott).

Work? Yes, Work

The children (Bette Davais and Theodore Newton), are unaware of Reeves' identity, and he takes advantage of this condition to have himself appointed their guardian.

Abetted by him, they go to work, the boy in his own factory and the girl, to Reeves' amusement, in his own plant, where she finds romance in Reeves' very efficient if conceited young nephew, the manager (Hardie Albright).

Mode Too Extreme? Then Give It The Personal Touch

Hollywood—(AP) — If fashions seem too extreme, adapt them to your own personality, give them the touch that fits them to yourself.

That's the advice of Elizabeth Allan, newly arrived young English actress, who demonstrated what she means by revising several garments to a fashion more flattering to one of her height.

There's a pajama suit with a dressing gown coat, for instance. To conform to her individual taste she eliminates several of the masculine features and achieves a feminine air instead.

The dressing gown of heavy white pebble crepe is lined with green and white striped crepe. The stripes being sewed in horizontally, Miss Allan's height appears lessened. Instead of the severe tailored lapels, she prefers deep revers which fold back softly.

The shirt underneath also is made with the stripes her horizontally, its simple cut being relieved by single bows attached to the front neck and instead of cuffs on the short sleeves. The bow idea is the single feminine note on the strictly tailored white trousers.

At a quick glance the ensemble gives a distinctly tailored effect, yet the masculine severity is entirely minimized.
